"Journey's End" Rapidly Nears Production Stage; Erskine Hawkins Prepared to Syncopate for Ball

Jesters Tremble as Chicken Pox Smites Butterworth: Cast Will Carry On

NEED REVOLVERS

Hartford Swamped With Posters; Girls' Schools Canvassed For Miles Around

Smitten, but not stopped, were the Jesters last week when one of the cast of "Journey's End", George F. Butterworth, 3rd, calmly announced that he was falling a victim to the ravages of chicken pox, that dreadful disease that so many of us experienced when we were young. "The play must go on!" shouted the members of the cast, as they doused themselves in disinfectant.

Still smiling after such a blow, the actors in "Journey's End," have been going through their paces, afternoon and evening, in preparation for the presentation in the Bulkeley High School Auditorium on Saturday, May 13. The excitement caused early this week when one of the stagehands discovered two pimples on his forehead and swooned onto the hard floor, has died down and everyone has resolved to do or die. John R. Williams, Instructor in Romance Languages, who was a Jester when at Trinity a few years ago is directing the play, and Mr. Wendell, also Instructor in Romance Languages, has offered his assistance. Both men insist that they are immune to all poxes.

Pillsbury, '41, a promising addition to the club who will be acting in his first play at Trinity, will play the leading role of Captain Stanhope.

Sheen, '41, who acted in "King Lear" last year, and R. Harris, '39, who also played in "King Lear" last year and who held the leading role in "The Late Cristopher Bean," will play Raleigh and Lieutenant Osborne, respectively. Maurice Evans, famous Shakespearian actor, remarked, while speaking on a Hartford radio program (Continued on page 4.)

Sunday, April 30 - Mr. William Greenough Wendell, Instructor in Romance Languages, unveiled a pewend which he and his wife have given in memory of Mr. Wendell's mother, Mrs. Edith Greenough Wendell, at the Chapel service this afternoon.

The panel of the pew-end, the twenty-fifth to be dedicated in the chapel, is a representation of the old N. H., and on the finial is a reproduction of a Dutch ship copied from the Wendell coat of arms.

The pew-end was accepted and blessed in the name of the college by President Ogilby, who paid a tribute to the wife of his old professor. Dr. Ogilby also said that it was particularly fitting that the pew-end should be situated just across from that given by the Harvard men, for it was at Harvard that Mrs. Wendell's husband taught for the greater part of

HORACE TAFT SPEAKER AT POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB MEETING MONDAY

"MERIT SYSTEM" TOPIC

Spoils System Costs a Billion Per Year; Merit System Seen as Solution

Monday, April 24-The Political Science Club was privileged this evening to hear a talk by Mr. Horace Taft, brother of the late William Howard Taft, former President of the United States. The speaker, who received his M. A. degree from Yale University, and, in 1893, founded the Taft School at Waterbury, is now president of the Connecticut Merit System Association.

In introduction to his speech, entitled "The Merit System," Mr. Taft stated that he found the most amazing ignorance present in many men, even in lawyers, concerning this subject. Yet it has been an important issue in national platforms and in political discussions for several years.

"The Merit System presents a dependable means for civil service reform," he said. "C. W. Eliot once pointed out: 'Civil service reform is the foundation of all reform,' and Al. Smith said: 'Quit talking unless you

"It is remarkable that all consider merit fundamental, but most know nothing about the Merit System itself," the speaker added. "The System works to a charm in nearly 700 cities at present. Only a very ignorant man thinks it is merely theory." Mr. Taft said that the cost of the usual spoils system amounts to $1,000,000,000 a year. There are 3,000,000 civil service em-Wendell family home at Portsmouth, ployees in the land and 38 percent. of our taxes accrue to them.

> The two methods of filling government positions are the spoils and the merit systems; and at present a large majority of offices are filled by the first of these. This is true both in Waterbury and in Hartford. The speaker continued: "The entire responsibility rests with the citizens. American cities have become synonyms for corruption; the word 'politician' ought to be an honorable one but too often it is not." He said that even when we apply the term to a man whose integrity is sound, we must explain: "The man is a politician, but he's honest I think."

