First Lieutenant Paul H. Alling.

LETTER FROM ALLING, '19.

The following letter has been received from First Lieutenant Paul H. Alling who, last year, was Alumni Editor and Secretary of "The Tripod" Board.

Alling has been for many months in France, going across last fall with the 101st Machine Gun Battalion, formerly the well-known Troop B of Hartford, Connecticut. Shortly afterwards he received a commission as second lieutenant and was transferred to Troop F, 3rd United States Cavalry. A couple of months ago he received another promotion, being commissioned as first lieutenant.

Dear Mr. Johnson:

Letters from the college are always welcome to me and especially one from the Alumni Secretary, an officer whom we have needed for a long time, and I am very glad to see that such good work is being done.

I am proud of Trinity's record and would like nothing better than to see the flag as it waves over Jarvis. I have stopped in at the University Union at Paris and saw only a few Trinity men registered there. The way I accounted for the slight number was that all the Trinity men I knew that were over here were at the front and could not find time to get to the club. The Union is a great institution, I think, and one feels at home there. I did especially when I went over to the reading table and the first paper I picked up was "The Tripod." I looked in vain for "The Ivy," but I suppose that it will soon be there. If "The Ivy" is not there yet, may I suggest that it would be very advisable to send it? I noticed that the annuals of the other New England colleges were in evidence and missed Trinity's book.

In closing, I wish the Council and the Secretary success for the coming year and trust that it will not be long before all Trinity's sons who are in the game will be back 'neath the elms again.

TRINITY MAN HONORED.

Warren L. Hale, son of Henry B. Hale of East Hartford, and for two years a member of the class of 1916 at Trinity, has received a commission as first lieutenant in the Aviation Section, Signal Corps, U. S. A., and has recently been decorated by the Italian government for excellence in flying, with the Order of the Golden Eagle. Lieutenant Hale received his training in Italy, but is now with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. He writes as follows:

France, May 8, 1918.

My dear Johnson:

It does a Trinity man's heart good to get the proof of his alma mater's watchfulness and interest in her brood that has come from time to time through Uncle Sam's army mail; and it is with a certain amount of shame for so long delaying acknowledgment of her tokens that I now think of the war-born alibi that has excused so much of our correspondent negligence. But I'll not use it.

To further prove my appreciation of her activities through the hands of her secretary, I will make a little request of him to extend my thanks to her honorable president, Flavel S. Luther, and to "The Tripod" staff. Remembrances from them have done much to lessen the miles between here and Hartford, and to shorten the road to Berlin.

Yours truly,

WARREN L. HALE.

PLATTSBURGH R. O. T. C.

Twenty students left on Sunday night to attend the Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburgh, N. Y. For four weeks, together with about 3000 men selected from educational institutions maintaining units of a senior division, Reserve Officers' Training Corps, in the Eastern and in the Northeastern Departments, and in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida, in the Southeastern Department, they will engage in extensive drills and training. Upon completion of course, the camp commander will issue to each student who has successfully completed the course of instruction a certificate indicating whether the student is considered as good material for commissioned rank after further training.

The following men represent Trinity: First Lieutenants M. B. Robertson, and H. T. Barber; Second Lieutenant S. S. Jackson; Sergeants R. Bruce, G. G. Ramsay, and G. L. Saunders; Corporals H. Pierce, and H. E. P. Pressey; Privates M. Berkman, N. C. Butler, O. H. Clark, A. M. Goldstein, J. Hartzmark, W. C. Hicks, B. Levin, W. K. Noel, P. S. Ramsay, H. T. Slattery, H. W. Valentine, and R. K. Walker.

Captain Harold N. Young.

LETTER FROM YOUNG, '11.

The Alumni Secretary, Mr. Johnson, has received the following communication from Harold N. Young, a member of the class of 1911:

France, Feb. 23, 1918.

