VOLUME XXIII. of the TABLET begins with this issue. Never before in the history of its publication has the outlook for its future been brighter. Of the two designs which the board set out to accomplish this year, one has already been carried into effect and the other, in view of this fact, is on a fair road to success. The changes recently brought about in the manner of electing editors and of conducting the paper, cannot fail to prove highly beneficial, not only to the TABLET, but also to the college in general. The increase in the number of editors and the requirements for eligibility will undoubtedly serve to raise the standard of the TABLET's literary excellence, as well as to excite a deeper interest among the undergraduates. One thing, however, remains to be done before the success of the TABLET can be said to be assured, and that is, the paper must be "listed." Now, a paper, in order to be listed, must have a certain fixed number of subscribers, and the TABLET subscription list does not now contain the required number of names. It is absolutely necessary, then, to increase the number of subscribers. The only way in which to do this is to make every department of each issue as attractive and interesting as possible, and for this purpose the faithful work of all the undergraduates cannot be more than sufficient. We wish to urge, then, upon every member of the college the necessity of his doing all that lies within his power to ensure the success of his college journal. If every man shows a deep interest and contributes his best work, there is no doubt that the TRINITY TABLET will soon occupy a prominent position among collegiate publications.

TIME rolls ever onward! Trinity College has again opened her doors to receive her many sons—some of them we have seen before, while others are now for the first time entering collegiate halls. To all, however, we extend a warm and hearty welcome; to the ever important Senior, who with lordly dignity conducts himself as if the college could not do without him, whose shoulders are weighed down with many an influential office, and whose honors and titles would fill a volume; to the happy Junior who has just become an upper-class man but whose extra "cuts" separate him widely from the sometime nearer Sophomores, and who is, above all, so polite to Freshmen that it would be well for him to join the German Club before he loses all his courtesy; to the Sophomore, who bears with good grace the high office of the executive in the College Court Martial but who is continually worried for fear his younger brothers will be "fresh;" to the Freshman also, who has just left "home and mother" and has now for the first time been thrown upon the world to fight his little battles. All of them, indeed, we are happy to welcome to Trinity and may this year dawn and close as an unclouded day in their lives.

THE foot ball season has fairly begun and Trinity has the best outlook that it has had for a long time, but to attain success the college, as a whole, must take greater interest in the subject.

The situation is this: of the sixteen men who played last year all but four have returned and a very large number of good men have come in this year. Therefore, as far as the number of men go, the college has nothing to ask. Yet three important requirements for a good team must be observed. First, all those men who are physically competent should go out and play on the consolidated or wherever the captain puts them. Second, the men should train; and those men, especially, who are chosen for the eleven or for substitutes should pay the greatest attention to their training, should obey their captain, and work with a will, conscious that the foot ball interests for the season depend upon their individual preparation. Third, every man in college should contribute according to his income, and surely every man can pay something for the support of the team. If these three suggestions are thoroughly carried out we venture to predict, nay, we assure the college that the coming season will be one which will reflect great honor on the team and the college.

ELSEWHERE we print an account of the week spent by Mr. Coleman's guests at Camp Trinity last summer. It is well nigh impossible to describe the atmosphere of open-handed hospitality which pervaded the whole encampment, and which was personally extended to all present. Certainly no other college can boast of such a reunion, nor can they claim such an alumnus. It is not our purpose, however, to laud his praises, for every one surely knows his worth and appreciates his great value to the college, but one thing, indeed, we must notice. Mr. Coleman's personal supervision of all he undertook for his guests, his keen interest in every one of them, and in all their pleasures, was a peculiar charm of the whole affair. Every excursion was headed by him, every base-ball match was either participated in or witnessed by him, and every outburst of boyish fun seemed his particular delight. In short, he was "one of us," and we shall never forget him.

