of the perfect gentleman"

F O R E W O R D

IN the pages of this book we have attempted to record the scenes and events that have given to us, the Class of 1935, a Trinity which we have grown to love in the all too brief time that has elapsed since our arrival three years ago. If we have given you some conception of the chapter which our class has with pride contributed to Trinity's history, we have succeeded in achieving our end

Highlights: Thirty-One to Thirty-Four

As the class of '35 descended upon Trinity in the fall of 1931, it was quite evident that, although our needs and our numbers had been duly recognized, the preparations for our arrival had not been completed, for the Chapel and the new dormitories were still in the process of construction. Hailed as the largest class in the history of the college, representing twenty states and five foreign countries, we assumed our humble position among the undergraduates and said, "Now let history proceed."

We were reminded that we had arrived at Trinity in an "era of expansion". Not only was the enrollment of Trinity expanding, but two new buildings were in the process of construction. Fir timbers were arriving from Oregon to finish the chapel roof. The completion of the Trinity quadrangle, "the dream of Trinity men for half a century," was being accomplished by the erection of Cook Hall. The Trinity Faculty was enlarged, ten men being added to the staff, making a total of forty-three professors and instructors, averaging one to every ten students.

The new students, together with many of the old ones, found a champion in Dr. Hutt, who, in disagreeing with Professor Shaw of Columbia, stated that whistlers were not morons. This timely encouragement, when we were already beset by innumerable vicissitudes, gave us the spirit to go on.

Realizing that one is known at college by his extra-curricular activities, the class of '35 eagerly responded to the calls of the Jesters, Athenaeum, Tripod Board, and the Athletic Association.

In October, 1931, the College received for the new Chapel a historic stone connected with the history of John Huss. It was a portion of the stone from which John Huss preached in the year 1413 at a little town in Czecho-Slovakia. The stone was gratefully received and placed in the outdoor pulpit on the south side of the Chapel with the warning that future preachers who desired to expound longer than fourteen or thirteen minutes would do well to remember the fate of John Huss.

Speaking of fires, it was the same month that a plumber and a stray blow torch set Jarvis Laboratory ablaze. The damage unfortunately was slight, and classes were resumed on the day following.

It was also in October that Dr. Ogilby announced several gifts made by persons interested in the Chapel. Dr. John Plumb, '91, presented the carillon of thirty bells, one bell of which is slightly overworked about eight o'clock mornings. Other gifts were the Cardinal Woolsey Window, by W. R. C. Corson, and the silver Processional Cross by Mrs. Clarence Carpenter.

At a meeting of the Student Body on November 4, the coveted Scholarship Cup was awarded to the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. The Alpha Deltas won over the Alpha Chi Rhos, the holder for the previous year, by a margin of one one-hundredth of one percent.

The carillon, under the able manipulation of world famous carillonneur, Kamiel Lefevre, rang out in formal debut on Wednesday, December 9. Hundreds of interested listeners braved the inclement weather to hear the first concert on the bells of Old Trinity's new tower.

The Jesters presented "The Circle" on Friday, December 11. The satisfying presentation of this three act comedy by W. Somerset Maugham caused the rafters of old Alumni Hall to ring with applause.

The year 1931 was finished off at Trinity by two precocious decisions. The "Crusaders", vowing death to the 18th Amendment, (just as though it made any difference) formed a Chapter at Trinity under the able direction of Breck Armstrong. The theme of the Crusaders was "true temperance". They merely declared the 18th Amendment an imposition. On December 14 Dr. John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union and former U. S. Minister, spoke in Alumni Hall. Dr. Barrett presented a logical and valid argument in favor of the recognition of Russia by the United States. The entire English A class attended this affair, for the Dean had sent them engraved invitations. Had our Rip Van Winkle Government been aware of the knowledge rampant at Trinity, we might have had "true temperance" and "commercial advantages" back in 1931.

Although the approach of the mid-year exams struck terror to the hearts of the yearlings and many of the upperclassmen, the percentage of freshmen dismissed because of failure in studies was the lowest in the history of the college. Conspicuously absent was the English A student who wrote: "When somebody applies an epitaph to you, it is sometimes very hard to reply."

History at Trinity College during the first part of the 1932 term is largely the progress in constructing the Chapel. On February 24 the service for the consecration of the materials for the organ was held in the Chapel; the gift of a lectern by the Class of 1910 was announced; the stained glass windows were set and described; the cut flagstone floor under the tower was laid; the Crypt Chapel was completed; the organ was installed and tuned; and the twelve large open diapason pipes were erected under the Mothers' Window at the west wall.

The outstanding early spring classic at Trinity was rendered by Professor Perkins, under the guise of a "Demonstration of Sound Effects on Wind Instruments". The repertoire was of wide range, beginning with a Scotch jig on a Chinese flute and ending with "Old Black Joe" on a French Horn. Ten different instruments were heard during the program. At the close of the concert Professor Perkins was complimented upon his versatility and reminded of his vaudeville and broadcasting possibilities.

The prospects of the 1932 football season "assumed a brighter hue" with the appointment of Daniel E. Jessee as head football coach. Mr. Jessee, after receiving a B.A. from Pacific University, studied for an M.A. in Physical Education at Columbia. Four additional faculty members were added at this time, among whom was Mr. Clarence E. Watters, who assumed the position of organist and choir master.

The Trinity College Jesters presented "Wings Over Europe", a tragi-comedy by Robert Nichols and Maurice Brown, during the second week in April. The cast included twenty characters, all male, and the comedy effect of mincing males in female roles was thus eliminated. In closing their season, the Jesters performed this play in New London at the Connecticut College for Women. "Wings over Europe" was a very difficult play to perform, but the quality of the performance marked the production as one of the great Jester achievements.

The Glee Club made its final appearance of the year in a concert in Alumni Hall. A musical team and several violin and piano solos completed the program. Dancing followed. A portion of the report of this program read thus: "John F. Martens then presented several violin solos which were immediately followed by the club singing 'The Broken Melody'."

The publicized questionnaire held by the Tripod on Wednesday, May 4, was answered by about one half of the student body. Questions on Physical Education requirements, compulsory chapel, chapel speakers, war, and even radios were asked. The results were sufficiently indefinite to be valueless.

The Trinity rifle team, some members of which we conjecture voted refusal to bear arms in a future war in the Tripod Poll, defeated the Harvard team in a match at the latter's home range at Arlington, Massachusetts. The track team closed an undefeated season, having broken several of the college records, while the baseball team defeated Wesleyan 7-1.

