$50,000 LEFT TO TRINITY

Trinity College receives $50,000 to be used for the establishment of an E. C. Converse scholarship fund from the estate of the late Edmund C. Converse of New York, who died on April 5, according to his will which was filed for probate in New York Tuesday. The bequests in the will amounted to nearly $2,000,000, of which about $400,000 went to Connecticut hospitals and churches; Trinity, however, is the only one of the Connecticut colleges to receive a bequest.

Amherst gets $200,000 for the upkeep and development of the Converse Memorial Library, Harvard gets Gainborough's picture of Count Rumford and the following ten colleges get $50,000 each for the establishment of scholarships: Trinity, Amherst, Bowdoin, Dartmouth, Leland Stanford, Jr., Oberlin, Smith, Tuskegee, Wells, and Williams.

Edmund Cogswell Converse was born at Boston, Mass., November 7, 1849, the son of James C. and Sarah Ann Cogswell. He was educated at the Boston Latin School. In 1879 he married Jessie Macdonough Green of New York, who died, and in 1914 he married Mary Edith Dunshee of the same city.

Mr. Cogswell was on the board of directors of many banks and companies and was also a member of many clubs, especially in New York. He resided in Greenwich, Conn., and had offices on Wall Street, New York.

AMHERST NEXT.

Baseball Team's Opponents Hard Hit By Studies.

The Trinity baseball team will play its second game of the season Saturday at Amherst against the Amherst College team. It will be the first game for the sons of Lord Jeff, and Trinity should have a fairly easy time in winning.

Amherst omitted its southern trip this year, and kept a squad of thirty men at college during the Easter vacation for practice. Shortly after the close of the recess, twenty-five members of the 'varsity squad, including the catchers and short stops, were declared ineligible by the faculty and Amherst is now engaged in strenuous efforts to piece together a new team.

K. D. T. to Meet.

Dean Fosbrooke of the General Theological Seminary in New York, will meet the members of the K. D. T. Club on Thursday, April 21, and will speak in chapel Friday morning.

FRESHMEN PLAYERS STAR IN OPENING GAME.

Holy Cross Takes First Game of Season, 14 to 0—J. Ortgies On Mound for Trinity.

From the point of view of the actual score, Trinity's first game of the season, was a failure. Taking into consideration the fact that the Trinity team went into the contest without as much as a practice game, and was pitted against a team with an unbroken string of victories during a three weeks' trip through the south, the Blue and Gold team made a good showing.

Trinity was stage struck during the early innings, and it was not until the game was nearly over that it began to find itself. Jones, behind the bat, was handicapped by an injured hand which prevented him doing any throwing, and also interfered somewhat with his catching. Ortgies on the mound, pitched a masterly game, Holy Cross earning only four of its twelve runs.

The cheering feature of the game was the playing of the new men. The third man up in the first inning found one of Ortgies' shoots and lifted a long high fly to left field, guarded by Sutcliffe, a freshman, playing his first game of college baseball. He might easily have been excused if he had missed the ball, but he gathered it in with the "sang froid" of a major leaguer, strengthening the morale of the team. Hall in center field, Bolles on third. Jones behind the bat, all freshmen, and Howard Ortgies on second, a junior playing his first game of college baseball, all played good ball.

First Inning.

Dugan walked and went to second on Doherty's sacrifice bunt. Gagnon flied out to Sutcliffe, Dugan going to third, on the fly and scoring on a passed ball. O'Connor doubled and scored when Ortgies made a wild throw to first trying to retire Santoro, the latter going to third and scoring on a passed ball. Riopel walked, but was caught napping and

H. D. DREW MADE HEAD COACH

Assistant Physical Director to Take Charge of Teams.

TRUSTEES MUST RATIFY.

Appointee has Coached Basketball,
Cross Country and Track Teams
Here.

The athletic council at a meeting last Wednesday appointed Harold D. Drew, now assistant director of physical training, head coach of football, basketball and track. The appointment is subject to the ratification of the trustees at their meeting on April 30.

