CONN. AGGIES DEFEATED IN FINAL TRACK MEET

Team Closes Undeclared Season with Brilliant Show of Power

KELLAM LEADS SCORING

Convey Nearly Breaks Pole Vault Record—Daut Performs Well

The Trinity track team brought its season to a close last Saturday with an undefeated record in dual meets by winning its last encounter from the Connecticut Aggies with a score of 73 to 53 on the Trinity oval.

The Blue and Gold team took nine out of fourteen first places and a good majority of the others. Again Lucius Kellam scored the most points for the Trinity team, fifteen in all, by placing first in the 100-yard dash, the running high jump, and the broad jump. He took the latter with a leap of 22 feet, 1½ inches, just 5½ inches under the school record. Bob Daut scored ten points, taking first in the high hurdles, second in the broad jump and third in the high jump and shot put. Another college record was dangerously approached when Tommy Convey took first place in the pole vault at 11 feet, 6 inches. He narrowly failed to make 12 feet, 2 inches in an effort to break the college record of 12 feet, ¼ inch. Adams took first place in the quarter-mile, turning in a surprisingly good time of 53 8-10 seconds after a well-judged burst of speed on the home stretch. Bissell finished with a narrow second place.

The Connecticut Aggie runners made a clean sweep in the 220-yard dash, and captured an easy first and second in the two mile-run. They also placed first and second in the half-mile.

TRACKMEN PLACE IN MEET AT WORCESTER

Captain Christy, Daut, and Convey Tally Seven Points for Team Scoring

Captain Ralph Christy, Bob Daut, and Tom Convey succeeded in taking places in the annual Eastern Intercollegiate track meet held recently at Worcester. Daut made four and one-half points garnered through his efforts in the high hurdles, broad jump and high jump. Convey tallied one and one-half points, the result of a tie for third in the pole vault. The other Trinity point-maker was Christy, captain of this year's team, who finished fourth in the high hurdles to chalk up one marker. Bill Carlton and Mort Spray also competed.

Although Trinity was not represented by a full team because of the fact that all freshmen and one-year men were barred by an intercollegiate ruling, the few men who were taken by Coach Oosting managed to run up seven points to take sixth place in the team standing. This is the best showing made by a Blue and Gold contingent in some time despite the fact that only five members of this year's squad competed. Last year Trinity failed to place at all, while the year previous Welivar made a second in the broad jump.

Rhode Island State's undefeated team had no trouble in winning the championship which was not defended by Springfield College, last year's title holders.

CLASS DAY EXERCISES TO BE HELD JUNE 17

New Chapel to be Consecrated During Commencement Week-end

Commencement exercises will begin June 17 and continue through June 20. The Class of 1932 will hold its class day on Friday, the exercises being held on the campus at 4 p. m. At 8 p. m. the annual meeting of the Trinity College Corporation will be held in the Trustees' room. Fraternity reunions will begin at 8.30 the same evening. On Alumni Day, Saturday, June 18, the activities will begin with morning prayer in the old chapel at 8 o'clock. At 9.45 the academic procession will line up in front of Northam Towers prior to the chapel consecration. At 11.30 a. m. the Trinity Alumni Association will hold its annual meeting in the public speaking room. The new dining hall will be the scene of the Alumni luncheon at 1 o'clock. At 2 p. m. the baseball team will play Harvard on Trinity field. On the same afternoon the Phi Beta Kappa will have its annual meeting. From 4 until 6, President Ogilby will hold a reception at his home on Vernon Street. From 5 until 6, there will be a carillon recital, and at the latter hour an organ concert will be given in the new chapel. At 7.30 p. m. the numerous class dinners will be held, and the dinner of the "Class of 1823" will be held at the University Club on Lewis Street.

Baccalaureate Sunday, June 19, will commence with holy communion in the chapel, followed by the morning service at 11 o'clock. The afternoon will be devoted to musical concerts. From 4 to 5 the singing tower will be the center of interest. A vesper service will be held in the chapel at the close of the carillon concert. At 5.30 there will be an organ recital on the new chapel instrument. The evening prayer and baccalaureate sermon will be preached in the evening by the Right Rev. Frederick Bethune Bartlett, D.D., '04, bishop of North Dakota.

