TRINITY COLLEGE, HARTFORD, CONN.

THIS College was chartered by the state of Connecticut in 1823, and as this result was chiefly due to the activity and sagacity of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Brownell, he may justly be regarded as its founder. This college does only college work. There is no divinity, law, medical or other professional school connected with it, as it is intended to give a liberal Education, adapted to fit young men to enter most advantageously upon the study of the Learned Professions or a business career after graduation. Its course of study is therefore conservative, adhering to that system which long experience has shown to be most effective. In all essential respects its course of study is similar to that of the leading American Colleges, its requirements for admission with those at Harvard and the twelve associated colleges, of which this college is one, according to the schedule adopted by them some years ago. Its situation is elevated, commanding a beautiful view, and very salubrious. Its buildings are new and unsurpassed for convenience and comfort.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTIONS.

The college offers four courses of instruction, viz.: I. A COURSE IN ARTS; II. A COURSE IN LETTERS AND SCIENCE; III. A COURSE IN SCIENCE; IV. A COURSE IN LETTERS.

The courses extend over four years, with the exception of the Course in Science, which is completed in three years.

Students completing the Course in Arts receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Students completing the Course in Letters and Science, of the Course in Science, receive the degree of Bachelor of Science, those completing the course in Letters receive the degree of Bachelor of Letters.

Students who do not propose to pursue all the studies of any of the regular courses are permitted, under the name of Special Students, to recite with any class in such studies as, upon examination, they are found qualified to pursue.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

There are numerous Scholarships. These differ in value, some remitting the charge for tuition, and others both the charge for tuition and that for room-rent in whole or in part. For holders of Scholarships remitting the entire charges for tuition and room-rent, the Treasurer's bills are reduced to $42.50; and the necessary expense of such students including board and other personal items will not exceed $250, or $300 a year.

EDITORIALS

THROUGH the blasting and excavations carried on by the Board of Street Commissioners of Hartford, on the western edge of the campus, two remarkable geological illustrations have been laid bare. One is the face of the cliff at the stone pits, which forms a natural sectional relief map of natural geology. Here one can see at the bottom, the underlying shale, then the old red sandstone formed by the sedimentary deposits from the waters which covered this area in Triassic times. Then above this the great sheet of trap, or lava, which flowed from one of those Titanic volcanoes of the past. The inconceivable heat of this molten lava burned and baked the layers of sandstone upon which it rested, and this metamorphosis is plainly shown. The other geographical monument is in the form of a piece of the top of the trap sheet, rounded and scratched by the vast ice-sheet which ground off and polished the tops of all the previous geological exposures lying in the way of its south-westward march. This particular glaciated rock is near Northam Towers, and the student standing there may trace the course of the ice flood and build in his imagination a living picture of that wonderful age. It does not seem possible that the destruction of these splendid exhibits of the old earth's history will be allowed. While green grass is very beautiful to terrace and cover this rugged cliff, yet to cover it with soil in order that a slope of grass might be shown, would be like covering the Sistine Madonna of Raphael with whitewash. Sir Charles Lyell, the eminent English geologist, standing upon the Trinity cliffs in 1882, said that here he had found interesting instance in America of the contact of the ancient lava and sandstone. These cliffs are the glory of old Trinity, and it would be far better to raze every building on the campus, much as we prize them all, from Alumni Hall to the Science Laboratories, than to allow this fearful destruction. Buildings, however imposing and expensive, can be rebuilt, but to tear out or cover over these wonderful pages from the history of creation would be a sacrilege never to be atoned for. Great universities like Yale and Chicago spend thousands of dollars to have moved to their grounds mere fragments of these treasures of the past. Must we, endowed with such splendid resource, calmly shut our eyes and ears and allow our magnificent possessions to be blasted out of existence? We earnestly ask the Trustees to turn their attention to this matter, before it is too late to avert such a calamity.