The appointment of one man for general supervision of athletics marks a radical change in the athletic policy of Trinity, which has heretofore prescribed a separate and independent coach for each sport. Drew has coached the basketball team through last season, and is now coach of the track team. He succeeds Henry F. Lamberton as football coach. Drew supervised the cross country team last fall, and this will come under his work as track coach next year. Tennis has no coach, and golf, which has not been recognized by the athletic association, will probably continue next year without coaches.

All American Man.

Drew was graduated from Bates College in 1916 and was a member of both the football and track teams there. He captained the football team, and his record for the pole vault still stands at Bates. After graduating from Bates he attended Springfield College, winning a place on the football and track teams there. He was captain of the Springfield College football team during his last year, and made the longest run of the year against Harvard in the Harvard-Springfield game at Soldiers' Field. He was mentioned by Walter Camp for All-American football honors while at Springfield.

During the war, Drew served in the naval aviation, and was stationed at Pensacola and in the Canal Zone. He played on the post football teams at both places.

May Have Freshman Coach.

Due to the one-term rule, Drew will have to work with only the material in the three upper classes next fall. It has been suggested that a special coach be secured for the freshman team, so that the new men may get college football training, and Nelson Sharpe, now coach of the baseball team, who played quarterback on the Springfield team captained by Drew, has been mentioned for the position. There is also talk of hiring a line coach for next year, so that Drew may concentrate on the backfield candidates, and Woolley and Breslin, both former Trinity captains, have been mentioned for this post.

"BILL" DUFFY

OPENS SEASON.

"Ladies 'n gentlemen! I wish to announce that Mr. Bill Duffy, World's Champion Long Service Janitor, who will complete fifty-one years as janitor at Trinity College this spring, will throw out the first ball." Thus, in stentorian tones, did Mr. "Wing" Murphy, well known Hartford member of that maligned breed umpires, announced the opening of Trinity's 1921 baseball season.

"Bill" had complained of a lame arm, and maintained that it was too early in the season to expect a veteran of his standing to be in form, but was finally prevailed upon to go to the mound.

Jones behind the bat crouched and gave his signal, "Bill" adjusted his hat, Dugan, lead off man for Holy Cross took a firmer hold on his bat and dug his spikes into the ground.

The veteran wound up and a white streak shot off the mound. The ball, a wicked drop, cut the inside corner of the plate, and had already nestled into the big mitt when Dugan took a vicious swing at it.

"Sturike one!" yelled Murphy, and the season had started.

PRESIDENT'S SON TO BE BAPTIZED IN CHAPEL.

President Ogilby's son will be baptized Peter Brinckerhoff Ogilby for his great grandfather. The ceremony will be performed in the college chapel, although the date and the clergyman have not yet been selected. He is the first child to have been born in the president's house, and it is believed that he will be the first child to be baptized in the college chapel.

SOPHOMORE SMOKER.

Are you going to help make the Sophomore Smoker a success? Can you do anything which will contribute to the entertainment? The plans call for several individual "stunts." If you can play any sort of instrument, if you can sing or can give a monologue, if two or three of you can work up a sketch of any sort, report to the committee at once. They will appreciate your help; you will be helping the college.

SUPPORT.

Cheering, at the Holy Cross game, was conspicuous by its absence. We must not allow such a condition to occur again. There is no reason why the majority of the college body cannot attend the home games, at least. There is no reason why those who do attend cannot get together in the cheering section. The team needs our support. We must be with them every minute if they are to do their best. We must let them know that we are with them. Let's all be on hand for the next game, and let's all make a loud noise.

WHERE IS IT?

Often the question of the whereabouts of the historic "Lemon Squeezer" has been raised. No one seems to be at all sure of its present keeper or of its place of hiding. The famous story of its disappearance is known to most Trinity men. The story of its reappearance in 1915 is known to many. It would seem to be about time that the Squeezer visited the college again.

