BROWN WINS.

Our Basket-Ball Team Defeated in an Exciting Contest.

The basket-ball team was defeated at Providence on Saturday by the Brown University team, the final score being 33 to 24. Despite the fact that the team had but three days of practice, but put up the best game it has played this season, and clearly developed the fact that, if given a strong scrub to play against in practice, it will win a majority of the remaining games. Capt. Powell proved the star goal shooter of the game, by getting six clean baskets. The summary:

Dewolf, (Capt.) 1 f. Powell (Capt.) Backle..... r. f. .... Duffee Harding (Pryor) c. .... Landefeld Ingalls..... l. g. .... Madden Schwartz (Reynolds) r. g. .... Pond
Score—Brown 33, Trinity 24. Baskets from floor—Powell 6, Rackle 5, Dewolf 3, Pond 2, Reynolds 2, Duffy 2, Harding, Schwartz, Pryor, Ingalls, Landefeld, Madden. Baskets on free tries—Rackle 3. Fouls called—On Duffy 3, Madden, Powell, Rackle, Harding, Ingalls. Points from fouls—Brown 3. Referee—Mandeville of Brown. Timer—Halsey of Brown. Time—20-minute halves—

1906 Ivy.

The contract for printing and publishing the 1906 Ivy has been awarded to the Columbia Printing company of this city. The contract for supplying "cuts" and illustrations has been awarded to the Electric City Engraving company of Buffalo, N. Y.

The Christmas trip of the Yale musical clubs was very successful. The itinerary included Kansas City, Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Nashville, Louisville and Pittsburg.

PRESIDENT LUTHER SPEAKS.

Delivers Lecture Before Church Club of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Churchman of Jan. 7 contains the following account of Dr. Luther's address before the Church Club of Brooklyn, N. Y.:

"Talking of religion and learning to the Church Club of Brooklyn, on Dec. 27, President Luther of Trinity College, Hartford, said that the religion of to-day differed most from that of centuries ago in that it was more in solution in society, blending with learning into a great stream of blessing to improve and beautify human life. Christianity, he thought, was becoming so disseminated that its principles were coming to be universally recognized. 'Formal religious teaching,' he is reported to have said, 'does not last a great while in any curriculum. The best religious teaching, to my mind, is the catechism. There is no better commentary, no better text-book on ethics. I have never seen any mere exposition of the Ten Commandments to be of any help to anybody. They are the foundation principles of what a man ought to do, and of what he ought not to do. I have never seen a commentary on the Sermon on the Mount that was better than the few words it contains. . . . I question whether the best study of comparative religions makes a man more religious than other teachings, whether the study of the Bible of itself conduces more to a holy life than that of some other subject. That you can make a boy religious by telling him texts, I doubt. No, the principles of religion are very simple, not complex. We sometimes speak of learning as secular and religious. I believe that the secular learning is just as religious as the other, that the laboratory is as sacred as the church. I believe that when a student in chemistry has discovered the working of a natural law, he has found out a divine law, just as though he had discovered some great relation between God and man. I am answered that the student of history, who has discovered some great law of human development, how God works on men, en masse, has had just as much religious teaching as out of a book with a religious title. You cannot learn anything without learning of God. The relation between religion and learning is one of identity.'"

A Gift from the St. Louis Fair.

The Connecticut Horticultural society have presented to Trinity college their exhibit from the St. Louis exposition. It has already been shipped to Prof. Edwards from St. Louis. Very little has been ascertained as to the nature of this collection but it is understood to be a valuable one.

CHAPEL QUESTION.

Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.,
Jan. 16, 1905.

To the Editor of the Trinity Tripod:

Dear Sir—I am not an alumnus and I am not a sub-freshman. I am merely an undergraduate. In my humble capacity as such I would like to take advantage of the columns of your paper in order to vent my spleen in regard to the existing rule compelling the undergraduate to attend college chapel.

Yes, I am on a limit of four chapel cuts from now until the new term begins on Feb. 11. Perhaps it is this which makes me mad. Be that as it may, I am totally at a loss to see the advantage of the above mentioned rule.

Wherein does the advantage lie in profaning the sacred service of the church in order to accomplish the purely secular purpose of bringing the student body together at least once a day?

In this age of freedom of thought, what advantage is gained by forcing a man to attend divine service against his will?

Against both of these customs, Mr. Editor, I wish to raise the loudest protest of which my humble voice is capable. I would even go so far as to stamp them both as outrages, were it not for the fact that if I did so you would criticise me as prejudiced and partisan.

