THE ST. PATRICK'S DAY CELEBRATION.

Freshmen Raise Flag on Campus—Banner on Memorial Arch.

For several weeks the spirit of the two underclasses has been smouldering, while their leaders have been conniving and plotting for the supremacy on St. Patrick's day and Saturday their enthusiasm burst into flame.

It was one of the most interesting and cleverly planned contests that has ever been held on this famous day, and there is no doubt but that the credit of a complete victory should be given to the Freshmen. And it is interesting to see how minutely details were carried out, and how well organized this class was.

The Freshmen introduced something that has never been tried before, class songs. These the class had carefully rehearsed in the Cathedral Lyceum hall and the class appeared on the morning of the 17th marching to a tune written by one of their own men.

Aside from raising a flag on the campus a 25-foot banner was displayed on top of the Memorial Arch on Trinity street through the ingenuity of Harry Irl Maxson.

With their plans and each minute detail throughout clearly outlined the entire freshman class assembled, Friday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock, at the station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, before the beginning of the annual St. Patrick's day celebration. From the station the class marched in a body about the streets, singing several new songs composed for the occasion. At 8 o'clock the freshmen assembled at the capitol, where, after briefly addressing the fellows, President Maxson appointed four captains, Livingston, Goodrich, Mason and Dwyer. The class was then divided equally and placed in the charge of the four leaders, who were assigned each a separate part of the city, through which they were to paste the posters of the class of 1909. Livingston was assigned Park street and the region about the college, Goodrich from Washington street south, Mason the streets east of Main, and Dwyer Farmington avenue west and north.

At 11 o'clock the class assembled on Asylum street and marched in two divisions to the armory, where an invitation had been given to spend the night. During the night a few chosen men left to put up the immense class banner over Memorial Arch. It required a great deal of hard work to accomplish it, but when it was once up it was absolutely impossible for the sophomores to get it down, as two of the freshmen remained locked inside to guard it.

Early in the morning the freshmen were about again, and after marching through the streets for a while they walked in a body out to the college, arriving there about half-past eight.

At this time the long procession came marching up Vernon street and the Sophomores gathered round the big wooden electric light pole on which they imagined the Freshmen would attempt to raise their banner. This pole had been very carefully and profusely greased and the men of 1908 were fairly confident that they would reverse the annual freshman triumph.

The Freshmen reached one of the little iron poles which support the electric light wires and seemed to hesitate and to prepare to charge the waiting Sophomores who gathered closer together to be able to resist the charge, when suddenly a Freshman was seen climbing up the iron pole.

The Sophs saw that they had been fooled and lost no time in charging down on the compact body of Freshmen.

The sides were evenly matched and the wave of Sophomores hit the knot about the pole. Many of the Freshmen were torn away, but some remained, and the Sophs who did get hold of the pole were torn away.

The contest developed into an interesting wrestling match which made the snow fly.

Cadman, who had ascended the pole, was in the meantime waving his 1909 banner. Rich, who seemed to have lost his bearings, wandered over to the wooden electric light pole and before anyone knew what he was doing another flag was waving.

After five minutes the upperclassmen interposed and the victorious Freshmen gave vent to the joyful feelings by singing some class songs.

The banner which had been so daringly raised on the top of the Memorial Arch was taken down about eleven o'clock, on the request of the city park board and nothing further occurred all day.

Memorial Arch had been entered by securing a copy of the superintendent's key more than a week before and the banner, tackle and a ladder were in the towers two days before the banner was raised.

The usual night parade was dispensed with this year.

COMMENCEMENT HONORS.

F. A. Cowper, H. G. Barbour and F. C. Hinkle Receive Commencement Appointments.

The secretary of the faculty has announced the following commencement honors: Valedictorian, Frederick Augustus Grant Cowper; salutatorian,

Frederick A. G. Cowper.

Henry Gray Barbour; honor oration, Frederick Charles Hinkel. Cowper is an accurate and persistent scholar and aside from winning the Holland scholarship twice (Sophomore and Junior years), has been identified with the "Tablet" during the last three years. He was elected assistant business manager in his Sophomore year, manager in his Junior year, and showed excellent ability. This year he is editor-in-chief. Cowper is also a member of the Glee Club. He is a graduate of Holderness School and a member of the D. K. E. fraternity.

Henry Gray Barbour.

Henry Gray Barbour, the salutatorian, was the winner of the first Mackay-Smith prize in 1904, was a member of the track team in his Freshman and Sophomore years, a member of the 1906 Junior promenade committee, a member of the German Club, and is managing editor of the "Tripod." He prepared at the Hartford High School and is a member of the society of the I. K. A.

Frederick C. Hinkel.

Frederick Charles Hinkel is Dr. Riggs' assistant in the Chemical Laboratory. In his Junior year Hinkel was manager of the base ball team. He won the Alumni English Prize, was managing editor of the "1906 Ivy," and is now president of the German Club and a member of the "Tablet" board. He is a member of the society of the I. K. A. All of the honor men are members of Phi Beta Kappa.

LECTURE BY PROF. McCOOK.

Prof. J. J. McCook delivered a lecture at Smith College, Saturday, before the Western Massachusetts section of the New England Modern Language Association, on the subject, "Teaching Languages or Teaching About Languages."

TO ALUMNI.

THE TRIPOD is published for the Alumni even more than for the Undergraduates. With this in mind we are striving to produce a paper which shall be interesting and necessary to Graduates, and also to reach as large a number as possible. We are very largely dependent on the Alumni both for our moral and financial support. If you are not already a subscriber will you kindly give this matter your attention?

