

CENTENNIAL FUND MUST SPEED UP TO GET HALF MILLION

Committee Must Receive Sixty-two Thousand Dollars Between Now and Commencement.

CLASS OF 1887 REGISTERS AN ADVANCE OF TWENTY-
ONE PER CENT.—1913 JUMPS SIX PER CENT.
1914 AND 1915 STILL TIED.

Class of 1898 Almost Reaches Select Class, Having Raised its Percentage to Ninety-eight—Less than Half of Class has Subscribed.

The Centennial Fund Committee reports pledges amounting to $313,000 on hand. District chairmen and class canvassers have been sending in favorable reports, and it is hoped that the work between now and Commencement will speed up in order that the College may be sure of its "First Half-Million" before the end of June. The Committee asks especially that all Trinity men try to obtain gifts from their friends—although it is hoped that the greater part of the first third of the Fund will come from the Alumni themselves.

A corrected and revised list of the class standings follows:

PLAN FOR MASS ATHLETICS BEING INVESTIGATED

Resolution of Junior Class is Acted Upon by the Senate.

Following action taken by the Junior Class at a Junior Smoker, held at St. Anthony Hall Thursday, May 11, J. B. Cunningham, president of the college body, has appointed a committee to investigate a comprehensive plan for mass athletics, and to report some definite plan of action to the college body.

The appointment of the committee was suggested by the class in a resolution to the senate, with the further suggestion that the committee decide the proper channels through which the plan would go. The formal resolution was adopted at the close of the smoker, which was addressed by Mr. Nicholson, headmaster of Kingswood School, Professor Odell Shepard, and Professor Dadourian.

Mr. Nicholson, himself a graduate of Manchester College, Manchester, England, told the class of the daily life of a student in the English universities contrasting the individualism of thought and comprehensive education secured at such a college, with the more technical and machine-like course offered in American universities. He sketched a very interesting and vivid picture of an English college student's duties and pleasures.

Following Mr. Nicholson Professor Shepard opened what he called a subject in two parts. He took the first half of the subject and left the second to Professor Dadourian. He discussed the modern ideal of education in American colleges, bringing out the fact that men go out with special training in one subject, and little if any knowledge of general value. He also broached the subject of athletics, declaring that they had become specialized for a small group instead of providing sport for sport's sake. Professor Shepard said that sport was originally intended to be purely a pleasure, but that college athletics had become simply hard work, with victories as the one aim.

Professor Dadourian broached the definite plan which has been advanced by some students for a change in the athletic system, and for the es-

STUDENTS READ FRENCH PLAY

Romance Language Department
Commemorates Tricentennial of Moliere.

A French play by Moliere entitled "Le Medecin Malgre Lui" was presented in the Public Speaking Room last Thursday in commemoration of the tricentennial of Moliere.

Kneeland, '22, read a paper on the life and work of Moliere.

The cast of the play which was then read was:

Sganarelle,.....Deckelman, '24
Martine, his wife,.....Du Bois, '25
M. Robert, a neighbor,.....Sise, '25
Valere, .....Plumb, '22
Servant of Geronte
Lucas, .....Myers, '22
Servant of Geronte
Geronte, father of Lucinde,.....
.....Hawley, '25
Lucinde, heroine,.....Shannon, '25
Leandre, her lover,.....Graham, '22

The scene of the first act is laid in a forest. Sganarelle and his wife are in the midst of a violent family quarrel. Sganarelle in anger takes to his most forceful argument, a stick, but is interrupted in his argument by M. Robert. Both principals turn upon him in defense of each other and of the practice of wife beating. Robert leaves and Sganarelle goes off to chop wood. Martine left alone ponders revenge. While she is sitting there Lucas and Valere enter searching for a doctor to cure their master's daughter who has become speechless. Martine seeing a chance for revenge describes Sganarelle as the most marvelous physician in the world—but very eccentric and it is even necessary to beat him at times to persuade him to admit he is a medical man. Valere and Lucas go in search of him and find him, refreshing himself with the aid of a large bottle. He denies being a doctor and they beat him until he consents to be what they think him.

Act II is laid in Gerontes' house and Geronte is receiving the report of Valere and Lucas about the doctor. Sganarelle enters in physician's robes and indulges in quotations from Hippocrates. Lucinde enters and Sganarelle delivers a long lecture on her dumbness and his varieties of medicine, finally prescribing bread and wine.

