TENNIS.

Work on Courts Begins Next Week. Tickets Soon on Sale.

At the beginning of next week, the college courts will be put in order preparatory to the opening of the tennis season. An excellent schedule has been prepared by Manager E. L. Ward, and the first match will be played on April 19 with the Connecticut State Agricultural College.

The tennis tickets will be on sale in a couple of days. Burgwin, Edsall, and Ward have charge of selling them.

The team will probably be made up of these three men, and Moses, '14. However, there are several other good tennis players in college, and there will be a good fight for places on the team.

A General Secretary.

At the Y. M. C. A. vesper service on Sunday afternoon, Mr. Stoddard Lane, of the Hartford Theological Seminary in finishing his address suggested the advisability of securing for next year a general secretary to supervise and direct the work at the local branch of the Y. M. C. A. The necessity of such a man to organize, develop, and carry out the work is absolutely essential to the prosperity of the association in the college. The members of the Y. M. C. A. have done great work this year toward raising the interest in the organization, but so great is the work and so meager the time that each man can afford for the carrying out of the association's aims that any further development seems impossible without the aid of a general secretary. Every college of any size has such a man whose sole business is the development and direction of the Y. M. C. A. work among the undergraduates, and it certainly seems as if Trinity should also be willing to support such a man. In order to secure a general secretary it will be necessary to raise a certain sum of money and the members of the local organization have plans on foot for the canvassing of the college to raise funds for this purpose. Within a few days these plans will take definite shape and it is hoped that this idea will meet with the hearty co-operation and support of the college body, for the securing of a man to serve in such a capacity here among us will undoubtedly be a great step not only toward the development of the organization but also toward the making of a greater Trinity.

Class Track Officials.

At class meetings held last week the sophomore and freshmen classes elected captain and manager of their class track teams for the coming inter-class meet. In 1915, the choice fell on Hall for captain, and T. A. Peck for manager. The freshmen class chose Lyon for captain and Ives was re-elected to the managership. Hudson will captain 1914's team and Collett the senior team.

TRIBUTE TO J. P. MORGAN.

Paid by President Luther in Sunday Sermon.

Dr. Luther preached in the chapel last Sunday, taking as his text the fifth verse of the 15th Psalm (Prayer Book version) "He that sweareth unto his neighbor, and disappointeth him not, though it were to his own hindrance." The general subject was the value of integrity as a fundamental in progress and in civilization. For the man described in the text was among those who "shall never fall."

It was evident that the preacher was thinking of the late J. Pierpont Morgan. In conclusion, he spoke of him directly as follows:

"It has been my happy fortune, first and last, to meet a considerable number of those who are called great. I have been permitted to converse with men distinguished in literature, in art, in science, in business, in politics, and in warfare. Of all such men whom I have met, two stand out conspicuous as seeming to radiate power. In their society one thinks not of what they have done but of the man himself, of his tremendous potentialities. One of these two men was Mr. Morgan, for twenty-seven years a member of our Board of Trustees, our steadfast friend, our generous benefactor, a man to whom we owe very much indeed of such prosperity as has come to the college. I say he seemed to me to radiate power. One felt X-rays passing through him when in this man's vicinity. He was a very great man indeed. I suppose that like most strong men he was fond of conflict, that there was a certain joy of battle that made up a large part of his life. But I am sure that he always 'fought fair'; that he rejoiced in triumph as you rejoice in an athletic victory, but that no opponent could complain that the victory was not honorable.

Living a life like this a man is sure to make enemies as well as friends, and Mr. Morgan had his share of both. But, emphatically, he was one of those who, when he had sworn unto his neighbor, would disappoint him not, though it were to his own hindrance. I know a little, and perhaps sometime we shall know more of this man's manifold services to his generation, and of his unnumbered and unrecorded charities to those who needed help. I say unrecorded—they are recorded, but not in the newspapers. Great success came to him. He was very wealthy and the great men of many kindreds, tribes, and nations sought his friendship and valued his counsel; but the greatest thing that he has done was about the last thing he did. He acquired great wealth. He did it honorably and gave back richly in service to the world. He led a movement which endangered his private interests but which seems to have saved the country from a financial catastrophe. But the greatest thing

YALE 6, TRINITY 0.