"NOW THEN—TRINITY!"

EDITORIAL.

The freshmen who put up the banner little too much enthusiasm at the expense of thoughtfulness and respect for others. The Memorial Arch furnished an unrivalled place for the class banner and the freshmen experienced no sentiments concerning the memorial. But several citizens of Hartford, who felt the meaning of such a memorial, very justly required that the banner be taken down. The college body will not defend such an act against the good sentiments of Hartford citizens, and thoughtlessness is a poor excuse on the part of college men.

The best thing the Freshmen did in connection with the fight on Saturday was to learn four songs prepared by members of the class for the particular occasion. Other classes have on occasions had a song, but the Freshmen made much of this means of rousing the spirit of the class. The plan will undoubtedly establish a precedent for following classes. Also we may see more college songs for other occasions. Those who were successful in writing class songs would do very well to write marching songs and verses for our base ball games.

On Tuesday, April 10th, elections will be held for next year's "Tripod" board. The new board will take up their work immediately after the Easter vacation but will remain under the supervision of the present board until commencement.

CLASS-DAY NOMINATIONS.

The committee on nominations for Class-Day officers suggests to the Senior Class the substitution of the office of Prophet for Orator. The reason for this change is the oration has absolutely no relation to the rest of the exercises. The Poet, Historian, and Statistician present in their peculiar ways the history of the class. The Prophet will develop the history of the future and can be much more entertaining than an Orator. There is little doubt that the Senior Class will adopt the suggestion.

The committee on nominations for Class-Day officers have posted the following nominations: for Presenter, P. E. Curtiss, D. W. Gateson; for Presenter of Lemon Squeezer, H. G. Barbour, G. D. Bowne, and D. W. Gateson; for Prophet, A. D. Haight, R. E. Cameron; for Statistician, A. D. Haight, V. E. Rehr; for Poet, B. C. Maercklein, U. S. W. Fiske; for Historian, F. A. G. Cowper, F. C. Hinkel. No nominations were made for Orator. These names will be voted upon at a meeting to be held to-morrow at 12:45 in the Latin Room.

MEETING OF COLLEGE MEN.

Trinity Represented.

At the Great Southern Hotel in Columbus, Ohio, a "beef steak dinner" was given on the evening of March 15th, at which two hundred men were present, representing some thirty or more colleges. This was the first attempt to get together the college men of that city, and it is probable that a permanent organization will be effected before long, which will probably develop into a University Club. Especially large delegations represented Yale, Princeton and Williams, as well as several of the Ohio colleges. The men of Princeton gave a very hearty cheer for Trinity, and the Williams men did the same a little later. The only representative from Trinity was Macaulay '90.

IN REGARD TO SANITARY ENGINEERING.

Dr. Charles Harrington, for the Massachusetts State Board of Health and the professor of Hygiene in Harvard University, has agreed to give three lectures on the problems of sanitation. These lectures will be given in April on dates not yet determined and will be open to the public. Dr. Harring-ton's interest has been secured through Dr. Mears, to whom is largely due the establishment at Trinity of this new course.

TRINITY-ANNAPOLIS DUAL MEET.

Annapolis will arrange for a dual track meet with Trinity on the 19th of May if Trinity can arrange for that date. May 19th is the date of the Worcester meet in which Trinity has planned to take part. The plan is being agitated by several prominent members of the Senior class to arrange a meet with Annapolis in preference to entering a few men at the New England Intercollegiate meet.

OTHER WORLDS THAN OURS.

Lecture by Dr. William R. Brooks.

The next in the course of public lectures before the college will be given by William R. Brooks, Sc.D., on Friday, March 23d at 8 p. m., in Alumni Hall.

Dr. Brooks is professor of astronomy at Hobart College and is known everywhere in the scientific world for his skill and success as an observer. He has already discovered twenty-five new comets and this unprecedented record has commanded the recognition of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, which has made him one of its Fellows.
His subject will be, "Other Worlds Than Ours." It will be beautifully illustrated by slides prepared from original photographs. Students and their friends are cordially invited.

An interesting addition to the natural history museum is a feline freak. Two

The course covering four years begins the last week in September and continues until June.
A preliminary training in natural science is of great advantage. All the classes are divided into small sections for recitations, laboratory and clinical bedside instruction. Students are admitted to advanced standing after passing the requisite examinations. The successful completion of the first year in any College or University recognized by the Regents of the State of New York as maintaining a satisfactory standing is sufficient to satisfy the requirements for admission which have lately been raised. The annual announcement giving full par-

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company,

HARTFORD, CONN.,

Why should I insure my life?

Because it is a debt you owe to those who are dependent upon your earnings for their support.

You admit that it is your duty to supply their needs from day to day, but forget that it is equally your duty to provide an ever ready and sufficient equivalent for your earning power, which your family stands in constant jeopardy to lose by your premature death.

Guard your family against disaster and yourself against dependency in old age.

When should I insure my life?

Now! The cost will never be less, and tomorrow you may not be able to obtain insurance at any price.

Even if others are not now dependent upon you, take time by the forelock and you will be the better able to meet future responsibilities, and at a smaller premium.

Where shall I insure my life?

In a purely Mutual Company.

In a company that earns, declares, and pays annual dividends.

In a company that is doing a conservative business.

Such a Company is The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. It furnishes perfect protection at lowest cost.

For further information, address the Company, or any of its agents.
