TRINITY-O N. Y. U.-O

Excellent Showing Made Against Weighty Opponents.

If there was an lingering doubt in the minds of Trinity men concerning the exact niche which the present team would occupy in the long line of Trinity football elevens, that doubt was dissipated Saturday afternoon. The result of the game then, in which Trinity held down the much heavier team of New York University to a score of 3 to 0, stamps the present combination as one of the strongest and best teams that have ever represented the college. Trinity can now look forward with a considerable degree of confidence to the other games of the schedule.

As an exhibition to the numerous spectators, the game was spoiled in great measure, as was the game of a week before, by the limited knowledge and still more limited firmness exhibited by both the referee and the umpire. The decision putting Captain Landefeld out of the game, on account of the fight indulged in by some other men on the teams, was as rank a decision as any ever made by an umpire. A strong effort will be made by the football management to secure competent officials for the game with Union next Saturday.

The game was called at 3.30 o'clock and began promptly. Interest in the contest was widespread and some 700 people attended. New York defended the south goal and received the kick-off. The ball soon went to Trinity on downs, but after a few plays an unfortunate fumble gave the ball back again. N. Y. U. then started in earnest and, by a series of tandem plays, rushed the ball down the field. Trinity seemed powerless to stop the heavy tandems, until Pond discovered that he was able to run in from the side and bring down the runner. The tandem then shifted to the other side of the line. A trick play soon netted the visitors 15 yards more and the side lines became anxious. With the ball on the twenty yard line, New York was penalized 15 yards for holding and offside play. After two unsuccessful attempts to advance the ball, Connell attempted a field goal, but the ball went wide, and Hubbard heeled for a touch-back. Landefeld punted out to the 45 yard line and Donnelly by some of the most spectacular work of the game, hurled the interference against the runner, throwing both men to the ground, with the ball not advanced at all.

For the rest of the half the two teams were about even. When time was finally called, Trinity had the ball on the 45 yard line. In the second half Trinity played better ball. N. Y. U. also put up a showy article, and honors were divided. After Trinity had made good, substantial gains, the ball again went over on a fumble, and N. Y. U. started in on another march. Here Captain Landefeld was disqualified, and Cameron took his place. The side lines became almost discouraged, but the team exhibited a sterling brand of good old-fashioned Trinity spirit, which warmed the heart of every graduate who witnessed the game. They flew at the line like tigers. Nothing could withstand their attack, and New York crumbled. A third costly fumble set Trinity back 15 yards. Made desperate by the loss, with every man on the team fighting mad, Trinity started a whirlwind attack, which completely shattered the defence of the visitors. Pond, Budd, Donnelly, Maxson, and Mason tore and ripped through the opposing line, gaining their distance almost every time. Every Trinity man was in every play. When the whistle blew for time, New York was being broken up. The strength born of spirit and good physical condition gave them the advantage over their somewhat logy opponents.

Following is the line-up of the two teams:—

STUDENT CONFERENCE.

The Connecticut Valley Student Missionary Conference will be held at Holyoke Friday and Saturday of this week, opening Friday evening at 7.30, and closing Saturday afternoon at 4.00. Six or seven men have already signified their intention to attend from Trinity. A rate of $1.02 for the round trip has been secured. A very good program has been arranged by the committee, under Wm Blair Roberts, Trinity '05, as Chairman. Delegates will be accommodated in the dormitories of the College and the convention is to meet in the College Chapel.

Dr. Lindsley's Report.

Dr. Charles A. Lindsley, Trinity '49, since 1860 a professor in the Yale Medical School, has recently published his report as secretary of the Connecticut State Board of Health. The report is chiefly devoted to typhoid fever, as spread by flies. This has an important bearing on medical research of the present day, which is making a study of the spreading of malaria, yellow fever, etc. by mosquitos and other insects.

TRINITY TO THE FRONT

What the New York Herald Says of Trinity.

"It is in this connection that more than a passing interest attaches to two incidents associated with the college life of the country. One is the new athletic constitution adopted by the students at Trinity College, and the other is the conference held at the White House with President Roosevelt upon the subject of football as played to-day.

It was expected when Dr. Luther was made president of Trinity that his immense personal influence with the undergraduate body would be felt and expressed in some definite form. He is an exponent of gentlemanly agreements in athletics, and, if I understand aright, is no more able to see than others are why it is forever necessary to adopt formal rules for doing in a certain way what no real gentlemanly instinct would suggest being done in any other way. It would be both an exaggeration and an injustice to assert that the higher standard Trinity has adopted for its athletic guide is due to the direct interference of President Luther, and yet it would be ungenerous to ignore the fact that his influence is seen in the new constitution. He understands the undergraduate too well to attempt to force medicine down his throat, but he also knows how to reach the genus student through an appeal to the best there is in him. Having done this at the outset of his presidential career he has had only to wait the passage of a few months to see definite progress made.

