JESTERS TO PRESENT "THE CIRCLE" FRIDAY

Play by Somerset Maugham First Production of the Dramatic Club This Year

A THREE-ACT COMEDY

Faculty Coaches Messrs. Ullmer and Heimbold—Dancing to Follow Production.

Commencing the season of 1931, The Jesters will present in Alumni Hall on Friday evening, December 11, at 8.15 p. m., Somerset Maugham's, "The Circle", a comedy written in three acts. Rehearsals for the past week have progressed rapidly, and according to a statement issued recently by the two faculty coaches of the production, Messrs. Ullmer and Heimbold, the finishing touches will be given at the final dress rehearsal on Thursday evening, and with these effected, the production should prove a success. This is the first performance of The Jesters, since the production of Galsworthy's "The Pigeon", last May, and for the first time in the history of dramatics at Trinity, that a play of Maugham, the author of "Cakes and Ale", has been selected for a campus performance.

The performance of "The Circle" has already received the support of many prominent residents of Hartford, as well as the members of the college faculty and their wives. The tentative list of patronesses includes the following: Mrs. Remsen B. Ogilby, Mrs. A. Everett Austin, Jr., Mrs. Morgan Brainard, Mrs. Kent Hubbard, Mrs. Joseph Thurston, Mrs. Robert B. Reynolds, the Misses McCook, Mrs. Ansel G. Cook, and Mrs. Joseph D. Flynn, all of Hartford and vicinity.

The Jesters' production is being coached by two members of the faculty, William Heimbold of the Greek Department and Bernard Ullmer of the German Department. The production has been in rehearsal for nearly six weeks and the coaches will spend the rest of the time in perfecting details. There is no major part in "The Circle", but many of the parts are long and difficult. Three local students play important roles, James Rex Howard, Graham Day and J. N. Prutting. Two of the minor parts are also filled by local students, Paul Adams and C. B. Haaser. The remaining parts are played by Harry James Oxford of Port Chester, N. Y., C. Harri-man Smith of Baldwin, N. Y., Nicholas Hubinger of New Haven, and J. Jack Sharkey of West Orange, N. J.

The cast:

Clive Champion Cheney, Rex Howard Arnold, Henry J. Oxford Porteous, John N. Prutting Teddie, Graham A. Day Lady Kitty, J. Jack Sharkey Elizabeth, Nicholas Hubinger Mrs. Shenstone, William Libby Footman, James Hauser Butler, Paul Adams

William Wallace Sisbower of New York City is stage manager of the organization and T. Robert Stumpf of Forest Hills, N. Y., business manager, assisted by A. E. Holland of Brooklyn, N. Y. Dancing will follow the play.

BASKETBALL TEAM TO PLAY PRACTICE GAMES

Contest Arranged with Alumni and Springfield—Squad
Cut to Fourteen

The basketball team has been working out daily in the gymnasium. Coach Ray Oosting recently cut the 'varsity' squad to 14 men: Andrus, Bialick, Carey, Daut, DeVoe, Duxa, Fritzson, Golino, Houlihan, Jackson, Kenny, Leo, Liddell, and Zujko. Practice games with Springfield College and an Alumni team have been arranged.

Although it is still early for any definite selections or predictions, the team may be said to shape up fairly well. Captain Golino, Liddell and Houlihan are fighting it out for the forward positions. Zujko of last year's junior 'varsity has shown great improvement and may replace any one of the three mentioned. At center there are three candidates. Andrus, last year's regular pivot man, and Daut also a member of the 1931 'varsity' squad, seem certain to see much

GLEE CLUB TO PRESENT GLASTONBURY CONCERT

High School Auditorium Program to Include Blue and Gold Orchestra

The Glee Club goes to Glastonbury on Wednesday, December 9, to sing at the Glastonbury High School Auditorium at 8 p. m. in a program sponsored by the Saint James Church Guild. The following numbers will be sung at the performance: "Fight", a Finnish student song composed by Faltin; "My Johnny Was a Shoemaker", arranged by Deems Taylor; "Fain Would I Change That Note", by R. Vaughn Williams; "Swansea Town", a Hampshire folk song; "Estrellita", a Mexican serenade by Manuel Ponce; "Serenade", by Borodin; "Hundred Pipers", a Scotch folk song; "On the Water", by Mendelssohn; "Adoramus Te", a Palestrina hymn in Latin; and Trinity College songs including "Fight Trinity". The patrons of the Glastonbury program will be: Rev. and Mrs. E. G. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Williams, Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Rankin, Mrs. F. M. Farnum, Dr. H. M. Denslows.

