PRICE, FIVE CENTS.

CHARLES HOPKINS CLARK.

To Give First of Regular Lectures.

The first in the course of public lectures this year is to be given Thursday of this week in Alumni hall.

The College is to be congratulated on the lecturer and his subject. Mr. Clark is one of the best known newspaper men in the country and he is to speak of our New Possessions in the East.

CHARLES HOPKINS CLARK.

To be a newspaper man and even a well known newspaper man is not of necessity high praise. There are unfortunately quite too many instances to the contrary. But Mr. Clark has reputation as distinguished from notoriety. His apprenticeship was passed with such men as Hawley and Warner, and even before their disappearance it was recognized that he had grown to their stature, and that with him the traditions of our best journalism would be safe.

This expectation he has fully vindicated. Hawley's directness and enthusiasm and Warner's wit still live in him, together with a flavor derived from his own personality. "That is Clark!" is the common exclamation on reading certain leading articles in the "Courant"—and even when the surmise is mistaken, and the compliment does not belong to him as a writer, there is a tribute to his capacity as managing head of the paper.

For, many a man can reach excellence as a writer of leaders, but only a few can so impress themselves upon their associates as to secure in them a uniform quality of work after their own standard. Mr. Dana did this for the "Sun," Mr. Bryant for the "N. Y. Evening Post," Mr. Raymond for the "Times"—but the list can not be made much longer.

We often find fault with the "Courant" and sometimes are unable to agree with Mr. Clark, but we are proud of the "Courant" and of its Chief. It is carefully and skilfully edited, and there is a great deal of real literature to be found on its editorial page first and last. The N. Y. "Sun" is bright but conscienceless; it will any day sacrifice accuracy to epigram. The "Evening Post" is so anxious to be serious and solid that it sometimes forgets to be cheerful. The "Courant", under Clark, is the two shaken together, with a liberal dash of New England conscience and New England wit to chasten and enliven the whole.

Mr. Clark went as a private passenger, paying his own way and therefore untrammelled, on Secretary Taft's trip to the Orient. He carried with him a pair of keen and trained eyes—and what they saw in this newest of our possessions, on which we have lavished, it is to be feared, tenderness somewhat stepmotherly, he will tell us, and in his own inimitable way.

That the College and the public will be there to hear may be taken for granted.

BASKET BALL.

Columbia 67, Trinity 11; Manhattan 50, Trinity 18; Hartford Y. M. C. A. 17, Trinity 24.

Since our last publication the basket ball team has played three games. One resulted in a victory, the other two were lost by rather large scores.

These defeats were due largely to the absence of Landefeld from the play and the necessary re-arrangement of the line up, thought the team showed lack of practice.

During the Christmas recess the team played two games in New York, the first against Columbia University on December 22, and the other against Manhattan College in the De La Salle Gymnasium on the 24th.

In both of these games the team played in poor form and seemed unable to get together at any time in the contests. The scores were:

Columbia, 67—Trinity, 11.

Manhattan, 50—Trinity, 18.

Trinity, 24; Y. M. C. A., 17.

Saturday evening the basket ball team of the Hartford Young Men's Christian Association was defeated by the Trinity team in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium by the score of 24 to 17.

This is the second contest between the teams this year, the former being won by the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 34 to 24.

The game Saturday night was close and exciting throughout, and the victory may be attributed largely to Donnelly who played a hard game and caged a majority of the baskets for Trinity. Collins was in the line-up for the first time this year and played a good game. The line up:

Trinity. Y. M. C. A.
Powell l. f. Fay
Donnelly r. f. Pierce
Marlor c. Peard
Pond l. g. Ritchie
Collins r. g. Johnson

NOTABLE WORK IN MEDICINE.

(By Dr. Wainwright, Trinity, '95.)

Jonathan M. Wainwright, M. D., a graduate of Trinity in '95, Surgeon-in-chief to the Moses Taylor Hospitals at Scranton, Pa., and Buffalo, N. Y., read at the meeting of the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, held at Scranton, September 26-28, 1905, a remarkable paper On the Value of Spinal Analgesia in Shock, a Study in Surgical Physiology.

It was printed in the Pennsylvania Medical Journal for November and has been reprinted separately (Press of W. G. Jordan, Athens, Pa.)

The inquiry was undertaken to see if some more satisfactory plan could be devised for the treatment of crushing injuries to limbs which demand amputation.

In many cases immediate amputation adds to the already marked condition of shock enough more shock to cause a fatal issue. If again the surgeon waits for recovery from primary shock, he often finds that the patient, instead of recovering from it, gradually sinks and dies, or if a sufficient recovery justifies a late amputation, this second trauma reduces the patient to a condition of shock which may be fatal.

Cribe and others having shown that shock is caused principally at least by overwhelmingly irritating nerve impulses which ultimately lead to exhaustion of vasomotor centres and consequent low blood-pressure, the corollary is that the cause of shock would be removed by preventing these irritating nerve impulses from reaching the higher centres in the medulla and brain. Hence "nerve blocking" by regional cocaine anaesthesia has become a valuable aid, but as this procedure has limitations and disadvantages, spinal analgesia is viewed as having very distinct promise as a substitute.

Lower, of Cleveland, proposed it in 1900 and many writers have noted that by its use severe operations have been performed with apparently no shock. Dr. Wainwright's inquiry and article form an attempt to place the matter on a firmer basis in the light of newer knowledge concerning shock. He began with a preliminary inquiry consisting of five experiments upon dogs, in order to show the effect of ether in shock. Dr. Wainwright's tests supported those of Turk in showing that ether increases shock.

