Living on Campus

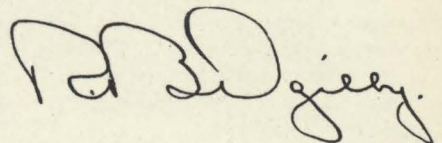

In centering our academic attention upon one of the physical needs of Trinity, a new dormitory unit, we should not forget that a college is an idealistic institution: its buildings and physical plant have no value or significance except in so far as they enshrine the spirit of the college. Our new chemistry laboratory expresses a conviction that our young men should not go out into the world without a chance to prepare themselves by a knowledge of modern science to do something in this time to make life in this planet somewhat less precarious, somewhat more comfortable. The new dining hall emphasizes the sacrament of the Common Meal. In spite of its limitations, the college library represents the assemblage of the treasures of the past, made available to youth. What about our dormitories?

Among our cultural group the normal place for the development of the adolescent is in the home. Perhaps we may say that the development of residential colleges in America has been due to this experience and conviction. We have come to the conclusion, not always consciously planned, that it is good for our young men before they go out into the world to get something of the spirit of the Group, to live for a few months in the social environment of their contemporaries, with a minimum of adult control. This is far from being the same thing as life in a boarding school, where supervision is often developed so far as to create an atmosphere largely artificial. A college dormitory is another matter, involving often self-government in one form or another, with something of laboratory study in the problems of democracy.

This plan of the new dormitory unit we are now considering exemplifies a departure from the traditional. For many years the pattern of a college dormitory has been fixed: units of three rooms, consisting of a common study with individual bedrooms. Whatever may be said about this arrangement as a preparation for monogamous marriage, the fact remains that the invention of the radio has made the ancient institution of the college room-mate a potential and often an intolerable nuisance. As a result we have been getting at Trinity an increasing demand for single rooms, and accordingly have designed this unit largely for individuals. There is no expectation that the residents will become hermits, for the plans include an attractive common room.

In some of the small colleges of our group, the administration has encouraged the building of commodious and often over-elaborate fraternity houses which take care of the rooming problem, except for the freshmen and a few lonely neutrals who live in the college dormitories. This does not seem a desirable situation. With us most of the fraternities have some living quarters, but the dormitories are and should be the controlling element in the life of the college. With the building of this new unit, we should push on to complete our physical plant, upheld by the conviction that life in a college dormitory is valuable, almost indispensable training in the ancient art of making and keeping friends. The dignity of the individual should be protected by some opportunity for privacy, and at the same time respect for the common welfare should always frown upon an abuse of privilege. Above all, the dormitories should be a powerful factor in knitting together our young men in such wise that their corporate life will be a true expression of the spirit of the college.

Campus News

Perhaps most important to us among recent gifts to the College Library is the generous donation of Mr. William G. Wendell, now an instructor at the College. Mr. Wendell has given Trinity a collection of 150 books which belonged to his father, the late Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard. The fact that many of these volumes were association or gift copies makes them all the more valuable to the students and faculty of the College.

Mr. Allan R. Brown gave the library, in memory of his son Allan G. Brown, a collection of 230 volumes of William Blake. This collection, which is valued at $10,000, includes a set of Gilchrist's Life of Blake. It was the late John H. K. Burgwin, '77, who was responsible for bringing about this important addition to the library.

Richardson Wright, '10, has recently given the College a Gypsy collection of 135 volumes including first editions of works of George Borrow and other books relating to the Gypsies. This is a collection to which Mr. Wright intends to add from time to time.

79 volumes, mostly textbooks, were given by the family in memory of George Halle, '17. A 2 volume set on Hunting Wild Life with Camera and Flash Light in a revised edition was given by George Shiras, III, Hon. Sc.D. 1918. Christian Gasser, '28, has recently sent to the library a copy of Das Goldene Buch Der La 1939 containing many pictures of the Swiss National Exhibition.

President Ogilby has recently announced the appointment to the professorship of Romance Languages at Trinity College of R. Walker Scott, now teaching at Rikkyo University, Tokio, Japan. Professor Scott has had wide experience in teaching, both in private schools and in universities. He has had excellent training in the Classical languages as well as in Romance languages. He is married to a French woman and has two children.

Alumni who have positions to offer should get in touch with Tom Wadlow, Alumni Secretary, who has charge of the placement of Seniors.

Tom Wadlow will be glad to attend meetings and to show motion pictures of the College at any gathering where there are twelve or more Alumni. On the other hand, if you live in a location where there is already an Alumni Organization and do not receive notices of meetings, please notify the Alumni Secretary.

