PRICE, FIVE CENTS.

WHITLOCK PRIZES AWARDED.

Hickey and Bird Take Honors in Oratory.

The fourteenth annual contest for the Frank W. Whitlock prizes was held in Alumni Hall at eight o'clock last Friday evening. As was explained in the last issue of The Tripod, these prizes were founded by Mrs. Lucy C. Whitlock, of Great Barrington, Mass., in memory of her son, a graduate in the class of 1870. The winners of the Alumni Prizes in English Composition are entitled to compete.

The hall was well filled by the students and faculty and by many friends of the college from Hartford. President Luther first said a few words of welcome and referred the audience to their program for a synopsis of his regular explanatory speech, which he omitted on this occasion. The Glee Club then sang "When the sunshine softly falls," after which Dr. Luther introduced the first speaker, William A. Bird, IV., '12, of Buffalo, N. Y.

His subject was "The College Education of the Future," and in a clear and effective style he discussed the tendency of the present day to give up the arts for the sciences because, in a materialistic age like this a man could not afford the time to pursue a course of study which would not bring him a net return in money. However, he prophesied that when, in the near future, man had conquered the air, and made steam and electricity completely his servants, there would be a great reversion to the study or literature and art, and culture would once more be the highest aim of the student.

After another song "Amici" by the Glee Club, Levi P. Morton Hickey, '11, of Hartford, spoke on "An Arraignment of Socialism." His delivery was very forceful, and he impressed everyone by the clearness of his arguments. After defining socialism, he gave the three chief objections to the theory, as generally brought forward, and then criticized some of the arguments in favor of socialism which have from time to time been promulgated by its supporters. At the close of this speech the Glee Club sang "Come sing a song of college days."

The third speaker was Alexander L. Trachtenberg, '11, of Russia, and his subject was "The Part of the Student in the Russian Revolution." He could speak from personal knowledge, and with a convincing earnestness of delivery, he painted a splendid picture of the bravery and devotion of the students in those trying times.

The judges, Hon. John C. Brinsmade, Hon. Charles A. Goodwin, and Hon. Thomas J. Spellacy, then retired and during their absence the Glee Club sang such popular airs as "Mandy" and "Under the Yum-Yum Tree."

Hon. Thomas J. Spellacy then, in a few well chosen words, spoke of the great difficulty the judges had had in BULLETIN BOARD WIT.

No Name is Sacred in These Degenerate Times.

Have you noticed how the college bulletin board during the past week has blossomed out with a prolific display of sophomoric wit and humor? Monday morning came the startling announcement that someone had "Divorced A. Pulford." Still more startling was the head liner "Soapy goes to Jail," but this disappeared some ten minutes after posting. On the same morning there appeared in the social items the account read by all "Dr. and Mrs. Spiegel celebrate."

There is no telling where the contemporary press will end. Sometimes the newspaper makes a home run but this time it went to first with the heading "Peanut is no longer Humble."

Everyone has realized how badly things scholastic have stood since mid-year examinations but who believed that one is so high in authority as our president should be responsible for the announcement, "Failures in Schools.—There are 250,000 of them and Dr. Luther,"—just here the correspondent cut off an announcement which might have had pain for a large number.

Hoorah!—"Prouty Reverses Decision." Just what said Prouty decided no one will ever know.

A few more notices read in this fashion and need no further note:

"Trachtenberg is Silent."

"Duffy enters Society."

"Elliott and Neff in Song and Dance."

"Livermore and Fengolio Bout a Tie," and some day: "Gives Trinity a Million!" What?

FIELD EXCURSION IN GEOLOGY.

To Study Formations in the Catskills.

On the first three days of Easter vacation, April 13 to 15,, a field excursion for instructors and students of geology will be held, with headquarters at Catskill, N. Y. A number of colleges will participate, and the party will be under the immediate direction of Prof. W. M. Davis of Harvard. The region to be studied is a most interesting one, and will include the eastern summits of the Catskill Mountains and the folded and faulted limestones of the Hudson valley.

Mr. Barrows is planning to make the trip, and will be glad to have any member of the classes in geology or any others in the college who are interested accompany him.

Prof. Davis is one of the most eminent authorities on physiography in the country, and it will be especially interesting to make this trip with him. The only cost will be railroad fare ($4.50 each way) and hotel expenses, which will range from $1.50 to $2.00 a day.

VALUABLE MINERAL COLLECTION.

Stones Worth $10,000 Presented to the College.

