FIRST HOCKEY GAME.

Trinity Loses in Exciting Contest with Springfield Training School.

Trinity opened her hockey season Wednesday afternoon with a fast and exciting game at Elizabeth Park against Springfield Training School, the latter winning by the score of 3 to 2. The game was the second scheduled for the Trinity team, but lack of ice necessitated a postponement of the game with Amherst last Saturday. A few lapses in the loose team play resulted from the team's lack of practice, but its general style of speed and aggressiveness kept the visitors for the most part on the defensive.

The goal tending of McGill of Springfield was the deciding factor of the contest, his superb defense work preventing many a good Trinity shot from lodging in the cage. The stick work of Burgwin at rover, Dick Walker at left wing, and Drummond Little at center was effective in keeping the puck for the most part in Springfield territory and their repeated tries at scoring kept McGill busy. And the defence Cole at cover-point showed up strongly. His consistent work kept the goal of the Blue and Gold out of danger at critical moments.

For Springfield, Bowers at rover, and McGill at guard were the most prominent.

Trinity started the scoring when Little landed a goal within a few minutes of the starting whistle. Trinity kept the play in Springfield territory for a few minutes afterward until fast passing of the visitors carried the rubber to within a striking distance of Trinity's goal. Bowers shot it in, tying the score.

Trinity pulled ahead again just afterwards, when Walker scored, being aided by fast passing by Burgwin and Little. A long shot by Captain Patterson of Springfield brought the first half to an end with the score even.

During the second half Trinity was hard pushed, but no score was made up to within three minutes of the end of the game when Bowers cut loose and skated up the rink, scoring for Springfield. Trinity rallied and the contest waxed hot around the Springfield goal for the remainder of the game. McGill effectively blocked all attempts at goal and the game ended with Springfield victorious, the score being 3 to 2.

THE NEW CATALOGUE.

Issued Last Month for 1913-14. Several Important Changes.

Attention is called of the students to the new catalogue for 1913-14, which was issued last month. The catalogue is an excellent one not only because of the clear and interesting way in which the statements and data are given, but from the fact that it is a fine example of the printer's art. Aside from a few additions and changes it is much the same as it appeared last year. It is interesting to note that the name of J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., appears for the first time among the list of the board of trustees. On the list of the members of the faculty there is one change hitherto not mentioned, namely, the promotion of Professor Barrows from an instructor to an assistant Professor of Geology. In the schedule of courses there are only two important changes to be noted, the opening of courses in physics and chemistry for the first time to freshmen taking the arts course, and the consolidation of the courses in drawing with the department of civil engineering. A very interesting statement concerning the new Williams Memorial Library is given which should prove instructive to the readers.

The most important change is the appearance for the first time among the list of prizes of the Mears prize. It would be well to quote from the catalogue concerning this prize: "The Mears prize in physical education, amounting to $50 a year, was founded in 1913 by Professor J. Ewing Mears, M.D., LL.D., of the class of 1859. It is awarded annually by the faculty, on the recommendation of the head of the department of physical training, to that member of the senior class who shall have held during his college year the highest average standing in the courses of instruction in physical training, provided that no one shall be eligible to receive the prize who has not attained a grade of at least B in freshman and A in sophomore physical training, and who has not also attended at least two classes a week in the department during his junior and senior years, and attained in these classes a high degree of excellence. In making the award regard shall also be had to the relative improvement in physical agility, vigor and strength attained by the competitors during their college course."

Among the list of scholarships there also appears the George Kneeland scholarships of $100 per year, endowed in memory of George Kneeland, a graduate in the class of 1880, from Miss Alice Tainter and Miss Adele Kneeland of Hartford.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS.

Seven Veterans From Last Year's Team. Good Schedule.

With the announcement of the schedule by Manager R. S. Martin, the college body has already begun to think of the 1914 baseball season, and as nearly as can be judged so far in advance, the prospects are fairly good. While a number of last year's team have been lost by graduation and otherwise, including the whole regular 1913 outfield, there remain seven veterans, and several substitutes, who, together with a fair amount of promising material in the freshman class, form a strong nucleus around which to build a good team.

Last year's infield remains intact. Captain Murray will again be seen at shortstop, where he has starred for two seasons. Shelley, another veteran of two years, will cover second base again, and third will be taken care of by Gillooley, who played the position so well last year. First base is expected to be looked after by Lambert, who played there with the 1913 team. The infield positions will probably be well provided with substitutes. McKay, a freshman, is an infielder who has played at Norwich Academy, and Berkeley and Warner, also freshmen, will be available. In the outfield, Cole and Ives are expected to be the likeliest candidates, both having had experience in the gardens. Craig, who played in several of last year's games, is another who looks good for this year. Schmitt, who can also catch, and Brand, are two more men who will be in the fight for outfield berths. Behind the bat the team will be well fortified. Carpenter, who did fine work last year, will be out again, and will have a likely substitute in Schmitt. The pitching strength of the team is a little problematical. Swift and Ferris of last year's team are still in college, and with their added experience, should be the mainstays in the box. Haines, a freshman, is also expected to show something in the pitching line.