Final exams came and went, commencement week rolled around, and great were the preparations, for the long-awaited consecration of the new Chapel was to take place, and the 106th commencement at Trinity College was to be held in the Chapel. Consecration Day was set for June 18. William G. Mather, '77, donor of the Chapel, presented Dr. Ogilby with the keys to the Chapel as the elaborate and involved processions reached the Chapel door. Bishop Brewster, the Consecrating Bishop, blessed the Chapel and its equipment.

Class day exercises were held in Alumni Hall, the address being made by E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut.

On Monday, June 20, graduation exercises were held. Eighty-five degrees in courses were conferred, twenty-two Bachelor of Arts degrees and sixty-three Bachelor of Science degrees. The week-end of processions, banquets, organ and carillon recitals, chapel services, dances, and class meetings, came to a close. The doors of the Halls of Learning were shut, and the inhabitants of Trinity went home to forget.

The Class of 1936 meekly made its appearance upon Trinity Campus to take its place in the Collegiate Sieve. As a well-known alumnus ably stated it, this "sieve is kept in constant agitation by the President, Dean, Faculty and student organizations. The freshmen find themselves tumbled about with the upperclassmen, getting their sharp angles and idiosyncrasies removed. The holes in the sieve represent the many hazards of college life, and only the 'big' men keep from falling through."

While freshmen were adjusting themselves to the new conditions and being buffeted about by physical examinations, psychological tests and the like, the upperclassmen noted several improvements in the college grounds. A spacious parking place was being constructed to the south of the campus, the finishing touches on Cook Hall had been completed, new tennis courts had been built, and the old roadway from Alumni Hall to Vernon Street had been replaced by a walk bordered with grass plots. The old brown stone posts and gates from Washington College had been set at the Vernon Street entrance to the walk. Since the early part of the century, these historic iron gates had been left to the ravages of rust in the catacombs under Northam Towers and their replacement at the entrance of the campus was a mitigating gesture.

The Glee Club, the Jesters, and the Athenaeum absorbed the interested members of the 1936 class, and the outlook for these societies appeared promising.

In the early part of the year a war was waged, Students vs. Faculty, concerning the "Extra Course? Thirty Dollars!" The war was waged in printers' type, editorials and communications. The extra charge for courses over five was made only after due consideration and deliberation by Faculty and Trustees. The contest resulted in a no-decision draw in favor of the Faculty.

In September 1932, three regular professors returned to Hartford from Europe. Professor Babbitt had spent the past year at the University of Athens in Greece, where he taught classes and studied Greek excavations. Professor Skau of the Chemistry Department returned from Germany, where for two years he had been coördinating the theory and laboratory work on pure compounds for a reference book he is compiling. Professor Bissonnette of the Biology Department returned from England where he had been continuing his studies in conjunction with several other professors on the subject of the effect of light on the sexual cycles of birds and animals.

Noisily acclaimed by a Trinity cheering squad who saw him "off", the Dean departed for England. This was his second trip to England within the last three years to gather material for his book on Robert Browning.

It was during October and November, 1932 that the Tripod affair took place at college. Because of a misunderstanding between Editor-in-Chief of the Tripod and Dr. Ogilby, a forbidden article concerning Lord Cecil was printed in the Tripod. The suspension penalty meted out to the Editor was considered by the country's leading newspapers as a threat to the freedom of the press at Trinity.

Work progressed on the Chapel tower, which lacked about fifteen feet of its intended height of one hundred and sixty-three feet. The Carillon was fully encased by January, 1933. Landscaping was being improved about the chapel and college grounds, so that with the coming of spring the area about the chapel would be ready to be sown with grass seed.

Porter Emerson Brown's "The Bad Man", a satirical comedy, was staged by the Jesters on January 14. The plot was complicated and bewildering, and the audience was often uncertain which one was the "bad man".

Il Circolo Dante, the Trinity College club fostering Italian culture, was formed in the early part of January. The meetings contain discussions about Marco Polo, Leonardo Da Vinci, Boccaccio, St. Francis of Assisi, Garibaldi, Mussolini, Balbo, Al Capone, etc. Judge Buffington, a Trinity graduate, wrote to the Society lauding its aims. He was subsequently elected Honorary Consul of the Club for the year 1933.

By a vote of the Trustees, the outdoor Pulpit on the South Side of the Tower was designated as a memorial to Dr. Flavel S. Luther. As Dr. Luther was a great preacher, the pulpit made an appropriate memorial, for it was he who gloried in outdoor services.

Trinity students and alumni were pleasantly surprised to learn from Dr. Ogilby's annual report to the Trustees that, in the rating of the American Council of Education at Washington, D. C., Trinity's rating among representative colleges and universities throughout the country rose from sixteenth place to second place between the fall of 1931 and 1932. Yes, it was the 1935 class that arrived at Trinity in the fall of 1931.

What has become of the Lemon Squeezer? The spring of 1933 was devoted to the search for that traditional object. It was described in '73 as valuable "not for its elaborate workmanship, but for the memories which cluster about it". Its customary transference from class to class since had been halted and its whereabouts unknown. A revival of the traditional transfer was sought, but the object of the transfer kept its hiding place a secret.

The fan-mail which rolled in after the radio debate with Wesleyan gave the decision to the Athenaeum Society's debaters. The question, "Resolved: That Democracy is an outworn form of Government," was of timely interest. Trinity upheld the negative side of the question and proved that the fundamentals of Democratic government are far from outworn.

The return of Beer in May of 1933 was met with wild acclaim by Trinity men. A picture on the front page of the Hartford Times showed enthusiasts bending elbows at one Max Scher's emporium. Trinity students could be discerned among the numerous bottles.

Final exams came upon us, and it is well understood that nothing of historical importance happens during the exam period. The one hundred and seventh commencement called a halt to the happenings at Trinity for the year 1932-33.

The summer months sped along and the time again approached to continue the "search for knowledge and wisdom". The 1937 class was duly welcomed and terrified, rushing was completed, and all took up the compulsory hob-nobbing with the professors.

Marcel Dupre, under whom Mr. Clarence Watters, college organist, studied in Paris, gave a series of recitals on the Chapel organ in October, 1933. Attentive and appreciative audiences listened to his selections, realizing their privilege of listening to a world-renowned master.

The football team closed a remarkably successful season with four victories. Wesleyan and Amherst were among the defeated teams. A frenzy of excitement followed the Wesleyan game, which victory was the first in seven years over our traditional rivals. There is talk of giving receptions to members of the Middletown Police force prior to the next contest at Wesleyan so that they may obtain introductions to Trinity's notables and thereby use discretion in the swinging of shillalahs.