THE recent dual track meet with Wesleyan, although resulting in a defeat for our team, was nevertheless an occasion which every Trinity man may well remember with pride, for our comparative showing was surprisingly excellent. In spite of the fact that our opponents were able to choose their representatives from more than three times our number of students, their victory was won by a very narrow margin, and the result of the meet was in doubt till the final event at Middletown had been decided. Trinity appeared to exceptional advantage in the track events, and in this department we have at present some of the best athletes who have worn the old gold and blue in recent years. It is worthy of mention, in this connection, that the spirit displayed by the college body in going down to Middletown almost as a unit, and the sportsmanlike spirit which pervaded the cheering and singing, cannot be too highly commended. Even though we lost the meet, and that, too, only by unfortunate mishaps, we left an impression of Trinity sand, Trinity grit, and Trinity spirit, that showed the stuff of which the Trinity man is made. Let us all put forth our strongest efforts to redeem this defeat by bringing back victory from Middletown in next fall's football game with Wesleyan, and let us remember that with concerted effort the splendid victory of last fall can be repeated.

ONCE more it is the painful duty of THE TABLET to call the attention of the college authorities to the disgraceful condition of the shower baths in the gym, as well as the baths in the college dormitories. Conditions in the gym are especially reprehensible. A student wishing to take a bath must enter a dark, damp and dismal concrete chamber, poorly lighted, and especially badly ventilated. In fact, there is nothing to distinguish this spot from a mediæval dungeon. When the water is turned on, the shivering bather finds it impossible to regulate the supply properly, and must perforce take either a scalding hot ablution or an icy cold one. Added to this annoyance, only one of the three showers can be regulated at the same time without causing great inconvenience to the other bathers. When a visiting athletic team attempts to take advantage of our bathing facilities, its members find that there is not sufficient room or sufficient water to go around, and naturally they return home with a very poor opinion of Trinity's sanitary conditions. Turning our attention to the bathtubs of the several sections, we find the bathing conditions equally unsanitary. These dusty tin affairs have not been used at all in the memory of the present generation of college students, and no self-respecting person would be willing to bathe in them. They are likewise situated in a damp, wet, gloomy chamber, where the sunlight seldom penetrates, and are an open disgrace to any institution. At this time, when the college is advancing with rapid strides in other ways, it is a very deplorable fact that no attention has been paid to defects of what should be one of the most important parts of our college equipment. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness."

FEMMES DAMNÉES

(FROM LES FLEURS DU MAL, CXXXVI, CHARLES BAUDELAIRE)

L YING as cattle on the sand they turn
 Their eyes to yon horizon of the sea,
 Their groping feet and hands that clasp and burn
 Have languor sweet and tremble bitterly.

Some, as long dalliance doth charm their hearts,
 In depths of thickets where the streamlets play,
 Go spelling love with childish fears and starts
 And tear the green wood from young trees away;

And others, like their sisters, sad and slow
    Are treading o'er the rocks with spectres filled,
Where Anthony saw rise as lava's glow
    His temptress' naked breasts with passion thrilled :

And there are those, at crumbling resin's gleaming,
    Who in the silent womb of heathen caves
Invoke thy aid unto their fever screaming,
    Bacchus, whose art the old remorse enslaves !

And others, whom the scapular delights,
    Who secret 'neath their robes a scourge retain,
Mingle in sombre woods and lonely nights
    The foam of pleasure with the tears of pain.

O virgins, demons, monsters, martyrs, ye,
    That scorn the real, great souls beyond all fears,
The valiant seekers of infinity,
    Sometimes filled full of cries, sometimes of tears,

You whom my soul has followed in your hell,
    Poor sisters, you I love : my peace departs
At your sad griefs, your thirst's insatiate spell,
    And th' urns of love that fill your raging hearts.

THE BONDS OF MORPHIA

HE bent listlessly over the keyboard of an old square piano, and his humid eyes—once beautifully clear, let me say—looked beyond the page of music before him, for he was thinking, with what bewildered mind he could still muster, and his fingers interpreted the nature of his thoughts in the dreary, infinitely sad chords they brought forth. Only occasionally could he think intelligently now, and at such times, when his deadened brain seemed to be restored for a few brief moments to part of its former energy, so hopeless, so abject in his despair did it finally leave the stricken weakling, that it was like an avenger come to gloat over a wretched evildoer.

