Annual Giving Outlook Good

Prospects for a successful Annual Giving campaign look good as evidenced by the many gifts and pledges received by Trinity's Development Office through January 20.

The Alumni Fund has received $139,015 in gifts or pledges from 1,413 sources, or 46% of its goal of $300,000. Last year during the same period, $119,147 had been received.

Forty-six per cent of the funds sought for the Parents Fund have also been pledged or received from 330 donors, who contributed $48,640 of the $105,000 needed.

Business and Industry Associates have already given $23,791, or 37% of the $65,000 sought.

The largest contributions percentage-wise to date are from 62 donors to the Friends of Trinity Fund, who have given or pledged $21,075, or 70% of the $30,000 desired.

New contributors include 255 alumni, 98 parents, nine friends and 10 business and industry donors.

The Anniversary Club, whose membership includes those giving between $150 and $999, has 413 alumni, parents and friends as members this year. There are 110 new members.

Thirty-eight persons have joined the Founders Society for 1974-75 contributing $1,000 or more. Six of these members are new.

Applications Rise

Applications for admission as freshmen to the College are up slightly from last year. To date, 2,880 applications have been submitted.

Last year at this time, 2,828 applications had been received. In 1973, 2,302 persons applied.

Editorial Support

Considerable editorial support for the national fund raising campaign has been received from Hartford area media. Reprints of several of the articles appear on page 4.

Descartes Meetings Attract Scholars

A very successful two-day colloquium on Rene Descartes, the French philosopher, was held on Saturday and Sunday, January 25 and 26 in Wean Lounge at the College. Topic for the event was "Cartesian Coordinates."

The colloquium was sponsored by the Philosophy Department, the lecture committee and the dean of faculty. Participants included faculty from Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Brandeis, Northeastern and the University of Iceland.

Saturday's program began at 10 a.m. with a presentation on "Validating Reason: A Locked-Room Mystery." At 2 p.m., "Cartesian Dualism" was the topic for a second discussion. The evening program was on the topic "Dualism in Descartes: the Logical Ground."

Sunday's program began at 10 a.m. on the subject "Descartes' Denial of Mind-Body Identity." "The Representational Character of Ideas and The Problem of the External World" followed at 1 p.m. "The Beast Machine" concluded the colloquium.

$12 Million Campaign Launched By Trustees

The College has launched a national fund raising campaign seeking $12 million for faculty and for academic program, for scholarships, for the library, and for improvement of the campus.

Achievement of this objective, according to President Lockwood, "will sustain Trinity as a small college of the highest quality. Undeniably, our nation is in need of strong institutions like Trinity where students can come to grips with important moral, social, and intellectual issues. Our goal is the continued development of this College as a place where sound scholarship is grounded in a concern for the ethical values of life."

More than $4 million has already been raised toward the goal. At a campaign kickoff ceremony held Saturday, January 18 at the College, Robert M. Blum, a New York attorney and national campaign chairman, reported that $4,165,025 in advance gifts and pledges have been received. He said "These gifts, totaling just over a third of our goal, are certainly a great expression of confidence in Trinity, especially in light of our nation's unfavorable economic situation."

The College expects to raise $5 million endowment for faculty and for academic program; $2.5 million endowment for scholarships; $1 million endowment for campus improvement; $1 million endowment for the library, and $2.5 million for construction of the new library wing. The appeal is being made not only locally, but nationwide to alumni, parents, philanthropic foundations, business firms and other friends of the College.

In announcing the start of this campaign, Dr. Lockwood said "Trinity today enjoys an enviable reputation, not only for the quality of its academic program, but also for the responsible manner in which we have managed our limited financial resources. Our budgets have been balanced each year and we have increased the income yield from our existing endowment funds. We have done this at a time when many colleges and universities are facing deficit budgets. Yet we realize that if Trinity is to continue to remain competitive with the best educational institutions, and if Trinity is to continue to make a significant contribution to society through the quality of the education we provide, it is imperative that we now increase the endowment base supporting our academic program and facilities."