His generous offer to the base-ball team next spring needs no word of comment from us. All we can say is, that it was just like him. To his brother-in-law, too, Mr. Archibald Rogers, the college owes a debt of gratitude it cannot easily repay. By his kindness prizes were offered to the winners of the boat races and to the best base-ball player on the nine, which naturally added greatly to the general interest and entertainment. On the whole, the undergraduates and alumni cannot express too warmly their united thanks for the Mt. Gretna Reunion. We are confident, it will always hold a cherished corner in the records of their happiest days.

"WHAT is the matter with the Reading Room?" has been a current question in college ever since the beginning of the term. Perhaps we can in some degree answer this question for those who have as yet received no answer. It has simply been given up entirely. It is unnecessary to state the reasons for this step, for any one who frequented what was known as the Reading Room last year is well aware of the great prominence which was given there to non-observance of the rights of others. Papers were torn and removed, diminutive base-ball and foot-ball matches were constantly going on, and in short anything was possible but reading within its precincts. The question naturally arose, was it right to devote seventy-five dollars of the students' money in support of such an object, and we commend the action of the committee in deciding in the negative.

The Reading Room is the students' property, and it is solely an organization of the students. The faculty, it is true, provide a room, and one of their number, Dr. Beckwith, very kindly acts as chairman of the committee and does most of the actual work ; but it is wholly a students' affair, and any trespassing upon their rights by fellow-students should be strongly discountenanced by every man in College. The committee does not exist for the purpose of keeping order in the room, nor does its duties consist in ascertaining and reporting the names of those students who do not conform to the established rules. Such must be the part of every individual who makes use of the privileges of the room.

The sentiment in College must indeed be changed, and if the committee see fit to re-establish the Reading Room let every man exhibit a marked inclination to take a personal interest in all its concerns, and thus assist in preserving an institution which has been for many years a great source of enjoyment and benefit to the college.

SUNRISE.

Grows o'er the world the light of coming day ;
 From far and near, the cocks' shrill bugle notes
 Are borne upon the wintry breeze, and as Reveillè in the bivouac, they arouse
 The sleeping earth to take up arms again.
 And ever and anon the light grows clear
 With flashes ; that as summer lightning come,
 Yet which, as if the glow were caught in air,
 Remain ; and shed their soft refulgent light,
 As heaven's benediction, on the new
 Awakened nature.

O'er the eastern hills,
 The saffron rose of dawn resplendent gleams
 On daylight's breast ; whose night-starred robe,
 It covers in a mantle, trimmed with lace
 Of fleecy cloud-film, white. And at its edge,
 Encrowning all the ridge, appear in view
 The gold-mailed herald lines of risen dawn ;
 Whose radiant halo, like the pulsing glow
 Of hearthside embers, wavering, flits above
 Their helmet's gleaming crests.

A flash—and then,
 Like some triumphal monarch, 'mid a blaze
 Of gold, the king of light remounts his throne,
 Invigorates and blesses all the world.

CAMP TRINITY.

Mt. Gretna, Pa., June 28—July 6, 1889.