Most colleges have a "mystery" somewhere in their traditions. It is a good thing. It keeps interest alive, and promotes college spirit. The stories told by old grads always interest us. Perhaps the things remembered most vividly by the alumni, are those events which mean so little at the time of their occurrence, but which added together make up a wealth of tradition. Old customs should not be allowed to die.

How about it, '21? Why don't you try to locate the "Squeezer" for your Class Day? If by any chance it should appear then, it would make that day famous in Trinity's history.

"BILL."

No one who saw the Holy Cross game could help but be impressed by "Bill" Duffy's pitching of the first ball. He lacked neither control nor speed, and his form was excellent. We feel certain that it was due in part to "Bill's" influence as a bringer of luck that the team put up as good a fight as it did against its formidable opponents.

"Bill" has been with us fifty-one years. During that time he has served the college in the most faithful way. A man is as young as he feels, and the youngest freshman has nothing on "Bill." He is going to be with us for many more years, we wish for the sake of the college that it could be fifty more. However, should he desire to retire to private life at any time, we feel that the reward for his faithful services should be as fitting as it can be made. "Bill's" position has become an unique one—his reward should be equally unique. We suggest that, if he ever decides to leave us, he be elected Janitor Emeritus, at least, and we feel sure that it is the only position of its kind in the world—quite fitting for the only man of "Bill's" kind in the world.

ALL ON DECK!

Undergraduates! You can do much to add to the success of Trinity's "Centennial Fund." Talk of our needs. Show the people who may doubt it, that we need a gymnasium. Tell them of the handicaps under which we are now working. Talk about the campaign to everyone you meet. Take an interest in its progress. If you are optimistic, others will gain optimism from you. If you have enthusiasm, people will believe you. We are "selling" the college. You have seen the advertising slogan—"Ask the man who owns one!" Our slogan should be "Ask the man who has been there!" and when they ask you, TELL THEM. Make those who have not gone to Trinity wish they had done so. Make those who have gone to Trinity feel prouder about it than ever. Back up the campaign! Boost your college! Don't wait any longer. Do it now—and keep on doing it all the rest of your life.

TRAINING.

The value of strict training for all branches of athletics cannot be stressed too strongly. The members of all teams are chosen by reason of their abilities to represent the college to which all of us belong. They are duty bound to give of their best, not only for their own honor, but for the honor of the college. The victories they gain are not theirs only; they are Trinity's. They do not alone suffer defeat; Trinity loses with them. If a man, chosen to represent his college, places himself in a position in which

ALUMNI TO ADVISE

ON COLLEGE COURSES.

Upper Classmen Permitted to Attend Lectures Arranged for Freshmen.

In order that the class of 1924 may be able to more intelligently select courses for next year, and pick courses which will aid in preparation for future life work, President Ogilby has arranged to have a series of lectures during the college ethics period on Monday morning, having Trinity alumni tell the freshmen what to study. The first was given on April 11, when Dr. John H. Sweet, '10, spoke on the medical profession, and yesterday Robert P. Butler, '09, spoke on public service. The meeting next week will probably deal with business, but the speaker has not yet been selected. Higher classmen are permitted to attend the lectures.

"BOB" BUTLER, '05, TALKS

AT FRESHMAN MEETING.

Cites Journalism as one of Paths to Politics.

Journalism, hereditary wealth and law are the three points to politics, according to Robert P. Butler, '05, speaking before the freshman meeting yesterday morning. He spoke of politics as one of the most attractive of careers a man could embark upon, and declared that the feeling of accomplishment which came to a man who has worked for his country was far more satisfactory than mere monetary gain. For men intending to enter politics he urged the study of English, public speaking, history, philosophy and economics, and the mastery of one foreign language, preferably French or German.

TRINITY NEEDS $1,500,000.

Trinity College graduates residing in Hartford or in other parts of Connecticut showed great enthusiasm Monday evening at a dinner at the Hartford Club which served to launch a drive for a fund of a million and a half dollars. The enthusiasm was not translated into dollars and cents at that time, but it was plainly indicated that since the future of the college depended in no small way upon the raising of this large sum of money every Trinity man would be called upon to shoulder his part of the burden.

