ATHENAEUM MEETS U. OF BUFFALO NEXT MONDAY

Debate Will Be Held in Alumni Hall—Unemployment to Be Subject

DEAN HOOD READS
Open Discussion Follows Reading from "New York Times"—Regular Business Meeting Held.

At the regular meeting of the Athenaeum Society held on Monday night, February 16, in the Economics Room, plans were discussed for the coming debate with the University of Buffalo and the Connecticut Agricultural College. In the absence of President Jacobson, Sharkey took charge of the meeting.

Harrison, the first speaker of the evening, made a plea for all the members to collect as much material as possible regarding the unemployment situation in order that it might be used in the debate. The subject of the debate is "Resolved, That the Several Small States Should Enact Legislation Providing for Compulsory Insurance to which the Employee Shall Contribute." Trinity will be the negative side. Following Harrison's speech an open discussion was held.

Carlton then spoke, giving a few refutations to the speeches delivered at last week's meeting. Following his criticisms the original speakers were allowed to defend their arguments.

The next speaker was Morse who spoke briefly on the causes of unemployment, and how unemployment insurance would affect present conditions.

A particularly lively discussion followed this.

Dean Hood closed the meeting by reading an article from the "New York Times" giving an account of the methods used by the City of Detroit for handling its unemployed.

A brief business meeting followed the regular meeting, and the following men were elected to membership in the Athenaeum Society: Clifford L. Morse, '32; E. Levonne Sivasian, '33; Edgar H. Craig, '34; Rex B. Howard, '34; Charles J. Sutherland, '34.

GUN CLUB ANNOUNCES THE SPRING PROGRAM

The Club Will Hold a Return Match with Wentworth in March

At the last meeting of the Gun Club, held Tuesday morning, February 17, in Jarvis 16, William Justus Eddy, president of the club, made known a list of colleges to whom challenges have been sent. This list includes Williams, Amherst, Wesleyan, Boston University, Harvard, Northeastern University, and Ohio Wesleyan. The dates for the above matches have not as yet been arranged, although it is expected that this will be done in the near future as soon as answers have been received from all the colleges.

Of all the above matches, the one with Harvard is anticipated most by the members of the club. It is to be held on the Arlington Rifle Club range in Arlington, Mass. The course to be pursued in this match is

SHERWOOD EDDY SPEAKS IN COLLEGE CHAPEL

Sees New Epoch in World Unrest Bemoans Lack of Relief for Unemployment

Those who attended the Penitential Service held in the College Chapel Wednesday morning, February 18, had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Sherwood Eddy of the Y. M. C. A. speak on the present economic and social conditions of the world. Mr. Eddy has recently returned from an extensive trip around the world, during which he visited twenty countries and studied the political and labor conditions in each one.

Today, he claimed, we are witnessing the birth of a new epoch, and future historians will regard our age as another Renaissance or a period such as that following the French Revolution. Throughout the world are signs of unrest that characterize such periods of transition. There is political unrest, signs of economic and industrial unrest, practically worldwide unemployment, demands for basic economic justice for the security of life, and even intellectual unrest. Germany, he said, is under the obligation of paying her debt, through her laboring people, at the rate of 1,000 dollars a minute for sixty years. Her Reichstag is being thrown into confusion by parties demanding that her republican form of government be overthrown.

In Russia Mr. Eddy found one giant

SIGMA NU ADVANCES IN BASKETBALL PLAY

Psi Upsilon and St. Anthony Are Eliminated from the Tournament

Last week saw the elimination of two teams in the Interfraternity basketball tournament. These teams, St. Anthony Hall and Psi Upsilon, were put out by the Neutral Blues and Delta Kappa Epsilon, respectively.

The first game of the week was between Psi U and Alpha Chi Rho. Psi U lost this game by a narrow margin 18 to 12. Alpha Chi Rho had everything its way in the first half, but led by Boeger and Meeker, Psi U held their opponents even in the second half. Thomson stood out for Alpha Chi Rho, scoring 10 of their 18 points.

St. Anthony met defeat in the second game by the score of 32 to 19. The score was tied at the half 13 to 13. St. Anthony started out with a rush and at the quarter led 9 to 4. The Blues, however, crept up slowly and in the last half held their opponents to six points while scoring 19 themselves. The best players for the Neutrals were Spray and Greenberg; for St. Anthony, Burke and Kingston.

