GOVERNOR'S Foot Guard Band watches for signal to play "Neath the Elms."

To the strains of the Processional March played by the First Company, Governor's Foot Guard Band, the largest class in Trinity history wound its way down the Long Walk for the last time as undergraduates. Waiting for them under the outstretched arm of Bishop Brownell was an overflow audience of about 4,000 well-wishers. When the ceremony was over Trinity had acquired 458 alumni with bachelor's degrees and 70 with master's degrees. Seven persons were awarded honorary degrees.

In his charge to the senior class, President Lockwood said in part, "We all look ahead with uncertainty. Yet, whatever our positions, we know that we want to create a world of our own making, received but not precast. We hope that somehow we may make a mark on the world we inherited . . . We are linked with one another; we define our humanity by both our contemplation and our action. I have only this simple message: do it your own way, but do it humanely . . ."

The College awarded honorary degrees to Mary Ellen Avery, M.D., professor of pediatrics at Harvard University; Ostrom Enders, retired Hartford business executive and civic leader of Avon, Conn.; Harry J. Gray, chief executive officer, president and chairman of United Technologies; Frank S. Jones, professor of urban affairs at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; The Right Reverend Robert S. Kerr '40, Episcopal Bishop of Vermont; Robert B. O'Connor '16, architect and consultant; and W. Anthony Paddon, M.D. '35, director of Grenfell Association Northern Medical Services of Labrador.

This year's graduates came from 32 states plus Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia and four foreign countries.

The class included the largest number of women to graduate since the College went coeducational in 1969. The Bachelor of Arts degree was awarded to 358 students and the Bachelor of Science degree to 100.

Valedictorian was Stephen J. Poole of Wilmington, Del., a biology major, Phi Beta Kappa, Holland Scholar and honorary H.E. Russell Fellow, who also received honors in general scholarship and departmental honors in biology.

Susan Anne McGill of Glastonbury, Conn. was Salutatorian. A biochemistry major, Phi Beta Kappa, W.H. Russell Fellow, Holland Scholar and Kriebel Scholar, she also received honors in general scholarship and departmental honors in chemistry.

Thirteen other students received Honors in general scholarship. They are Donald C. Baur of Meriden, Conn., also with honors in history; Phyllis K. Roberts of White Plains, N.Y.; Michele E. Veseskis of Hartford, also with honors in English; Timothy A. Cross of East Sandwich, Mass., also with honors in chemistry; Thomas E. Bell of Berwin, Pa., also with honors in biology; Daniel S. burn, Wash., also with honors in economics; Stephen J. Swiatkiewicz of East Hartford, Conn., who also received honors in history; Sally E. Tarbell of Windsor, Conn., who also received honors in psychology; Stuart L. Koman of Baltimore, Md., who also received honors in psychology; and Barbara F. Bass of South Glastonbury, Conn., who also received honors in biology.

A total of 87 seniors were graduated with honors in their respective major areas of study.

One senior, Chester B. Derr of South Woodstock, Conn., received a B.S. degree from Trinity and also received a Master of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute under a professional degree program in conjunction with R.P.I., in Troy, N.Y.

The first member of Trinity's Individualized Degree Program to graduate is a member of the class of '76. She is Kay Lazarus of Simsbury, Conn., housewife and mother of three, who received the B.A. The IDP program permits students to study at their own pace, taking as many as eight years or more, without being required to attend classes.

A married couple also graduated. Eileen and John Fisher received B.A.'s. Eileen, originally from Canton, Conn., met John Fisher of Clifton Heights, N.J. while at Trinity.

Barbara Bass of South Glastonbury, Conn. returned to Trinity after receiving her B.A. in 1972 to acquire a B.S. in biology this year. In the interim she worked for the Lung Association for two years and in 1975 was appointed by Connecticut's Governor Ella Grasso to the Nuclear Power Evaluation Council whose report on atomic safety regulations is due next February.

Alexander Lepak, Jr. of Windsor graduated with one of the largest number of majors on record. Lepak, a former "Green Beret" and professional musician, majored in physics, mathematics and chemistry for the B.S. degree.

Leanne Garofolo of Wethersfield, Conn. made graduation a family affair. She has three brothers, all of whom are Trinity graduates. Her father, Alfred Garofolo, a retired Hartford police captain, is Trinity's director of campus security and is also taking courses at the College.

Two women whose children are also attending Trinity received degrees. They are Margery Izard of Wethersfield, Conn. whose son is a freshman and whose husband is Trinity's medical director; and Barbara White of Hartford, mother of four, whose son is a Trinity sophomore.

"Joke Night" Not A Joke

Campus Gathering Causes Concern

As the '75-'76 academic year drew to an end, the college community was unexpectedly and abruptly faced with a problem for which, in the nature of things, there is no one perfect solution. The affair began with an expression of racist and sexist sentiments on the campus and, within a few weeks, was the subject of news articles and editorials throughout the country. Editorial opinion mainly supported the stand taken by President Lockwood, who had moved quickly to curb further occurrences; some, however, urged caution fearing that the constitutional right of free speech could be jeopardized.

The controversial affair began innocently enough as a student-sponsored "Joke Night" held on campus in early April and attended by about 250 students. What occurred is summarized in a letter reporting on the event written by Dr. Robert Lindsay, professor of physics and chairman of Trinity's Special Council on Minority Students, and vice president Thomas A. Smith. President Lockwood had asked the Council to prepare a report with recommendations.

"On April 22 the Council met with members of the Student Government Association, members of Mather Board of Governors, some of whom were present at the April 9 Joke Night, and with a member of the faculty and an administrator who were also present during a part of the evening. We listened to approximately two hours of accounts of what had taken place at Joke Night, and there is no question in the minds of the Council's members but that the event was outrageously offensive to blacks and to women.

"It offended as well against any standard of taste and conduct which ought to prevail among well-educated adults. That the nature of what was said and applauded on the occasion might easily have led to violence was clear. That it did not can only be said now to have been a matter of accident and the self-control of some of those who were members of the groups being abused.

"We consider the event to have been a moral outrage What is most incredible and dismaying is that an audience of over 250 Trinity undergraduates apparently participated in and enjoyed a program which was characterized by obscene and abusive verbal assaults upon the race and sex of fellow human beings"

Similar reactions quickly followed from other campus quarters. Writing to the Special Council in his role as chairman of the Trinity Faculty Conference, Dr. J. Bard McNulty said, "We do not wish to anticipate your findings, but it is our hope that you will leave no doubt in anyone's mind about the opposition of the Faculty Conference to expressions of gross racism and gross sexism under the guise of community entertainment"

Students, too, reacted with a flurry of indignant letters condemning the underlying attitudes expressed and the Mather Board of Governors publicly apologized.

After studying the recommendations of the Special Council on Minority Students, Lockwood responded with a number of forthright steps. He censured the officers of the Student Government Association, the chairman of the Mather Board of Governors and the chairman of the MBOG Small Group Activity Committee for their failure to exercise appropriate precautions and judgment. He tightened controls on future events held by the MBOG Small Group Activity Committee. He also set the wheels in motion to clarify and codify the College's position.

