Blue and Gold Evens Series with Thrilling 23-20 Victory Over
Cardinal Squad

MARTENS AND DAUT STAR

Latter Tosses Winning Baskets
In Final Minutes of Play
—Allen Leads Losers

On Wednesday, February 28, the Trinity basketball team defeated the Wesleyan quintet at Middletown by a 23 to 20 score. This victory avenges a loss inflicted by the Cardinals two weeks ago when the teams clashed at Hartford. A large group of Trinity followers were at the game, and left the Wesleyan gym well pleased with the result of the contest. The win marked the ninth in ten starts for the Blue and Gold.

The game was only a few minutes old when Kearns scored on a free try. Bob Daut tossed in two field goals, and Pepper Martens converted a foul shot. Martens slipped through the Cardinal defense for another Trinity basket to make the score 8 to 0. Wesleyan, after taking time out, came back with a rush. Allen parted the drapes on a long pop, and then dribbled in to the hoop for two double-deckers. Allen, fouled when shooting, made one free throw. Stewart found the range for a two-pointer, putting the Wesleyan five out in front, 9 to 8. Martens scored twice from the free throw line, but O'Leary kept the Cardinals ahead, as he tossed a pretty side shot through the hoop. The first half ended with Wesleyan leading, 11 to 10.

Goode increased the home team's advantage with a brace of fouls, and Allen scored again from the floor, raising the score to 15 to 10. After Bender made a one-pointer, Sis Sampers scored a basket and a free try to keep Trinity in the running. Goode came through with a one-handed shot as Wesleyan held an 18 to 13 lead. Tommy Kearns got a

TWO MORE FRATERNITIES CONDUCT INITIATIONS

Delta Psi and Alpha Tau Kappa
Entertain Alumni at Week-end
Ceremonies

The Trinity chapters of the national fraternity of Delta Psi and the local fraternity of Alpha Tau Kappa held their annual initiations last week. The formal inductions were followed by a banquet or some other form of entertainment in honor of the new members. Various alumni of the two chapters returned to the college to witness the initiations.

Delta Psi initiated William Nickerson Bancroft of Boston; Philip Whitman Cottrell of Westerly, R. I.; Walter Tufts, Jr. of Worcester, Mass.; and Paul Burdett of Englewood, N. J. All these men are members of the freshman class.

Alpha Tau Kappa inducted John W. Bauer and John D. Flynn of Hartford, both in the freshman class; James M. Carroll of Hartford, a sophomore; and Stephen S. Coffey, Thomas J. Carmody, and Joseph F. Ryter, of Hartford, and Joseph V. Fay of Elmwood, all juniors.

Delta Kappa Epsilon has not held its formal initiation as yet.

TRINITY REPRESENTED AT ANTI-WAR MEETING

Three Local Delegates Attend
Conference at Smith
Feb. 24 and 25

Before two hundred delegates representing seventeen colleges in the Connecticut Valley, President William A. Nielson of Smith welcomed the Students' Anti-War Conference, held Saturday and Sunday, February 24 and 25, at Sage Hall, Smith College. The morning was devoted to a symposium of all degrees of opinion on the question of war. Professor Colston E. Warne, in his opening address, expressed the opinion that only a social change could prevent war. M. E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College, and delegate for the United States to the 1932 Disarmament Conference, told of the progress made among the governments of Europe by means of pacts. She read extracts from a letter sent by a European delegate expressing amazement at the Vinson Navy Bill, appropriating over $500,000,000 for more battle-ships. It was her opinion that this was a serious blow against disarmament.

The War Resisters' League was represented by Jessie Hughan and the pacifist position was explained. Professor Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana spoke on the program of the American League Against War and Fascism, which believes that "the imminent war danger is only another expression of the fundamental crisis of the capitalistic system." The symposium closed with a talk by Herbert Benjamin, describing the Communist position on war.

In the evening there were several reports by students and a discussion from the floor. One student said that every battleship built today costs from nine to twenty-two million dollars. He suggested that each student figure out what his college could do

MERMEN SCORE EASILY OVER WORCESTER TECH

Swimmers Capture All But One
First Place for Fifth Win
—Hall Excels

On Saturday, March 3, the Trinity swimmers were afforded little opposition by the Worcester Tech tankmen and rolled up a 49 to 28 score against the Engineers in their own pool. Winners of eight of the nine events on the program, the Blue and Gold swim stars recorded their fifth victory of the current season.

