SOCIOLOGY LECTURES.

Free Course by Trinity Professors Offered.

A course of popular lectures on economic, political and ethical problems is offered by the Peoples' University of Hartford, and several college students interested in the movement are anxious for a large attendance from Trinity. The lectures will be held under the auspices of the local Socialist party, at their hall, 250 Asylum street. The program includes the names of three of our professors, and is as follows:

THE LABOR PROBLEM.

EDWARD PORITT,

Lecturer at Harvard and Other Universities.

Forty-two Years of Labor Politics in England—1868-1910.

Lecture I. Tuesday, October 11, 8 p. m.

1868-1885.—The days of the narrow Parliamentary franchise and of governing class rule—of many reverses and few Parliamentary successes of the Labor movement. The lead of the coal-miners' unions. The first political awakening of the agricultural laborers. Joseph Arch and the Agricultural Laborers' Union.

Lecture II. Tuesday, October 25, 8 p. m.

1885-1896.—The era of the wider Parliamentary suffrage and of the culminating successes of the Radical Labor movement.

Lecture III. Tuesday, November 8, 8 p. m.

1897-1906.—The beginnings of the National Labor Party and the end of the Radical Labor group in the House of Commons. How and why the end came. The relations of the Radical Labor party with the Liberal party. The leaders of the Radical Labor group. The achievements of the movement between 1868 and 1906, and the indebtedness of the Anglo-Saxon world to the old Victorian school of Labor politicians in England.

Lecture IV. Tuesday, November 22, 8 p. m.

1906-1910.—The Taff Vale judgment and the upbuilding of the National Labor party. It elects forty members to the House of Commons of 1910. To what extent it is Socialist. The relation of the Trade Union group of the National Labor party with the Socialists. How the independence of the N. L. P. from the Liberal and Conservative parties has been secured, and how maintained. The lesson of the Labor movement in England since 1868 for the salary and wage-earning classes of the United States. The Old Feudalism of England and the New Feudalism of the United States.

Mr. Poritt recommends the following books to be read for his course: Brougham Villiers: "The Socialist Movement in England." Conrad Noel: "The Labor Party—What It Is

FIRST COLLEGE MEETING.

Excellent Speeches Rife with Enthusiasm.

The initial college meeting of the year was held in Alumni Hall on Tuesday evening at seven o'clock. A goodly number of undergraduates turned out to listen to the remarks, and he'd in the cheering. The speakers were: Coach Gettell and Captain Ramsdell; J. Humphrey Green, chairman of the athletic advisory board, Anson T. McCook, graduate treasurer of the Athletic Association, and Sherman P. Haight, president of the Athletic Association of the college.

Mr. Greene spoke of the necessity of funds in order to make the team a success financially this year. He urged that everyone join the Athletic Association and give their support in this fashion, which is so necessary to the carrying out of a team at Trinity.

Graduate Treasurer McCook seconded these sentiments and told the students how and for what the money was needed. The fact that there will be no Wesleyan game here this year, to swell the receipts of the football would make it absolutely imperative to have a large number of men who pay their dues, was the pith of Mr. McCook's remarks. There was much enthusiasm upon the part of the students at these sentiments and a rousing "Trin" greeted the speakers at the close of their remarks.

S. P. Haight, President of the Athletic Association emphasized the fact that the students should "come up" with their money and not wait until they were drummed by the treasurer of the Association.

Coach Gettell for the football team was greeted by loud and enthusiastic applause. He spoke of the potential ability of the material this year if sufficient support in the shape of a strong scrub should be given by the college. Prof. Gettell was of the opinion that the offense will have to be extremely strong this year so that a fast backfield is an absolute necessity. Trinity has lost some members of her veteran backfield, he said, and urged that men who have ability come out and do their best. Perfect training and gentlemanly fierceness of play are requisites at Trinity and Coach Gettell emphasized this in his characteristic fashion, so that men who had not realized what the "Trinity spirit" meant had their first taste of it Tuesday. The hall fairly resounded with a "Trin" at the close of Coach Gettell's talk.

The enthusiasm was unbounded when Captain Ramsdell was called upon to speak, and it was several minutes before the cheering could be stilled. Captain Ramsdell reiterated Coach Gettell's remarks, about the necessity of true Trinity spirit, and a strong scrub team. Not only could the men help by coming out to play against the varsity was his opinion, but by their presence at practice the team would feel that an interest was being taken in them by the general undergraduate body. At games, the cheering of the students is a large factor, and Captain Ramsdell dwelt on the necessity of the men giving their best in voice and singing. He added that this year's team would try and live up to the standard which has been set by teams of the past three years, an unusually high one, but one that must be maintained at all costs. Captain Ramsdell was given the most enthusiastic cheer of the evening. After, a "Trin" for the team and the singing of "Neath the Elms," the meeting adjourned.