There was a knock on the door. He raised his fingers from the keys and sat quietly listening, undecided, for he had reached that stage in his disease when he utterly loathed human company, even as he despised his own vile frame. There was another knock. This time it was more emphatic, and with it came a stifled sob. He arose and made his way to the door, and after another moment's hesitation, opened it. His visitor was a woman. She may have been comparatively young, but she looked very old indeed, and thin, and her eyes were humid and lifeless as his; yet while the man had once been handsome, she also had once been very beautiful, and still had undeniable grace in her carriage.

"Ha, ha!" she laughed, but her voice was broken, and recent tears had fallen upon her soiled jacket. "Ha, ha! And you also look like a ghost. It's a wonder, I say, that we could see each other through these frosty windows we once called eyes."

"Yes," he replied, and that was all, save for a convulsive sigh.

They sat for a few minutes in pathetic quietude, and neither of the two even thought—only dreamed in their listless way—then she it was again who broke the silence.

"Are you ready?" she asked. "For this is the last day—it was ten years ago to-day that you proposed to me and I refused—I give you the chance to propose again now; more than that, I demand it."

He awoke from his stupor, and in a weak whisper asked her: "Would no one else take you?—no one?"

“Not a single man in this wide world,” she almost wailed, and then sank back into her chair and dried her eyes.

“But you are still beautiful,” he replied, “and you are not so far gone as I am.”

“No, indeed,” she sneered disdainfully, and her dull eyes seemed to sparkle for a moment. “But it was you who led me as far as I have gone, sir. You it was who first gave me the drug. And now you must, you have to take me, no matter how much you despise me!”

“I gave it as your physician.”

“Yes, and now see what I am! Look! Just see what a spectre I am now. A fine doctor you are, you skeleton quack!”

He sank his head into his arms and sobbed as no true man would have done. He himself had begun to take the drug the very night when this same woman, then still beautiful, had refused his hand in marriage; and now—now she was demanding it, because he had led her into the mire, and because likewise she had led him.

“Come!” he murmured, as he arose from this pitiable outburst, and with no remonstrance weakly yielded to the woman, who still had a bare atom of decision left—more than he had—“Come—I—I guess I might as well.”

Then he proposed to her as he had done that evening ten years ago. And she smiled upon him, and this time her answer was not as it was then, for she said very sweetly, “Yes.”

And in that moment of strange, unnatural joy, the two wretched creatures drank enough of the drug to give them everlasting sleep.

OUR POSITION IN THE PHILLIPINES

(The following is an extract from a letter recently sent to Prof. Ferguson by the Rev. Henry Swift, '69, M. A., a Chaplain in the United States service):

S. S. ROSECRANS,
N. OF FORMOSA,
March 19, 1901.

MY hope and desire is to spend a long time in foreign service. I have certainly had all I wanted, and am thankful for it. My station is at Binalonan, province of Pangasinan, Luzon, 140 miles from Manila, and 20 miles from the one railroad of the Island.

The people of our town are very loyal. When the insurrection first broke out, a force of Insurrectos attacked the place but were driven back by the people. They made a second attempt with about ten thousand, captured the town, looted it, burning and destroying in every direction. The approach of our troops in November, 1900, compelled them to flee.

We are encircled, however, by a number of towns, disaffected, and harboring bands of Ladrones. There have been a good many sharp actions around us in the past year within five or six miles, and many of the enemy and arms captured. Our regiment has done much to pacify a region about 500 square miles in extent. The civil administration under the protection of the military has been in the hands of the natives. Schools have been established, and a vigorous chastisement of the lawless elements has been effected by military provost courts and commissions. In the latter work I have had a good deal to do as counsel for the accused. Many have been hung, many sentenced to life or long sentences, for participation in murders of the most atrocious character. Some few have been acquitted. I can score ten men saved from the gallows, possibly more, for all cases have not been acted on as yet by the reviewing authority.