Sigma Nu won its second victory of the Tournament—beating Alpha Tau Kappa 14 to 10. The game was not as close as the score seems to indicate, for Sigma Nu always had the situation well in hand. Slater and Fontana were outstanding for Sigma Nu, while Forastiere shone for Alpha Tau Kappa, scoring five of their 10 points.

In the final game of the week Psi U lost to Delta Kappa Epsilon 28 to

'VARSITY FIVE DOWNS FAST WESLEYAN TEAM

Blue and Gold Leads Through Entire Game—Wesleyan Rally Stopped

GOLINO LEADS SCORING
Andrus and Fleming Show Their Top Form—Jayvee Team Defeats the Willimantic Y. M. C. A. as Liddell Stars.

Smarting under successive defeats by the Aggies and Boston U., the Trinity 'Varsity basketball team fought Wesleyan to a standstill last Wednesday evening, and eked out a well-deserved victory by the score of 33 to 29. Except for the first minute of play Trinity was ahead throughout the contest. Due mostly to the excellent shooting of Mannie Golino and Dan Andrus Trinity led 9 to 2 after about ten minutes had elapsed, and still had a comfortable lead of 16 to 9 at half time. The second half produced a furious Wesleyan rally that came within one point of tying the score. But with the count 22 to 21 in Trinity's favor Coach Oosting's men fought back and produced a counter rally. Three timely baskets by Joe Fleming and long shots by Golino and Duksa increased Trinity's lead. Wesleyan could not match this flurry of scoring and was behind 33 to 29 at the end.

Trinity had entered the game as the underdog, but the Blue and Gold were invincible that night. The team played in an inspired way, with every man fighting hard without let-up to the final whistle. Trinity showed a high brand of teamwork, and the offense, led by Golino, Andrus, and Fleming was smoother and faster-breaking than usual. It was the best-played game that Trinity has engaged in this year.

In the early moments of the contest Wesleyan assumed a 2 to 0 lead on foul shots by Nye and Howard. After about a minute of play, however, Mannie Golino tied the score for Trinity with a spectacular shot from far out on the floor. Then the Blue and Gold offense began to work with lightning-like rapidity. Dan Andrus flipped in two baskets in a row; Julie Glynn made good a foul shot, and Mannie Golino came through with a one-hand toss from beyond the foul circle. The count stood 9 to 2 in Trinity's favor, and Wesleyan called time out. At the resumption of play Wesleyan cut down the lead to 9 to 5, but Glynn started Trinity off again with a basket from the floor and a successful foul try. Before the half ended Golino, with remarkable accuracy, had tossed in another long shot and Fleming and Andrus had made a foul try apiece. Wesleyan could not keep up with this scoring, and at the half the Trinity quintet was safely ahead, 16 to 9.

At the beginning of the second half the Trinity lead was increased to 18 to 9 when Al Meier made good a

SQUASH TEAM WINS ITS SECOND VICTORY

M. I. T. is Easily Defeated on Saturday—Burke is Only Loser

The Trinity squash racquets team won its second straight victory of the season, last Saturday afternoon, when it defeated the M. I. T. team on the Trowbridge Memorial courts, by a score of 4 to 1.

This match was by far, the easiest one played by the team this season. The Blue and Gold had the advantage in that they were obliged to play against a four-man team from M. I. T., thus having one game forfeited to them.

Johnny Burke was back with the team as number two man, after having been replaced by Grainger in the Springfield game on February 14. Burke, who won the college championship last year, furnished the upset of the match on Saturday, when he was defeated by W. Jones of M. I. T. in straight sets, 10-15, 9-15, 11-15.

Del Britton, leader of the team and playing number one, won easily over W. V. Fitch of M. I. T. the scores of the three straight games being, 15-18, 15-9, 17-16. Arnold continued to maintain his good record by defeating H. Martin, 15-17, 15-9, 14-15, 15-7, giving Trinity her third game.

Grainger gave a brilliant exhibition of stubborn fighting, when he won the fourth game for Trinity. He de-

TWO MEETS THIS WEEK IN TROWBRIDGE POOL

Varsity Will Meet Manchester Team—Interscholastic Meet Saturday

The Trowbridge Memorial Pool will be the scene of several aquatic encounters within the space of a week, as two college meets and an inter-high school competition are scheduled.