The Blue and Gold Band, a jazz orchestra gotten up especially to accompany the Glee Club on trips, is also scheduled to go to Glastonbury. The members of this orchestra are as follows: Flynn, piano; Glassman, first saxophone; Salmons, second saxophone; Levine, third saxophone; Coburn, banjo; Tucker, drums; Bashour, first trumpet; Johnson, second trumpet.

The following are the names of those who have become permanent members of the Glee Club: Second basses, D. S. Andrus, M. L. Garrison, E. J. Greene, C. Nugent, G. W. Lee, T. Chapin, R. M. Roney, W. A. Johnson, J. C. Melville, K. Funston, and M. L. Smythe; first basses, J. D. Flynn, Jr., R. C. Meloy, G. C. Richard-

All students desiring to contribute to the "Trinity Tablet" are requested to address their manuscripts to the Editor of the "Trinity Tablet" and leave them in the College post office not later than January 4, 1932.

KAMIEL LEFEVERE TO GIVE CONCERT ON CHAPEL BELLS

Noted Carillonneur of New York
Riverside Church to be Here Wednesday

TO PLAY "THE ROSARY"

Program will Also Include Many
Famous Works—Carillon
Recently Tested.

Arrangements have been made by the authorities of Trinity College to have Mr. Kamiel Lefevere, carillonneur of the Riverside Church in New York, come to Hartford on Wednesday, December 9, to play the carillon in the new Chapel at Trinity College for the first time. The official opening of the carillon will, of course, be a part of the ceremonies when the Chapel is consecrated next June.

Mr. Lefevere will play selections on the carillon Wednesday afternoon, December 9, from 5 to 6. The exact range of the bells has not yet been determined, but under good conditions they will carry for a mile or so. To appreciate the bells at their best, perhaps a distance of half a mile would be excellent. The ample grounds of Trinity College will give opportunity for those who wish to hear the first recital on the bells within a reasonable radius.

Last week marked the installation and adjustment of the bells. The clavier, that is the keyboard, consists of thirty keys or levers each of which is connected to a bell. The lower fifteen bells are also connected to pedals which are beneath the keyboard such as those of an organ.

The player sits on a bench and strikes the lever with his closed fist. Four bells can be struck at one time, one with each hand and foot, thus giving a chord of four notes.

Last week they were tested and adjusted by Mr. Harris, who is the representative of John Taylor Company of Loughborough, England, the casters of the bells, and are now ready for Mr. Lefevere's recital.

MR. ARMSTEAD TO SPEAK TO POL. SCIENCE CLUB

Representatives Attend Meeting of Yale and Smith Foreign Relations Clubs

The Political Science Club under the leadership of Thad. C. Jones will meet at St. Anthony's Hall on Tuesday, December 15, to hear Mr. George Armstead speak on "Newspapers". Mr. Armstead, whose place was ably taken by Mr. Robert D. Byrnes at the last meeting in which he was scheduled to appear, will speak on a subject of which he has had wide experience, being Managing Editor of the "Hartford Courant."

On December 6, Miss Mary R. Hilliard of the Westover School in Middlebury, Conn., who is deeply interested in the promotion of the study of international affairs among secondary schools and colleges, brought the International Relation Clubs of Smith and Yale together at a luncheon at the New Haven Club. Trinity was represented by Mr. Rohr, E. C. Jones, H. O. Phippen, R. Slosson, J. Mason, and W. J. Arnold. After the luncheon, at about 3.15, Sir Wilfred Grenfell spoke and at 4.30 tea was served at the Christian Association.

JOHN BARRETT, LL. D., WILL DISCUSS PAN-AMERICAN AND WORLD OUTLOOK

TENTATIVE PLANS FOR RUSHING ANNOUNCED

Fraternities to Vote Upon New Sealed Bid System for Pledging in 1932

As a result of the fall meetings of the Interfraternity Council, a new rushing plan using sealed bids, has been formulated for the purpose of governing rushing in the fall of 1932. This plan, which will be voted upon by the various fraternities within the next few weeks, if accepted, will be the first seal-bid plan of pledging Freshmen that has ever been adopted in the history of fraternities at Trinity. The new plan while adhering to a few of the rules adopted in the "gentlemen's agreement" last fall creates a clearer understanding of the fraternity situation to incoming stu-

FRATERNITIES BEGIN SQUASH TOURNAMENT

Five Teams Advance in the First Round—Miller Trophy to be Awarded Winner

The first matches of the annual intra-mural squash racquet tournament were held on December 3 with the following results:

St. Anthony defeated the Faculty. Neutral "Gold" defeated Sigma Nu. Psi Upsilon defeated Neutral "Blue". Delta Kappa Epsilon defeated Neutral "C". Alpha Chi Rho defeated Alpha Tau Kappa. Alpha Delta Phi defeated Delta Phi.

