HEAD COACH DREW

Coach Harold D. Drew, a graduate of Bates College and Springfield College, and a brilliant athlete at both institutions. He captained the football teams at both Bates and Springfield and coached the Trinity 'varsity last fall. He is coach of track and basketball, as well as football at Trinity and is assistant in physical training.

VETERAN CARETAKER

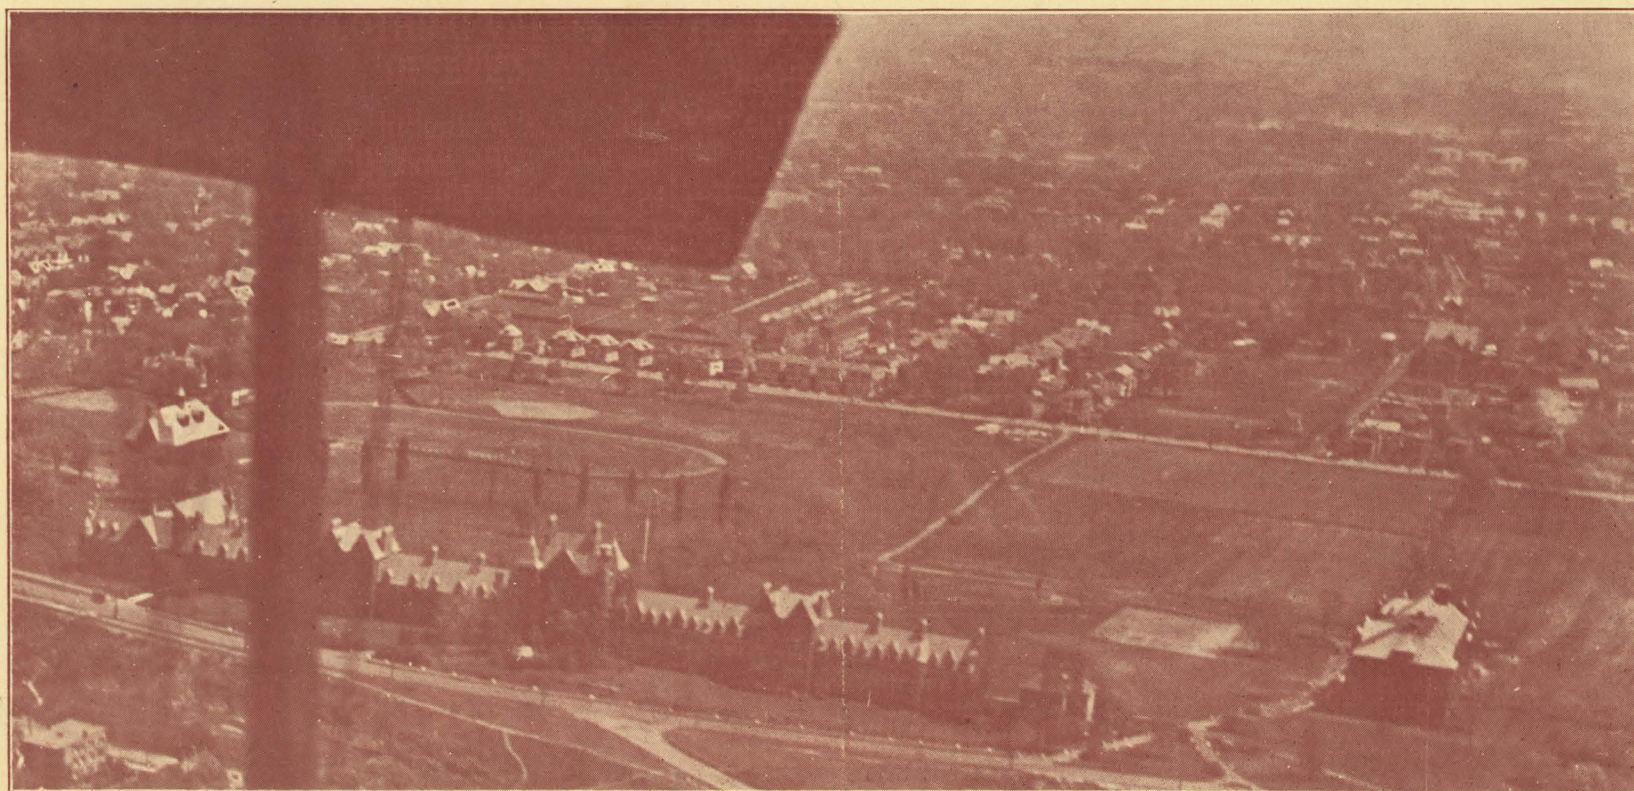

"Bill" Duffy, for over fifty-one years a janitor at Trinity, has not been disputed so far in his claim to be the World's Champion Long Service Janitor. He will have been connected with Trinity for fifty-two years in May. The college remembered him in a substantial manner last November on his seventieth birthday.

