NORWICH UNIVERSITY HERE TO-MORROW.

Trinity Expects Hard Game.

On Saturday our 'varsity meets Norwich University on Trinity Field. The game is expected to be a good one as Norwich has shown in previous games this season that their 'varsity is stronger than usual. According to reports their team is light but very fast. The summary of Norwich's season so far is as follows:

Norwich 6, Wesleyan 0.

Norwich 6, Amherst 6.

Norwich 0, Holy Cross 17.

The scores of our 'varsity thus far are as follows:

Trinity 12, Worcester Tech 6.

Trinity 6, West Point 17.

Trinity 5, Holy Cross 5.

If comparative scores can fortell the results of the game, it would seem that our team was much stronger. Trinity tied Holy Cross where Norwich met an overwhelming defeat. Trinity scored on West Point whereas Norwich was able to tie Amherst.

The practice this week has been very light in order to save the men for this contest. No scrimmages will be held, according to Captain Henshaw. The regular quarterback "Hobe" Cook will be unable to play owing to injuries sustained in the game with Holy Cross. This loss in the pivotal position will weaken the team considerably. O. Gildersleeve will fill this position in Saturday's game and much is expected of him although the quarterback position is a difficult one. The Trinity men will line up as follows: Right end, Gildersleeve; right tackle, C. Howell; right guard, McCreery; center, McElroy; left guard, Loveland; left tackle, Woodbury; left end, Burdick; quarterback, O. Gildersleeve; right halfback, Henshaw (Capt.); left halfback, Ramsdell; fullback, Carroll.

COLLEGE NOTES.

President Luther left Hartford yesterday morning for Concord, New Hampshire, where he will make a speech at a meeting of the New Hampshire State Teachers' Association. He will return to college about noon Saturday.

Professor Perkins is making a short visit at Princeton University.

A meeting of the College Senate was held to-day at 12:45 P. M.

A COMMUNICATION.

On October 15th the Tripod concludes its editorial on Prof. Lowell's attitude toward athletics and scholarship with the question, How may a better respect and admiration for high scholarship be built up in colleges and preparatory schools? I shall not undertake to answer that question directly, for as the Tripod wisely says, "It is a big question," but if I be permitted to express my views on why the high scholar is not appreciated, a remedy might perhaps suggest itself.

In the first place, owing to the nature of his intellectual endowment, the high standing scholar is not apt to win wide popularity among his fellow students. For popularity and admiration, in college and out of college, are gained by mingling with the people; but the scholar, as a rule, is very exclusive. Especially is this true of the modern scholar, he knows that he can gain more from his books than from the sort of conversation that the average man indulges in, he also loves the silent intercourse of his own mind, and above all, he does not like to impose his views upon others, lest he appear like a prig. Man has grown more sensitive of his personality than he has ever been hitherto,—the universal drift toward democracy shows this.

Then again, it is only natural that the "shark" should be less esteemed than the athlete, because the sense of valuation, i. e. the ability to appreciate exists in a lesser proportion among men of low standing than among those of high standing. This is proved by the fact that although the average athlete and his admirers have little or no respect for the "grind," as the high standing scholar is colloquially termed, yet the "grind" is perhaps the most genuine admirer of the athlete. The reason is that he knows how to appreciate perfect symmetry in the human physique, he knows how to admire dexterity in motion,—in short it is the art element in the athlete that gains his admiration.

This does not say, however, that scholasticism is devoid of art. On the contrary it is the font of art. But the art of scholasticism is hidden in the secret recesses of the mind, that of the athlete is seen in the movements of his legs and arms. And it is, moreover an inherent quality of human nature, to suspect the mysterious, the invisible, the intangible. Take, for example, the attitude of the average theatre-goer toward the magician and the acrobat. The magician is styled as a faker, the acrobat is acclaimed as a wonder.

I do not know how we can teach appreciation of intellectual ability other-wise than by raising the intellectual calibre of those who are to do the appreciating. Appreciation itself is one of

FINAL ELECTIONS TO SOPHOMORE DINING CLUB.

Nine Men Taken Into Membership.

A meeting of the recently elected active members of the Sophomore Dining Club was held last Monday night in room 34 Jarvis Hall, when after some discussion the members marched out upon the campus and gave their cheers for the following men whom they had just elected: William A. Bird IV, James S. Craik, J. H. Humphrey, E. F. Pettigrew, William Short and C. R. Whipple.

