PRACTICE DEBATE.

Team Argues Against Central Bank Proposition.

In preparation for the intercollegiate debate on April 24, a trial debate was held Saturday morning between the 'varsity team and a team composed of several men of the senior class. The question was: Resolved, that the bank and currency reform legislation in the United States should contain a provision for a central bank under federal control. Murray and Wallace, representing the affirmative, delivered the important arguments which are liable to be brought forward by the Rutgers team, and Lazarus, Dunn, and Johnston, speaking for the negative in accordance with their plans for the Rutgers debate, sought to break down the arguments and bring forward others in defence of their own side. Fitzpatrick, who was scheduled to speak with the affirmative team, was unable to be present. No time limit was set on the speeches, Professor Kleene, who conducted the debate, announcing that he would rap on the table should a man speak too long for the others to stand it.

The arguments for the affirmative were based on the need of some reform in the present currency system in the United States. Instances were cited of the great success of the central bank in all the nations of Europe, special emphasis being laid on those at London, Paris and Berlin. Attention was called to the fact that France and Switzerland, though republics, had both had remarkable success with the proposed system, and that the localized or regional system had been an utter failure in Japan and Argentine. It was furthermore brought out that one of the functions of the proposed remedy is to place our banks in a position to insure notes issued in time of stringency, which will alleviate the financial difficulty into which the country is thrown. Illustrations were given of possible dissension. The whole solution lies in the fact that a central bank will be able to exert an enormous control which will draw all dissenting units into common agreement.

Lazarus opened for the negative. His speech was rather explanatory than argumentative. He mentioned the difficulties of the present system, bringing out those arguments which are considered unassailable, but went on to show how these conditions could not be remedied by the establishment of a central bank. He argued that a central bank was not necessary because the provisions of the Owens-Glass reform bill were entirely sufficient. The two following speakers argued from two standpoints, the economic and political, showing how a central bank could not offer a proper restraint on the wild speculation of local banks, and how a central bank could not remedy the lack of coöperation between our banks.

A sharp rebuttal was held after the first part of the debate, but no decision was rendered.

JUNIORS DEFEAT SENIORS.

1915 Wins Snappy Basketball Game by Brilliant Spurt.

In a fast, clean game of basketball, the juniors triumphed over the seniors on the gymnasium floor, yesterday evening. The contest was lively and exciting throughout. The seniors started out with a rush and piled up six points in quick succession before the juniors had made a basket. The latter settled down to business and the end of the first half found the score a tie at 9 to 9. The seniors again led the scoring at the start of the second half, but the juniors got busy again and won out in the end, the final score being 19 to 14.

The seniors started the game whirlwind style, playing the juniors off their feet throughout the first five minutes of play. Moore scored the first basket, Wroth made good on a hard try, and Baridon followed up with another. The juniors got their team play into action, and the seniors failed to keep the ball in their own possession. Shelley made their first goal and when Wright scored another immediately afterwards, there seemed to be some hope for the juniors. Baridon, with a goal from floor and another from foul put the seniors in the lead again. Brainerd came to the rescue with two goals and a foul which brought the half to a close with the score 9 to 9.

The seniors got the jump on the juniors again at the beginning of the second half. Moore and Wroth each caged a basket, making their team four points to the good. The juniors started some lively passing that bewildered their opponents. They fouled, however, and Dexter, shooting from free try, made the last point for the seniors.

Peck scored for the juniors. Wright set to work and piled in three baskets, one a beautiful shot over half the length of the floor. Brainerd dropped one in, ending the scoring.

The finish of the game was fast and furious. The seniors were making a desperate attempt to eat up the junior's lead, but the floor work of the latter made their efforts futile. The final score: 1915—19; 1914—14.

Both teams played speedy, open basketball. Wright and Brainerd were the heaviest scorers for the victors. Smith at guard, broke up the seniors' passing at many critical points of the game.

Moore, of the seniors, did their most effective floor work, while Baridon netted the largest number of points.