On Thursday, February 26, the college swimming team will meet the highly-touted Manchester Recreation Center team, for years well up among the leaders in intra-state competition. The Blue and Gold mermen have not fared so well thus far, having dropped two meets to the more experienced Y. M. C. A. aggregation. Both these meets were, however, undecided until the last event, and Coach Clark expects his men to make a much better showing in their coming contest. The first event is scheduled for 8 sharp, and as admission is free, a large student attendance is expected.

On Saturday, February 28, at 3, an inter-high school meet is to be held between teams from Meriden, Manchester, Bristol, and Middletown. The trophy to be awarded to the winner of this meet was donated by Trinity College, and will become the permanent possession of the team winning it three consecutive times. The old trophy, a handsome silver plaque, was won last year by Manchester High School, who, under the above conditions, will keep it permanently.

Next Friday, March 6, the strong team from Connecticut Aggies will invade the Blue and Gold pool in an effort to sustain its long winning streak. This match will be the last on the Trinity schedule, as well as the closest and most interesting.

'VARSITY FIVE BREAKS EVEN ON ROAD TRIP

Strong Pratt Team is Defeated on Friday Night in Dull Game

POLY TECH TEAM WINS
Blue and Gold is Hampered by the Poly Tech Floor—Game is Rough and Poorly Refereed.

On Friday night the 'varsity five defeated the fast Pratt Institute team in Brooklyn on the latter's home court by the score of 19 to 16. The game seemingly broke the "jinx" which has been haunting the Blue and Gold team on its road games for the past three seasons.

The game Friday night was slow-moving and was never exciting despite Pratt's rally in the second half. Trinity led at the half by the score of 13 to 7 and maintained the lead throughout the game.

For Trinity Mannie Golino was again the high scorer with two baskets from the floor and one foul. Captain Joe Fleming also tossed in two from the floor. The brightest star of the game, however, was Captain Walter Otis, the Pratt center, who registered 10 of his team's 16 points with four field goals and two successful foul shots. It was the New York team's third defeat in eleven games this season.

In a game that was characterized by great roughness and lax refereeing the Blue and Gold basketball team lost to Brooklyn Poly by the score of 24 to 14. From the beginning of the contest Trinity was handicapped by the form of the basketball court, which was long and low, and kept Trinity's long shooting attack from functioning.

In spite of the adverse conditions the Blue and Gold men managed to forge ahead in the early moments of the game, and were ahead 10 to 6, at the half time. The second half was very rough, however, as Bialick's black eye bears witness, and Trinity fell behind. The 'Varsity five played a much better game than the score would indicate.

Fleming was the high scorer for Trinity with three baskets from the floor. Shea starred for Brooklyn Poly.

MEETING OF SCHOOLS COMMITTEE IS HELD

List of Prospective Students Open to All—Thank Staff of "THE TRIPOD"

At a meeting in Mr. Brill's office at 4.30 on the afternoon of Friday, February 20, the recently formed Schools Committee discussed its plans and passed several new motions. It was agreed that the list of prospective students in their possession should be accessible to all members of the College, provided that a member of the Committee should be present to supervise. The Dean's list of schools was discussed as to whether or not it should be added to the list already compiled by the Committee.

A motion was also passed for a vote of thanks to the staff of THE TRINITY TRIPOD for their cooperation in mailing issues of that paper to the various schools selected.

THE GLEE CLUB

Another Trinity activity is branching away from the cloistered seclusion of the campus into the field of intercollegiate competition. On Friday night the Glee Club will for the first time test its competence with that of similar organizations from ten other New England colleges. Listed in the group of competitors are such familiar opponents as Wesleyan, who by the way has had quite consistently for the past few years one of the finest glee clubs in the country and has on occasions won the national championship; Amherst, Williams, Worcester Tech, and Bowdoin—the supremacy of all of whom Trinity has challenged on the gridiron and diamond in years gone by.

