PROF. ROGERS RETIRES AFTER SERVING 35 YEARS AT TRINITY

At the stated meeting of the Board of Trustees of Trinity College which was held Saturday morning in the library of the chemistry building, a request from Professor Charles E. Rogers, professor of civil engineering at Trinity College for 35 years, to be allowed to retire at the end of the present academic year was laid before the Board and granted with due appreciation of Professor Rogers' loyal and intelligent service to the college. At the same meeting, Mr. Clarence D. Watters, head of the music department and now with the rank of assistant professor, was promoted to full professorship beginning July 1, 1940, and three new men were appointed to the faculty.

During the meeting the President commented in general upon the state of the College and reported that it is operating within its budget for the present academic year. He remarked that gifts and pledges from 986 contributors to the amount of $120,899 have been received for the new dormitory which is to be named after two former trustees, P. H. Woodward and James J. Goodwin, whose sons are now serving on the Board.

The three new men who have been appointed and who will go into residence in September are Lawrence Lafore, a graduate of Swarthmore, who is now studying at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, who was made instructor in the department of history and the political science; Edward D. W. Spingarn, a student of Bowdoin, who will receive his degree of doctor of philosophy in June after studying at the Harvard and London School of Economics, was appointed instructor in the department of economics; Charles G. Starr, Ph. D., from Princeton and now at Washington and Lee, will be an instructor in chemistry.

The following members of the faculty on annual appointment were re-appointed for the academic year 1940-41: J. Trevithick, N. Coe, J. B. McNulty, and D. E. Risdon in the English department; D. C. Morgan and E. T. Lampson in the history department; T. L. Down, Jr., and J. F. Wyckoff in the mathematics department; C. Chisholm in the history department; and S. G. Mason in the chemistry department.

No reason was given for Professor Rogers' retirement other than the fact that he desired a rest and that at the age of 66 he was eligible for retirement. Before he came to Trinity in 1905 Professor Rogers had received a degree of civil engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and a master's degree from Harvard. He had served as an instructor at Lehigh University and as a professor of mathematics and civil engineering at the Clarkson Memorial School of Technology and General Engineering (Continued on page 3.)

Visit to Heub's Uncovers Spirit of Days When Trinity was Tops on the Gridiron

By Charles Johnson

We formed a convivial group at one of the big round tables at Heub's about three weeks ago. There was the usual singing of songs and the telling of the latest stories. In short it was one of those gatherings which make college life a little more bearable, or should I say bearable?

We had just finished singing a Trinity song, I don't remember which one, but that is beside the point anyway. It was a Trinity song. A gentleman who had been sipping enormous quantities of Scotch and water now looked over at us, a gleam of happy recognition in his eyes. What had been a perfectly harmless person now jumped up and rushed to our table, shouting the while, "Now, Trinity's the Gem of All the Ocean."

"Are you Trinity men?" he asked in accents enthusiastic. To our affirmative reply he asked or rather entreated, "May I sit down with you?" Before any of us could answer he was seated and ordering drinks for the group.

He led us in very ancient Anglo-Saxon songs causing the maitre d'hotel to cast disapproving eyes at us. Then he started on old Trinity songs which none of us had ever heard of before.

"You see that I know something about Trinity. I ought to. A good place, Trinity, but I knew it when it was the tops. I was trainer for the Trinity teams from 1900 to about 1916. That was the age when Trinity's football teams were famous. There couldn't have been more than two hundred men in college, but there were always about twenty good football players in college."

"Well," I retorted, "Trinity is on the way back. Give it a couple of years and it will be up where it was in the early part of the century."

"No, young fellow, Trinity can never get back or come close to those days of athletic glory. Trinity had great athletes and greater teams. Professor Gettell was one of the craftiest coaches to ever trod the greenwald. Those were the days of Hudson, Maxon, Kinney, Ramsell, Crehore, Eaton, and a host of other athletes (Continued on page 4.)

firmative reply he asked or rather entreated, "May I sit down with you?" Before any of us could answer he was seated and ordering drinks for the group.

FRESHMAN NINE OPENS WITH KINGSWOOD PREP

Coach Erickson's freshman nine will play its first scheduled game against a formidable Kingswood team on Wednesday at the latter's field. Both teams have suffered a short spring practice due to unfavorable weather conditions and in this respect are evenly matched.