Opinions are mixed about the Filipinos. I have had, I think, a very good opportunity to see both the bad and the good side of the people, and in the main like them. The military thrown into contact with the worse elements are largely down on them, but they are like ourselves, bad and good, and I have found much that is good. They are fairly industrious, enough to satisfy their needs, which are simple. A peseta a day (worth ten cents gold) will support a family of the poorer class. Their food is largely rice, fruit and fish, their clothing a shirt and cotton pants, with no shoes or stockings. They spin, weave, and raise their own produce, and need very little money to live on. Their methods and implements are most primitive, probably but little changed since the time of Magellan.

The languages of the islands, about thirty in number, are, as far as I have been able to observe, Malay. I studied the Malay language when I first came, enough to be able to compare. The resemblance is very close in numerals, pronouns, articles and root forms. There are grammatical peculiarities in the inflection of verbs, systems of prefixes in forming adjectives, reduplication in forming plurals, using passive instead of active, putting subject in genitive, etc., etc. Some dialects are simple, others extremely complex—thus the Tagalo's has seventeen conjugations and three passives to each verb.

I am no expansionist, but our position here is one of logical necessity. There has been an historical sequence of events, from the day that Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet, that makes the present a necessary outcome. The efforts of the military, and now with them of the Civil Commission, are and have been towards

The following college song has been written by A. T. Wynkoop, 1901.

“ALMA MATER.”

(Tune: “Reading Sesqui-centennial March.”)

At dear old Trinity
 Our life will soon be o'er,
 But ever we'll remember thee
 As in the days of yore.
 We love our college home,
 May it be prospered long,
 And may the flight of passing years
 But make our love more strong.

And in the days to come,
 Out on life's crested tide,
 In memory we'll return to thee
 And stand thy walls beside.
 We'll praise thy name for aye,
 Our hearts belong to thee.
 While years and ages roll away,
 God bless our Trinity!

ATHLETICS

BRISTOL 8, TRINITY 1

TRINITY was beaten at Bristol, Wednesday May 1, by the Bristol State League team. The game was much closer than the score shows, as Bristol scored in only two innings. In the other six innings they could do nothing with Mann's delivery. Mann also fielded his position in faultless style and led in stick work, with a three-bagger and double. Fiske and Henderson played well in the field. The score :

TRINITY 5, UNIVERSITY OF ROCHESTER 1

TRINITY defeated the University of Rochester without any difficulty, on the home grounds, May 2. Goodridge allowed his opponents but four singles, no two of which were in the same inning. Although Trinity got only six hits, they were timely.

In the first inning Webster singled, but was thrown out by Henry while trying for second. The other two were easily disposed of. For Trinity, Fiske singled, Goodridge placed one in right, Fiske went to third, and Goodridge stole second. Henderson went out, and Mann fled to left, scoring Fiske. Goodridge scored on a passed ball and Henry closed the inning by flying out to left. For the next three innings both sides were blanked. In the fifth Rochester got her only run. McPherson went out, Peck making a pretty catch. Hogan got a pass to first, went to second on Kelley's out and scored on Van De Water's error. Weidman went out to Henderson, Brigham scored in this inning on poor playing by the Rochester outfield. In the sixth, Henderson reached first on Hogan's error and scored on two more errors and an out. Mann made the last run; Driscoll made a miss of his fly, and Mann came home on hits by Henry and Brigham. Henry backed up Goodridge in good style, and Fiske, Henderson, and Peck played well in the field. Cooper played well for Rochester. The score:

TRINITY was defeated by Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H., Saturday May 4. Trinity was unable to do anything with the pitching of Varney or Rollins, while Goodridge was hit at will. A high wind bothered the fielders to a considerable extent. The score :

TRINITY 5, NEW YORK UNIVERSITY 1

TRINITY defeated New York University on the home grounds, Wednesday May 8. The score should have been much larger, but N. Y. U. had all the luck, only two of Taylor's eleven bases on balls counting in the scoring. N. Y. U. scored only once, and that in the first inning. Rorke led off with a single to left, Higgins got first on Brigham's error, Connolly struck out, Taylor hit to right scoring Higgins, and Young closed the inning by going out.