All but Geronte and Sganarelle leave to begin the remedy, and Geronte pays Sganarelle for his services. Geronte leaves and Leandre enters and after some misunderstanding Sganarelle accepts a purse from him and learns that Lucinde's illness is feigned because she does not wish to marry a choice of her father's and that Leandre is the one whom she

At a meeting held last Thursday night the College Senate, sitting as a nominating committee, made the following nominations for the spring elections:

President of the Senate—Tenney, Gesner, Hartt, Webster, Ferguson.

Chairman of the Union Committee—Webster, Bowdidge, Celantano, Niese, Ferguson.

College Marshal—Tenney, Canner, Miller, Sinnott, Bowdidge.

Junior Member of the Discipline Committee—Morton, Eastman, Robinson, Terrill.

Secretary of the Athletic Association—F. S. Jones, Allen, Morton, O'Connor, Keating.

The above names will be on the ballot of the primaries, but any name may be added to this list by a petition to either the Secretary or the President of the Senate, provided that the petition has twenty or more endorsements.

A blank space will appear below the list of nominees for each office in the Primaries, so that any name may be voted on at this time. The three highest men on the primary vote will be picked for the Finals and will be the only men nominated for each office on the final vote.

The Primaries will take place on Tuesday, May 23, while the Finals will occur on Friday, May 26. The ballot box for both will be in the Union, and will be open from 9 o'clock in the morning to 5 o'clock in the afternoon on the two days mentioned.

ATHLETIC CONTESTS ARE PROPOSED

Interfraternity Council Suggests
Intramural Baseball League, Tennis, and Golf Tournaments.

At a recent meeting of the Interfraternity Council the subject of intramural baseball was discussed. Coach Stone proposed that the nine fraternities and the Neutral Body be divided into two leagues, as was done in the intramural basketball league last winter, and that a series of games be played before examinations start. The successful teams in each league would play a series of two out of three games between June 12 and 17, after examinations are over. Varsity men will be allowed to play, but they will not be allowed to pitch or to play their regular positions. In order to carry out the proposal there would be two games of seven innings each afternoon.

Plans were also suggested for further intramural athletic competition during the period before Commencement and immediately following examinations. It was proposed to have an intramural tennis tournament. The teams would be composed of two men, and two singles and two doubles matches would be played. A golf tournament and a bridge tournament were also suggested.

The election by each fraternity of new members of the Council for the year 1922-23 is to take place this week.

THE TRIPOD announces the following changes in the Auxiliary Board—elected: Applebaugh, Beers, Fleming, Peiker, and St. John; resigned: Bradley.

THE NEW BOARD.

With this issue of THE TRIPOD a new board takes up its duties. During the past year the size of the paper has been increased, bringing its usefulness up to the enlarged needs of the college, and the paper has certainly been made a "live" news sheet. For this great advancement, the retiring editor deserves the credit. Byrnes has made THE TRIPOD his major thought in college, and the wonderful improvement in the paper evidences his success. Although the members of the new board have not agreed in entirety with the editorial policy of the paper, the relations on the board have been very pleasant and profitable.

Question has been raised at various times concerning the make-up and responsibilities of the executive board. Therefore it has been thought wise to quote from the Articles of Organization of THE TRIPOD Board. Under the head of "Duties", the following sections appear:

"1. The editor-in-chief shall conduct the editorial page of the paper and shall direct the policy of the paper.

"2. The managing editor shall be in charge of the news in the paper. He shall act as assignment editor and shall have charge of the make-up of the paper.

"3. The advertising and circulation managers shall sell advertising space and copies, respectively, and shall co-operate on matters pertaining to the finances of the paper."

The new board takes up its duties, with a much easier road ahead than was the case last year. The paper has already been built up, so that all that remains is to keep the high standard of news already set. As can readily be seen from the duties quoted above, the editorial policy of the paper is in constant danger of becoming a one-man affair, instead of the sentiment of the college body. Therefore the new editor will greatly appreciate the ideas of any men in college on questions concerning the college. However, since he is entirely responsible for the editorial policy of the paper, he must reserve the right to disagree with any such ideas, if he is convinced that they will not work for the best interests of Trinity. That shall be the constant aim of the present TRIPOD board.