The game promises to be a very close one, however, as Kingswood has already proved its strength by downing Loomis last Wednesday in seven short innings, 13-2. Headed by Howells, probably the most outstanding schoolboy moundsman in this section, Kingswood, having lost only one man, will put on the field the same veteran team that last year defeated the Hilltoppers 3-0.

The Trin nine has had three practice games, defeating Westminster and the Frog Hollow "semi-pro" team and (Continued on page 4.)

ERRATUM

The date of the Annual Trinity-Wesleyan Faculty Dinner to be held at this college this year will take place on Tuesday, May 7, and not on Wednesday as previously reported in the Tripod.

These dinners are designed to further the extremely amicable relations which exist between the intellectual bodies of the two institutions.

Jesters Work on Second Hit; Final Program by Glee Club

"Ten Minute Alibi" Will Be Presented By Jesters On Two Evenings

COMPLETES WEEK-END

Drama to Be Performed at Avery Memorial on June 16 and 17; Tickets Now On Sale

With the Senior ball weekend approaching, the Jesters are rushing their work in preparation for the two-night contribution to the gaiety and entertainment of that weekend. Professor Helmbold of the Classics department has been invited to be the faculty adviser of this production, "Ten-Minute Alibi." Under his able direction and with the splendid assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell, the project is now running smoothly. Inside information has led to the belief that the leading lady, Miss Isabel Macauley, will lend a professional touch to the show. With her varied experience in summer stock theaters in which she once played in the same cast as Mitzi Green, Miss Macauley has displayed singular confidence which is a result of dramatic ability.

The usual problem of filling the house on two successive nights is now facing the business staff, but there is ample reason for believing that the play will be well attended. This year the Jesters boosted their prestige quite considerably by putting on an old fashioned melodrama which they staged in a convincing manner. Financially the ledger showed a profit. Hartford playgoers to date have bought about one hundred tickets for each performance. Since the Avery holds 300, there remains only 200 seats per night. Therefore, on the night of the Senior Ball, 100 couples can be accommodated. All students are advised to observe the notices as to where the tickets may be purchased.

GOLF TO BE SUBJECT OF TALK AND MOVIES

A lecture and informal discussion on the topic of golf, accompanied by movies, will be presented by Bud Geogehan in the Chemistry Auditorium on Monday, May 6, from 4 to 5 p. m. All students and members of the faculty are cordially invited to attend. Those who are eager to improve and perfect their game will especially find the hour's discourse of particular value. It is also hoped that this meeting will create an interest among those members of Trinity College who are only vaguely acquainted with this intricate game of golf. It is worthy of note here that many students had already expressed to Ray Oosting their desire for such an informal exhibition as has been planned for next Monday.

Bud Geogehan, who is a pro at Rockledge Country Club, has obligingly consented to answer all questions which might be troubling the golf enthusiasts at the moment. It is at Rockledge that members of Trinity College are given certain privileges; and it is noteworthy that quite a few students have already taken advantage of this generous opportunity.

SENIOR BALL NOTICE

Due to previous engagements and other unavoidable circumstances, the Senior Ball Committee has not yet been able to sign up a band. At present, the Committee is considering five bands, and the final selection will probably be one of these five.

They are: Glen Gray and his Casa Loma Orchestra, Woody Herman, Lawrence Welk and his Champagne Music, Johnny Long, and Teddy Powell. The bands of Lawrence Welk and Johnny Long play mostly sweet music with some tangos and rhumbas.

TRINITY TROUNCES CLARK BY FOURTH INNING SPREE

SCULLY WINS FIRST

Two Clark Moundsmen Blasted as Tommy Ford Leads Trinity Batters to Victory

Saturday, April 27—Managing to net nine runs in a fourth inning rout, the Hilltoppers chalked up their second victory of the current season, beating Clark University on Trinity Field this afternoon, 9-3.

Bill Scully was outstanding on the mound, striking out ten Clark batters, allowing six hits, and giving only one base on balls. Scully was relieved in the eighth inning when Dan Jessee sent in Frank Steers.

Tom Ford was again effective at the bat, leading the Blue and Gold attack with three singles and a double which makes his season's record to date seven hits out of eleven tries.

The first run of the game was scored in the second when Ray Manarel, Clark left fielder, took advantage of a series of misplays. Scully threw wildly to second to cut off Manarel, who went on to third, where Beidler's toss to Harris soared too high, and Manarel scored. Then again in the same inning Clair, Clark first baseman, went the rounds from first on Madama's error of Ross' ground ball to score the second run for the Scarlet and White.