Fred C. Hinkel, Jr., '06, President of the Alumni Association, and a faculty committee of which Professor Wadlund, '17, is Chairman, are working on plans for an Alumni Week-end somewhat different from the usual reunion.

The plan is to give the Alumni an opportunity to see the College under working conditions and also to hear a number of talks by the Faculty designed to present to the Alumni the latest development in various fields.

This reunion is being arranged for your interests as Alumni. Give it full consideration when the invitations come out. Here at last is an opportunity for Alumni and Faculty to continue their social and intellectual relations.

Trinity College recently came into possession of a rare treasure in the form of a page from one of the famous Gutenberg Bibles.

490 years ago John Gutenberg invented the first movable type whereby books could be made more cheaply and thus more numerous. The first book which was printed on what has been called the most important invention of the historic era was the Bible. There are now 45 copies in existence, only half of which are perfect. It was decided to split up and sell portions of one of the incomplete copies; Dr. Ogilby heard of it and took advantage of the opportunity.

The letters on the page are of such exquisite craftsmanship that their beauty has seldom been duplicated. At the Chapel service on January 3rd, a portion of it was read in Latin by Dr. Ogilby while the student body present stood in reverence to the great book.

The new tombstone to Professor Jim has been set in place. Those who supported this project are:

The Hon. Joseph Buffington, William G. Mather, The Rev. Charles C. Edmunds, J. H. K. Burgwin, The Rev. William A. Beardsley, The McCook Family, The Alumni Fund.

Beginning February 7, the Squash courts will be open for Alumni use every Wednesday evening from 7:30 to 9:30. There will be a charge of 25¢ per evening for each person to cover the cost of lights, towels, service, etc.

The new Trinity College Song Book is out. It contains 17 Trinity College songs, 9 songs of other colleges, and 21 old favorites—all for $1. Orders may be placed with the Trinity College Book Store.

The College Grows

By HAROLD C. JAQUITH, Provost

Trinity College was founded and has been sustained by the conviction that the independent liberal arts college is an essential part of a true democracy and indispensable in the education of the individual to his full capabilities. When dependence upon government is ever increasing, it is necessary to reaffirm this conviction of independence and demonstrate by our acts, that colleges such as this can maintain the highest standards of excellency and provide for inevitable growth, by the co-operative functioning of alumni and individual friends.

Any college justifies its existency by the quality of its education. Trinity College has a faculty of which every alumnus should be justly proud and upholds an educational standard comparable with the best.

College life is four years in the classroom plus life on the campus. To make this extra available for a larger percentage of the students is the purpose of this new dormitory.

Every alumnus is indebted to the college. Tuition covers only a part of the educational expense. Last year it cost $652 per student to maintain the high standards of excellence. Tuition was $400. The difference was met from the income on the endowment fund. Friends of Trinity College, devoted and successful alumni, have made this fund possible. Each year notable gifts are added to compensate for the declining interest rate and the need for a larger sustaining income.

As far back as alumni memory goes, a goodly number of students annually received scholarship aid, without which the college course would not have been completed — in many cases never started. Your most loyal devotion and most generous giving when the college is in need of your help can never overpay your debt of gratitude, or overfill your obligations.

As others before us made some of these buildings possible, as friends who were not alumni have added beauty and utility to our campus, so must we today build and again build for those who shall come tomorrow, that they in turn may build.

The Chemistry Building — erected in 1936 through the efforts of the Alumni and friends.

Here We Build

Looking north from Boardman Hall, you see on the right the Chemistry Building and on the left Cook Dormitory. The space between the two will be filled by the new dormitory section.

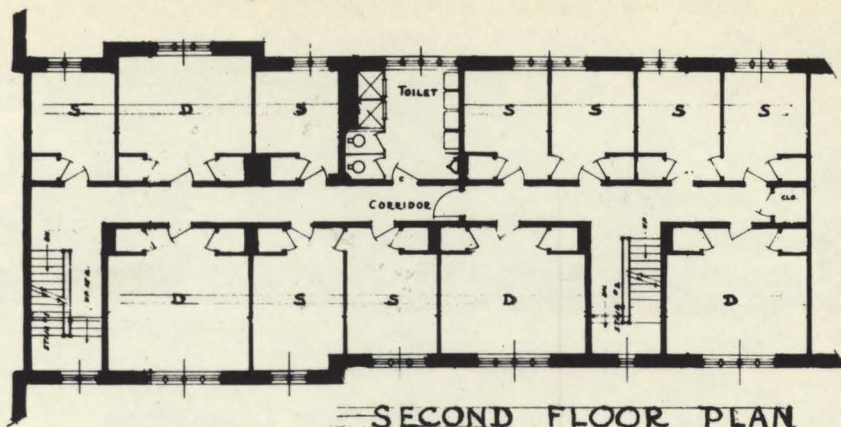

Trinity College has had an undergraduate enrollment of approximately 500 for the past four years. This year by crowding dormitories and fraternity houses and by renting a residence on Vernon Street, 277 men are living on the campus. It is essential to the well-being of the College that a larger proportion of the students live on the campus; and many more would if there were available space.

