HARTFORD ALUMNI SMOKER.

New Officers Elected.

In recognition of the Trinity football team's excellent season, the Hartford Alumni Association gave a most successful smoker at the Hartford Club last Tuesday evening. With Senator Frank L. Wilcox leading the festivities as toastmaster, and a goodly representation of the college glee club present, the scene was one of lively spirit and enthusiasm. Professor—or appropriately for the occasion—Coach Gettell was first introduced, and told of the peculiar disadvantages under which the season began, and how the remarkably rapid development of the team to its climax in the Wesleyan victory was due to individual sacrifice and concerted play. Harold Hart led a long and strong "Trin" for Coach Gettell, and for each of the succeeding speakers.

President Luther, following the coach, congratulated the team and the college on having so competent an instructor, his only regret being that members of the faculty were ineligible to hold positions on the team. Rev. C. Jarvis Harriman brought cheerful intelligence of the founding of a Maryland Association of Trinity Alumni. "Our Prospects for 1909," was the theme of Captain Henshaw's remarks, and they were seen to be most encouraging. Harry Maxson gave some humorous reminiscences of the team's trip to Ithaca.

Other short addresses were made by John F. Forward, Secretary-Treasurer of the athletic council, George Capen '10, for the "scrub" team, Arthur K. Brocklesby, and George W. Ellis on behalf of the Alumni. The affair was concluded by singing and refreshments.

Previous to the smoker the business meeting of the Association was called to order by J. Humphrey Greene, the retiring president. A new code of by-laws, framed by A. T. McCook and Walter S. Schutz, was adopted. Officers for the ensuing year were unanimously elected as follows:

President—George W. Ellis.

Secretary-Treasurer—Rev. James W. Lord.

Executive Committee—W. E. A. Bulkeley, J. Humphrey Greene, Harold Hart.

FIRST BASKETBALL TRIP.

Games with Columbia and West Point.

Tonight the basketball team will play its first game of the season. They meet Columbia on its own floor at New York.

The last practice before the game was held yesterday afternoon, and consisted only of passing and shooting, with no scrimmage. The team left this noon for New York, and will meet the Columbia five this evening. The members of the team will be entertained tonight by Columbia, and in the morning will leave for West Point where they are to meet the Army on Saturday

THE 1908 FOOTBALL TEAM.

Review of the Football Season.

Now that the football season is entirely over and the last tribute to the squad in the shape of the Hartford Alumni smoker is a thing of the past, a short review of the team's work is in order. At the outset let it be said that Trinity's football team of 1908 is without doubt the most remarkable combination that the college has ever turned out. This must not be taken as a statement that this year's team is in every way the best team that ever represented the Old Gold and Blue (although many would possibly agree to this and with a good deal of justice), but that, in view of the handicaps and disadvantages that had to be overcome, the Trinity team is almost unique in college football, and that it did things this fall which should make every Trinity man's heart glow with pride and wonder.

When September came around it seemed that the whole bottom had dropped out of Trinity football when it became known that Coach Landefeld would be unable to return to the team, owing to business interests which it was impossible for him to ignore. This was indeed an apparently crushing blow, for it was believed that the work that "Landy" had done for the three years previous could not be equalled by any other teacher of the game. Professor Gettell, however, proved to be the "man of the hour," and out of his love for the college and for the game, consented to make the tremendous sacrifice which the position of coach means and undertook the work of developing the team.

It was no small problem that he faced. In the first place, from last year's great team, Donnelly, Pond, Collins, Budd, Mason and Buck were lost by graduation, and Thaxter and Batterson did not return to college. Besides this, Woodle and Gott, two strong football players who seemed destined to make the team, left college, and Nelson and Clarke, two more strong men, were unable to play this year, the former on account of his health, and the latter being on probation. This left only Henshaw, Maxson, Xanders, Ramsdell, Carroll and Gildersleeve for the nucleus of a team. The preliminary training trip at Westbrook proved a failure because of the uncertainty about the coach, and also because that but seven men were able to avail themselves of this early opportunity to get themselves into good physical condition; only seven men, not enough for one eleven.

As soon as college opened it was apparent that the freshman class was almost barren of any good football material, and so Coach Gettell faced the problem of turning out a winning team from six varsity men and a few scrubs, none of which had at that time any reputation. In addition to this there were no heavy men left, either on varsity or scrub, but Coach Gettell started the training to overcome the evident lacks and defects, by making the slogan of the year, speed, nerve, and brains and how well this formula solved the problem is evident when one looks at the season's record.

The big trouble at the outset was the welding together of a stiff center trio and the making of a quarterback. Especial energy was at once directed to the propositions and the results were surprisingly good, for with three men weighing respectively 158, 163, and 170 pounds, an aggressive and unified line was made, and Backus, after a little experience, turned out to be a very acceptable quarterback.

The opening game was one of the bitterest pills that the Hartford college ever had to swallow, for Worcester Tech., a nonentity in the football world, came down and took the game by kicking a timely field goal in the second half.

Then came the West Point game, and the result was 33 to 0, on the wrong side of the ledger. But even in this game

"NOW THEN—TRINITY"

EDITORIAL.