It has been decided to hold the tournament to an elimination affair on the same general plan as last year with one change, which involves the seeding of the outstanding teams. Each match will be the best three out of five games, and each team will be composed of five men. The winner will be awarded the Sidney T. Miller Squash Racquet Trophy on a one-year basis. In addition, the winning team will receive 15 points toward the Alumni Trophy, second team, 10 points, and the third team, 5 points. All teams having a full representation for all games will receive three points.

The tournament cup was won last year by St. Anthony fraternity. This was the first year of the tournament. Arthur Arnold took highest individual place while Britton placed second and Burke, third. The latter won the individual cup in 1929.

Delta Psi—Burke (Capt.), Benjamin, Mason, Holland, R. Clark.

Psi U.—Grainger (Capt.), Martini, Watt, Norvel, Boeger.

Deke—Coles (Capt.), Donley, Smith, Garrison, Warwick.

Alpha Chi Rho—Arnold (Capt.), Reuter, Jackson, Burfeindt, Prior.

Tickets for The Jesters' performance can be secured from Albert Holland, Jarvis 7. Student tickets are $1.

To be Heard in Alumni Hall on Monday, December 14, by Students and Public

FORMER U. S. MINISTER

Famous Authority on International Relations Speaks under auspices of Political Science Club.

Under the auspices of the Political Science Club, headed by Thaddeus C. Jones, '33, of Washington, D. C., Dr. John Barrett, LL.D., former United States Minister in Latin America and Asia, and Director-General of the Pan American Union, in Washington, D. C., will address the student body and the Hartford public on Monday, December 14, at 8.15 p. m., in Alumni Hall, on the topic, "Our Present-day Pan American and World Outlook."

Dr. Barrett, who is at present the greatest authority in America on Latin America relations, has had a noted career as a diplomat and an observer of international relations. He has visited Japan, China and Manchuria, Latin America, and Europe, including Russia especially. Also he has discussed United States relations in these countries before leading civic, cultural, social, and commercial groups and organizations in all parts of the United States and Canada, as well as in the leading European nations.

The following is a statement to The Tripod regarding the recent achievements of Dr. Barrett, released on October 17, 1931, by Mr. A. Bartlett Johnson, Honorary Secretary for the Pan American Union:

"In the light of extraordinary public interest in international affairs and the willingness—inspired by a surprising and increasing number of requests for public and private expression of his views—to be of practical use to the public."

CAMPION CHOSEN TO LEAD FOOTBALL TEAM

N. Hubinger Elected Manager—
Twenty Men Receive
Their Letters

At a meeting of the lettermen of the 'varsity football squad held last week, John Campion, '33, was elected captain of the 1932 football team. Campion, who played an aggressive game at center against opponents by whom he was outweighed, is also assistant manager of basketball. He has had two years' experience as 'varsity center and is rated among the best in small New England colleges. Nicholas Hubinger of New Haven, was named manager of the team. Hubinger is a member of the Glee Club, The Jesters, and the fraternity of Alpha Chi Rho. Charles Tucker of Hartford was chosen as assistant manager. Tucker is a member of the Glee Club, the Orchestra, and the fraternity of Alpha Chi Rho.

Seven letter men will graduate this year. They are: Henry O. Phippen, Jr., Harold Disco, Raymond Bialick, Thomas C. Burgess, Allen S. Meier, Joseph Fontana, and Friedrich H. Geiger. Phippen starred at quarter-

TO THE ALUMNI.

Three weeks ago the editors of The Tripod announced that "The Tablet", Trinity's oldest undergraduate publication, which ceased existence in 1908, would again be revived on January 11, 1932, as a bi-annual publication, sponsored by The Tripod. Since that time there has been considerable activity on the part of those students interested in literary work, and many creditable manuscripts have already been submitted to the editors for consideration.

But notwithstanding the interest that has already been shown by the student body, there is room for even greater progress. It is hoped by the editors that the alumni who are themselves occupied in literary pursuits may also have a share in this endeavor to create a renewed interest in literary activities at Trinity. Needless to say, there are a number of the old grads who, when they were in college, placed considerable time and energy in carrying on the college publications—"The Tripod", "The Ivy", or even "The Tablet." Perhaps, as alumni, they might desire to contribute a short article of a literary nature to "The Tablet" and thus for the moment renew old ties severed at graduation. Thus the editors of "The Trinity Tablet" welcome all literary contributions forwarded to the college on or before January 4, 1932, at which time a selection of suitable manuscripts will be made.