REPORTS PRESENTED BY BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN MEETING LAST SATURDAY

DORMITORY PROPOSED

Increased Student Fees Offset Decrease in Income From Endowments

Saturday, April 29-The stated meeting of the Board of Trustees was held in the library of the Chemistry Building this morning at 10 o'clock. Present at the meeting were the following trustees: Judge Buffington, General Harbord, Judge McCook, and Messrs. Elton, Woodward, Goodwin, Eaton, Davis, Purdy, O'Connor, Stevenson, Walcott, Jones, Pinney, Budd, and the President.

The usual reports of the Executive Committee, of the Alumni Secretary, and of other committees were submitand accepted. The President reported that there had been a slight decrease in the income from the college endowment, but it had been more than made up by the increase in student fees, so that a surplus of receipts over expenditures would be expected at the end of the fiscal year in June.

The President also reported that the number of students tentatively admitted for next year is twice that of this time last year, and the number of Freshmen applying for dormitory accommodation was already more than the expected vacancies in rooms on the campus. This brought before the Trustees the imperative need for the construction of the new dormitory unit to fill the gap between Cook Dormitory and the Chemistry Laboratories.

On recommendation of the Joint Educational Committee the following members of the faculty were reappointed for next year: Carl L. Altmaier, Assistant Professor of Psychology; Edward D. Myers, Assistant Professor of Linguistics; Irwin A. Buell, Director of Extension and of Summer School; Michael L. Hoffman, Instructor in Economics; William G. Wendell, Instructor in French; Edward L. Lampson, Instructor in History; Corning Chisholm, Instructor in German; A. Everett Austin, Jr., Instructor in Fine Arts; and Daniel B. Risdon, Assistant in English.

MEMORIAL GATEWAY TO BE DEDICATED MAY 13

The members of the Class of 1913 at their twenty-fifth anniversary during Commencement Week last June, decided to present a gift to the college in memory of their classmates who have died.

The recent construction of the college fence along Broad Street furnished them an opportunity to present their gift in form of a gateway.

This entrance gate will be formally dedicated on Saturday afternoon, May 13, at 2.30, just before the baseball game with Worcester Tech. The memorial gates are supported by large brick piers which were constructed recently. On the left pier there will be a presentment tablet and on the right pier a memorial tablet will bear the names of the departed members of the Class

Ralph Grover Wins Prize In Boston Organ Contest

Boston, Monday, April 24-This evening, Ralph Scott Grover, '41, was awarded the second prize in the annual organist competition held under the auspices of the Massachusetts Chapter of the American Guild of Organists in the New Old South Church on Copley Square.

The prizes were awarded in consideration of technical ability, rhythm, registration, and musicianship. Grover played Bach's "Fugue in C Minor" and "The Second Movement" from the second symphony by Louis Vierne.

DR. ALLEN REVIEWS LIFE OF ST. THOMAS AQUINAS, COLLEGE PATRON SAINT

IMPORTANT THEOLOGIAN

His Summa Theologica a Work of Tremendous Scope and Great Value

Wednesday, April 26-A very complete address on the life of St. Thomas Aquinas was given by Professor Morris Allen at the morning chapel service. Dr. Allen introduced his talk by stating that the works of St. Thomas Aquinas, patron saint of colleges and other institutions of learning, have been opened to English readers by order of the Pope. They have been carefully translated in recent years by members of the Dominican order.

The speaker added that not many men have influenced thought as much as Thomas Aquinas. His works are a synthesis of the Catholic tradition. In these precarious days, the works of this famous saint are being intensively studied by young men in every walk of life, who are searching for certainty.

Professor Allen continued, "There are two roads to religion-faith, or experiencing religion; and learning about religion through reason and one's intelligence. Neither road is satisfactory in itself. St. Thomas has had a great influence e on ond road. He is master of those who know religion, and is an authority on dogmatic theology. He is one of the greatest and most influential Christians. Seven hundred years after his death, the fact still remains that any belief differing from St. Thomas is heretical, in the Catholic Church."

