T. C. Hudson, '14, Alumni Secretary.

Resignation of C. A. Johnson, '92,
Announced Yesterday.

UNION COMMITTEE MAY RUN COMMONS.

Scholarship Cup Goes from St.
Anthony Hall to Delta Phi.

At the regular meeting of the college body in the public speaking room yesterday morning, President Ogilby announced that Charles Amos Johnson, '92, had resigned as alumni secretary and had been succeeded by T. C. Hudson, '14. President Ogilby spoke warmly of the work which Mr. Johnson had done and also of the work which he hoped would be accomplished by the Alumni Council under Hudson. Both men were cheered. Hudson, who was present, spoke briefly on the college spirit which he hoped to call to the attention of the alumni.

President Ogilby decried the posting of notices on the chapel door and urged all undergraduates to feel free to make suggestions to the union committee. He announced that there was a possibility of the union committee taking over the college commons, and expressed himself as confident that Trinity undergraduates could prove themselves capable of running their own commons.

The scholarship cup of the Hartford alumni was awarded to Delta Phi. Creamer, '21, of St. Anthony Hall, the holder of the cup for last year, drank of the cider with which the cup was filled and said, "Behold St. Anthony Hall drinking from the cup of knowledge for the last time. We bow to a superior intellect. Sigma Chapter of Delta Phi, we salute you." Tilton, '20, received the cup for Delta Phi.

Cross Country.

The cross country team again met defeat at the hands of Springfield Y. M. C. A. College, 19 to 36, on Saturday. Captain Hungerford ran his usual beautiful race for Trinity, finishing second. Peabody of Springfield won first place, covering the course in a little more than twenty-seven minutes. The men finished in the following order: Peabody (S), Hungerford (T), Robbins (S), Stacy (S), Offer (S), Ellinwood (S), Buckley (T), Bradley (T), Hallberg (T), Clapp (T).

'17—Mrs. Richard Barthlemess (Mary Hay) has been engaged by Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., for a part in "Sally in Our Alley", to be produced soon.

Charles Amos Johnson, '92, whose resignation was announced yesterday morning by President Ogilby, was the first regular alumni secretary of the college. He was appointed by the Board of Fellows in 1917 and assumed office on October 15 of that year. The present activity of the alumni all over the country is largely due to his untiring work, which included traveling to the various cities where there are a considerable number of Trinity graduates and instilling them with the "pep" that was prevalent on the campus itself. The tremendous task of keeping in touch with the Trinity men who went into service during the war was ably handled by Mr. Johnson, and the men who were overseas will never forget their feelings when they received THE TRIPOD and Christmas cards, the only college men in the A. E. F. to receive such remembrances from an alma mater through its alumni secretary.

Mr. Johnson was born in Norwich, Conn., and is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy of that place. In college he was a member of "The Tablet" staff, and is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternities. In addition to the duties which belong strictly to the alumni secretary, he was treasurer of THE TRIPOD corporation, graduate manager of athletics, and a member of the advisory committee on undergraduate activities.

Trinity Eleven Loses Two.

BLUE AND GOLD FALLS BEFORE NEW YORK UNIVERSITY AND SPRINGFIELD COLLEGE—BLEECKER STARS IN BOTH CONTESTS—BOTH GAMES CLOSE.

Springfield College, which had, the previous week held the Boston College eleven to a 12 to 0 score, proved too much for Trinity in the second home game of the season on Saturday, winning 35 to 0. The game was really much closer than the score would indicate, for Springfield was held to a single touchdown in each of the first two periods and went scoreless in the third period, only to put over three scores in the last period.

The Trinity team, playing before its own supporters for the first time in over a month, put up a superb fight against a team which outweighed it heavily. Springfield, in addition, got most of the breaks, but the Trinity team put up a battle, the gameness of which won the admiration of its opponents and sent its own cheering section into paroxysms of emotion. Perhaps the greatest stand of the Trinity team was in the very

Trinity made a strong bid for victory in the annual election day battle with New York University, but was forced to take the short end of a 31 to 20 score. The old story of weakness in the line was responsible for New York's score. Only in the third period did the Violet attack find a first line of defense which was impregnable against assault. In this session the game was all Trinity. They held the ball almost the entire period and pushed across two touchdowns, bringing the score to 25 to 20, but, with another score and victory in sight the line weakened and allowed another New York touchdown. Ryan, N. Y. U.'s plunging back, was chiefly responsible for this, as he was for the other scores. He tore gaping holes through guard and tackle for long gains, and interspersed his running plays with a few long forward passes.

The first period found the Violet

MR. JOHNSON.

It is with regret that we hear of the resignation of Trinity's first Alumni Secretary, C. A. Johnson, '92. For several years, as Alumni Secretary, he has been graduate treasurer and an active member of THE TRIPOD corporation. He will be missed on the campus, and especially by THE TRIPOD.

"HUD."

