Commencement Issue
May 18, 1976
Trinity College
Hartford, Conn.

College Names Honorary Degree Recipients

Trinity College will award honorary degrees May 23 to Mary Ellen Avery, M.D., professor of pediatrics at Harvard University; Ostrom Enders, retired Hartford business executive and civic leader of Avon, Conn.; Harry J. Gray, chief executive officer, president and chairman of United Technologies; Frank S. Jones, professor of urban affairs at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; The Right Reverend Robert S. Kerr, Episcopal Bishop of Vermont; Robert B. O'Connor, architect and consultant; and W. Anthony Paddon, M.D., director of Grenfell Association Northern Medical Services of Labrador.

They will receive the honorary degrees during the afternoon commencement exercises for Trinity's 150th commencement. Bishop Kerr will deliver the traditional Baccalaureate address in the morning.

Mary Ellen Avery, who will receive the Doctor of Science degree, is both Thomas Morgan Rotch Professor of Pediatrics at Harvard University and Physician-in-Chief at Boston's Children's Hospital Medical Center. She received a B.A. degree in 1948 from Wheaton College (Mass.) and a M.D. degree from Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in 1952. A specialist in child care, she has served on the staffs of Johns Hopkins Hospital, McGill University and the Montreal Children's Hospital.

She has received honorary degrees from Harvard University, the University of Michigan and Wheaton College. A prolific writer for medical journals, she has written some 95 articles alone or in collaboration, together with chapters of 16 books. She is the author of "The Lung and Its Disorders in the Newborn Infant," now in its third edition, and is co-author of "Diseases of the Newborn."

Ostrom Enders was chairman and chief executive officer of Hartford National Bank and Trust Company at his retirement in 1967, having joined the bank in 1926. A Trinity College trustee emeritus, he holds a number of directorships. Among them are the Cornell Laboratory of Ornithology, Yale Library Associates, Colt Memorial, Association Land Trust and the New York Zoological Society.

In the Hartford area he is a director of Trinity's Watkinson Library, Hartford Hospital (honorary), the Institute of Living and the Hartford National Bank (honorary).

He is a former director or trustee of the National Audubon Society, the Hartford Community Chest, the Children's Museum and a founder of the University of Hartford. Enders is also a member of the American and the British Ornithological Societies. He received the B.A. degree from Yale University in 1925. Trinity is awarding him the Doctor of Laws degree.

Harry J. Gray was elected president and chief administrative officer of United Aircraft (now United Technologies) upon joining the corporation in 1971. A year later he became chief executive officer and in 1974 assumed the additional title of chairman.

Gray received a B.S. in 1941 and the M.S. in 1947 from the University of Illinois. He will receive a Doctor of Laws degree from Trinity.

Prior to joining United Technologies, Gray served for 17 years in numerous executive posts with Litton Industries, including vice president, group vice president and, in 1969, senior executive vice president. He also was elected to Litton's board of directors.

Gray is a director of a number of manufacturing and financial organizations, including Citicorp and the First National City Bank of New York, the Aetna Life and Casualty Company of Hartford and the Greater Hartford Corporation. He is a member of the executive committee of the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce, the board of governors of the Aerospace Industries Association, the Institute of Electrical & Electronic Engineers, and the Navy League of the United States. He is a incorporator of the Hartford Hospital and of the Institute of Living.

Frank S. Jones is Ford Professor of Urban Affairs at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He joined MIT in 1968 as executive director of its Urban Systems Laboratory and is an expert on urban development and planning. Formerly assistant dean and secretary to the faculty at Harvard Business School, Jones also was an executive for Scott Paper Company, serving as group product manager for Scott's largest retail trademarked product line.

He received his B.A. from Harvard in 1950 and the M.B.A. from the Harvard Business School in 1957. Trinity is awarding Jones the Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Among his directorships are the Connecticut General Insurance Corporation, Polaroid Corporation, Charlestown Savings Bank, Abbott Academy Association and the

Assault Tightens Security

by Marc Blumenthal

Since Monday, May 10, 1976, all dormitory entrances have been kept locked between 1:00 a.m. and 6:00 a.m. This tighter security measure comes as a result of an unsuccessful sexual assault upon a female student in North Campus Dormitory early Friday morning, May 7, 1976.

The decision to lock the dormitory doors overnight was made by Thomas A. Smith, vice president of the college, Alfred Garofolo, director of security, J. Ronald Spencer, dean of students, and Elinor Tilles, assistant dean for college residences. The administrators had been meeting with students regarding security several days prior to the North Campus incident which sparked them to immediate action.