"We are in a situation in which our faculty salaries are not fully competitive; in which our scholarship funds are not sufficient to permit us to help enough qualified students from the lower and middle economic levels; in which our library is severely overcrowded, and in which rising costs of maintenance cut ever more deeply into our annual operating budget," Dr. Lockwood said.

"This is why the greater portion of this campaign will go into our endowment. Endowment funds, which are held permanently and invested by the College, provide an annual income yield which supports the operating costs of current programs. Endowment income, tuition, and annual gifts are the three chief sources of revenue in Trinity's annual budget, the chief source being tuition. Endowment, however, is an essential resource which enables Trinity to maintain enduring programs of high quality without at the same time putting the costs of these programs beyond the reach of most students."

"The College's endowment of about $26 million is modest when compared to the endowments of the other colleges with which we compete for students and for faculty talent," Dr. Lockwood said. "The new endowment we seek will put Trinity in a better competitive position with these institutions."

Recent figures show Wesleyan with $114 million endowment; Amherst with $75 million endowment; Oberlin with $69 million endowment; Williams with $58 million endowment and Swarthmore with $52 million endowment.

"Central to our academic effort is the Trinity College Library, which in recent years has become too small for the number of books it contains and for the increased number of library users. After careful study, we have determined that the library building must be expanded, and are therefore including a $2.5 million addition as part of this fund raising campaign," Dr. Lockwood said.

The present library building, constructed in 1952, was expanded in 1967 when a basement floor was converted to provide additional shelf and seating space. However, this was not adequate to meet the increased size of the collection and number of users. The planned addition, based on projections for the next 20 years, will create new shelf space for 200,000 volumes, will provide 250 additional seating spaces, and create additional work space for staff.

"We recognize," Dr. Lockwood said, "that economic conditions are not favorable for launching a campaign of this magnitude. But, in a real sense, we have no choice. As our campaign motto points out, this must be 'an extraordinary effort' on the part of many people 'to sustain the values of a Trinity education.' Trinity's needs are intractable needs, and we must act now to meet them. We believe our goal is realistic in light of its importance to Trinity and, by implication, to the community at large."

"During and after this capital campaign, we will be continuing to make our yearly appeals for unrestricted gifts to our Annual Giving Funds, which in recent years have raised $500,000 toward the annual budget," Dr. Lockwood added.

Present at the announcement were trustees, members of the National Campaign Committee, faculty, stu-

THIS COED CAN'T PUT HER FOOT IN HER MOUTH, at least not with this king-sized Dr. Scholl sandal. Susan L. Reeder, a senior majoring in studio art, poses above with a giant sandal which she made for a class in sculpturing. The sandal was a class project which called for making an everyday object big. Susan worked on the project on and off for about a month, and her finished project resulted in the paper and cardboard creation above. At last report, she was willing to sell her masterpiece. Anyone for a size 6½, foot that is, sandal?

FIFTEEN STUDENTS ARE AT THE CONNECTICUT STATE HOUSE learning the workings of government. The students are there under Trinity's legislative internship program and function as full or part time legislative assistants for representatives or senators. Above, Andrew M. Paalborg (left), a sophomore majoring in American studies, is briefed by his boss, State Rep. Joan R. Kemler M.A. '72 of West Hartford. Paalborg will assist Mrs. Kemler in committee work and in research on sponsoring and co-sponsoring bills for the General Assembly.

CAMPUS NOTES

Dr. Sonia Lee, assistant professor of modern languages, recently delivered a lecture, in French, at the University of Rhode Island entitled "The Image of the Mother in the African Novel of French Expression."

Alfred C. Burfeind '64, editorial consultant in the Development Office, has joined the Board of Directors of the Greater Hartford Campus Ministry. The Campus Ministry is an ecumenical program serving seven colleges and universities in the area. Burfeind is also on the Board of Directors of the Connecticut Council of Churches.

Ms. Stephanie Woodard, acting director of the Trinity dance program and Ms. Wendy Perron, guest artist in dance, have been awarded grants. Ms. Woodard has received $2,500 from the Connecticut Commission on the Arts in collaboration with Ms. Katherine Gallagher of the New Haven Dance Ensemble. The production which will result from this grant will take place February 15 in Crowell Concert Hall, Center for the Arts, Wesleyan.