At this point, a brief personal biography was given. St. Thomas lived in the middle quarters of the 13th century. He was born of a noble family and had seven brothers in the Emperor's army. At the age of five he asked, like many another child. "What is God?" He spent the rest of his life giving what is perhaps the most complete answer to that ques-

Against the wishes of his parents he joined the Dominican order and was sent to Paris to study under the great Albert. He spent most of his time there reading Aristotle. He was a shy, large, young man-almost

LIVINGSTON TO PLAY

Sweet Swing Band to be Second Feature Orchestra at Dance Held at Hartford Club

(Special to the Tripod direct from the Senior Ball Committee's Field Headquarters in the Hofbrau.)

Tuesday, May 2-In a special dispatch to the Tripod this morning, the committee in charge of the Spring Dance, announced that the second orchestra for the dance on May 12, will be Jerry Livingston and his "Talk of the Town Music." This sweet swing band has appeared in movie shorts and over the radio. Mr. Livingston makes the arrangements for his orchestra and also is a composer. He is best known for his song "Talk of the Town." Livingston's band will be a pleasing contrast to Erskine Hawkins' jitterbug rhythms, the feature of the Unofficial and unconfirmed sources report that Hartford will be clothed in its best raiment when "Trinity Week-end" arrives. The city has employed some fifteen jobless men to chase all pigeons from the vicinity of the Old State House and will replace the pests with robins, cuckoos and humming birds. A beauty contest is now being held to determine the ten gorgeous girls who shall have the title of "Misses Trinity of 1939" and the task of scrubbing Main Street. Anyone caught dropping candy wrappers on the streets or "lifting" cigarette butts at any time from May 12-14, will be severely punished, and will be imprisoned until May 15. All trolleys and buses will run on schedule.

It is unreliably reported that the Mayor has appointed a committee of three men to tune up this city's culture and to do away with anything

TRINITY NINE TO FACE TWO FOES THIS WEEK

The Trinity College baseball force will open the month of May on the road, meeting Williams College at Williamstown, Mass., on May 3, and Mass. State at Amherst, Mass., on

These two teams will provide Trinity with some of their sternest opposition. Williams, although no better than they were last year, when Trinity defeated them 8-7, have a comparatively strong team. Mass. State boasts one of the best records they have had in years, and one of the best in New England baseball circles.

Coach Dan Jessee has not yet decided on his starting lineup for these two games. His plan at the present is to insert as much batting power into the team as will not be detrimental to the team's defensive play. Pete Rihl is a certainty behind the plate, although his bat has been unusually silent since the Swarthmore game. The pitching duties will be carried out by Ed Morris, who has a won and lost record of two and two. vast. His fellow students called him | First base is not as yet definitely as-

FUN AND FROLIC

Rapidly approaching is the much-talked-of and long-lookedforward-to Spring Dance week-end. Everyone is sparkling with enthusiasm, which portends one of the most brilliant formal gatherings at Trinity in many years. The tremendous excitement which the nearing festivities are arousing in the student body is to be highly lauded.

The novelty of two bands which will play alternately at the Spring Dance on May 12 should prove highly profitable as well as vastly entertaining. The Jesters' production of "Journey's End" on the following night promises to be one of the most successful vehicles presented at Trinity, and an auditorium has been secured with ample seating capacity to accommodate the enormous influx of guests. Most of the fraternities are planning house parties on this week-end and are considering giving dances on Saturday night following the Jesters' play. The Jesters are Saturday night following the Jesters' play. The Jesters are starting their play at eight o'clock in order to allow more time for fraternity dances which will be held afterwards to complete the evening. Special consideration has been given the matter by the Faculty Committee on Student Organizations who recently announced that fraternities would be permitted to run their Saturday night dances until 1 a. m. to compensate for any loss of time necessitated by the Jesters' play which precedes.

Added to these festivities various informal picnics, softball games, cocktail parties, formal dinners, and barn dances will enhance the splendor of the 1939 Spring Dance week-end, and, if the present enthusiasm continues to grow, will make it one to be long remembered.