The Armistice Day Chapel service proved to be an array of flags and illustrious speakers. Governor Cross was among the notables present, being supported by the Governor's Foot Guard Band. Dr. Ogilby preached an appropriate sermon on "Faith and Fear". The service closed with an organ recessional arrangement of the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

On November 26 a blaze of undetermined origin broke out in Northam Towers. The Hartford Fire Department took its stand "'neath the elms" and poured water into the time honored halls of Freshman Hotel. Mr. Harris Prior in Northam was the recipient of the greater part of the firemen's attention, while the Atheneum rooms in Northam 2 remained unoccupied for two months following the fire. The ambulance did some broken field running among the elms to take the smoked hero, Fred Ludwig, Doctor of Janitry and Day and Night Watching, to the hospital.

The Trinity Trustees appointed Roger Eastman '24, of Woodstock, Vermont, as assistant to President Ogilby. He assumed his office in February, 1934.

On January 9 the Scholarship Cup was awarded to the Sigma Nu fraternity for the second successive year. The cup was presented at a meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and Sigma Nu was complimented upon obtaining the highest percentage of A's and B's for two successive years.

The comparison between mid-year ratings this year and last reveals an improvement in scholarship at Trinity. Although two more dropped out of the freshman class than last year, the number on probation in upper classes dropped from fourteen to three. The unlimited cut list rose from thirty-six to fifty-one.

The material for the first half of the 1935 Ivy is to be in the hands of the publisher by March 1. Trinity history continues; this account must be dated February 26, 1934.

Junior Prom Week-end

Alpha Chi Rho had the honor of ushering in this year's February Frolic when its members entertained at a dance in Cook Hall Thursday evening, February 1 to start officially the annual Junior Week-end. The Trinity Troubadours assisted the brainweary students and their lovely guests in recapturing almost forgotten joys of gliding and cavorting on the waxed surface in a lively session. Dancing was resumed the next afternoon when Delta Phi played the gracious host at their chapter house from 4 until 7.

The climax of this merry whirl came at 10 o'clock Friday night when Norman Cloutier and his Merry Madcaps with much brass and a few woodwinds struck up the immortal "Casa Loma Stomp." Program dancing was in order until supper, after which the rules were lifted and the stags suddenly appeared. Many folks welcomed the return to Alumni Hall with the familiar setting of blue and gold trimmings, potted palms, fraternity booths, and wooden stairs. The orchestra decided to stop at 3 a. m., and further dancing was therefore impractical, though not undesirable.

On Saturday most everyone was up in time to attend the swimming meet with Massachusetts State at 3 o'clock. Tea was served at the fraternity houses, and a special Vespers was held at 5.15, with bells. The drama had its fling when the Jesters presented two playlets—"Copy" and "Exchange"—in the Public Speaking Room at 8 o'clock, and there then followed the usual Senate Dance in Cook Hall. On the stroke of midnight those in charge disclaimed further responsibility, and the Week-end thus came to a close officially.

Paul W. Adams can be given nearly all the credit for a very fine binge, of which the Class of 1935 may well be proud. The following members of his committee also wore white flowers Friday night: William J. Angus, James D. Cosgrove, J. Duane Flaherty, Milton C. Marquet, Thomas J. McQuade, Territt H. Mowbray, Barclay Shaw, Norman T. Schramm, William H. Warner and Clark G. Voorhees, Jr.

Sophomore Hop Week-end

The Sophomore Hop week-end opened formally with a dance at the Psi Upsilon House on Saturday, November 18th at 4 o'clock. Refreshments were served during the dance, which continued until 6.30 P. M.

A play, "The Fourth Wall", was presented by the Trinity Jesters in Alumni Hall at 8.15 Saturday evening.

Immediately following the play the Sophomore Hop, which was the first social event to be held at Trinity this year, took place in Cook Hall. The program dance stopped at 12 o'clock, at which time refreshments were served in the cafeteria. After a half hour intermission the dance continued until 2 o'clock.

A few words should be said about the appearance of the dining hall. It was attractively decorated with palms, which, combined with the beauty of the room, formed an ideal setting for the festivities. The dance music, furnished by Ray Delaporte's band, was circulated throughout the rooms by means of amplifiers.

Mrs. Remsen B. Ogilby, Mrs. Thurman L. Hood, Mrs. Frank C. Babbitt, Mrs. Vernon K. Kriebel, Mrs. Roger H. Motten, Mrs. Arthur Adams, Mrs. Haroutune M. Dadourian, Mrs. Daniel E. Jessee, Mrs. Joseph C. Clarke were the patronesses.

Due credit for arranging the dance should be given to the following members of the Sophomore Hop committee: Philip J. Spelman, Robert I. McKee, John R. Williams, Brooks Roberts, Desmond L. Crawford, Robert N. Roach, Winfield V. Viering, John K. Clark, and Roger H. Motten, Jr.

The Trinity Tripod

Founded in 1904, the Trinity Tripod has just completed its thirtieth year as one of the oldest publications and most active organizations on the campus. That this weekly periodical has served to stimulate interest in both college activities and the trend of current events beyond the confines of undergraduate life is attested to by the support it has received from the undergraduates, the Faculty, and the Alumni. The Tripod has attempted not only to present the local news, but also to act through its editorials as a corrective influence on college life, and to serve as a medium for the exchange of opinion on many issues. The many communications it has published give evidence that it has successfully performed this latter function.

Originally a semi-weekly publication, this paper is now edited once a week, producing about thirty issues during the course of the college year in an attractive but conservative make-up. The Editor-in-Chief, who is responsible for the policies and the general supervision of the paper, is selected annually from the Junior Class.

The desirability of membership on the Tripod staff has appeared to increase during the past few years. This year's staff included twenty undergraduates, the duties of each being determined by his proficiency and length of service. All new men, or "heelers", are required to gather and write up the news, eventually advancing to the Reportorial and Editorial Boards. The officers, consisting of the Editor-in-Chief, the Managing Editor, and the three assisting managers of the Business Board, are appointed customarily from the Junior Class each February by the outgoing officers.

In September, 1933, Harold R. Bayley, Jr. assumed the position of Editor-in-Chief, replacing Willard J. Haring, who was unable to continue in this capacity to the end of his term due to the pressure of other activities. John S. McCook was chosen as Managing Editor. The elections in February, 1934 resulted in the selection of the latter as Editor-in-Chief and of Robert J. Lau as Managing Editor for the new term.

