Conferring of Honorary Degrees

JULIETA CASTELLANOS

Doctor of Humane Letters

Presented by Dario A. Euraque,

Professor of History and International Studies

Growing up in the sugar fields of rural Honduras, you yearned for a life in academia. Before following that dream, you promised your parents you would “not forget” the problems of everyday life. You have spent a lifetime making good on that promise.

A sociologist by training, in 1979 you became a professor at your country’s largest university, the National Autonomous University of Honduras in Tegucigalpa, known as UNAH. You showed you did “not forget” when you wrote the book Honduras: The State of Corruption. And you didn’t let others forget, when, as a regular newspaper columnist for The Herald Journal, you shed light on the scourge of drug trafficking and rampant corruption that engulfed your country. You founded the Violence Observatory, a center for crime statistics at UNAH. You also directed the University Institute on Democracy, Peace and Security. In 2009, you were named president of UNAH, the same year you became a commissioner of the Honduran Truth and Reconciliation Commission. This is the group that was tasked with clarifying the political crisis that led to the expulsion of then-President Manuel Zelaya Rosales from Honduras to Costa Rica. Your work there helped to heal the wounds dividing the Honduran people, while at the same time making recommendations to help prevent similar crises from happening again.

You knew that Honduras could be a dangerous place to “not forget.” And then, in October 2011, tragedy struck. Your youngest son, Rafael Alejandro Vargas, and his friend were murdered by the Honduran national police on their way home from a birthday party. In that turn of events—where others may have been cowered into forgetting—you channeled your sorrow to become that most fearsome of international forces: aggrieved activist mother.

Since then, you have persevered, waging a most public war with the drug cartels and corrupt police officers, speaking out against their grip on government institutions. You have pushed relentlessly to create an international commission to oversee a purge of the police in Honduras. You have quarreled with your country’s president in the media over his efforts to fight crime. You have become a powerful voice for change, helping to organize independent groups, outside of the government, to keep up the pressure for meaningful reform.

All of this you have done—and continue to do—at great personal cost. You are now accompanied everywhere you go by a team of bodyguards. You have been quoted as saying, “I am going to continue this fight, even if I lose my life along the way.”

Your courage has been recognized by the United States Department of State, which honored you with an International Women of Courage Award in 2013. The award was presented by Secretary of State John Kerry and First Lady Michelle Obama. Today, Trinity College is proud to honor you as well.

For speaking truth to power, for fighting for justice, security, and human rights, and for the bravery you have shown to “not forget”—to never forget—I have the honor of presenting you, Julieta Castellanos, for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

ERIC ROY FOSSUM

Doctor of Science

Presented by David J. Ahlgren '64, Karl W. Hallden Professor of Engineering

Escorted by John D. Mertens, Professor of Engineering

Because of your work, we can record the important events of our lives on our digital cameras and smartphones, including the occasion of this Commencement. As one of the world's leading experts in solid-state image sensors, you are best known for the invention of the CMOS image sensor, a "camera-on-a-chip" used in almost all cell-phone cameras, Web cams, many digital cameras, and medical imaging.

As a professor with the Thayer School of Engineering at Dartmouth College, where you have been since 2010, you are teaching and researching the next generation of solid-state image sensors for gigapixel cameras and for 3D image capture. You also coordinate the Thayer School's Ph.D. Innovation Program—the first of its kind, which addresses the nation's need for engineers with both technical and entrepreneurial expertise.

Born and raised in Connecticut, you came to Trinity College as a member of the Class of 1979 and quickly distinguished yourself as an exceptional scholar. A physics and engineering major, you were a President's Fellow in Physics and received the Senior Physics Prize. You also put your technology skills to good use at Trinity as a part-time systems analyst and programmer in the Admissions and Financial Aid departments. After earning your M.S. and Ph.D. in engineering and applied science from Yale University, you joined the electrical engineering faculty at Columbia University.

In 1990, you became part of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory at the California Institute of Technology. It was there that you developed the camera-on-a-chip technology when asked to miniaturize the cameras that go on spacecraft. Seeing that this technology had commercial applications, you co-founded Photobit Corporation in 1995 to bring your invention to the public sector. You served in several top management roles within the company, including CEO.

From 2005 to 2007, you were chairman and CEO of Siimpel Corporation, developing MEMS-based camera modules with auto-focus and shutter functions for cell phones. From 2008 to 2013, you consulted with Samsung Electronics on 3D image sensors and strategic issues.