(Continued from page 1.) that is not attractive. (It is suspected that the committee will send a representative to the English A meeting at the college on Wednesday.) Posters have just been pasted on Asylum Street informing the public that the name of that "dance hall where all the young folks go of a Saturday night," will henceforth be "The Hartford Social Club." The "Hog" River is to be no more.

A last-minute bulletin from a wellknown and loved Trinity senior, now working for the Spring Ball committee as an undercover agent on the police force, states that special detectives will be assigned to the parks to make sure that Trinity students will have free access to all benches. If you desire a bench, simply present some dance Saturday night. form of identification to the nearest

A wireless from the publicity committee says that chapels and chem buildings have entirely supplanted perispheres and trylons, and that the Mayor has offered to give away the key to the city for the Ball week-end if anyone wants it (duplicates have been made). The committee had planned to use sky-writing for its advertisements, but at the present time it has only enough money to write "Trinity." Additional donations are requested.

Reports from the college, and these are authoritative, say that the fraternity houses are planning house parties for the Spring Dance week-end. Tentative plans are as follows:

HERE AND THERE

We went to see the revival of "Mutiny on the Bounty" last Saturday and we've finally decided where our future is. Life on Tahiti looks a lot better than looking for a job in this hard world. Wonder how the unemployment is handled down there. Probably have breadfruit lines.

A bunch of the boys, led by Jack Follansbee, the sailor, has decided to buy a boat and spend three years cruising around the world. The cruise might last longer, in fact, until the war is over. Ain't no conscription on the high seas. Wonder if they'll stop at Tahiti?

After viewing the schedule for the Spring Dance week-end we wonder if two days is long enough for all that's planned. After all there are only twenty-four hours in a day. (There are no clocks in Tahiti.)

We just read in the newspaper that the newest craze in Paris is to dance without music. We have jazz bands over here too.

Down in the Union the other day we saw three young men pitching pennies. They were probably assuming that the King could do no wrong, for the group consisted of three members of the Medusa.

One of Mark Rainsford's fledgelings became an "iggle" by making his solo last week. Don Tuttle is the newest addition to the Trinity Flying Club. By the way, Mark tells us that the Club has an invitation to the Harvard Air Intercollegiates on Long Island this month, which should be good fun.

The Senate Dance Saturday night was a great success in more ways than one. Music, spring, and a full moon are a great combination for romance, and, besides, kept the dance floor pretty clear for dancing. Gosh, we wish we had sex appeal.

Latest reports from the Jesters tell us that their show is almost ready for presentation. We only wish that they had picked a different title for their show. Final exams and "Journey's End" are too synonymous for our already shaky nerves. We'd like to go somewhere where we would have no nerve trouble like examinations. Tahiti...?

On Thursday of last week, Wallace, the chapel verger, set in place the pew-end to be dedicated on Sunday, carefully swathing it in white cloth from inquisitive eyes. That night our sturdy night watchman on entering the chapel at midnight on his rounds saw a white form standing in the choir of the chapel with its white robe fluttering in an unseen breeze. Though what little hair he had stood on end with terror, he bravely strode down ley Cole and Milton Saul. the aisle and with a hoarse cry for help grappled with the ghost. SPORTS SIDELIGHTS

Unless something unforeseen happens Ed Morris will be known as "Iron Man" Morris. Dan Jessee expects Ed to start and finish every game remaining on the schedule. "Twinkle Toes" has done a nice job so far, but he will have to be at his best the remainder of the season. Thus far his record is two games won and two lost. He lost a tough one against Yale, but against Norwich he didn't seem to have his stuff. The Norwich batters took a liking to that first ball he threw up to them. The toughest part of the schedule is yet to come.

Experiments seem to be Dan's stockin-trade this season. Thursday we saw Ed Morris leave the game only to have his battery mate, Pete Rihl, take the mound. That was one experiment that didn't work out so well for Dan. Pete has had no experience in the pitcher's box, and clearly showed it with an exhibition of bases on balls and hit batsmen that had the Norwich players shivering in their boots. Pete is not a pitcher.

