HOCKEY TEAM LOSES.

Lack of Practice and Syracuse Team Work Responsible.

The hockey team lost against Syracuse University in its first game of the season on Saturday. The score was 12 to 0. The team journeyed to Syracuse with only two days' practice and faced opponents who had enjoyed the benefits of able coaching and two months' practice on artificial ice. The Syracuse team played a fast, clean game, but were held down to no score for the first ten minutes of play. When the poor condition of the Trinity men began to show up, Syracuse landed three goals in the next five minutes. The first period ended with the score 3 to 0 in favor of Syracuse. Syracuse failed to score in the first few minutes of play in the second half, but after the locals went up in the air, nine goals were shot in quick succession, making the final score 12 to 0.

The line-up:

TRINITY		SYRACUSE
F. J. Brainerd	G	Milligan
A. Johnson	P	Ayling
Howell	C	Long
Burgwin (capt.)	R	L. Johnson
H. L. Brainerd	LW	Simmons (capt.)
Cole	RW	Sutcliff
Walker	C	Collins

Goals by Johnson 4, Simmons 3, Long 1, Collins 4; referee, Cree; scorer, Van Tyle; time of halves, 15 minutes.

Two games are scheduled for the end of this week. The team is to play Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y. on Friday afternoon, and after spending the night in Albany, journeys to West Point to play the U. S. Military Academy, Saturday afternoon.

An effort is being made to arrange games with Amherst and Springfield Training School within the next two weeks to make up for the dates previously cancelled on account of the weather.

Y. M. C. A. VESPERS.

Sunday Afternoon Services to Be Held Throughout Year.

Commencing on the Sunday before the examinations, the Y. M. C. A. instituted the custom of vespers at 5.30. These services will be continued on Sundays during the remainder of the college year. They are conducted entirely by members of the Trinity branch of the Y. M. C. A., and an effort is made to procure a different speaker at each service. The service consists of three hymns, the Lord's Prayer, a reading from the Bible, and a short talk. On January 26, at the first vespers, which Moses, '14, president of the Y. M. C. A., conducted, Professor Barret spoke on the subject of prayer. At the second service, conducted by Fort, '14, Dr. Luther spoke, taking as his subject the "Altar to the Unknown God." Moore, '14, had charge of the last service. Mr. Schwartz, Lafayette '10, spoke of the opportunity for student work in foreign mission fields. The attendance at these vespers has thus far averaged about twenty. Mr. Harrison and Blachford, '14, have rendered valuable assistance by playing the organ.

ALUMNI PRIZE AWARDS.

Adkins and E. T. Smith Again Among the Winners.

Harry D. Brandyce of New York, has awarded the Alumni Prize in English Composition as follows:

First Prize—Leonard D. Adkins, '13, "The Modern American Short Story."

Second Prize—Ethelbert T. Smith, '13, "International Relations of the Panama Canal."

Third Prize—Thomas Cook Brown, '15, "How the Aid of France was Obtained in the American Revolution."

Honorable Mention—Harold L. Gibbs, '15, "Little Citizens and the Juvenile Court."

These four men will compete for the Whitlock Prize in Public Speaking at a date to be announced later.

Of Adkin's essay, the title of which was "The Modern American Novel," he says in part: "The subject of this theme is interesting—to me at least—only if properly handled, and this I consider has been done by Mr. Adkins. He presents his case splendidly and works it out along logical lines. The examples he gives, in his presentment, are well selected, and are about the best he could have named. I consider this essay by all means the best. I hope it may be published."

Of Smith's essay, the subject of which was, "International Relations of the Panama Canal," Mr. Brandyce says: "The subject is well worth while, and is, in the main, very well handled. The theme is well constructed, the line of reasoning is logically carried out, and the English is good. I found this an interesting and meritorious presentment of a vexed question."

Mr. Brandyce made the following comment on Brown's essay, the subject of which was "How the Aid of France Was Obtained in the American Revolution"—"This thesis presents an interesting topic in an interesting manner, and is generally well written. In general 'worthwhileness,' it ranks very near the top." Gibbs, who received honorable mention, chose for his subject, "Little Citizens and the Juvenile Court," Mr. Brandyce making the following comment: "An enthusiastic presentation of a topic of contemporary interest."

Article By Professor Barrett.

Professor Barrett has presented to the library a reprint of the Kashmirian Atharva Veda, Book III, with critical notes by himself, from Part 4 of Volume 32 of the Journal of the American Oriental Society. Book I, treated in the same way formed the dissertation submitted by Professor Barrett at Johns Hopkins University for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and was published in the Journal of the American Oriental Society in 1906. Book II was published in the same periodical in 1910.