On the evening of June 28th, the special train from New York and Philadelphia brought the first of the Trinity campers to Mt. Gretna. Rain greeted their arrival with immense applause, and indeed enjoyed their company so much that it spent most of the week at the camp. The preparations for the reception of the guests, however, were so complete that much of the disagreeableness resulting therefrom was prevented. In all, there were one hundred and eighty tents of various sizes, provided with board floors, cots, washstands, &c., besides the large tents which were used for the post-office, telegraph office, reading room, barber shop and news stands. Special trains moved to and from the dining pavilion which was situated in a picturesque grove about a quarter of a mile from the tents. The camp itself occupied the slope of the northern shore of Lake Conewago which afforded rare opportunities for boating and swimming. On the opposite side of the lake, Governor Dick, the celebrated mountain of 1,200 feet, shut out the horizon, and many availed themselves of the pleasure of climbing its heights in the mountain train. The view from the summit was grand, as in truth was the scenery of the whole of that region. The spot was well chosen by Mr. Coleman for the entertainment of his guests, and he spared neither pains nor trouble in affording them every facility for pleasure. Tennis courts, a base-ball diamond, and a foot ball field were carefully laid out, and a grand stand also was erected especially for the occasion. The kind offer of Mr. Archibald Rogers to provide ten dollar prizes for the boat and tub races, and also a fifty dollar prize for that ball player who should make the best record in the series of matches played at Mt. Gretna, added greatly to the interest in the sports. Mr. Coleman, too, had arranged games with the Lafayette and U. P. teams whose expenses were entirely defrayed by his generosity. Thus when Trinity's sons arrived at camp, they could not but look forward to a most enjoyable reunion. The college colors floated over the headquarters, and a handsome base ball pennant waved a welcome to the players. Both of these flags were afterward presented to the college and will shortly adorn the walls of the Trophy Room. As each man entered the encampment and signed his name in the register, he was presented with a badge, consisting of a silver button on which was emblazoned a blue and gold shield. This was to be used as a pass upon the railroad, and after the reunion to be preserved as a memento. All the necessities of camp life were amply supplied, and asking was but the synonym of receiving. Mr. A. D. Hoffer acted as Camp Director, and his personal attention to the wants of the students deserves a grateful acknowledgment by all concerned. During the evening of the 28th, while the tents were being assigned and a general investigation was going on, the Perseverance Band of Lebanon greeted the new comers with a few selections which were duly appreciated by them and assisted greatly in cheering their spirits now quite dampened by the rain.

Saturday, June 29.

Anxious to explore their surroundings the campers bestirred themselves at an early hour, but were again hailed with the gloomy outlook of rain. Breakfast, however, was announced and a train soon conveyed a large number to the pavilion. Immediately afterward various kinds of pleasure trips were pursued. Excursions to Lebanon, Cornwall, and to the summit of the mountain were made, while rowing, tennis, &c., were enjoyed at the camp between the showers. In the afternoon a five-inning game of base ball was played between the Cornwall nine, composed mainly of Mr. Coleman's employees and of which he himself is a member, and the College Nine. The result was 27 to 4 in favor of Trinity. An entertaining concert given by the united forces of the Perseverance Band and the College Glee Club whiled away the evening.

Sunday, June 30.

The special train to Lebanon for the morning service carried a large congregation to S. Luke's Church, where Bishop Rulinson of Central Pennsylvania preached. S. Luke's is a handsome stone church, beautifully decorated, and situated in the centre of the city. It was built by Mr. Coleman, and he takes a deep interest in all its concerns. An amusing anecdote is told of one of the students as Mr. Coleman, in taking up the offertory, handed him the plate. Instead of adding his mite to the collection, he simply showed his reunion badge with the inference that that was a pass. It was remarked, however, afterward that salvation was the only thing that was not free at Camp Trinity. The remainder of the day was spent quietly at the tents, and in the evening another train conveyed a party to Lebanon to attend evening service.

Monday, July 1.

An excursion to the Coleman ore banks was started, but owing to the incessant rain it was finally postponed, and a base ball game between the Alumni and the Cornwall nine took place instead. This game was highly amusing as the score might indicate. Twelve new balls were used, and the players really were ankle deep in the water most of the time. The Alumni won, 43 to 19. The University of Pennsylvania nine arrived at noon, but the match with them was postponed till the following day. Mr. Coleman's private ball grounds at Cornwall had to be used because those at the camp were completely flooded. Neighbouring upon his grounds stood the Coleman mansion and music hall, and also a fine stable, handsomely equipped. They were the admiration of the many visitors and prove a great source of pleasure to them. Another concert was given in the evening, and the Commencement number of the TABLET was distributed, which together with the copies of the Ivy, presented by Mr. Coleman, furnished the Alumni with no little college news.

Tuesday, July 2.

