Senate Responsibility

Last Monday night the Senate took its most positive and worthwhile action of the current year when it appropriated twenty five dollars for a defense fund for Negro integration leaders. The appropriation is significant in that it makes a departure from normal Senate reluctance to become involved with non-campus

Several Senators who voted against the proposal highlighted the controversy that exists concerning Senate jurisdiction. These men were sympathetic to the fund appeal as evidenced by their support of the CODE resolution, but they did not believe that the student government should become involved in offcampus matters. Such a belief, quite prevalent among Trinity undergraduates, is unrealistic and wholly out of keeping with spirit of the times.

I for one, do not believe the problem rests with anathy. Nor, as I interpret its policy, does the Arts Council. What has been long overdue is a need for coordination for the arts— Coordination in terms of scheduling, information and evaluation. The problem of scheduling has been effectively solved by the commendable efforts of Mr. Tomat and his staff. The latter two, however, have been woefully neglected and as any hack journalist will tell you, an informed public is an intelligent one.

UNDER THE COMBINED direction of Doug Frost (administration) and Richard Tuttle (student), the Council has set out to do just that. A special calendar exclusively for the arts has already been initiated. In Mather Hall an effectively designed board has been set up listing events of an artistic nature in New York for those who plan to be there over the Thanksgiving recess.

While the emphasis will be on campus events, the Council also hopes to keep Trinity informed on noteworthy events taking place in the outside world, primarily in the Hartford area. For example. There are such items as the Mark'Twain Masquers' production, the Hartt School of Music concert, and the Wadsworth Atheneum exhibitions to name a few. In other words, Trinity, you will be informed if nothing else.

The business of informing, however, does not end with bulletin boards and calendars. There must also be established a sound and creative critical evaluation encompassing every aspect of the artistic activity that takes place here at Trinity. Hence we inaugurate in this issue of the Tripod the Arts Council column which will appear weekly.

EDITED BY THE COUNCIL the column will run reviews of events which take place on the campus in the fields of music, literature, drama, and the plastic arts. They will be solicited from individuals who are knowledgeable in the field on which they are commenting. Furthermore, any Item No. 4—"Negotiate with was overshadowed by its none of these rules, and was notices or items of interest pertaining to the world of art at Trinity will be included.

Make no mistake about it. There is very definitely a world of art here at Trinity. We all have a need to be made more aware of its existence and its vitality.

IT'S LATER THAN YOU THINK!

All year long you've been promising yourself to go there. Now the semester is nearly over and you still haven't set foot in the place. Shame on you!

But it's not too late. Right now, this very minute, before you weaken, lift up your head and forward march to the place you have been avoiding ever since school began. I refer, of

Now here you are at the library. That wasn't so bad, was it? Of course not! Go inside. What do you see? A sign that says "NO SMOKING." Go outside. Light a Marlboro. Smoke.

Because now you are ready. Now your trembling resolution is rigid. Now your pulsing psyche is serene. You have been calmed by mild Marlboro. You have been soothed by that fine selectrate filter, by that fine full flavor that dotes and pampers and caresses, that lifts the fallen, repairs the shattered, straightens the bent, unravels the knotted, rights the askew, and fastens the unbuttoned.

In the center of the library you see the main circulation desk. ook in the card catalog want, write the number on a slip, and hand it to the efficient and obliging young lady at the desk. The efficient and obliging young lady then gives the slip to an efficient and obliging page boy who trots briskly back into the stacks, curls up on a limp leather encyclopedia, and sleeps for an hour or two. Then, puffy but refreshed, he returns your slip to the efficient and obliging young lady at the desk, who tells you one of three things: a) "Your book is out." b) "Your book is at the bindery." c) "Your book is on reserve."

Having learned that the circulation desk hasn't the least intention of ever parting with a book, let us now go into the periodical room. Here we spend hours sifting through an imposing array of magazines-magazines from all the far corners of the earth, magazines of every nature and description-but though we search diligently and well, we cannot find Mad or Next let us venture into the reference room. Here in this hushed, vaulted chamber, we find the true scholars of the university—earnest, dedicated young men and women who care for only one thing in the world: the pursuit of knowledge.

Let us eavesdrop for a moment on this erudite couple poring over heavy tomes at the corner table. Hush! She speaks:

SHE: Whatcha readin', hey? HE: The Origin of Species. You ever read it? SHE: No, but I seen the movie.

HE: Oh. SHE: You like readin'? HE: Naah.

SHE: What do you like? HE: Hockey, licorice, girls, stuff like that.

SHE: Me too, hey. HE: You pinned or anything? SHE: Well, sort of. I'm wearin a fellow's motorcycle emblem . . . But it's only platonic. HE: Wanna go out for a smoke?

SHE: Marlboro? HE: What else?

And as our learned friends take their leave, let us too went our way homeward-a trifle weary, perhaps, but enlightened and renewed and better citizens for having spent these happy hours in the library, Aloha, library, aloha!

Distinguished from that which has practical application, pure research is concerned with the discovery of fundamental knowledge to widen man's understanding of himself and the universe.

Ford Motor Company's Scientific Laboratory in Dearborn, Michigan is dedicated to the pursuit of knowledge in the physical sciences. On its staff are scientists of national and international reputation who conduct independent basic research programs of an extremely broad nature.

Why does Ford Motor Company support research which seemingly is unrelated to the manufacture of its products?

It is our view, and a pioneering concept in our industry, that entirely new approaches to automotive development can come only from unhampered scientific investigation. Deeper understanding of matter itself, and of the conversion and storage of energy-aside from widening man's primary knowledge-may have practical application in tomorrow's vehicle

Thus knowledge wrested from nature by scientists will be taken by technologists and applied to serve practical needs and desires. Another example of Ford's leadership through scientific research and