According to Spencer who was the administrator on call the night of the incident, the events were as follows. At approximately 1:45 a.m. Friday morning as the student was in the women's bathroom on the second floor of North Campus, a young male knocked on the door and asked to use the facilities. The student told him to use the men's room on the first floor and the intruder left the bathroom.

The student was somewhat ill-at-ease and first returned to her own doorway before deciding to report the man's presence to her R.A. As she walked south along the corridor past the bathroom, the perpetrator, exposed, assaulted the student. She screamed and the man fled north along the hall, while the student ran south and into another student's room where they locked the door and notified campus security and the Hartford police.

Spencer said that the period between late April and Commencement in May is frequently the most hazardous of the year, with many intruders in the dormitories. This was the reason for the security meetings in the days before the assault.

Spencer described the present situation as a "semi-emergency" and termed the present lock-up policy as lasting only through the end of the current academic year. Over the summer, he said that various proposals will be considered for tighter security measures which will begin in the fall.

Some of the proposals include stationing attendants in the dormitories, or installing key or combination locks on all doors. Cost factors may be prohibitive in the proposal for attendants. When asked the feasibility of stationing student workers as dormitory attendants, Spencer replied that the college has always been "reluctant to put students in a security position." Spencer did say that the attendant idea "may very well have to be considered."

Spencer, himself, favors the combination lock proposal. He maintains that keys would be lost or be given to friends. Both Spencer and Garofolo admitted the lock-up policy to be a small inconvenience, but worth it in terms of students' protection.

Kamber Chairs Languages

Gerald Kamber has been named professor and chairman of the Department of Modern Languages for three years, effective Sept. 1.

Kamber's education includes the B.A. from Rutgers in 1950, M.A., Middlebury in 1952, Certificates in Phonetics, Philology and Literature from Paris and Florence in 1951 and Ph.D. from The Johns Hopkins University, 1962.

He has taught French and Italian at Goucher College, 1959-62; at Bowdoin College, 1962-69; at Kent State from 1969-72 and at SUNY, Potsdam from 1972 until the present. He has been director of summer programs in French at Harvard in 1963, 1966 and 1969.

News Notes

TCGC Gives Benches

Earlier this month, the Trinity College Girl's Club (TCGC) donated three benches for Quad use, which are located in front of the Chapel, midway of the Long Walk, and in front of the Chemistry Building. According to Lucy Myshrahl, President of TCGC, "The benches are made out of concrete and redwood, and are very durable. They do not have backs thus allowing people to sit on the benches from either side." The Trinity College Girls' Club, organized in 1971, raises funds each year for gifts to the College and the Community. Last year's gift to the College was a donation of $300 to the Library. This purchase of benches represents a sizeable investment by the Trinity College Girls' Club, said Myshrahl.

Bookstore Gets New Head

by Seth Price
The Trinity College Bookstore has a new manager. He is Verlen Kresin who comes to Trinity from the State University of New York at Stony Brook where he had previously managed. The previous manager of the Trinity Bookstore recently left and when Mr. Kresin was offered the job, he accepted. He has been employed at his new post for one week. Kresin sees no great changes in the operation of the Trinity Bookstore. As he stated, "Every manager has his own ideas and concepts of how a store should be run but basically we'll keep the same policies and procedures."

Students Receive Awards

Academic prizes and honors were presented Wednesday, May 12 to 71 Trinity College students including 26 from Connecticut during the 27th annual Honors Day Ceremonies at the College. A senior English major received three awards. Michael C. Johnson of Northport, N.Y. was awarded second prizes in the John Curtis Underwood Memorial Prizes in Poetry and the Alumni Prizes in English Composition. He was also presented with a third (tie) Trinity Alumnus Prize in Prose Fiction. Tied with Johnson was Theodore Slipchinsky of Bloomfield, Conn., a student in Trinity's Individualized Degree Program which permits students to tailor their own courses and work at their own pace. Slipchinsky expects to graduate in 1977.

The Human Relations Award was presented jointly to senior Mildred Caraballo of Brooklyn, N.Y. and junior Mark Henrickson, Wilmington, Del. The awards are given to students for their endeavors to further the development of good human relations and sportsmanship. The Samuel S. Fishzohn Awards in the area of civil rights and civil liberties were shared by seniors Robert A. Gibson of New Haven, Conn. and Peter W. Jessop, Guilford, Conn. Gibson, who was awarded the Jerome P. Webster, Class of 1910, Student Book Collectors Prize, was cited for his keen interest in assisting minority students to adjust to college environment. Jessop was lauded for his effective advocacy of civil rights of the Hartford Puerto Rican community.