The College Affairs Committee and appropriate College officers were asked to consider preparing regulations to adopt "so that language or conduct which is abusive and intended to demean one because of one's race, ethnic origins, religion or sex be clearly identified as an offense which would normally merit suspension from the College."

The officers of the Student Government Association were asked to review at the beginning of each academic year the obligations all student organizations should be aware of to assure that those organizations are free of discrimination. Lockwood also asked that SGA take precautions to assure that organization members will not use College funds or facilities for abusive purposes.

Finally, he promised to work with the vice president and dean of students to clarify the "manner in which officers of the College and others should respond to such situations in the future so that such episodes will not recur — or, if begun, will terminate quickly."

In a published reply to a Hartford Courant editorial cautioning the College against any abridgement of the right of free speech, Lockwood summed up Trinity's position. He said, in part, "We wished to draw attention to the insensitivity which so easily foments intolerance, injustice, and, in many instances, violence. We concluded that it was time to remind the Trinity community that abusive language is unacceptable. In issuing that blunt reminder it was not our intention to inhibit free debate; rather, it was to provide thoughts and to heighten awareness — to make clear that there are certain standards of public conduct and one of these is basic respect for the dignity of others.

"In stating a judgment and in calling for the consideration of explicit guidelines, it is possible to appear as having overreacted. The suggestion of penalties sought to underscore the need for some appropriate action as the only approach which held any promise of raising the tone of this college community. The faculty-student-administration committee to which I directed this request will consider whether we can, or should, draft guidelines about such behavior. We are driven back to the problem of how, in a society that properly cherishes individual freedom, we try also to assure people of the right to be treated with respect and dignity. Any such effort risks the simplistic reply of authoritarianism, as one writer noted. That skirts the issue of trying to find a proper balance between competing rights. Surely we shall not achieve a higher level of morality in the daily struggle to improve man's lot if we fail to insist on respect for the dignity of others at the same time that we protect the right of free expression."

New Assignments Announced

In April the College announced adjustments in administrative assignments to meet more effectively foreseeable needs. J. Ronald Spencer '64, dean of students, has been appointed dean of studies. John S. Waggett '63, a former Trinity administrator, will return as assistant dean of the faculty and advisor to the freshman class. Gerald J. Hansen '51, director of alumni relations, has been named director of alumni and external affairs. Thomas Lips, director of external relations, has been appointed director of institutional affairs.

Spencer received an M.A. in history from Columbia University and joined the history department at Trinity in 1968. He was appointed dean for community life in 1971 and three years later was named dean of students. A part-time Hartford newspaper reporter during his undergraduate years, Spencer served as a lecturer in history at Brooklyn College of the City University of New York from 1966 to 1968.

Spencer will work with faculty on academic programs, assist in the clarification of academic objectives, oversee aspects of the curriculum and relate student perspectives to existing and proposed programs.

Spencer

Waggett

Waggett has been on indefinite leave to complete his graduate studies at the University of Michigan, where he has been serving as associate director of financial aid. At Trinity College he served until 1970 as director of financial aid and associate director of admissions. He is a member of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators and the American Association for Higher Education.

Waggett will work closely with undergraduates, faculty and alumni to improve the College's admissions efforts and will assist in increasing the effectiveness of financial aid programs. He will also act as liaison with the entering class and, with Dean Spencer, aid faculty in enhancing the experience of new students.

Hansen graduated from the Wharton School of Business of the University of Pennsylvania in 1952. Prior to joining Trinity in 1975, he had been an executive in the textile industry, serving as president and member of the board of directors of Mary Jane, Inc. An active alumnus, in recognition of his services to the College he was presented a 150th Anniversary Award in 1973.

Hansen will assume managerial responsibility for the Office of Public Information in addition to his role as alumni director, assisting that operation and bringing closer coordination between alumni and public relations activities.

Lips, a former attorney from San

Hansen

Lips

Francisco, was appointed assistant to President Lockwood in 1973 and director of external relations in 1975. A 1966 graduate of Dartmouth College, Lips earned the J.D. degree from Harvard Law School in 1969. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the American Bar Association, the State Bar of California, and the San Francisco Bar Association. Lips' new title is more appropriate to his current range of duties which include development work, affirmative action and legal counsel.

Graduate Studies Adds M.A. Option

In a poll of 273 Trinity students taken last fall, 195 or about 70 percent stated they were taking courses "for personal satisfaction and intellectual growth."

This and similar soundings in the Greater Hartford area by the Graduate Studies Office has led to the development of a new Masters Degree program to be offered next September for the first time.

The advanced degree program is designed to fill a need not satisfied by current offerings. The specific need in this instance was for a Master of Arts degree which would allow students to design their own programs from several traditional disciplines within the liberal arts area rather than concentrate their work in a single department.

The new program is part of a planned broadening of the graduate program by Graduate Studies Office director Ivan Backer.

The program formulated by the Graduate Studies Committee would lead to a Master of Liberal Arts degree. It provides, in a sense, a third option to the two now available. It is not viewed as a way-station toward the Ph.D. The program is for students who "continue their education to further their intellectual development rather than to gain professional advancement . . ." and who "welcome more flexible curricular options to meet their interests."

The mechanics will be spelled out in the catalog now being assembled: "To be accepted as a candidate each student must submit to the Graduate Studies Committee a statement of his/her proposed program of study. When the Graduate Studies Committee approves the student's proposal it will also assign a faculty advisor in planning his/her academic program.

Quite apart from its academic virtues, the new program has another aspect which commends it highly in a period of fiscal stringency. Only courses already offered will be included in the program. No new courses will be offered and therefore no extra expense to the College is expected.

Trinity in Action

Trinity's three-day "back-to-school" program held in April for a group of alumni and parents was officially titled "Trinity in Action." When the program had ended, the consensus was that "action" should be interpreted literally.

In an attempt to learn the problems, catch the spirit and the mood of today's campus, the alumni and parents visited classes, lectures and laboratories. They conferred with younger faculty members and renewed friendships while trading impressions with professors who had taught them during their years on campus. Conferences with students and briefings by the administration completed the formal agenda.

Evenings were spent getting acquainted with newer members of the faculty and administration and viewing student art and sculpture exhibits and attending a "dialog in art" performance.

"Trinity in Action" was begun experimentally in 1974 but all the signs point to its becoming another Trinity tradition. This year participants arrived from ten states from Maine to Florida. Said one alumnus, "It helps to bridge the gap between what I think I remember and what is actually going on today on campus."

Alumni Trustee Named

James A. Van Sant '52 was named Alumni Trustee after the closest election in memory on May 22. Alumni trustees serve for six years on the Board representing the entire alumni body. They also work closely with the Alumni Executive Committee on affairs of alumni concern.

After leaving Trinity, Van Sant attended the University of London and later Washington University in St. Louis where he received his M.A. in 1957 and taught in the English department from 1956 to 1958. In 1965 he graduated from the Harvard Business School Advanced Management Program.

Van Sant joined General Steel Industries, Inc. of St. Louis in 1964 as director of public relations and advertising after serving from 1958 to 1964 as executive vice president of Lemoin Skinner, Jr. Public Relations, Inc. He then became successively vice president, executive vice president and president of General Steel Industries, Inc.