JUNIOR WEEK.

Regularly, just as fast as a Trinity undergraduate gets a respite from classes during the Christmas holidays, makes New Year's resolutions on January 1 and breaks them on January 2, and worries over mid-years during the last two weeks of January—just as regularly as these things occur, there comes into the life of the college one week-end that is a very "large" one and is marked on the undergraduate memorandum sheet as "Junior Week."

How the alumnus of the class of 'umpty umph looks on Junior Week we don't know. Just what complexes it arouses in the grey matter of the "grind" we cannot say. To the normal undergraduate, however, Junior Week is a time of bliss. Exams are over, he has done his best and his fate is on the knees of the gods, or, to make the metaphor a little more exact, in the hands of the faculty. If he passed, he is all right and if he has failed to pass the petition writing can wait until classes start.

Then, best of all, Junior Week is one of the times when the campus does not have the appearance of a monastery courtyard. To quote the Bible on the evil of single blessedness would only awaken unhappy memories of "Bib Lit", so we will refrain from that, but the fact remains that the palm for the success of Junior Week, no matter how much credit may be the desert of the chairman and committee, goes to our guests. Without them, the party would be no party at all.

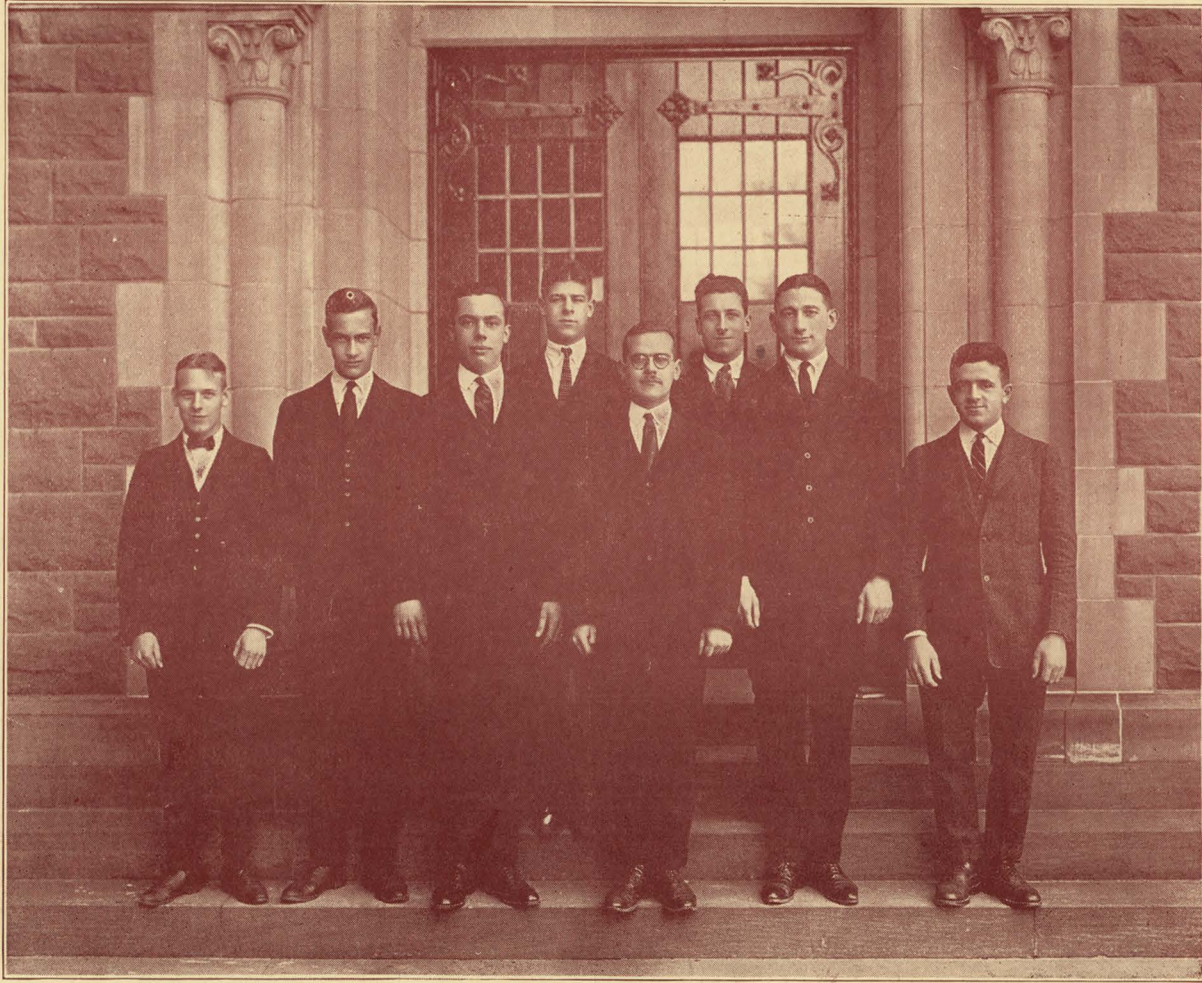

To the senior, Junior Week is one step nearer that time when,
"No more shall be meet
Our dear classmates to greet."

To the junior it is his great moment, the time when he really steps forward as a man of the campus. The sophomore is sure to find things that will be improved upon next year, for so the world moves, and the freshman—well, here are the anticipations of one freshman, contaminated a little bit by newspaper work, on the prom:

"As Junior Week draws near, the interests of the student body are naturally concentrated upon this important social period. The extensive preparations for the Prom itself by the enterprising chairman, C. H. Gesner, and his well chosen committee, are all excellent signs, that we are to have the most successful Junior Week in the history of the college.

"The music, furnished by Wittstein's best orchestra, which contain an assemblage of talented musicians unequalled in this section of the country, will burst forth at 9.30; the Grand March of course being the first number on the program. The dancing will continue until one o'clock, when, during the intermission, the couples will move to the gymnasium, where supper and entertainment will be provided, the entertainment taking the form of either local talent, or an act, probably taken from vaudeville.

"The decorations will be much more elaborate than has ever before been attempted. Lamps of various colors, and bunting, will disguise and beautify the ancient hall sufficiently to permit and stimulate conversation pertaining to the elegant splendor of the surroundings.