Ms. Perron has been awarded a choreographic fellowship by the National Endowment of the Arts.

Ms. Judith Dworin, instructor in dance at the College, appeared on a program on Channel 30 television in December. Entitled "What About Women," Ms. Dworin was interviewed and presented two original works.

Dr. Clyde D. McKee, associate professor of political science, has been appointed to the Public Policy Committee of the American Society for Public Administration in Washington. The purpose of the Public Policy Committee is to assist the National Council in defining and addressing a set of problems and issues concerning public administration, and to promote an awareness and concern of the role of public administration in the service of the nation.

Dr. Richard P. Burton, associate professor of English, is the editor of "Poe as Literary Cosmologist, Studies on 'Eureka', A Symposium" which will be published by Transcendental Books in the Spring.

Dr. J. Bard McNulty, professor of English, has been appointed Secretary of the Faculty as of January 15, 1975.

Dr. Clarence H. Barber, professor and director of the program in music and Ms. Judith Rohrer, instructor in fine arts, conducted a dialogue on music and art with slides and music as illustration in the Austin Arts Center in January. The program which was co-sponsored by the College's Arts Department and the Hartford Symphony Auxiliary also included an exhibition of paintings loaned by friends of the Hartford Symphony and a concert performed by the Hartford Harp Trio.

Seventy-nine Trinity students are studying in foreign countries during the present academic year. Students are in Italy, France, Denmark, Israel, England, Spain, Austria, Greece, Scotland, the Netherlands, Sweden and Puerto Rico.

Trinity and the Connecticut State Department of Education recently co-sponsored a one-day seminar on Secondary School Computing at the College. Participants were secondary school students from Connecticut and Massachusetts. The seminar was directed by Theodore R. Blakeslee, associate professor of engineering, assisted by Ms. Sharon J. Laskowski '75. Ms. Laskowski, a mathematics major, plans graduate study in computer sciences.

Blakeslee also conducted a computer workshop in January for the Bureau of Elementary and Secondary Education, Connecticut State Department of Education. The College's computing facilities were used heavily during the workshop. Mr. Blakeslee was assisted by David Ahlgren, lecturer in engineering, and Ms. Laskowski.

Dr. Donald D. Hook, associate professor of modern languages, reviewed "Kritische Ges-praecher" by Crean/Berghahn for the German Quarterly.

Trinity's Individualized Degree Program (IDP) was recently discussed on "From the College Campus" on WFSB-TV. Dr. Frank G. Kirkpatrick, director of the program, and Ms. Louise H. Fisher, assistant to the director of admissions for IDP and several IDP students were the guests on the program.

Letter to the Editor

Dr. Jerome P. Webster

As a student at Holderness School from 1904 to 1908, and at Trinity thereafter, I knew Dr. Jerome P. Webster well and greatly appreciated the fine obituary notice given him in the December 1974 issue of The Trinity Reporter. Jerome (known as Jum and Jumbo in his prep-school days and as Dan in college) was one of Trinity's truly great alumni.

That obituary should be supplemented, I believe, by some mention of the Dr. Jerome P. Webster Library of Plastic Surgery in the Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital in New York. I know little of its history, but I do know that it is a remarkable, extensive, and almost priceless, collection of the literature of plastic surgery. Some of the rare volumes in it date back as much as 400 years. That fact greatly surprised me, as I had no idea that this surgical specialty had its beginnings so far in the past.

Jerome showed me some of these books and other prizes of the collection in the course of an afternoon's visit two or three years ago. He showed me also two of the many series of photographs which illustrate each step of his most notable plastic surgery operations; these, carefully filed and documented, occupied a considerable volume of filing space and, it seemed to me, should be immensely valuable to other plastic surgeons.

Adrien P. Mally

Tripod Editor

Adrien P. Mally, a 21-year-old junior majoring in urban studies, is the new editor-in-chief of The Trinity Tripod, student newspaper. She is the third woman to hold the post.

She succeeds James W. Cobbs, Jr., a junior from Greenwich, Connecticut, who is now business manager of the publication.

