PREFATORY NOTE

---

It was formerly the custom to print in each number of the annual catalogue the names of the winners of the several prizes for the previous decade or two. This custom was discontinued a few years ago; the only names that now appear in the catalogue are those of the students to whom the prizes were awarded during the preceding academic year. It was, therefore, thought that a compilation describing the various prizes that have been offered, together with a complete list of the prize-men, would be both serviceable to the college and of interest to its graduates and former students. In a small way, perhaps, it may also contribute something to the frequently debated question of whether the high-stand and prize-men in college succeed as well in after life as their non-prizewinning fellows.

The list has been made up from annual catalogues and reliance has been made chiefly upon the data therein contained. A few errors have been found and corrected, but it is probable that a number of others have escaped notice. It is earnestly requested that anyone noting an error or omission in the present list will send a correction or note of the fact to the Librarian of the College.

EXPLANATION

The names of graduates are followed by the last two figures of the year of their graduation.

The names of non-graduates are followed by the phrase "of the Class of _____"

An asterisk (*) after a name indicates that the student is still an undergraduate.

PRIZE VERSION DECLAMATIONS, 1863-1899

From 1863 until 1899 a prize was awarded on the following or like conditions:

"There must be six competitors, two from the Senior Class, two from the Juniors, and two from the Sophomores. The two members of each class whose rank is highest in the studies of the preceding year in the department of English will be appointed competitors. Passages from Latin authors, distributed by lot and then translated into English and submitted to the Professor of Latin and the Professor of English, will be pronounced in public on an assigned day in May in the presence of a committee of award on the delivery. The merits of the version as a translation and as an English composition, together with the merits of the delivery as a declamation, will have equal weight in determining the award of the prize."

"The prize-man of the year, if he be still a member of the College, will receive an appointment to pronounce an original version at the Prize Declamation of the following year, without being a candidate for the prize."

The prize was first offered by the Rev. George Scovill Malory, '58, professor from 1864 until 1872, and was continued by his associate and successor, the Rev. Edwin Emerson Johnson, '59, from 1867 until his death in 1883 Professor of English Literature. After Professor Johnson's death it was continued as a memorial to him by the Rev. Samuel Hart, '66.

FELLOWSHIPS

HENRY E. RUSSELL FELLOWSHIP, 1896

The H. E. Russell Fellowship, endowed by a legacy of $10,000 from Henry E. Russell, Esq., of New York, yields an annual income of about $500. It is awarded biennially, by vote of the Faculty, to a member of the graduating class who gives evidence of superior ability, and who engages to pursue an approved course of non-professional graduate study at Trinity College or at some foreign university. The incumbent holds the Fellowship for two years. The Russell Fellows have been:

Frederick MacDonald Goddard, '96
Woolsey McAlpine Johnson, '98
John Kay Clement, '00
Edmund Sawyer Merriam, '02
Bayard Quincy Morgan, '04
Frederick Augustus Grant Cowper, '06

MARY A. TERRY FELLOWSHIP, 1906

The Mary A. Terry Fellowship, endowed by a legacy from Miss Mary A. Terry, of Hartford, yields an annual income of about $600. It is awarded annually by the President, upon the recommendation of the Faculty, to a member of the graduating class who gives evidence of superior ability, and who engages to pursue an approved course of graduate study at Trinity College or at some other college or university approved by the Faculty. The incumbent holds the Fellowship for one year, and is known as the Mary A. Terry Fellow. The Terry Fellows have been:

Philip Everett Curtis, '06
Philip Dougherty, '07

HOLLAND PRIZE SCHOLARSHIPS, 1891

The Holland Scholarships, three in number, each having the probable annual value of $600, were endowed in 1890 by the legacy of Mrs. Frances J. Holland, of Hartford, in memory of her husband, the late Thomas Holland, Esq. It is provided in Mrs. Holland's will that the Faculty of the College shall each year designate the students who shall hold the scholarships, under such rules as they shall from time to time prescribe. The first conditions of their award were:

"The Scholarships will be severally awarded as prizes for the encouragement of work (1) in Philosophy, (2) in Philological Studies, and (3) in Mathematics and the Physical Sciences. The award will be made at the close of the Senior year, to members of the graduating class, candidates for a degree, who have attained an average of at least eight on a scale of ten in the aggregate standing for the entire course, under the following conditions:

"(1) The award of the Scholarship in Philosophy will be determined by the aggregate of marks attained during Junior and Senior years in Ethics, Metaphysics, History, and Political Science, and by a special examination on assigned work, in 1892 in Ethics and Metaphysics, and in 1893 in History and Political Science; the two elements to have equal weight in determining the award.

"(2) The award of the Scholarship in Philological Studies will be determined by the aggregate of marks attained during Junior and Senior Years in all philological and linguistic studies, and by a special examination on assigned work, in 1892 in English and Modern Languages, and in 1893 in Greek and Latin; the two elements to have equal weight in determining the award.

"(3) The award of the Scholarship in Mathematics and the Physical Sciences will be determined by the aggregate of marks attained during Junior and Senior years in Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics, and by a special examination on assigned work, in 1892 in Biology and Chemistry, and in 1893 in Mathematics and Physics; the two elements to have equal weight in determining the award.

"The holders of the Holland Scholarships will be under obligation to devote the whole of the academic year following their graduation to advanced work either here or elsewhere, as graduate students of the College, in the departments of study for which the