The columns of the editorial page are open at all times to signed contributions by undergraduates, alumni, and friends of the college, pertaining to matters of interest to Trinity. Such contributions are not only welcomed, but are solicited. THE TRIPOD assumes no responsibility for such contributions, and reserves the right to criticize sentiments expressed therein, adversely, if the editor feels that they are not for the best interests of Trinity.

In conjunction with the other papers associated in the Eastern Intercollegiate Newspaper Association, THE TRIPOD will combat any undue stress laid upon intercollegiate athletics, although the editor feels that, at the present time, no such disproportionate balance exists at Trinity.

A fixed editorial policy of the new board will be the consummation of some plan by which the entire college body will participate in the various undergraduate activities, instead of the present condition of affairs, when about half of the student body is never seen on the campus, except during the hours for classes.

In order to make the paper of more direct interest to alumni the board solicits news notes of Trinity men. The only way alumni notes can be secured is from the alumni themselves. Since THE TRIPOD serves both as an undergraduate paper and an alumni paper, Trinity men, the world over, should have some direct interest in its news columns, other than merely following the activities of the present college body. This can be done with graduates' aid.

TO THE ALUMNI.

Have we done our full share in the work of the Centennial Fund? We must raise $375,000 before the end of June—that means $60,000 more in a little over one month. We can't afford to "wait a few days" before getting to work. We can't afford to "let someone else do it." Perhaps we, ourselves, have made generous subscriptions, and consider that we have thus discharged our debt in full. We sit back with a sigh of relief and count on the committees—certain that help will come, at the last moment, from some deus ex machina.

Now, I have had several talks with Trinity grads. in the past few weeks. Some of them, I am sorry to say, have decided that they have done handsomely by the college. They have given their gifts, and are patiently waiting for 1923 to come; when they may join the parade and celebrate Trinity's good fortune and gloat over the victory which they have helped to achieve. The others—and such a small, but faithful, band they are!—the others are not saying much. They are working. They are writing their classmates. They are calling on their friends. They are raising money. They are fighting for their college—and they are making Trinity's future safe. Since their undergraduate days, Trinity has known she can count on these faithful sons. I am afraid that you and I know it too, and that we are letting them bear our burdens as well as their own—feeling sure that they will eventually bring the Fund to a successful conclusion.

Well, there are a few more weeks left, in which we must raise about $60,000. I don't know what you—who are reading this—are going to do, but I am going to go out, this afternoon, and do my share in raising it. I'm going to "hold up" every friend I can find—especially those who have been taking my money for their colleges during the past few years. I may get only $50, but if you, and you, and YOU, and all the rest of us did that, we'd have our first half-million, and the committee and the "faithful few" would have a good night's sleep or two.

Yours for Trinity,
Alumnus-in-whom-a-sense-of-responsibility-has-been-aroused-at-last.

WEBSTER, '10, WRITES OF MEDICAL WORK IN CHINA.

Letter from Peking Union Medical College Tells of Work in Surgery.

The following letter from Webster, '10, a member of the surgical staff of the Peking Union Medical College, Peking, China, contains interesting information of the steady advancement of American medical work in the Far East, and shows Trinity at work "in the ends of the earth."

April 9, 1922.

My dear Hud:

I have been intending to write to you for some time to explain why your letter addressed to me in Baltimore and sent about Christmas time didn't receive any reply. I left the States last August to come out here so I couldn't very well get up a meeting of the Baltimore alumni for you. No doubt, while you were in Washington, you heard from Jim Henderson that I had left Baltimore, and hope you were able to fix up a meeting all right.

So far I haven't met a Trinity man out here, but was greatly disappointed to learn that Judge Buffington was here last fall and even looked over our hospital without my having a chance to talk with him. He is such a corker that I hated to have missed him, particularly 'way out here. Last Sunday I met Mrs. Patty Clark, Dr. Paul Waterman's sister, and it was a great treat to talk over our mutual Trinity and Hartford friends.

What a pity the college had to suffer from a pyromaniac! It has been hard enough going without anything of that sort, but I trust that a new phoenix will rise from the flames and that in the end it will prove to be a blessing. It certainly worked out that way with the great fire in Baltimore, and I hope it will now at Trinity.

I am enclosing a check for thirteen dollars ($13) of which ten is to go towards my contribution for the new fence about the athletic field, and three for my subscription to THE TRIPOD. Will you be good enough to see that the Circulation Manager gets the last?