Trinity got her first run in the fourth, Townsend scoring on a put out and a base on balls. In the fifth, Trinity had three men on bases, but could do nothing, as a double play closed the inning. In the next inning Peck got his base on balls, and scored on an error and an out. In the seventh Henry led off with a double to center, Van De Water got a pass to first, but was forced at second by Brigham, Henry scoring. Townsend reached first on Simmons' error, Peck hit to right, scoring Brigham. Fiske flew out to left. Goodridge singled, scoring Townsend. Henderson struck out and there was no more scoring.

N. Y. U. would have added to their score in the fourth but for a fine running catch by Van De Water. Townsend and Brigham both fielded well, while Henry led at the bat. Mann pitched a masterly game. Rorke was easily the best player for N. Y. U., while Pasquale and Higgins both fielded their positions well. The score:

WILLIAMS 6, TRINITY 5

TRINITY was defeated by Williams at Williamstown, May 15, by the score of 6-5 in eight innings. The game could not be finished as Trinity had to catch a train.

Trinity scored in the first, on a base on balls, put out and an error. In the second they scored two more, Van De Water getting first on Lydecker's poor throw. Brigham was passed to first and Townsend sent a long fly to center field which Leggett muffed, filling the bases. Townsend was caught napping off second. Bent then made a wild pitch, and Van De Water and Brigham scored. Peck and Fiske struck out, closing the inning.

In the third, Goodridge went out at first, Henderson made a long three bagger to right and was brought in by Mann's single. Henry singled, but was double up at second on Van De Water's hit to short. Trinity made one more run in the seventh on Henderson's single and Mann's three base hit.

Williams did not score until the sixth, and then five hits and an error gave them four runs. They made one more in the seventh on an error, put out and hit. In the eighth Jeffrey singled, went to second on Lydecker's out, and took third on Burrells' out and scored when Durfee reached first on Mann's error. The game was then called to enable the Trinity team to catch their train.

As usual Fiske played well, his running catch of a foul being the best thing in the game. Mann and Henderson did some timely batting. Street and Burrell played well for Williams. The score :

INTER-CLASS ATHLETIC MEET

The annual interclass games were held at the Gentlemen's Driving Park track Saturday Morning May 4. A heavy track, uphill on the finish, and a strong head wind, made all the events slow, but the meet was nevertheless very satisfactory. Rankin won all three of the dashes in very fair time. Lorenz and Waterman finished the mile in sensational style, Lorenz holding a lead of yard for the last hundred yards. Crane very unexpectedly won the two mile by a wide margin. Brinley won the two hurdle races in good shape, and also took the shot and hammer. Henderson won the discus throw at 100 feet; but in all these events the men were seriously hampered by the wind. The high jump attracted attention, as three of the best jumpers in college were tied in the event. Brinley's work in the eight events which he entered was remarkable, winning six firsts, one second and one third. In the two-mile bicycle race, the wind made the time very slow and a heavy track caused misjudgment on the sprint. Buffington was closely pushed by Merriam and Wales, all of whom were within a wheel's length at the tape.

The meet was won by 1901, giving that class the Leffingwell cup once more. 1903 was second, 1902 third and 1904 fourth. The summary:

100-Yard Dash.—Won by Rankin, 1903; second, Brinley, 1901; third, Trumbull, 1903. Time, 11 3-5 seconds.