Editor of The Viking, the student newspaper at Atlantic City (New Jersey) High School before coming to the College, she joined The Tripod as a copy editor in her freshman year. While an exchange student at Dartmouth last year, she was an editor of the Daily Dartmouth. She was also a member of the Dartmouth Outing Club and the Environmental Studies Committee.

Ms. Mally plans to change The Tripod's current four column format to five columns, which she feels will create a more attractive layout and will better reflect the tone and content of the newspaper. She also plans changing headline styles.

Field Director For Campaign

William R. Pelle, Jr. has been appointed Field Director for the Capital Campaign in the Development Office.

A graduate of Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Virginia, he received a bachelor of arts degree from Trinity in 1970. Before returning to the College, he served as executive assistant to the secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation.

dents, and administrators. Dr. George W. B. Starkey, chairman of the board, read a resolution voted by the trustees at a meeting just prior to the announcement ceremony, which stated in part: "For more than 150 years Trinity College has sought to combine sound scholarship with concern for the moral implications of all learning. Believing this purpose to be in the best interests of society, and believing that Trinity can best continue this purpose by remaining a small college of the highest quality, the Trustees of Trinity College today announce, and give their wholehearted support to, a fund raising campaign for $12,000,000 to sustain the values of a Trinity education."

Chairman Blum pointed out that the campaign is now in process of soliciting "major gifts," of $10,000 or more, and that a general solicitation of alumni and friends of the College would not begin until this fall or later. Publications describing the campaign were also distributed, including a 16-page brochure outlining the scope and purposes of the campaign.

The campaign plans were prepared by a National Campaign Committee, headed by Blum, and including Henry

National Campaign Editorial Support

The announcement by President Lockwood which kicked off the $12 million national fund raising campaign for faculty and for academic programs, scholarships, the library and for improvement of the campus, has received considerable editorial support.

The Hartford Times January 26, 1975

Help Trinity College

Trinity College is involved in a national campaign to raise $12 million for expansion of its scholarship program, for general campus improvement and for expansion of its library.

The campaign is worthy of widespread support from the Greater Hartford community.

The college has already raised more than one-third of its goal, but collecting the balance will be no easy task in view of the state of the nation's economy, but it is the very state of the economy that has made the campaign necessary.

Trinity President Theodore D. Lockwood finds that Trinity is no longer fully competitive in faculty salaries; scholarship funds are insufficient to help enough potential students from the diverse backgrounds that add much to the college; the library is overcrowded; and rising costs of maintenance cut ever more deeply into the school's annual operating budget.

Dr. Lockwood, in announcing the campaign said, "Trinity College today enjoys an enviable reputation, not only for the quality of its academic program, but also for the responsible manner in which we have managed our limited financial resources." And it is worth noting that Trinity has maintained balanced budgets at a time when many colleges and universities are facing severe budget deficits.

Trinity has been an integral part of the Greater Hartford community for 150 years. There has been a long tradition of cooperation and assistance that has gone both ways over the decades, and that cooperation has benefitted the community culturally, economically, socially and educationally.

When the community has needed assistance that Trinity could offer, Trinity has been there. Now, as in the past, when Trinity needs assistance, the community, too, will be there to provide it.

The success of the campaign will depend on donations both large and small — and none are too small. It is a worthy campaign deserving of total community support.

Printed below, with permission of the respective publishers, are several editorials which appeared in the Hartford area shortly after the campaign announcement was made.

The Hartford Courant January 19, 1975

Trinity's Extraordinary Effort

As Hartford's own Trinity College publicly embarks on a national effort to raise $12 million for multi-purpose use, the thought occurs how confidently we could face the future if only money were needed to shape and assure it. Suddenly, we are reminded once again that money is now and evermore will be only the means to an end. It is important that Trinity reaches its monetary goal but it is infinitely more important that its purpose be attained.

The objective can be spelled out more succinctly than the purpose. The objective is simply to provide new gift capital for the following needs: Faculty, $5 million; scholarships, $2.5 million; library, $3.5 million, and campus, $1 million. These priorities, we are assured, have been carefully allocated and the distribution is the best judgment of the college administration and trustees. So much for the money.