The Athenaeum

The Athenaeum Society, the oldest living organization at Trinity College, has just completed its most successful year since its revival in 1928. It was founded as a literary and debating society in 1824, one year after the establishment of Washington College on the hill overlooking the city of Hartford, at the site of the present State Capitol. For many years the society was the focal point of interest for students enthused by the problems of that day. Old records of the society, now in the custody of the college library, reveal that questions discussed in those days included ones like these: "Will the railroad win out over the canal?" "Is democracy superior to monarchy?" "Should tariffs be used by the United States?" Unlike the students of recent years, collegians of that day found greatest interest in the discussion of important, impersonal problems; lines then were more sharply drawn than now, debaters infused each argument with enthusiasm, and, while personal arguments were not lacking, questions resulted in answers and not "wisecracks". Gradually the organization built up a library that was large for the time and which was later given to the College for the nucleus of the College library; every book was well thumbed, for no member was worthy who could not discourse at random from the texts of at least a score of books. On the eve of the Civil War, and somewhat parallel to the division in the nation, the student body was split into two groups, one composed of the supporters of the ancient and venerable Athenaeum Society, the other consisting of the upstart Parthenon, formed in 1855 by a disgruntled faction in the Athenaeum. This division immediately ended the discussion of outside affairs, both the Athenaeum and the Parthenon being devoted from then on to peevish attacks upon each other. The Athenaeum died in 1870, while the Parthenon lingered on until 1900. In 1928 the Athenaeum was revived by an enterprising group of students, and under the guidance of these men and their successors the society emerged stronger and fresher from several crises, until today the organization holds an enviable position on the campus.

Indeed, interest on the part of the student body, as well as of the members of the Athenaeum Society, seems to have followed the trend in the nation by entering a new and—it is hoped—lasting phase in progress toward an active participation in current affairs, economic, social, and political. Within the Athenaeum this movement has been shown in large part by the growing enthusiasm of the members in the varied program of this, the college's only active organization devoted primarily to discussion and debate. The society has never emphasized mere argumentativeness, but has preferred to aid its members in the intelligent discussion of today's problems, not merely to take sides, but to understand these problems and solve them by careful consideration of all points.

Following the success of a radio debate between Wesleyan University and the Athenaeum in April, 1933 on the subject, "Resolved: That Democracy is an Outworn Form of Government," in which the Trinity debaters, upholding the negative, won the Athenaeum's fourth victory in as many debates, a similar debate was held in April of this year, also with Wesleyan.

As a supplement to the society's activities in debating and discussion, a library of printed sources of information on current happenings—books, pamphlets, magazines, and newspapers—has been started in the society's rooms in Northam Towers. The library and the society's rooms have furnished a means of coordinating its activities for the greater benefit of individual members and of the college as a whole. After considering the results of the year's efforts, the Athenaeum Society and its members look forward to the coming years as promising greater things for the organization.

The Jesters

Under the leadership of their President, Rex Howard, and with the able coaching of Mr. Helmbold, the Jesters have completed successfully their eleventh year since the reorganization of 1923. Three innovations signalized their season of 1933-1934.

The first of these was the joint sale of tickets to the Sophomore Hop and the first play of the year, in an endeavor to avoid financial loss without public canvass. This play, "The Fourth Wall," by A. A. Milne, is the story of the murder of Arthur Ludgrove by two men he had sentenced to life imprisonment in Africa during the Boer War. The mystery is finally solved by his nephew and his fiancée. Paul Adams, who played creditably the part of hero, and Rex Howard, the uncle, were the only members of the cast with previous Jester experience. Other members who showed ability were Anthony Cacase and S. W. Niewenhous, the two villains, Ralph McEldowney, who played the part of the heroine, and James Davis.

Following the new plan of joint tickets for plays and dances, two one-act plays were presented before the Senate dance during the Junior Prom week-end. In "Copy", by Kendall Banning, Raymond S. Patton, Jr., gave a creditable performance as the hero in a tense drama of newspaper life. Donald G. Hurd, the Judge of Althea Cooms-Thurston's "The Exchange", attended to the needs of three dissatisfied people, whose various troubles were well portrayed by Burnside, Fisher and Crawford. T. L. Sinclair, as the Imp, was an able if annoying assistant to the Judge.

In March, when Louis N. Parker's "Pomander Walk" was presented in the West Middle Auditorium, the Jesters for the first time presented a play in which female characters were not represented by college students. Much of the success of this play was due to the efforts of the Junior League members. Miss Helen Sloan, as Marjolaine, the heroine, gave the most satisfactory performance. James Miller took the part of Jack Sayle, the hero, in pleasing fashion, but his portrayal was perhaps overshadowed by that of Rex Howard, who did fine work as the Admiral. Mrs. Edward Keenleyside was most convincing in the role of Mme. Lachesnais. Paul Adams, Arthur Stolz, Miss Jean Whaples, and Miss Phyllis Fenn also proved by their performances that continued collaboration of the Junior League and the Jesters should considerably improve the quality of Jester productions.

In December the Jesters, impelled by a desire to arouse interest and uncover talent, offered a prize of $20 for the best one-act play written by a Trinity undergraduate, in conformity with the requirements of the Jesters. The plays are being judged by Professor Allen and Messrs. Helmbold and Ulmer. The winning play will be presented in the 1934-35 season. It is expected that this beginning will result in future similar contests.

The Glee Club

In its second year under the directorship of Mr. Clarence E. Watters the Glee Club has again enjoyed a successful season. This year's schedule of concerts was modelled somewhat after last year's. Joint performances were limited to two, and the only marked change from the previous season was the absence of the New England Intercollegiate glee club concert. It was found impractical to hold this event this year, but it is hoped that it will be possible to continue it next season.

The first concert was given on November 15 at the Edgewood Park Junior College in Greenwich. The performance was preceded by a dinner in the school dining hall and was followed by dancing. It should be noted that this, the Club's first appearance, occurred a full month earlier than did the initial concert of the previous year. In spite of the comparatively short period of rehearsals, the Club acquitted itself well, and the performance was considerably aided by a comedy skit which was put on by a quartet from the Club's personnel.

Before the next important concert, that with the Junior League on March 26, the Club gave several minor performances before local clubs and church groups. Included among these were appearances sponsored by the Memorial Baptist Church, Grace Church of Newington, and the Hartford Y. W. C. A. The first joint concert with the Junior League singers took place in the College Chapel, where the two organizations rendered Schumann's "Requiem" in splendid fashion. This service, which consisted almost entirely of the singing of this beautiful work, was held in memory of the late Rt. Rev. E. Campion Acheson, Bishop of Connecticut. Marshall Seeley conducted the chorus, and Mr. Watters accompanied on the organ.