Your body of work is most impressive, including more than 260 technical papers and 150 U.S. patents. You are also co-founder, treasurer, and past president of the International Image Sensor Society, a Fellow member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, a senior member of the Optical Society of America, and a member of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers. You also serve on the Board of Directors of the National Academy of Inventors.

In 2011, you were inducted into the National Inventors Hall of Fame. In 2012, you were selected as a Charter Fellow of the National Academy of Inventors, and in 2013, you were elected to the National Academy of Engineering. Later this year, you will receive the Wilbur Cross Medal of the Yale Graduate School Alumni Association. Other honors include the National Science Foundation Presidential Young Investigator Award, the NASA Exceptional Achievement Medal, and the Photographic Society of America's Progress Medal for Outstanding Contribution to Photography.

You also have given back to Trinity. You have served as a member of the Board of Fellows and the Trinity Engineering Advisory Committee and recently joined the Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics Advisory Board.

In light of your extensive contributions to technology and your informed leadership of tomorrow's brightest inventors and entrepreneurs, I have the honor of presenting you, Eric Roy Fossum, for the degree of Doctor of Science, honoris causa.

JAMES F. JONES, JR.

Doctor of Humane Letters

Presented by Shaun M. Stuer '13

The philosopher Rousseau wrote, "Everything we do not have at our birth and which we need when we are grown is given us by education." As a scholar, teacher, and administrator, you have dedicated your life to education and to all that it brings to the lives of young people.

Every teacher begins as a student. Your own education includes a diploma with high honors from Georgia Military Academy, a bachelor of arts with honors from the University of Virginia, a master of arts degree from Emory University, a Certificat from the Sorbonne, and a master of philosophy and doctoral degrees from Columbia University.

You then advanced through the faculty ranks at Washington University in Saint Louis and were promoted in record time to professor of romance languages and literatures. Your next positions were at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, where you became a professor in the humanities and commenced your administrative career in earnest, serving as vice provost of the university and dean of Dedman College of Humanities and Sciences. From there, you were chosen president of Kalamazoo College in Michigan, and in 2004, you became Trinity College's 21st president.

During your years here, you have led numerous major initiatives. The Long Walk has been restored to its original 19th-century beauty and its buildings transformed into 21st-century living, office, and classroom spaces. Trinity Commons has been completely renovated and turned into performance and office space. Vernon Social has become a focal point of campus, the Crescent Street Townhouses provide new housing options, and the Gates Quad has transformed a campus crossroad into a welcoming, parklike landscape. And the Chapel, a building close to your heart, has undergone a number of improvements. You have worked tirelessly to improve Trinity's fiscal outlook, including significant Annual Fund advances. You initiated the Cornerstone and Legacy campaigns, the largest philanthropic effort in Trinity's history, which enabled the College to enhance academic excellence, increase access for students of promise, and invigorate the campus. You also added a substantial number of young scholar-teachers to the ranks of the faculty, a move that will ensure Trinity's academic strength into the future.

You have been remarkably busy on behalf of the College, and yet you have made time to listen to the concerns of individual students, faculty, staff, parents, and alumni. You also remained close to your roots as a teacher by continuing to conduct an undergraduate seminar. You have been a concerned participant in the civic affairs of Hartford, and happily you have also been able to enjoy, support, and play the organ music that is such an important part of your life.

You place great value on traditions that tie the Trinity community together, and so you revived the historic Convocation ceremony at the opening of the school year. There, you concluded your speech to every incoming class with these lines from Apollinaire, " 'Come to the edge,' he said. They said, 'We can't. We are afraid.' 'Come to the edge,' he said. They said, 'We can't. We will fall.' 'Come to the edge,' he said. They came, he pushed them, and they flew." You have gently pushed a generation of students, faculty, and staff to find the courage to fly, to reach their full potential, and to go beyond what they thought possible.

For your exceptional career as teacher, scholar, and leader in the field of education, and above all for your devoted service to Trinity College, I have the honor of presenting you, James F. Jones, Jr., for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

VERNON E. JORDAN, JR.

Doctor of Laws

Presented by Edward Cabot, Adjunct Professor of Public Policy and Law

A son of Georgia, you grew up in segregated Atlanta during the 1950s. After graduating with honors from David T. Howard High School, you continued your education at DePauw University, and in 1960, you earned a law degree at Howard University.