In declining or omitting, as the case may be, to include eligibility rules in the new constitution the students of Trinity have, either consciously or unconsciously, set up the honor rule, which is twenty times as effective. With admirable and commendable pride they take the ground at the outset that the students at Trinity are gentlemen and can be depended upon to play the game fair, without holding themselves legally bound to do so by self-imposed rules and regulations. They do not say all of these things; there is no boasting in their action, no holier than thou expressions of superiority, but in their silence they say more than words can. They know, just as the rest of us know, that eligibility rules are an offence against decent athletic manners and are adopted in order to anticipate evils which should be outside of the pale of collegiate suspicion. Where the honor system of supervision is enforced there is no chance of men being played on college teams who are not serious candidates for a degree. The entire evil of college athletics falls to the ground the moment the honor test is given. To have recognized that fact puts little Trinity in the front rank of self-respecting American institutions of education.

But this was not all the students of Trinity accomplished upon their own volition. They petitioned the faculty to raise the already high standard of scholarship for athletes. It is conceivable that if the college authorities had undertaken to do this, even for the same reason, the student body would have resented it. A reform or improvement of this character to be enduring must proceed from the undergraduate body itself, the practical effect of which is in this instance an answer in advance to the assertion that because a prominent athlete selects Trinity as his favorite college he is not bought to come there by exceptional privileges and personal advantages. As President Luther is reported to have said when that resolution was shown him:—"If the athletic association adopts this resolution it will be the very best piece of work that body has ever done." In other respects, which do not demand comment here, the new Trinity constitution represents a higher standard of athletic dignity all around. Organization is necessary, and that the document attends to properly, but broadly speaking, when it comes to the conduct of the sportsman and of the sports it proposes that the gentleman's agreement shall have a chance to assert its powers, standing or falling thereby. It is quite time the discovery was made how far it has been crippled by years of neglect."

Intercollegiate Notes.

The introduction of the preceptorial system has brought an addition of 50 per cent to the faculty of Princeton university. Most of the colleges in the country are represented in these new appointments. The preceptors rank as assistant professors.

The latest registration figures from Prof. Rudolf Tombo, Jr., of Columbia university show a decrease in the numbers at the professional schools, though there is a decided increase in the number of students attending the college courses.

PROF. LUTHER'S VIEWS UPHELD

At a meeting of the New England Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools, held in Boston, October thirteenth and fourteenth, Professor E. H. Hall, of Harvard, a former member of the Harvard Athletic Committee, read a paper in support of the proposition that colleges should cease to draw distinctions between professionals and amateurs among athletes, but should determine their eligibility by academic standing alone. In the paper Professor Hall proposed the following rules:—

1. One year of probation for all students.
2. No special students in any intercollegiate contests.
3. No holder of a bachelor's degree in such contests.
4. No man over 24 years of age in such contests.
5. No team to play more than one public game a week.

It was noticeable that, though all the rules might not meet with universal approval, almost all the speakers at the meeting, favored Prof. Hall's general principle. Only one speaker defended the present method.

EDITORIAL.

POOR LOSERS.

The sensational articles in two or three New York Sunday papers burst upon us at Trinity as thunder claps out of a clear sky. We did not think that New York University had taken the game so seriously. That they were at issue with us for the poor service of the officials, we had reason to expect. They showed their attitude toward the officials at the very beginning of the game, which was to object to every decision. And the decisions were not partial in favor of Trinity. The injustice to Captain Landefeld, alone, weighs heavily in the balance.

We have no reason to doubt that the sensational articles referred to were inspired by New York University men. Their team very greatly outweighed our eleven, and they came probably fully expecting to win in a mere push game. But they were held by the smaller opponents—a fact which did not tend to calm their exasperation at the lack of firmness in the official. Trusting in the past showing of our football men we hoped to win against the heavy visitors, but New York evidently came unprepared for possible defeat. And they have not taken it in good form. The accidents of the game were reported in the New York papers in a way to infer blaggardism on the part of Trinity. Unfortunately, for both teams, the few injuries were borne mostly by them. This is testimony to the training of Trinity's team, and (to philosophize a little) self-control in training might be supposed to guarantee self-control in the strained circumstances of a football game.

We wish to place ourselves on record as believing that New York University does not assent to the spirit portrayed in these articles, the work of individuals. And it may be our pleasure in the near future to be assured of this officially.

AN INTERESTING FACT.

On the 1st of March, 1904, THE CONNECTICUT MUTUAL reached a stage in its history very interesting to its management and its members and one which is unique in the history of American Life Insurance.

On that date, but little more than fifty-eight years from its organization, it had received from its members in premiums the sum of $228,376,268, and had returned to them or their beneficiaries $228,724,073, or $347,805 more than it had received from them.

The Connecticut Mutual is the first American Life Insurance Company to return to its members one hundred per cent. of its receipt from them. And it holds besides $65,000,000 of assets, with a surplus of over $4,600,000 to protect over 70,000 policy-holders insured for over $166,000,000.