(Note—All manuscripts should be addressed to: The Editors of "The Trinity Tablet", Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.)

EDITORIAL NOTE

The editors of the Tripod wish to retract the statement appearing in the editorial columns of the paper (The Trinity Tripod, Vol. XXVII, No. 8, published on November 11, 1931), in the editorial entitled "Coach Bill Galvin." In brief, this editorial declared that Coach Galvin had not received proper cooperation while football coach at Trinity, from "the Faculty and other authorities", and he had found it necessary to buy a part of the equipment of the football team himself. Furthermore, it was stated that the equipment used by the team was of an inferior quality, and hence this likewise cast serious reflections upon college officials and alumni immediately connected with the management of football.

After a later investigation by the editors it was learned that the information obtained from the football coaching staff, regarding the equipment of the team did not agree with the facts now provided by the college authorities and the Physical Training Department. In view of this recent information, the editors of the Tripod wish to retract all statements made in connection with the resignation of Coach Galvin, and the general quality of football gear.

DR. BARRETT'S ADDRESS.

Next Monday evening the college body will have the privilege of hearing Dr. John Barrett, one of the world's greatest diplomatic figures and an eminent authority on foreign relations and the Latin American countries. Since the appearance of Justice Philip J. McCook, '95, Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals, in New York City, who addressed the freshman class on Matriculation Day, and even before that, there has been a dearth of good speakers at Trinity. In comparison with other New England colleges, namely, Wesleyan, Williams, and Amherst, it can be justly said when one reviews the list of prominent national and international authorities, scientists, scholars, poets, musicians, and the like who appear at these institutions each year, that the intellectual life in this respect at Trinity is dead, and has been so for many years.

However, it is not our purpose to criticize the existing conditions but to improve the same, if possible. The point is that next Monday the student body will be afforded an opportunity to hear one of America's greatest authorities on world relations. If Trinity men mean what they say, when they bring against the intellectual life of the college the accusation which we have already mentioned, then there should be no trouble in filling Alumni Hall next Monday, and we trust that the Political Science Club will accordingly be supported in this its project.

BOOK REVIEW

STEPPING WESTWARD, by Laura E. Richards. Published by Appleton & Company. $3.00.

"To learn; to teach; to serve; to enjoy!"

Asked, at the age of ninety, to "express the aim of life," Julia Ward Howe made the above reply. She doubtless realized that aim. Certainly her daughter, Mrs. Richards, has. Her book bears eloquent testimony to it.

Born of such illustrious parents as Julia Ward and Samuel Gridley Howe, she was brought up in an atmosphere most propitious to attaining an end of that sort, and she did not let her opportunity slip. From her mother she received a priceless training in literature; from her father, an equally valuable one in charity and philanthropy of every sort; from both, an unceasing example of all that was fine and worth-while in life. Few are the people, I fear, when they have reached Mrs. Richards' age of eighty-odd, who can look back over their lives with unfeigned enjoyment, and write such a fulsome and glowing account. The sheer joy she gets out of living is enough to warm the heart of any reader. Practically all the people she writes of are superlative characters, able, useful, and charming. It is true that she was probably in a favorable position to meet such men and women, though she doubtless met her share of ordinary people as well as the rest of us. But she possesses that great gift of detecting and bringing out the good in everyone. That is one of the reasons she has so many friends, and has lived such a happy life. She loves and is loved.

The book is a witty, highly interesting account of her life and the lives of those about her. It is informally and attractively written, any thought that pops into her head as like as not to be put down with the rest. She speaks of old friends and old times and places with affection, but not sentimentality. Doubtless there are some critics who will deny that, and will readily brand much of this reminiscing as pure sentiment. I say "readily", for we are generally not even polite in the haste with which we cast aside something looking suspiciously pre-Twentieth Century. But Mrs. Richards is a delightful combination of the past and the present. She is too intelligent and alive to be merely a sentimental old lady.

In point of years, she covers a remarkable span; she lacks but one generation to give us an intimate, personal history of this country since the Revolutionary War. As it is, in her youth she met people who were not far removed from 1776. Her descriptions of visits to New York are perhaps the most striking, because that city's change in the last fifty years has of course been tremendous. She pictures the old New England as it now slowly, now rapidly worked its transition from those almost colonial days to the present. Naturally, it is not a history that she is writing, and the changes are evident only by events and characters. She had, as friend or acquaintance, almost everybody in New England (and some from elsewhere), who was eminent or worth meeting—men and women in the fields of literature, art, education, philanthropy, philosophy, etc. This applies not only to the old days, witness a delightful allusion to Dr. Ogilby, telling of his prowess as a Scout at the Richards' Camp Merryweather.