We can not go so far as to prophesy that Trinity will gain the right to represent New England in the national glee club championship competition but we are confident that the club which has been so ably directed throughout the year, by Mr. Merritt, will acquit itself with credit. We wish the Glee Club every success for Friday night and we wish to heartily congratulate Mr. Merritt for the work that he has done throughout the fall and winter.

THIS PASSION FOR FACTS

It is a regrettable feature of our educational system that it lays undue emphasis on facts. The student's scholastic career consists largely in the accumulation of data, and it can seldom be said that what the student accumulates in the way of knowledge he also assimilates. Students find studying a laborious task; and they would find it still more laborious to attempt to understand the significance of what they find difficult to memorize. It is indeed unfortunate that students must devote so much of their time to the mere memorization of facts, when what they have so meticulously learned by rote is forgotten as soon as the examination is over.

That one can do without facts is, of course, of itself an absurdity; there must be something tangible on which to work. But the truth is that the highest ideals of education are coldly frustrated when students are not encouraged to develop what creative ability they may possess. Education of our day is largely passive. So little time is devoted to the active side of the intellectual life that its results are quite negligible. Whatever advancement the sincere student makes in what we call "active" intellectualism is accomplished in the face of the cold indifference or sometimes even the discouragement of his educational environment.

It is the task of the American college at least to attempt to spur on the creative genius of its young men and women; for theirs is the responsibility of assuming the leadership of our country and of our civilization. And it is the duty of our educational institutions to afford the youth of this nation every opportunity and every assistance that they can command.

COMMUNICATIONS

February 18, 1931.

To the Editor of THE TRIPOD:

I sincerely believe Aurelius was justified in his recent communication to THE TRIPOD, I do not know Aurelius from Adam, but as a faithful Alumnus and a loyal Fraternity man it seems to me that too much power is being turned over to one fraternity at Trinity. This is always dangerous and grows like a rotten spot in a good apple. There is always a danger of overemphasis of fraternity in a small College.

No matter how competent a committee, it looks bad in print to have one fraternity far outbalance the rest to the exclusion of some. This all may seem a picayune matter, but I know just how such things rankle. Full coöperation will never be obtained at Trinity until a more democratic atmosphere prevails. Why not use common sense and make appointments that satisfy all, even though the work of a few may be made harder?

Yours very truly,

ALUMNUS.

To Editor of THE TRINITY TRIPOD:

Following an announcement in THE TRINITY TRIPOD for February 10, in regard to a coach for the Jesters, THE TRINITY TRIPOD editors were informed that a coach had been secured. Robert Byers, a graduate of Hobart, is to be the coach for the coming production. Mr. Byers was student director of the Hobart Mimmers during his Senior year. Why, after that announcement to members of THE TRINITY TRIPOD board, should an article appear in the issue for February 17 with the statement "Society still without coach?"

Another error in the last issue about the Jesters was that Albert E. J. Holland, '34, was "elected", not appointed assistant business manager, as was the case. THE TRINITY TRIPOD representative at the Jesters' meeting was informed of the technicality of appointment to various offices, yet the error appeared.

The organizations at college are only too glad to support THE TRINITY TRIPOD, but they want correct news before they can realize that THE TRINITY TRIPOD is the leading organ of our student life.

Sincerely yours,

ROBERT STUMPF.

BOOK REVIEW

NELSON: The Life of Horatio Nelson. By George Edinger and E. J. C. Neep. Cape & Harrison Smith, New York. $3.

THE BLACK NAPOLEON: The Story of Toussaint Louverture. By Percy Waxman. Harcourt, Brace & Co., New York. $3.50.

These two curiously contrasted historic figures were exact contemporaries, and while their ways were never crossed, the careers of both were involved with that of Napoleon Bonaparte, and with those of other noted personalities of their common day. A glance at the opening sentence of the Edinger-Neep "Nelson," reveals these writers as conscientious disciples of the Strachey-Guedalla formula: "It was still the golden age. Mr. Reynolds had just raised his price to twenty guineas a head. At the 'Cocoa Tree' The Idler was the latest literary sensation. . . Samuel Johnson was dining at the 'Mitre' for the first time with a long-faced Irishman named Burke . . . Mr. Garrick was playing nightly to packed houses at Drury Lane . . . etc., etc., etc."

It is, by the way, strange that no one seems to have noted the fact that Charles Dickens, back in the fifties, set the original pattern for this sort of thing, with the brief opening chapter of his "Tale of Two Cities"—"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, etc., etc., etc."