When Van Sant was named "man of the year" in 1975, rather than respond with a speech at the presentation ceremony held at William Woods College in Fulton, Missouri, he sponsored a recital by concert pianist Eugene List. His restraint was rewarded by an editorial in the Detroit News which said, "Van Sant had the decency, graciousness, good sense and taste — class, if you will — to resist the temptation . . ."

Gift Establishes Economics Chair

Trinity has received a gift of $750,000 from Shelby Cullom Davis, financier, philanthropist and former U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland. The gift will establish an endowed professorship and related programs of internships and seminars in the field of American business and economic enterprise.

The gift brings to $8.5 million the total of contributions to Trinity's current $12 million fundraising campaign announced in January 1975.

The Shelby Cullom Davis Professorship of American Business and Economic Enterprise is the 18th named professorship at Trinity. The distinguished chairs began in 1837 with the Hobart Professorship and the Seabury Professorship of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy. Earlier this year George M. Ferris '16 established the George M. Ferris Professorship of Corporation Finance and Investments.

The new professorship will augment the curriculum at the College in studies of the economic theory, practice and history of the American business system. An unusual feature of this professorship is the inclusion of programs for students to learn firsthand about American business through on-site internships with business and industrial firms. In addition, seminars will bring students, faculty and representatives from business together for study and discussion of substantive issues in business and education. These opportunities are usually available only to students in graduate school.

Davis, who served as U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland from 1969 to 1975, is a graduate of Princeton University, earned a master's degree at Columbia University, and a doctorate in political science at the University of Geneva. He was awarded honorary degrees from Bradley University (1964) and Trinity College (1973). He began his career as continental correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting Service in Geneva in 1932. He subsequently was Economist and Statistician for the Investment Corporation of Philadelphia, a founder and Treasurer of the Delaware Fund, and economic advisor to Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Following this experience he returned to finance and spent 22 years as managing partner of Shelby Cullom Davis and Company, an investment banking house and the world's largest firm specializing in insurance securities.

Fall Tour Abroad Slated for Alumni

After Russia, Spain and England, what's next? For the Alumni Office, the answer this year is Italy with a focus on the fabled cities of Rome, Florence and Venice. The nine-day tour for Trinity Alumni begins at Hartford's Bradley International Airport on October 5 with a return date of October 13.

Accompanying alumni will be Professor Michael R. Campo, chairman of Trinity's Department of Modern Languages and director of the Cesare Barbieri Center, who promises, among other diversions, to introduce all courageous volunteers to aspects of Roman night life seldom seen by less fortunate tourists. Campo will be the escort on a tour of Trinity's Barbieri Center/Rome Campus.

For the flight to Rome, passengers will board a chartered PanAm Boeing 707 jet at Bradley in the evening, arriving in Rome the next day in time for a welcome wine and cheese party at the Beverly Hills Hotel. After three nights in Rome, with days filled with sightseeing at St. Peter's, the Pantheon, the Spanish Steps and, of course, the Trevi Fountain and afternoons free to pursue individual interests, alumni will leave by motorcoach for Florence.

In Florence two nights will be spent at the Hotel Plaza or Anglo. As in Rome, professional guides will escort the group through the historic city. Some of the high points: The Duomo, the Bell Tower, the Academy of the Arts with Michelangelo's famous "David." Again, about half of each day will be free for personal activities.

The motor coach with bi-lingual hostesses will then roll through Bologna and Verona to Venice where alumni will step into a motor launch for a short ride through the famed canals to the Hotel Excelsior des Bains. Two days of sightseeing such landmarks as the Doges' Palace and St. Mark's Square, with pigeons guaranteed, will follow, capped by an arrivederci dinner. Then, after breakfast at the hotel the next morning, alumni will board the plane at the Venice airport for the return trip to the U.S.A. and reality.

Alumni who have not received the notice of the Italy caper sent out in May by the Alumni Office should call Jerry Hansen at 203-527-3151 or write him at the campus in care of the Alumni Office.

I was saddened to get the news about the passing of our faithful member, JIM ENGLISH, on March 8, 1976. We were about to make arrangements with him to conduct the Memorial Service for our departed 1916 members at our 60th Reunion.

Helping to celebrate our 60th were SAM BERKMAN, VIC DeNEZZO, CHARLES EASTERBY, LLOYD MILLER, BOB O'CONNOR (who also received an honorary degree from the College), HERB SPENCER and Your Secretary. We joined the Class of '26 and many others for the Immortals Dinner on Friday, May 21. On Saturday morning, we also joined with the Class of '26 for the Memorial Service.

ED SCHORTMANN sends us news of his family. His son, Walter, lives in West Hartford and Walter's daughter, Martha, is a junior at Providence (Rhode Island) College. Daughter, Lucille (Baker) lives near him in Cranston, Rhode Island, and her four children are all working with three sons married and her daughter a teacher. His son, Arthur, also lives near him and has one son who is working, two sons in school, and a daughter studying for the nursing profession.

Our sympathy goes to HARMON BARBER on the death of his wife, Olive, this past March.

Since NED KENDALL's letter on the ambidextrous Middlebury pitcher, EDWARD CRAM has added his memories of a vivid baseball game Trinity played against the Connecticut Aggies as they were known in those days. Eddy played second base at this game in Storrs, Connecticut. Relations between the teams were not too friendly. The Aggies had a big burly pitcher who was cross-eyed and could fire the ball. He beamed FREDDY BOWDIDGE '23, our right fielder, who fell to the turf and played no more that day. I came to bat in the next inning and was pretty nervous, for when you looked at this pitcher, not sure if he could see the plate or the batter, his pitches sailed behind you, above you or wherever. Our team was glad to get out of Storrs after that encounter. If you ever batted against a cross-eyed pitcher who could fire the ball, it isn't fun. Eddy played 67 games at Trinity, and last year came up for the Amherst and Wesleyan football games and the alumni reunion. His address is Imperial Court, Apt. 8G, 1433 South Belcher Road, Clearwater, Florida 33516. I imagine Dr. BOB REYNOLDS remembers this game — he was pitching in that period.

STEVENSON WEBSTER writes that he attended a very delightful Trinity dinner last fall at CHARLIE ('55) and Amy GARDNER's house in Washington, with DAVID ('57) and Mrs. BEERS, JACK ('56) and Mrs. EVANS, over from England, MANNING ('52) and Mrs. PARSONS, and NATHANIEL ('55) and Mrs. REED. He says, "Not bad for an old guy to be in such young company."

Your Secretary and his wife, Olga, along with Betty Noble, widow of DICK NOBLE, were weekend guests of the KEN SMITH's at Cooperstown, New York. Ken and Emily are wonderful hosts and showed us the works, including the Baseball Hall of Fame of which Ken is still the director. You'd think he was the mayor, the way people react to him. He was leaving shortly for the training camps down South.

Olga and I saw DAVE HADLOW, TONY TRAINER and Mary Louise Trainer at several of this winter's basketball games. Trinity had a wonderful season, 15-6, and a number of the games we saw went right down to the wire.

A short while back Dave and Tony were here for cocktails and lunch at our home prior to the Lawrenceville and West Haven (Connecticut) High hockey game. After the game which Lawrenceville won 3-2, we returned to our house with the Bob Plumbs, parents of Robert Plumb, a Lawrenceville student who has applied to Trinity and is a member of the well known Plumb family at Trinity (we hope he is admitted and comes). Later we all went to Jonathan Edwards College at Yale for dinner as the guests of John Embersits, former business manager of the University.