Hall, with two firsts, and Mowbray and Captain Coit with hard-earned triumphs in their specialties, were the bright lights in the Trinity victory. Captain Falvey and Gray stood out for the losers. It was only through some strenuous efforts on the part of these two men that the Worcester squad was able to score their one success, the winning of the 400-yard relay.

The Trinity team will bring its season to a close when they face a strong Wesleyan aggregation in the Trowbridge Memorial Pool tonight at 8 p. m. The Cardinals have an enviable record thus far this year, but Trinity can be expected to give a fitting final appearance which may cause the invaders no little trouble.

Summary:
300-yard Medley Relay—Won by Trinity (Onderdonk, Coit, Mowbray); second, Worcester (Lane, Grublevskas, Wiley). Time, 3 minutes, 25 4-5 seconds.

200-yard Free Style—Won by Hall, Trinity; second, Falvey, Worcester; third, Motten, Trinity. Time, 2 minutes, 29 1-5 seconds.

SARGENT, HARVARD, WINS COLLEGE SQUASH TITLE IN TOURNAMENT HERE

Seeded No. 3 Player Defeats
Teammate, Glidden, by
3 to 2 Score

HOLLINS PRESIDENT

Trinity Player Will Head Next
Year's Association—1934
Matches at Yale

Keeler Sargent of Harvard won the third annual intercollegiate squash tournament Saturday afternoon on the Trinity courts, defeating his teammate, Germaine Glidden, by a score of 3 games to 2. Glidden had previously eliminated William G. Foulke of Princeton, defending champion, in a closely-contested semi-final match. Hollins, Mason, and Bayley Hall, the three Trinity entrants, were all eliminated in the first round of play.

All the favorites advanced to semi-final round with the exception of Stephens of Princeton, seeded No. 2, who was upset by Terry of Yale, ranked as No. 5. The matches played Saturday morning revealed a sharp contrast in the style of play. Sargent, opposing Terry, found an opponent who could smash the ball fully as hard as he could, and both players went at a terrific pace. With the game score 2 to 1 against him and Sargent leading in the fourth game, 14-10, Terry put up a courageous fight and succeeded in drawing even with the tall Harvard entry, but Sargent took three out of the next four points to win the match 16-17, 15-6, 15-8, 17-15.

The match between Glidden and Foulke, on the other hand, furnished the crowded gallery with an exhibition of cautious play and accurate placements, in which the best squash of the tournament was to be found. This match was featured by long rallies, as neither player seemed willing to take any chances on risking kill shots. The score, 15-12, 13-15, 12-15, 15-13, 15-12, indicates how closely matched the two players were, and Glidden's victory was more the result of the breaks than any marked superiority.

Five places will count in each event, scoring five, four, three, two, and one points, except in the relay, which will score five places counting eight, five, three, two, and one points.

A DISCUSSION CLUB

Two weeks ago, through the efforts of a small group of Trinity College men and a member of the faculty, a prominent lecturer gave an address on Peace in the Public Speaking Room. The outcome was that several students became interested enough in the subject to attend the anti-war conference held at Smith College recently. The general interest aroused in the student body at that time makes it evident that a club whose purpose would be to discuss current topics would be well supported.

There is no doubt that there is a real need for such an organization here. Most of us are interested in modern trends and questions, but rarely are we well-informed and decided in our own minds about them. Discussions on subjects open to debate are usually won by the man who can talk loudest and longest, and for that reason are usually avoided. There are many, though, who would enjoy informal talks about modern political, economical, and social questions. Intelligent discussion would crystallize our opinions and arouse some of us from our intellectual lethargy. Undoubtedly there are men willing to sponsor such an organization and many more who would at least support it. Its formation would mark a great step forward in the intellectual life of the college.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

We were pleased to see how well the intercollegiate squash tournament was run off last week. Satisfaction came not only from an opportunity to see the pick of the college players in action, but from the realization, as well, that Trinity can play the part of a successful host on such occasions. The squash team, members of the faculty, and in particular John Mason, who directed the tournament, should receive the thanks and congratulations of the College upon a job well done.

That squash has gained a secure foothold at Trinity can no longer be denied. It has become one of the more popular sports of any season, and the six courts are in use almost constantly. Our players compete against Yale, Harvard, Princeton, M. I. T., and local club teams. The game of squash, therefore, is not only a representative sport, but its contacts add distinctly to whatever prestige we may have in the field of athletics. We should like to propose that members of the team receive some insignia or other award as a token of the College's appreciation.