The Edinger-Neep "Nelson" would seem to be headed for popularity; the authors have an interesting story to tell, and they tell it effectively, bringing Lady Hamilton to the fore with a really adroit sense of comparative values. If Nelson is perforce the hero of his own biography, Lady Hamilton is most powerfully the heroine, and, as in many a romance of fiction, the heroine of this good taste and sound judgment in casting aside the tinsel of the "new biography" in their closing chapter, and giving the magnificent melodrama of Nelson's death aboard the "Victory" as stark, unadorned narrative. It is a story which no man may read unmoved.

Messrs. Edinger and Neep have not written a great biography of Nelson, but they have accomplished a good, workmanlike job.

Mr. Percy Waxman, who is editor of "The Pictorial Review," offers, in his historic study, "The Black Napoleon," a timely and an interesting book. Toussaint Louverture is one of those semi-legendary historic figures whose name is vaguely familiar, but whose actual personality and career remain veiled, for the average reader, by a sort of intellectual haze. Here Mr. Waxman relates in detail the dramatic and tragic story of Louverture, of his rise to power in San Domingo, and of his lonely death as a prisoner in the ancient fortress of Joux, among the mountains of the Franco-Swiss border. "The Black Napoleon" is a valuable addition to the growing list of recent books concerned with the history of Haiti, of which an excellent bibliography is included in the present volume.

NOTE TO READER

Since our own Trinity College Library each month adds to its shelves many new books covering diverse departments of learning, and since many are of interest to the student body as a whole, THE TRIPOD will from time to time list some of these new books and will endeavor, not to review them—for such an overwhelming task could be approached only in a most lackadaisical manner—but rather to choose a few and commend them for their manifestation of style, value, and semblance of interest. Occasionally the commendation will be effected by a short, biographical sketch of the author.

OLD "TABLET" ATTACKS INTEREST IN SPORTS

Yale Tried to Curtail Sports in 1870—Commercialism Was Foreseen

The newspapers of the present day are devoting a great deal of space and type in printing various commentaries on overemphasis of athletics in the American college. It seems that the problem is not a new one, in fact, it is at least sixty years old. In perusing "The Trinity Tablet" of September 28, 1870, we find a long article headed "Boating at Trinity" which points out that boating is losing its general interest at Trinity. The writer feels that it is a good thing. His reaction to the present-day problem would be interesting to conceive. It seems that at that time the faculty of Yale were attempting quite valiantly to curtail an excessive interest in athletics and were allowing the baseball team to play only on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons and were not permitting any out-of-town games. The "Tablet" comments thus:

"It is evident, therefore, that the faculty of Yale College are opposed to the system that is in vogue at Oxford and Cambridge, and to a great extent in Harvard also, of allowing ball and boating to encroach upon the regular college curriculum, and to monopolize the time of the undergraduates. Nor is it to be wondered at. Things have come to such a pass that at present there exists in those colleges two distinct classes, the boating or baseball men and the studious men; and membership in the one all but necessitates exclusion from the other."

Further on in the article the writer says:

"It is evident, then, that the faculty of a college, by encouraging such a system, would countenance a state of things utterly opposed to the purposes for which colleges are founded, and to the welfare of the undergraduates."

Even commercialism and gambling presented themselves as problems in 1870, as is evidenced by the following statements:

"Instead of becoming a means of healthful relaxation and exercise these sports have actually grown to be the business of many of the collegians."

"They are beginning to become the subject for bets and the reporters of low sporting newspapers haunt the banks of the river to comment upon the practice of the crews."

This particular issue of the "Tablet" came out on the day before the regatta, which was held in Worcester in those days, and since Trinity was unable to send a crew that year the writer brings his article to a fitting close.

"There may be those who will say that we would send a boat to Worcester tomorrow if we could. But to those we beg leave to reply that, be this as it may, it is certainly a blessing that we cannot do so; and that the day is not far off when we will appreciate the wisdom of the course which providentially has been forced upon us."

field goal from the region of the free throw line. A Wesleyan basket made the score 18 to 11. A moment later Dan Andrus dribbled the length of the floor to increase Trinity's lead to 20 to 11. At this point the Trinity defense gave way for a moment, and Wesleyan rallied sharply. Owen and Nye tossed in baskets in quick succession, and Howard came through with two in a row.