The academic procession will again form in front of Northam Towers on Monday morning at 10 a. m. for the "last rites." The new chapel will be the scene of the one hundred and sixth Trinity College commencement at 10.30 a. m.

TRINITY AND WESLEYAN MEET AGAIN TOMORROW

Nine Also to Face Conn. Aggies in Game Here on Memorial Day

The Blue and Gold baseball team will clash with Wesleyan tomorrow at Middletown, and with the Connecticut Aggies at Trinity Field Memorial Day morning. Both these teams have been met earlier in the season, Wesleyan succumbing before the masterly pitching of Bill Henebry 7 to 1, and the Aggies scoring an unexpected 4 to 2 triumph on their home grounds.

Trinity, however, is a strong favorite to take both nines into camp in the next engagements. A latent show of batting power, the lack of which has wrought havoc with the hopes for a brilliant season on the diamond, seems to have restored the confidence of the players who are also striving to at least break even in their season's record.

Both Ray Adams and Bill Henebry will be ready for mound duty with Houlihan in reserve should either falter. Coach Gil Wright will probably send Henebry to the firing line. (Continued on page 4.)

Today, May 24, at 7.45 p. m., the members of the Junior Class will line up along the temporary chapel fence for the Medusa tapping. The order of tapping in no way indicates positions of honor.

WED. CHAPEL SERVICE FEATURES ORGAN TALK

G. D. Harrison Sketches Early History of Instrument—Watters Plays

The mid-week chapel service held Wednesday morning in the new chapel was devoted to the new organ which has been installed recently by the Skinner Organ Company. The first part of the program consisted of a talk on the construction and development of the organ by G. Donald Harrison, a young English expert, employed by the Skinner Company. Mr. Harrison was introduced by President Ogilby. He sketched the history of the organ from 200 B. C. at which time there was an instrument having the fundamental parts of an organ; a bellows, a wind-chest, and a set of pipes.

In the beginning an organ held a function similar to the modern steam organ used at country fairs. For that reason it was at first opposed as a church instrument, according to the speaker. But when the softer organ tones were later produced it was acceptable. Mr. Harrison described the work of the organ beaters whose function was to supply sufficient air to play the various pipes.

The development of the organ was slow and for many centuries only single melodies could be played. One of these "plain-songs" was played on the organ by Clarence Watters, the newly appointed Trinity College organist and music instructor, who illustrated Mr. Harrison's lecture. Organs were later added to so that there were sufficient pipes to play harmonics. With the increase of the number of pipes there was a corresponding increase in the size of the keyboard, Mr. Harrison pointed out.

About 1685 in Germany the organ reached its fullest development with a range of about nine octaves. To illustrate this range Mr. Watters played the lowest pipe in the Trinity organ, a huge wooden affair about 40 feet high, and Mr. Harrison played the highest by blowing on a very small pipe he had in his hand. Mr. Harrison told of the various mechanical devices (Continued on page 4.)

PROF. PERKINS ADDRESSES HARTFORD ALUMNI GROUP

Tells of Travel Experiences in Address to Graduates

Bali, tiny island in the Malay Archipelago, is now known as the last Paradise, but in that that the tourist steamers are stopping there it probably soon will cease to be that, Professor Henry A. Perkins, traveler and explorer, told the Hartford Alumni Association at its meeting Wednesday night.

Professor Perkins in an illustrated lecture took his audience with him through certain of the countries he visited in his last world tour in 1929. Dr. John H. T. Sweet, head of the local Alumni Association, presided and announced that it was planned to have a series of meetings with talks by members of the faculty.

INTRAMURAL TRACK MEET TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Daut and Kellam Expected to Share Individual Scoring Honors

The annual college intra-mural track meet will be held this afternoon and Thursday afternoon on the Trinity Field. This meet is one of the last competitions that will count towards the Alumni Cup for this year. Sigma Nu, present holders of the cup, are putting up a stubborn battle to retain possession of it and will be represented by one of the strongest squads ever assembled in one house. However, they are expected to receive stern opposition from St. Anthony Hall which also boasts of fine potential material. Delta Phi has a better than even chance of making it a three-cornered fight.