The Fishzohn Awards for Community service were presented to seniors Martha Cohen, Northampton, Mass. and Gino A. Barra of New York City. Cohen was cited for her extensive community work in the area of sex role stereotypes, particularly in children's literature. Barra received the award for his efforts on behalf of the Big Brother organization, where he served as case worker and staff recruiter. The awards were established in 1966 in memory of Samuel S. Fishzohn, a prominent figure in social work and welfare. Other awards and prizes were given in chemistry, drama, biology, art history, art, economics, engineering, Spanish, French, education, government, Greek, Latin, poetry, Italian, public speaking, mathematics and music.

Boston Museum of Science. The Right Reverend Robert S. Kerr was consecrated Bishop Coadjutor of the (Episcopalian) Diocese of Vermont in 1974. He served in this capacity for three months when he became the seventh Bishop of Vermont. Bishop Kerr received a B.A. degree from Trinity College in 1940 and graduated from General Theological Seminary in 1943. He was ordained Deacon and Priest in 1943. The Seminary awarded him a S.T.B. in 1960 and S.T.D. in 1974. He will receive a Doctor of Divinity degree from Trinity. Bishop Kerr was an assistant at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and Master of the Choir member of the Alumni Executive Committee of the General Theological Seminary. Robert B. O'Connor is a trustee emeritus of Trinity College and, until his retirement, was a partner

Other works by O'Connor are the N.Y. Stock Exchange where he served as construction architect, the N.Y. City Union League Club, and campus buildings at Colgate, University of Louisville, Barnard College, Princeton and the International Christian University in Tokyo. W. Anthony Paddon received the B.S. from Trinity College in 1935 and the M.S. from the Long Island College of Medicine in 1940. In 1957 London University awarded him the D.P.H. Long Island College of Medicine presented him with the Frank L. Babbott Award for distinguished medical service in 1975. Trinity is conferring the Doctor of Science degree on Paddon. ## Wants Response

An Open Letter to Trinity Undergraduates:

As you are now aware, J. Ronald Spencer will leave the Office of Dean of Students to become, on July 1, Dean of Studies.

It seems wise, Dean Spencer's effectiveness among undergraduates having derived in great measure for his experience in the faculty, to begin the search for his successor among the faculty.

If you know of individuals among us who might be qualified for the strenuous and sensitive responsibilities of a dean of students, I should welcome hearing from you as soon as possible.

There will be, I expect, a reluctance to suggest an able teacher whose removal to administration would clearly mean a subtraction from the classroom, but we do need in this function one who has had good success in teaching and who will, as we believe Dean Spencer has, help other colleagues as they teach and as they inform and stimulate the academic development of undergraduates. The passage, in other words, of a member of the faculty to the administration of undergraduate affairs can be looked upon as gain, not loss, and as an opportunity to continue the work which Dean Spencer has done so well on behalf of undergraduates and faculty members. I hope that you will think seriously on this request, and that you will let me know the names of men and women who ought to be considered.

Sincerely,
Thomas A. Smith
Vice President

"Disgusted"

To the Editor,
I am discouraged, disheartened, and disgusted.

Over Black Culture Week I saw the T.C.B. sponsored movie "Attica". I was gravely impressed by the irresponsibility of the journalists who had blindly accepted, and reported false information concerning the killing of seven hostages, thereby setting the mood for unnecessary violence.

This example of blind acceptance of "fact", as well as the hundreds of misquotes, quotes out of context, or plainly false quotes reported by journalists everywhere, is absolutely inexcusable. To me, it is a crime against the society who relies on reporters for its information, as well as a crime against the people it slanders, and it must be regarded as such.

Although the main issue of Joke Night remains one of unchanged importance, the Tripod journalists' incredible carelessness in their articles about it, (refer here to the blatant misquotes of Jim Shepard and the emcee as indicated in letters to the Editor; Tripod 4/5) is a matter not to be taken lightly. Attica, as well as all misunderstandings caused by irresponsible persons is, indeed, all of us.

Mary Bouteneff '78

Belated Concern

To the Editor:

I was pleased to read of Dr. Lockwood's "moral indignation" at the Joke Nite incident, but I wonder if our President shares this same concern over on-campus muggings, robberies, rapes, etc., many of which are performed by outsiders who have racist and/or sexist intentions.

Dr. Lockwood's callous, reactionary attitude toward the students was most clearly demonstrated this week when he decided to post extensive security measures only after a coed was assaulted in the North Campus dorm. Where were these security forces all year? Why was it necessary to wait until someone got hurt?