The line-up:

1914		1915
Fort	LF	Wright
Wroth	RF	Shelley
Moore	C	Peck
Baridon	LG	Smith (capt.)
Dexter (capt.)	RG	Brainerd

Score: 1915—19; 1914—14.

Goals from floor: Peck, Shelley, Wroth 2, Moore 2, Baridon 2, Brainerd 3, Wright 4. Goals from foul: Brainerd, Dexter, Baridon. Referee, Dr. Swan; score keeper, Levin, '14; timer, Morgan, '16. Time, two 20-minute periods.

TRACK PROSPECTS.

Management Awaits Faculty Approval Before Engaging Coach.

The question of a coach has been worrying the track management ever since it was discovered that last year's coach, H. B. Olmsstead, '08, could not act in that capacity this spring. Thanks, however, to the kindness of Mr. H. H. Hillman, the coach of the Dartmouth Track Team, Manager Hill found out that this question could be very satisfactorily solved, for it seems that Mr. P. S. Harmon and Mr. C. S. Riley, both prominent members of last year's Dartmouth Track Team, were in the city and upon being interviewed by Manager Hill and Captain Wessels, Mr. Harmon was found to be willing to act as coach for the team this season, with Mr. Riley as assistant. The contract has not yet been signed, because the faculty committee has not been able to meet to take formal action. However, there seems to be little doubt that Mr. Harmon will be engaged. Harmon's ability as a middle-distance runner cannot be doubted by anyone who has seen him in action on the Dartmouth two-mile relay team. He was a member of the team which was second in the two-mile relay Championship of America at the Pennsylvania Carnival in Philadelphia last April. He has placed in the mile run at the New England Intercollegiates in the last two years, besides being a member of Dartmouth's one-mile relay team. He was seen in Hartford at the 1913 Naval Militia meet in a two-mile relay race against Princeton, which Dartmouth won easily.

Riley is another Dartmouth man having won his letter in the hurdles, both high and low, consequently it is needless to say, that with such men as coaches this year, the track team is in a better situation than ever before. Manager Hill has arranged an excellent schedule of meets, and though none of them will be easy for the Gold and Blue, nevertheless with the coaching such as will be given, it is expected that the team will make a very creditable record for itself.

Captain Wessels is taking the squad on short cross-country runs every afternoon, and soon the track will be in condition for the sprint and hurdle candidates. Several of the weight men have been indulging in a little light practice with the shot and discus, but except for Hudson there will be a woeful lack of material for the hammer event this season.

SECOND CHEMISTRY SEMINAR.

Members of Advanced Courses Make Study of the X-ray.

On Friday afternoon about a dozen members of the advanced courses in chemistry, together with Professor Stone and Mr. Harrison, visited the Green-Bauer Corporation and saw a demonstration of the manufacture of X-ray tubes. In the evening a seminar was held at the home of F. B. Coyle, '16.

At the factory, Mr. Griner, vice-president of the company, led the visitors through the building and showed them the various processes involved in the manufacture of the X-ray tubes. He gave the class a personal demonstration of glass-blowing in some of its most difficult phases.

In the evening Professor Stone and Mr. Harrison with five of the students, held a seminar at the home of F. B. Coyle, '16. They listened to a paper on "The Theory of the X-ray," written by Mr. Frank J. Farrelly, president of the Green-Bauer Corporation, and to a paper of Coyle's, entitled, "Chemical Reaction Under the Electron Theory." After the meeting the men were served refreshments by their host. Those present were: Professor Stone, Mr. Harrison, F. B. Coyle, '16, C. T. Senay, '14, R. W. Woodward, '14, A. E. Redding, '16, C. B. Spofford, '16.

Trips and seminars are to be held weekly, instead of fortnightly, as originally planned. For the next trip the committee hope to arrange for a visit to the shop of Woolsey McAlpine Johnson, '98, on Broad Street, and to inspect his electric zinc ore furnace.

It is hard to say at this early date just how much Crehore's loss will be felt, but his place will be a very difficult one to fill in the distance events. It is hoped that some dark horse may develop.

