Conferring of Honorary Degrees

D. DAVID DERSHAW
Trinity College Class of 1970
Doctor of Science

Presented by Professor of Engineering Joseph L. Palladino

A headline in a 2004 Trinity Reporter story called you “a prescription for hope.” That is what you have been for so many women faced with the terrifying diagnosis of breast cancer. As the founding director of the Breast Imaging Service at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York City and a long-time professor of radiology at Weill College of Medicine, Cornell University, you have made the difference between life and death for thousands of women.

During your time at Memorial Sloan Kettering, your service’s staff of two radiologists grew to 21 fellowship-trained breast imagers who see more than 60,000 patients a year. Under your direction, hundreds of health care providers have been trained in mammography and other breast imaging technologies and breast biopsy techniques. You were instrumental in the development of a one-stop clinic for breast care — where women may see radiologists, surgeons, pathologists, and medical oncologists during a single visit to determine the diagnosis and discuss treatment options — eliminating the need for multiple office visits over a longer period of time. Your leadership at Memorial Sloan Kettering also has resulted in the development of nonsurgical breast biopsy techniques and in establishing the role of magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) screening for breast cancer.

Well-known as an expert in breast cancer screening, you have authored multiple books; published more than 200 peer-reviewed papers, chapters, commentaries, and editorials; and lectured throughout the United States and around the world.

At Trinity, you graduated Phi Beta Kappa and with honors in biology. You also were awarded membership in Pi Gamma Mu, the International Honor Society in Social Sciences. You immersed yourself in the life of the College, working at WRTC-FM and on the staff of the Ivy, and in the life of the city of Hartford, volunteering with the Revitalization Corps, an effort that aimed to mobilize young citizens to tackle problems in inner cities.

After deciding on a life devoted to medicine, in 1974 you earned your M.D. at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, near the suburban town of Cheltenham, where you grew up, and completed your residency in radiology at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in 1978. That year you also earned your board certification from the American Board of Radiology. You returned to Philadelphia for your one-year fellowship, where you explored the emerging technologies of diagnostic ultrasound and CT, or computer tomography, at Thomas Jefferson University Hospital.

Your numerous honors include the Society of Breast Imaging’s 2013 Gold Medal, given to individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the field of breast imaging, and you are a fellow of the Society of Breast Imaging, of which you are a past president; the American College of Radiology; and the New York Academy of Medicine. In an effort to guarantee women safe, high-quality mammography and to facilitate new technologies as they were proven effective, you served as an adviser to the Department of Health and Human Services, the U.S. Senate and U.S. House, and the Food and Drug Administration.

On top of all of this, you have maintained your ties to Trinity as a member of the Long Walk Societies and the Elms Society.

In recognition of your groundbreaking contributions to the field of health care, particularly in the battle against breast cancer, and of your devotion to Trinity College, I have the honor of presenting you, D. David Dershaw, for the degree of Doctor of Science, honoris causa.

LATANYA LANGLEY

Trinity College Class of 1997

Doctor of Laws

Presented by Professor of Music Gail H. Woldu

“I was impressed with the freedom a student has here. There are so many choices Trinity students can make over their four years.” You spoke those words a little more than 20 years ago, when, as a senior ‘neath the elms, you recalled your decision to enroll here. You relished that freedom and those choices, enjoying the flexibility offered by Trinity’s liberal arts curriculum and participating in many activities, including the Trinity College Black Women’s Organization, Umoja House, Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, the Pan-African Alliance, the Gospel Choir, and the softball team. You also were honored by membership in Pi Gamma Mu, the International Honor Society in Social Sciences. Off campus, you worked as a legal assistant at the law firm of Cummings & Lockwood. On your way to earning a B.A. in political science, you spent a semester at the London School of Economics, where you studied law and interned with a criminal defense barrister.

On your graduation day from Trinity, you were granted a mayoral proclamation from the City of Hartford, declaring May 18 as LaTanya Langley Day in recognition of your academic achievements and community activism. You then moved on to the University of Connecticut School of Law and earned a J.D. You are a member of the Connecticut and New York Bars and the U.S. District Court for the District of Connecticut. Your work experience includes time as a corporate associate at Paul Hastings; Weil, Gotshal & Manges; and Shipman & Goodwin.

In 2008, you joined Diageo, a global leader in beverage alcohol. You held several positions there, including senior counsel of Diageo North America and general counsel and corporate secretary of Guinness Ghana Breweries, based in Accra, Ghana, and Guinness USA.