Louis Meyers '78

"Absurd" Security

To the Editor,

This letter pertains to the new security policy of locking dormitories at 1:00 a.m. that began on May 10. This policy, I feel, is nothing short of being absurd. I can't deny the fact that increased security measures are needed as evidenced by the alleged assault last Wednesday night. However, locking the dorms at 1:00 a.m. shows a complete lack of thought and planning by those responsible for this decision.

Question: How is one supposed to contact Mather when he/she has no access to a telephone? (remember they are locked out of the dorm) This immediately leads to the example in which a single girl is forced to walk across campus by herself late at night in order to contact Mather front desk. Meanwhile she could be assaulted by a numerous variety of characters who roam about during the wee hours of the morning. Your problem is solved, she didn't get raped in the dorm, she was raped walking to Mather. A smart administration may tell me that she can call the escort service — however how does one contact the service without a phone? (We are assuming the girl has been off campus for most of the night) Secondly, do you (the policy makers) realize how many people stay out after 1:00 a.m.? Obviously not. Your stupidity is beyond belief. Actually, its not beyond belief, it falls into line with a host of other incredulous decisions which have been made this year. I believe a more acceptable solution would be to increase security around the dorms late at night.

Sincerely,
George Smith

Commentary: A Better Way To Deal With Racism

by Margaret Eisen and Randy Pearson

The administration of Trinity College is in the process of implementing a rule that students making a personal attack on other students, whether in a group or individually, on the basis of race, sex, creed, or national origin will be subject to suspension from the college.

We feel that this action on the part of the administration is wrong for several reasons. Primarily, their rather shallow approach to remedy the problem of racism does not improve the quality of interaction among students. As opposed to throwing people out by expulsion we propose a more constructive alternative that can utilize the purpose of the college. The purpose is to educate people, right? So why isn't a means to augment this purpose being proposed?

Our proposal is to create a system to educate the members of the college in an attempt to achieve a more enlightened consciousness. Such a system could include discussion sessions, film theater workshops, personal counseling therapy, and most importantly, compulsory seminars on racism, for credit, if need be. This system of interaction should be compulsory to those who offend others by their racist or sexist behavior.

Please, let's deal with our problems in a constructive way to grow and promote a rational awareness of our behavior. Prejudices are a function of thoughts, and thoughts are a process of learning and misconceptions. In education we should not avoid our problems but face them and deal with them. Therefore, attempts to limit our freedom to speak freely are not viable means to this end.

Athletic Department Announces Awards

by John Gillespie

In an informal ceremony in the Tansill Room of the Ferris Athletic Center, Friday, May 7, the recipients of five athletic awards were announced and presented with their gifts. Pres. Lockwood made the presentations before about thirty coaches, students, and parents.

Hobie Porter received the Blanket Award — a blue and gold Trinity blanket, and only the 15th to be presented since the first one in 1932. The award is presented to any athlete who earns nine varsity letters while at Trinity; Porter's collection of ten letters (three each in soccer and squash, two each in tennis and track) is unsurpassed in the history of the college.

The second presentation was the Bantam Award, going to a non-student selected by the full-time staff of the athletic department for contribution to the department. New Haven resident Ray Montgomery was the recipient.

Don Bauer received the ECAC Scholar-Athlete Award, voted to the senior who has been most outstanding in scholarship and athletics. Bauer's 10.52 academic average, combined with the achievement of four varsity letters and the position of co-captain of the indoor track team made him a very deserving choice.

The Larry Silver (class of '64) Award for outstanding contribution by a student to the athletic department was presented to Karen Mapp. She founded cheerleading at Trinity and served as captain of the squad for the past three years. She was also recognized for her unique ability to create new and successful ways of raising funds for anything that needs money.

Finally, the George Sheldon McCook Trophy, one of the most prestigious awards presented by the College, was given to the student-athlete whose outstanding scholarship, leadership, and athletic ability are worthy of the highest praise. This year's recipient is Hobie Porter, whose achievements have been listed above.

Women Laxers Whip Williams 19-9

by Susan Eckles

The varsity girls' lacrosse team defeated Williams 19-9 in a very close game. In the first half, the teams alternately scored goals. Williams once more started off the scoring by getting two quick goals, but Carter Wurts ran straight down the middle and placed a shot behind the goalie which she never saw. Barb Hayden then scored to tie it on a nice play with Wurts. Williams scored again, but Cackie Bostwick got that one back on a beautiful high shot. Susan Eckles scored to give us the lead, but that was short-lived as Williams followed with another goal. We took the lead once more as Tina Poole scored on an extraordinary underhand shot. We then extended our lead to two as Hayden scored another, but Williams tied it by getting two more goals. Before halftime, each team got one more, with Wurts scoring for us, to make it 7-7.

