HARTFORD, CONN., Tuesday, April 11, 1911

PRICE, FIVE CENTS.

BROWN 9, TRINITY 0.

Baseball Team Loses Opening Game —Errors at Critical Points.

In the first game of the season Trinity went down to defeat at the hands of Brown University, 9-0. The game was played at Providence on a wet diamond with a cold wind blowing across the field.

While the result of the game was naturally a disappointment to the college, nevertheless the lack of outdoor practice and the inexperience of many of the men must be taken into account.

Brown scored first in the third inning with two runs, followed by two more in the fifth. These runs were largely the result of errors by the gold and blue players. In the eighth inning Sayres was hit hard by the Providence collegians who had hitherto failed to make many hits, and the game was clinched for Brown.

Trinity had an opportunity to score in the ninth when two singles put runners on first and third, but Brown made a double play and retired the side without any scoring.

Horan played the best game for Trinity and made some remarkably good catches of sharp liners. Brown was fast on the bases, and this, coupled with the errors of the gold and blue, made them superior in every way.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of The Tripod:

Old Trinity men are filled with sorrow and longing at the thought of the Tablet, which probably did more for the literary reputation of Trinity than any other single influence in the history of the college. Undergraduates who glance over the files of that venerable and scholarly periodical cannot but regret that the sordid spirit of the age has pronounced its doom and executed the sentence.

As is well known, the Tablet suspended publication in 1905 on account of financial troubles, after several years' sad experience had demonstrated the hopelessness of keeping it up to its old standard and at the same time paying expenses. The experience is not peculiar to Trinity—other colleges much larger have undergone it, and in many it is possible to maintain the literary organ only by a systematic bleeding of freshmen. Trinity men would hate to see the Tablet restored on such a foundation.

But it should be restored, none the less. It is of incalculable benefit to the college, and I believe that it could be made a far more potent influence than ever before, as The Tripod now handles all the news features and the Tablet would be freed of that burden. My idea would be to make it a literary and scientific journal, in which could appear fiction, verse and essays by undergraduates, and scientific articles—the results of original research—by alumni, professors, and advanced students in the biological and other scientific departments.

But to do this it must be assured a living, and it occurs to me that it should be in the form of an endowment. An income of $250 a year (the interest of $5,000), together with subscriptions at a nominal rate and a small amount of carefully selected advertising, would publish a quarterly that would not be surpassed, mechanically, by any similar publication. What friend of the old Tablet will come forward?

Undergraduate.

Two-base hits, Witherow, Dukettes; stolen bases, K. Nash 2, Reilly 2, R. Nash, L'Heureux; double play, Reilly, Kline and Reilly; first base on balls, off Counselman 1, off Sayres 1; hit by pitched ball, by Sayres 1; struck out, by Counselman 10, by Sayres 7; time, 2:00; umpire, Rudderham.

A MOUNTAINOUS BOOK.

Frederick Fanning Ayer has a Prolific Pen.

A volume of 1266 pages, which probably establishes a record for amateur verse, has just come from the press. It is by Frederick Fanning Ayer, a retired Massachusetts lawyer, who, so far as we know, has never appeared as a poet before. Mr. Ayer is well known in financial circles and is a man of large estate, which may account for the publication of so large a volume of what few publishers are inclined to put forth at their own risk.

The poems* were not written without reference to Browning, whose influence may be traced even in the fanciful title, "Bell and Wing." A trick of skeletonizing his language is of course due to this source. We find equally as much need for a dictionary, too, as when reading Browning. And to what other spring can we trace such bubbleings as "To match your eye-fire against a game of sun-shots from an early dew and

"A lip so red,
Claim so clear,
Such pearl
Each whisper she dreamed or pled," phrases whose like we find on every page?

But we refuse to hold Browning responsible when Mr. Ayer goes so far as to talk of a "girleen whim," or "plucking the juice of the stars."

Just what to say of this volume, on the whole, is a question. The most obvious criticism is that it is too big. Most of the poems had been better left out for they only serve to obscure the light of the few gems that are to be found. Mr. Ayer has a wide range of ideas and something like a special message, but the reader is likely to lose sight of it in the wilderness of words. Nearly all the poems tend to show that their author has little sympathy for orthodoxy in religion or in other spheres.

We think the metaphysical poems best worth skipping, which is a criticism not inappropriate to other versifiers. Some of the pastorals and a few of the love-lyrics have a commendable grace. The volume is in the library.

*Bell and Wing. By Frederick Fanning Ayer. New York and London: G. P. Putnam's Sons. $2.50 net.

COMMENCEMENT APPOINTMENTS.

Faculty Elects Orators—Rosebaugh Valedictorian.

The following men have been appointed as speakers at Commencement:

To deliver the Valedictory: John Howard Rosebaugh, of Erie, Pa.

To deliver the Salutatory: Gustave Alexander Feingold, of Hartford.

To deliver an Oration: Harold Nelson Conover Christie, of Point Pleasant, N. Y.

To deliver an Oration: Arthur Cornwallis Eaton, of Pittsfield, Mass.

These four men have the highest scholastic standings, respectively, in the class. A committee of judges will award the F. A. Brown prize of $75 for the best address.

SUNDAY CHAPEL.

Dr. Luther preached at the regular service held in the chapel Sunday morning. He used as his text two verses of scripture which read: "Hosanna to the Son of David," and, "Let Him be crucified."