DR. ALTMAIER DISCUSSES SUBJECT OF EFFICIENCY

Intelligence and Accuracy Are Contrasted in Chapel Talk
—Dwells on Education

On Wednesday morning, February 28, Dr. Altmaier of the Psychology Department gave a talk in the College Chapel on the subject of learning and methods of education in colleges. The speaker's remarks were, for the most part, pertinent to several expressions of opinion which have appeared recently in this paper, and have been related to his subject. The main points of his talk follow in detail:

"I want to say just a word or two this morning about some matters which have been stimulated by some interesting points of view, which have been lately expressed in recent issues of the Trinity Tripod. Matters upon which a person who claims to be a psychologist should at least have some ideas, for they have to do with the question of learning and the methods of education. It appears to me that the methods of education are rather intimately connected with the organism or individual who is being educated, as well as with the subject matter to be taught. An idea to which psychologists as well as educators are more recently giving some attention.

"I have chosen to discuss briefly with you two categories of behavior which I think are fundamental not only to the individual, but to an organization of individuals as well, a college, state, nation, society, or civilization. They are terms which are commonly used in our language, though often with slight or great differences in meaning, and differences in the relative significance which is attached to each. These categories of behavior are called intelligence and efficiency, traits which I shall consider as antithetic, or as located at two opposite extremes or poles.

"Intelligence implies originality, initiative, novelty, creativeness, invention, eccentricity. Efficiency, as opposed to intelligence, implies the lack of originality, novelty, creativeness. It is based upon a repetitive performance: it implies discipline through constraint, training, and practice; it is habit, custom, tradition, skill, obedience to rules and precedent.

"Which is the most important of these two characteristics, which the most desired, the most significant in our individual lives, our education, our society?

"Successful living is at least 99 parts in a 100 conformity and constraint; only a very small fraction of one per cent. of a man's life can, at the very best, display freedom of thought and action.

"This does not mean to imply, however, that intelligence is not of value, nor that it is not sometimes used. Our progress and advance comes only through the use of intelligence, creative genius which finds a better way, which presents to us a new idea. Genius and the use of intelligence is rare, but should be encouraged and developed, and allowed to function and flower wherever possible. One criticism of our society and education might be that it attempts to make

DANCE TO BE HELD SOON BY THE GERMAN CLUB

Nathaniel T. Clark is Chairman of Committee Laying Plans for March Sixteenth

At a meeting of the German Club held on February 21, further arrangements for a dance were discussed. The committee, made up of Nathaniel T. Clark, chairman, Desmond Crawford, and Barclay Shaw, announced March 16 as the date selected for the affair, which will begin at 10 and end at 3. The Trinity Troubadours have been contracted to furnish the music. It is to be an invitation-subscription dance and will probably be held at the Hartford Golf Club.

Invitations for the affair were mailed yesterday to over 500 people. It is interesting to note that this is the first dance given by the club since its revival six years ago.

The patronesses for the occasion will be: Mrs. Viggo D. Bird, Mrs. F. Minot Blake, Mrs. Lyman B. Brainerd, Mrs. Ralph D. Cutler, Mrs. J. H. Kelso Davis, Mrs. Charles A. Goodwin, Mrs. George C. Long, Jr., Mrs. Henry A. Perkins, Mrs. C. L. F. Robinson, and Mrs. James Terry.

ST. ANTHONY, SIGMA NU LEAD IN BRIDGE SCORES

Fraternities Divided Into Two
Leagues—Duplicate System
Being Used

The interfraternity bridge tournament is well on its way to completion, most of the matches having been played off in the past two weeks. The competing teams have been divided into two leagues, the winner of each to meet in the finals. A prize, the nature of which has not yet been determined, will be awarded to the winners.

The tournament originated at a meeting of the bridge enthusiasts of the various houses called three weeks ago by Edwin Gallaway. It was decided that the duplicate system would be used in all the matches. This is the system used in all the major tournaments, but this is the first time it has been used here. So far this method has met with great success, and all the matches have been close and interesting. The matches have been held in the evenings at one of the fraternity houses.

In League A St. Anthony holds the lead at present. Teams from that house have beaten teams from Alpha Chi Rho and Delta Kappa Epsilon. Alpha Chi Rho has also defeated Delta Kappa Epsilon and is now in second place. Alpha Delta Phi has not played any matches so far.