The Sigma Nu's have Bissell, Hazenbush, W. Adams, Gladwin, Birch and Carlton in the running events; and Alexander, Convey and Hanaghan in the field events. All of these men are members of the current varsity track squad.

Experienced men competing for St. Anthony are Kellam, all-around freshman ace, Wright, Thayer, Clark and Sheafe. Delta Phi's main hope is Bob Daut, who is expected to battle it out with Kellam for high individual point laurels in the meet. They also have Lau and Geiger, both capable performers.

Other men who will undoubtedly figure prominently in the scoring are Christy and Smith of Alpha Chi Rho, Darrell and Warner of Alpha Delta Phi, and Harris of Psi Upsilon. The neutral teams boast of such stars as Swanson, speedy middle distance man; Gadd, also a middle distancer; and Spray, weight man.

With such an array of talent on hand many meet records seem doomed to fall and the competition should be the best in the history of intra-college meets. The winning team will be awarded 15 points towards the Alumni Cup and will also get a suitable trophy symbolic of its victory. Second and third will count 10 and 5 points, respectively. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be given the first three individual point scorers.

TRINITY RIFLEMEN OUTSCORE HARVARD

Gadd Just Misses Perfect Mark as Gun Club Wins 448 to 430

The Rifle team, Friday, May 21, defeated the Harvard team with a score of 448 to 430 on the latter's home range at Arlington, Mass. The match was shot with .30 calibre army rifles, the score of each team being determined by the five highest records. The course consisted of ten shots prone, five sitting, and five standing. The range was 200 yards.

Robert Gadd's previous experience in shooting with R. O. T. C. and National Guard teams was of great benefit to the Trinity team, as he scored 98 out of a possible 100 points, and coached each member individually.

The Trinity Rifle Club, although it is not a recognized organization on the campus, has existed for four years, practicing once a week at the Armory during the winter and at the Hartford Gun Club during the spring. Postal matches are held each year with the teams of Wentworth Institute, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, (Continued on page 4.)

MASS. STATE ROUTED BY BLUE AND GOLD

Baseball Team Records Third Successive Victory Winning 11 to 3

ADAMS PITCHES WELL

Good Team Work and a Tight Defense Are in Evidence—Three Snappy Double Plays

The Trinity nine extended its winning streak to three straight in the fourth home game of the season, defeating the Massachusetts State baseball team on May 21 by a score of 11 to 3. Ray Adams pitched well for the Blue and Gold, although it is apparent that the present year has yet to see him at the peak of his form. His teammates gave him good support, hammering out fifteen hits and displaying a tight defense that was marked by three snappy double plays. Tikofski, Massachusetts pitcher, was knocked out of the box in the seventh by a four-run bombardment. Previously he had yielded four runs in the first, one in the third and two in the fourth inning.

It was raining lightly when the first batter faced Adams at the opening of the game. Welch went to first on balls and promptly stole second, scoring a minute later on Hicks' single. Trinity came right back to score four runs and take a commanding lead when Phippen reached first on a fielder's choice. Tikofski was finding difficulty in controlling the wet ball, and he hit Bell and Carey before the inning was over. Fontana and Adams both hit safely, and Bockwinkel was passed to force in the first run. The Blue and Gold had batted around once before Elliott was finally retired to end the inning.

NETMEN WILL CLOSE SEASON THIS WEEK

Matches with Williams and Holy Cross Final Test for Team

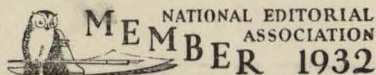

Matches with Williams and Holy Cross on May 25 and 28 will bring the year's tennis season to a close this week. The Purple, always represented by a well-balanced squad, will play host to Trinity tomorrow at Williamstown; and Holy Cross will be met Saturday at Worcester. The Crusaders are also noted for having better than average teams and the Blue and Gold netmen will be forced to the limit if they are to come out on top in either of these encounters. The line-up for Trinity will probably include Martini, Donley, Mowbray, Burke, Craig and Greenberg or Jackson, in the singles; and Martini and Donley, Burke and Mowbray, and Craig and Greenberg in the doubles. The men will compete in the order above in both contests.