At the time of the writing of this report, Trinity was expected to have another good crew year and we hope many of you were able to attend one or more of the regattas for an enjoyable time.

We are glad to hear that JOHN MASON '34 is back on the recovery trail after his recent illness.

I wish more of you lads would write and tell me what you are up to so we can pass it on to our classmates. Incidentally, I almost forgot, if you have not done so already, get aboard the Campaign for Trinity Values and also make your regular annual gift as well. The "DUKE" is doing good work in this regard and we are all happy this department is in able hands.

Loyal classmates returning to celebrate our 50th were JIM BURR, DICK FORD, GEORGE HAMILTON, PETIE HOUGH, GEORGE JACKSON, JOHN LINNOR, DAVE LOEFLER, HAROLD MESSER, BOB NEWELL, BILL NICOL, HERB NOBLE, TONY PARISI, NORM PITCHER, WALT RILEY, MORRIS ROISMAN, KEN STUER, HARRY WALLAD, BEN WARNER and Your Secretary. Most were accompanied by their dear wives. What a grand time we had at the Immortals Dinner on Friday, May 21 and then on Saturday the 22nd at the luncheon, picture taking session, and our get-together for cocktails in the afternoon. We enjoyed Dr. George Cooper's remarks to our Class on Saturday morning. (Editor's note: One of the highlights of the weekend was a special Art Exhibit of Prints of Greater Hartford by Class Secretary Ross Parke.) Another feature of the weekend was a Memorial Service for the departed from our class as well as the Class of '16. We know it was a pleasant surprise to many when they saw how splendidly Trinity College has grown from that little line of Gothic buildings against the western sunset in nineteen hundred and twenty-two — over 50 years ago!

Last March, in spirit at least, we traveled along with JIMMIE BURR and Betty as they traveled to Florida for three weeks, and then about May 4th to Budapest, Prague and points in Central Europe and back to Washington, D.C.

At the time of the writing of this news, PETIE HOUGH and his dear wife, Janet, were expected to be with us at our 50th, along with KEN STEUR from Texas, NORM and Jean PITCHER from Florida, and possibly GEORGE HAMILTON from Florida, and JIMMIE BURR with his dear Betty from Michigan. What loyal classmates we have!

The Knights were seated around the oak Round Table, their pewter mugs of mead held on high to welcome the addition of the family crest of recently knighted Sir STANLEY BELL to those coat-of-arms already adorning the walls of the cathedral-ceilinged banquet hall.

To you guys who make no sense out of the above, may I remind you that our Knights of the Round Table are those classmates who have fully paid their dues through 1977 for our 1927 Library Fund. There is still plenty of time to join our little group.

Chairman Sir ANDY FORRESTER and his Annabelle revisited Florida for a few weeks this winter and find that like New York City, "It's a nice place to visit." What have you others done for a change of pace or fun and games?

It hurts to have to report a further reduction in our class membership. Belatedly learned of the passing of BOB HILDEBRAND last New Year's Eve after a long illness. I'm sure the few of us left of 1927 will feel the loss of a good friend and classmate and will want to extend our deepest sympathy to his wife and family.

A note from FRANCIS CONOVER says he finally retired for good last June 15 after working seven years beyond his retirement at age 65, this last time due to a bad case of arthritis in a hip joint which tied him down for six weeks. Francis is still single and says very little chance of marrying.

REUNION

GEORGE BLAUVELT retired last June after 20 years as headmaster of the Friends Select School in Philadelphia and says he is enjoying not having to get up quite so early. George writes he had dinner and a delightful visit with JACK GOODING and his wife in Florida this past February.

JEROME WYCKOFF has been busy with editorial consulting, earth-science photography, environmental work, and choral singing. He is currently working on a weather book for McGraw-Hill with Paul Lehr of the U.S. Weather Service, and his book "Story of Geology," published in seven languages since 1960, is just off the press in a new, rewritten edition. His wife, Elaine, will soon leave her newspaper job to do book editorial work and gardening at home, and will join Jerome in more traveling.

HAROLD REED retired last December from his job with the U.S.A.F. Department of Defense, Otis Air Force Base in Massachusetts. He plans to travel around the country with his trailer.

REUNION

BERT SCULL reports that his younger son, Russell, married Lynn Allison Laferty in Columbus, Ohio last June 14, and this June will graduate from Otterbein College in Westerville, Ohio. His elder son, Edward, lives in Riverside, California and he says he is too young to get married. Bert has been elected treasurer of the St. David's Society of New York and his wife, Isabel, was elected to the board of directors.

JACK HANNA is at the old stand, tending the sacred flame as the humanities fight for survival. He's a full professor now and in no mood to retire, though he admits it's a relief to step down from the department chairmanship. Courses in Joyce, Greek drama, and Henry James still "roll," he reports, while the fashionable stuff like Black literature and women's lib comes and goes. He invites his classmates passing through Portland to give him a ring at the University of Maine, maybe for a game of squash or a Casco Bay sail.

37 Mr. Robert M. Kelly

MICKY KOBROSKY is still practicing medicine (29 years) and his office is still in Springfield, Massachusetts. His daughter, Karen, graduated from Cornell in 1972 and from Harvard in 1973; son, Steven, graduated from Tufts in 1974 and is now at the Hunter College Graduate School; while son, Gary, is a freshman at Syracuse. Son, Neil, graduated last month from Trinity.

BRUCE ONDERDONK, president of Onderdonk-Lathrop Associates of Glastonbury, Connecticut, has been selected 1976 Engineer of the Year by the Connecticut Society of Professional Engineers. The honor is given for contribution to the profession for engineering achievements and service to the community. Some of the technical developments for which Bruce is credited are plate moment connections for steel framing which has eliminated field welding, a design for the Bank of Bermuda, for which the below sea level basement is 20 feet away from the harbor and is in a porous corral, the first prestressed concrete highway bridge in Connecticut, and the first multi-story building using plastic design.

A while back MYRON PISETSKY reported that he had been elected a Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association. He is also the director of the group therapy training program at the Institute of Living in Hartford and an assistant clinical professor at the University of Connecticut Medical School. Sounds as if he is keeping himself busy, doesn't it? Also in the Hartford area is NORMAN RICHARD, who is the data processing director for Conning & Company.

JOHN SHIELDS tells us that he is president of the Matterhorn Club in D.C., a mountain climbing organization. He will be expanding into the wholesale trip business for other groups under the name of Great Vacations, Inc., so if you're in that area and know of some group that's planning a trip, let John know.

WARD JUST writes to us from snow covered Warren, Vermont, where he is working on a new book. His third novel, Nicholson at Large, was published last year. Also in New England is EDWARD FERGUSON who is in his third year as supervising us for the work. HOWIE ORENSTEIN, GUS CROMBIE, BARRIE ELLIOTT, GARY BOGLI, and GEORGE SHUSTER were among the "volunteers." This Capital Campaign, by the way, is going well, and we here at the College appreciate the great response of the alumni.

