Underclass Rushes.

The College Year Began With the Customary Precedings.

Following the usual custom the underclass rushes were held this year on Friday, the day after the opening of college. For the first time in several years the sophomore and freshmen classes were almost evenly matched more of the freshmen being kept out of the contests on account of football.

The first event of the day was the "bulletin-board rush" which was held immediately after the close of recitations in the afternoon. The object of this rush for the freshmen is to post a notice challenging the sophomores to a "push-rush." The sophomores try to prevent the posting of this challenge.

At about 4:30 the class of 1909, under the leadership of Livingston, their newly elected president, made the attack upon the sophs, who were grouped around the bulletin board. The wild struggle which ensued was rendered especially exciting by the pouring of several buckets of water from the upper windows. The board was eventually wrenched entirely away from the wall, but not before several challenges had been posted. The upperclassmen then separated the fighters, but only for a moment. After an excited cheer the two classes again clashed. The rush developed into groups of individual wrestling matches and finally subsided. This performance was repeated until all the underclassmen were pretty well winded.

The most important event of the day took place at half past seven in the evening, when the two classes assembled on the campus for the push-rush. Solid phalanxes were formed, with the smaller men in front, and after some preliminary practice, with the upperclassmen acting as coaches, the signal was given for the start. With a peculiar swing the opposing forces approached each other rapidly, and when the collision came it was difficult to say which side yielded the most. The first rush was declared a draw. The second was won by the freshmen and the third by the sophomores, the series thus resulting in a tie.

A parade was formed at 9:15 and the whole college marched by twos to the president's house, where a halt was made. A rousing "Trin" was given for Dr. Luther, to which he responded by one of his characteristic speeches. The procession then proceeded to the Capitol with many cheers and songs by the various classes. There, upon the original site of Trinity college the annual custom was observed of singing "Neath the Elms" and "America." The day's programme was closed by the usual "beer rush" down town where the freshmen were given an opportunity to act both as waiters and as vaudeville performers.

Football Prospects.

Although the outlook for a winning team is not now so bright as it was a week ago, owing to the fact that the entrance examinations proved disastrous to many aspiring heavyweights, yet the men who are out are exhibiting a good spirit. The Trinity management, however, is experiencing the same difficulty against which all small colleges have to struggle, the lack of a sufficient number of candidates to form a good scrub team. It has become a well established fact that a successful eleven cannot be turned out unless it has a strong scrub to line up against. Recognizing this, there is surely enough spirit in the college to evolve a strong scrub eleven.

A good scrimmage was held Saturday afternoon, though there were not enough players to form two full teams. Captain Landefeld used the varsity backfield behind the scrub line, and the varsity line was unable to hold them with any degree of success. Mason and Roberts, two freshmen backs, showed up very well, Mason being particularly aggressive, penetrating the varsity line again and again. Cameron, substitute guard last year, has come out for practice again, and showed up well last Saturday. Buck, playing guard against a prominent graduate player, worked hard and broke through several times.

Unless some heavy men appear later in the season, there is every evidence that the team will be as light as the eleven of last fall. One fact, however, is certain. The men will be in far better condition than they were last year. As early as it is now, the team is in good condition. Their spirit, too, is excellent. There is not the carelessness about dieting and smoking, which there was a year ago. The whole team realizes the necessity of the most rigid training. Perfect condition must make up for lack of weight.

Besides the loss of several promising candidates in the incoming freshman class, the football outlook has received a severe blow by the loss of Madden. He has been taken to the hospital suffering from typhoid fever. His absence is only a temporary one, it is to be hoped, but it leaves a big gap in the position of fullback. Just now there is no one in sight who is entirely capable of filling his place.

Buths, center last year, is again practicing with the squad. He and Marlbor are the only candidates for this important position. The only other members in college, of the team of last season, who are not out now are Landerburn, and Morgan. The former has a weak wrist, which will not stand the strain to which football will subject it. Morgan has been unwell, but expects to appear again soon.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

Larger Than Last Year. Many Failed to Meet Requirements.