There will be another college meeting, tonight in order to practice songs and cheers for to-morrow's game. All be there—on time.

Wesleyan's Football Showing Poor.

Of the football games played Wednesday the one of most interest to Trinity men was that between Wesleyan and Yale, at New Haven. Owing to the fact that many of Wesleyan's first strong men were kept out of the contest by the faculty ban, good conclusions cannot be drawn from the contest, but nevertheless it was interesting to Trinity inasmuch as Wesleyan will be played October 29. As has been the case in many of the early season games the "new football" about which there has been no end of discussion, was very little used. Forward passes played a prominent part in the game, however, both sides using them with great freedom, many brilliant plays resulting.

The final score of, Yale 22—Wesleyan 0, does not show Yale's full strength as they were sadly lacking in rudimentary forms of the game. Wesleyan, considering their crippled condition, played a strong game and when Trinity journeys to Middletown Oct. 29 they will find a bunch of football warriors of no mean calibre, judging from yesterday's showing. There was a noticeable lack of pushing or pulling of the players in the game, and the new system of four periods was strange. Otherwise it was the old straight football, and there seem to be no tricks in Wesleyan's play thus far which Trinity cannot decipher.

Musical Clubs' Meeting.

The first meeting of the Trinity College Musical Association was held this noon, in order to organize for the coming year. By the leaving of college this year of the men who were in charge last year, there were several vacancies to be filled, among which were the offices of president, manager and assistant manager of the Musical Association, and leaders for both the Glee and the Mandolin club. The results of the election will appear in Tuesday's issue of The Tripod, together with the call for new men, and plans for the ensuing year.

UNDERCLASS TRACK MEET.

New Material Wanted for Fall Practice.

The annual sophomore-freshman track meet will take place at four o'clock next Monday afternoon. This meet is held to give the new men a try-out against their more experienced rivals with the idea of eventually making some of them 'Varsity men. Track has been our less successful sport for some years past, but owing to the kindly interest and help of the alumni, this year fall track practice is to be held, if possible, under the direction of an experienced coach. In this way it is hoped to turn out a track team that will compare favorably with those of Amherst, Williams and the other New England colleges. The events are as follows:

100-yard dash.
220-yard dash.
440-yard run.
Half-mile run.
One mile run.
Two mile run.
Shot put.
Hammer throw.
120-yard high hurdles.
220-yard low hurdles.
Running high jump.
Running broad jump.

Tripod Board Meeting.

The first regular meeting of The Tripod Board was held last evening in the office of the paper, 1 Seabury Hall. A majority of the members being present, an election was held, in order to fill the vacancy in the office of Athletic Editor, caused by the resignation of Rankin '12, due to pressure of academic work. Carpenter '12, formerly an associate editor, was elected to the position of athletic editor. At the same time, Samuel S. Swift '13, was elected to the Board as an associate editor.

Paul M. Butterworth, '08, a member of the Board throughout his college course, and formerly editor-in-chief of the paper, was present, and spoke to the Board upon several important matters.

Those present were duly informed of the business of the Tripod Alumni Association meeting, held during Commencement Week, last June in Bond's Rathskellar, and plans for the present year were laid.

Football Dinner.

In order to instill the proper Trinity spirit into the new members of the football team, and to arouse enthusiasm generally, George D. Howell, '82 entertained fifteen members of the squad at dinner Thursday evening at Heublein's Rathskeller. Mr. Howell is well known to all Trinity men as a most interested alumnus. He is a trustee of the college and President of the Alumni Association. The baseball team was entertained in a similar fashion last spring by him. Several of the Hartford Alumni were present and a most enjoyable as well as enthusiastic time was had by all who attended.

"NOW THEN—TRINITY!"

The annual underclass track meet which is scheduled for next Monday afternoon is primarily for the purpose of bringing out possible material in the freshman class, and while the matter of a victory is of some importance to the contesting classes, nevertheless the end which should be sought is a most urgent necessity—the appearance on the track of men who have any ability in this line. It may be possible that some men, who have never attempted anything in this line before, will at least try, and if we are able to judge by past performances, it is a safe prediction that some surprises will ensue. To a new man, perhaps this fall try-out appears rather useless, but in order to build up any kind of an all-round team next Spring, it is absolutely necessary to get a line on both old and new material. The one-year men in college are better able to appreciate this fact, and but little urging is required in order to insure their presence. If both the class managers and the members of the two under-classes will co-operate, there is little or no doubt but that the results will be satisfactory to all concerned.