What will really matter in the response to Trinity's fund-raising campaign is the measure of endorsement of its purpose. Nothing could be more rewarding, nor bode better for the future, than to have the campaign succeed because givers felt they were contributing as much to the dignity of man as to his knowledge.

Youth and many of the teachers of today give hopeful signs that society at last is stirring to the magnetism of unselfishness, if not selflessness. It is to this end that Trinity and other colleges of its nature and tradition direct their resources and energies. That we have institutions so dedicated and that we have the means to insure their continued existence give us our best hope for the growth and spread of precious endowed men and women in whom integrity and responsibility are among the chief endowments.

The need for American and world citizens in whom basic human values and academic disciplines are inextricably combined cannot be overstated. Trinity itself describes its course of study thusly: to enable students to perceive the inherent value of knowledge and reason, free from ignorance and prejudice; to experience the joy of learning, and to discover the importance of ethical values in living their lives.

Society cannot buy such recruits. It can only seek them from sources such as Trinity; through thoughtfully rigorous training of young minds, the inculcation of values whose high worth is the worth of the individual, and the final development of character which can well mean the difference between a world of darkness and one of light. Such a goal and product are worth not only generous support but eager sacrifice.

West Hartford News January 23, 1975

$12,000,000 Bravery

Trinity's brave announcement that it is going out after $12,000,000 to "sustain Trinity values," has more than an educational message for these parlous times.

The decision puts into action the truism that the time to do anything is when it should be done. Undoubtedly the Trinity brass pondered whether this "is the time to ask for contributions." Their answer "yes" is fulfillment of the Trinity leadership's responsibility to its students.

The 151-year-old college on the hill in Hartford is conscious of its recognition of the nation's "great and continuing need for well-educated citizens who have also learned to apply their knowledge with integrity." Though Trinity claims this as a "distinctive purpose" of a Trinity education, such a questionably singular attribute does not have to be pursued literally. It is sufficient that the well-educated citizens who make the decisions at Trinity are applying their knowledge with integrity to the intellectual welfare of faculty and student body. They are going to get them the money needed to enable a small college, rich in its profession of the humanities, to keep on giving full value in the development of the young men and women entrusted to it.

The twin purposes of enlarging knowledge and sustaining ethical values cannot be advanced by short-changing the next generation. This calls for increased scholarship help to those unable otherwise to go to Trinity, for strengthening faculty salaries, for improving the library services and keeping up the campus environment.

Many colleges are taking the view that some of these things can go undone because the economy is currently tight. But everything is relative, and the decision by Trinity to plough ahead, even when the soil ahead may be a little rocky, is sound policy-making. It is an attitude which hopefully is contagious.

Sorry that you who are still up and around were not at the game, Trinity-Amherst on November 9, not to mention, Trinity-Wesleyan on November 16 — two great days for those of us still undergraduates at heart (sometimes). Carol and I had a good visit with GEORGE FERRIS who appeared with various and assorted grandsons.

I was pleased to receive a very interesting letter from Ms. Nancy T. Searle, assistant director of financial aid at Trinity, telling of some splendid results of our "Class of 1916 Memorial Scholarship Fund" for 74-75. I quote to you her last paragraph: "On behalf of the College, I would like to express our appreciation for the contribution which the Class of 1916 Memorial Scholarship makes to the financial aid program at Trinity. As you know, needy and deserving students would be unable to enroll at the College without such scholarship assistance." I hope you all read the latest Trinity College Bulletin catalog issue 74-75. Note under "Scholarship," page 212, CHARLES BYRON and Ila B. SPOFFORD bequests with preference for upperclass students with financial needs.

This bequest is apparently in addition to his other very significant bequests for general purposes. Great man "Hoppe Spofford," how we miss him! What a great message we all just received from TED LOCKWOOD '48 about the alumni fund and annual giving for 1974-75.

Don't forget about "matching gifts" from your companies or former companies. Some companies will match your gifts to Trinity even though you are retired. Try it.

DAVE HADLOW is distinguished gifts chairman on the alumni steering committee for the annual alumni fund.