WESLEYAN, 74 2-3; TRINITY, 60 1-3

On Saturday May 11, Trinity held a track and field meet with Wesleyan at Middletown, the third which has been held between the colleges. Trinity was defeated, but in spite of this fact, nothing but praise of the smaller college has been heard. The score was close, and in the first part of the meet, during the track events, the result seemed almost decided, but Trinity's team was too small to compete with fresh men in every event, and as a result Wesleyan won out in the finals. One of the most interesting events was the 100-yard dash. In the trial heats, Rankin broke the college record of ten and one-fourth seconds by covering the distance in ten flat, but the distance was found to be six feet short, and the record will not hold. Rankin also won the quarter mile, and had the 220-yard dash easily, but lost by making a wrong turn at the finish. The 100-yard dash was won in all three places by Trinity. The long runs were also very interesting, as Wesleyan had two fast men in the events. Lorenz took the mile in fine shape, sprinting the last quarter at a pace that brought him over the tape several yards ahead of the second man. His work in the two mile was also excellent. The other two Trinity men in the event were unable to hold the pace, and the last lap placed Lorenz behind his two Wesleyan opponents, but with a magnificent spurt he took the outside of the track and won by two yards. The man who did the most work for Trinity was Brinley. He won twenty of Trinity's points, and was in ten events. In both track and field work he was the life of the team, and the way in which he took places in event after event, drew continued cheering from the Trinity bleachers. In the hurdles, the high jump and the shot, he was invincible, and in the first named, completely outclassed his opponents. Captain Sturtevant, who could have easily taken the pole vault, strained his leg before any height was reached, and was unable to continue in the event. This was a serious loss to Trinity, as Sturtevant would undoubtedly have won, had he been in shape. In one event Wesleyan was especially strong, This was the high hurdles, which went to the red and black in the fast time of sixteen and four-fifths seconds. In the hammer and discus the showing made by both sides was poor. No throw of over 100 feet was made in the former. The final event of the meet was the bicycle race, held on the following Tuesday. Not one of Trinity's riders was in shape, and Wesleyan took first and third, Merriam winning second for Trinity. This event closed the meet, giving it to Wesleyan by a lead of fourteen and one-third points.

A feature of the visit to Middletown was Dr. Samuel Hart's courtesy in entertaining the students at supper. Those who had known Dr. Hart found him the same genial friend that he has always been to Trinity men, and those who did not, had the pleasure of meeting one of Trinity's most popular alumni.

The summary :

100-Yard Dash.—Won by Rankin, Trinity; second, Brinley, Trinity; third, Tuke, Trinity. Time, 10 3-5 seconds.

Mile Run.—Won by Lorenz, Trinity; second, Waterman, Trinity; third, Hutchinson, Trinity. Time, 4 minutes, 58 seconds.

440-Yard Dash.—Won by Rankin, Trinity; second, Becker, Wesleyan; third, Nixon, Wesleyan. Time, 53 2-5 seconds.

120-Yard Hurdles.—Won by C. R. Dodds, Wesleyan; second, Brinley, Trinity; third, Walker, Trinity. Time, 16 4-5 seconds.

Half-Mile Run.—Won by Guernsey, Wesleyan; second, Nixon, Wesleyan; third, Rudd, Trinity. Time, 2 minutes, 13 seconds.

220-Yard Dash.—Won by Lacy, Wesleyan; second, Cline, Wesleyan; third, Bagg, Wesleyan. Time, 24 1-5 seconds.

Two-Mile Run.—Won by Lorenz, Trinity; second, Meeker, Wesleyan; third, Palmer, Wesleyan. Time, 11 minutes, 19 seconds.

220-Yard Hurdle.—Won by Brinley, Trinity; second, C. R. Dodds, Wesleyan; third, Parker, Wesleyan. Time, 28 1-5 seconds.

Running High Jump.—First place, tie between Sturtevant, Trinity, and Brinley, Trinity; third, tie between Van Weelden, Trinity, S. A. Dodds, Wesleyan, and Cline, Wesleyan. Height, 5 feet, 3 1-2 inches.

16-Pound Shot.—Won by Brinley, Trinity; second, Gould, Wesleyan; third, C. R. Dodds, Wesleyan. Distance, 38 feet, 6 1-2 inches.

Two-Mile Bicycle Race.—Won by Schmidt, Wesleyan; second, Merriam, Trinity; third, Guy, Wesleyan; Time, 6 minutes, 3 seconds.

NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE GAMES

THE fifteenth annual track and field meeting of the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association was held on the Worcester Oval, Worcester, Mass., Saturday May 18. For three successive years the day of the meet has been rainy and Saturday was no exception. Consequently, the bicycle race was postponed. The trial heats were run off during the forenoon. At 2 o'clock the track and field events were started.