The Trinity racquetmen have enjoyed a very successful campaign so far this spring and even though they should lose both these last matches they will have made a good record. Only once having the use of good campus courts, the team, nevertheless, has scored notable victories over Springfield, Worcester Tech, Fordham, Connecticut Aggies and Clark. The last two named opponents failed to take one individual engagement from the Trinity players. One lone defeat suffered at the hands of Amherst is the only blemish on an otherwise perfect record.

FOUR OUT OF FOUR

With the meet last Saturday, Trinity's track team won four of its contests out of four, and did well in the Eastern Intercollegiate. This is an enviable record and worthy of the highest compliment and praise.

May we voice the thanks of the school to those men who have done so well after four consecutive years of trial and retrial until success was reached? May we thank those stellar lights who appeared suddenly and shone so brightly during the season? May we thank Professor Oosting, who guided the efforts of all?

It has been a successful team which merits our congratulations.

TILL THE LAST SHOT IS FIRED!

This year's academic race can be made a really successful run if as many students as possible stay around the campus until the last shot is fired on Monday, June 20, for the one hundred and sixth Commencement.

It is realized that for some students there are ghosts and nightmares hiding in the buildings and among the trees. These students flee in all fear after their last examination. Others have summer positions which demand attention. (Anyone who can get a job for the summer deserves to be excused.) There are, however, many to whom a few extra days of what is perhaps the most exciting part of the college year will mean no hardship. To these students we appeal to make this a gala commencement.

The four days, beginning Friday, June 17, as planned, are full of interesting events for us as well as the Alumni. Glance at the calendar for the week-end. The Class Day Exercises in the afternoon on Friday, and the Fraternity Reunions that evening should prove interesting. On Saturday there will be the Consecration of the Chapel, for which we have waited two and a half years. The Consecration will be in the morning, while in the afternoon, Trinity will meet Harvard in baseball, and at six o'clock there will be an organ recital. Four opportunities will be offered on Sunday to attend services in the Chapel, with the baccalaureate sermon in the evening by Bishop Bartlett of North Dakota. The academic procession and Commencement on Monday morning will bring the week-end to a close.

We sincerely hope that all students who can possibly do so will remain at college over that week-end. It is high time that the students demonstrated their interest in Trinity by being here when the Alumni arrive. Let us keep the pulse of the college going over that week-end, and not leave a corpse on the sixteenth of June at the completion of the final examinations. Let us stay in the race until the last shot is fired and not say in effect to our visiting alumni, "Take up the run! We're tired, so we're going home."

UNITED GREEKS

It is late in the season to dip our pen into the ink of battle. We cannot, however, pass over this last opportunity of suggesting a new field of endeavor for next September.

We can think of no other group on the campus at the present time which is so badly battered and ill-treated by fraternity and college alike as the Interfraternity Council. For years the fraternities have been striving to build an organization which could serve as a chamber of peace, court of law, and spokesman to the Administration for the combined Greeks.

A successful failure has been the result, the Council's only activity being the control of rushing. Rushing has become paramount in importance to the almost total exclusion of other and more important interfraternity matters. The Council has been forced to wrangle over rushing regulations in order to save its face and have an excuse for meeting.

The Council has been weakened in two ways, each distinctly

COMMUNICATION

On behalf of the Interfraternity Council I should like to comment on the communication to our organization in last week's Tripod concerning the revision of pledging rules. First, a word in defense of the new agreement. We make no pretext that our plan is fool-proof. A perfect rushing agreement does not exist; an adequate one comes as the result of experimentation and progressive evolution. We believe that the agreement for next year is a long step forward in the right direction. It represents not what we thought the most satisfactory or ideal, but the most that we could obtain by dint of hard work and compromise. It is one thing to say that such and such a thing should be done; it is quite another to get seven fraternities each with different ideas, fears, and rushing prospects, to do it. The new rushing agreement was drafted so that it satisfied the demands of seven houses. We can not hope, then, for it to be letter-perfect; too much compromise was necessary. Several houses, for example, wanted to prolong rushing for a month, or even an entire semester; but two or three opposed such a move. It was impossible, therefore, to institute extended or delayed rushing since an agreement containing this would never have been passed.