"The halls, provided with comfortable and spacious divans,—especially secured for the perpetual stag—will be appropriately furnished with all possible luxuries; and money, time, and labor will not be considered in the development of the event."

Junior Week comes on us in a rush after the brain racking period of mid-years, our guests arrive to drive dull care away and we glide with them through a round of teas and dances until, in the cold grey light of Tuesday's dawn, Junior Week ends and we once more settle down to that very serious business of passing courses. All predictions are that Junior Week this year will be the best Trinity has ever had; may it turn out to be the best time that anyone has ever had here and may you, alumni, undergraduates and guests, enjoy yourselves to the full. On with the dance!

"TED" HUDSON, '14.

Theodore C. Hudson, Jr., '14, was appointed alumni secretary in the fall of 1920. He is secretary-treasurer of THE TRIPOD corporation and graduate manager of athletics as well as alumni secretary. While in college, "Hud" was one of the athletic stars and still holds track records besides making Walter Camp's All-American eleven.

Some of the young women voters are wondering if it is perfectly proper to scratch a strange man.

CHAPEL BELL

The chapel bell which was presented to Trinity College last spring by the masters of Saint Paul's School, Concord, N. H., is the first bell that has ever summoned students to chapel on the present site of the college, but there was a massive chapel bell at the old college, situated where the State Capitol now stands, which was presented to Cheshire Academy when the college moved to its present location. Since Trinity has had the chapel bell, it has become customary to ring it after athletic victories, it being so rung for the first time last May after Trinity defeated the University of Detroit in tennis in the first intersectional contest a Trinity team ever engaged in.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR HAS FINE RECORD

Dr. H. C. Swan, medical director of the college, has not missed a Trinity football game on Trinity Field in the seventeen years he has been at Trinity, although his attendance there is not a part of his duties. He has charge of the physical training department and is an exceptional gymnast. He is usually one of the referees in the contests between the "gym" teams of the big colleges. Dr. Swan, who teaches some of the biology courses, is another reason for the pre-eminence of Trinity's pre-medical courses.

The subtle something that makes your college different from any other, and dearer to you, than all the rest combined. In cigarettes, it's the signal success that makes so many college men of discrimination prefer Melachrino, the one cigarette sold the world over.

Remember that Melachrino is a master blend of the finest Turkish Tobaccos as originated by Miltiades Melachrino. Egyptian cigarettes are simply those that originated in Egypt. But the tobacco is what you want to know about—and if it's Melachrino—it's right