Capobianco was seen for the first time at second base in place of Ralph Shelly. He gave a fairly impressive performance with two hits out of four times at the plate. In the field he did well, although his arm seemed to be a trifle weak.

In center Ed Lepak made his first appearance of the year. In the field he let a line drive single get through him for a home run. At bat he did not attract particular attention.

Although still suffering from a badly burned hand, Ralph Shelly played a bang-up game against Clark last Saturday. In three official times at bat "Raffer" banged out a triple, double, and single. He is not able to play at his regular position at second, but he can still do a grand job in the outfield.

There is to be no definite lineup for the future, but those who hit will play. Dan is willing to forsake a little defense for a more potent offense.

Trinity opened their track season with a 66-60 victory over Mass. State. Coach Oosting has a right to be pessimistic about this year's team inasmuch as Mass. State provided the least opposition Trinity will face all year. Six points is not a very large margin. Trinity's weakness in the field events promises to be their undoing in several of the meets to come. Jock Kiley promises to make a first rate hurdler with a little more experience. Paired with John Alexander, he promises to turn a weakness into a strong point. Ryan in the dashes, Pankratz in the 220 and 440, Mc-Laughlin in the 880 all did a grand job on the track. Borrie Pacelia did well in the pole vault, high jump, and broad jump.

science. The culmination of scholasticism was in St. Thomas. This movement was the effort of the thought of the middle ages to arrange itself. Included in it was the best knowledge and science of the time-that of Aristotle. The great task of scholasticism was to reconcile Christianity with Aristotle and the nationalism of Plato. Thomas riveted all these together into a logical system in his "Summa Theologica."

BLUE AND GOLD NINE WHIPS CLARK EASILY

MORRIS PITCHES WELL

Jesseemen Garner Eight Runs On Nine Hits as Hilltoppers Win By 8-1 Score

Worcester, Saturday, April 29—After losing three games in a row, the Trinity baseball team came through with its second win of the season when it downed the Clark University nine by an 8-1 score this afternoon at Alumni Field.

Captain Ed Morris allowed the Scarlet eight scattered hits and one base on balls, as his teammates collected nine bingles from two Clark hurlers. The dependable right arm of the Blue and Gold pitcher was good enough to strike out six opposing batters as compared with the five Trinity men fanned by the pair of Clark twirlers.

Trinity's power at bat was due to Ralph Shelly, Bill Kelly, and Ed Morris. Shelly, playing in right field instead of the keystone sack, because of an injured hand, slammed out a single, double, and a triple in as many trips to the plate. Winning pitcher Morris helped to win his own game in a more convincing manner when he connected for two hits in four times at bat. Bill Kelly, sterling left fielder, made up for two more Trinity hits in five tries.

The single tally obtained by Clark came from the lone pass allowed by Morris in the sixth inning. After fanning George Powers, Clark left fielder, Morris walked Viens, dangerous Scarlet catcher, who advanced to third on McInerny's second hit of the day. When Kazarian, Trinity shortstop, muffed Balcom's roller Viens scored, but the side was retired in short order as Donahue flied out.

In the opening frame the Hilltoppers settled down to pounding the slants of Ray Balcom who also batted in the clean-up position for his teammates. Frank Mulcahey's single hit of the day accounted for Trinity's initial run when Ralph Shelly reached second on a pass and a stolen base, and then crossed the platter as the Trinity center fielder smashed a hard one into right field.

With Mulcahey on second, after Racine's error on the throw-in, Deed Harris hit an infield grounder, but Donahue threw wide to first and Mulcahey scored.

Two more runs were added in the third as Ralph Shelly opened up with a single and stole his second base of the afternoon. On Bill Kelly's single Shelly reached third. He crossed the plate when Ed Morris connected for another hit. Both Kelly and Morris moved around one sack as Mulcahey sacrificed. The bases were filled when Fram, playing on the

The next two Trinity runs were garnered in the fifth. Morris drew a pass and stole second. Then Frank Mulcahey smashed out a stinging ball which was muffed by Donahue. This misplay sent in Morris, and Mulcahey went to third on Harris' single. He later scored on Capobianco's sacrifice fly to right.