The third frame passed uneventful. But it was in the second half of the fourth, when the Hilltoppers came to bat, that the score was soaring for the Blue and Gold. Bob Madama singled. Ralph Shelly walked, and Kelly was hit by a pitched ball from Balcom, the Clark pitcher. With the bases loaded, Tom Ford knocked a ground ball that scored Madama. Don Viering next sent a clean hit over first, scoring Shelly and Kelly and putting Trin in the lead, 3-2. Then Rihl doubled for his only hit of the day, bringing home Ford and Viering. Deed Harris, who played a beautiful game at third, came to bat to score Pete Rihl from second. Then on Scully's double, Harris crossed the plate to set Trin in the lead, 7-2. It was at this point that Coach Bernard of Clark took Al Balcom out of the box to insert Bill Smith, who allowed the Blue and Gold two more runs. Joe Beidler drew a base on balls, and made a beautiful slide for home plate on Madama's single, Bob's second for the inning. Kelly walked. Then Ford connected (Continued on page 4.)

Charles D. Walker Directs Trinity Glee Club in Final Concert

SOLOISTS PERFORM

Walker, Russo, Carey Excellent in Last Performance; Madrigals Sung

Thursday, April 25—The Trinity College Glee Club gave its final concert of the season this evening at the North Methodist Church. The Concert, which was under the direction of Charles D. Walker, student director and manager, had great variety in that the selections ranged from folk-songs to opera selections.

Further variety was provided by three different soloists. Mr. Walker began the program by playing organ selections by Bach. The "Prelude and Fugue in B Minor" was followed by three choral preludes, "This Day So Full of Joy," "Jesu, Our Joy," and "Arisen Is Our Holy Lord." Later in the program Joseph Russo, '41, played the "Concerto in A Minor" for violin by Vivaldi-Nachez. In his playing Mr. Russo displayed great dexterity, proving his ability as an accomplished violinist. The third soloist on the program was John M. Carey, '42, who played piano selections by Mendelssohn and Chopin. As is usual at all programs at which Mr. Carey performs, he was forced to play an encore to acknowledge the insistent applause of the audience.

Besides its usual repertoire, the Glee Club sang a group of four folk songs which were well received by the audience. Included in this group was the perennial favorite, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" which was arranged by Mr. Watters. There were two Russian songs, "Tell Me, I Beseech You" and the rapid "At (Continued on page 2.)

"REVIEW" EDITORS LAY PLANS FOR MAY ISSUE

The college literary publication, "The Trinity Review," is now well on its way to the completion of its second year on the campus. The board of Editors have just announced that the May issue will be ready a few days before the beginning of the examination period. The exact time of its release is not known as yet.

The readers of the "Review" this spring will see some interesting innovations. The magazine will be illustrated with "cuts" appropriate to the various articles. A wider variety and a higher quality of selection will continue to form the basis of the publication. The editors have continually stressed their desire to make the "Review" more readable and at the same time to preserve the literary standards upon which it was founded. The second issue will be approximately the same length as the first. To date a score or more of manuscripts have been contributed. This week the editors expect the greater bulk to be turned in, as the deadline has been posted at May 10.

There were reports that the May issue would appear with an important addition but Editor-in-chief Richard K. Morris reserved comment by saying (Continued on page 3.)

SEE YOU THERE

On Thursday, May 16 and Friday, May 17, the Jesters are presenting their second play of the current school year. They have selected as their vehicle this time a mystery play, "Ten-Minute Alibi." The play will be that worthy organization's contribution to the gala festivities of Senior Ball weekend. All the members of the society are working hard to make the production a successful one and they deserve a great deal of credit for the work they have done under the handicap of not having a theatre in which to rehearse. It is truly a shame that Trinity does not have some suitable stage facilities on the campus.

The Jesters, with one glorious success to their credit this year, should have the complete support of Trinity students to make this production equally successful. They have been extremely fortunate in obtaining the Avery Memorial for this play, for it is the best equipped and most comfortable small theatre in Hartford. For the first time in many a year, the Jesters will have the use of first-class sets and professional equipment. However, this theatre holds only 300 people. To date, about 100 tickets have been sold for each night to Hartford playgoers. This means that there are but 200 seats left per night. Therefore Trinity students are urged to get their tickets at the earliest possible convenience. This will not only assure them of getting seats, but will also remove a great part of the tension from the Jesters, thus allowing them to concentrate their efforts on the play itself.