CHUCK MORRIS is president of the Milton, Massachusetts Historical Society. He is the author of a book published recently in connection with the national bicentennial celebration, The Story of the Suffolk Resolves, which narrates the incident of Massachusetts Colonists' adoption of resolutions in 1774 submitted to, and accepted by, the First Continental Congress in Philadelphia. The resolutions, addressed to the British Crown, condemned suppressions exerted by the Crown not only on Bay State colonists, but also the other twelve colonies. Chuck will be very active in Milton's celebration of the bicentennial, which will begin in that town on the 200th anniversary of the Resolves. Now retired, he was head of the English department at Milton Academy, Milton, Massachusetts. Chuck and his wife, Sarah, are in excellent health and very active in Milton affairs.

Our class recently took in a second honorary member (at the Amherst game luncheon) in the person of CRAMPTON TRAINER, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, a prominent and distinguished business man in Hartford and particularly a great friend of Trinity. We heartily welcome Crampton to the class.

Don't forget your 50TH REUNION in late May; dates, schedule and program will be forthcoming.

26 Mr. N. Ross Parke
18 Van Buren Avenue
West Hartford, CT 06107

Surely DICK FORD speaks for all of us of 2T6 when he says — "Looking forward to celebrating both the Bicentennial and Our 50th in 1976." Thank you, Dick.

2T6 is so grateful to JIMMY BURR and WALT RILEY for their going last September and seeing PETIE HOUGH and Janet in Nova Scotia and giving them our best.

Similarly, we're grateful to NORM and Jean PITCHER for after visiting their daughter, Lorna-Jean, and finding her coming along o.k. They had the pleasure of visiting with good ole KEN STUER and finding him also in good order.

We're grateful we can make these favorable reports. How about sending in yours, if you please?

It was great this Christmas-time to have a good word from the KACK AVITABLES, BILL NICOLL and Georgianna, MARTIE COLETTA and Lettie, HOWARD and Doris TULE; and to hear from our good BOB SHEEHAN's dear wife, Dorothy; and similarly from our good MILT PELLETT's dear wife; which also goes for FRANK ANIK's dear wife, Virginia; and it's so good to hear from dear Ruth Glotzer. Gratefully, MERRILL and Helen SHERMAN and grandchildren are all doing well and this also goes for FRANC and Marian PRYOR, Kay Hubbard, HERB and Peg NOBLE. It is great to learn that ABO and Marion NEWELL are looking forward to going to Florida. And it's good to hear favorably from McBURNEY's dear Vera, and above all to have the artistic greeting and poem from ours and Trinity's truly illustrious and revered friends, Dr. and Mrs. Jacobs.

The best from your Secretary and his dear wife, Vivian. Gratefully we can report to having expressed the 1974 Christmas card for the Mechanics Savings Bank here in Hartford. What news have you for us?

Your Secretary chatted with AL SCHACK who is at his home at 892 North Main Street, West Hartford, Conn. 06117, recovering from a serious auto accident. Also talked with VAHAN ANANIKIAN who also is home recovering from an operation.

While in New York City before Christmas, I called on DICK THOMAS who teaches French at the Rhodes School, 11 West 54th Street. We had a pleasant chat and I showed Dick the fine pictures of '34s 40th which GRAHAM DAY and BRYANT GREEN had kindly sent me. Dick is in good health, and was leaving that evening for two weeks in Italy.

Have had two good talks with JOHN SOUNEY whose son, Sean, is a senior at Guilford (Conn.) High School, and is applying to Trinity for next September.

Phyllis and I called on ANDY ONDERDONK just before Christmas and were amazed to note how many bags of bird seed can be packed into a one car garage. The birds are for Andy!

I've heard from three of you since last month — not a very good record for a class of almost one hundred times that size. BOB WHITE writes that after graduating from Western New England College School of Law last May, he was admitted to the Connecticut Bar on October 8, 1974. Bob has a new home at 8 Beverly Road, West Hartford.

PHIL MURPHY has moved back to New England from Ohio, gladly he says, and is now project leader for all the Lynn, Massachusetts cost systems for General Electric.