The seven months out here have proved to be most interesting and instructive. The hospital is the finest I have seen anywhere in the States, or in Europe, the foreigners on the staff are almost invariably of very high calibre, most enthusiastic about their work and very congenial. One finds unusual and very aggravated cases to work with, for it will be a long time before the people are educated to seek medical attention early. The field for work has hardly been scratched, but our reputation is gradually spreading and, even now, it is not uncommon to have patients come from places twelve hundred miles away and I removed a gall bladder from a woman who came all the way from India for treatment.

Peking itself is the finest, cleanest and most interesting city in China and many have said it is the most interesting city in the world. One is able to get a wonderful variety of entertainment, ranging from jazz dancing on the roof-garden of the very modern Hotel de Pekin to a "devil dance" at the Lama Temple. Our auditorium at the P. U. M. C. is continually used for movies, plays, organ and piano recitals, lectures, dances and church services. There is a little chapel at the British Legation that reminds me very much of the little church the old Kaiser built for his English wife and where I once read the lessons when I was in the Berlin Embassy. Perhaps it is more the service of the Church of England, with its prayers for the King and the Royal Family, that makes the resemblance so strong.

There are any number of interesting places to go for a week-end trip near Peking. You usually pick out some old temple in the Western Hills that was standing before Peking was a city, pack up your bedding roll, cot, and food, take along your No. 1 boy, ride on an open freight car for about an hour and cross the mountain range with a string of about twice as many donkeys and boys as you have in your party. The priests at the temple give you a courtyard all to yourself and your boy provides you with a five-course dinner that a Maine guide couldn't touch. That is rather camping de luxe, but it is most enjoyable.

The people here are intensely interesting. They are so simple and yet so sagacious, so filthy and yet so fond of luxury and show. It is such a pleasure to take a youngster whose skin hasn't seen water since the last rainy season and who is accustomed to a hard master, long working hours and a scarcity of food, and see the transformation after he has been put through the baths and disinfection process, placed between white sheets on an eighty-dollar hair mattress in an immaculate sunlit ward, fed three full meals a day and won over from his shyness, reserve and distrust by kind and affectionate treatment. They are most appreciative of what you do for them, and you are amply repaid for the time spent with them by hearing them calling for you when you come on the ward, and seeing them smile.

Please give my best regards to all my Trinity and Hartford friends and with best wishes for the success of your work, I am establishment of a comprehensive, compulsory course in the history of civilization, approaching the subject from all sides, historical, philosophical, and scientific. Such a course would give graduates of the college a background of the entire history of the human race, with its aspirations, successes, and failures.

Yours,

"DAN" WEBSTER.

MASS ATHLETIC PLAN.

Following the formal addresses a lively discussion of the idea suggested by Professor Dadourian, as outlined by the students who broached the plan, took place, with the entire class agreeing that some plan by which mass athletics which would include the entire college body should be instituted. Chairman Hartt, of the Junior Smoker committee appointed a committee to draw up a resolution to the senate, and the class adjourned to the dining room for refreshments. Later the class re-assembled and adopted the resolution. Cuninghame, '22, has appointed the following committee to investigate the idea and to recommend definite action by the college body; Robert T. Hartt, '23, chairman, William G. Brill, '23, Glover Johnson, '23, Daniel G. Morton, '24, Frank Tobie, '25, Henry T. Kneeland, '22, George P. Tenney, '23, Stanley P. Miller, '23, Howard S. ## TEAM PULLS TRIPLE PLAY THEN LOSES IN ELEVENTH

Three Men Caught at Plate in Sixth—Two Errors Nullify Tuck's
Fine Pitching—Brilliant Fielding Abounds.

CONNECTICUT AGGIES TAKE GAME AT STORRS, 4-1.

Baseball Team Shows Constant
Improvement, but Lacks
Final Punch.

The baseball team played brilliant, unbeatable baseball for nine innings, last Saturday. A peculiar triple play was only one of many fielding features, but an error with two out in the seventh, and another error with two out in the eleventh, undid all the good work of the day, and sent Worcester Tech home with a 4 to 2, eleven-inning victory.