In my opinion a system of deferred pledging is excellent for the obvious reasons given in last week's communication. The chief arguments used against such a system in the Council meetings last fall, as I recall them, were not that the fraternity dining rooms could not stand the financial loss involved, as "Hurtz" seems to think. This argument was only mildly voiced. The main objections were that it would be too long before students, both freshmen and upper classmen, could get settled down; that too much additional work was placed upon the fraternities; and it was feared that the fraternities would keep up the rushing race the entire rushing period, both off and on campus, which would necessitate large expenditures. Nevertheless, it seems to me that if all freshmen ate in the new dining hall the first few weeks and a limit was set upon the number of times a rushee could be entertained by a certain house, prolonged rushing could be successfully carried out.

Hurtz's solution does not impress me. First, it goes at great length to remove an objection to extended rushing which is not as vital as others. Second, though he complains that the adopted system contains too much red tape, he includes in his plan as much, if not more, complexity. Control is vested in the hands not of one body, as the Interfraternity Council, but in the hands of the disunited heads of the fraternities. The opportunity for breaking the agreement, thirdly, would be greater under this system than any others. Who would eat with a well-liked man for two weeks in one's own house without telling him he was going to get a bid? The fraternity who had a rushee the first week would persuade him to eat in the Commons during the time that he could not spend at its house. All sorts of abuses would arise.

Hurtz suggests as a way to put teeth into the agreement that we exclude an offending fraternity from group activities. But just what could we exclude such a house from? Surely not interfraternity sports. The College would not allow that. Forbidding a house to enter the bridge tournament would not put teeth in any agreement. Of course, by refusing to extend dance invitations, etc., the united fraternities could cut a transgressor socially, but it is questionable how much disciplinary action this would have.

Just because (in the agreement no method of enforcement is included), one has no right to think it cannot be enforced. The plan which the Council has in mind, and which is within its rights, for use against any house which withdraws or breaks rushing rules, is to have all its members rush against that fraternity. As has been shown in the past at Columbia and elsewhere, this method has been effective; the offending house being sufficiently punished. This is the only sort of enforcement we could provide. No bonding company would take the risk of bonding an agreement of this sort, and the fraternities declined to put up cash funds which might be forfeited if any rules were broken.

The present rushing agreement is not as complicated as it looks upon first sight. Many dates, hours, etc., were put in so that there may be absolutely no misunderstanding. For the things it accomplishes, the system is very simple. There is no awkward dead-line between the time of rushing and pledging. There will be no "midnight pledging", no "sand-bagging", no last-minute high-pressure talk. Admittedly, in order for the system to work at its best we must have an enterprising Council next year with a forceful leader.

I appreciate the constructive criticism of "G. Howitt Hurtz." It is only through discussions like this that foolish notions may be dislodged from the heads of fraternity men. I hope I have made the feelings of the Council clear. We feel our plan is a far-from-perfect, but workable and progressive step, toward a very effective system of rushing for Trinity.

G. KEITH FUNSTON,

important and each capable of elimination. First, the fraternities have been unwilling to present their problems for discussion and, if possible, cooperation. The Greeks are not fighting. That is because their powder is wet. A little, drying heat, and we might have an explosion. Each fraternity must realize that it is because others are. Separation is death, and amalgamation is increased life. Such amalgamation can only come from intelligent and active representation from each group at Council meetings where discussions are above-board and cooperative.

The other reason for weakness lies in the hands of the Administration. By limiting the Council's powers and functions, the Administration has made it a half-hearted organization. Perhaps the most outstanding usurpation of what should be one of the functions of the Council, was the recent refusal to allow the Council to sponsor an interfraternity dance. The Senate ran the dance. The argument was offered that the Council is not a social organization. We can hardly agree that the Senate financiers are more socially suited for an interfraternity responsibility.

The Greeks must unite on this campus as they have never done before, and the authorities must grant full recognition to these representatives of half the student body.

crossed the plate in the fourth inning. Massachusetts gained a run in the fifth when Farrar scored on White's single, and only a double play, Elliott to Kelly to Bockwinkel, prevented further scoring. Another double play checked a rally in the following frame, after Hicks had connected for a two-base hit and then come home on Gibson's hit.