The programme of the day began with the tub race at 10:30 A. M. Nine men entered. In the first heat Paine, '92, Littell, '90, Morgan, '88, Graves, '92, G. H. Wright, '91, and Jones, '88, were the starters. Jones won with ease, Littell second. In the second heat Potter, '92, M. R. Wright, '91 and Conover, '90, started. Conover won, Potter second. The final heat was a tie between Jones and Conover, the latter, however, winning in the next race. The tub race was very ridiculous and afforded the spectators much amusement. An excursion to the Pennsylvania Steel Works, at Steelton, took place immediately after, and fully one hundred availed themselves of the privilege of going to see them. The works were of peculiar interest and gave the visitors a very good conception of steel casting. As Steelton is within a few miles of Harrisburg, some of the students extended their trip to the capital. In the afternoon the ball game between U. P. and Trinity was called, but only two innings could be played, at the end of which Trinity led by the score of 3 to 1. All were then taken back to camp where in the evening they enjoyed the usual entertainment, varied by a "dime show."

Wednesday, July 3.

At 9:30 A. M., a special train left Mt. Gretna Park to visit the ore banks at Cornwall and the celebrated furnaces at Lebanon. The quantity of ore contained in the mines is almost inconceivable. It is estimated that they can be worked steadily for one hundred years. The mountain itself is simply a mass of iron. After returning from the furnaces at Lebanon, the ball nine prepared for a match in the afternoon with U. P. Many spectators witnessed the game, and were glad to see Trinity win by the score of 10 to 0. The Lafayette nine immediately afterward took their places in the field strengthened by U. P.'s first and second basemen; but they failed to do more than tie the score, 1 to 1, when time was called, at the end of the fifth inning. The evening was marked by a most brilliant display of fire works at Cornwall which Mr. Coleman is accustomed to give for the pleasure of his employees. During the display ring dances, marches, and other wild performances were indulged in by the Alumni and undergraduates, both young and old. It was a happy hour for Trinity's men.

Thursday, July 4.

Numbers of visitors thronged Mt. Gretna Park throughout the day and even wended their ways into the camp. The Park is designed, in a great measure, for a picnic ground and many flock thither from the surrounding country on holidays. The collegians, however, left their tents in the afternoon and again repaired to the ball grounds at Cornwall where Lafayette and Trinity met for the second time. This match was by far the most exciting of the series. Cheers accompanied every good play, and each team was aroused to do its best. Trinity was represented on 3rd base by H. Dingwall, '94, while Lafayette's 1st and 2nd bases were again covered by U. P. men. Nine innings brought the score to 5 all, and while in the tenth, Trinity failed to score, Lafayette managed to obtain the necessary single, giving her the game. The following is the score by innings:

LAFAYETTE, 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 4 0 1—6.

TRINITY, 0 2 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 0—5.

In the evening an unusually fine programme was rendered by the Band and Glee Club at the headquarters in camp, at the close of which, under Mr. Coleman's personal supervision, the lake was brilliantly illuminated by fire works and various colored lights which presented an extremely pretty effect to the spectators on the shores. It was a very fitting close to the glorious Fourth.

Friday, July 5.