New Haven Team Wins Without Much Difficulty.

The Trinity baseball team drew the blank end of a 6 to 0 score, in the game with Yale at New Haven last Saturday. As Yale has the strongest team that has worn the Blue in many years, Trinity's showing was far from discreditable. It is true that errors by Trinity infielders at critical moments helped along the Yale score, but on the whole, however, Yale owed the victory to the brilliant work of her own nine rather than to poor playing of the wearers of the Gold and Blue.

Brown, who pitched for Yale, displayed mid-season form and held Trinity hitless until the ninth inning, when a single by Shelley "broke the hoodoo." Trinity's first hit was her last as well, however, and Shelley got no further than the initial sack. Not a Trinity player reached second in the whole game.

The wonderful support accorded Brown by the Yale fielders contributed largely to the result, Trinity being robbed of several seemingly sure hits by sensational work on the part of the Yale outfield. Pumpelly, the hero of last fall's Yale-Princeton football game, who played right field Saturday, robbed Warner of a hit by gathering in a drive from the Trinity twirler's bat on the first bound and throwing him out at first. Middlebrook, in center field, robbed L'Heureux of a sure home run by stabbing a terrific drive from the Trinity captain's bat while on the dead run. L'Heureux said afterwards that he had never hit a ball so hard in his life as he had the one which the Yale centre fielder caught. As Trinity's captain has mauled the pellet savagely during his career as a batsman, Middlebrook is evidently used to catching cannon-balls.

Warner, in the box for Trinity, showed great improvement over the form he displayed during the recent southern trip. He lasted the full nine innings, and kept the hard-hitting sons of Eli down to eight singles. His chief fault seemed to be a tendency to wildness, four Yale men receiving free transportation to first, and three of these passes resulting in runs.

Trinity presented a somewhat experimental infield in this contest, Captain L'Heureux being at first, Lambert at second, Shelley at short, and Murray at third. Lambert, who is new to the position of second base, found some difficulty in getting "his bearings." Vizner was back at his old station in left field and contributed a pretty running catch. Carpenter, who caught for Trinity, twisted his ankle in trying to get a man at the home plate, but did not leave the game.

The score:

YALE	AB	R	H	P	O	A	E
Middlebrook, cf,	1	1	1	3	0	0
Reilly, 3b,	3	1	0	1	2	1
Blossom, ss,	4	0	1	3	2	1

THE FRESHMAN PLAY.

Prospects Look to a Very Creditable Performance.

With the time for the presentation of the freshman play but a week off, rehearsals are being held daily under the able coaching of Miss Clara M. Coe of this city. Everything is being done to guarantee the highest success, as the cast, already excellently trained, is laboring faithfully to put those extra little finishing touches into the acting. Several of the young gentlemen in the cast are to have the difficulty of portraying feminine beauty and charm, but with the aid of wigs, paint, and gowns kindly loaned by the debutantes of Hartford, the feat ought to be accomplished creditably—no harm meant against the original actors.

The final cast follows:

Courtney Corliss,	J. Landon Cole
Mr. Launcelot Bargiss,	Oscar W. Craik
Paul Hollyhock,	Francis B. Coyle
Signor Palmiro Tamborini,
	Victor F. F. Di Nezzo
Professor Gasleigh,	Robert B. O'Connor
Mrs. Hypatia Bargiss,	S. Norton Ives
Dora Hollyhock,	Edward A. Niles
Flos,	Harold B. Thorne, Sr.
Jessie,	Richard L. Mazon

One particular feature of the production will be the staging, which is under the excellent management of Mr. Ruel C. Tuttle, '89. Although Mr. Tuttle was unable to procure scenery from New York, he has arranged to have the stage made unusually attractive. Alfred Harding, Jr., '16, is stage manager, and Noyes H. Reynolds, '15, prompter.

The list of patronesses includes the names of more than one hundred and twenty-five of the leading society ladies of the city, all of whom will personally attend the performance.

Sixteen members of the freshman class are to act as ushers. Tickets can be procured from members of the class.

Grading Resumed.