It is hardly necessary to comment upon the circumstances that have made it necessary that additional funds be put at the disposal of the college. Directly, or indirectly, practically all of us have had it brought home that what would keep things going a few years ago is not enough at the present time. Trinity has been right here in Hartford for nearly a hundred years. It has been a boast of the college, that, to an extent not usual with institutions of about the same size, the undergraduates have been drawn from all over the country. That is true, but it is also true that many Hartford boys have been educated there and they, frequently, have remained here together with no inconsiderable number of other graduates, and have taken a worthy part in the various activities that make the city what it is. They, like all other Trinity men, are heavily in debt to their Alma Mater and they, first of all, must rally round the college on the hill, and make sacrifices that it would not be fitting to expect of others.

Yet Hartford, which has always been ready to help when asked, can be counted upon to aid. The college is an asset to the city, and it is fair to look for assistance from many here who have no more direct and personal interest in the college than their pride in its long honorable record as a part of Hartford. They will be called upon and, without question, will help.

The college is not, as has frequently been stated, a church college. Its charter makes that plain. But it has, during its entire career, been closely associated with the Protestant Episcopal Church. Its first president was Bishop Brownell. Of its eleven other presidents only one has not been a priest of that church. Many of its graduates are bishops, fifteen at the present time, and hundreds of them are clergymen. The Episcopal Church will not be overlooked in the arrangements that have been made to raise the endowment fund and indications are not lacking that the response will be generous.

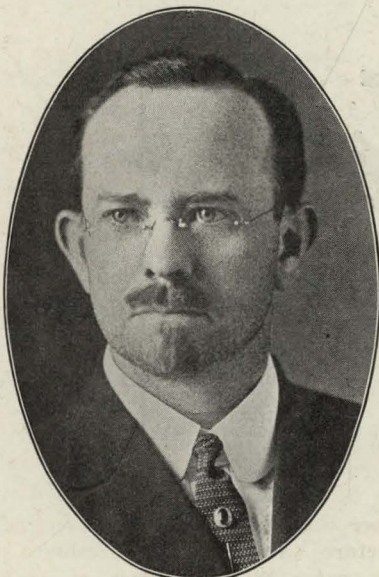

The need for the money is a real one. A big part of it, it has been announced, will be used to enable the college to pay its professors salaries sufficient to keep the teaching staff up to the standard that should be maintained. It is said that at the present time the average salary at Trinity is smaller than that in any other New England college. A part of the money to be raised will be spent for a new gymnasium, a thing

Premed. Course Directors

Dr. Horace Cheney Swan.

Professor Frederic Walton Carpenter.

Dr. Horace Cheney Swan received the degree of B. P. E. from the International Y. M. C. A. College, Springfield, M. D. from Tufts College Medical School in 1903 and later attended the graduate school of Harvard Medical Department and M. I. T. Harvard School of Public Health Officers. From 1903 to 1905 he was instructor of histology in the Harvard School of Physical Education. During the same period he was director of physical education at Wesleyan. Since 1905 he has been medical director at Trinity. He is a member of the Hartford Medical Association, the Connecticut Medical Association, a Fellow of the American Medical Association, a member of the Society of Directors of Physical Education in Colleges, the American Physical Education Society, the American Health Association, the Connecticut Public Health Association, and a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is a member of Phi Theta Chi.

Dr. John Henry Sweet, Jr., '10, of Hartford, in a lecture given before the undergraduate body on Monday, April 11, on "The Medical Profession", said: "Trinity College has offered in the past a premedical education which I think is second to none. I know that she will continue to do so."