The long desired boat races were the first event of the day. The following pairs appeared at the start: Shannon and Graves, Noyes and Harvey, French and Tuttle, Talcott and Finch, E. B. Bulkeley and Conover. The course was about a quarter of a mile, around a stake boat and return. Tuttle and French led from the start with Bulkeley and Conover a very close second. On the home stretch the latter pair gained considerably, but were unable to pass their opponents who crossed the finish a foot in the lead. The single-oar race followed, with Talcott, '91, Finch, '91, Comfort, '89, Scott, '89, Brady, '90 and Conover, '90, as starters. Scott caught the water first and obtained a good lead, which he only increased with every stroke, winning with ease. Talcott second. The ball nine again played the Cornwall team in the afternoon, and defeated them by a score of 27 to 2. After the game Mr. Coleman complimented the nine upon their playing, and made them the handsomest offer possible for the ensuing season. He promised them fifty dollars for every game they won, ten dollars of it to be devoted as a prize for the player who made the best record during the game, a sacrifice hit to count as a base hit in the determination of his record. At 7 P. M. the campers adjourned in a body to Fisher's Hall, Lebanon, where the Glee Club gave a complimentary concert to Mr. Coleman. The house was well filled and certainly was very appreciative. During an intermission the committee on awarding the base ball prize made their report, and their decision in favor of Graves '92, was greeted with prolonged applause. On the return journey to the camp by train, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman, with Mrs. Wm. Coleman, accompanied their guests as far as Cornwall, where in parting from their hosts the Trinity Alumni and undergraduates could no longer restrain their feelings. Cheer after cheer rent the air, and each cheer seemed only to re-echo the unbounded thanks of every voice; and well it might, for such a reunion had only been among the day dreams of the most sanguine. Well may the college be proud of such a benefactor, of such an alumnus, and of such a friend. The committee appointed at a mass meeting in camp cannot do enough to assure Mr. Coleman of Trinity's great obligation to him. The committee appointed by Dr. Wainwright (as chairman) consists of the President, W. E. Curtis, F. F. Kramer and R. McC. Brady.

Saturday, July 6th witnessed the general breaking up of the reunion; and a special train left Mt. Gretna for Philadelphia and New York at 10 A. M. Thus ended one of the pleasantest weeks ever known in the annals of the college. The following, as far as can be ascertained, is a complete list of Mr. Coleman's guests at Camp Trinity:

ATHLETICS.

THE HANDICAP MEETING.

The Regular Fall Handicap Meeting of the Trinity Athletic Association was held on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 28th. The day was all that could be desired, and consequently, there was a large and appreciative attendance. All the events were closely contested, because of the very large handicaps, and therefore the excitement and interest of every one, notably those of the fair sex, was constantly kept up. Prof. F. S. Luther acted as referee; Prof. J. J. McCook and Mr. W. F. Morgan, Jr., '88, as judges; Mr. Stephen Daly, timekeeper, and Mr. Charles S. Young, '91, clerk of the course.

The sports opened with the 100 yds dash, run in two heats. The entries were:

First heat: G. French, '92, scratch.

J. B. Burnham, '91, 10 yards.

G. H. Wright, '91, 6 yards.

Won by G. French, '92, in 11½ sec.

2d J. B. Burnham, '91.

Second heat: T. A. Conover, 2 yards.

E. R. Lampson, Jr., '91, scratch.

Won by E. R. Lampson, Jr., '91, 11½ sec.

Final heat: G. French, '92, scratch.

J. B. Burnham, '91, 10 yards.

E. R. Lampson, Jr., '91, 4 yards.

Won by J. B. Burnham, '91, 11 2-5 sec.

2d E. R. Lampson, Jr., '91.

The last race was a very pretty and exciting one and was very closely contested.

Second Event.—Standing Broad Jump.

Entries: E. B. Bulkeley, '90, scratch.

A. T. Gesner, '90, scratch.

G. Hall, '92, 8 inches.

Won by A. T. Gesner, '90, 9 ft. 7½ in.

2d L. D. Peugnet, '93, 9 ft. 4½ in.

Third Event.—100 yds Dash for Freshmen.

Entries: J. Cullen, G. Wilson, R. S. Conover, W. P. Niles. Won by Niles, in 12¼ sec.

This race was much more amusing than it was graceful, for the men showed their lack of proper training in this part of athletic sports.

T. A. Conover, '90, 10 inches.

E. B. Bulkeley, '90, scratch.

This handicap meeting is the first that has been held for a long time, and was entirely impromptu. Its chief purpose was to bring out the new men and see what ability there was in them, in order that the trainer might know how and upon whom to work during the winter months. '93 has some very good material, and the college expects her to begin at once and strive by hard and constant practice to fit herself to represent the college creditably in the Intercollegiate Association. The most prominent men are Niles, French and L. D. Peugnet.