When in a few days the last late comers shall have arrived, the class of 1909 will be seventy-five in number. This number is that of freshmen, since but three men have entered for higher classes. The number of men who actually came to Hartford this fall to enter Trinity was much larger, but failure to pass examinations or show sufficient certification kept an unusually large number from being enrolled.

EDITORIAL

College tradition was strong enough to retain the old form of the under-class rush, the push-rush on Friday night. There was considerable agitation for a new form of rush which would do away with the danger of the push-rush, which is increasing with the larger classes. Apparently a majority of the students were in favor of a change, but lack of a well formed and well prepared alternative allowed the traditional push-rush to be carried through. And it was very successful. In fact the rushes of Friday were the most spectacular of any of our time.

But if it is advisable to modify somewhat this rush to avoid the accidents that very likely will occur with larger classes, now is the proper time, we think, to act. A conference committee chosen from the four classes, to meet now and present plans to the college body for ratification, is in order for appointment.

The student body is very much grieved to hear that Madden '08, has been taken ill with typhoid fever and has been removed to the hospital. His illness means a great loss to the football team, which statement his record of last season proves.

Trinity College is very pleased to hear of the recent successful opening of the Cheshire School at Cheshire, Conn. The school has long been closely associated with Trinity and we are all greatly pleased to learn of the large increase in attendance.

The faculty and students of Trinity would be very pleased to have the students of Cheshire school visit Trinity and Hartford on one of these pleasant Indian summer days when there is a football game in the afternoon. Would it not be a pleasant experience for both institutions?

PRESS NOTICE

The following comment upon the Inauguration Number of the "Tripod" was made some weeks ago by the Hartford "Times":

The inauguration number of the Trinity Tripod is one of the most attractive publications ever issued in connection with the college. Bound in blue and old gold, the college colors, and adorned with the finest of half-tone reproductions of photographs, the number is of much beauty as well as interest, and forms an accurate and comprehensive compilation of President Luther's inaugural ceremonies, as well as giving many facts of contemporary college life. The number includes the addresses formally inducting President Luther into the presidency, and a list of the college's guests on that important occasion. Pictures of the faculty, the college grounds, the class rooms, and of nearly 400 of the alumni of the college are printed. A meritorious publication deserves, and, no doubt, will receive, the most sincere appreciation of Trinity alumni the world over. The book is respectfully and affectionately dedicated to Gordon Wadworth Russell, A. M., M. D., of the class of 1834, the oldest living graduate of the college.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Dr. McCook yesterday informed the members of the sophomore class that he had asked the faculty to be relieved of the work in Religious Studies II. owing to a large increase in the work in his regular department. He said he did not know whether or not this change would be brought about, but inasmuch as Dr. McCook has taught the subject for the past twenty years, it may readily be believed, to use his own expression, that he has become "tired" of the subject. Who will take up the work is not yet known.

A meeting of the Freshman class held at 3:45, Friday afternoon, at which Dougherty, the president of the Junior class, presided. The purpose of the meeting was to elect officers and to invent a cheer for the use of the men in the rush. The following officers were elected: President, W. G. Livingston; and rush captain, L. G. Carpenter, both of Detroit, Mich. After the cheer had been practiced the meeting adjourned for the Bulletin Board Rush.

Dr. Luther announced yesterday the time of the Easter vacation. The vacation begins April 11 at 4 o'clock and ends on April 23 at 5:45 o'clock.

AN INTERESTING FACT.

On the 1st of March, 1904, THE CONNECTICUT MUTUAL reached a stage in its history very interesting to its management and its members and one which is unique in the history of American Life Insurance.

On that date, but little more than fifty-eight years from its organization, it had received from its members in premiums the sum of $228,376,268, and had returned to them or their beneficiaries $228,724,073, or $347,805 more than it had received from them.

The Connecticut Mutual is the first American Life Insurance Company to return to its members one hundred per cent. of its receipt from them. And it holds besides $65,000,000 of assets, with a surplus of over $4,600,000 to protect over 70,000 policy-holders insured for over $166,000,000.