A meeting of the active club, including these new men, was immediately called, and the final elections were held. Nelson F. Breed, Oliver Gildersleeve and Harry Wessels being elected on the first ballot. These elections fill the club to its maximum membership, so there will be no more S. D. C. elections this year unless some of the present members are compelled to leave college, in which case elections will be held to fill such vacancies.

The men elected are unusually representative of their class and should form a very strong Sophomore Dining Club. The date of the initiation banquet has not yet been decided on, but Paul Maxon '11 has been elected chairman of this affair. The college records of the new members follows:

William A. Bird is a managing editor of the Tripod, was Class Historian during the second term last year, was on the Freshman Rules Committee and is a member of the Jesters.

James S. Craik was a track candidate last year, was on the Freshman Cap Committee, and is captain of the 1912 track team, and is also a member of the Glee Club.

J. H. Humphrey is a member of the Glee Club and is at present Class Historian and a candidate for the football assistant managership.

E. F. Pettigrew is assistant manager of the track team, and is a member of the Jesters and was on the Freshman Rules Committee.

William Short is at present Class Secretary-Treasurer and is a member of the second football team, and was on the Freshman Rules Committee.

C. R. Whipple is a member of the Glee Club and of the Jesters, and was Class Historian during the first term last year.

Nelson F. Breed is playing for his second season on the 'varsity football team, was on the track team and also the hockey team last year. Breed is also a member of the Mandolin Club.

Oliver Gildersleeve, Jr., has been a substitute football player for two seasons, and was also a substitute on the baseball team last year. He is also a member of the Glee Club.

Harry Wessels holds the college record for the pole vault and has been prominent in other branches of athletics.

MANDOLIN CLUB REHEARSAL.

Bright Prospects.

Last night an encouraging rehearsal of the mandolin and guitar clubs was held in the English room. The clubs are making fine progress under the able guidance of Mr. W. J. Crosely and should develop into one of the best that has ever represented the college. Alfred Howell, the leader, is much pleased with the work done thus far.

Those men who reported for practice last evening are as follows: A. Howell '11 (leader), Breed '12, Webster '10, Carpenter '12, and Nelson '11, first mandolins; Stansfield '10, Welton '11, Baumgartner '13, Pulford '13, Swift '13, and S. W. Green '11, second mandolins; C. Howell '13, Robbins '13, guitar; Dawley '13, bass violin; and Flanders '11, violin. As can be seen from the above list there is much good material in the Freshman class. The clubs expect to hold several public concerts during the year, and therefore have engaged a high grade director. They will probably take a trip and give several joint concerts with the Glee Club after the Christmas recess. As it is customary for the combined musical clubs to give concerts during both Junior Week and Senior Week it may be seen that the clubs have a busy season ahead of them. However, there is plenty of material in college and the men are enthusiastic over their work, so there is no reason to believe that the season will not be a successful one.

The new men who reported for the trials for the Glee Club are also promising. They are especially strong in the first tenor and second bass, the parts where the club was weakest last year.

EDITORIAL.

In the October number of the Atlantic Monthly there is an article entitled, "The College and the Freshman," which is of pertinent interest to underclassmen, upperclassmen, and faculty alike. The article deals with the question of how to treat the newly entering man, and brings out in a striking manner the obligations owed to him by the faculty and the men in the classes above him; and also the good or evil effects which the good or evil examples of the faculty and upperclassmen have upon him.

However, this article will only take up the relation of the Freshman and the faculty. The Atlantic says: "This at least is granted by all, that until he is seventeen, the boy must be ruled, must follow the course laid down by his elders: that he is not competent to make important decisions for himself, and that his character should be moulded in such a way as to make him best able to meet intelligently the problems which maturer years must bring."

It is such a man which the college takes into the Freshman class. This does not mean that the Freshman is not able to do college work in his various studies. The entrance examinations are a safe guard against that. However, he is a man who at home or at boarding school has been forced to study, shielded from vice, and has had most of the important questions of his life answered for him by someone else. When he reaches college he finds himself absolute master of his own time and actions. This sense of freedom intoxicates him. He thinks it manly and fine to loaf around down town all night, and to "flunk" his recitations next day; and sometimes he is led to this opinion by the example of the men in the classes above him.