FRESHMAN PLAY PLANS.

Tryouts to Be Held Next Tuesday Evening.

The Junior week festivities will open on the evening of Wednesday, April 16, with the presentation of Augustin Daly's "7-20-8" by the Class of 1916. at Parsons' Theatre. Tryouts for the parts are to be held on Tuesday next under the supervision of Mr. N. H. Batchelder of this city, who has been selected as a coach. Nearly three dozen members of the freshman class have pledged themselves to try for parts, and as the number of parts is small, and there is considerable talent among the candidates, a first-rate cast seems assured.

The play was first presented by John Drew in Daly's Theatre, New York. It made a great hit because of its rollicking fun and abundance of humorous situations. There are several love scenes which give opportunity of clever acting. The story is built upon the race of two men, and young American and a rich English lord, for a beautiful girl whose portrait they see at an art exhibition. Many surprises and exciting suspenses occur in the working out of the theme. There is a live counter-plot that helps to keep things lively at all points. As a whole, the play can be said to be well worth seeing and worthy of production by a college cast.

The presentation of a play at the commencement of Junior Week should be an important social affair in the city, and should be supported by everyone interested in the college. The sale of tickets is to begin soon, with prices ranging from two dollars down.

O. W. Craik, '16, who is largely responsible for the project of giving a freshman play on Junior Week, obtained an interview with John Drew when he was in the city on February 1st in "The Perplexed Husband." Mr. Drew acted the leading part in "7-20-8" when it first appeared. He was greatly interested, and expressed himself as pleased that Trinity should enter the field of dramatics.

playing a part in "7 - 20 - 8," Mr. John Drew proceeded to "7-20-8," Mr. Drew proceeded to describe each character and gave valuable hints in the manner in which they should be acted. He then stated that although he was acquainted with the old Trinity, he had never seen the college since it was moved from the present site of the Capitol. He expressed the wish that he could visit the college on one of his future appearances in Hartford.

OLMSTEAD, '08, TRACK COACH.

Squad Drilling in Preparation For Armory Meet.

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Advisory Committee, H. B. Olstead, Trinity '08, was chosen to coach the track team for the ensuing year, his work to commence at once. Mr. Olmstead is well remembered here as he was captain of the squad during the years, 1907 and 1908. At that time he made a record of sixteen seconds flat in the one hundred and twenty yard high hurdles that still stands. He was a member of the Alpha Chi Chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon and of the Senior Honorary Society.

Since his graduation Mr. Olmstead has had considerable experience among the New England colleges and has built up quite a reputation as a coach, so that Trinity may consider itself indeed fortunate to secure his services.

He will commence his work today at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium which Mr. Scaife, the physical director, has kindly lent for the use of the college track team while the Armory is occupied by the automobile show. Mr. Olmstead will begin his work at four o'clock, coaching the relay team and runners at four and then coming to college to coach the jumpers and pole vaulters. He will continue in charge of the track team until the New England Inter-collegiate, which come at the end of May, a longer time than Trinity has ever before had the services of a coach. The first meet in which the team will take part is to be held in the State Armory, Hartford, Friday, February 21, and all the efforts of the team are now being made with the end in view of showing up well on that occasion. A relay race will be run with Wesleyan, the squad in this event consisting of: Vizner, '15, Lyon, '16, Spencer, '16, Hall, '15, Crehore, '14, Sage, '14, Sage, '14, and O'Connor, '16, have been entered in the high jump; Crehore, '14, and Wessels, '14, will run the mile and half-mile respectively and Hall has been entered for the low hurdles. All the remaining time between now and the day of the meet will be spent in practice under Mr. Olmstead's direction, the rest of this week at the Y. M. C. A., thereafter at the Armory. Prospects are bright for a fine showing at that time and all the squad is working hard to round into shape for the event.

The Sick List.

Lawlor, '14, who was confined to the Hartford Hospital for some time with blood poisoning in one arm, is back at college again.

C. E. Craik, '14, is ill in the Hartford Hospital.

J. B. Moore, '13, is suffering from an attack of the grippe.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

THE WAY OUT.

Alumnus Suggests the Remedy for Discord.

To the Editor of the Tripod:

I have just read your editorial
headed "Unity" in the issue of Jan. 14.
In this you agree with the Juniors in deploring the lack of harmony in college, and you attributed it to the spirit which places fraternity first and Trinity second. You say this spirit results in deals and wire pulling.

It appears to me that it is the other way around, and that the electioneering and factions at times of elections are rather the cause of a large part of the unpleasant feeling which seems to exist among the fraternities, and tend to prolong the bitterness which starts with the rushing season.