There are few days left now before the vacation, yet these days and the ones after the vacation before the mid-years are ones that should be the most important for those behind in their studies. This next month must not be classed as comprising merely the regular college work for on the twenty-fifth the Christmas examinations begin. The Tripod wishes to urge every man to try his best not alone to pass but also to keep off probation. He owes this act to the college for spring athletics will soon start and every man with athletic ability is needed to hold the teams to the high standard set last year. Aside from the fact that the reviews now commencing, give the men a better chance to pass the examinations, there is another phase which it is desirable to emphasize. Conscientious work done now especially will strongly impress on the student's mind the subject studied and will bring results throughout his life.

For these reasons if personal pride does not compel it, every man needs to work and after mid-years we shall see the attendance undiminished in size and the college will thus be advancing to the Trinity of the future which we all desire.

night. Saturday night will be spent at West Point, and Sunday the team will return to Hartford.

The men who will be taken are Abbey at center, A. L. Gildersleeve (Capt.) and Carroll guards, Connors and Capen forwards, and Ramsdell, substitute. Manager Creedon will accompany the team.

FOOTBALL REVIEW.

the men were beginning to show the first effects of the hard work of Coach Gettell, and it was apparent that better things were coming later. In this game the score should have been 18 to 0, but owing to the absolutely unaccountable error of one of the officials, the Trinity team was compelled to play fifteen minutes after time was properly up. This statement must not be interpreted as "crying" in any sense, but as a mere statement of facts, the error being subsequently admitted by the official in question himself. In this game it seemed that the one final blow calculated to ruin the season fell, when George Buck, upon whom so much reliance had been placed and about whom the attack of the team was being centered, was put out of football for good, owing to the breaking of his wrist after the magnificent stand on the 1-yard line had been made and the ball taken away from the Army team. This misfortune was followed by the loss of McElroy, at the same position, during the following week through the injury of his knee. These injuries necessitated the shift of Gildersleeve to tackle and the placing of Burdick at end, a move which of necessity weakened the team in weight, aggressiveness and experience.

The following game proved the turning point of the season and here for the first time the team showed unity on the attack and a stubborn defense. New York University was forced to take the count, and went under to the score of 18 to 4.

The game with Amherst resulted in a tie score, 6 to 6, but Trinity outplayed the Purple and White completely and actually won the game 12 to 6, another touchdown being scored late in the second half, but on the absolutely unprecedented ruling of an official the score was disallowed, on the plea that another official had interfered with the play. No further comment need be made here on this matter, as it has been already thoroughly discussed in the columns of the Tripod.

Holy Cross was the next opponent. Before the game a defeat was rather expected, but the result, 28 to 0, for Trinity was one of the most surprising and enjoyable incidents of the year. New football was used to perfection in this game, and another thing which should be a special cause of pride was the sportsmanlike conduct of Captain Henshaw, in insisting on taking certain penalties rather than let the visiting college leave the field on the pretext of unfair treatment by the officials.

The Wesleyan game followed this, and the awful massacre is still being discussed and wondered at. Little need be said about the game, except that the result showed what a fighting and clever Trinity team could do, when their blood was up. It was the greatest individual triumph of all Trinity football, and the eleven men who played that game will be heroes of the college till the elms grow on the campus, an extreme statement but nevertheless a true one.

Haverford brought up a husky and aggressive team, and a better one than they had the year before, but the result was the same, the score being 27 to 0. The features of the game were the hard tackling of the visitors, and Gildersleeve's remarkable goal from placement. This was also one of the cleanest exhibitions of football ever seen, perfect sportsmanship being displayed by both teams throughout, and there being practically no disputes over penalties.

The final game was against Cornell, and although the score was 18 to 6 for the "Big Red Team," yet Trinity accomplished everything expected of it and more. They scored and scored first, and accomplished the remarkable feat of making the score in the second half 0 to 0, actually outplaying their opponents. The difference in weight between the two teams was about forty pounds to the man, in individual cases running up as high as eighty-five pounds. Cornell was unable to gain in any plays save those in which mere beef was the deciding factor, and made all her distance by straight line plunging.

The "Tripod" wishes to embrace the opportunity here once more of congratulating Professor Gettell on his wonderful work as coach, and thanking him in behalf of every one interested in the college. He has done something which we believe that no other man could have done. Besides all the rest of his work as professor of history, he has taken the time and energy necessary to coach the team, and this sacrifice can not be too highly appreciated. As to his ability as a coach, he has turned out perhaps the best team in Trinity's athletic history and that, when the material was apparently lacking, and when the unfortunate start and subsequent injuries made it seem impossible to expect anything but the total failure of the team. Hats off to Professor Gettell, football coach par excellence!

A short word of comment on the individual members of the regular team and the faithful members of the "scrub," to whom the highest praise

is due for their hard and unpleasant task, follows:

Burdick '11, left end. Played the position after Gildersleeve was shifted to tackle. Fast, getting down the field under punts, and next year with his experience this fall should prove to be a star man. Weight, 155 pounds.