The season was brought to a close in an auspicious manner when the combined glee clubs of Trinity and Smith College gave a concert in Bushnell Memorial on the evening of April 21. Due largely to the efforts of Barclay Shaw, Business Manager, and the local Smith alumnae, a large crowd attended, and the concert must be rated as a most successful one from any angle. Before the concert a tea dance took place in Cook Hall in honor of the two organizations.

Noticeable among changes in the Club this year was an improvement in its repertoire. Pieces of a lighter and more humorous vein were introduced, and this departure from the more serious and frequently dull numbers which were chosen last year proved refreshing to singers and audiences alike. Mr. Watters is to be congratulated upon the rapid way in which he prepared the group for a season which started much earlier than have recent ones. The fact that the foreboding shadow of the Intercollegiate concert was not present this year may have had something to do with an improved spirit noticeable in the Club. Charles Bierkan and Barclay Shaw, whose untiring efforts as President and Business Manager, respectively, were responsible for a major portion of the Club's success, were vital parts of the organization. Again the Glee Club has proved a worthy representative of Trinity in its particular field.

The Rifle Club

In the early nineties a Gun Club was formed at Trinity, whose purpose was to afford its members another form of outdoor sport rather than any organized rifle practice. These gun enthusiasts made excursions into the countryside for small game hunting. After the turn of the century this organization was discontinued, and shooting ceased to be an organized sport for about a decade. With the advent of the War interest in marksmanship was revived. A temporary rifle range was constructed in the basement of Alumni Hall, where intensive practice was carried on under the direction of army officers by the entire student battalion. At the close of the War military training was discontinued at the college, and preparedness no longer being in demand, interest in marksmanship again waned for another decade. In 1929 the Rifle Club was formed by a group of students, and membership was obtained in the National Rifle Association, sponsored by the Government for the promotion of marksmanship in colleges and universities all over the country. The Rifle Club was provided with .22 and .30 calibre rifles and a supply of ammunition by the Government. Regular weekly practices at the State Armory were begun and continued through each school year until last February, when with the permission of the Administration and the generous financial aid of the College Senate a fifty-foot range was constructed in the basement of north Jarvis. With such facilities on the campus the members of the Club now have unlimited opportunity for practice.

A schedule of intercollegiate matches is arranged each year, this year's schedule including postal matches with Northeastern University, Lowell Textile Institute, Wentworth Institute, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Two shoulder-to-shoulder matches were shot, one with the .22 calibre against Northeastern University, and the other with the .30 calibre against Harvard. The Harvard team, whose match closes each season, has become the Club's traditional rival. Teams for all matches are selected on a competitive basis. All four of the prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing positions are used in practice.

The Rifle Club was not founded with any purpose of military training in mind. Whether a student is a pacifist or preparedist has no bearing upon the matter. The members of the club regard their shooting rather as another form of sport, sense a continual challenge in their individual practice, and in their matches feel that necessity for sportsmanship that is common to all forms of sport.

The Interfraternity Council

The newly organized Interfraternity Council of Trinity College has completed its first year of active and necessary duty on the campus. This important body, composed of delegates from the eight fraternities, was organized on March 9, 1933. At this time no constitution was drawn up, but a set of precedents for future reference was formulated.

Preparing for the following Fall Rushing a number of rules were drawn up during May, and were ratified by all but one of the groups. These rules governed the entertainment of the new men, and were designed to counteract the evils of "cut-throat" rushing. No fraternity signing the agreement was allowed to rush off campus, and groups of Freshmen were assembled to visit the houses at set times. Pledging was deferred until not earlier than the noon of the second Sunday after college officially opened. These regulations, with some modification, may also be used for the incoming class of 1938.

The purpose of the Council is to encourage cooperation among the individual fraternities, and between the college and the fraternities as a unified group; and of the committees formed, one of the most important was the Fraternity-College Relations Committee, composed of Charles T. Kingston, Delta Psi, and Harold R. Bayley, Jr., Alpha Delta Phi, which deals with matters of compromise and cooperation.

The officers of the Council are Dr. R. B. W. Hutt, Professor of Psychology and a member of Theta Delta Chi (not represented on this campus), Presiding Officer; Curtis W. V. Junker, Psi Upsilon, Treasurer, and James E. Baldwin, Alpha Delta Phi, Secretary. Each fraternity is represented by an Alumnus, a Senior and a Junior delegate. The Junior Delegate next year automatically becomes Senior delegate. Meetings of the Council are held once a month, with interim work carried out by the three officers.

Annually, an Interfraternity Bridge Tournament is sponsored by the Council, a cup being the prize. This trophy becomes the permanent possession of the group victorious three times.

Phi Beta Kappa

The Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity, founded at the College of William and Mary, December 5, 1776, is an honorary society, membership in which is conditioned upon high scholastic standing. The Trinity Chapter, known as the Beta of Connecticut, was chartered by the Yale Chapter, the Connecticut Alpha, June 16, 1845, and is the eighth in order of foundation.

The Charter stipulates that persons elected to membership in the Beta of Connecticut shall be men of honor, probity, and learning. To satisfy the scholastic requirements, a student must have attained at least the equivalent of Grade A (the highest grade of excellence) in at least ten courses, and of Grade B (the second highest grade) in ten additional courses. Election to Phi Beta Kappa has always been regarded as a mark of high distinction in scholarship.

Varsity Football

After a decade of indifferent success on the gridiron, a powerful 1933 team returned Trinity to her place on the football map and established itself as one of the most outstanding elevens in the long history of the college. Although handicapped by a dearth of man-power, always an important factor in the building of good football teams, the Blue and Gold smashed through to four triumphs in a six game schedule, and the fruits of victory proved even sweeter than usual as all three major opponents of the year, Connecticut State, Wesleyan and Amherst, were numbered among the defeated.

The season started off inauspiciously when Colby scored a 12-0 win over Trinity at Waterville, Me. The game was a hard fought affair until a last-period aerial attack brought the home team their two touchdowns. Captain Kingston, at guard, and Maher, center, starred on the defensive for Trinity. Alden led the Colby attack.

In the first home contest Trinity found herself and ran roughshod over a hapless Worcester Tech. team to register an impressive 25-7 victory. Eigenbauer, Marquet and Sampers battered the Engineer's line to shreds all afternoon, working from an effective single wing-back formation. Alexander and Kellam stood out on the line.

