TRINITY WINS FIRST GAME.

Football Team Defeats Norwich and Shows Much Promise.

The Trinity football team won from Norwich University 27 to 0, at Trinity Field last Saturday, September 26. It was Trinity's first game of the season and was played with an opponent which was not considered strong enough to give the Blue and Gold much trouble. This proved to be true to a large extent, yet Norwich showed more strength on both offense and defense than the score indicates. Despite Trinity's wide margin of superiority, the play of the team left something to be desired in several respects. The worst fault was the tendency of the backfield to fumble, but other defects were failure of the team to show, as a whole, a superabundance of pep, and there was also too much off-side play. However, the all-around work of the line was good rather than bad for so early in the season, there were flashes of brilliance in the backfield, and the generally creditable showing of the new men gives every promise for a most excellent team, particularly as the lineup contains more beef than any Trinity team of recent years.

The game was marked by straight old-fashioned football, there being few forward passes, and these were almost all tried by Norwich. They never gained any ground, Trinity scored in the second period, twice in the third, and once again in the fourth, Norwich showing throughout a stubborn if not very effectual defense. The offense of the visitors, however, was never able to make consistent headway against Trinity.

Cole was the particular star of the game. He made several beautiful end runs, and his work on the secondary defense was deadly to Norwich's hopes. Cole made the most sensational play of the game when he broke away for a 60-yard run two minutes before the game closed and paved the way for Trinity's last touchdown. Vizner at the other half was also much in the limelight. He was always good for consistent gains, and played an all-around excellent game. The work of Brickley, the freshman fullback, was closely watched. Brickley's exhibition of line plunging was in every way creditable and gave indication of becoming more and more so as the season advances. His punting was fair, although not so good as his running back of kicks, by which means he dodged through a broken field several times for good gains. Jackson, the veteran guard, was unable to play because of an injured leg. Shepherd, '19, and Harper, '18, were the new guards tried out, and both will bear further watching. Nordstrom, '19, who played at center, and Clark, '17, at right end, were the other men who wore Trinity colors for the first time. Clark's game at end attracted much favorable notice. Maxon, a veteran

COLLEGE MEETING.

Lots of Enthusiasm.

On Friday evening at seven o'clock the first college meeting of the year was held in the Union. J. L. Cole, '16, President of the Senate, conducted the meeting. He first introduced Professor Perkins, acting President of the college. He made a few more or less formal announcements as to chapel, office hours, etc., and then went on to the body of his address. While he urged all men to take an interest in extra-curriculum activities, Professor Perkins advised that they confine their efforts to one or two branches of activity, and not attempt too much. Professor Perkins next presented the Scholarship Cup to the Hartford Club. This cup was offered for competition by the Alumni Association of Hartford, and is to be awarded yearly to that fraternity or similar organization which shall attain the highest scholastic rank. Mr. McEvvitt accepted the cup in behalf of the Club, and made a few remarks.

F. B. Castator, '16, captain of the football team, was then introduced. Castator urged all men who had ever played football, or who thought they could play, to report for practice. He also set forth the value of a full attendance at games and college meetings, and urged the freshmen to get started right in this respect.

Coach Price was the next speaker and was greeted with a great burst of enthusiasm. He told the purpose of athletics both as a muscle and character builder, and deplored the attitude of the Bryanist pacifists who take the stand that athletics are detrimental.

After Coach Price had finished, each member of the team was cheered, and other cheers were practised. Several songs were sung, and the meeting then dispersed.

SENATE.

The Senate or governing body of Trinity College will consist of the following members this fall: J. Landon Cole, '16, President; F. B. Castator, '16, J. N. Ives, '16, R. S. Morris, '16, R. L. Maxon, '16, D. A. Gillooly, '16, C. H. Perkins, '16, C. B. Spofford, Jr., '16, F. J. McEvvitt, '16, R. Z. Johnston, '16, J. H. Townsend, '16, A. N. Rock, '17, W. W. Macrum, '17, J. E. Griffith, '17, M. Shulthiess, '18.

BLOODY MONDAY.

Classes Divide Honors.

As years go by many changes are seen at college. To an outsider things seem the same. But students cannot help but notice changes Father Time has wrought. Classes come and classes go. They act as individuals. Some are meek and some are sanguine. The class of 1919 proved to Father Time that it was of the latter class. The "premiere" performance in which the under classes partook was short but inevitably a victory for the freshmen. It is practically impossible for any sophomore class to win in the Bulletin Board. Numbers are against them. So it proved Monday afternoon when the freshmen won in thirteen seconds. The sophomores had the board well fortified and expected a longer tussle when water came from two stories above and hindered them in their defense. After combatic strategy, E. N. Sturman, '19, worked his way in and touched the board. Two years in succession has the vice-president of the freshman class touched the board. J. M. Hays, '18, being the victor last year. Instead of scrimmage and rushes on the campus, as is the general rule, the sophomore class departed from the custom by rushing up stairs to discover the offender and instigator of water-throwing. Freshmen followed and a scrap on the stairs was the consequence. Neither gained an advantage but found out their strength and endurance for the more strenuous scrap in the evening.