Finally, Connecticut Mutual wrote to inform us that RAY CAVANAUGH has been promoted to associate underwriter at that company. Ray's living in Middletown, Connecticut with his wife and son. Where are the rest of you?

It's now several days after Christmas and I have an end of the year deadline to write this column but with few cards and letters I don't have much news.

I did get several cards, however. One from CHARLEY and Candy KURZ; another from TOM PASTORE who wrote that he is now with the Regional Transportation District in Denver, Colorado, which was created for the purpose of developing a mass transportation system for the metropolitan area. (For those of you who didn't know and do care — LA recently voted down once again a mass transit system . . . they still want their freeways here). Tom loves Denver — especially its life style with plenty of skiing in the winter and tennis in the summer. He reports that his brother BILL PASTORE is now in San Francisco, California with Hospital Affiliates and shuttles back and forth between San Francisco and Florida.

A newspaper clipping from the "Darien Review" in Connecticut indicates that WALTER SEIBERT was recently appointed an assistant secretary of the United States Trust Company of New York. After graduating from Trinity and serving in the U.S. Army, Walter joined the trust company as a college trainee in 1970. He now lives with his wife, Barbara, and their son in Stamford, Connecticut. Congratulations, Walter.

Another Walter deserves congratulations. WALTER HARRIMAN received a good Christmas present with his promotion to vice president of U.S. Imports here in Los Angeles, California.

At UCLA, where I'm still working part time on an MBA, I ran across MIKE McLEAN's older brother Ephraim who is an Assistant Professor in the Graduate School of Management. He reported that Mike's been in the Bethesda Naval Hospital with a slipped disc. Having slightly injured my back I can imagine how painful it must be. Let's hope you get well soon, Mike. For those of you who want to wish him well, you can write him at his home address at 5523 Mitcham Court, Springfield, Virginia 22151. Incidentally, Mike has decided to make the Navy a career so when he's got his back straightened out he'll be going to Destroyer School in Newport.

To get more news I just called RICK STULTZ who's living up north in Palo Alto, California with his wife and is now working just four blocks away from his home for Hare, Brewer and Kelley, a commercial real estate development and property management company. He reports that DAN HADEN has recently come back from an architectural fellowship program in Madrid, Spain and that NATE RATH is back from the Peace Corps in Tunisia. Where are you now, Dan and Nate?

And in case you didn't notice — I've moved — to a condominium in Westwood which is the UCLA area of Los Angeles. It's got two bedrooms so if any of you are coming West — you have a place to stay.

PETER HARTMAN has been promoted to instructor at the New England Merchants National Bank in Boston, Massachusetts.

All those who were at St. Anthony Hall on Alumni Weekend are thanked for the warm welcome which they gave the group "Brian MacDonald and The Electric Cowboy." Sound familiar? If not, listen to the sound track album of The Planet of the Apes which the group has just completed. ROGER BRIGGS has been playing lead guitar with the group since August 1973. They have also just signed a recording contract with a New York producer.

PAUL BASCH is now employed as a relocation officer for the Enfield, Connecticut Redevelopment Agency which is working on one of the last conventional Urban Renewal Programs.

BEN FOSTER reports that after a two year stint as a fellow with the Center for the Study of Public Policy, Cambridge, Massachusetts, he has returned to the less-than-serene atmosphere of Hartford. Ben is presently teaching sociology at Asnuntuck Community College, Enfield, Connecticut while he pursues his doctorate. He and his wife, Hazel, have an 8 month old son, Bayete.

PHIL McGOOHAN is one of two graduate students awarded Colgate Marketing Fellowships at the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration at Dartmouth College in New Hampshire.

After graduating from Duke Law School last May, BILL BORCHERT passed the Connecticut Bar Exam in September and is now associated with Halloran Sage, Phelon and Hagarty in Hartford.

PIETER CRUSON is employed as a programmer-analyst at the Institute of Living in Hartford.

LESLIE DAVIS JACKSON has returned to North Texas State University for a Masters in counseling. Since graduation she has been working in radio and TV commercial production for a large ad agency and still freelances some. Leslie's husband, Paul, works for an airline and she says they plan to do a lot of traveling.