No student should miss this show. The prices of fifty and seventy-five cents are not too high, and it will certainly provide an enjoyable variety in entertainment for the weekend guests. With all of this talk about college spirit, this is a golden opportunity for Trinity students to show that they have some. The Jesters is one of the few college organizations that is well-known outside of the college. This year they have started the ball rolling along the road to success. If the students get behind them and give them the support which they deserve, there is every probability that the organization may gain in time some of the same recognition that the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania and the Dramatic Club of Yale enjoy.

GLEE CLUB FINALE

Father's Door." "My Johnny Was a Shoemaker" was sung very effectively by the Club.

A further innovation in the Club's program was the singing of three selections by the Madrigal Group which is composed of nine members of the club, Richard Barnes, Joseph Russo, Richard Cheetham, John Hazen, Walter Fay, John Dimling, Edward Vignone, Lewis Sheen, and Ralph Grover. Their singing included selections which are favorites with madrigal groups. "Now is the Month of Maying" was loudly applauded by the audience.

The final number sung by the club was "Neath the Elms" which brought to a close the singing portion of the program. The rest of the program consisted of organ selections played by Mr. Walker. These added organ numbers made the program excessively long, but it gave the audience a chance to hear Handel's "Water Music Suite" excellently played by Mr. Walker. This was followed by "Clair de Lune" by Karg-Elert. The final number of the program was a choral by Jongen.

The remaining function for the club will be its annual banquet which will be held soon in the College Commons for the election of new officers.

HERE AND THERE

Optimist—Fresher volunteered the following information in Philosophy class and we pass it on to you for what it is worth: Any girl who is over 20 years of age and does not drink is a rare apple. (Holyoke papers please copy).

Rake—Word has it that Heath intends to revive the gavotte at the Senior ball. Says Heath, "If barber-shop harmony can come back, so can the gavotte." We are digging up the dead in America as fast as Europe can bury them. Pretty soon the place will become unbearable.

Horticulture—Aloysius Whortleberry, Psi U informant, says, "This year we are going to grow two blades of grass where only one grew before." That is very fine; in ten years they will have a fine crop of 1536 blades of grass if the young blades can keep off of them.

Spring Cleaning—Your correspondent examined the contents of the trash barrel in front of the Sigma Nu house and discovered the following items, various, sundry and otherwise: 1 can of Klutch (empty), 1 can of Copenhagen (half empty), 1 corpse, 3 elephants (pink), 8 cans Sterno (empty), 1 silk stocking (empty), 1 cat (dead), 1 rat (alive), 1 Coca Cola poster (mangled), 1 calendar (1925), 1 almanac, 7 bathtub rings and 1 Junior G-Man badge.

No Hazards, No Fun—Prof. I. C. Harte, A. M., B. C., A. D., D. T., T. B., I. E., L. T. D., of the Inhumanities, had been missing for a week when he was discovered last Thursday lying in one of the many craters in the north driveway half dead from exposure and with only 20 cents and a crust of bread left in his jeans. Friday his pupils stood gazing with moist eyes at the sight of all those nice holes being filled.

Radical—Frank N. Stein, Trinity senior and confirmed communist, took his seventh cut in English A last week. Said Frank, "I am following the five-year plan."

Billy Rose—Anyone happening to look in on Morrison one night last week would have been surprised by the sight of five (5) college men lying rigid on the floor examining a photograph, while the professor himself sat nearby in a withered armchair offering intellectual comments. Every once and a while one of the five gazers would turn languid eyes heavenwards and utter such comments as, "what a figure!" "it's better with the eyes almost closed!" "look at those geometrical curves!" "it would be better life size!" Some sources intimate that Ted is going to open a "Believe It or Not" show with said picture as his main attraction—the camera certainly can do miracles!

Jolly, Eh, What!—It seems that David Tyler, Trinity merman de luxe, was busy in the chem lab boiling water in beakers, arranging several dozen test tubes and otherwise preparing for a momentous experiment, when his friend and associate, Edward Francis Killian, Jr., Trinity's beehemoth football candidate, inserted the orange pekoe. Chem students will testify that Professor Smith was more than a little surprised when he arrived upon the scene and found a tea party in full swing—the only thing missing was a platter of crumpets.