Captain Wessels has arranged a cross-country race for Tuesday, April 7, to ascertain just what form the distance and middle-distance men have acquired from their practice at the Armory and during the last month. The results of this race will show who are the most promising candidates for the long distance runs.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

The Rutgers-Trinity debate will be held in Alumni Hall Friday evening, April 24. The expenses of this debate will be considerable. It has been thought, however, that it would be unwise to charge any admission for this event. In order to defray the expenses, the members of the college body are going to be asked to subscribe twenty-five cents. Men will be assigned to the various groups in the college body, and as many as are able are requested to give this small amount towards the support of the association.

Notice.

The election of a new Tripod board will take place shortly after the close of the Easter recess. Reporters are reminded that the largest number of points does not necessarily mean election. Ability and carefulness are important considerations.

DR. LUTHER PREACHES.

Rewards and Punishment Subject of His Text.

In chapel, last Sunday, Dr. Luther departed from his usual custom, and for the first time in his connection with the college, preached of the rewards and punishments of the world to come. His text was taken from part of the sixteenth verse of the sixth chapter of the Gospel according to St. Matthew: "Verily I say unto you, They have their reward."

This verse, said Dr. Luther, and the second verse of the same chapter, told of the acts of the hypocrites who went through the religious offices of almsgiving and fasting in such a manner as to draw the attention of the people. And they received the reward for which they strove. The same thing is going on today, but with increasing difficulty because of the greater discrimination evidenced by the people.

Nevertheless, Dr. Luther explained, approbation in itself is not undesirable, and a certain amount of it is necessary for happiness. And surely it cannot be base to desire the approval of God. It is in reality the motive behind the desire that counts.

In the last few years, he continued, the theory of Hell has become unpopular because neither the latitude nor the longitude or even the altitude of that place could be definitely located. But there is a Hell, that there must be a Hell, is proven, in that many of the wicked in this world flourish, and leave it without experiencing the punishments that their misdeeds have merited. It may not be the Hell of flame that has been depicted, but it exists.

And Dr. Luther speaking, of his unusual departure from custom, said that thoughts of the future world are inevitably brought home to the man, who, drifting down the River of Life, has approached the Great Sea. And he begged the men to give some thought to their own futures while there was yet time.

For an offertory, Harding, '16, sang "If With All Your Hearts" from the "Elijah" of Mendelssohn.

Dr. Henry H. Oberly Dead.

'65—The Rev. Dr. Henry Harrison Oberly, for thirty-five years rector of Christ Church, Elizabeth, New Jersey, died at the rectory at a recent date. Dr. Oberly had never fully recovered from an operation performed four years ago, and he gave up his duties only when his physical condition made it imperative. Dr. Oberly was born at Easton, Penn., in 1842. After being graduated from Trinity, he studied at Berkeley Divinity School, and was ordained deacon in 1867 by Bishop Williams. Dr. Oberly was called to the rectorship of Christ Church upon the recommendation of the late Bishop Scarborough.

Mr. Leiper Speaks on Choice of Life Work at Vesper Service.
 "The choice of a life work" was the subject of a straightforward and appealing talk given at the Sunday Vesper Service by Mr. Henry S. Leiper, a traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement.

In a preface to his theme, the speaker said that he came to speak to one of two types of men, and he hoped that the other type was not represented in his audience. The one type, he said, was looking for a life work, where he could invest his life to the best advantage of human kind, and to this type he wished to speak. The other, he said, was looking merely for a "job," as he would look for a suit of clothes—one which looked nice to himself and to his friends, and one which would cost him no more than he wished to pay for it.

Mr. Leiper laid aside the question of happiness, for this is after all a by-product. Of all the men he had known to enter the mission field not one had ever been unhappy or wished to do any other work. It is the one post where a man may feel himself absolutely indispensable. Statistics and cold facts of the sufferings of the ignorant population in the vast mission fields of South America or in the Orient would convince any open-minded man of the duty of the Christian man today.