HAM CLARK has become associate director of admissions at the Pomfret School in Pomfret, Connecticut this year after serving as an assistant admissions director at Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

AL FLOYD writes that he has married the former Sharon Ann Bingham of Hartford and is now employed as a materials management engineer at Hamilton Standard Division of U.A.C. in Windsor Locks, Connecticut. He spends his spare time as an official basketball referee in the Hartford area.

TOM ROUSE is the articles editor for the Connecticut Law Review while completing his third year at the University of Connecticut Law School. He will become an associate in the firm of Ribicoff & Kotkin in Hartford in May 1975.

BILL SPEED is in his third year of law school at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. and is engaged to SHARON NASKA '74.

DICK HESS has a thriving band with DAVE TOLAND '74 and DEBRA KORET '73. They live at 606 4th Street, Georgetown, Colorado 80444.

As "merely another paper-pushing petty bureaucrat," Commander BOB WHITEHEAD works as a legal research assistant at the Connecticut Planning Committee on Criminal Administration. In his spare time, Bob is completing his third year at the University of Connecticut Law School.

RICHARD HALL, an air force 1st lieutenant, is the copilot of a KC-135 Tanker. His address is Box 17415, Rickenbacker AFB, Columbus, Ohio 43217.

MIKE SOOLEY works now in Columbia, South Carolina as a systems analyst for Electronic Data Systems.

JAY GOODWIN thrives in the beautiful Alp-like valley of Telluride, Colorado. As a ski school instructor during the day, he has just enough energy left to manage his restaurant-night club business at night, but at least he doesn't complain about the skiing any more.

CHARLES YEAGER recently opened his own law firm with a partner in Alexandria, Louisiana. He has had only a handful of clients so far but has managed enough fees in order to live on a one acre antebellum estate complete with chandeliers, fireplaces, swimming pool, tennis court, porches, and mint juleps.

HARVEY ZENDT works as the soccer, wrestling and lacrosse coach while teaching woodshop, history, and religious education at a Philadelphia area high school. He writes that he is still tempted to take that year or two around-the-world surfing trip.

SHARON NASKA presently holds a position in the numeric control systems programming department of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft in East Hartford. An October 12, 1975 wedding is planned to WILLIAM SPEED '72.

REBECCA ADAMS is studying sociology in graduate school at the University of Connecticut. Her advice to her friends at Trinity is to wait a while before continuing school, since once you are there you are stuck. She says she has seen many Trinity folks at UConn.

MASTERS

1954 DON BATES, veteran golf coach at Berlin (Conn.) High School, has been named Coach of the Year by the Connecticut High School Coaches Association.

1955 DAVE BREWER, after two seasons as a special assignment scout for the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, has taken a new position with the New Expansion Kansas City Scouts. He will be the special assignment scout for the New York area, but will continue living in West Hartford and will continue to cover many of the cities having teams in the National Hockey League as well as covering Hartford's new W.H.A. team.

1956 JOE DONAHUE has just published his first novel, Someone Watching. It is a suspense novel laid in off-season Cape Cod and he says is described generally by the few who have read it as "terrifying." He said he managed to get Trinity College on the book jacket by virtue of the fact he did his M.A. thesis on "The Anatomy of the Mystery Melodrama." Joe says "buy it — and be terrified."

1957 GEORGE MURRAY has been appointed to a two year term on the advisory council of Hartford Cable Television, Inc., West Hartford.

1960 MRS. GRETA CHENEY recently presented an illustrated discussion on "The Isles of Greece" at the Berlin (Connecticut) Congregational Church. Mrs. Cheney has traveled extensively in the Near East.

1963 GEORGE VANNAH is currently teaching European history at Hopkins Grammar-Day Prospect Hill Schools in New Haven. George has a new home at 29 Westpoint Terrace, West Hartford.

1965 BARBARA CARPENTER says she hasn't anything new to report but is doing the usual things concerned with retirement — club meetings, concerts, plays and travel.

IN MEMORY

ORIE LEON PHILLIPS, Hon. 1955

Orie L. Phillips died November 14, 1974 in Naples, Florida. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Frank Farmer. His wife died in 1968.