POLITICAL SCIENCE NOTICE

The Trinity Political Science Club will present a most unusual program this Thursday at the Chemistry Building Auditorium. John Karp, president of the club, has arranged with the United States Treasury Department to show its illuminating motion picture exposure of the tricks used by counterfeiters to print and distribute fake money, "Hot Money."

The picture will be accompanied by a lecture by one of the inspectors of the department who has had personal experience with many notorious badmen.

The meeting will also be addressed by the Chief of the Hartford Police who will give advice to Trinity students on the methods of the counterfeiters.

OFFICE NEWS

On Wednesday, May 1, Dr. Ivor A. Richards, university lecturer at Harvard will speak in the Auditorium at 8.30 on "Language." Dr. Richards is one of the foremost authorities in America on linguistics and semantics. His lecture will take the place of the usual mid-week chapel service. Dr. Richards will be available to meet certain classes on Wednesday and will have tea with the faculty on Tuesday.

On Friday and Saturday the North Atlantic section of the Guild of Carilloners in North America will meet at Trinity College. This Guild was founded here seven years ago; it held its second meeting at the Peace Tower at Ottawa three years ago, and its third meeting at the World's Fair.

There are about eighty carilloners in this country and of four of the most distinguished ones, Kamiel LeFevere of the Riverside Church in New York, Anton Brees of the Bok Tower in Florida, Percival Price of the University of Michigan, Robert Donnell, Dominion Carillonner of Canada, three—Messrs. LeFevere, Price and Donnell will be here for this congress. Mr. LeFevere will play a recital in the Trinity College Chapel tower Friday evening, May 3, from 7 to 8, and the next afternoon Mr. Price and Mr. Donnell will play successive recitals beginning at 3.30. For the rest of the available time, the carilloners will visit carillons at Springfield, East Springfield and Storrs, in addition to attending various conferences.

Sunday afternoon, May 5, the boy choir of Trinity Church, New Haven, will be in the College Chapel for choral evensong at 5. This choir is under the direction of G. Huntington Byles who played a brilliant organ recital here last February. In addition to the regular service, they will sing as anthems an Aria for boy sopranos by Sir John Stainer, "My Hope is in Thee Everlasting," and an arrangement of "Canticle of the Sun" by Saint Francis of Assisi, to music by E. T. Chapman.

There are three prizes for excellence in public speaking offered at Trinity College. The Brown prize of $100 is awarded to seniors only, and the granting of it in any one year may be withheld if there is no one oration made in competition of outstanding worth. Two Whitlock prizes, of $30 and $20, respectively, are awarded on the basis of competition for which every undergraduate in good standing is eligible.

The trials for these prizes will be held in Seabury 34 Monday evening, May 6, at half-past seven. As a result of the trials approximately six students will be selected to compete in the final contest, which will be held on Tuesday evening, May 14, in the same place at the same hour. All speeches are to be original in composition and must not be over ten minutes in length. There is no restriction upon the subject, but it is recommended that contestants get the Dean or Professor Allen to approve their choices.

SPORTS SIDELIGHTS

In the tennis match the other day in which Trinity defeated Vermont University 8 to 1, the antics of Herb Fisher reminded this column of that very famous French tennis star, Jean Borotra, otherwise known as the "Bouncing Basque." The latter, long celebrated in Davis Cup circles as spending more time on the seat of his pants than in an erect position, had nothing on Herb, who also attempted a good many shots from an undignified sitting position. The combined doubles team of Fisher and Cleveland gave Tom Scott and Chet Ward a worried moment during the only match which the Hilltoppers dropped to the Green Mountaineers. It seems, with that two sets down and the score 5 to 1 against the sophomore aces in the third set, Scott and Ward bet five dollars that Fisher and Cleveland could not win the set. No sooner was this said, than the latter promptly ran the score up to 4 to 5 giving the freshmen a disturbed expression. However, they could not keep up the pace and finally dropped the final game and the set.

Track Notes: The Freshman squad is rather weak this year. The only member of the outfit that has shown any degree of progress and of developing into a commendable performer is Charley Hodgekins, whose ability in the low and high hurdles is worthy of praise.