The United States Coast Guard Academy upset the dope by administering a surprising 13-0 setback to the Blue and Gold in the third game of the campaign at Trinity Field. Brilliant running on the part of Lathrop, and continued evidences of weakness in pass defence by Trinity spelled the margin of defeat. It was a hard game to lose, as Trinity showed fight every minute of the contest. Kellam exhibited great improvement in punting, while Eigenbauer contributed some nice open-field running.

With a lay-off of a week behind them, the Trinity eleven evened its record for the season by trouncing Connecticut State 13-0 at Storrs. Straight football, with Brewer at fullback in the key position, resulted in eighteen first downs being rolled up. It was a drab game, and the Blue and Gold tossed away many chances to score more heavily. Fritzson gave a fine performance at end.

The climax of the season came when Trinity secured a decisive win over Wesleyan in the objective game of the year at Middletown. The Blue and Gold outplayed the Cardinals in every department of the game, finally coming from behind in the second half to score a 14-6 victory. Eigenbauer made substantial gains time after time and contributed several breathtaking runs. He also scored the first touchdown after receiving a pretty pass from Marquet. Sampers plunged over for the other score, and Amport, whose play was the feature of the afternoon, converted the additional points. Hanaghan played a fine game at tackle and Weber used uncanny judgment in running the Trinity plays. This long-awaited victory was the first at the expense of Wesleyan in eight years and was obtained mainly by an unbeatable combination of real spirit and unselfish team play.

Rated as a decided underdog in the Amherst game, due to lack of reserves and a natural let-down after Wesleyan, the Trinity eleven went a step further in proving its unquestionable merit by beating the Sabrinas 7-6, to score a major upset in New England football circles. Amherst took an early 6-0 lead, but Trinity shook Kellam loose on a trick play for a touchdown, and Amport's educated toe added that very necessary extra point. The Blue and Gold played alert football all the way and made every "break" count. Maher, who has been elected captain for next fall, gave a fine performance, and, along with Kellam and Amport, in particular, played a big part in the first success Trinity has had against the Lord Jeffs in fifteen years.

Coach Jessee certainly is to be complimented on the great work he has accomplished in only two years' time, and with only Kingston, Brewer, Fritzson, Gallaway and Kelly missing from the regular line-up next fall, it is to be hoped that his efforts will be rewarded with an even better record than that turned in by this year's fine squad.

Varsity Basketball

Trinity's basketball team won eleven out of twelve games this season, making the most impressive record yet credited to any Blue and Gold quintet.

Although Trinity won its first four games by wide margins, her power was not really known until the Amherst game. This was one of the outstanding games of the season. In a nip and tuck battle which was anybody's game, Trinity nosed out the Lord Jeffs 26-24. Amherst brought a large number of supporters to see a game which was rough and fiercely fought throughout. At times the referee experienced difficulty, so fast and deceptive was the play.

The next game marked the only defeat of the season for the Blue and Gold, coming from the hands of Wesleyan. Trinity was in very poor form that night, for the quintet played a sloppy floor game and missed the basket with incredible consistency. Credit should be given the Cardinals, however, for taking advantage of all the breaks they could get and playing a very alert game.

St. Stephens was Trinity's next victim, but succumbed only after giving the Hilltoppers an unexpected scare by remaining on equal terms during the first half, at the close of which the score was tied at 15-15. Trinity came back strongly in the second half to win by the score 48-30.

A far inferior Connecticut State team bowed to the Blue and Gold in its next game.

The Pratt game was by far the best played game of the year. With Reiser of Pratt tossing the ball through the basket one-handed from all angles on the court, the visitors stepped out to enjoy a 24-16 lead at half time. During this period Reiser made 17 points and there seemed to be no way of stopping him. In the second half, however, Daut and Kelly managed to hold him to a single point, and Trinity, playing an up-hill game, managed to win out 38-35. Incidentally, the Blue and Gold was ahead at only two times during the game; once in the first minute of play, and again about forty seconds before the final whistle was blown. This latter lead was held long enough by the team to win a well deserved victory.

Trinity avenged her defeat by Wesleyan when she trimmed the Cardinals on their court at Middletown; then closed the season with another victory over Connecticut State and a win over Coast Guard.

Kearns and Martens will be the only regulars back next year as Captain Kelly, Daut, and Liddell graduate this June. With many promising freshmen on the Junior Varsity Squad however, and the services of Sampers and Kobrosky, lettermen, the prospects of a successful season next year are very good.

Swimming

Trinity swimming concluded its second season as a recognized sport with the creditable record of five victories out of an eight meet schedule. The Blue and Gold swimmers ran up a total of 340 points against their opponents' 260, decisively defeating Coast Guard, Massachusetts State, Union, M. I. T., and Worcester Tech. Their three reversals were met at the hands of Amherst, Connecticut State, and Wesleyan.

Evidence of the great improvement of this year's team over its predecessor is apparent in the fact that Trinity swimmers this last season set four pool and college records and broke six records standing from the year before.

The first meet of the season, with Coast Guard at Hartford, was won by a score of 54-23. Trinity took first place in every event except the 100-yard dash. In this contest a new pool record for the 50-yard dash was set by Mowbray at 25.3 seconds.

The second encounter was carried away from Massachusetts State at Hartford by a score of 48-29, Trinity scoring first place in all but the 220-yard and 200-yard relay events. Captain Coit lowered the old college record in the 200-yard breast stroke.

The contest with Union at Schenectady gave the Blue and Gold their third straight victory by a score of 50-21. In these foreign waters three college records were broken by Trinity men. Coit lowered his recently won record in the breast stroke; Onderdonk clipped the old record for the 220-yard swim; and the 400-yard relay team set a new college record in their event. All but one of the events were captured by Trinity in this meet.

M. I. T. was the fourth opponent on the schedule. The Trinity tankmen easily won this encounter in their home pool by a score of 55-22. Trinity took seven out of the nine events. Two pool and two college records fell at the hands of Trinity swimmers.

The first defeat of the season came at the meet with Amherst at Hartford, the latter winning by a score of 48-28.

Connecticut State provided the second defeat with a score of 50-27 at the Storrs pool. Although the Connecticut team won by a large margin of points, the teams were closely matched, many events being won by inches only.

In the next meet Worcester went down to defeat, conceding Trinity's fifth victory by a score of 40-28. Trinity's opponents took but one event, the 400-yard relay.

The culmination of the season was marked with disappointment when the Blue and Gold team suffered its third defeat in the contest with Wesleyan at Hartford. The latter won by a score of 49-28. Mowbray set a new record of 57.7 seconds for the 100-yard dash in this meet.