Dear Mr. Johnson:

Your letter of Jan. 16 just came to hand and I was sincerely glad to hear from you and to know that you were all O. K. I don't hear from many of my old college chums away over here, and a word from home comes as a life-saver.

Everything is fine and dandy; we work from daylight to dark, every day, too, as this war is no respecter of the Sabbath. At that we don't mind it as we feel that we are accomplishing something very much worth while. We are engaged in standard gauge railroad construction work and have the French engineers looking sideways at us, as they do not understand the American's way of doing anything. I can't go into details, as the censorship rules do not permit me doing so, but suffice to say that your Uncle Sam is going in this war to win—and we are going to do it too.

One of the corporals in my company, Philip J. Twohy, is a D. K. E., and this is the only one that I know of over here. He is a typical D. K. E. man, so why say more.

I am enclosing a small picture of myself taken over here. We have to have a picture of this nature to attach to our passports to enable us to go from place to place. Take particular notice of the Sam Brown belt.

Am sorry that I cannot tell you something worth while for "The Tripod", but we are not allowed that privilege.

I will try and keep you informed as much as I can of my future whereabouts and would like to hear from you often.

Very truly yours,

H. N. YOUNG.

Captain Co. E, 18th Engineers.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

In charge of this issue,
LESLIE W. HODDER.

THE REASON.

Although it is contrary to our usual custom to publish an issue of "The Tripod" during the examination period, yet this June it seems expedient to do so. We have on hand two or three interesting letters from men at the front and two important communications from Judge Buffington. It is our wish that our readers, particularly the student body, should pay special attention to the latter, for it solves a great problem which arises in every undergraduate mind in this terrible time.

Below is a letter from Judge Buffington, followed by an extract taken from a later communication from the same writer.

THE COLONEL.

There are thousands of men in the United States today, bearing the title, "colonel." Many of these are in khaki—others in Kentucky. And then there is The Colonel. There is only one of him. This world would be rather too small for two.

For more than three years, Colonel Roosevelt has stood where all Americans stand today. From the first, he was one of the few men in public life who boldly spoke the truth about the hideous German menace. It was not his fault that America was slow to believe the truth.

This is not a political editorial. It would be unreasonable to expect all Trinity men to be political disciples of Colonel Roosevelt. But the Colonel's business today is not politics. His business is that of all other real Americans—beating Germany.

Trinity has given hundreds of her sons to the war. It is particularly fitting that this year's Commencement speaker should be the man who voices the spirit of all those sons—Theodore Roosevelt, honest-to-God American.

OUR DUTY.

We strongly urge every student, who possibly can, to stay in college until after Commencement. The abnormal conditions, due to the war, have taken very many of our fellows from among us. As Dr. Luther says, "We know where they are." They make up four-fifths of our body, and it is expedient, then, for every man of the one-fifth that is left to remain until the eighteenth of this month. Certainly no one can leave on the plea that he wants to go home earlier than this date. There are scores of khaki-clad Trinity men in France and in this country, who have wished, for months, to go home too.

Our brothers at the front and in training camps throughout the land have left to us an almost sacred duty which consists in supporting the college, living up to its traditions, and upholding its glorious reputation. Are we fulfilling this duty when, for our own selfish interest, we refuse to give a little time—a couple of days—to help Trinity keep her Commencement in the old way?

It is with profound regret that "The Tripod" announces the death of Professor C. C. Trowbridge, Sc.D., assistant Professor of Physics, Columbia University, New York City, that occurred after a short illness on June 2, 1918. Professor Trowbridge graduated from Trinity in the class of 1892 and was a much beloved member of that class and of the Epsilon Chapter of the Delta Psi Fraternity.

A distinguished, noble, Christian gentleman. A remarkable and beautiful character.