JOE LAWRENCE recently wrote a student activity booklet, "What Is an American," for use by junior high school students and published by the Hartford Board of Education. Dr. GEORGE HAMBLY is now chief of surgery at South County Hospital, Wakefield, Rhode Island. MIKE SCHACHT has joined Sanders Printing of New York City as a vice president. TOM BARRETT writes that his insurance agency in Hooksett, New Hampshire, continues to grow steadily, as do his five children.

Dr. FRANK CARUSO received a promotion to associate director of Medical Research with Bristol Laboratories in Syracuse. After fifteen years on the job, JOHN TROTT decided to change jobs. He is now vice president with MSA Associates in Newton, Massachusetts. MSA is a marketing services and manufacturers representatives organization working primarily in New England.

GEORGE BAXTER has moved back into Becker Securities' New York office from commercial lines department at The Travelers Insurance Companies.

RON REOPEL says nothing new but notes that he has been teaching U.S. history at Westfield (Massachusetts) High for the past 13 years, has been head football coach for seven years (with last year an 8-2 record), and head track coach for two years. In addition he has been summer camp director at Lake Delaware Boys' Camp in Delhi, New York for the past 15 years. Ron and his wife, Jeanne, have two children: Karen, age 14, and Paul, age 11.

DON FARMER has been director of administrative planning, King's College, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania since September of 1974. Don's duties are the development of academic programs, teaching and learning methods, institutional planning and problem solving. In addition, he is an educational consultant, his current contract with the Regis-Boston Latin Academy on a project for development of magnet school concept for the Boston public school system, conducting workshops on teaching and learning, and also curriculum development. Don has two children: Kristin, 4½ years old, and Erik, 2 years old.

REUNION

I received a note several months ago from PETE DURAN who tells us that he and his wife, Marcia, were expecting a child and at this point they should be parents. Pete also writes that his directorship of the arts (audio response time sharing) computer installation is now beginning to serve the handicapped in the Boston area.

Here in Hartford, BEN TRIBIKEN was recently appointed an attorney for the Inheritance Tax Department of the Connecticut State Tax Department. Ben is now living in Middletown, Connecticut at 55 Prospect Street.

Also in a new position, CHUCK WADDELL has been named manager of the data processing system division of Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Company in Washington, D.C. A bit further south, LINDSAY DORIER, who practices law in Charlottesville, Virginia, was elected last November to the Albermarle County Board of Supervisors for a four year term.

Dr. GEORGE BENT tells us that he and his wife had their second, Jeffrey Fowler, last March 8. George writes that he is now completing his first year of private practice in internal medicine and says he enjoys it very much, "but not the long hours." The Bents are living in Pittsburgh.

Let me take another inch or so of space this issue to remind you again about our 10th reunion coming up this fall. In planning your summer vacations, save a little bit of time and a few dollars to come up to Hartford this November. The 10th reunion is always a big one, and I really hope that we can get a substantial number of the class together this year. If you have any questions, or if I can help in your planning in any way, please feel free to get in touch with me, but do plan to come back this fall.

For a change I have some news for you. Several months ago while on a business trip to the Midwest, I stopped off in St. Louis to attend a conference and had the pleasure of being met at the airport and having a drink with RICH RATZAN. He and his wife, Susan, both physicians, are doing residencies at Jewish and Children's Hospitals, respectively. However, they plan to return to the East in a year when they're through with their programs.

More news about the doctors in our class: DAVID INWOOD recently called to say hello and let me know that he would shortly be starting a residency in psychiatry at Downstate Medical Center in New York. David graduated from the Medical School in Guadalajara, Mexico, from where JIM PURDY also graduated. In contrast to David, however, Jim enjoys the country and speaks fluent Spanish. Consequently, he decided to stay on in Mexico, beginning a specialty at the Nephrology Institute in Mexico City.

David also informed me that PAUL SCHEINBERG would be married in Norfolk, Virginia on April 4 and then would return with his wife to begin a residency in pneumonology (a specialization in lung diseases). Congratulations to you, Paul, and best wishes for much happiness.

Congratulations are also in order to RAY GRAVES, who was recently appointed to the institutional review board at the Lafayette Clinic in Detroit. Between his many conferences, appointments and trial dates, Ray serves on this board which has the responsibility of reviewing the recommendations for human experimentation under the guidelines and regulations recently established by HEW and the State Department of Mental Health. According to Ray, a recent law suit in Wayne County Circuit Court brought public attention to plans and proposals for psychosur-gery, alteration of human behavior, and experimentation on human subjects as some of the means of treating antisocial and/or criminal conduct. Furthermore, as Ray pointed out, this is one of the few projects in the country of this kind and he hopes to structure its program to insure that the individual rights of the person studied will be protected.

I also received a rather nice, lengthy letter from JIM O'CONNOR. I like it so much that I think I'll just quote it directly: "I've been meaning to write to 'Class Notes' for some time but always seemed to throw out the Reporter before I wrote down your address (I kept remembering that it had a 1/2 in it but that's really not a lot of help). So, now that JACK CURTIS has managed to write, I feel obligated and, having just found your address, (I did write it down once, but then I lost it for a few months), here I go.

"Presently — i.e., since leaving Trinity (except for two years in the Army in Alaska), I'm in New York City. I'm marketing director for a small, but prosperous (knock on wood) direct mail business supply firm. After all these years, I'm finally beginning to think of myself as a real, native New Yorker and not a visitor. I know that there are a few others from our class in the City, but the only person I've seen very recently is GEORGE WANTY — and that was at a Trinity dinner here. George is working for the First Boston Corporation, doing what I'm not sure.

"Last September I traveled down to Philadelphia for DAN HADEN's wedding, and there saw and stayed with JOHN LOEB and his wife, Eva, who is in med school. NATE RATH was there also — he's now out in Waterloo, Iowa, his home town, working for an architecture firm. By the way, Dan Haden is now living in Searsport, Maine (near Camden) and is also an architect."

My thanks to you, Jim, for your helpful news. How about some more guilty souls out there writing a letter to me and filling us all in on what our classmates are up to.

STEWART BARNES wrote to the College that he is now in Milton, Massachusetts and his office is at the Church of the Holy Spirit at Mattapan Square, Boston, Massachusetts.

We also received a card from Massachusetts from WILL ROSENBAUM (what's your new address, Will?). Will bought a new "old" house built in 1770 and has started his own Town and Country Animal Hospital practice. In addition, he keeps busy with nursery gardening — there's a greenhouse on his property. But the most important news is that Will has become engaged to Jodie Susan Shindler. Congratulations to you, Will.

One final note — While up in San Francisco on a recent business trip, I ran across RICK STULTZ at the San Francisco airport. He was waiting to pick up his wife who was herself on business in L.A. It appears that Rick has a rather idyllic situation up there, living in Palo Alto and having a short two-block walk to his office with Hare, Brewer & Kelly, a real estate brokerage and investment firm. Rick and I talked briefly about our respective work and it may turn out that we'll work together on a particular development where Rick's company will provide the site and I'll do the developing.

One final, final note from CHARLIE KURZ. Charlie was here on business recently and we almost made it out East together on the same plane. Charlie was returning to Philadelphia and I was going to Washington to attend a conference. Unfortunately, I missed the plane and had to wait for a later flight. Nevertheless, he would like to remind you that the Alumni Fund Campaign is drawing to a close. If you haven't yet contributed, no matter what amount, please try to do so as soon as possible so that our class can reach its goal in this Bicentennial year.