The book brings home two lessons: One is that the past century is not something to be forgotten or despised by us who are growing up today. It was a fascinating, splendid era. The other lesson, and the more important, is that to live as this woman has—to learn, to teach, to serve, to enjoy, will make life not only happy, but full—full of a keen interest that is bound to keep one as young as she herself is and always will be. It is with that spirit she has taken from Wordsworth the lines for her title:

"And stepping westward seemed to be
A kind of heavenly destiny."

-: Intercollegiate News :-

This article, clipped from the New Yorker, was written apropos to the scathing article on collegiate football which appeared in the Columbia Spectator several weeks ago. Some people apparently know all about editors of undergraduate publications.

"We have an increasing respect for undergraduate publications, callow as they are. They are the real liberal journals of the country, because their editors are twenty-one. At twenty-one an editor has the lovely tart quality of the unripe. Socially he is conservative—more conservative, probably, than he will ever be again; but editorially he is a rainbow of radical thought, largely, we believe, because of the sudden orgasmic pleasure of literary expression. He has a distinctive literary style, instantly recognizable; a kind of pedantic sarcasm. The first flush of printer's ink is like wine; that is why campus papers are so alive, and why they cause deans so much acute distress, worse than cramps of the stomach."

—New Yorker.

The Wesleyan Argus has printed the opinions of that institution's President and Dean on the Crusaders' Campaign which has been under way at Wesleyan for several weeks. Here they are, the first that of President McConaughy and the second that of Dean Chanter.

"Personally, I think the curbing of liquor is an undoubted social advance, and I believe that colleges are better off under prohibition than they were before. If, however, in certain cities and states, the present laws and methods of enforcement are proving ineffectual and causing other evils, I, for one, am willing to revise my definitions and face frankly the necessity of a modification of the law. I urge you as the voters of the immediate future, upon whom the responsibility for the solution of this great question will shortly rest, to be open-minded enough to recognize any possible present failures, and, likewise, to be willing to curb your own wishes somewhat, for the social good."

"What is the aim of the Crusader movement? They say they want to wipe out corruption in this country. Nonsense! What they really want is liquor. A large part of the 'Crusaders' I know drank before the war, and still are drinking. I cannot sympathize with such people and such principles masquerading under this Christian name."—Wesleyan Argus.

At Williamstown the effect of the Crusaders was that a manifesto was issued by the Paynim. The Paynim is an organization which was formed at Williamstown last May and which maintains that the present restrictions of Prohibition are impractical and unnecessarily rigid. Here are some excerpts from their manifesto:

"The Paynim are opposed to the Crusaders because they advocate the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the reversion of the control of Prohibition from the Federal Government to the states. This would bring chaos worse than exists at present. With drinking conditions so aggravated, it is folly to think of distributing the control of liquor among 48

James K. Edsall recently wrote us a most welcome note in which he said, in part, "On September 21, during the General Convention of the Episcopal Church in Denver, Colorado, twenty-seven Trinity men had a get-together dinner at the Denver club. Anson T. McCook, '02, gave us a lot of up-to-date information about the college.

"Among those present were Bishop Blair Roberts of South Dakota, '05, Bishop Philip Cook of Delaware, '98, W. G. Bulkely, '05, Ernest C. Biller, '07, J. K. Edsall, '08, Paul Roberts, '09, Boyd Edwards, '07, . . ."

J. Oliver Morris died recently in Troy, N. Y., of a malady which required a major operation. Mr. Morris went from Hartford to Albany in 1921 as vice-president of the Electric Supply and Equipment Company, and at the time of his death was president of Page-Morris, Inc. Quoting from an editorial of the Albany Evening News: "His death removes one of Albany's most progressive merchants and citizens. Mr. Morris had won a large number of friends in Albany, who esteemed him for his excellent personal qualities and admired him for his ability."

1913.

Thomas Gilbert Brown was married last September to Miss Alice Haenssler, at Norwalk, Conn., by the Rev. J. Eldred Brown, the groom's father. Mr. Brown is assistant Cable Editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

The Rev. Charles H. Collett, former headmaster of St. Paul's School, Concord, has been appointed corresponding secretary of the Field Department and Director of the Speakers' Bureau of the National Council of the Episcopal Church. He has been a general secretary in the same department for some time.