Again in the next frame the Hill-toppers repeated their performance of the preceding inning and chalked up two more counters. Shelly, despite a burned hand which kept him out of the Norwich game, doubled for his third hit of the day and came in on Bill Kelly's single. Kelly stole second and Morris brought him in with a single to left.

Blue and Gold Tennis Team Victorious in Two Matches

Friday, April 28 — The Trinity tennis team won its first match of the season this afternoon, completely overwhelming the Bowdoin team by a great show of power, winning by an 8-1 score. Trinity lost only one singles match and took all the doubles events to defeat the Bowdoin racqueteers.

Saturday, April 29—The tennis team won its second victory this afternoon beating a powerless Vermont aggregation by the identical score with which it trounced Bowdoin, 8-1, again losing only one singles match.

FAVOR WORCESTER TECH IN SATURDAY TRACK MEET

3 1 0 Terriers to Present Sterling 2 3 1 Opposition; Coach Oosting Counts on Lettermen

After its opening victory against Massachusetts State last week-end, the varsity track squad will have to settle down and do some real plugging this week. That Worcester Tech aggregation which they will meet on Saturday is admittedly good. According to the Tech coach, it is the best team that he has had in many years.

Mr. Oosting's lineup on Saturday should be about the same as it was last week. There are only five lettermen back from last year, and they will all be entered, but the rest of the squad is relatively inexperienced. Ever since Trinity last met Worcester Tech 'way back in 1926, the team has been building up to meet them, and although the Blue and Gold forces seem to be stronger this year, their chances are not too promising against an unusually good team from a college which concentrates a large part of its energy on track.

The majority of Trinity's points should come from its five stand-bys: Captain Pacelia in the broad jump,

TRACKMEN WIN OPENING MEET FROM MASS. STATE

HERB PANKRATZ STARS

Blue and Gold Tracksters Take Eight First Places In
66-60 Victory

Saturday, April 29—Winning six out of the eight running events, Trinity won its inaugural track meet of the season over Massachusetts State by a 66-60 score at Amherst today.

The Hilltoppers, led by the climax running of Pankratz, who won both the 220 and 440-yard dashes, nosed the Bay Staters out in the last two events of the day's program. Trinity swept the half with McLaughlin leading the field the whole route. The distance runs were handily taken by Caffrey and Riley; and Kiley nipped his man in the last few yards of the low hurdles. Captain Pacelia, Conway, and Cunningham figured for firsts in the field events; and Rainsford made a prodigious heave in the javelin, only to be disqualified.

The outstanding performers on the Massachusetts squad were: Curtis with three firsts in the field events and R. Joyce who set a new college record in the high hurdles.

high jump and pole vault; John Alexander in the shot, discus, and high hurdles; Tom McLaughlin in the 880, in which he holds the college record; Herb Pankratz from cross-country team, in the 220 and 440; and Chet Collier in the 100-yard dash and the low hurdles. Alexander's absence because of government exams last week undoubtedly weakened the team against Massachusetts State, and his teammates should be able to count on him for some much-needed points on Saturday.

HORACE TAFT SPEAKS ABOUT MERIT SYSTEM

The trouble in the beginning was that there was no pension system. Old men were reluctant to leave, so that new men with fresh ideas found positions difficult to get. But when Andrew Jackson said: "All opposed to me must be rascals," changes were made rapidly. From that time on, every four years, shifts in personnel from the heads of departments to the scrubwoman in the local post office were to be expected. Although Lincoln, President during the War of Secession, was disgusted with the number of lobbyists the capital brought in by the spoils system, little was done about it. In England, the merit system became well developed in 1870, but here only in the last two years has rapid progress been made.