THE NEW TABLET GOVERNMENT.

At a College meeting held recently it was almost unanimously decided to amend the government of the Tablet. The following are the principal changes:

1. The board shall consist of ten editors, who shall hold office for one year, eligible to reelection.

2. Editors shall be elected by a two-thirds vote of the board. They shall be chosen by competition only and without respect to the societies.

3. No man is eligible to election upon the board, before he has contributed at least three accepted articles to the TABLET. The articles may be in the form of editorials, stories, essays, college news, &c.

4. In voting upon a contribution, the Managing Editor shall read the article before the board, withholding the name of the writer until after the vote upon the manuscript is taken.

BOOK REVIEWS.

Selections from Wordsworth. This book is a compilation of Wordsworth's poems made with special reference to use in schools. The selections are made by A. J. George who has gained considerable reputation by his able editing of the Prelude. In arranging the collections the chronological order has been followed except in the case of the sonnets which are grouped by themselves. The text adopted is in every case the poet's last revision, and Mr. George's notes at the end of the volume are designed to supplement Wordsworth's own notes dictated to Miss Fenwick. The idea upon which the work is evidently based, that of keeping close to the great writers of our literature and at the same time of escaping the drudgery of "Elegant Extracts" and "Literary Readers" is certainly an admirable one and will no doubt be appreciated by all who have been rushed through an indefinite number of authors in the space of a single short term. (Boston: D. C. Heath & Co.)

The October Atlantic contains several extremely interesting articles, among which "The Closing Scenes of the Iliad" by William Cranston Lawton, and "The Monmouth and Newport Campaigns," the latest of John Fiske's able articles on the Revolutionary period of American history, deserve special mention. J. R. Kendrick contributes an amusing sketch entitled "A Non-Combatant's War Reminiscences," and Sophia Kirk discourses on the subject of "Prismatics." Henry Loomis Nelson's article on "The Government and its Creditors" is interesting as well as instructive. L. D. Morgan contributes an entertaining article on "Ladies and Learning," and "Fiction in the Pulpit" is explained and criticized by Agnes Repplier. Some very interesting reminiscences of "Theodore Dwight Woolsey" are furnished by Joseph Henry Thayer. A couple of short poems, a dialect story, "Dave's Neckliss," and three more chapters each of "The Begum's Daughter" and "The Tragic Muse," together with the customary contributions and book reviews complete the contents of a very interesting issue of this justly celebrated magazine.

Harpers for October presents a varied table of contents. Theodore Child contributes another of his Russian papers entitled "The Fair of Nijnii-Novgorod," illustrated superbly by Thulstrup, while Tristram Ellis furnishes another foreign descriptive article in his pen and pencil sketch of "Hierapolis." Austin Dobson's "Noble Patron" is beautifully illustrated by Abbey. Charles Eliot Norton contributes an interesting article on "The Building of the Church of St. Denis." The humorous and the descriptive are combined by Howard Pyle in his paper entitled "A Peculiar People." "Recent Progress in Surgery" is discussed in a learned manner by Dr. Keen, the noted Philadelphia surgeon. Fred. M. Somers contributes an interesting article on "The Forests of the California Coast Range," and Professor Blaikie furnishes an entertaining sketch entitled "A Corner of Scotland Worth Knowing." Another fine piece of artistic work is Alfred Parsons' illustration of Wordsworth's sonnet "Hail, Twilight." Short stories are a prominent feature of this number, Edward Bellamy, Annie Trumbull Slosson, Margaret J. Preston and Mrs. Lucy C. Lillie each contributing one, while the space devoted to serial fiction is admirably filled by Charles Dudley Warner with his novel "A Little Journey in the World."

The first number will contain articles on literary, educational and scientific subjects, and a prospectus of the University, which is said to be modeled after the London University, and has extensive non-resident courses, teaching many subjects by mail.