Newall Calhoun Comfort has been elevated to assistant purchasing agent of the Certainteed Products Company for the Pacific Coast district with headquarters at Berkeley, California. Lloyd E. Smith, who assisted Dean Hood last year in the Freshman Composition class, has taken a position as editor with the Lewis Copeland Company, Publishers, New York City.

1924.

Paul J. Norman "recently opened an office for Clarence Whitman & Sons, Inc., in Atlanta, Ga., located in Room 1319, Citizens & Southern National Bank Building, manufacturers of the Esmond Blankets, Stevens Bedspreads and Drapery Fabrics—all mills located in New England. Have met several Trinity graduates in the south and would appreciate your publishing my new address, as Trinity alumni are most cordially invited to stop in and say hello when in Atlanta."

1925.

Alfred K. Birch was married this past August to Miss Ruth Brelsford Rockafellow at Forest Grove, Penna. Mr. Birch, who formerly taught at St. James School in Maryland, is now a master at the Suffield School, Suffield, Conn.

back for the last three years, his drop-kicking gaining him honorable mention as All-American. Disco, who played halfback, was a good ball carrier and a fine defensive back. Bialick was best known as a blocking and defensive back. Burgess played a steady game at tackle the whole season. Meier, captain of the 1931 team, played a great defensive game, ranking as one of the best in New England. Fontana, out of the early games, returned to play well against Haverford and Wesleyan. Geiger, a letterman for three years, played well at end, especially against Haverford and Worcester.

The schedule for the 1932 season, although drawn up, has not yet been formally approved, and will be released later by William G. Brill, Director of Athletics.

Letters were awarded the following men: Henry O. Phippen, '32, Harold Disco, '32; Raymond Bialick,

'32; Thomas Burgess, '32; Allen S. Meier, '32; Joseph Fontana, '32; Friedrich Geiger, '32; Lewis Wadlow, '33; Thomas Wadlow, '33; Thaddeus C. Jones, '33; Charles Cutler, '33; Walker B. # "I have always used LUCKIES"

"I have always used Luckies—as far as I am concerned there are no better cigarettes—congratulations also on your improved Cellophane wrapper with that little tab that opens your package so easily."

Robert Montgomery

In one blazing year Robert Montgomery zoomed into stardom—the answer to many a film fan's prayer, admired for his smart acting and boyish charm. The stage's loss was Hollywood's gain—and ours. Bob will soon be seen in "Private Lives" for M-G-M.

THE CRUSADERS COME TO TRINITY CAMPUS

W. Breckenridge Armstrong Heads Membership Committee of College

During the past three weeks most every college in the country has responded to the challenge of the "Crusaders" that of repealing the Volstead Act and the Eighteenth Amendment—by inaugurating strenuous campaigns for memberships, and the Trinity branch, headed by Breck Armstrong, has been very successful so far in acquiring backers. Heavily indorsed by many of the colleges' foremost men in Dr. John Grier Hibben of Princeton, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia and Dean Clarence W. Mendell of Yale who recognize in it an incentive for the new generation to voice their opinions, the movement has met with little opposition here and has been given a great amount of consideration by all. Definite plans for further presentation of the prohibition question before the Trinity student body have been decided upon in order that the Trinity man might comprehend more fairly when the time comes for him to vote. Whether or not the organization shall extend their activities further than the campus it has not been made known as yet, but, in all probabilities, once Trinity has been convinced, the influence of the Crusaders will be felt beyond the campus. The present organization is composed of a chairman and representatives of the fraternities and Neutral Body. They are as follows: Armstrong, D. K. E., chairman; Harold Disco, Sigma Nu; William A. Boeger, Psi Upsilon; John G. Tracy, Alpha Chi Rho; Thomas R. Stumpf, Delta Phi; John P. Coleman, Neutrals; George H. Bockwinkel, Alpha Delta Phi; and Cushman C. Reynolds, Delta Psi.

Having as their theme, true temperance, the Crusaders feel that, in order to moderate the crime, corruption, lawlessness, and the reckless drinking so prevalent today because of our extreme prohibition law, the control of liquor should be wrested from the national government and instituted in state legislation; that states curtail the sale of intoxicating liquors in accordance with the problems of the individual states; that there be state legislation to protect states that wish to remain dry; and that the Eighteenth Amendment, which renders these reforms impossible, be repealed. To accomplish their purposes it is the endeavor of every member to vote for the wet candidate who conforms closest to the principles of the Crusaders according to his ability and through the medium of general advertising to have the public realize that the Volstead Act was the wrong answer to our saloon problem.