Two years ago, you moved to BIC, one of the most well-known international brands in writing instruments, lighters, and shavers, as vice president and general counsel. There you have global responsibility for managing all legal matters for the company’s largest unit, Stationery; BIC international markets, including Latin America and the Caribbean, Africa, the Middle East, and Asia-Pacific; and anti-corruption compliance.

You are active in your hometown community of Norwalk, serving as a member of the Mayor’s Business Advisory Council and as a commissioner for the Norwalk Redevelopment Agency. You have served on several professional and civic boards, including Norwalk Hospital, Connecticut Legal Services, the Human Services Council, the Norwalk Historical Commission, Person-to-Person, and the Carver Foundation of Norwalk. You also have volunteered for the Family and Children’s Agency and Imani Praise Dancers. To your alma mater, you have unselfishly given your time since 2015 as a Board of Fellows member.

Your honors include the 2016 First Chair Award for Top General Counsel, the National Bar Association’s 2016 Excellence in Leadership Award and its Nation’s Best Advocates: 40 Lawyers Under 40 Award, The Network Journal’s 40 Under 40 Achievement Award, and the Woman of the Year Classic Award from the State of Connecticut African-American Affairs Commission. The Connecticut Law Tribune named you a High Achiever, and the Fairfield County Business Journal recognized you as one of Fairfield County’s 40 Under 40.

In recognition of your extraordinary accomplishments in your professional endeavors in the field of law, your commitment to your Connecticut hometown, and your steadfast loyalty to Trinity College, I have the honor of presenting you, LaTanya Langley, for the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

DANIEL C. DENNETT

Doctor of Humane Letters

Presented by Brownell Professor of Philosophy Dan Lloyd

“Our best current philosopher.” “One of the world’s most original and provocative thinkers.” “One of our most important living philosophers.” You, Daniel C. Dennett, have been described as all of these things. Now University Professor and Austin B. Fletcher Professor of Philosophy and co-director of the Center for Cognitive Studies at Tufts University, you are well-known for your theories on the mind-body connection explaining that free will and human consciousness are based on physical processes in the brain. Dubbed one of the Four Horsemen of Atheism, you also are noted for your role in the New Atheist movement.

Born in Boston, you earned a B.A. in philosophy from Harvard University in 1963 and two years later completed a D.Phil. in philosophy at the University of Oxford under the supervision of British philosopher Gilbert Ryle. You taught at the University of California, Irvine, for six years before joining the faculty at Tufts, where you have remained, save for visiting stints at Harvard, the University of Pittsburgh, Oxford, the École Normale Supérieure in Paris, the London School of Economics, and the American University of Beirut.

You have written more than 400 scholarly articles and authored, co-authored, or edited 19 books. In what may be the surest proof that you are indeed considered at the very top of your field, you have been the subject of almost as many books as you have penned yourself. Content and Consciousness (Routledge), your first title, was published in 1969, the result of your doctoral thesis on the nature of consciousness. Nearly five decades later, your most recent work, this year’s From Bacteria to Bach and Back: The Evolution of Minds (Norton and Penguin Books Limited), is said to be an “agenda-setting book for a new generation of philosophers and thinkers” that explores the “deep interactions of evolution, brains, and human culture.”

The list of your awards and honors is long and includes the 2012 Erasmus Prize, the Netherlands’s highest prize, an annual award given by the Praemium Erasmianum Foundation to individuals or institutions that have made exceptional contributions to culture, society, or social science in Europe and the rest of the world; the 2011 Mind and Brain Prize, granted by the Center for Cognitive Science of Turin in Torino, Italy, in recognition of outstanding achievement in advancing knowledge about mind and brain in the field of cognitive science; and the American Philosophical Association’s 2004 Barwise Prize, bestowed for significant and sustained contributions to areas relevant to philosophy and computing.

The honorary degree you receive today is your sixth from institutions around the globe. You also have been awarded two Guggenheim Fellowships, a Fulbright Fellowship, and a fellowship at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, and you were elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, which gathers leaders from the academic, business, and government sectors to tackle the critical challenges of today.

You have assisted in the design of computer exhibits at the Smithsonian Institution and at Boston’s Museum of Science and Computer Museum. You also were the co-founder and co-director of Tufts’s Curricular Software Studio. You have given hundreds of lectures around the world and delivered several TED talks, sharing your thoughts on topics including Darwin, religion, and reason.