In 1923, Trinity had 256 students of whom 135 lived on Campus. In 1933 (after the erection of Cook Dormitory) there were 453 students with 213 in residence. Today Trinity has 567 students; 277 live in dormitories, in fraternity houses, and in a rented residence.

The Trustees have come to the conclusion that Trinity College must have more dormitory space in order to hold its high position among the smaller liberal arts colleges.

A new dormitory to house 53 men costs $125,000. The College, subject to having the money in sight, will start construction of this building in March.

Mr. Charles Frederick Weed, Vice President of the First National Bank of Boston, was born in Claremont, New Hampshire, on October 22, 1874, son of Charles H. and Hattie M. (Redfield) Weed.

In 1894 he received the degree of A.B. from Trinity College, and in 1897 the degree A.M. In 1898 he received the degree of L.L.B. cum laude from the Harvard Law School.

He practised law in Boston until 1917 when he became President of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the first President of the Boston Better Business Bureau. In March, 1917, Mr. Weed was elected Vice President of the First National Bank of Boston.

During the war he acted as Vice Chairman of the Massachusetts Public Safety Committee; Metropolitan Chairman of the Y.M.C.A. Campaign, 1917; State Chairman of the War Savings Stamp drive of 1918; Chairman of the Boston District Liberty Loan Committee; and Massachusetts State Chairman of the United War Work Campaign. In 1932 he was Chairman of the United Boston Unemployment Relief Campaign which exceeded its goal of $3,000,000, the first community drive for local charities in Boston.

He is now director of the Boston Insurance Company, Brookline Trust Company, Old Colony Insurance Company, Security Safe Deposit Company, Sullivan Machinery Company; Trustee and Treasurer of Saint-Gaudens Memorial; Trustee of Trinity College and Vermont Academy; Treasurer of the Community Federation of Boston; and President of the New England Council. He is an ex-Vice President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and a member of the Executive Committee of the American Section of the International Chamber of Commerce.

WILLIAM BOWIE, '93

Major William Bowie has been elected Executive Secretary of The Society of American Military Engineers and Editor of The Military Engineer. He took over his duties in the national headquarters at Washington on December 1.

Major Bowie is well known in scientific, engineering, and military circles as an organizer and leader. He has been honored for his scientific achievements by educational institutions both in this country and abroad, and by several foreign governments. He has been awarded the degree of Civil Engineer and Doctor of Sciences by Lehigh University; Master of Arts and Doctor of Sciences by Trinity College; Doctor of Sciences by the George Washington University; and Doctor of Laws by Edinburgh University. He was awarded the Lagrange prize by the Academy of Sciences of Belgium; The Cresson Medal by the Franklin Institution; was made Commander of the Order of Orange Nassau by the Queen of Netherlands in 1938, and was awarded the Bowie Medal by The American Geophysical Union in 1939.

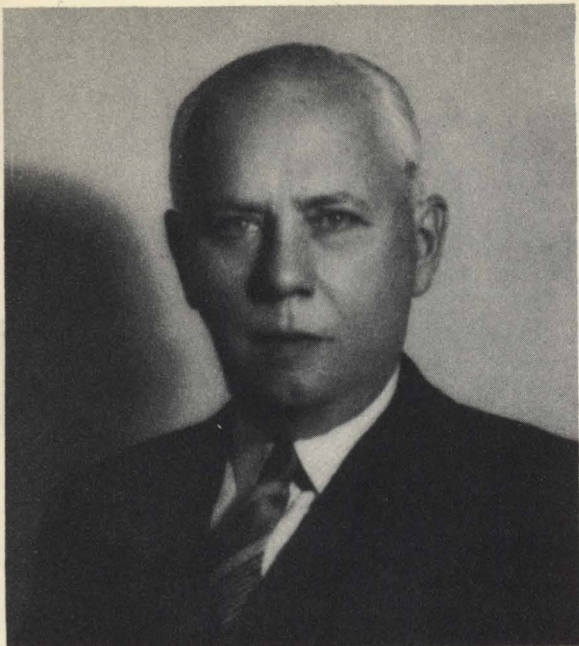

His greatest achievements have been in the fields of surveying and mapping. He promoted the control surveys throughout the United States, expedited the mapping of the country, and was largely responsible for the adoption of a common geodetic datum for the mapping and charting of North America.