Baseball

While it did not distinguish itself in any particular respect, the 1933 baseball team was nevertheless a successful one. Out of ten games played, five were won and five lost—an uninspiring record, perhaps, but one marked by the double defeat of Wesleyan at the hands of the Blue and Gold—a fact which is always pleasing to Trinity followers. Two games were close enough to be heartbreakers, ending with Amherst and Massachusetts State, respectively, one run ahead. Coach Wright was faced with the difficult problem of reorganizing his infield, which had been weakened by the loss of Steve Elliott and Joe Fontana, two valuable veterans. This weakness, coupled with a pronounced slump in batting strength, proved the chief worry of the 1933 season.

At the half-way mark, four out of five games had been lost, and the outlook was most discouraging. But the new infield combination of Kearns, Kelly, Marquet and Bockwinkel began to click, and bats were swung with a much higher degree of efficiency. That this team snapped out of its slump to win four out of the remaining five contests, thus reversing the order, is much to the credit of coach and players alike. Bill Henebry, who had started none too strongly, hit his stride and began to turn in winning performances. Houlihan, a veteran, and Hall, a promising freshman, also acquitted themselves well on the mound. Captain Bockwinkel again demonstrated his right to the opinion of many that he was the classiest first baseman to ever play on Trinity Field. Jack Amport, a sophomore with little experience behind the bat, developed with almost phenomenal rapidity and proved to be the "iron man" of the team, performing in every game for the full time. The outfield was shifted frequently with an eye toward balancing the batting strength of the team, and Herb Bell, Breck Armstrong and Tom Carey all finished their diamond careers with creditable performances.

The annual series with Wesleyan provided most satisfaction to Trinity players and fans. In the first game at Middletown a slugging spree was in order. Wesleyan used five pitchers and Trinity three, but Trinity made up for its lack of pitchers with superior batting strength in the manner of four home runs. The final score of 16 to 7 was attained after a near-record period of elapsed playing time. The second game at Hartford was a repetition in softer tones, with the Blue and Gold victorious, 8 to 5. The series with Connecticut State resulted in an even break. The Storrs broadcasting station relayed a 12 to 4 defeat for Trinity to a disappointed world, and our pitching staff, microphone conscious, blew up to a man. Fortunately, Memorial Day and Hartford soil witnessed a reversal of form, and the Staters bowed humbly, taking six runs and yielding eight. The annual Alumni game was rained out—some hope forever—and so the season ended three weeks ahead of schedule.

Tennis

Paced by the three veterans remaining from the previous year's team, Mowbray, Craig and Jackson, the 1933 net contingent rose to even greater heights than they had the season before and won five out of seven matches to set up a new record for future Trinity teams to aim at. Stein, Greenberg and Shaw were the newcomers on the squad, and Mowbray served as captain.

In the opening contest the Blue and Gold racquetmen made an auspicious start by whitewashing Clark University, 9-0. The second match was also a victory for Trinity, this time by a 5-4 score over the Bowdoin squad. Mowbray, Craig and Stein, the top-ranking Trinity stars, all won their singles matches to swing the margin against the Maine college.

A scheduled contest with Amherst was washed out by a rain storm and then a powerful Williams aggregation halted the Trinity winning streak with a decisive 9-0 triumph. The Purple, led by Horton, one of the leading college netmen in the country, had too much strength for Trinity. It did not take the Trinity players long to recover, however, for they swept over Connecticut State, 9-0, and followed this with a highly gratifying 6-3 conquest of Wesleyan. Captain Mowbray and Craig starred, the former upsetting Allen after three extended sets in the feature contest.

On May 22, 23, 24, Mowbray and Craig represented Trinity at the New England Intercollegiates at Chestnut Hill, Mass. They were victorious over Twichell and Clifton of Amherst in the initial round of play in the doubles, but were put out in the second round by Smith and Roundey of Dartmouth. At the annual banquet held in Boston preceding the Championship play, Edgar H. Craig of the Trinity team was elected secretary-treasurer of the New England Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis Association for the year. It is interesting to note that this body was founded and organized here at Trinity College.

The last two matches of the season were divided. Wesleyan turned the tables to win 6-3, an exact reversal of the previous result; but the Trinity men came back to close out their campaign with a 4-1 victory over the Worcester Tech. team. This fifth triumph was won despite the illness of Captain Mowbray and the calling off of four of the individual matches due to a thunder shower. Craig, subbing in the number one position for Mowbray, Jackson and Shaw excelled.

Track

A setback at the hands of a strong Union College squad in the initial meet of the campaign was the only barrier which prevented the 1933 trackmen from duplicating their undefeated record of the previous season. As it was, the team swept through its remaining three dual engagements and placed fifth in a field of ten colleges at the New England Intercollegiates. Several records also fell before the onslaught of brilliant individual performances during the season. Captain Swanson broke a mark of nineteen years standing when he negotiated the half-mile in 2.2 3/5. Thayer, undefeated in two seasons of competition in his specialty, won the javelin title in the intercollegiate meet, setting up a new Trinity standard of 179 feet 3 1/2 inches; and Daut, captain-elect for this spring, twice equalled the college record of 26.2 for the low hurdles.

Union defeated Trinity rather handily in the seasonal opener with a 77-49 score. Outpointed in the field contests, the victors demonstrated a decided superiority in all of the running events to more than offset this disadvantage. The Trinity runners, especially the distance men, appeared in need of a good deal more conditioning. However, at the intercollegiate games the next week, a picked Blue and Gold squad showed a complete reversal of form, and, by amassing 16 points, gave the best showing a Trinity track representation has yet made in this annual competition. In addition to Thayer's record-smashing feat, Kellam, the best high-jumper Trinity has ever had, tied for first place with Chase of Mass. State College in this event. Daut also excelled by taking a very close second in the high hurdles.

The next dual meet was with Tufts and resulted in an easy 77-49 triumph for Trinity, despite the fact that the losers had edged out the Blue and Gold for fourth place at the New England championships the week previous. Daut and Kellam exhibited great versatility and Gladwin starred in the distance runs.

Massachusetts State was even more decisively trounced in the third encounter by an 87-39 count. Kellam won three events and Daut two. Swanson and Harris featured in the running events.

The final meet of the year again found Trinity on the long end of the score, this time with an 86-40 margin. Connecticut State furnished the opposition. Once more Daut and Kellam carried off top-honors. Daut captured three firsts and Kellam won two, with both men picking up many points in additional events. Thayer and Swanson, seniors, finished in spectacular fashion, and Grant, a freshman, showed his class as a quarter-miler.