That the attendance at the first college meeting of the season was not up to the standard is greatly to be regretted. If the college body would but realize the great importance of gathering at such a time, there would be no reason for the cry of lack of college spirit. The meeting was one of the best ever held, in point of the excellent speeches made during the course of the evening, and it should be a source of deep regret to all those absent, unavoidably detained—or otherwise, that they were not present to imbibe some of the atmosphere which pervaded the meeting. As it happened, those who came prepared to be approached upon the subject of subscriptions for one cause or another, went away disappointed. There was no cry of that nature. Those who stayed away because of the fear that they would be annoyed by such appeals deserve something more than the mere abstract fact that they missed a golden opportunity, for what was said at the meeting was imbibed with eagerness by all those present. If the college is to become known for its spirit, it is time that affairs which are, or should be, of the greatest interest to all undergraduates, should be attended with some show of realization of their importance.

Senior Class Meeting.

At a meeting of the class of 1911, held yesterday noon in the History Room, the subject before the meeting for discussion was the question of what measures to take in order to insure the entire sale of the 1911 Ivy.

The Ivy Board, by graduation and other unforeseen causes, it was stated, had lost all but three of its original members, and these were in some way or another prevented from taking up the work of selling out the current issue of the year book. The surviving men on the Board were heard from, and it was decided to adopt radical measures, in order that the class might escape any larger assessment than necessary, when it came time for settlement of all class debts in June of the coming year.

It was finally voted that under the charge of F. J. Brainerd, '11, former assistant business manager, one member of the senior class, in each of the eight bodies existing in college, should be appointed and requested, to distribute the books in his immediate organization, not neglecting to secure other subscriptions from any outside sources, where it was thought such might be secured.

It was also the sentiment of the class that each and every member of the class appoint himself a committee of one to sell one or more copies wherever possible, exclusive of the sale to the seven fraternities and the neutral body. By the suggestion of the class President, it was proposed and agreed to place the books on sale at every home game this season, and also at the game with Wesleyan at Middletown on October 29.

Junior Class Elections.

The 1912 class elections held last Tuesday noon resulted as follows:

Alumni Notes.

The fourth of the 1910 series of five dinners of the New York Trinity College Alumni will be at Reisenweber's, 58th street and Eight avenue, near the 59th street station, on Monday, October 10th, at seventy-thirty p. m. All Alumni are cordially invited and urged to be present and to bring a guest if they wish. The usual course dinner will be served in a private dining-room with a piano. The price $1.25 to non-subscribers.

The dinners already held have proved to be great successes and have been enjoyed by all who attended. All New York Alumni are urged to come to the next one and hear all about the football team and show their spirit by singing some good old Trinity songs.

Please notify A. D. Vibbert, Treasurer, 51 Wall street, of your intention to be present. A large attendance is expected.

'60.—William Gilbert Davies, died on the 26th of July, at Tuxedo Park, N. Y., after a long illness in his sixty-ninth year. After graduation, Mr. Davies studied at the University of Leipsig. He was admitted to the New York Bar in 1863, and after a few years general practice, entered the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York as counsel, resigning later to resume his private practice. He served with the Twenty-second Regiment, N. G., N. Y., during the Gettysburg campaign. Mr. Davies was a member of the New York State Bar Association, Sons of the Revolution, Society of the Colonial Wars, Phi Beta Kappa Alumni and the Laymans' Union, University, Century, Tuxedo, Grobier Manhattan, and St. Nicholas Clubs.

'82.—On July 14, Andrew Murray Young, '82, and Mrs. Marie Hunt Story were married. The ceremony took place in St. George's Church, Hanover Square, London.

'83.—Trinity men throughout the State are rallying to the support of George Pratt Ingersoll of '83 as Democratic candidate for Congressman-at-large from Connecticut. Mr. Ingersoll is a son of the Hon. Colin M. Ingersoll, also a Trinity man, late of New Haven, deceased, who twice represented Connecticut in Congress. The candidate worthily represents the highest type of Democratic citizenship in a government intended to be of the people, by the people, and for the people, and not by a few for the benefit of a few. His ripe experience as a lawyer, his recognized ability as an investigator of facts, his characteristic habit of looking before he leaps, and his unaffected veracity qualify him for sound service in Congress, without fear, favor or graft, and always in faithful obedience to the Constitution.

'88.—Arthur Cleveland Hall, Ph. D., Professor of Economics and Sociology in Kenyon College, died in Gombier, O., on June 23d, in the forty-fifth year of his age. He pursued graduate study at Johns Hopkins and Columbia Universities, taking a Ph. D. from the latter in 1901. After newspaper and social settlement work, he became a special agent of the government bureau of corporations, and six years ago entered upon his duties as college instructor. He was a member of several learned bodies and author of a work on "Crime and Social Progress."

The Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration offers a prize of $100.00 for the best essay on "International Arbitration" by an undergraduate student in any American college or university.