The grading work on the north end of the campus has been resumed after several months of idleness. The bank of earth along Summit Street and the hill at the corner of Summit and Vernon Streets is disappearing gradually and the material taken from there is used in raising the level of the ground across the driveway from the president's house. The winter rains carried much of the loose soil either down the banks on either side of the gymnasium or down the driveway to Vernon Street and the sewers, to the dismay of those who had to clean the latter. The earth around the trees by the walk, which were lowered several feet, has sunk somewhat. All these are also being filled in.

Inter-class Track Meet.

The annual inter-class track meet will start promptly at 2 p. m., Saturday, April 12. It is required that all entries be handed in to the manager of the respective teams before Friday afternoon. The work of the competitors will be closely watched, as upon their showing rest the chances of Trinity sending a team to the Relay Carnival at Philadelphia.

The officials for the meet have not yet been decided upon.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

Do Your Share.

On the coming Saturday afternoon,—just a few days off,—will take place the first outdoor track meet of the spring, the inter-class meet. Now, a certain number of men have been taking regular practice outdoors, in field and track events ever since the weather has permitted. All of these, without doubt, will appear on the field the day of the meet, ready to take part, so this does not apply to them. But it has been often lamented that college athletics was for the few picked men, and that the majority did nothing except look on and cheer. This, however, happens to be a case in which, if the above statement is true, it is due entirely to the members of that "majority" who look on enviously and wish that they were athletes. There is not a man in college, who can run all the way from breakfast to chapel every morning, or who can take part in a rough-house at midnight, who can not put on a track suit, or any other old suit, and get out on the field for the rest of this week, and at least go through the motions of being an athlete. You, who have never run in the gym squad mile jogs hard enough to get out of breath, who knows, but that, with persistency and training under a good coach, you may develop into an Olympic possibility?

Anyway, let every man who has the qualifications mentioned above, and him who thinks he hasn't, take advantage of the next few days to get into such trim that he can run a hundred yards without expiring, and then enter the meet, and uphold the prowess of his class. The main thing is to get out. The fresh air will do you good.

TRIBUTE TO J. P. MORGAN.

of all was this: that only yesterday, in Washington, he stood up, constructively before the nation, and proclaimed to all of us, "The basis of credit is character." That such a man in such a place should say this was to make, I hope, an uplift in business. What he said was true but no one could say it so effectively as himself.

Yes, he was diligent "in business" and, as the writer of the Proverbs said would be the reward of such, he stood "before kings." It was a king and a great one who said that the man who sweareth unto his neighbor, and disappointeth him not, though it were to his own hindrance, should dwell in God's Tabernacle and rest upon His Holy Hill. The financial king of our time said, "The basis of credit is character." These two texts are one.

In the first part of the sermon the president said:

"The description of this man", said Dr. Luther, "given by the psalmist in answer to his own query 'Who shall inhabit thy tabernacle?' is that of a man of integrity, dependable, one whose word is as good as his bond. This personal integrity, forms the basis of business transactions; without it, all business would be a selfish, mad scramble."

"Not merely honesty in a man will enable him to meet the psalmist's description. The man must be ready to 'swear unto his neighbor,' willing to serve, self-sacrificing. Too many men with opportunity to do this, fail to act, making pleasure their aim. Our neighbors, unto whom we swear, are all those to whom we owe service and to whom we can render service. Let us not fail in our pledge to anyone. Avoid lowering the reputation of any organization of which you are a member. Avoid all dishonesty. On taking the oath which makes us voters of the state and country, we should not fail to realize that we have sworn an oath which admits of no failing in its keeping."

At the Y. M. C. A. vesper service Mr. Stoddard Lane, Amherst, '10, now a student at the Hartford Theological Seminary, addressed the students. In a few fervent words he brought home to the men with great force the realization of the fact of the immensity of the work of the Church on earth, contrasting it with other gigantic enterprises which so characterize this age and land, and showing its challenge to the man desiring a hard task to be greater than that of any other undertaking.

It is hoped that there will soon be another diamond laid out on the south part of the college athletic field, where the soccer fields are now, and that the games may then be played in the afternoon. Otherwise the games will have to be played on the college diamond in the early morning, as last year.