The two under classes full of vim and vigor and a desire to trample and not to be trampled on, lined up opposite each other on the campus shortly after seven o'clock. The freshmen were fortunate in numbers while they were unfortunate in not knowing their men. Despite these facts they clung together and gave multifarious cheers which were answered by the sophomores. The freshmen and sophomores, when all was ready, charged each other like a battering ram charges a stone wall. Soon the sides divided into groups. The campus was strewn with piles of twisting, squirming bodies, some being tied, others tying them. From these came calls for help, cries and sometimes shouts of joy. Sister classes urged on their younger classmen. The battle was over in fifteen minutes and those fifteen minutes seemed like hours. The count at the finish showed the sophomores to be victors with 22 men tied to the freshmen 12. The usual fife and

GLEE CLUB PLANS.

Mr. Davis Re-engaged.

A meeting of the men of the last year Glee Club is to be held tonight, at which plans for the year will be discussed. As Mr. Davis has been re-engaged to coach the club, and as there is excellent material in college, a good club is to be expected.

Trials will be held Thursday afternoon from 1.30 to 4.30. There will probably be a second trial later.

Plans are already laid for several concerts during the year. There is to be the annual Junior Week concert, and another joint concert with the Wesleyan Glee Club. A big Glee Club reunion is planned for next June. Plans for a trip to New York are practically completed. This trip will probably include concerts in Baltimore and several New Jersey towns. All the towns visited last year want concerts again this year, and are offering bigger guarantees.

The musical clubs are in need of money, and are going to appeal to the alumni, from whom they expect help.

FRESHMAN CLASS MEETING.

At a meeting of the freshman class last Friday the following officers were elected: President, S. W. Shepherd, Jr., vice-president, E. N. Sturman; secretary-treasurer, G. H. Segur.

TRINITY MEN SHOOT.

J. B. Barnwell, '17, G. M. Baldwin, '17, and D. W. Little, '17, took part in the instruction shoot of Troop B at the New Haven militia range last Saturday. They returned with sore shoulders but with the satisfaction of having made a very creditable showing. In order to qualify for the record shoot, which will take place in the near future, it was necessary to score at least 150 out of a possible 250 hits at various distances. All three qualified. Baldwin shot 173, Barnwell 163, and Little 154. The latter had the unpleasant experience of having his glasses broken by the recoil of his gun.

drum corps led the procession downtown after stopping to cheer Prof. Perkins. The freshmen snake-danced down Washington Street. Under the Capitol Arch "Neath the Elms" was sung after which liquid refreshments were served by 1919 at Harry Bond's.

Judges of bulletin rush: Ferris, '16; Ives, '16, timer; Perkins, '16; Rock, '14, timer. Judges of rope rush: Castator, '16, Cole, '16, Lambert, '16, McKay, '17, Spofford, '16.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

The Tripod urges all Trinity men to patronize the advertisers whenever possible. It is becoming harder every year to solicit advertisements, and the main cause of this difficulty may be attributed to the fact that the undergraduates do not allow themselves to be influenced by the advertising sections of the Tripod and the Ivy. Let them do so. It helps the publications, and it helps Trinity. The companies who advertise are all superior concerns and students can make no mistake in visiting them. Whenever an advertiser is patronized the Tripod should be mentioned. If every man in college would do this in the case of just one of his many purchases of the year, he would be doing a great service to future issues of the Tripod. One other point should be urged upon the student body. Bills at Hartford stores ought to be paid within a reasonable space of time. One prominent company refused to advertise because it had found that in the long run it had lost money through non-payment of debts by Trinity men. That is pretty bad. In the first place it reflects upon the personal honesty of the students. In the second place it hurts the name of Trinity. In the third place it takes needed money away from the Tripod. Think it over.

In the game with Norwich last Saturday, a gentleman, who, by the way, is not only a very prominent business man of Hartford, but also a very dear friend of the college, was heard to remark: "Why don't the fellows cheer more?" Not only was this remark made, but several other remarks of a similar character were made by others who witnessed the game. Why do we not cheer more?

College spirit is perhaps the predominant topic of conversation in college, and especially at this time. College meetings are held, college songs are sung, and college spirit is, in this manner, instilled in the veins of every true and loyal Trinity man. But this enthusiasm or college spirit, call it what you may, is only temporary, and the fire of spirit suddenly dies.