Trinity now led by only one point, 20 to 19, and it looked as if Wesleyan might win after all. But the Blue and Gold fought back hard. Ray Bialick, who had been playing a nice game for Trinity was fouled, and made good his try. Duksa was given a free try, and he also made good. At this point Nye of Wesleyan came through with a pair of foul shots, and Trinity was again ahead by only one point, 22 to 21. Captain Joe Fleming now scored a sucker shot to push the count to 24 to 21. A Wesleyan field-goal made it 24 to 23, with about five minutes left to play. Here Trinity uncorked a final rally that brought victory. Duksa flipped in a long shot; Fleming picked one off the backboard to score, and Golino clinched the contest with a long heave from far out on the floor. Trinity now had a safe lead, and was ahead 30 to 23. During the remaining few minutes of the game another basket by Fleming and a foul shot by Golino increased Trinity's total to 33. Wesleyan produced a small rally near the end, with most of the points being scored on foul shots. Trinity's lead was never endangered, however, and the Blue and Gold were ahead 33 to 29 when the gun ended the contest.

Every man on the Trinity team did his bit in the victory, though the deadly shooting of Mannie Golino and Dan Andrus was outstanding. Nye was the star for Wesleyan.

In the preliminary the Jayvees, in spite of the helpful cheering of the Sigma Nu's, won a well-earned victory from the Willimantic "Y" by the score of 26 to 21.

feated E. Newman, winning three matches out of the five played; 12-15, 15-10, 17-16, 14-17, 15-13. Martini did not play, having won by default due to the absence of the fifth M. I. T. man.

Winning the two matches over Springfield and M. I. T. has given the Blue and Gold team some confidence with which to meet the strong Yale team which comes up to Trinity on next Wednesday. This match promises to be the best one of the season regardless of victory or defeat.

evil in their denial of liberty, but he also found one challenging lesson: their passion for social justice. There is no wealthy man in Russia today who does not share his all with the poor. Most men in political offices receive no more than $3.75 per day in pay, and even the high officials in Moscow must be content with $5. These men Mr. Eddy compared with the mountebank mayor of the most misgoverned city in the world, Chicago. The Russians, he said, are succeeding splendidly in their experiment of social justice. We, a Christian nation, with our racial prejudices and lynchings, may well watch, shamefully, Russia and her practice of social and racial equality.

The fundamental lesson taught by Christ, Mr. Eddy stated, was love, not as an idle sentiment, but socially meaning a full sharing of life, demanding self-realization through self-sacrifice. We in America do not carry out Christ's principles very far today. We do not insure justice to the poor, we have only a planless chaos, a passing spasm of charity to aid them in the trying time of unemployment. While young men stand in long breadlines in our large cities, and young women strive to live decently on meager wages, our government stumbles along without even knowing the number of unemployed she has. Ours is the rule of privilege; in most of our large cities one man controls the whole system of public works. Surely this would be a more Christ-like world if we should advance our thesis of liberty 700 years after the Magna Charta and combine this into a new social order with the social justice advanced by Russia.

In closing, Mr. Eddy stressed the importance of the young men of today recognizing these evils so that they may prepare themselves to overcome them in future years. They must make their choice between personal enrichment and the betterment of the conditions of their less fortunate fellow men.

one of 200 yards. Shooting will be done from three positions, namely, off-hand, sitting, and prone. Each team will consist of six men, who will use Springfield .30 caliber rifles with which to shoot. The rules governing the match are those stated in the National Rifle Association Rule Book.

President Eddy also announced that a return match with Wentworth Institute had been added to the club's schedule, and that the date for this match had been set for March 14. The first meeting this season between the Trinity rifle-men and representatives from Wentworth was held January 31 in which Trinity conquered her opponent by a small margin, the score being: Trinity 1667, Wentworth Institute 1650.

Besides President Eddy, the Gun Club includes Ernest Grant Baldwin, '32, of East Hartford, Edwin Horne Lawton, '32, of Hartford, Clarence William Laubin, '31, of Hartford, and Henry Rees Mitchell, '31, of New London, Conn.