Through the generosity of Mrs. John H. Caswell of New York, Trinity has recently come into possession of the valuable collection of minerals gathered during his lifetime by the late John Henry Caswell. Mr. Caswell was graduated from Columbia College in 1865 and during the three following years studied at the old mining academy at Freiberg in Germany. Here he became an enthusiastic and intelligent student of mineralogy, and on his return to the United States he took the position of assistant in mineralogy in the newly organized Columbia School of Mines. This position he held for a number of years, and during this time was engaged in making for the United States government a microscopic examination of the rocks and minerals which had been brought from the Black Hills.

In 1877 his business interests compelled him to give up the career of a scientist, and his connection with Columbia was permanently severed. None the less, however, his interest in mineralogy continued throughout his life, and his collection, the delight of his leisure hours, became an exceedingly choice one. He kept up his connection with fellow mineralogists all over the world, and this gave him unusual opportunities for making desirable additions to the number of his specimens.

The collection as it now stands represents therefore the results of a life-time of enthusiastic collecting by a scientist. It contains about 4,000 specimens scientifically arranged in specially constructed cases, and illustrates very completely the typical crystal forms and their variations for a large range of mineral species.

The specimens for the most part are small, but remarkable because of their perfection. There are a few large ones, however,—one topaz crystal weighing 16.1 ounces. This crystal was considered so remarkable that it was photographed by Tiffany & Co. The value of the collection may be placed roughly at $10,000, although it could probably not be replaced at that figure.

Mr. Barrows expects to have the cases installed and the specimens arranged ready for study before the end of the Easter recess.

The libraries of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology are the largest of any school of its kind in the country. They contain 74,695 volumes, 20,982 pamphlets and 1,043 regularly subscribed periodicals. Over three hundred of the latter are in foreign languages.

At Colgate the Frisby prize of one hundred dollars is awarded to the athlete who has the highest average in scholastic work at the time of graduation.

YALE TO-MORROW.

Prospects Seem Good For a Close Game.

The baseball team is fast getting into shape for the game with Yale, Wednesday, the 5th, the first game on the schedule. Coach Connery put them through a stiff practice Saturday, both in batting and in their respective positions, and every man showed up well. Last year the result was very close, 2-0 in Yale's favor; but this year the prospects are even better and hopes for victory running high. The battery will probably be Sayres, pitcher, and L'Heureux, catcher, a combination hard to beat. The other positions have not yet been decided, but the probable line-up will be:

C. L'Heureux, A. P. Sayres.
P. C. W. Sayres, Warner.
1st. Brainerd, Hicks.
2nd Carroll.
s. s. Turner.
3rd. Horan.
L. F. Ahearn.
C. F. Howell.
R. F. Hicks, Lister.

THE SOPHOMORE SMOKER.

Plans Rapidly Maturing.

The Sophomore Smoker Committee is hard at work in its preparations for the smoker to be given May 5th in Alumni Hall. The committee plans to outdo all previous attempts, both in respect to entertainment and "smokes." Most of the invitations have been sent out already, and Chairman Warner, '13, wishes the names of any more sub-freshmen to whom invitations should be sent.

Marsden, '13, has written the play to be given at the smoker. It is a farce with its scene laid upon the campus. The parts have already been assigned, and the actors are now studying the "knocks" which the play aims at some of the men.

A new Trinity song will be introduced at the smoker. Adam, '14, is the composer, a fact which guarantees that the song will be worthy of Trinity.

NOTICES.

Professor Gettell will deliver the last of his series of lectures before the Socialist Party tomorrow night. His subject will be "Some Needed Reforms in American Government."

Meeting of the Society for the Study of Socialism, Friday evening, 7:30 Members only.

Professor Gill was Democratic candidate for councilman in today's municipal elections. The college vote was all out.

"NOW THEN—TRINITY!"

EDITORIAL.

According to the constitution of The Tripod, the present board will be superseded early in May, when new officers will be chosen and the vacancies caused by graduation filled.

A resolution recently adopted provides that beginning with the next academic year the board shall consist of ten members, the office of secretary being abolished. As there is but one senior among the ten men filling these positions, it can readily be seen that, barring resignations, there will be only one new face in the conclaves around the long table next year. This fact, however, should not discourage the candidates who have spent the year chasing ads, and assignments, as the majority of the board will retire in 1912, when there will be at least five vacancies, most of which will undoubtedly be filled by candidates from the 1914 group.

Ultimately, it will be seen, the board will consist almost entirely of seniors, with candidates of one, two, and three years' standing. The material ought to be very well weeded out by that time, and the system should result in a much higher standard of efficiency.

It is time that interest should begin to awaken again with regard to the major athletics. Both baseball and track will soon be in our midst, and we can only urge that as large a number as possible of candidates present themselves to captains and coaches of the various teams, when the proper time arrives. Small matter whether a man feels that he is not 'varsity material—the substitutes often do as much toward a victory as the team, and a policy of reciprocation should also be maintained between the candidates and the captain or coach. To say that rank favoritism has existed within the past few years would be putting it mildly, and it is only the fair and square thing to do—to give every man his chance, and to develop raw material. The game or the meet is not won by grandstand exhibitions, and individual starrng, insofar as it works to the detriment of the team, should be frowned upon.