With the latter system the political activity and the particular faith of a man seeking a government position counts for little. Penrose, a Senator from Pennsylvania, once replied to opposition aimed at him as a Mormon: "I'd rather have in office a polygamist who doesn't polyg than a monogamist who doesn't

Mr. Taft went on to say that no city has ever been especially wellgoverned which has not had a merit Two considerations have brought this fact to the front in the last few years. First, the great cost and inefficiency of men put in office by graft. "An inspector of elevators may by this system be given a position merely because he is the son of a friend. This is no guarantee that he knows the job, and in fact, he may only learn about it after his appointment. Secondly, the great number of executives who have been put to work in the WPA and other work projects is shocking. Fifty thousand or more are making fortunes out of the troubles of the poor.

The speaker continued by stating that many condemn the use of examinations in the merit system because of misinformation. "What is the use of an examination for a charwoman?" they ask. Obviously there is none for this type of work, except possibly a physical one.

Giving an example of graft in the spoils system, the speaker cited the Veterans' Commerce Laws. To be given a civil service job a man must be marked both by examination and by interview. If he is a veteran his mark is raised five percent., and if he is a disabled veteran, it is raised ten percent.

in his recent visit here, that his first big role was that of Raleigh in "Journey's End."

The lighting and sound-effect angles will be taken care of by Stites, 42, who has a sound machine which can do anything from imitating a stentorian laugh to the sound of a pin dropping. In a formal statement for the press, the President of the Jesters, stated that, "There will be something special in store for everyone." After seeing the Broadway production, that presumably means bombs dropping from the ceiling and exploding in the air, gas attacks in the first five rows of the orchestra and shrapnel in the balcony.

The stagehands refused to comment upon the scenery but managed to murmur over and over, "Revolvers, revolvers."

Under capable leadership, the publicity department has been forging ahead. The first tickets were issued last week-end and since then have been selling rapidly. Over 750 invitations have been sent out to friends and patrons of the club. Hartford is being pasted with 200 posters, ticket offices have been set up in several places downtown and in the college office, and every Jester has been authorized to sell as many tickets as he can. For those few students who are still unable to find their way about the precarious streets of the "Insurance" City, maps are being prepared which will outline the routes to the Bulkeley Auditorium in language that signed. Thomsen probably will take his accustomed position at the initial sack even though his hitting has been unduly weak. Capobianco will probably be seen on second base, although this arrangement is not at all certain. Deed Harris and George Kazarian are certainties at third base and shortstop, respectively. Deed's defensive work has improved with experience, while his batting is slowly improving. Kazarian has been one of the most consistent hitters on the team this year, and as a result adds strength to the lower part of the batting order. If Ralph Shelly is able to play, the outfield setup is fairly definite. Shelly, Mulcahey, and Kelly will make up the outfield trio, with Roberts, Lepak, and Knurek held in reserve.

In order that the fairer sex may attend the performance in suitable numbers, a ratio of one to one or even better is desirable. The ticket managers have sent invitations to all the prominent girls' schools and colleges within striking distance. Several neighboring prep schools intend to send groups to view the performance. There will also be a delegation present from the French Convention which will be held at Trinity on the same weekend. Several business assistants left for Wellesley and Skidmore last Friday to enlist student aid at those in-stilutions, but upon their return were

Hoping to have a large number of notables at the play, the officers of the club have sent an invitation to Dick Barthelmess, former Trinity Jester, and other letters were discovered last week addressed to the White House, to Hedy LaMarr (ex-LaMarr), Bette Davis, and Priscilla Lane. TRINITY REVIEW WILL BE PUBLISHED THIS MONTH

The editors of The Trinity Review have announced the publication of the spring issue of the college's literary magazine for the middle of May. Many contributions have been received, and a larger magazine is hoped for this time. There is also an improvement in the quality of the manuscripts which have been submitted, indicating a higher calibre than that of the first issue.

Many complimentary letters have been received from alumni, and subscriptions from the alumni have trebled. It is hoped that three hundred copies of the Review will be sold within the college. The price of the magazine is fifty cents for students.

The new board of the Review, to operate next year, will be announced in the magazine.