Again, please keep the cards, letters and telephone calls coming in.

STEPHEN HORENSTEIN, tenor saxophonist and composer, is alive and well and teaching and working on the faculty of Bennington (Maine) College, black music division. He says, "Dino, where are you?"

NAT PRENTICE has moved from New York City to Baltimore, Maryland to join the investment banking firm of Alexander Brown & Sons.

BILL CANNING is an account/executive with Merrill Lynch in New London, Connecticut. He won the 1975 Eastern Connecticut Yacht Racing Circuit in a ¼ ton sloop designed and built with his brother — the second 1975 MORC national championships. Bill was married to Suzanne H. Hill, Wellesley '75, last July.

LAURENCE ACH changed jobs last fall and is now on the financial staff of Allied Chemical in New York City. He saw JOHN STEVENS a short time ago and says that after four years or so working in Nicaragua, John is looking for more stable employment with a U.S. corporation.

JOE CONNORS celebrated his first year of marriage on May 17 to Mary K. Alway, and says he is prospering as a resident in internal medicine at North Carolina Memorial Hospital. Joe will be chief resident next year and plans beyond that are unclear. He sends his best to all Trin alumni.

MARK DiBONA and his wife, Dorothy, are living in New York where Mark has opened practice at Brookdale Hospital. Between his practice and teaching responsibility, he says time's been scarce, but they are trying to squeeze in some travel to some of our national wilderness areas.

AL SINGER is associated with the law firm of Williams & Brown in Washington, D.C.

MILES KING was recently promoted to the position of principal in the management consulting firm of Hay Associates, Boston. He and his wife, Marion, are the proud parents of a daughter, Allison, born last July 15.

STEPHEN LUNDEEN has been assistant professor of physics at Harvard for the past year and says his combined teaching and research duties keep him busy, but he still finds Cambridge a fine place to live. His wife, Meg, has just been appointed assistant professor of geology at Wellesley College.

GEORGE SIMON celebrated one year of marriage on May 30 to Lynne Robinson Martin, Mt. Holyoke '71. George is working at Lovejoy, Wasson, Lundgren & Ashton, a law firm, in New York City, and is on the board of the West Harlem Group Assistance, Inc., a non-profit group rehabilitating, low income housing. His wife is a drug addiction counselor at the Bernstein Institute.

HARRY OSBORNE has just purchased a new home (he says their first) in Fair Haven, New Jersey.

JOHN RICE wrote he was looking forward to attending OCS at the New Hampshire Military Academy this summer. Otherwise, he says he is still in the Andover, Connecticut public school system as a guidance counselor. He hopes to see everyone at the football opener vs. Bowdoin.

ROGER GREENBERG is in the midst of his orthopaedic residency at Cornell University's Hospital for special surgery in New York City.

STEVE WELLCOME is the new owner of a 150 year-old house in Massachusetts. He says it has numerous problems and that there should be enough to keep him busy for the next 17 years with no trouble at all.

WENDELL TEWELL is Eastern lease underwriting manager with Gaty Leasing Corporation in New York City.

PETER OTIS has moved from Lyndonville, Vermont with wife, Bobbe, and daughter, Catherine Melisse, (nicknamed Casey) who was born last July. Peter is now director of career counseling and placement at Plymouth

State College (of the University of New Hampshire), Plymouth, New Hampshire, and loves his new job.

AL JURCIK has been elected to the executive board of the New York Trinity Alumni Association. Al is assistant secretary at the Chemical Bank, bank investment division, working on New York State and New York City rescue missions.

DOUG and Susan WATTS moved recently to Norfolk, Massachusetts, where Doug has joined Financial Concepts, Inc. in the capacity of vice president and treasurer. Financial Concepts designs and builds financial institutions' buildings. Prior to their move, Doug and Susan hosted a mini Delta Phi reunion in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Attending were ED and Donna DOYLE, GENE and Muffy PAQUETTE, and VIC and Judy LEVINE. Ed is practicing law in Peekskill, New York in the firm of Doyle and Doyle. In addition, he has been assistant corporation counsel to the City of Peekskill, prosecuting housing and zoning violations. Recently he was appointed deputy town attorney in Cortland, New York. The Paquettes are living in Bolingbrook, Illinois, where Gene is now working in sales and management for Aetna Life Insurance Company. Vic is teaching math in high school and is extremely active as coach of the school hockey and golf teams, and is an active participant of semi-pro hockey and organized softball.

MARK and Barbara EDINBERG forwarded their "once every one and one-half year update." Mark received a Ph.D. in clinical/community psychology at the University of Cincinnati in August 1975. He is teaching gerontology at the University of Nevada, Reno, and relaxes with a bit of jazz piano. Mark noted as he viewed a film on aging called Pegera that LEO RUMSEY had done the sound track.

TOM KAUFFMANN is working for the Security Storage Company in international sales. He writes that he has bought a house in Chevy Chase, Maryland, and that he was divorced last December. Tom plays soccer for the British Embassy and rugby for the George Washington rugby football club, and is having a great time.

ANDY SHAW and his wife, Liz, are enjoying life in Randolph, New Jersey, where he has been practicing law for a little over a year. They recently saw ERNIE MATTEI and Andy says he is still strong as a bull. Andy understands that GEORGE MUNKWITZ is an M.D. in St. Louis. He writes that they really had a good time at the Trinity reunion last November and thought JOHN BONEE did a terrific job.

DAVID GILBERT is still at Liberty Mutual Insurance Company in Boston as assistant manager of offices services. He is taking exams for certification through the N.A.P.M. (certified purchasing manager).

STEVE DOWINSKY is a third year medical student at the J. W. Goethe University in Frankfurt, West Germany. Before turning to medicine, Steve picked up an M.S. in journalism from Columbia and subsequently worked as news producer (The Scene Tonight) for WPLG-TV in Miami, Florida. Political infighting and the realization that he could not effect real change as a passive observer led him to trade in the typewriter and film cameras for a stethoscope.

JAY ZARAGOZA has a new job with Northwest Connecticut Regional Planning Agency as regional planner. He and his wife, Molly, are living happily in their self-constructed home in Warren, Connecticut, and have two children, Elliot, one and a half and a newcomer, Emlen, born the end of February.

ANDY STEWART is a first year medical resident at Roosevelt Hospital in New York City.

JIM O'BRIEN is a real estate broker with the firm of William H. Dolben and Sons, Boston, Massachusetts.

JOHN KOEHLER says he is hot roddin' and hard rockin' with his '55 Chevrolet and The Outerspace Band.

A lot of news to report about the class one year out. VON and PEGGY (HOLMES) GRYSKA write that they're living in Boston, soon to move to New York City. This year Von taught and studied biology at Northeastern University, as well as doing tumor research at Harvard Med School. He will begin medical school at New York University in September. Peggy is working for Weedon & Company, an investment firm, whom she'll continue with in New York. She has also been singing in the Dedham (Massachusetts) Choral Society under Director Brian Jones. Von notes that TOM MARTIN is working with the women's crew team at Boston University where Tom is studying at the business school.