In order to show the disadvantage of the so-called compulsory chapel system, I shall take my own case, if you will pardon the egotism. It is first necessary to say that primarily I came to college in order to acquire a certain amount of such learning as appears to be difficult to obtain elsewhere. However, after a short residence at Trinity I became imbued with that peculiar feeling which every loyal son of Trinity felt when first he heard our honored president sound that slogan, "Now then, Trinity." With this feeling as a motive power, I soon became embroiled in several lines of college activity. In a very short time I found my greatest pleasure in utilizing all my one-man power not merely to place Trinity before the world, but to place her before both her critics and friends in a most favorable light. It is scarcely necessary for me to remind you, Mr. Editor, that this work, together with my studies, occupied my entire time. I have enough modesty not to wish to make known my scholastic rank; suffice it to say, however, that I am not in danger of flunking. And yet I am on a limit! Mr. Editor, that means that if I cut chapel over four times before Feb. 11, I shall be given three cuts grace, and these having expired, I shall be banished from college for the space of six weeks. I said that I am egotistic, I am also sensitive, and hence this exile would amount to expulsion.

Here then, Mr. Editor, is the case: Because a man works as hard as he can for his college, and because he was compelled to stay up late at night, even unto the early hours of the morning, in order to keep his work up to standard and to accomplish at least a part of his primary object in attending college, and hence being tired out, he overslept chapel too many times; because of these things the victim is threatened with suspension. A paradoxical fact we have indeed. A student threatened with expulsion because he does about twice as much work as he ought to do.

Something is wrong. It is not very difficult to see what. Mr. Editor, compulsory chapel is wrong!

I mentioned egotism in the early portion of this letter. Before closing I want to justify myself to the extent of saying that I know my case is not unique. Strange as it may seem to the uninitiated, there are men in Trinity college who do not "sport," "fuss," nor waste time in other ways, but who do give their whole interest and energy to the interests of the college and to their own studies. And some of these are threatened as above.

Thank you, sir, for your kindness in lending me your ear.

I have lively hopes of living to see that day when the Now-then-Trinity spirit will have remedied all manner of college injustice. In this hope I live, being truly grateful for the many benefits and pleasures derived from the generous bounty of my Alma Mater. At present our only comfort is that if we are expelled we shall have a good excuse for taking a trip south, and thus escape six weeks of New England winter.

Sincerely trusting that your excellent paper may continue in its prosperity, I remain,

Very truly yours,
HODIERNUS.

Communications.

Morris Phillips, ex-'06, was a recent college visitor.

President Luther is among the list of select preachers at Yale chapel the present term.

The Debating Club has challenged Rutgers to a debate to be held early in May, and the challenge has been informally accepted.

The third german will be held as usual in Junior Week and will come on Tuesday, the fourteenth of February. V. C. Brewer and H. G. Barbour, both of 1906, will be the leaders.

The Tripod will gladly print any communications relating to Trinity, but does not necessarily agree with sentiments expressed in such communications. The name of the writer must sign the letter; it will not be printed with the communication unless desired.

"NOW THEN—TRINITY!"

"DO IT NOW!"

The Mid-Year Examinations Will Commence on February 1.

This has been known ere this appears in print, but we simply note it in the hope that everyone will get ready for them now. True, "eleventh hour repentance" is not the best kind of repentance, but then "it is never too late to mend" until you get the questions, and then repentance is useless. So now is the time to prepare for the examinations. If you fail to pass it will be your fault, and yours alone. We want to especially urge the men who are going to be candidates for the athletic teams to be sure to place themselves on the safe side. Get through your exams, so there can be no doubt of your eligibility on that score. It might not be a bad plan if the captains of the teams used their personal influence to urge each individual to do his level best.

Important Investigations by Prof.
Edwards.

On the 8th of December Prof. Edwards read a paper before the Society of American Zoologists in Philadelphia. His subject was "A Quantitative Study of Holothuria atra Jaeger, and the Re-establishment of Holothuria Florida Pourtales."

For about 40 years the common West Indian sea cucumber has been considered of the same species as that found in the Pacific ocean. After a statistical study of all the characters of 138 specimens from the U. S. National Museum, and the Harvard collections, Prof. Edwards has demonstrated that the two groups constitute distinct species. Important results were established bearing upon the changes of systematic characters through growth and the variation of the characters.

Matthews, the negro who played end for Harvard in the Yale game, has been elected a member of the Harvard senior class-day committee.

The agreement in relation to college politics at Williams has been signed for the 11 fraternities by their representatives and by over four-fifths of the non-fraternity undergraduates. The Gargoyle has declared to the student body that the agreement will for the time in which it is in force, prohibit any "deals" or combinations in regard to the support of any undergraduate office, but plainly does not affect the ordinary solicitation of votes.