There is one satisfactory way, it seems to me, with which this may be dealt. Although I am not a advocate of the honor system at Trinity, as far as examinations are concerned, I think that it is the best way in which college politics, which are so largely a matter of personal integrity and individual conscience, can be properly restricted.

In the spring of 1911, an amendment to the constitution of the Senate was passed by that body and presented to the college body at Alumni Hall for ratification, and was put through by a large majority. This amendment, as I remember it, was to the effect that every fall the Senate should put to the entering freshmen a written promise which should be signed by every one of them who had no objections. In it each would agree to vote at all times for the best man and not engage in frame-ups.

This is now a law, and is lying dormant
with the Senate.

If your editorial expresses the real wishes of the Tripod, and if you think my plan feasible, why don't you get after the Senate? Use your influence with them to have them immediately (while the thought is in the fellows' minds) draw up a form to be signed by the individuals in the entire college body. This can be done at a college meeting and by canvassing. If the Senate will appoint some man who is sure to be in college next fall, to take charge of this matter entire (I might suggest the president of the Y. M. C. A.) it will not be so likely dropped when next fall comes.

The proposed college union and the dramatics are both good steps toward a better Trinity feeling, but don't you think this would be a striking down to the root of the matter, not possible
in any other way?

I am sending a carbon copy of this letter to the President of the Senate.

Yours sincerely,
PAUL MAXON, '11.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR WORK.

P. A. Schwartz Tells of Them in Sunday Chapel.

P. A. Schwartz, Lafayette, '10, during the past few days paid Trinity his second visit this collegiate year in the interest of the volunteer movement on the part of students for service at home and abroad. Mr. Schwartz is traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement and from his travels among the various colleges all over the United States he is in close touch with every phase of the work. The greater part of Saturday and some time on Sunday
Mr. Schwartz spent in personal interviews with a number of the students.

Sunday morning in chapel he delivered an excellent address on questions confronting every college man: "Where are you?" "Whither goest thou?"
"The former of these questions," said Mr. Schwartz, "was the first that was asked man in the Garden of Eden; the latter, the one that Christ asked man at the beginning of His ministry. They demand an answer from every college man. The meaninglessness of some men's pursuits in college is pathetic, while others, by their high aims and purposes of service, show that they have grasped the principle that to help along society one must give it more than he takes from it.

Opportunities for service abound—in the leading on of foreign immigrants to a true citizenship, in the negro problem in the South, in educating the mountain whites in the South, in work among the lumber camps and Indians of the West, in the slums of our large cities, in social problems. The opposing barriers have been broken down in foreign countries and a new nationality is Schwartz then spoke of the need for immediate and practical service and an abandonment of pure theory and speculation. "Our service," he said,

"should be characterized by three things

daring." "Finally," said Mr. Schwartz,

To Professional
Men:

No class of men need life insurance more than do professional men. As a rule, the income of a professional man is largely, if not wholly, dependent on his brain, and when the activity of the mind ceases, his income ceases, or is at once greatly reduced.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company

offers to the professional man who desires to assure his wife and children for life, or for a specified term of years, the continuance of a substantial part, at least, of the income to which they were accustomed during his lifetime, a contract perfectly suited to these needs.

JOINT CONCERT.

Trinity and Amherst Musical Clubs
 to Entertain February 27th.

The musical clubs will give a joint concert with the Amherst Musical Association in Unity Hall, Hartford, on the evening of February 27th. Both organizations are now rehearsing diligently for the event. Neither club will be able to give its complete program and there will be no joint numbers, but the concert will last about two hours and a quarter. The Amherst clubs have done excellent work this season, and as the Trinity clubs already have a fine reputation, an evening of remarkably good music may be expected. Indications are that the concert will be well-attended as there are a number of Amherst alumni in this vicinity who will turn out to the concert and all the supporters of the Trinity clubs will be glad of the chance to hear them again.

A concert in Windsor has also been arranged for the evening of April 3rd. It will be under the auspices of Grace Episcopal Church of that place, of which the Rev. Dr. Frederick W. Harriman, '72, is rector.

Basketball Postponed.

Owing to the sickness of several members of the 1913 and of the 1914 basketball teams, the inter-class basketball games scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, February 12th, have been postponed to Wednesday, February 19.

This will necessitate a change in the remainder of the schedule of the series. The revised schedule is as follows:

- Feb. 19—1913 vs. 1916; 1914 vs. 1915
- Feb. 21—1913 vs. 1914; 1915 vs. 1916
- Feb. 26—1913 vs. 1915; 1914 vs. 1916
