WESLEYAN DEFEATED.

Trinity Wins Second Basketball Game.

Friday evening, February 3d, Trinity defeated Wesleyan in the second and last game of the series 35 to 19. Owing to Wesleyan's defeat on her own floor a week before the excitement was intense and a very large number of spectators were present. The game was fast and though rough, abounded in phenomenal team work. In the first half the score was close, but in the second half Trinity started in faster than ever and the passing between Duffee, Landerfeld and Powells Wesleyan was unable to break up.

The line-up is as follows:

Wesleyan.		Trinity.
Downey	r. f.	Duffee
Goodman	l. f.	Powell
Moore	c.	Landerfeld
Campaigne	r. g.	Madden
Van Surdam	l. g.	Marlor

Score, 35 to 19; goals, Downey 4, Goodman 3, Campaigne 1, Duffee 6, Powell 2, Landerfeld 6, Madden 3, Marlor 1; goals from foul, Goodman 2, Moore 2, Duffee 1; length of halves, 20 minutes.

Musical Club's Concert.

On Thursday evening the Glee and Mandolin Clubs will hold their annual Junior Week concert. The same program given at Newtown will be rendered, and afterwards a dance of 12 numbers. Both clubs are better than usual; which should be an inducement to the college men to make the concert at least more of a success than it was last year. Moreover, this is an important event of Junior Week, and its failure or success will contribute to the failure or success of the week as a whole. And, lest college spirit is not equal to the sacrifice, let it be remembered that, surprising though it seem, the concert will probably be almost as entertaining as a vaudeville performance down town.

ADVICE TO YOUNG ENGINEERS

Julian Kennedy declares letter training in the English Language is to be Desired.

Julian Kennedy addressed the students of the engineering college of the Western University of Pennsylvania this morning (January 27). He spoke of the tendency in modern engineering for students to elaborate on technical studies at the expense of a thorough literary training. He said that he had to employ large numbers of graduates from the various colleges for his different work, and his experience of them had been that out of every 10 who could satisfactorily perform the scientific work, only one was able to express himself clearly and intelligently in his mother tongue. He wanted engineering students to be trained better in the English language and in English literature. Mr. Kennedy said that more than half of the litigation that occurred in connection with engineering contracts could be traced to this radical defect and advised the students to become members of literary and debating societies, so that they could become masters of clear expression and know what they really wanted to say or write.

Judge's Chambers
United States Court,
Pittsburg
Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 17, 1905.

Editor of the Tripod:
I wish you would publish this newspaper clipping giving an account of an address delivered by my friend, Julian Kennedy, to the students at the Western University. It contains some advice worth heeding by every man at Trinity. If you were to come to Pittsburg today and ask who was the leading engineer in this great mechanical center every one would unite in saying, "Julian Kennedy." He is by all odds the greatest mechanical and technical man we have. Yet here we find him, with a head full of technical knowledge that has made his advice sought for from all parts of America and Europe, insisting on what? Why strange as it may seem, the English language, English literature and literary and debating clubs so that men may become master of clear, concise expression. So that they may not only know what they want to say but may know how to say or write it in clearcut English. I wish I could impress the young men in Trinity now with the deep significance of what Mr. Kennedy says.

It has come about in these modern days that any man, no matter what line he follows, whether it be business, mechanical or professional pursuits must learn—if he would come to the front rank of his work—to express himself clearly and perfectly with his pen and on his feet. Any branch of work has its conventions and associations and the men who are training in college for first class work in any line should see to it that they fit themselves by practice in speaking for taking a leading place in these gatherings. In these days of specialization the man who gets broad enough training to be broader than his special line will make him, make himself the best specialist. Mr. Kennedy is an example of that. A technical school graduate himself, the keenest and most accurately versed in his specialty, he has recognized that the greater view breadth he has outside his special work the better equipped he is in his special work.

If these few lines shall set some chap or two in college to thinking on two points—don't lose sight of all other knowledge in seeking after one goal—and in learning to write accurately and speak forcibly—then I shall feel that he or they have profited by Julian Kennedy's advice.

—Jos. Buffington.

"THAT CHAPEL QUESTION."

I have to work till lonesome hours if
a theme is overdue,
Am forced to spend an afternoon upon
my Greek,
Latin, French and Mathematics, other labors less pedantic.
Take up my time and keep me from my sleep
So I cannot worship God;
What's the use.
There's no prize for being pious;
What's the use,
—Freshness Impersonated.

Association of the Alumni of Trinity College.

To the Members:

In accordance with the well formulated plans looking toward the advancement of both the interests of the library and athletics, large sums have been voted from the funds of your association.

Within the last three years these have aggregated $1,136.34. Meanwhile receipts from membership fees have amounted to $632, or only 55.6% of the appropriation-expenditures, have been contributed by the active associates.

During this period the interest received on deposits and loans totalled $393.36, consequently our gross income was $1,025.36, of which 61.7% and 38.3% were derived from members and interest respectively.

The appropriations exceeded the gross income by $123.58, to which must be added the expense of maintaining our organization, etc., that amounted to $70.12, hence our fund has been impaired $193.70.

"NOW THEN TRINITY!"

Malcom C. Farrow.

We regret to announce that our editor-in-chief, Malcom C. Farrow, of the class of 1905, has left college. Having passed enough courses to entitle him to his degree, he has accepted a position in his home town, Shamokin, Pa., but will return to the commencement exercises in June to receive his degree.

Farrow came to Trinity from Cornell the beginning of his sophomore year and from the first he has taken an active and important part in the undergraduate affairs of the college. He has filled many responsible offices, and has received many honors. He has been assistant manager and manager of the football team, was athletic editor of the Press Club last year, a member of the Junior Promenade committee, managing editor of the 1905 "Ivy," and was last spring elected to the Senior Honorary Society. It is partly to his work and enthusiasm that the "Tripod" owes its existence and present prosperity. In his absence the college loses a hard-working, loyal supporter, who will be greatly missed.

Let us, then, restore our fund and perpetuate the effectiveness of the association. You are earnestly requested to contribute your annual dues of one dollar, or if you elect this may be commuted under the last clause of By-Law VIII., which provides that by the payment of $10 a life-membership is acquired with exemption from further annual dues.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co.

AN INTERESTING FACT.

On the 1st of March, 1904, THE CONNECTICUT MUTUAL reached a stage in its history very interesting to its management and its members and one which is unique in the history of American Life Insurance.

On that date, but little more than fifty-eight years from its organization, it had received from its members in premiums the sum of $228,376,268, and had returned to them or their beneficiaries $228,724,073, or $347,805 more than it had received from them.

The Connecticut Mutual is the first American Life Insurance Company to return to its members one hundred per cent. of its receipt from them. And it holds besides $65,000,000 of assets, with a surplus of over $4,600,000 to protect over 70,000 policy-holders insured for over $166,000,000.