One of the best known of the Trinity alumni has returned to the college campus again. "Ted" Hudson needs no introduction to the undergraduates. We feel sure that he will prove as efficient as our Alumni Secretary as he was efficient on the football field several years ago. We congratulate Mr. Hudson—but above all we congratulate the college on being able to secure his services. Without a doubt he can assist us materially, and can count on the loyal support of the entire college and alumni bodies in his work.

JESTERS.

In conjunction with the inauguration exercises, the Jesters are to give a performance and dance. This will be Trinity's first social event of the season, and deserves the support of every undergraduate. Persuade the alumni to be present on the evening of the sixteenth, be present yourself, and bring your friends.

FOOTBALL.

Elsewhere in this issue is printed a letter from Howard Hill, '15. Every Trinity man should read it. The letter seems to state the football situation clearly. It is true that we may not have done as well this year as had been expected. However, no one can deny that we have done our best under the existing circumstances. Perhaps the difficulties mentioned in Mr. Hill's letter could be eliminated if Trinity required every undergraduate to be in college for one year before playing. The consequent formation of a freshman eleven, would help a great deal in supplying the first team with suitable material.

AN HONORARY DEGREE FOR SENATOR BRANDEGEE.

Bierck, '17, Suggests that Trinity Honor Senior Connecticut Senator.

To the editor of THE TRIPOD:

The refreshing majorities given by the undergraduates to Harding and Brandegee in THE TRIPOD'S straw vote were as significant as the action of those faculty members who refused to sign the statement opposing Brandegee. I hope the campus realizes how immensely many of the alumni rejoiced over this significance; and, as an alumnus who votes in Connecticut, I want to propose that at Commencement next June Senator Brandegee be given an honorary degree.

Some faculty members, of course, signed the anti-Brandegee statement because they were life-long democrats. But others signed it because they belonged to a cult which might ultimately have proved a national danger had the result of the election not consigned it to eternal oblivion. Ever since March 4, 1913, but especially during the past two years, there has been developing all over the land a coterie which has made the term "intellectual" one of reproach and which has compelled sane men who were graduated from college during that period to declare, in self-defense, that they did not tolerate the doctrines expounded by certain professors.

Like most other colleges, Trinity is afflicted with a portion of this cult. But it has also on its faculty men who, by their support of the issues for which Harding and Brandegee stood, proved they were a part of that smashing nation-wide majority which on election day ordered that theorists in high places must go.

In his Toledo speech, Mr. Cox, now of Trail's End, in more than one sense, said: "I have always had faith in the good judgment and patriotism of the American people." He did not misplace his faith. And a good many Trinity alumni whom I could mention have had faith that the majority of the undergraduates could not be influenced by those who, among other things, are more interested in mandates for Armenia than in the sanctity of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. The undergraduates, by the majorities they gave Harding and Brandegee, proved that this faith was likewise not misplaced.

Trinity gave honorary degrees to men like Theodore Roosevelt and General Edwards because they stood for and fought for unimpaired American nationalism. Senator Brandegee, in a different sphere, fought and won the same fight. And he is, furthermore, a son of Connecticut. That other New England institutions will give him honorary degrees next June is certain. Can Trinity afford to show itself less appreciative?

GET BEHIND LAMBERTON.

Howard Hill, '15, Urges Support for the Team and the Coach.

To the editor of THE TRIPOD:

The alumni who have been unable to see the football team either practice or play a game are perhaps wondering exactly what is the matter with Trinity. To forestall any harsh criticism, a review of the situation by one who has seen several games and watched the team practice may be helpful.

Trinity started this year on a new basis from athletic standpoint as well as a collegiate standpoint. This can readily be seen from the fact that, for the first time in the history of the college, the coach has had as many as three teams on the field at one time. In previous years, to be able to put eleven men against the first team has been considered good. It is reported that at times there have been fifty men in uniform on the field in one afternoon.

For the last two or three years, the coaching situation has been far from satisfactory. This year, "Red" Lambertson, Princeton star end, was secured after much effort. Not since the day of Professor Gettell has there been a coach more respected than Lambertson. He has the characteristics of a leader and a worker. He is not a stiff-collar coach, but one who daily is out in togs working in scrimmages and showing each man how to play his position. Valuable help has been given him by our President, Mr. Ogilby, who likewise has scrimmaged against the 'varsity. Woolley, Hudson and Breslin have aided Lambertson to no little extent. Thus it is readily seen that a splendid and united attempt is being made to recreate Trinity football traditions.

In reviewing our season to date, the important thing to look at is the fact that the coaches have had to form an entirely new team—no nucleus was left from last year around which to build—three men only, and their training and coaching was nil. It was a giant task before Lambertson, but he went to the task with firm purpose. The result is practically a freshmen team and substitutes, many of which were stars individually, but who knew little of team play or collegiate tactics. These points as well as others had to be instilled into them.

With these facts in our minds, and looking the situation straight in the face, we can say to Lambertson and his aides: "Go to it—with time, you are bound to succeed." Bear with this coach who is so bound up in his work that he eats and sleeps Trinity. No man could have done better with his start. Clean athletics and clean living for athletes are his watch words. With his start this year, he can look forward next year to reaping a harvest.