Also in Boston is DEBBIE DONAHUE, who says that Beantown is a great place to be for the Bicentennial. Debbie is working as a personnel consultant for Fanning Personnel of Boston. She's living with JOAN SEELYE, who is employed as a production assistant with a film producing company. BILL TAUSSIG is now in Boston, writing for the Needham Times and for UPI, for whom he covers both the Celtics and Bruins and their marches toward their respective league championships. Bill writes that he traveled all over Europe, from Amsterdam to Rome, including Trinity's campus, from the day after graduation until mid-August in a VW Rabbit purchased over there.

Nearby is PAUL CHAROW, now a licensed real estate broker with Moynihan Realty Association in Dedham, Massachusetts. JOAN STARKEY is also in the area, working as executive assistant to the director of development of Eye Research Institute of the Retina Foundation. She's very happy with her job, notwithstanding that title. Besides taking a couple of courses at Harvard, Joan is singing with the Boston Back Bay Society — Brahms anyone? PAT CENTENNI has been appointed as administrative assistant to the mayor of Cambridge, Massachusetts.

KAREN ARMSTRONG is working in Great Barrington, Massachusetts as assistant to the dean of admissions at Simon's Rock Early College (a four year B.A. degree-granting college enrolling students after the 10th and 11th grades). She relates that her job entails a good deal of traveling and interviewing, and is interesting and fun. By now FRANCES CONGDON should be enjoying summer vacation from Boston College in Brighton, Massachusetts, where she is working towards a Masters in education. Frances spent last summer working on Cape Cod.

Up in the wilds of Maine, BETSY ALDEN is teaching English at Hebron Academy in Hebron, which I can't find on any map. Betsy is a housemother at Hebron and also coaches field hockey, alpine skiing, and lacrosse.

Starting work for IBM in September after graduation, RUDOLPH MONTGELAS has now been transferred to Austin, Texas. Rudy works in their engineering development department.

JANET DICKINSON is in med school in Guadalajara, Mexico (which she says isn't bad) and she thinks "The Guad" is great.

JEFF CLARK is working for the State of New Jersey as a protective services worker or child abuse investigator-counselor. He obviously is doing well since he recently received a promotion to social worker II and an additional pay raise.

TONY PICCIRILLO is still working for the Hartford Insurance Company and is living in an apartment on Allen Place. We managed to make a brief sojourn to the Corner Tap when we got together a few months ago, and agreed that the new Rathskeller on campus will be a definite boon to the alumni. In the fall, Tony will be entering Harvard Business School.

EILEEN BRISTOW MOLLOY, is living in Newington, Connecticut and working at the Child and Family Services of Connecticut in Hartford.

There appears to be a fair contingent of '75ers in Gotham City. Since graduation LYMAN DELANO has been working in the investment advisory division at Bankers Trust in New York City. Lyman says that he's enjoying his work a great deal.

PRISCILLA MOTLEY is employed as a secretary in the creative department of D'Arcy MacManus, an advertising agency. Priscilla is quite partial to New York City — "an exciting place to be at this stage of life." Also in advertising in New York is KATIE WOOD-WORTH, who is working for Ladies Home Journal. Working for another famous magazine, Vogue, is ELIZABETH GUERLAIN, who has been promoted to manager, accessories department.

While at Trinity recently, I saw HOWARD GOLDSTEIN on a break from his computer science studies at the University of Connecticut. At that time Howard was awaiting appearance of a new computer terminal for his work — hopefully it has since arrived. Howard notes that in his move to UConn he encountered a slightly higher level of computer sophistication than he found 'neath the elms, if a lower ambience in the dorms. Howard should be back in Stamford, Connecticut for the summer by now.

Special congratulations to STEWART HOEG and KATHY WALSH, married this May, and SCOTT and Melanie HAYIM, married June 6. Best of luck to the recently graduated Class of 1976 as they embark on their varied paths.

The grad school students among us hauling in the dough over the summer might want to consider a small contribution to the College. Our class goal of $2000 is pretty moderate. Anyway, send along some news to the above address or to the Alumni Office, and have a festive Bicentennial summer.

IN MEMORY

ARCHER WILSEY BEDELL, 1908

Prior to their loss against Yale, the Bantams routed Conn. College and Wesleyan by respective scores of 11-0 and 11-1. Trinity finished the year with a string of six consecutive victories, defeating Tufts 5-4, Brown 6-3, Mt. Holyoke 5-4, Smith 18-1, Miss Porter's 12-4 and Williams 19-9.

LACROSSE

Saddled with a myriad of critical injuries, the varsity lacrosse team turned in a less than outstanding performance in the early part of the season, dropping their first four games to New Haven 10-1, Southern Conn. 12-11, Amherst 13-6 and Tufts 14-6. The squad's perseverance and determination proved unshakable, however, as the Bantams overcame their early 0-4 mark by rallying to win five of their final six outings to finish the season with a creditable 5-5 record.

Trinity rebounded for its first win by rolling over Fairfield 16-4 in the Bantams' home opener. The explosive potential which Bantam offense exhibited against Fairfield was to continue for the remainder of the spring as Trinity went on to defeat Holy Cross 12-7, M.I.T. 10-4, U. Rhode Island 18-2 and Springfield 8-7.

The varsity's only loss during the second half of the season came at the hands of Wesleyan, who nipped the Hilltoppers by a slim 10-9 margin, with the Cardinals final tally coming in a sudden death period following two inconclusive overtime sessions.

Freshman Greg Carey scored 38 goals and three assists for 41 season points to tie the Trinity scoring record of Nick Bensley and Mark Cleary, who set their marks in 1974 and 1975 respectively. Freshman Clint Brown finished the year as the team's second highest scorer with seven goals and 23 assists. Brown's season assists tally proved a record-breaker, topping the old mark of 22 set by Harvey Hopkins in 1963.

GOLF

In its second year under Coach Sutherland, the varsity golf team finished with a record of 8-5 and garnered sixth place finishes in both the University of Hartford Invitational and the New England intercollegiate tournament.

The Bantams opened the season by defeating W.P.I. 6-1 and went on to split their next matchup against U. Hartford and U. Rhode Island, taking their twenty-third in a row over the Hawks while falling to the "Rhodies" by a slim 32 stroke margin. The linksmen won three of their next five contests, downing Bates 7-0, Conn. College 7-0 and Coast Guard 4-3, only to succumb at the hands of Tufts 4-3 and Wesleyan 3-2.

Following their strong performances in the New England and Hartford tournaments, the Bants notched a 6-1 win over M.I.T. prior to defeating A.I.C. and dropping to Springfield and Williams in quadrangular medal play competition.

TRINITY SPORTS

Top Athletic Awards Announced

The winners of Trinity's five highest annual athletic awards were announced by Athletic Director Karl Kurth, Jr. during a reception held on May 7 in the Tansill Sports Room of the Ferris Athletic Center.

Senior A. Hobart Porter was named the 74th recipient of the coveted "George Sheldon McCook Trophy." The McCook award is the College's top athletic award and is presented each year to the senior who has exhibited outstanding "courage, dedication and ability" as a participant in Trinity athletics. Porter also received the "Blanket Award" as a ten-time varsity letter winner.