Tuck pitched wonderful, courageous baseball, and deserved a shut-out victory. For five innings not a ball was hit to the outfield. In the fifth Worcester got on base for the first time, when Cram booted R. Mason's ground-er. He was chucked off at second on Fitzmaurice's offering, and Curran ended the inning with a drive to Robinson. In the seventh, with two out, Ferguson muffed an easy fly and started the opposition scoring, after the side should have been retired. In the eleventh, with two out, Cram pulled Norman off first with a wide throw, and started the winning runs. Three of Worcester's hits came in these two innings, after the side should have been retired.

In the sixth Trinity pulled the most unique triple play in the annals of intercollegiate baseball. Worcester, having failed to connect solidly with Tuck's delivery, opened a bunting attack. McGlinchey, first man up, threw his bat at a curve and lifted the ball over third for Worcester's first hit. Sharpe laid down a bunt between Tuck and Norman, which went for a hit when no one fielded the ball. McGarrell attempted another sacrifice. Tuck fielded the ball, held McGlinchey on third, and then threw to first too late. Bases full, none out. G. Mason hit sharply between third and short. Cram made a pretty stop and drove the ball home for a forced play. Nordlund threw to Norman, too late for a double. In the meantime Sharpe had rounded third. Norman caught him between bases, and, in a chase he was run down at the plate, Cram making the out. Here Cram's head stopped working for a second and he rolled the ball out on the ground. McGarrell dashed for home. Jones picked up the ball and threw to Tuck, who was now guarding the plate, and made the third out of the play. During the excitement the entire Trinity infield was on the third base line at one time or another.

Tuck had a worthy opponent in Higgins, who allowed the same number of hits, six, and struck out fifteen Trinity clubbers. However, the hits he allowed were all of the solid variety, and he walked four men and hit three, while Tuck had perfect control.

Brilliant fielding abounded during the exciting eleven innings. The stellar play of the day goes to Jones, playing his second game at the key-stone sack. In the seventh, with one down, Higgins hit sharply between first and second. Jones dashed over, took the ball in his gloved hand, with his back to the diamond, and turned to make a perfect throw for out. Ortgies in center field contributed two very pretty running catches, one of them of the shoestring variety.

Trinity's two runs came in the opening inning. Norman leaned

MUST FILE SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS BY JUNE 1

Daniels, Pardee, Goodman, and Toucey Scholarships to be Awarded.

It has recently been announced that applications for the Daniels, Pardee, Goodman, and Toucey Scholarships, for the year 1922-23, should be filed with the Faculty Committee on Scholarships on or before June 1, 1922. The two former scholarships are awarded for high standing in classes, while the two latter only to candidates intending to enter holy orders.

The Charles F. Daniels Scholarship was founded by the late Mrs. Mary C. Daniels, of Litchfield, Conn., who bequeathed the sum of six thousand dollars to the college for the establishment of a scholarship fund. The amount realized from this bequest was five thousand seven hundred dollars, the income of which is to be applied at the discretion of the Trustees for the benefit of a needy student to be chosen by the Trustees. This scholarship is awarded by the Faculty to that applicant from the Freshman class, otherwise properly qualified, whose standing in his college work of the year then current exceeds that of all other applicants for the scholarship at the time.

The Dwight Whitfield Pardee Scholarship has an annual value of two hundred dollars, and is awarded by the Faculty of the college. It was founded in 1896 by Miss Cora Upson Pardee in memory of her brother.

The three Toucey Scholarships were founded by Hon. Isaac Toucey, LL. D., of Hartford, who was at one time Governor of Connecticut and a trustee of Trinity College in 1830 to 1869. Each of these scholarships has an annual value of about two hundred dollars. These scholarships are awarded by the Faculty on the basis of scholastic rank of the candidates, and on the result of a special examination in reading and speaking. The holders of these scholarships are required to conform to a course of study suitable for students intending to devote themselves to the study of theology.

The late Richard F. Goodman, of Newton, New Jersey, of the class of 1863, bequeathed to the college five thousand dollars to found a scholarship in memory of his brother, George F. Goodman, a member of the class of 1873, who died while in college. The scholarship is awarded to the member of the Senior Class having the highest standing of all those in the class preparing for the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church, providing his standing equals or exceeds 70 per cent. of the maximum, and provided that he be in need of assistance.

Business Building

THE selling of commodities is fundamental in every business, and selling life insurance affords the maximum of satisfaction and remuneration. For the life insurance salesman is a business builder and finds innumerable ways to serve the community and make himself indispensable in the conduct of modern affairs.