At Williams an organization similar to that of Trinity's inaugurated a drive for three hundred new men, a success, and with a favorable reception everywhere there. On the other hand, at Wesleyan, Dean Chanter immediately condemned the Crusader movement whose denunciation was supported by the "Christian Science Monitor" of November 17 which quoted him as follows: "I can not sympathize with such people and such principles masquerading under this Christian name. What is the aim of the Crusaders' movement? They say they want to wipe out corruption in this country. Nonsense. What they really want is liquor. A large part of the Crusaders I know drank before the war, and still are drinking." Opposition at Trinity has not been forthcoming as yet and there is reason to believe that there will be no direct action in discouraging the Crusaders.

state legislatures. Extremely wet states would provide a source of boot-leg liquor that would be intolerable and uncontrollable to moderate states. Federal legislation to protect these states might be legal, but the Crusaders fail to explain how it could be effective."

"The Paynim are opposed to the Crusaders because their program, in essence, is emotional and incoherent. The Crusading hordes are apparently in a great hurry to get somewhere, without considering, however, where the logic (or illogic) of their program will lead them." —Williams Record.

FALL FROM SCAFFOLDING FATAL TO GLAZIER

M. J. Horan, Union President,
Dies of Internal Injuries—
Workmen Attend Funeral

Martin J. Horan, 34, of 445 Barbour Street, Hartford, fell from the scaffolding of the new chapel on Monday, November 23, and died in St. Francis Hospital the next day, of his injuries. His funeral was at his home on Friday, November 27, with a special requiem mass at St. Patrick's Church. Work was suspended on the chapel at this time, and the workmen attended in a body.

Horan had just installed the glass in one of the windows, and he was removing the scaffolding. He is thought to have slipped on some loose mortar and boards, and fell seventy feet to the ground. He was immediately rushed in a city ambulance to St. Francis Hospital where his internal injuries were found to be very severe. He had been employed as a glazier for over twenty-five years, and was president of the Glaziers' Union.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Rose Horan, four children, Joseph Horan, Mary Horan, and Alice Horan, and a father, all residents of Hartford. He also leaves two brothers, James Horan, of Elmhurst, L. I., and John B. Horan, of Hartford, and a sister.

tical help in these trying times, Dr. Barrett, who voluntarily retired a few years ago from active official worldwide diplomatic service but who since then has quietly continued his studies of Pan American, Asiatic and European problems by extended travel and research, authorizes, on the initiative of the above named Honorary Secretary, the announcement of his readiness to re-undertake international service.

"His competence in the premises is confirmed by his uniquely comprehensive experience as United States Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary in South America and Asia; Special Commissioner in Europe, Russia, India, China, Japan, Philippines, etc., United States Delegate to International Conferences; Director-General of the Pan American Union at Washington for fourteen years, when he also organized and directed the First and Second Pan American Commercial Conferences of which the Fourth has just been held (Oct. 5-13); Founder and Vice-President of the Pan American Society of the United States; and Chairman of the altruistic International Pan American Group and Committee and its Good Will Program ever since that responsible but unselfish task was imposed upon him in 1923 by the President of the United States.

"For this remarkable Old and New World service, he has been decorated by governments of Latin America and Asia, and given the degree of Doctor of Laws (LL.D.) by several universities. Former President and Chief Justice Taft said of him: 'He is not only the pioneer protagonist and dean of present-day Pan Americanism but an experienced expert on Pan Asiatic questions which he discusses brilliantly and informatively.' The late United States Senator Dwight W. Morrow, when ambassador to Mexico, described him as: 'One of the foremost living constructive Pan American authorities, and a notable student of Asiatic and European affairs, all of which he expounds most interestingly, instructively and eloquently.'"

DR. OGILBY CONTINUES LECTURE ON RELIGION

Speaks on Continuity and Unity in Human Nature

"Fear, group instinct, and a passionate desire for continuity are the three underlying factors in human nature," said Dr. Ogilby, as he continued his talk on religion at the last freshman chapel service on Wednesday, December 2.

"Primitive fears, that is, fear of the dark, and fear of hunger have more or less disappeared. Today with our modern lighting equipment, there is scarcely a child who is afraid of the dark. Fear of hunger, however, may be seen lurking in the eyes of many of the natives of the Far East. A large part of religion is to banish fear. Love, confidence, and trust in God, the characteristics of the Christian people, do away with fear.

"The unity of individuals in certain groups that make it act as one, group instinct, is the second important factor in human nature. Examples of this factor are cheering at football games, clustering of bees, and singing of hymns.