Carroll '11, left tackle. Played a better game even than his stellar work last season. Excellent both on attack and defense. Gets down under punts as fast as the ends. Not extreme to say that he has never been outplayed in any game by his opponent. Weight, 164 pounds.

Snow '09, left guard. First year on varsity. Played a steady and consistent game. Better on defense than attack. Weight, 170 pounds.

Roberts '09, center. First year on varsity. Combined steadiness and aggressiveness. His passing exceptionally good all year. Strong on open field tackles. Weight, 158 pounds.

Breed '12, right guard. Only freshman to make the team. Light but fast and aggressive. Played against opponents who always greatly outweighed him. Weight, 154 pounds.

Gildersleeve '11, right tackle. Played a star game at end last year, but was shifted to tackle this season after Buck's injury. Fast and played a wonderfully nery game. Best man on the team at getting down under kicks, good at carrying the ball on cross-bucks, and is one of the most remarkable goal kickers Trinity ever had. Weight, 165 pounds.

Ramsdell '11, right end. Perhaps the individual star of the team. Best end Trinity ever had. Very fast under kicks, sensational performer at receiving the forward pass, and an excellent man at carrying the ball generally. Is a certain tackler on defense, and in general saw this fine work of last season and went it one better. Had the remarkable record of making six touchdowns against Wesleyan. Weight, 175 pounds.

Backus '09, quarterback. Developed into a very dependable man after the early games. Excellent at long forward passes and a clean open field tackler. Weight, 145 pounds.

Maxson '09, left halfback. Has played four years on the varsity and never better than this year. Did the punting and did it well and headily. A star at running back kicks, and carried the ball well on the attack, although the system used this year gave neither Henshaw nor Maxson as much work at carrying the ball as formerly. Fine defensive back and strong at making interference. Weight, 168 pounds.

Captain Henshaw '10, right halfback. Played a wonderful game and made a fine and heady captain. A wonderful defensive back and one of the best men at making interference for the runner that ever donned a football suit. Carried the ball excellently, and his generalship in running his team was well-nigh perfect. Will be next year's captain. Weight, 160 pounds.

Xanders '09, fullback. Third year on varsity, and with Maxson and Henshaw makes one of the greatest backfield combinations of the football year. This year developed into a dependable man on defense. His work in carrying the ball, both on line plunges and long end runs was marvellous. Very fast and a clever dodger. Also did remarkable work at kicking-off, time after time kicking over the opponent's goal line, necessitating a punt out after the touchback. Weight, 170 pounds.

FOOTBALL REVIEW.

These were the eleven men who made up Trinity's remarkable team, and it is a great tribute to their physical condition and grit, that a substitution was practically never necessary. The following are the substitutes who did the most faithful and creditable work:

Bassford '10. A wonderfully plucky and hard player. Only prevented from making the team by his lack of weight.

Capen '10. First substitute in the line. Played an aggressive game and would seem to be slated for a regular position next year.

Clark '10. Very fast on his feet and gets down under kicks well. Substitute end and quarterback. His lack of weight is a handicap to him.

Eaton '10. A good, hard, reliable player. Used in almost any position. His best point is his hard open field tackling.

Webster '10. Very light but an excellent end. Is clever at breaking up forward passes and is a good tackler. Lack of weight again places him at a disadvantage.

Buck '11. Fullback on the scrub and one of the most faithful men on the entire squad. Nervy and when he adds a little more weight will undoubtedly follow in the steps of his brothers, and play on the varsity.

Clark '11. Would probably have made a regular position in the line, had he not been on probation. Biggest man on the squad, and much more aggressive than last year. Will surely be a varsity man next year, if eligible.

Barnell '12. Played a steady game in the line, and with more football experience should prove a good man.

Gildersleeve '12. First substitute quarterback. A fast man, good passer, runs back punts well, and is a hard tackler. Nervy man, and will prove a star before he gets out of college.

Oliver '12. First substitute in the back field. A very hard tackler and in general is good on defense. Fast and carries the ball fairly well. Should certainly make the varsity next year.

Beside the men mentioned, there are a number of others who came out with more or less regularity and deserve mention. If any names are omitted it is not with intention, but for lack of sufficient data to determine an entirely complete list accurately.

Merritt '10, Potter '10, A. M. Smith '10, W. A. Smith '10, Stansfield '10, Knowlton '11, Ripley '10, Slawson '10, Bates '12, Draper '10, Rankin '12, Wessels '12, Foote '12, Barrett '12.

These with Buck '09 and McElroy '10, men who if they had not been injured would have been regulars, make up an entire squad of thirty-seven men, who were out for the 1908 football squad, and this is a pretty creditable record when it is considered that it means one man out of every five or six in college, with the possibility that this average would possibly be increased were it possible to get the name of every candidate.

There has been some dispute about the score of the Cornell game, several papers publishing it as 20 to 6. This is a misapprehension. The referee declared the doubtful play on the field a touchback from which there is no score, and the score was so counted by both teams until after the game was over. Later the referee is said to have reversed his decision and called the play a safety. This of course is entirely beyond his power, as the decision he made on the field must hold, and he has not the power to change his decision after the game is over.