On paper, the 1914 team, promises to be strongest in fielding and in the catching department, and weakest in hitting and in the box work. The majority of the men have proved their worth as fielders, but so far there is no sign of any sluggers of the fence bursting kind. However, the chances are, that the progress of the season will upset calculations, and uncover some strong stickers. If this proves true, and the pitchers do their part, nothing appears to be lacking for a winning combination to represent Trinity on the diamond. The coach of the team has yet to be selected. Several are under consideration, but Captain Murray is not yet ready to make an announcement as to who the man will be.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

Opportunity for Democracy.

While Williams Hall has been in the process of erection, there have been various suggestions of more or less value as to what shall be done with the old library. As far as we know, no definite decision has yet been reached. No doubt when the authorities do determine on a use for the old library, they will do so only after the most careful consideration, and the plan they adopt will be the best possible. One of the plans, which to many undergraduates seems by far the best, we briefly outline here, and we earnestly hope that it will receive its share of attention.

Why not use the old college library for a college commons? Not a commons managed on the pattern of the present one, but one which will accommodate every student in college. Here is the opportunity for something which Trinity sorely needs, a democratic spirit. As long as the men are shut off from each other in little groups by the segregating influence of the fraternities, democracy is utterly out of the question. Fraternity feeling is far too strong, often taking precedence of that to which it ought to be secondary, college spirit. Under existing conditions a man is liable to think first of his fraternity and then of his college. We are not decrying fraternity loyalty, but we all know that here it is carried to extremes. There is a certain feeling of constraint between men of different societies which has no right to exist.

Throw all Trinity undergraduates together three times a day nearly every day for about nine months, and you do away with the objectionable feature of the present fraternity system. The men will come to know each other and everybody in a way that is at present impossible. There will then be a closer, more real feeling of loyalty to the college, for there will be a true democracy, or as close an approach to one as is possible in a college where fraternities exist.

Natural History Survey Bulletin.

The Tripod has received from the State Library a copy of a work on the Birds of Connecticut by John H. Sage and Louis B. Bishop assisted by Walter P. Bliss. This book has recently been issued as Bulletin No. 20 of the State Geological and Natural History Survey under the direction of a board of commissioners of which President Luther is the secretary.

While in no sense a guide for the identification of birds, since it possesses neither description nor analytical keys, the book will nevertheless be very welcome to all local bird enthusiasts. It is primarily a list of all the birds observed in Connecticut during the last fifty years or so. The list is supplemented by information as to the seasonal occurrence of the birds, the dates of their migration and nesting, their relative abundance, and their geographical distribution over the state. A valuable bibliography covering nearly everything that has been written on Connecticut birds is included in the volume.

An interesting and practical feature of the book is the chapter on Economic Ornithology written by Dr. Bishop. Here is discussed the relation of various birds to man particularly in the domain of agriculture. The number of birds placed on the black list as undeserving of protection is notably small, including only one owl (great horned) a few hawks and blackbirds, crows, English sparrows, and starlings. The inclusion of the European starlings in the roll of undesirable feathered citizens has a local interest for Trinity College in view of the very considerable flock now wintering in the neighborhood of the campus with headquarters in the southern towers of Jarvis Hall. These foreigners were introduced into this country at Central Park, New York, in 1890, and have gradually spread over the surrounding country. Hartford is about the eastern limit of their range in Connecticut. The starling is accused of eating fruit and grain, and of driving far more useful native birds from their nesting places. It has no standing as a songster, and, in fact, seems to merit consideration only because of its enmity and aggressiveness toward that other unwelcome emigrant from Europe, the English sparrow.

 You fellows know what that means! We've been very successful in this regard with Fatima Cigarettes. By the way, these cigarettes were first sold in the college towns—and you agreed with us that they were good.
 Then we put out for the big race, to make Fatimas of nation-wide reputation, and today more are sold than any other cigarette in this country.
 No purer, or more carefully chosen tobacco grows than that in Fatimas. We purposely put them in a plain inexpensive wrapper—in this way we can afford quality tobacco, and twenty of the smokes for 15 cents.
 Now your college crew is of utmost importance to you—so is a good cigarette, and it's your aim in life to keep Fatimas in the lead—right up to their good quality—right up to where you first found them, and will always find them.
 Success fellows! You started this cigarette on its successful career—and you pull a strong oar all over this country.