You then returned to Atlanta to join the law office of Donald L. Hollowell, considered by many as Georgia's chief civil rights attorney. While you were there, the firm sued the University of Georgia for racial discrimination in its admission policies. That suit ended in 1961 with a federal court order demanding the admission of two African Americans, Charlayne Hunter and Hamilton E. Holmes. In an act of courage, you personally escorted the two past a group of angry white protesters to the registrar's office.

You have been a trusted presidential adviser, chairing the Clinton Presidential Transition Team in 1992. But that was by no means your only presidential appointment. You have also served on the President's Advisory Committee for the Points of Light Initiative Foundation, the Secretary of State's Advisory Committee on South Africa, the Advisory Council on Social Security, the Presidential Clemency Board, the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, and the Council of the White House Conference "To Fulfill These Rights."

Since 2000, you have turned your considerable talent to the financial advisory and asset management firm Lazard Frères in New York, where you are a senior managing director and work with a wide variety of industries. You also continue to serve as senior counsel with the law firm of Akin Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld, where you were senior executive partner.

Other positions you have held during your career include president and chief executive officer of the National Urban League, executive director of the United Negro College Fund, director of the Voter Education Project of the Southern Regional Council, attorney-consultant for the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity, and Georgia field director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

You are a member of the bars of Arkansas, the District of Columbia, and Georgia, as well as the U.S. Supreme Court. Your professional memberships include the American Bar Association, the National Bar Association, and the Council on Foreign Relations. Businesses and organizations that have tapped your expertise for their boards include American Express, Howard University, the Institute of International Education, the Xerox Corporation, and the International Advisory Board of Barrick Gold. You also are engaged in civic and community programs, including your role as former president of The Economic Club of Washington, D.C.

In 2001, the NAACP awarded you with The Spingarn Medal, the highest honor it bestows each year, for your achievements as a lawyer, adviser to presidents, and champion of human and civil rights. You are also the author of two books: Vernon Can Read!: A Memoir and Make It Plain: Standing Up and Speaking Out.

For your lifetime of leadership, your willingness to "stand up and speak out," and your exemplary career, I have the honor of presenting you, Vernon E. Jordan, Jr., for the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

PAUL E. RAETHER

Doctor of Humane Letters

Presented by Elissa Raether Kovas '93 and Alexa Raether Maddock '96

Escorted by Borden W. Painter '58, H'95, President and Professor of History, Emeritus

The word alumnus is derived from the Latin verb "alere," which means "to nourish." There could be no more relevant word to describe your involvement in the history of Trinity than alumnus in its fullest, deepest sense. Your foresight, determination, strategic vision, and generosity have strengthened our institution in countless ways during your time as chairman of the Board of Trustees. You graduated from Trinity in 1968, where you majored in history, were a member of Psi Upsilon, and participated in many sports, including soccer, baseball, and skiing. Following service in the U.S. Navy and after receiving your M.B.A. from the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration at Dartmouth College, you began a successful career in finance. Starting with Reynolds Securities, you went on to be an executive with Texasgulf Corporation and Blyth Eastman Dillon & Company. In 1980, you began your association with the global investment firm Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co., where you became a member in 1986. You have served on Trinity's Board of Trustees since 1989 and have been the College's longest-serving board chairman, holding that position since 2002. During these 25 years, you have been an invaluable guide to the College's presidents, and your love for Trinity has been an inspiration to fellow board members and leadership volunteers.

You have been recognized with the Eigenbrodt Cup, the Gary McQuaid Award, and the President's Leadership Medal, the highest honors given by the College's alumni organization. As a result of your generosity, you and your wife, Wendy, have been included on the Trinity Wall of Honor. In turn, you are the founder of the Chair's Circle, a program that recognizes leadership-level annual donors. You are among the most philanthropic of the College's alumni, and your gifts have been given in conjunction with your family, including your wife and your three daughters: Elissa, Class of 1993; Alexa, Class of 1996; and Cara, Class of 2001. Your support has made possible the completion of the Raether Library and Information Technology Center, five Raether-endowed faculty chairs, significant faculty development initiatives, the Dream Camp summer program for Hartford children, a scholarship fund in memory of your father, Arnold Raether, and other scholarship funds. Beyond these highly visible projects, you have often stepped in quietly and anonymously to provide key gifts that have been of critical importance to the College.