Trinity graduates who attend medical schools feel that they are as well if not better prepared to do medical work, than graduates of other col-

Professor Frederic Walton Carpenter studied at New York University and received the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1899. In 1902 he received the degree of A. M. from Harvard and in 1904 he received the degree of Ph. D. from the same institution. He studied also at the Universities of Berlin and Munich. From 1904 to 1913 he was instructor, associate and assistant professor of Zoology at the University of Illinois. He was director of the Bermuda biological station for research during the summer of 1909. He is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a member of the American Society of Zoologists, American Association of Anatomists, and a member of the editorial board of "Folia Neuro-Biologica," Amsterdam, and has written various papers on zoological subjects. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, and Zeta Psi Fraternities.

leges. Dr. Carpenter recently received a letter from a Trinity graduate who is now studying at Johns Hopkins, telling of a conversation he had with one of the professors there, in which the professor had told him that Johns Hopkins was always more than satisfied with the ability of the men sent there by Trinity. Another Trinity man who has shown his caliber is Ernest Joseph Caulfield, '16, of Hartford. He entered Johns Hopkins University and received his degree in June, 1920. He was offered a position at the university and he accepted. At present he is instructor in physiology in the School of Public Health at Johns Hopkins, and is also doing research work under Professor Howell. He has been reappointed and will in all probability hold the place next year.

Dr. Sweet has compiled a few statistics which are interesting. Fifty-six men who graduated from Trinity between 1854 and 1910 have entered the medical profession. Twenty-nine of these hold honorary degrees, six are regular professors, three are instructors, one is the editor and author of medical works, and one head of the cancer commission of Pennsylvania. The majority of the rest of these men are on the staff of some good hospital.

Four Year Premedical.

Dr. Sweet thinks that a man intending to study medicine should stay in college four years and get a degree instead of trying to enter a medical school with only two years' preparation, and that while in college a student should take four courses in Biology; three courses in Chemistry which should be general chemistry, qualitative analysis, and organic chemistry; two courses in mathematics; one laboratory course in Physics; and as many courses in French and German as is possible. In picking his other courses a student should include History, Philosophy and Psychology, Geology, and Economics.

To the premedical student the most important of the courses named above are, naturally, the courses which treat with subjects which are closely related with the human body; namely, the courses in Biology and Physiology and Hygiene. These subjects are given by Professor Frederic Walton Carpenter, Ph. D., and Dr. Horace Cheney Swan, M. D. The course in General Biology, Biology I as it is called, is a study of the gross and microscopical anatomy of the fundamental structures of animals and plants, of the physiology of their organs, and of their relations to one another and to man. It includes a systematic survey of the animal and plant kingdoms, and an introduction to the theory of organic evolution and to other generalizations of biological science. Biology 2 consists of Vertebrate Zoology, which is a study of the comparative anatomy of vertebrates, and Invertebrate Zoology, which is a study of the classification, morphology, physiology, and life histories of selected types of invertebrate animals, including forms of interest from the point of view of premedical education. Biology 3 is a course in Microscopical Technique and Elementary Embryology and Vertebrate Embryology. The standard methods of fixation, embedding, section cutting, staining, and mounting are taken up and exercises in micrometry and determination of magnification are given. Students prepare embryological material and study the early stages of development. Vertebrate Embryology takes up the study of the development of the organs of the vertebrate body. The above courses are given by Professor Carpenter.

Dr. Swan has charge of the classes in Biology 4 and Physiology and Hygiene. Biology 4 is Elementary and Applied Microbiology. Elementary Microbiology deals with the morphology, culture, and physiology of micro-organisms, including bacteria, yeasts, moulds, and Protozoa. Applied Microbiology is a study of micro-organisms of economic importance, with a consideration of those found in the air, water, soil, milk, and the diseases of animals and man. Physiology and Hygiene 1, Elementary Physiology, is an elementary study of the human body, with especial consideration of its hygiene. Biology 4 has been accepted by Yale Medical School as its equivalent in elementary bacteriology. The department of Biology is equipped with printed and special hand-painted charts which help the student in his study, and with prepared microscopic slides such as those showing cross sections of the frog's stomach and sciatic nerve. These facilities are unusual in a college the size of Trinity.