During Christmas vacation the Harvard chess team won the inter-collegiate chess championship over teams from Yale, Princeton and Columbia. The University of Pennsylvania team won the triangular meet against Cornell and Brown.

In a recent chapel talk to the students of Dartmouth College, President Tucker urged them to consider seriously the claims and opportunities of the Christian ministry. "I am not speaking simply to the avowed Christian men of the college," he said. "I am speaking primarily to fifty among the strongest men of the college. It is you who are wanted first. Later the time will come for men of lesser power. I do not ask if you are Christians. The best way of which I know for a man to become a Christian is to ask himself, What is the greatest and best thing which I can do with my life? I do not ask if you are what you ought to be morally. The call to service is in itself the sublimest call to repentance."

One strong bidder for the Connecticut State building at St. Louis is Wesleyan University. The building is wanted for a club house. A fund has been collected for a club home, and if the building can be procured for the sum in hand it will probably be bought. It is modeled after the Lydia Sigourney Home, in Hartford, and is called the finest State building on the fair grounds. It is a typical Connecticut home, and cost the State of Connecticut $31,000, but will be sold for a much less sum. It is said that the expense of taking down and delivering it in this State would be $5,000. The material in the structure is worth $18,000.

Mr. Walter Camp of Football fame has resigned from the associate editorship of the Yale Alumni Weekly.

It is expected that Shevlin will be chosen captain of the Yale football eleven. The only candidate who opposes Shevlin to any extent is R. B. Tripp of Chicago. In regard to Rockwell, the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle contains the following: "The fact that Rockwell played three minutes in the Yale-Trinity football game in 1901 deprives him of a chance to play again for the Blue."

A rabbit party and dance of a very informal nature was held at the I K A Lodge, on Saturday, the 7th.

HARVARD-YALE.

Decision of Athletic Advisors at Meeting in New Haven.

The athletic advisors of Yale and Harvard had a conference Saturday at the home of Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes in New Haven. The conference committee decided that the Yale-Harvard eligibility rules now existing do not cover summer baseball specifically enough, and that a new rule should be passed, whereby the same rules which cover all other branches of sport during the period that college is in session should be rigorously insisted upon for summer baseball. It was decided that no student engaged in summer baseball should receive any cash emolument or valuable prize not permitted in college sports in term-time, but might receive his expenses.

It was decided that the present general athletic agreement between the two colleges be continued when the present terms expire March 15. No specific cases were taken up, and the Coburn, Gilmore and Rockwell and other cases which have been discussed in the newspapers did not come before the conference. Another meeting will be held soon, and then the Yale committee will go to Harvard. The general agreement framed two years ago is as follows:

"The two universities herewith enter into an agreement for contests in the four main branches of sports—football, baseball, rowing and track athletics—under the following conditions: The agreement to continue for two years and thereafter to continue for successive two-year periods, except upon notice to the contrary by properly constituted authorities not less than six weeks before the termination of the previous period of two years. Agreement to take effect March 15, 1903."—Courant.

Gifts amounting to $437,370 were announced by President Harper tonight at the 53d quarterly convocation of the University of Chicago. John D. Rockefeller gave $245,000 for current expenses and $60,000 for improvements to the heating plant.

Rev. Dr. Beverly E. Warner, '76, of Trinity Church, New Orleans, La., has been called to succeed the Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester at St. Stephen's, Philadelphia.

AN INTERESTING FACT.

On the 1st of March, 1904, THE CONNECTICUT MUTUAL reached a stage in its history very interesting to its management and its members and one which is unique in the history of American Life Insurance.

On that date, but little more than fifty-eight years from its organization, it had received from its members in premiums the sum of $228,376,268, and had returned to them or their beneficiaries $228,724,073, or $347,805 more than it had received from them.

The Connecticut Mutual is the first American Life Insurance Company to return to its members one hundred per cent. of its receipt from them. And it holds besides $65,000,000 of assets, with a surplus of over $4,600,000 to protect over 70,000 policy-holders insured for over $166,000,000.

JAMES A. RINES,

32 Asylum Street.

WE extend to you an invitation to call and inspect our mag- nificent line of Fall and Winter Goods, which are now on exhibition.

Our handsome assortment of Im- ported and Domestic Fabrics for this season surpasses everything hereto- fore shown you in the way of Suits- ings, Overcoatings, Fancy Vestings, and Trouserings, and among them you will find a great many new and novel effects which were made ex- pressly for us. An early inspection will be to your advantage.