In bringing out the force of these verses he compared the circumstances which surrounded their utterance to those which attend the cries of the mob of to-day, who will one day demand one thing, and change completely around the next day and demand another. He said, however, that he would rather be influenced by the opinion of the crowd than by that of a single class, that whatever the changing attitude of the people as a whole might be, their common sense prevailed in the end.

For the offertory, Whitehead, '13, sang "The Palms." This is a well known piece of sacred music, and he sang it with much expression and feeling.

DR. URBAN TO SPEAK.

Dr. Wilbur M. Urban, professor of philosophy, will deliver the first of a series of four lectures on ethics before the members of the socialist party to-night at eight o'clock at 235 Asylum Avenue. The subject for to-night will be, "Facts of the moral life." Admission to all of the lectures will be free. The dates and subjects of subsequent lectures will be announced later.

"NOW THEN—TRINITY!"

EDITORIAL.

We regret that we are unable to fulfill our promise and bring forth our long heralded plan for athletic improvement in this issue. The fact is that the scheme is a much bigger one than first thought even led us to dream, and the physical impossibility of getting it into presentable shape in so short a space of time only goes to show its great importance. The Easter vacation, however, will give us time to perfect the details, we think, and we earnestly hope to be able to set forth the whole project very soon after the return to college late this month.

Every day our enthusiasm grows, especially as we see the need for it expressed in the tremendous handicap under which the baseball team is working. The overwhelming defeat by Brown must not be duplicated next year, and the only way to prevent it so far as we can see, is by putting The Tripod's plan into quick execution.

On account of the Spring vacation, The Tripod will not appear again until Friday, April 28.

SENIOR TREE PLANTING.

Falls by Chance on Arbor Day This Year.

The annual senior tree-planting occurred this afternoon at a quarter before four o'clock. Instead of the time-honored Trinity elm, a white oak was planted on the southwest part of the campus directly in front of the modern language entry, and thus a beginning made to what will be a long line of white oaks.

The ceremony was very impressive. The seniors appeared in their caps and gowns adding much to the dignity and seriousness of the occasion. Dr. Luther gave a very interesting talk.

John Howard Rosebaugh was chairman of the committee composed of Ripley and Foster, which attended to the arrangements of the affair.

By a singular coincidence, the senior ceremony happened to fall on Arbor Day, the day set aside by the governor of the state for the purpose of tree-planting and beautifying the land.

"The return of spring to gladden and adorn the earth reminds us that we can become fellow workers with God in aiding the forces of nature to bring beauty and freshness into human life," reads the governor's Arbor Day proclamation, and concludes, "I, therefore, pursuant to the Statutes of this State, hereby designate Tuesday, the eleventh day of April, as Arbor and Bird Day."

BASEBALL TRIP.

Three Games in New York State During Vacation.

During the Easter vacation the baseball team will take a three days' trip into Northern New York. The trip will start with a game with Colgate at Hamilton on April 20. The next day Cornell will be played at Ithaca, and the final game will be at Schenectady with Union on April 22.

The trip will be a hard one as all three of the colleges to be played have unusually fast teams this season. It is hoped by the undergraduates and team that warm weather for practice will prevail during the present week, as the team has been considerably handicapped thus far by lack of a chance to practice outside. This trip should put the men in good condition for the remainder of the season and give them much valuable experience.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company,

Hartford, Conn.

Why should I insure my life?

Because it is a debt you owe to
those who are dependent upon
your earnings for their support.

You admit that it is your duty
to supply their needs from day to day, but forget that it is equally
your duty to provide an ever ready and sufficient equivalent for your earning power, which your family
stands in constant jeopardy to lose by your premature death.

Guard your family against disaster
and yourself against dependency
in old age.

When should I insure my life?

Now! The cost will never be less, and to-morrow you may not be able to obtain insurance at any price.

Even if others are not now dependent upon you, take time by the forelock and you will be the
better able to meet future responsibilities,
and at a smaller premium.

Where shall I insure my life?

In a purely Mutual Company.
In a company that earns, declares,
and pays annual dividends.

In a company that is doing a conservative business.

Such a Company is The Connecticut
Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. It furnishes perfect protection at lowest cost.

SOPHOMORE PLAY.

Parts Assigned to Nine Men.

At a meeting of sophomores interested in dramatics, the following men were chosen for the different parts in the farce which is to be given at the sophomore smoker on May 5: Whitehead, Roberts, Swift, A. B. Cook, Adkins, and C. D. Ward. For "supers," Barber, Jewett, and E. J. Smith have been chosen. Brown, whose "acting" on the night before the St. Patrick's day scrap was so much appreciated by his classmates, was originally picked for one of the leading parts, but illness has necessitated his withdrawal. Rehearsals under the guidance of Marsden, '13, who is staging the play, will begin shortly after the Easter recess.

IVY ALL IN PRESS.

1912 Edition of Annual Larger than Ever.

The final material for the 1912 Ivy has already gone to press, and as this is much earlier in the season than usual, the edition will probably be out earlier than in past years. The editors expect to have it on the campus about the middle of May. The success with which the board has met in obtaining subscriptions have given them enough confidence in the sale of the book to warrant what is probably the largest edition of the Ivy ever published. A large majority of the student body has already taken advantage of the subscription offer, and the alumni also have supported the publication very generally.

This number will contain more original drawings and photographs than any previous, and will deviate somewhat from the usual type in that it will contain a great deal of humorous matter, especially portraying the campus side of college life. The board of editors feel that this change in policy will be welcomed by the students, alumni and friends of the college.