Trinity was represented by a team of six men. E. S. Merriman, 1902, and J. A. Wales, 1901, were entered in the bicycle race; F. E. Waterman, 1901, and E. H. Lorenz, 1902, ran the mile, and Waterman, H. H. Rudd, 1901, and R. H. Hutchinson, 1903, started in the half mile. While it is to be regretted that none of our men secured places there is considerable satisfaction to be gained from the perseverance and interest which have been shown in track and field athletics this year. Godfrey Brinley, 1901, F. R. Sturtevant, 1901, C. E. Tuke, 1902, and G. D. Rankin, 1903, had not recovered from the effects of their splendid work at Middletown sufficiently to enable them to compete at Worcester. Waterman finished fifth in the mile, his time being 4.44 for the distance. The bicycle race was held on Tuesday, and Wales was beaten on the sprint, owing to the explosion of his tire. Under this year's management, field and track athletics have received an impetus which, with similar support for the next two or three years will regain for Trinity her former prestige in this department of athletics.

The meet was won by Williams, with 32 1-6 points, Amherst being next with 32. Wesleyan won her 6 points in the bicycle race. Tufts, U. of Maine, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and Trinity, failed to score. H. P. McDonald of M. I. T. raised the shot-put record to 39 feet 9 1-2 inches, and H. H. Cloudman of Bowdoin established a new record of 22 feet 4 inches in the running broad jump.

THE STROLLER

SPRING, beautiful spring, is here. Adams has opened the season with a combination of overcoat and straw hat which leaves no doubt in THE STROLLER's mind as to the time of year. No matter if it does rain or blow, the summer is surely coming, and acting on this THE STROLLER, on the first day of sunshine, resolves to "come out." He accordingly reduces his clothing about one-half, gets a book, and saunters over toward "the Bishop," his white ducks gleaming against the green landscape. At this stage of the game Robert is heard calling up the Insane Retreat for a conveyance of some kind. THE STROLLER stretches himself on the grass and opens his German book. An enterprising bug immediately crawls to the beginning of the sentence and carefully examines the first word. THE STROLLER's gaze wanders away, across the hills. He sees the distant mountains, now turning green in the sunshine. He feels that the happiest time of year has come, the time of the little birds, the bright flowers, the green trees and the street pianos. As he dexterously removes a small green worm from his neck, he is startled by a voice. He looks up. A man is standing near him with a small trunk in his hand, and in a steady, easy running voice, he addresses THE STROLLER. Then the latter is certain that spring is here, for the inevitable has come to pass. The man, who wants THE STROLLER to represent the Josh M. A. Long Company during the summer, has arrived.

THE STROLLER is informed that he can invest four dollars in an outfit (which consists of a lead pencil and a map of the U. S.), and may then work for the company as their agent. He is shown that "J. B. Smith" of Kalumatkee, Kansas, made eleven thousand dollars in two months last summer, selling eye salve and washing powder; and that THE STROLLER can do even better, by acting as agent for the celebrated folding cooking stove, of which he carries a sample. (If THE STROLLER accedes to this request to become a Vanderbilt, he borrows four dollars from his roommate and signs a contract in which he pledges himself to sell anything for anybody at anytime, and remit all the profits. The rest of the summer is then spent in fruitless attempts to break the contract). When the agent has taken his departure, THE STROLLER resumes his spring reverie. His thoughts finally return to the German book before him, and he makes an attempt at the translation. The first sentence is easy enough, but when ten minutes spent on the next reveals only the fact that "the wild geese blowing on the honeysuckle vine, during the setting sun over the emergency, ought to have been whispered," he decides to take his one remaining cut and enjoy the beauties of nature.

BOOK REVIEWS

An Englishman's Love Letters, being the Missing Answer to An Englishwoman's Love Letters. Frank F. Lovell Book Co., New York.

The Lovell Book Company, which controls the American edition, has gotten out the book in a very attractive form. The matter, however, is most uninteresting, and the whole story tiresome and flat. If the book has taken in England, the reading public there must be easy to please.