The life insurance salesman is not only a business builder but he is in business for himself, creating a competence permanent and continuous. It is the best paid work for those who are ambitious and willing to work, and who have the character and stamina necessary to stamp their individuality upon the business and on their community.

The traditions and practices of the JOHN HANCOCK are such that the college graduate can take a peculiar pride in representing this company. You are liable to remain in the business you enter on leaving college. Before making a definite decision inquire into life insurance as a career. Write, "Agency Department."

against the second ball pitched and spun a double to center. Robinson singled to right center, scoring Norman. Robinson promptly stole second. Ferguson fanned and Jones fouled out. Ortgies kept up the attack by dropping a single over second, scoring Robinson. Ortgies stole, but was left stranded when Nordlund struck out. Thereafter Trinity was continually threatening, but was unable to break through with the necessary hit. In the second Burns walked and Cram was hit, as Burns stole second. The throw went through to left field, and Burns was caught trying to make third. Cram took second on a passed ball. Tuck fanned and Norman drove one to deep left, Curran making a pretty catch.

In the third Jones doubled with two down, but was left. In the ninth a determined flare-up was quenched only by remarkable box work by Higgins. Jones walked and Ortgies was hit. Nordlund, Bowdidge, who batted for Burns, and Cram, all fell victims of Higgins' crafty arm. In the eleventh Ortgies was again franked to first, and took second on Nordlund's infield out. Bowdidge worked hard, but succeeded in driving a hard one to third for the last out.

Worcester's activities until the seventh were nil. In all that time one foul, and one drive to left, were the only balls hit to the outer defenses. McAuliffe opened this session with a high fly to Ferguson. Higgins' drive gave Jones a chance to make his wonderful stop. R. Mason lifted a fly to right. Ferguson easily got under the ball, then dropped it. Fitzmaurice drove sharply between third and short. Robinson knocked down the ball with his gloved hand and deflected it away from Cram, putting men on second and first. Curran came through with Worcester's second solid hit, scoring R. Mason, and advancing Fitzmaurice to third. McGarrell followed suit, sending Fitzmaurice across with the tying run. Sharpe grounded to the box for the third out.

In the ninth, with two down, Cram muffed up Fitzmaurice's drive. He stole, but Curran struck out. In the eleventh G. Mason drove one down to third so fast that it went through Robinson's legs before he could get his hands down. McAuliffe was out, Tuck to Norman. Higgins was safe on a fielder's choice, the attempt to catch Mason at third being too late. R. Mason hit sharply between third and short. Cram made a fine stop, but his hurried throw pulled Norman's foot off the bag, G. Mason scoring. Fitzmaurice lifted a solid drive to center, scoring Higgins. Curran lifted to right center, Ortgies making a pretty running catch, for the last out.

CONNECTICUT AGGIE GAME.

Last Wednesday Connecticut Aggies defeated Trinity in a hard fought game at Storrs by the score of 4 to 1.

Captain Cram's three bagger and a neat triple play in the second half of the fourth inning were the features of the game. Makoski attempted to bunt but popped a low fly to Ortgies. Ortgies to home to Norman completed the performance, Wetsteine and Matelli being retired. Loose fielding was Trinity's weakest point. The outfielders were handicapped by the fact that the outfield had just recently been ploughed. The score:

really loves. Sganarelle promises his aid.

Act III is the same place. Leandre disguised as an apothecary's assistant is sent to feel Lucinde's pulse. She speaks and Sganarelle is given credit for the cure. Lucinde refuses volubly to marry her father's choice and her volubility is worse to her father than her dumbness. Sganarelle undertakes a second cure and sends her with Leandre out in the garden while he talks to Geronte. Lucas comes in and announces that Lucinde and Leandre have eloped. Geronte sees the plot and sends for the hangman. Martine comes along in time to see her husband about to be hanged. But to relieve the tension Lucinde and Leandre return having given up their elopement. Geronte is so pleased that he forgives everyone concerned.

Frank Cronin, '25, of New Haven won the Reitemeyer medal in the drop-kicking contest held last Friday afternoon. Cronin had a thirty-point lead over his nearest competitors, Grime and Anderson, who tied for second place. The scores were as follows: Cronin 290, Grime 260, Anderson 260, Sutcliffe 225, Montgomery 145, McKniff 140, Kennedy 125, Hunkin 100, and Keating 95.