In regard to the varsity, a dark horse in the person of Matt Birmingham has sprung forth in the javelin throw. Matt has already heaved the spear 162 feet under unfavorable weather conditions, and Coach Oosting feels that he may become a mainstay in the notably weak field events. The possibilities that the mile record will be lowered are excellent. Jim Caffrey who in time trials has been clipping the 4.40 mark is being forced to a still faster pace by Ed Rosen, sophomore star, and it is felt that the efforts of this pair will bring about a number of victories in the four-lap event. Incidentally, Wesleyan defeated Springfield College last week to the tune of 81½ to 53½.

As most sports observers know, college football schedules are formulated 3 and 4 years in advance. Some opponents are perennial; others are changed from year to year. In the light of this, here is a statement from the athletic department which states that a two-year home and home agreement has been reached with Swarthmore College. The first game in 1942 is to be played here and the following year in Pennsylvania. The same agreement has also been concluded with Bates College. The first game is scheduled for 1943 at Hartford, and the following year it is to be played in Maine.

The Trinity College golf team has so far engaged in two matches winning the first contest over Tufts by the margin of 6-0, and winding up all even 4½ to 4½ with Bowdoin.

In practice games so far the freshman baseball team has defeated Westminster and tied with Hartford High. O'Malley and Conway are developing into excellent hurlers, while Walter Lokot has taken the place of Danny Riker at first base. The latter, a leading hitter whose power at the plate the frosh nine is now missing, suddenly gave up the game of bat and ball for tennis. Let it here be mentioned that his performances on the courts are as commendable as his baseball prowess was.

Anyone with lacrosse experience interested in playing with the Hartford Lacrosse Club is asked to get in touch with Edward Waters, 79 Ledyard Road, West Hartford. Phone 3-1498.

ing, "The 'Review' has had a stiff struggle to gain its deserved position on the campus, and I am confident that it is winning. Each issue marks new achievements in its production. A wider group of students contributes to the magazine, and this growth—the very life of any publication—promises to continue rapidly. Understanding the interests of the student body, formulating policy, improving the set-up of the magazine, are matters which take considerable time and effort, and this year's Board has gone a good way in these matters. I believe the 'Review' has a significant future in store for it."

But One Game to Date

With two straight victories over Colby and Clark to their credit, the Jesseemen feel confident in their coming battle with the Worcester Tech nine on Thursday, May 2.

The Techmen, unlike Trinity's opponent of last week, Colby, were not given the opportunity to make a trip down South; and they also had their first three or four games rained out. The Worcester men, therefore, are not as well seasoned as they were last year when they met Trinity's diamond stars on May 13, at which time the Maroon and Grey edged out the Blue and Gold by a 3-2 score.

The Worcester team has remained almost intact with the majority of the stars of last season returning to the lineup. However, a few noticeable defects have made this year's outfit slightly inferior to the 1939 team; while Dan Jessee has organized at Trinity one of his most powerful nines.

The Maroon and Grey team may be rated in a class with the Clark nine of the same city. Trinity's encounter with the latter team ended in a swamping for the visitors, as the Blue and Gold went wild in the 4th inning to blast Al Balcom, the Clark hurler, out of the box, chalking up nine runs in that one inning to win the ball game, 9-3.

lecture are of a new type, known as stroboscopic photography which was invented by Dr. Edgerton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. This is the fastest photography known at the present time; and it has actually been used in filming a bullet in motion. The swing of the golfer photographed can thus be analyzed to an accuracy of the highest degree.

Mr. John Baymiller of the Research Department of the A. G. Spaulding Company will also be present in the Auditorium.

As a large number of students will want to attend this exhibition, the Intramural Sofball game which was originally scheduled for 4.15 that afternoon will be postponed until 5.15.

will be Steers, Scully, or probably John Fox. Scully pitched beautiful ball in the Clark game, and Steers performed a grand job of relief twirling in the Colby encounter. Fox, as yet, has not been given the opportunity to exhibit his mettle in actual competition; and still standing by, there is Peterson, another good Trinity moundsman. Worcester Tech is weak in its pitching staff, and will probably bow to the Hilltoppers on this account.

The lineup for Trinity will probably be about the same as has been placed on the field against Yale, Colby, and Clark. Pete Rihl will have the catching assignment. Joe Beidler, Deed Harris, Bob Madama, and Tom Ford will cover the infield posts. Viering or Thenebe will patrol in right field with Shelly in left and Captain Kelly in center field.