In addition to your extensive involvement with Trinity, you serve on the Board of Overseers of the Amos Tuck School and the board of the U.S. Ski and Snowboard Foundation. You also are president of the Institute for Sports Medicine Research. In your role as chairman of Trinity's board, you have made certain that all voices felt heard and welcome, you have been a tireless advocate for the College, you have been courageous in your decisions, and you have done all this with a sense of humor. You are an alumnus indeed, a living example of the word's roots in the concept of nourishment; your love for the College has brought both depth and breadth to the opportunities we offer our students. As your own experience attests, there is no more valuable preparation for life than a liberal arts education. Your leadership has ensured that generations of Trinity students will continue to enjoy its benefits, and we are grateful beyond measure.

For your extraordinary service to your alma mater, for your generosity, and for your wise leadership, I have the honor of presenting you, Paul E. Raether, for the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

KATHERINE A. COURIC

Doctor of Letters

Presented by John P. Molner '85

Escorted by Robin L. Sheppard M'76, Professor of Physical Education and Associate Director of Athletics

An award-winning journalist, a best-selling author, and a tireless advocate for cancer research and awareness, you, Katie Couric, have been at the forefront of American culture for nearly three decades.

You are the host of Katie, a daily syndicated talk show. In November 2013, you joined Yahoo as its first global news anchor. This spring has seen the release of Fed Up, a documentary about the alarming spread of childhood obesity, for which you served as narrator and executive producer.

Courage is a hallmark of good journalism, and you have never shied away from asking the tough questions. Your skills as an interviewer and reporter have garnered many accolades, including an Alfred I. duPont Award for your groundbreaking interview with vice presidential candidate Sarah Palin in 2010 and an Emmy for Outstanding Interview for your profile of Captain Chesley "Sully" Sullenberger, titled "Saving Flight 1549."

From the terrorist attacks of September 11 to the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, you have covered the most important news stories of the last three decades. You reported on the Columbine shooting, the bombing in Oklahoma City, and the earthquake in Haiti. Over the years, you covered eight Olympic Games, the funeral of Princess Diana, and the royal wedding of Prince William and Kate Middleton in 2011.

You began your broadcast journalism career in 1979 as a desk assistant at ABC News in Washington, D.C., following your graduation with honors from the University of Virginia. You quickly made a name for yourself, and 10 years later you became the deputy Pentagon correspondent for NBC News, and later, the national correspondent for the Today show. For 15 years, you were the co-anchor of that program, bringing it to number one and keeping it there. You then became the first solo female anchor of an evening newscast when you took the helm of the CBS Evening News. You later became special correspondent with ABC News, contributing to all broadcasts and anchoring primetime specials.

In addition to your work as an anchor and broadcast news reporter, you are the author of a New York Times bestseller, The Best Advice I Ever Got: Lessons from Extraordinary Lives, and two children's books, The Brand New Kid and The Blue Ribbon Day.

When you lost your husband, Jay Monahan, to colon cancer in 1998, you met grief with action, becoming a public leader in the fight against cancer. In 2000, you launched the National Colorectal Cancer Research Alliance with the Entertainment Industry Foundation and cancer activist Lilly Tartikoff. The Alliance funds cutting-edge research and generates awareness about the lifesaving value of screening. Following your on-air colonoscopy in 2000, scientists documented a 20 percent increase in the number of colonoscopies performed in the United States, a phenomenon that researchers dubbed "The Couric Effect." You established the Jay Monahan Center for Gastrointestinal Health at New York-Presbyterian Hospital and co-founded Stand Up To Cancer, an organization that has raised nearly $280 million to accelerate research and get new treatments to patients faster.

In honor of your exemplary career in broadcast journalism and your unwavering commitment to cancer research and awareness, I have the honor of presenting you, Katherine A. Couric, for the degree of Doctor of Letters, honoris causa.

XIII
Charge to the Graduating Class

PRESIDENT JONES

XIV
*Alma Mater:
'Neath the Elms*

(arranged by Robert E. Smith, Composer-in-Residence)

THE TRINITY PIPES

'Neath the elms of our old Trinity,
'Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity,
No more shall we meet,
Our classmates to greet,
'Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

College days are from care and sorrow free.
And oft will we seek in memory
Those days that are past,
Far too joyous to last,
'Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

'Neath the elms of our old Trinity.
'Neath the elms of our dear old Trinity
Oh it's seldom we'll meet,
In the moonlight so sweet,
'Neath the elms of our old Trinity.