"The New York Times" of June 3 says:

"Professor Trowbridge was known for his interest in a wide range of natural phenomena, as well as for his work in physics. He made notable contributions to the knowledge of meteors and of the mechanics of bird flight, besides carrying on laboratory investigation in fields of modern physics. Among his notable services at Columbia is his development of the Ernest Kempton Adams Precision Laboratory in the Department of Physics,—one of the most complete in the country. He was the author of many scientific papers, having begun his production at the age of 15 with some discoveries in ornithology."

RECENT ENLISTMENTS.

Friday evening, May 31, George C. Griffith, '18, left for Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where he will join the Radio Department, Signal Corps.

Saturday morning, June 1, Walter G. Smyth, '18, and Irving T. Partidge, '19, enlisted in the Coast Artillery.

COMMUNICATION FROM BUFFINGTON, '75.

Editor "Tripod":

A short time ago a college student—I am glad to say he was not a Trinity man—asked me to get him some work for the summer. As far as I could, I x-rayed him, and I could see no yellow streak, so I went out of my way to put him in touch with some government service and get him in quick and close touch with a man holding an important official position. This morning the latter writes me:

"I talked to this young man, and he struck me as a bright fellow, but apparently our work seemed a little bit too much like work to him and he decided not to accept it. For your personal information I beg to say that I am very much disgusted at the present time with young college men seeking work for the summer, as I find that the majority of them have the idea that they are to receive pay from Uncle Sam and render no service in return. I am sorry that I have had to come to this conclusion."

I am glad to say that has not been my experience with Trinity men. While in some few cases the yellow streak has come to the surface, in a very large majority they have been Trinity-true. I have felt it due to the times and to my brother Trinity men to write what this official has written me with the helpful thought that, in these times ahead of us, which are going to test men as never before, every Trinity man should stand true to his college traditions, his college heritage and to the word duty. Duty is the finest word in the English tongue today; duty, quiet, faithful, everyday duty. Thank God we learned at our own mother's knee and in our college mother's halls those words "and to do my duty in that state of life unto which it hath pleased God to call me." We can't all go "over there"; but every undergraduate and alumnus of "the college on the Hill" can do his duty here at home on the second line of defense. I sometimes think it is the real first line of defense, and I am sure that, as our Trinity boys read their "Tripods" in the cantonments and over seas, they will feel a bit more braced to do their duty because they know their fellow Trinity men are doing their duty here at home. How well Professor Shepard in the War version of "Neath the Elms" has voiced our message to our fellow College men in khaki:

"Give a cheer for the flag of Trinity!
Give a cheer for each star of Trinity!
Whatever betide,
They're the glory and pride
And the boast of our old Trinity.
Give a cheer for the men of Trinity!
For the soldier boys of dear old Trinity

Who are fighting our fight
For the truth and the right
In the name of our old Trinity."

And then that closing prayer:
"May they all be coming back to Trinity.

May we all meet again at Trinity.
When the war-drums are still
May we meet on the hill
Neath the elms of our old Trinity."

So my closing thought to you, undergraduate chaps, for the summer, is do something, do it thoroughly, patriotically, and come back to college in the fall with the view to fitting yourself in the work and studies of the next year for further and broader service you will have to do for your country in the three or four years of war ahead. Take your time, undergraduates, to fit yourself for that service. You can do it best by staying in college. There will be plenty of time and opportunity in the long years of war ahead of us for you, thus college prepared, to step into the place of some gold-starred Trinity man and then say to your country "Adsum."

Faithfully yours,

JOS. BUFFINGTON, '75.

I am deeply interested in the boys of the college solving the question of their remaining at the college. This war, in my judgment, is going to last several years. The fatalities and casualties among officers are going to be very large, and there will be a tremendous need later on for officers, and a chance for everybody who is able and desires to get into the service. It cannot be brought home too strongly to young men that their usefulness will be tremendously increased if they will put in a year or two at college while they have the opportunity, and thus mature, by this extra year or so of conscientious study, into men who are fitted to fill an officer's place. A young fellow going out of college now is very much handicapped in that respect. I wish I might be able to meet the boys and talk it over with them.