In recognition of your distinguished career as a philosopher and a cognitive scientist and of your enormous contributions to the world of thought, I have the honor of presenting you, Daniel C. Dennett, for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Charge to the Graduating Class

Joanne Berger-Sweeney

XIV

Alma Mater:

“’Neath the Elms”

(arranged by Robert E. Smith, Composer-in-Residence)

The Trinity Pipes

’Neath the elms of our old Trinity,
’Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity,
No more shall we meet,
Our classmates to greet,
’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

College days are from care and sorrow free.
And oft will we seek in memory
Those days that are past,
Far too joyous to last,
’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.
’Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity
Oh it’s seldom we’ll meet,
In the moonlight so sweet,
’Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

Then we’ll sing to our old Trinity,
To our dear old Alma Mater, Trinity;
We’re together today,
And tomorrow away,
Far away from our old Trinity.

On the hills of our old Trinity,
In the halls of our dear old Trinity,
There is bright merry cheer,
There are friends true and dear,
In the halls of our old Trinity.

XV

Benediction

The Right Reverend John L. Selders, Jr.

The Academic Recessional

The graduates and the audience are requested to remain standing
until the President’s Party leaves the platform.

The Academic Regalia

In 1895, a commission of leading American educators established the Intercollegiate Code pertaining to the academic costume. The color of the lining of the hood is that of the college or university conferring the degree. The edging of the hood and the tassel of the cap indicate the subject to which the degree pertains, in accordance with the following official designations for colleges and universities in the United States:

Agriculture	Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Commerce, Accountancy, Business	Drab
Dentistry	Lilac
Economics	Copper
Education	Light blue
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts, including Architecture	Brown
Forestry	Russet
Home Economics	Maroon
Journalism	Crimson
Law	Purple
Library Science	Lemon
Medicine	Green
Music	Pink
Nursing	Apricot
Oratory (Speech)	Silver gray
Pharmacy	Olive green
Philosophy	Dark blue
Physical Education	Sage green
Public Administration, including Foreign Service	Peacock blue
Public Health	Salmon pink
Science	Golden yellow
Social Work	Citron
Theology	Scarlet
Veterinary Science	Gray

Trinity College differs from the above list because the colors of Trinity hoods were established prior to the formulation of the code. Following are the colors of the academic hoods symbolizing the honorary degrees conferred by Trinity:

Doctor of Canon Law Crimson, lined with black	Doctor of Laws Scarlet, lined with dark blue
Doctor of Divinity Scarlet, lined with black	Doctor of Music White, lined with pink
Doctor of Fine Arts White, lined with white and a red chevron	Doctor of Sacred Theology Scarlet, lined with blue and a gold chevron
Doctor of Humane Letters Scarlet, lined with purple	Doctor of Science Black, lined with light blue
Doctor of Letters Scarlet, lined with russet brown	Master of Music Black, lined with pink
Doctor of Humanities White, lined with dark crimson

The Owen Morgan Mace

The mace, which precedes the president in academic processions and is a symbol of executive powers, was presented to Trinity in 1950 in memory of Owen Morgan, Class of 1906, who served his alma mater as a member of the Board of Fellows, as a trustee, and as treasurer of the College. Historically, maces were first used as weapons in warfare and later became a symbol of the sovereign and his power. One of the first known uses of a mace by an educational institution was at Cambridge University in the 13th century. Today a number of colleges use the mace as a symbol of authority and of the power invested in the president by the faculty and trustees. The Morgan Mace is made of ebony, signifying endurance; bronze, meaning power; and gold, symbolizing dignity and glory. It is 44 inches long and weighs 20 pounds. The fluted staff represents the various components of an enduring education. It is bound by a gold ribbon, inscribed with the names of every Trinity president. On the head, or urn, of the mace are six seals of the sources of life and growth of this College: the Great Seal of the United States; the Seal of the State of Connecticut; the Charter Oak; the original seal of the City of Hartford; the Washington Coat of Arms; and the seal of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut. Surmounting the Gothic urn is the Trinity College seal crowned by an eagle about to take flight, symbolizing the freedom and power of an educated person.

The Presidential Collar

The collar, which is worn on ceremonial occasions, is the visible symbol of the president's high office and authority. The collar was presented to the College in 1953 by former President G. Keith Funston, Class of 1932, in memory of his grandmother, Maria Briggs Keith. The chain symbolically links modern higher education with the universities of yesteryear. The golden seal of the Trinity president hangs from the collar, which is fashioned of 20 replicas of the Trinity elms and seven silver seals: the six reproduced in the mace and the Trinity College seal superimposed on a triangle representing the religious foundations of the College crowned by a sun signifying enlightenment. In the lower corners of the triangle are the Book and a pair of student's hands extended to receive it, symbolizing the desire of youth to receive an education.

Celebrate and congratulate the
Class of 2017 using #tringrad.