Then we'll sing to our old Trinity,
To our dear old Alma Mater, Trinity;
We're together today,
And tomorrow away,
Far away from our old Trinity.

On the hills of our old Trinity,
In the halls of our dear old Trinity,
There is bright merry cheer,
There are friends true and dear,
In the halls of our old Trinity.

XV
Benediction

Graduation Pledge

The Graduation Pledge is a voluntary pledge that states,

"I pledge to explore and take into account the social and environmental consequences of any job I consider and will try to improve these aspects of any organizations for which I work."

Started in 1985, the Pledge has been instituted at over 100 schools throughout the country. Trinity College is the first and only school in Connecticut to have instituted the Pledge, and since 2001 over 3,000 Trinity graduates have taken it.

The Academic Regalia

In 1895 a commission of leading American educators established the Intercollegiate Code pertaining to the academic costume. The color of the lining of the hood is that of the college or university conferring the degree. The edging of the hood and the tassel of the cap indicate the subject to which the degree pertains, in accordance with the following official designations for colleges and universities in the United States:

Agriculture	Maize
Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Commerce, Accountancy, Business	Drab
Dentistry	Lilac
Economics	Copper
Education	Light Blue
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts, including Architecture	Brown
Forestry	Russet
Home Economics	Maroon
Journalism	Crimson
Law	Purple
Library Science	Lemon
Medicine	Green
Music	Pink
Nursing	Apricot
Oratory (Speech)	Silver Gray
Pharmacy	Olive Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Physical Education	Sage Green
Public Administration, including Foreign Service	Peacock Blue
Public Health	Salmon Pink
Science	Golden Yellow
Social Work	Citron
Theology	Scarlet
Veterinary Science	Gray

Trinity College differs from the above list because the colors of Trinity hoods were established prior to the formulation of the Code. Following are the colors of the academic hoods symbolizing the honorary degrees conferred by Trinity:

Doctor of Canon Law Crimson, lined with black	Doctor of Laws Scarlet, lined with dark blue
Doctor of Divinity Scarlet, lined with black	Doctor of Music White, lined with pink
Doctor of Fine Arts White, lined with white and a red chevron	Doctor of Sacred Theology Scarlet, lined with blue and a gold chevron
Doctor of Humane Letters Scarlet, lined with purple	Doctor of Science Black, lined with light blue
Doctor of Letters Scarlet, lined with russet brown	Master of Music Black, lined with pink
Doctor of Humanities White, lined with dark crimson

The Owen Morgan Mace

The mace, which precedes the president in academic processions and is a symbol of his executive powers, was presented to Trinity in 1950 in memory of Owen Morgan, Class of 1906, who served his Alma Mater as a member of the Board of Fellows, as a Trustee, and as treasurer of the College. Historically, maces were first used as weapons in warfare and later became a symbol of the sovereign and his power. One of the first known uses of a mace by an educational institution was at Cambridge University in the thirteenth century. Today a number of colleges use the mace as a symbol of authority and of the power invested in the president by the faculty and trustees. The Morgan Mace is made of ebony, signifying endurance; bronze, meaning power; and gold, symbolizing dignity and glory. It is 44 inches long and weighs 20 pounds. The fluted staff represents the various components of an enduring education. It is bound by a gold ribbon, inscribed with the names of every Trinity president. On the head, or urn, of the mace are six seals of the sources of life and growth of this College: the Great Seal of the United States; the Seal of the State of Connecticut; the Charter Oak; the original seal of the City of Hartford; the Washington Coat of Arms; and the seal of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut. Surmounting the Gothic urn is the Trinity College seal crowned by an eagle about to take flight, symbolizing the freedom and power of an educated person.

The Presidential Collar

The collar, which is worn on ceremonial occasions, is the visible symbol of the president's high office and authority. The collar was presented to the College in 1953 by former President G. Keith Funston, Class of 1932, in memory of his grandmother, Maria Briggs Keith. The chain symbolically links modern higher education with the universities of yesteryear. The golden seal of the Trinity President hangs from the collar which is fashioned of 20 replicas of the Trinity Elms and seven silver seals including the six reproduced in the mace, and the Trinity College seal superimposed on a triangle representing the religious foundations of the College crowned by a sun signifying enlightenment. In the lower corners of the triangle are the Book and a pair of student's hands extended to receive it, symbolizing the desire of youth to receive an education.