"The last and most important factor is the passionate desire for continuity. This is common especially among the Chinese who desire an offspring so that someone will pray for them after death. If the child dies first, a calamity will surely ensue. There was a time when continuity of family was taboo. Sex was considered terrible, and men would satisfy their desires in dark corners, and red light districts. Civilization may be in danger if reproduction is followed upon a large scale. Human nature is likeliest to God when man leans over the cradle, and says, 'Thou art my little son.' Man is closest to God then."

Dr. Ogilby will continue his talk on religion next Wednesday. The fact that Dr. Ogilby has spent quite a little time in the Philippines makes his talks doubly interesting in that he oftentimes alludes to his experiences with the natives as illustrations. Professors Hutt and Barret are aiding Dr. Ogilby in preparing text for the talks on religion.

service. Carey, former jayvee star, is also likely to break into the lineup. Outstanding at the guard berths are Bialick and Duksa, both veterans, and Kenny.

The opening contest is with the strong Williams quintet at Williams-town. This is followed by games with R. P. I. and Massachusetts Aggies. Both these colleges boast of powerful aggregations this season, and will test the Blue and Gold squad to the utmost.

A junior 'varsity squad has been practicing regularly under the tutelage of Assistant Coach Wright. Several games may be scheduled for the seconds before the Christmas recess, although nothing definite has as yet been arranged. Those who have shown up particularly well to date are: Sam-pers, Warren and Elliott, forwards; Kellam, center; and Martens, Kelly and Sinnott at the guard posts. Others on the squad include Acquaviva, Clark, Cook, Hanaghan, Heyel, Hoffson, Lau, Levin, Marquet, McClure, Paoli, Remosukas, Shea, Sournay, Thompson, Trantolo, Warner and Webber.

Why

our dancing pupils are always popular partners

At Arthur Murray's Modern Studios accepted vogue in dancing is correctly anticipated far in advance. And nowhere in America will you find a larger or more talented staff of cultured teachers.

Mr. Murray has arranged to give private lessons in the newest, smartest dance steps to Trinity Students at Specially Reduced Holiday Rates.

Take advantage of this opportunity to improve your dancing while in New York! Clever, attractive instructors will quickly correct your dancing faults whether they be trivial or conspicuous—teach you steps that are up-to-the-minute and distinctively "New York"—in one-fourth the usual time.

Last year we were unable to accommodate all the pupils during the Christmas holidays. To be sure of getting your appointments, call at the Studio as soon as you reach New York!

dents, and thus eliminates many of the evils of the former "cut-throat" system.

Provisions of the tentative agreement recently brought up are as follows:

Article 1—No pledging is to be done before (*) 1932 and any pledge offered or accepted between (*) 1932 and that date will not be considered as binding, either to the fraternity or the pledgee by the recognized fraternities on the campus.

(*Dates are as yet undecided).

Article 2—The Interfraternity Council is to be notified of the men pledged after (*) by (*) and all pledging and breaking of pledges occurring thereafter. Notices of these matters will be posted regularly.

(*Dates as yet undecided).

Article 3—A period of silence between upper classmen and new men will begin on Sunday (first Sunday of the College year) at 5 a. m. and continue till 1 p. m. No fraternity man shall converse with any new man outside of his fraternity house until 1.30 p. m. of that Sunday.

Article 4—Cut-throat rushing shall begin at 1.30 p. m. Sunday and continue throughout the college year.

Article 5—Every fraternity shall turn in to the Interfraternity Council by 9 a. m., Sunday, the list of men whom it wishes to have as guests for dinner on Sunday.

Sub Article—This list is not to exceed twenty men.

Article 6—Each fraternity will be supplied uniform blanks by the Interfraternity Council which they will fill out and return to the Interfraternity Council before 9 a. m. Sunday. The Council will distribute these to the new men.

Article 7—After having placed invitations in envelopes the Council will slip them under the rushees' door at 10.30 a. m.

Invitations to men off the campus shall be presented to the Council by 9 p. m. Saturday. The Council shall send them at its own expense, by special delivery, to the rushee.

Article 8—These invitations to dinner are not equivalent to a bid.

CAMELS are KEPT Fresh!

YOU probably know that heat is used in the treatment of all cigarette tobaccos.

But you know too that excessive heat can destroy freshness and fragrance.

That's why there could be no truly fresh cigarette except for scientifically developed methods of applying heat.

Reynolds is proud of having discovered and perfected methods for getting the benefits of heat treatments and still avoiding ever parching or toasting.

With every assurance we tell you, Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

If you wish to know why the swing to Camels is nationwide and steadily growing—switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can.