He says, "I am firmly convinced that a large number of cases brought to hospitals in shock will be killed simply by the administration of ether for half an hour to an hour, as the case may be, without any operation at all." The killing of so many persons by ether has led to a growing distrust of general anaesthesia. Patterson has been the chief authority on and advocate of its substitute, spinal analgesia. Guinard has improved the method by dissolving the cocaine in the spinal fluid and Bier by the use of adrenalin before or with the cocaine.

Dr. Wainwright has devised what he characterizes as "a convenient and aseptic method." He adds to sterilized cocaine from two to three drops of adrenalin, taps the spinal canal and allows enough spinal fluid to run into the test-tube 1½ inches long that contains the cocaine to dissolve the drug. He then injects it in the usual way with an ordinary aseptic hypodermic syringe.

Dr. Wainwright in investigating the relative safety of spinal analgesia has examined 660 references involving 16,300 cases reported in German, French, Spanish, Italian and Dutch. He finds 14 deaths in the 16,300. His own experiments conducted with the aid of the five interns of his staff, were made upon 61 dogs. The results of these experiments are minutely described and illustrated by diagrams, showing the readings of the blood pressure as recorded by the manometer.

Dr. Wainwright acknowledges his obligations to his teacher, Dr. B. Farquhar Curtis for suggesting the research and for promoting its progress. He also mentions by name the interns who assisted him.

Dr. Wainwright's paper follows closely upon other original investigations made by him of like thoroughness and practical value. It is a worthy addition to the valuable contributions already made by Trinity men to the science of medicine. It is spoken of here at such length notwithstanding its professional character in order to excite the emulation of his successors. In this view it has been handed to Professor Edwards for consultation by our young biologists.

TO ALUMNI.

THE TRIPOD is published for the Alumni even more than for the Undergraduates. With this in mind we are striving to produce a paper which shall be interesting and necessary to Graduates, and also to reach as large a number as possible. We are very largely dependent on the Alumni both for our moral and financial support. If you are not already a subscriber will you kindly give this matter your attention?

"NOW THEN—TRINITY!"

EDITORIAL.

A hearty welcome all around on our return to college from the Christmas vacation. Never before have we seen such genuine enthusiasm as was displayed at the opening chapel on Thursday evening. The short service opening with the "Trinity" hymn, was very impressive. And on leaving chapel the Seniors started the outburst of spirits by a class yell, appropriate because of the new year. And then with the other class yells, and "Neath the Elms," and a "Long Trin," we felt strongly the real pleasure it was to return to the college on the hill.

With the approach of mid-year examinations we are reminded that this month must be one of strenuous study. The scholar, to maintain his high stand, some to pass respectably as they have been accustomed to, and others to make a passing mark. If we have been drawn away the past fall from close attention to our studies by associated college interests, then we must grind more or less now to bring up the average. The best work in studies is done in these mid-winter months, for the spring comes when the best of men do not work as hard as now. Therefore we may expect to see a large increase in the library attendance and more regularity at chapel, both of which are indications of attention to study.

"A PROFESSOR ON FOOTBALL."

Under this head-line the "Hartford Courant" devoted half a column on December 15th to a resumé of Prof. McCook's recent football article. It was prefaced with the following appreciative editorial:

"Rev. Dr. J. J. McCook of Trinity College has in the 'Trinity Tripod' an interesting and suggestive contribution on football. In these days when so many are discussing the great game it is well worth while to give serious consideration to what he says. Everybody may not agree with all, but few will differ with all. Most people will endorse the most of it. Without saying so in so many words, he is evidently for the game. That is in accordance with his make-up as a man who has no scruples against a fair contest and who does not hesitate himself to define his own position when public opinion divides in the community. He comes of a brilliant and courageous stock, often referred to as the 'fighting McCooks'."

NOTES.

Prof. McCook delivered the Christmas festreide before the German Verein the evening of December 28. As chairman of a committee of the municipal art league of Hartford he prepared during vacation, a report on the subject of public houses of comfort which was presented to a special committee of the common council January 2. On Friday evening, January 4 he delivered a lecture before the Berkeley Divinity School on tramps and the unemployed.

Madden is again on the roll of students. The illness which he contracted at the beginning of the college year kept him in the hospital up to within a short time of Christmas. All are glad to see him re-entered. He was missed greatly during the football season, and now basket ball, baseball, and track will each claim a share of his time.

The Tablet Board meeting for reports of officers, election of new members, and consideration of material for fifth issue, Friday evening, Jan. 12, 6:45 in 13 Jarvis Hall.

INTERCLASS BASKET BALL.

Interclass basket ball games are arranged for the first part of this week. On Monday, January 8th, at 7:45 p. m., 1906 plays 1907 and 1908, 1909. On Tuesday evening the winner of the first set plays the winner of the second and the loser of the first set, the loser of the second. Last year in the Interclass Basket Ball Games 1907 won from 1906 after a very evenly matched contest. This year the teams are, if anything, more evenly matched and the games promise to be very hotly contested.

WANTED: Material for the 1907 IVY. Every man in college should hand in some work for this book. "Come early and avoid the rush."

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company,

HARTFORD, CONN.,

Why should I insure my life?

Because it is a debt you owe to those who are dependent upon your earnings for their support.

You admit that it is your duty to supply their needs from day to day, but forget that it is equally your duty to provide an ever ready and sufficient equivalent for your earning power, which your family stands in constant jeopardy to lose by your premature death.

Guard your family against disaster and yourself against dependency in old age.

When should I insure my life?

Now! The cost will never be less, and tomorrow you may not be able to obtain insurance at any price.

Even if others are not now dependent upon you, take time by the forelock and you will be the better able to meet future responsibilities, and at a smaller premium.

Where shall I insure my life?

In a purely Mutual Company. In a company that earns, declares, and pays annual dividends. In a company that is doing a conservative business.

Such a Company is The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. It furnishes perfect protection at lowest cost.

For further information, address the Company, or any of its agents.