At Trinity Major Bowie was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and was elected Phi Beta Kappa. He was a Holland Scholar in Chemistry, played football and baseball, and was active in the Press Club and The Athenaeum.

GEORGE B. GILBERT, '96

The Reverend George B. Gilbert, Phi Beta Kappa, is writing a book called Forty Years A Country Preacher, a companion volume to the popular Horse and Buggy Doctor. Mr. Gilbert, who for forty years has been Rural Missionary for the Episcopal Church in Middlesex County, Connecticut, was chosen by the Christian Herald as the typical country preacher to write his autobiography for Harper Brothers. The reminiscences started in October as a serial in the Herald and will be published in book form early this year. The story in picture form appeared in Life July 24th, 1939.

Mr. Gilbert, besides paying pastoral visits within an area of one hundred miles of his farm home and conducting services every Sunday in Durham, Haddam, and Killingworth, writes a regular column for the Rural New Yorker.

JOHN KAY CLEMENT, '00

On December 20 a dinner was given in honor of Colonel John K. Clement at the Union Club in New York. It was very much a Trinity affair since the hosts were Messrs. CHARLES T. SENAY, '14

Behind the present garrison at Fort Davis, Panama Canal Zone, a near miracle has been accomplished. Almost over night, in spite of the rainy season, seventy-five acres of jungle has been transformed into a modern army post to accommodate a regiment of over a thousand men. Trinity is proud of Major Charles T. Senay, in charge of these operations.

According to the Star and Herald, "Col. Senay received a patch of jungle and was told to go ahead and build a camp. Faced with a shortage of skilled tradesmen and laborers, he called out men of the 14th Infantry to face the emergency and when the 1000 officers and men of the 13th arrived here exactly two months later, they were able to move straight into their quarters. Lack of tools and materials proved a big handicap to those in charge of the work, . . . obstacles which would have disheartened men of less tenacity than Gen. Moore and Col. Senay."

In a letter to Tom Wadlow, Col. Senay writes:

"Am still doing construction (at a slower rate) but am also commanding my battalion of 700 men and begin to feel personal ownership, as I've had them for a year. Will be operating in the jungle soon as the dry season seems to be here again. Get in a little fishing (sailfish, tarpon, and tuna) occasionally. Also some jungle hunting. Night hunting is fascinating, as you never know what's behind the eyes until you shoot—and it may be a big cat."

Col. Senay has had a remarkable record during his 24 years with the army. Honors: Distinguished Service Cross, Purple Heart, Silver Star, Croix de Guerre with Palm; Battles: Cantigny, Montdidier, St. Mihiel, Second Battle of the Marne (wounded in action), Meuse-Argonne.

Alumni Meetings

NEW YORK

The meeting of the New York Alumni Association, December 7, was one of the best ever. Dr. Ogilby spoke about conditions at the College, laying special emphasis on his plan to make Trinity more a resident college — a plan necessitating the erection of a dormitory in the near future.

Dr. Carl Altmaier, Assistant Professor of Psychology and Secretary of Admissions, spoke about the work of soliciting students. He pointed out the fact that too many prospective freshmen seek financial aid, even some who are not among the better students. During the course of his talk, he stated that the College depends on help from Alumni whose assistance has been the main factor in directing about one-fourth of the students to the College.

Erwin Rankin, who has been President of the Association, acted as toastmaster and introduced the following who spoke briefly: Dr. Jaquith, Provost; Tom Wadlow, Alumni Secretary; and L. B. Phister, of Boston, who flew to New York for the meeting. Officers elected:

Alumni Notes 1875 — 1916

1875 — Judge Buffington, who usually holds an annual dinner in Philadelphia in honor of Dr. Ogilby, was forced to cancel the dinner in December because of an operation. The Judge is out of the hospital now and is convalescing in his hotel room.

1877 — John H. K. Burgwin died Dec. 3.

1880 — Mr. E. D. Appleton, Class Agent, has again brought his Class through with a perfect record for the 1939-40 Alumni Fund.

1881 — Dr. W. S. Hubbard, M.D., has retired and is now living in Brooklyn, N. Y.