Two passed balls, a fielder's choice, two bases on balls and four hits accounted for Trinity's final scores in the seventh. Coveleski replaced Tikofski on the mound for Massachusetts and struck out the first three men to face him in the eighth. Captain Phippen, who had been knocked out in the fifth inning by a foul tip that hit his mask, made a spectacular catch of a foul fly in the ninth to retire the first batter. Farrar struck out, and Burrington, a pinch hitter, was thrown out at first as the game ended.

In its eighth game of the season the Trinity baseball team chalked up its third victory by defeating Wesleyan 7 to 1, on May 18 at the local field. Bill Henebry continued to show the excellent form which accompanied the 11 to 0 defeat administered to Clark but a week before. He struck out nine batters and passed only one, while Wiggers, the Cardinal and Black pitcher, gave eight bases on balls, hit three men and recorded one strikeout. Trinity scored in the sixth and eighth innings, while Wesleyan's lone run came in the seventh.

Henebry got off to a good start, striking out the first two batters. Dee, however, singled for the first hit of the game, but Phippen's alertness retired the side when Kelly took the Trinity captain's throw to nail the runner at second base. Vannie led off for the Blue and Gold with a single but was put out at second when the Wesleyan catcher evened things up with a fast peg to Fricke. Phippen and Fontana both received bases on balls only to be stranded as Bockwinkel flied out and Adams failed to reach first.

During the next four innings Henebry and Wiggers pitched steady ball, Trinity getting one hit to Wesleyan's two. Then in the last half of the sixth, the Blue and Gold came to life. With one out Elliott rapped out a sharp grounder and reached second on Johnstone's error. Henebry followed with another single, scoring Elliott ahead of him, and then tallied when Vannie connected for a hit. Fontana received a pass to first, and Bockwinkel doubled to right field to score two more runs. Armstrong, who had been substituted for Adams when the latter was hit by one of Wiggers' wild balls in the sixth, singled, only to be put out at second base to end Trinity's immediate scoring.

In the seventh inning Wesleyan took advantage of two errors to score its only run. The Trinity batters calmed down in that inning, but opened up again in the eighth to score three more runs on hits by Fontana and Elliott and an error by Dee. Wesleyan came to bat in the ninth resolved to score, but a promising rally was nipped by a fast double play, and Johns grounded out to end the game.

DO YOU INHALE?

A frank discussion at last on a subject that has long been "taboo"

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

"LET sleeping dogs lie!" So said the cigarette trade when first we raised the subject of inhaling. But dodging an important issue is not Lucky Strike's policy!

Do you inhale? That question is vitally important . . . for every smoker inhales—knowingly or unknowingly. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette! And the delicate membranes of your throat demand that your smoke be pure, clean—free of certain impurities!

No wonder Lucky Strike dares to raise this vital question! For Luckies bring you the protection you want . . . because Luckies' famous purifying process removes certain impurities concealed in every tobacco leaf. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

So, whether you inhale knowingly or unknowingly, safeguard those delicate membranes!

that have helped to perfect organ technique. He explained that various stops on the organ were made to imitate instruments such as the clarinet and English horn so that classical as well as church music could be played. The Trinity organ can be used for both church and classical music. In concluding, Mr. Watters illustrated the various tones created by the many stops with a finale of "testing the organ's lungs" by playing many pipes at once.

The latter part of the service was devoted to a lecture on organ music by A. Tillman Merritt, instructor of music at Trinity, and the playing of Bach's little fugue in G minor and Caesar Franck's "Choral." Mr. Merritt gave a short biographical sketch of both Bach and Franck.

against the Cardinals. Henebry has scored two impressive wins in his last two starts. He shut out Clark 11 to 0, and just missed administering a similar defeat to Wesleyan because of poor support rendered him afield. Adams will be saved to get another crack at the Aggiemen who upset him in the previous encounter. The rest of the line-up will probably remain intact as it has been in the last few contests. Bockwinkel, Elliott, Kelly and Fontana in the infield; Vannie, Armstrong and Bell or Adams in the outer gardens; and Captain Phippen behind the plate.

TRINITY RIFLEMEN WIN.

Worcester Tech., and Northeastern University.

The match with Harvard is an annual and the climax of the year's competition. Edwin H. Lawton, president of the club, has expressed the hope that a larger group of men will become interested in trying out for the team next year and afford themselves the opportunity which the club offers to everyone in the college.