Come fellows, get together, and let us remember the slogan which Professor Perkins gave to us in his address of welcome. "Trinity first!" should be the by-word of every man in college, not only in the classrooms, and in our own private lives, but on the football field, where each lusty voice can aid materially in bringing victory to the team, and incidentally in making "Trinity first!"

The college meeting last Friday was a good one. Lots of "pep" was manifested and the old Trinity spirit was there. The one big drawback, however, was the fact that only about half the students were present. There is no reason in the world why practically every man in college shouldn't be on hand for those meetings. They only last a short time. Be at the next one. It will do you good.

We welcome you, both new and old, you men of Gold and Blue, back to the college on the hill, for which you stand so true. To you, the upper classmen, who, can greet each friend of old, we welcome you to Trinity, we take you in the fold. And to the men, who enter now, upon your college life, we bid you welcome at this time, so pleasant, new and rife. To you, the faculty, so true, we greet you all with cheer, and trust associations rare, may come to you this year. So to you all, we wish good luck, in everything you do, and may you staunch and loyal be, true sons of Gold and Blue.

FOOTBALL TRAINING TABLE.

The football team started in at their training table at 73 Allen Place yesterday morning. There are only twelve men eating there at present, but the number will be increased in the near future.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The fall tennis tournament begins on Tuesday, September 28. It is free to members of the Tennis Association, for which tickets are now on sale. For non-members, the entry fee is 50c per man, payable before playing, to cover cost of prize medals for the winner and runner-up. The entrance fee is payable to P. C. Harding, J. G. N. Mitchell or E. A. Niles.

This tournament is to decide the championship of Trinity and also in behalf of the team to find what material there is; so all who play at all, and particularly freshman, are urgently asked to enter.

At the present writing 18 men are entered for the singles and 7 couples of doubles. Captain J. G. N. Mitchell announces that there is excellent material in the freshman class, and probably several of last year's team will be displaced. Things look now as if there will be a very good season next spring.

GERMAN STEW AT STICKNEY'S.

Trinity men are looking forward to a good deal of excitement next week when a brand new Prussian chef begins his duties at the college refectory. Mr. and Mrs. Stickney are arming themselves with new bowie knives and expect to show the Teuton his place in case he exhibits any of his countrymen's desire for battle. In preparation for any serious result which may arise from the event, Miss Hilda Stickney is studying to be a nurse.

SINE NOMINE.

When the sun goes down, and the blackened gown
Of Night spreads over all,
And the blood-strewn path of a warrior's wrath

Leads to that awful pall;
Where the women moan for the ones unknown,
Whom Death has claimed at last,—
Does the Angel call, "Peace over all!"
And sound a trumpet blast?

Can you think at the last when the cloud has passed,
And your madness runs its course,
That the long-felt greed is yours indeed—
But the end,—oh, what remorse.
You have sought and slain, and eternal stain
Marks pathways you have trod,
Now I ask of you, what answer true
Can you give to Him, your God?

So the years pass on, and the men have gone
To an everlasting sleep;
For the battle gore will reek no more,
And the women ne'er shall weep.
But in mem'ry deep, all men shall keep
The scenes of a Christmas-tide,
When your greed was fed by the soldiers dead,
And the battle scars of Pride.

second team end, ran the team from quarterback, and considering that the position was new to him, did well, especially in running back punts. The veterans who got into action were Captain Castator, Morris, Lambert and Wooley in the line, and Craig, who went to his old position in the backfield when Brickley was taken from the game.

Brickley made the first touchdown of the season when, in the second period, he went over the line after a series of plunges by himself, and runs by Cole. The goal was missed. Maxon and Cole made long gains in the third period, and finally Vizner circled end for another touchdown, Nordstrom kicking the goal. Soon after Castator intercepted a Norwich forward pass and it took Brickley two downs to put the ball over. Nordstrom again kicked goal. Cole followed up his 60-yard run in the last period by three dashes which took the ball from Norwich's 15-yard line to the final chalk mark. Nordstrom's goal made the final score 27 to 0.

THE NEWS

The War! The War! The War! The War!

I read those words each day,
And then I scan the lines beneath;
To see what they may say.
The first one tells us how the French
Have killed an army corps;
And next you read how English troops
Were captured, yes,—and more;—
You find that those same Royal Guards,
(A line or two below),
Have broken through the German lines,
'Midst rain and sleet and snow.
And still more startling news is in
Dispatches from afar:—
The Kaiser Ill; In Doctor's Care,
With bronchial catarrh,
And then again we turn a page,
More news of war to hunt;
But there a glaring headline reads—
The Kaiser at the Front!
Five times have bullets pierced the skin
Of Bill, the Kaiser's son;
Three times he dies, but still leads on
To battles, lost and won.

And so the War is pictured here
In many forms and hues;
But what I want to ascertain
Is really,—