In the second half our passes were more precise and accurate, our cuts more on time and well-placed, and our stickwork flawless. We opened up the scoring as Olivia Brown intercepted a clear from the goalie and went in alone to score. But Williams again scored to tie it and it appeared it would be the first half all over again. However, we settled down and started to excel in everything we did.

The scoring was evenly divided among the offense as both Eckles and Wurts scored 3, Poole and Spit Dobbin added 2 apiece, and Hayden got her third goal.

Williams scored only one more as goalie Karen Blakeslee made many fine saves while our stubborn defense of Barnes, Brown, Mountcastle, Witbeck, McLane, and Bostwick was unrelenting. And while the final score was 19-9, it was not an easy game.

Williams was a good, solid team that kept pressing, and though we had a comfortable lead in the second half, we had to be continually wary of their speed and ability to score. It was a win we all wanted due to a one goal defeat last year, and we won by playing skillfully, aggressively, but most importantly, by playing together as a team.

Thus, we end a season which cannot be called anything but excellent. The varsity's record was 8-1 as our only defeat was to Yale by a 9-8 score. The junior varsity was undefeated with a 4-0-1 record as they tied Brown.

It was a season that required hard work and concentration, and one that was highly competitive. It was also a very fun season that was extremely successful and which, hopefully, will be as successful next year.

But before finishing, I would like to respond to, and I believe I am doing so for most of the team, the editorial following our article in last week's Tripod. "The Diz" mentioned in reference to our 18-1 victory over Smith, "it is obvious that someone forgot what the word 'sportsmanship' means." Actually, it is he who forgot something. A few of us on the team had already talked to him before he wrote his comments and explained how we were unaware of just how unskillful Smith was and as usual only dressed two substitutes. Robin Sheppard did play those subs and would have played more if she knew Smith's inferiority.

But the "Diz" did not tell you this, nor how we talked at halftime of switching offense and defense, but decided it would be more humiliating to Smith to obviously fool around. Whether or not this is a correct decision is up to the in-l believe we were right.

We clearly understand the "Diz's" point and even agree with him in principle. If we had realized Smith's ability, we would definitely have dressed more junior varsity members and played them, but this was not the case. I do not believe we were unsportsmanlike and anyone who comes to our games would see this. I regret that the commentary was placed after our article for while he does mention the men's victory of 18-2 (but does not record their score), it implies we are the guilty ones.

I hope you now understand our position. We are a good team, better than most, our record shows that, but we are not one to deliberately humiliate another team.

Tennis Hammers Wesleyan

by J. D. Newcombe

The Trinity tennis team shrugged off an intense weekend of tennis at the New England's, a shocking loss to a psyched Army team and perhaps what was most deadly the outrageous spring parties at A.D. and The Hall and took arch rival Wesleyan to the cleaners, 8-1, on Saturday afternoon at Middletown.

Senior captain Jim Solomon said as he walked off the court after his last win for Trinity; "I always enjoy tasting these donkeys. Even more so now because it was my last match."

The Cardinals were ready for the match. How could they not be? The first three singles matches were very close and all went into the third set, however as the matches went down to the wire the Cardinals had their wings clipped. Radar Mathews, Jim Solomon and Tim Jenkins played with confidence and power, cracking hemoroidal shots and left their opponents to soothe their ruffled feathers.

It was almost too easy for the lower three matches as the depth of the "Blue Machine" swept Wesleyan without too much problem. After his match C.J. Johnson joked that the "toughest thing I did today was decide to call it rough for the spin of the racquet." Jim "The Reach" Rice and Andy Vermilye had their opponents in the bag the entire day.

Trinity's only loss was in the doubles. Doubles specialists Jon Porter and Bob Purcell who have played well all year won the first set and already smelled a win in their last match. However they ran out of steam and finally bowed at love in the third. Porter commented: "Yea. This was a disappointment but the main thing is that the team won."

Next years captains will be C. J. Johnson, Jim Rice and Tim Jenkins. Rumor has it that Coach Dath has lured Ben McKowen to Trinity under the guise that he is the coach of the Trinity team of San Antonio, Texas so that the prospects for next year's team are excellent. Five men out of the top six will be returning, so UCLA beware!