What we want here at Trinity are teams which will do all that is within their power to win, in the right spirit, and will represent—Trinity.

SENATE MEETING.

A meeting of the Senate was held last night to take some action on the minor sport problem, which has been before that body for the greater part of the college year. The general sentiment in college against basketball in particular seemed to require that there should either be stringent regulation or abolition. Moore, '14, manager of the basketball team and a member of the Senate, outlined some of the causes for the failure of the team this year, and by giving a prospectus for next season entered a strong plea for the continuance of basketball. A motion was passed appointing a committee to confer with the athletic advisory board on the question of admitting the three minor sports into the athletic association as self-supporting teams, and, in the event of failure in that direction, to devise other means for putting them on a definite and responsible basis.

A communication from the Trojan athletic association, which will hold its annual interscholastic meet on Trinity Field May 30, asking if the fraternity houses would entertain contestants as in past years, was directed to be answered in the affirmative.

COMMUNICATION.

Hartford, Conn., Mar. 23, 1911.

The Editor of The Tripod,

Trinity College,

Hartford, Conn.:

Dear Sir:—

I note with interest the organization of a club in Trinity College for the purpose of studying socialism. I am not a socialist but I believe that some features of socialism here and abroad, if rightly directed in practice, may make for good in our political and social life. The attitude of the so-called "better class" towards socialism is the attitude of ignorance and as such, it is quite as dangerous to our development as anything that constructive socialism might offer. If there is anything about socialism that is dangerous to our institutions, the danger can be successfully destroyed only by intelligence and by a thorough understanding of the subject. If there is anything of good about socialism, the good can be developed only through like intelligence and understanding. It is gratifying, therefore, for college men to take up seriously the study of this propaganda which is apparently gaining a stronger and stronger foothold in this country each year.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) R. P. Butler, '06.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company,

Hartford, Conn.

Why should I insure my life?

Because it is a debt you owe to those who rely dependent upon your earnings for their support.

You admit that it is your duty to supply their needs from day to day, but forget that it is equally your duty to provide an ever ready and sufficient equivalent for your earning power, which your family stands in constant jeopardy to lose by your premature death.

Guard your family against disaster and yourself against dependency in old age.

When should I insure my life?

Now! The cost will never be less, and to-morrow you may not be able to obtain insurance at any price.

Even if others are not now dependent upon you, take time by the forelock and you will be the better able to meet future responsibilities,
and at a smaller premium.

Where shall I insure my life?

In a purely Mutual Company.
In a company that earns, declares,
and pays annual dividends.

In a company that is doing a conservative business.

Such a Company is The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. It furnishes perfect protection at lowest cost.

ALUMNI NOTES.

'63—Rev. Williams Ackley, rector of St. Andrews Protestant Episcopal church in South Brooklyn, died at the rectory on March 28th, only a few hours before Justice Marean in the state supreme court rendered a decision upholding him in his fight against a hostile vestry. He was born in East Haddam in 1840, and was graduated from Trinity in 1863, receiving his degree of master of arts and being ordained deacon 1866. He was ordained priest in 1867, having previously been in charge of St. Alban's Church, Danielson. He was also in turn rector of Trinity church, Newton; St. Mark's, Warren, R. I.; St. Peter's, at Narragansett Pier, R. I. After serving the latter church he was called by St. Andrews. For ten years he was superintendent of schools in Rhode Island and a member of state board of education.

'02—Rev. Charles E. Tuke, who has been rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Billings, Montana, for the past three and one-half years, has resigned to accept the rectorship of the Episcopal Church at Walla Walla, Wash. Tuke married Miss Lucy B. Hawkins of Hartford seven years ago, and the couple located in Sheridan, Montana. From Sheridan they removed to Billings.

'65—The annual meeting and dinner of the Trinity Alumni Association of Boston will be held at the Copley Square Hotel, on Tuesday, April 25, at 6:30 p. m. The dinner was arranged for the same day as the Trinity-Harvard baseball game, so that the Alumni might be able to attend both game and dinner, and so that the team might attend the dinner.

'87—The Rev. Octavius Applegate has been elected a member of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Central New York, to fill a vacancy.

'65—The Rev. Dr. William H. Lewis observed the twentieth anniversary of his rectorship of St. John's Church, Bridgeport, Conn., Sunday, March 26.

'06—Burdette C. Maercklein is the author of an article on Elizabeth Park in the last number of "Country Life in America."