The next danger which confronts the Freshmen according to Mr. Castle's article, is the selecting of elective courses. At Trinity most of the courses are required in the Freshman year, but the case applies just as well to the Sophomores. A new man in electing his courses needs a wiser and more experienced person to guide him in his selections. The man who is allowed free run in making his electives is very likely to do it too conscientiously, entirely at random, or else to pick out those courses which are easiest and require the least amount of work. He will either keep in mind the profession or business which he intends to pursue in afterlife, and choose only the courses that have a direct connection with this; and so receive only a very narrow and onesided education; or he will have no end in view and choose whatever courses his fancy first lights upon, being influenced by a popular instructor, convenient hours or some such unimportant detail; or, in the case of a dull student or one who seeks to avoid work, he will pick out the easiest courses that he can find.

The remedy for these two troubles, as given in Mr. Castle's article, is the lowering of the age limit of the entering class so as to receive the men at that time of life when they may be more easily controlled and when he still has his childish horror of vice to guide him when he meets the temptations which come with the increased freedom of college life; and then the inauguration of the preceptorial system whereby each man is provided with a friend to guide him in his daily life and an advisor to aid him in his studies.

We have an easier solution at Trinity: cultivate the friendship of your professors and instructors. The college is not so large but that every man could have at least one personal friend among the faculty. This is true now of this college to a much greater degree than of most other colleges, but there might be even closer contact between professor and student. There are men on the faculty who will make the very finest friends; they will guide and help you and will be glad to do it. Moreover, there are men on the faculty whose friendship you will be glad to claim. What man in college would not be proud to claim Dr. Luther or our worthy senior professor as his friend?

HARTFORD CLUB ELECTIONS

At the regular meeting of the Hartford Club held yesterday the following officers were elected to serve during the present term: President, Paul H. Taylor '11; Vice-President, Allen K. Smith '11; Secretary and Treasurer, Raymond H. Segar '12.

In the last two years the Hartford Club has grown to be one of the most active of the college organizations, and a very successful season is expected this year.

the chiefest attributes of intelligence.
 Nevertheless, something can be done
 to enhance scholarship at college.
 Much of it depends on the faculty. For instance, the professors might establish in their departments a number of small prizes, and hold bi-monthly or tri-monthly competitions for them. Public mention, on Class Day or Commencement Day, of the high standing men in all the four classes, would also be appropriate. If the handing out of certificates to men who play on 'varsity teams is worthy of public show, surely a similar reward to the few men, who,
 by sleepless nights and self denial, keep up the standard of the college, would not be amiss. Finally, there is one thing, the existence of which in college would advance scholarship a great deal,
 and that is an active honor society
 composed of those Seniors and Juniors who are or are likely to become Phi Beta Kappa men. That would be the first organization to which the Freshman, still filled with unshattered hopes,
 would lift his longing eyes, and that
 in itself would enhance scholarship.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company,

HARTFORD, CONN.,

Why should I insure my life?

Because it is a debt you owe to those who are dependent upon your earnings for their support.

You admit that it is your duty to supply their needs from day to day, but forget that it is equally your duty to provide an ever ready and sufficient equivalent for your earning power, which your family stands in constant jeopardy to lose by your premature death.

Guard your family against disaster and yourself against dependency in old age.

When should I insure my life?

Now! The cost will never be less, and tomorrow you may not be able to obtain insurance at any price.

Even if others are not now dependent upon you, take time by the forelock and you will be the better able to meet future responsibilities, and at a smaller premium.

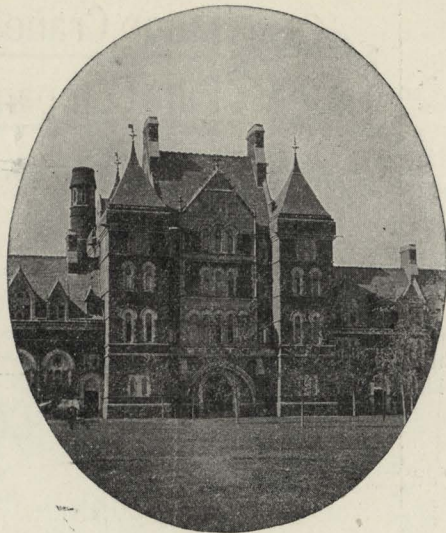

Where shall I insure my life?

In a purely Mutual Company.
In a company that earns, declares, and pays annual dividends.
In a company that is doing a conservative business.

Such a Company is The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. It furnishes perfect protection at lowest cost.