The "E.C.A.C. Outstanding Scholar-Athlete Award" was presented to Don Baur '76 in recognition of his concurrent achievements in the fields of academics and athletics. David Teichmann was presented with the "Bob Harron Award" as the College's outstanding junior scholar-athlete.

Karen C. Mapp received the "Larry Silver Award" for the student who, "as a non-athlete, has made the greatest contribution to the Athletic Department according to the vote of the full-time staff."

The newly instituted "Bantam Award" was presented to Raymond A. Montgomery '25. The award is given by the full-time staff "in recognition of the non-student who has done the most for Trinity's athletic programs."

Baseball, Crew, Golf, Track Spring Team Awards Presented

The winners of this spring's team awards were announced recently at each of the squads' post-season banquets.

Senior pitcher Steve Carlow received the varsity baseball team's Dan Webster Most Valuable Player Award. Senior co-captain John Wiggin was named as the recipient of the John Sweet Batting Award as the squad's leading hitter while junior first baseman Dave Weselcouch received the William Frawley Most Improved Player Award.

Coach Shults also announced the election of junior catcher Bob O'Leary as team captain for 1977.

Junior Mike Mackey received the Torch Award as the oarsman "who has contributed most to the perpetuation of crew at Trinity." The Hartford Barge Club Rowing Trophy "for sportsmanship and outstanding improvement" was presented to sophomore Paul Wendler, while the Coaches Award, presented annually "to the lightweight who has exhibited exceptional merit," was presented to junior Bob Cedarbaum.

Freshmen Eliot Klein and Bob Childs were selected as co-recipients of the Wickes Award as the "freshmen who best exemplify the spirit of the founders of Trinity crew."

The Robert S. Morris Track Trophy was presented to senior co-captain Victor Novak, while the Craig Most Improved Tennis Player Award was presented to sophomore Andrew R. Vermilye.

Sophomore Bill Dodge won the annual Wyckoff Golf Award, while freshman Greg Carey and senior Sean O'Malley were named as co-recipients of the J. F. Boyer Lacrosse Award.

VARSITY SPORTS ROUNDUP

TENNIS

The varsity tennis team established itself as one of the top New England powers in 1976 and, with only one graduating senior, next year's squad, led by tri-captains elect Charlie Johnson, Jim Rice and Tim Jenkins, should have few problems in maintaining that stature.

The Bantams finished the '76 season with a solid 8-3 record and emerged from the New England Championships tied with Brandeis for fifth place honors behind Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth and Tufts.

Trinity began the year with successive victories over U. Hartford (9-0), Conn. College (9-0) and Rhode Island (8-1) before dropping its first match of the year against a strong Yale team (7-2). The Bantams routed their next four opponents, defeating Amherst (8-1), U. Conn. (8-1), Springfield (9-0) and M.I.T. (9-0) before losing their second match of the year to Williams (6-3).

Trinity journeyed to the New England tournament in Amherst, Mass. with a 7-2 record and three of its top five players seeded. Senior co-captain Jim Solomon came into the event ranked third, while junior Charlie

Trinity Crews Go To Henley

Four Trinity crews will cap off a highly successful '76 season by crossing the Atlantic during late June in preparation for the 137th runoff of England's Henley Royal Regatta, July 1-4, on the Thames River.

Leading the Britain-bound Bantam oarsmen will be Trinity's varsity heavyweight boat, which amassed a fine 10-3 regular season record and placed second in a field of 29 of the nation's top heavyweight eights at the Dad Vail Regatta in Philadelphia on May 8.

It will be the fourth time in eight years that a Trinity heavyweight crew has rowed for Henley's Ladies Challenge Plate. Trinity boats have made it to the finals of this competition in two of their three previous trips.

Johnson and freshman Eric Matthews garnered rankings of fourth and sixth respectively.

The Bantams combined their efforts tallying a total of 26 team points at Amherst to finish ahead of 22 of the 28 participating schools. Trinity's efforts were highlighted by the doubles play of Jim Rice and Eric Matthews who made it to the finals before they were edged by a pair from Dartmouth.

The varsity split its final two regular season contests. After suffering a disappointing loss at the hands of Army (8-1), the Bants closed out the year with a highly successful effort against Wesleyan (8-1).

Sophomore Andrew Vermilye finished the year with the squad's best individual record at 10-1, while Jim Solomon and Jim Rice were close behind with 9-2 marks. Charlie Johnson, Eric Matthews and Tim Jenkins each posted strong 8-3 individual season records.

BASEBALL

Trinity's varsity "nine" closed out one of its finest years in recent memory with a 7-0 shutout victory over Wesleyan. The victory gave Bantam hurler Jim McGrath his fifth win of the year and raised the team's final season record to 14-8.

The Bantams opened the season in Florida on a strong note, winning three of their first five contests. They defeated Ursinus twice, 19-6, 7-4, and Florida Bible College 10-0 while losing close contests to Wesleyan 9-8 and M.I.T. 4-2.

Returning to Hartford for their first homestand, Trinity walloped crosstown rival U. Hartford 10-3. Down 3-1 going into the bottom of the eighth inning, 13 Trinity batters went to the plate to tally a total of nine runs against three successive Hawk pitchers.

The Hilltoppers' hitting slowed somewhat as they dropped their next game with Amherst 11-1, but they quickly returned to the winning track, downing W.P.I. 5-3 and sweeping a doubleheader against Colby 5-0, 5-4.

Four errors proved costly in the Bants' battle with Williams as the Ephmen edged Trinity 2-0, but Steve Carlow's 85 pitches proved too much for Coast Guard as the Cadets managed only one hit and one walk off the senior pitching ace to give Trinity a 3-0 victory.

Trinity split successive twinbills with Bowdoin, U. Hartford, and Tufts en route to winning seven of its final eleven outings. The Bantams dropped their opening games to Bowdoin 9-0, U. Hartford 5-1 and Tufts 5-0, but came back to win the second game of each doubleheader, defeating Bowdoin 2-1, U. Hartford 10-8 and Tufts 3-1. Prior to the season's finale against Wesleyan, the Bantams succumbed to the Cardinals 4-3 while defeating Coast Guard 11-1 and Springfield 2-0.

Three members of the Trinity varsity finished the season with batting averages over the .300 mark. Senior co-captain John Wiggin led all the Bantam hitters at .348 while junior catcher Bob O'Leary and second baseman Mike Wyman finished at .328 and .303 respectively.

Steve Carlow ended the year as the team's leading pitcher with six wins, one save and one loss. Junior Jim McGrath proved to be the workhorse of the Bantams' pitching staff and wound up the year with a strong 5-5 mark.

WOMEN'S LACROSSE

In its second year under the direction of coach Robin Sheppard, the women's varsity lacrosse team outscored its opposition by an astonishing 96-33 margin to post an outstanding final season record of eight wins and one loss.

The only blemish on the women's record came at the hands of Yale in a hard fought contest which saw the Bantams rebound from an early 3-0 deficit to knot the score at 5-5 by the end of the first half. Throughout the second period Trinity matched Yale goal for goal, but a tally by Bantam Cackie Bostwick in the game's closing minutes was disallowed, leaving Trinity on the short end of the stick as the battle ended at 9-8 in favor of Yale.