Get behind him—he is the type of coach Trinity wants and needs.

AMERICAN ISOLATION AT AN END.
G. B. Armstead Tells Political Science Club of Conditions in Near East.

Emphasizing the fact that the American public must be made to realize our long cherished national isolation is at an end, that whether we like it or not we are in the crucible of world politics, George B. Armstead, Sunday editor of "The Hartford Courant", spoke to the Political Science Club of Trinity tonight, paying special attention to developments in Egypt and Palestine as they have and will affect the world. "College men of today", he said, "will be the leaders of public thought and the statesmen of tomorrow, therefore it is fortunate that such clubs as this at Trinity are showing keen interest in political developments and tendencies in all countries. The day is past when Americans can become absorbed in state rights, tariff, industrial relationships, and manifold other internal problems to the almost total exclusion of international affairs. Our people, our Washington politicians, must think internationally. Unless they do we jeopardize our peace, our influence for progress in the world, and our security."

Mr. Armstead told of the unrest in Egypt, which was caused by the wide dissemination there of the idea of popular control of all government, and resulted in the securing of a practical independence. He described the situation which developed in Palestine after the armistice, led to the murderous Easter Day riots, and resulted in the establishment of Zionism, and then spoke hopefully of the future of the Holy Land, politically and economically.

N. Y. U. GAME.

backs pounding away at guard and tackle for two touchdowns early in the quarter. The Trinity secondary defence did yeoman work in stopping the holes in the line, but could not reach them in time to prevent a succession of first downs. Three times the ball reached the ten-yard line on a first down and twice was pushed over. The third occasion gave Bolles, who has played a sterling game all season, a chance to make the most sensational play of the game. Ryan tore off twelve yards outside tackle and fumbled as he was tackled. Bolles was through like a shot, picked up the ball and, with a perfect cordon of interferers raced ninety yards for the Blue and Gold's first touchdown.

This score put life into the entire team and for the remainder of the first half the play was more even. Late in the second period the Gothamites pushed across another touchdown on straight line bucking bringing the half-time score to 19 to 6. New York's greatest weakness lay in kicking goals after touchdowns, only one of five attempts being successful.

The third quarter found the Blue and Gold eleven fighting the uphill battle which is traditional of Trinity teams. This period was all Trinity. Quarterback Brennan unleashed a series of short forward passes which had the New York defence completely mystified. Bleecker, who played the hard, sensational game which has come to be expected from him, was on the hurling end and Nordlund, who shares honors with him, was on the receiving end of most of them. Early in the period Nordlund received a pass on Trinity's forty-four yard line, dodged three would-be tacklers and planted the ball behind New York's goal line.

SPRINGFIELD GAME.

first part of the third period. Springfield had received Johnson's perfect kick off, and after an end run had netted them about five yards, worked a forward pass for a total of sixty yards, Waters, the end, being downed by Bleecker on the Trinity five-yard line. The Blue and Gold team had every reason in the world to be disheartened, especially when Civiletto, the plunging fullback of Springfield, went through for two yards on the first play. With the same spirit that some of the Trinity forwards had seen in France when the French held Verdun, the Blue and Gold line stiffened and took the ball away from Springfield on downs.

Then came the Trinity offensive. Springfield had lost the ball when a desperately-hurled forward pass had been grounded over the Trinity goal line, and the home team put the ball into play on its own twenty-yard line. Things began to happen. Bleecker, who had brought the Trinity stand to its feet time and again through the game with brilliant runs, won more laurels. When the Springfield ends went out to stop end runs Bleecker crossed them up by hurling a forward pass, usually to Nordlund. The result was that, with the red-gerseyed team vainly striving to fathom the place the ball was going next, the Trinity team rushed Springfield off its feet and carried the ball to the Springfield thirty-yard line where it went to the visitors on downs.

Both teams broke through for the rest of the game with an occasional spectacular play, including another sixty-yard forward pass by Springfield, but it looked as if the last period would be a drawn battle. Then Springfield began to get the breaks of the game. Civiletto recovered a fumble and a few line plunges and a long forward pass scored for Springfield. Trinity continued to play the same brand of football which had threatened Springfield in the early part of the game when a Springfield man broke through and blocked a punt which was recovered by Springfield. A long run, aided by fine interference, gave Springfield another touchdown. The final score came as the result of an intercepted forward pass.

Bleecker was the outstanding star of the game beyond all question, but his brilliant runs were made possible by the team work of the other ten men. The Trinity interference was far superior to that of Springfield. Trinity's linemen, especially Wallen and Nordlund, broke through and smeared Springfield's backs for losses time and again. Nordlund on the receiving end of forward passes accounted for a lot of Trinity's ground, especially in the third quarter. Bolles played his usual consistent game at line plunging although he had a veritable mountain of flesh to buck up against in the Springfield line. Brill, back at center showed some of the best passing that has been seen in a Trinity game this year, and then in the last part of the game alternating with Kelly in the backfield, showed that he was not entirely without ability as a rush.