Sigma Nu is holding first place in League B, having defeated teams from Psi Upsilon and Delta Phi. The latter has also beaten Psi Upsilon and is in second place. Alpha Tau Kappa has not competed in any matches to date.

with that amount of money. Then Walter Relis, an American student, described his experiences in Cuba during the recent revolution.

On Sunday morning there were six round-table discussions, at which the following subjects were discussed: The Soviet Union and War, International Relations and War, Fascism and War, Labor and War, and Imperialism and War. Resolutions agreed on at the discussions were presented to the Conference for a vote. The afternoon was devoted to the adoption of resolutions, and the acceptance of a program by which students of various opinions could unite against war.

Trinity was represented by Benjamin, Kingston, and Zlochiver.

TRINITY QUINTET WINS
TENTH GAME BY 37 TO 27

Kelly and Liddell Outstanding
As Blue and Gold Triumphs
Over Coast Guard Team

The Trinity College basketball team annexed its tenth victory of the season by outscoring the Coast Guard Academy quintet by a 37 to 27 margin at the Hopkins Street gym last Saturday. The game lacked the usual interest that has marked the play of the Blue and Gold in the other contests. Poor handling of the ball and missing of easy set shots were outstanding faults of the Trinity team. Although they were fast on the court, the Sailors did not look like a team that would trouble the Trinity hoopsters, if the latter were up to form.

The first few minutes of the game was largely a matter of both teams' attempt to work the ball in, neither scoring until Statfs, racing under the hoop, dropped the ball through the cords. Tuffy Liddell tied the score with a short shot, and Trinity went into the lead on tallies by Daut, Martens, and Kearns. Weller and Cass tossed in points for Coast Guard, while Martens made good on a free try. The Sailors took the lead again when Statfs and Weller scored double-deckers, and Applegate converted a foul shot. The Blue and Gold, led by Captain Kelly who found the range for two baskets and a free throw, regained the advantage just before the gun sounded for the half. Trinity was in the lead by a 16 to 13 score.

For the first part of the second period, Trinity showed signs of its regular form by running up a 10-point lead on scores of Liddell, Kearns, Martens, and Daut. This drive was not long-lived, as the Blue and Gold seemed content to let down just a bit. Coast Guard was kept in the running on foul shots by Applegate and Statfs, and on baskets by Weller and Cass. After Kelly scored his third field goal, Blouin and Cass scored foul shots, bringing the total to 37 to 26. The final tally was made by Applegate, who tossed one in from the free throw line.

Methods of Learning
Discussed in Chapel

the individual not 99 but 100% efficient. It seems to me that there should be at least some place where creation and intelligence be allowed to flower, that is, in the field of intellectual production, a field which in the large is guarded over by our schools, our colleges and universities. Many of them have become too stand-pat and efficient. For after all, intelligence, like any other ability which the human being possesses will develop only through activity and exercise, or else it will atrophy through disuse.

"No student makes any contribution who merely reproduces what is presented to him, though this reproduction is important. Memory alone does not bring a man success either in business or in the intellectual realm. New discoveries, new ideas, are the result of the exercise of intelligence, of one's wits. Scientific advance has come because some have left the beaten track.

"I would say then that both intelligence and efficiency are important and necessary in man's life. That in education, as everywhere, memory is necessary as well as creation, conservatism as well as radicalism, submission as well as initiative, individualism as well as socialism. A student should be taught to think for himself as well as to think what his master teaches him. To teach a student to think for himself is to teach him to disregard authority, including his teacher's. This is one reason why it is not so often encouraged.

"Old age brings wisdom and lessened plasticity. Youth has less wisdom but more plasticity and initiative. If youth combines efficiency or wisdom with its greater plasticity and initiative, successful inventions will result. Young men must combine the best possible uses of intelligence and efficiency, remembering that both are necessary."

SARGENT WINS.

In the final match, Glidden appeared somewhat tired from his strenuous battle of the morning. He was forced to a more rapid rate, as Sargent lashed out terrific drives in bursts of incredible power, and it was chiefly Glidden's soft corner shots that brought him to even terms with the No. 3 player. In the final game, however, Sargent had his opponent completely at his mercy, and ran through a love game, thereby proving himself undisputed champion. The point scores were 15-12, 9-15, 17-14, 9-15, 15-0.

Seven universities and colleges were represented in the tournament, with entries from Yale, Harvard, Princeton, M. I.