Prospects this spring are very bright with most of the men back who have been responsible for the fine two-year record of seven victories in eight meets. Captain Daut, Kellam and Warner can be counted on to register many points by virtue of their all-around prowess. Harris, Gladwin and R. Lau will form a strong nucleus for the distance runs. Alexander, Mowbray and O. Johnson in the field events, and S. Smith, Grant and Hazenbush, runners, complete the large list of lettermen on hand to bolster Coach Oosting's promising squad.

INFORMAL SPORTS

Cross-Country

Although it is not a recognized sport, cross-country running has added considerably to the interest of the fall athletic program at Trinity. Intramural runs have been held annually for the past three years, but it was not until 1932 that a regular team was formed to participate in intercollegiate contests. Under the direction of Ray Oosting, Director of Athletics, the 1933 team finished a season that may be called exceptionally good in view of the fact that it was the largest and most rigorous yet undertaken and that the schedule included schools at which intercollegiate cross-country was already well established.

Four meets were held last fall, three of which were won by the Blue and Gold team composed of Gladwin, Mountford, Castagno, Bauer, French, Lane, and Athearn.

On October 20 the team won its first meet from St. Stephens at Annandale, N. Y., by a score of 23-33, on a course of three and a half miles length. Gladwin finished in second place, Mountford third, Castagno fourth, French sixth, and Bauer seventh.

A strong Connecticut State team ran away with the second meet by a score of 15-40. The two teams ran on the 3.4 miles course at Storrs on October 24 in a pouring rain. The first five places were captured by Connecticut runners, Gladwin finishing sixth and Mountford seventh.

On November 3 the Wesleyan harriers met defeat in our first run against that team. The meet was held on our home course of 2.5 miles length. The score was 20-35. Gladwin took first place with a time of 14 minutes, 4½ seconds. Mountford, Bauer, and French finished in third, fourth, and fifth places respectively.

The last run of the season was also held at home, on November 10, the Blue and Gold runners edging out the Coast Guard team by a score of 26-29. Mountford finished first in the time of 14 minutes, 12¼ seconds. Gladwin took third place and French, fourth.

All members of this year's team but two, Gladwin and Lane, were Freshmen, so that, despite the loss of Gladwin, who is a veteran of two years' standing, the prospects look bright for next year's season.

Soccer

Although soccer is still an unrecognized sport here, many fellows of considerable ability came out for the team, and the sport this fall enjoyed its greatest success since it was started at Trinity.

The team lost only one game, winning four. The season was ushered in with a victory over Hartford High School in a closely played contest which gave the soccer team's followers a pessimistic outlook for the remainder of the schedule. When, however, it defeated a strong Massachusetts State Team, which had lost only two games in three years, the team proved that it was capable of playing a fine brand of ball. Trinity completely outplayed the State eleven, much to the surprise of everyone. The team then conquered a scrappy but totally inexperienced Connecticut State Team. Although this was no surprise to the Trinity followers, it apparently was a shock for the Storrs men, as it was clear that they fully expected a victory.

In perhaps the most interesting game of the season Trinity won from a powerful Wesleyan team that had defeated many good elevens during the year. Trinity scored a goal three minutes after the game had started, but the Cardinals were not to be denied, and when the half had ended they were on the long end of a 2-1 score. In spite of the fact that they outplayed our team during the second half, Wesleyan was unable to find the net again. With only seven minutes to be played Wesleyan was still leading and a Blue and Gold victory seemed a long way off. But in the remaining minutes Trinity scored two more goals and won a well deserved victory by the score of 3-2. In the final game of the season Trinity lost to a superior Amherst eleven which used a seven man attack that proved unstoppable.

There were two notable factors in the soccer team's playing this year. The players cooperated at all times so that there was no one man on whom the team depended; and there was a desire to scrap for the ball which is so often lacking in players.

The team will miss Liddell, Burnside, and Childs, who played an outstanding game at goal all season, but with Mowbray, Warren, McGarvey, O'Brien, Banks, Motten, Warner, and several players from the freshmen squad back, there is a large enough nucleus to build an even stronger team next year.

Squash

During the past year squash has gained perhaps more ground at Trinity than in any other year since its introduction here but a short time ago. The six courts were in use almost constantly, and a record number of students took up the sport for the first time this season. An informal team was organized on a more efficient and more highly developed scale than ever before, and this team met with unusual success. Trinity finished second in the "B" division of the Connecticut Valley Squash Racquets League, numbering among defeated opponents teams from M. I. T., the University Club, the New Haven Lawn Club, the Hartford Golf Club, and the Pittsfield Country Club.

For the second time in three years the Intercollegiate tournament was held at Trinity. Representatives from Yale, Harvard, Princeton, M. I. T., Dartmouth, and Amherst were entered in the tournament, which was won by Keeler Sargent of Harvard. Mason, Hollins, and Hall, the three Trinity entrants, were all eliminated in the first round. Hollins was elected President of the Intercollegiate Squash Racquets Association for the coming year.

In addition to the first team, which met with such great success, and which was made up of Robert L. Hollins, John A. Mason, Hoffman Benjamin, Bayley Hall, and Robert Bainbridge, a "B" team was organized to compete in the third division of the Connecticut Valley League. While this team was not successful in winning a majority of its matches, nevertheless the increasing number of enthusiasts gives hope of as good a first team and a better second group for next season. Certainly squash has made a place for itself as one of the more popular sports at Trinity.

Trinity College

Hartford, Connecticut

The date 1823 marked the founding of Washington College. The name was later changed to Trinity College since there had been several other institutions named in honor of our first President. Although it was founded by Episcopalians, the charter of Trinity College forbids the application of any religious tests to professor or student.

Since its founding Trinity College has remained purposely a small institution. The value of personal and individual contacts between the professor and the student can be compared favorably with the opportunity for research offered by our great Universities. The importance of the small college, or the small group in our educational system is emphasized by the adoption recently of the "college" or "house" plan by several universities.

It is the aim of Trinity College to provide a curriculum which will lead to a well-balanced, cultural education. Some courses are required, others optional, in order to prepare students in a special field and at the same time to insure them a well-rounded course. The record of graduates of Trinity College in the various graduate and professional schools attest the wisdom of this program.

With recent additions to the physical equipment, together with a well-trained faculty, Trinity College offers the prospective student a cultural education together with specialization in a particular field, aided by the individuality and intimacy found only in a small college.
