FIGHTING TRINITY BASKETBALL TEAM CONQUERS SWARTHMORE

Captain Don Walsh Sparkles In His Final Game as Mates Win, 62-46

THOMSEN HIGH SCORER

Entire Team Vastly Improved in General as New Scoring Punch Is Found

January 10 — Trinity's basketball forces opened their 1941 campaign by rolling over the Maroon and White of Swarthmore to the tune of 62-46 this evening. The Hilltoppers were a much more poised and confident outfit than the one which lost to Wesleyan by two points last year. The finesse and smooth ball handling which were lacking in the three early season games were strongly in evidence throughout the Swarthmore contest.

Trinity opened the scoring on a converted free throw by O'Malley, which was quickly followed by a lay-up shot by Crockett from under the basket. Swarthmore then scored on a long shot by Simson. Captain Walsh took a fast break to convert from inside the foul lines. Trinity's early lead was short-lived, however, as Captain Dietz and Simson converted in quick succession to give the Philadelphians an eight to seven lead. After a Swarthmore time out, the action continued with both teams going the length of the floor to score. At the quarter, Swarthmore held a two point lead at 11-9.

The second period saw both teams striving vainly for a commanding lead, and scoring from all angles. The crowd saw Trinity's aggressive defense at its best with Beidler and Thomsen again and again breaking up the Maroon's attack with brilliant interceptions. Thomsen, especially, proved invaluable, as he repeatedly plucked bounding set shots off the backboard. With both teams in high gear, the play became rough, and pen-

DORIZAS TO TALK ON MEDITERRANEAN WAR

On Thursday, January 16, Professor Michail Dorizas, professor of geography at the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania, will give an illustrated lecture on the present war situation in the Mediterranean. Professor Dorizas will begin his talk at 8 o'clock in the Chem Auditorium.

The fact that Professor Dorizas is Greek by birth should make his talk on the war in the Mediterranean especially interesting and authoritative. He has also spent a large part of his life in world travel which makes him well qualified to speak on any phase of international affairs.

After graduating from the Roberts College in Constantinople, Professor Dorizas came to the University of Pennsylvania, where he became prominent in athletics, especially in the discus and javelin throw. He played guard in football, but had to forsake this sport because of his tremendous strength. He became an inter-collegiate wrestler and gained the distinction of being the strongest college student of his time.

The coming of Professor Dorizas

IVY NOTICE

The "Ivy" Board will pay twenty-five cents for each snapshot of college interest that can be used in the 1942 "Ivy." Unusual pictures of Trinity athletic contests, social events, club meetings, and general college life, as well as candid views of the faculty or students, and scenic views of the campus are sought.

Negatives as well as prints should be sent in if possible, and both will be returned to the owner after a plate has been made. Money will be paid on all pictures that are used in the "Ivy." Any number of entries may be submitted by a single individual. Pictures may be submitted to Robert Nichols or any member of the board, or they may be addressed to the "Ivy" Board and left at the post office window.

TRINITY NATATORS SCORE DUAL VICTORY IN BOSTON

Tyler and Conway Star Against M. I. T. and B. U. as Trinity's Sophomores Shine

Saturday, Jan. 11—Living up to pre-season expectations and adding a few surprises in the way of unexpected power, the Trinity varsity swimming team nosed out Massachusetts Institute of Technology by 44-31 last night and then proceeded to swamp Boston University in a complete rout this afternoon, 55-20, in a week-end excursion. Paced by sophomore Dave Tyler and Captain Ed Conway, the visitors had little trouble in capturing both meets.

At 8 o'clock Friday evening in the M. I. T. pool, a relay team composed of Conway, Morhardt and Earle, inaugurated Trinity's current aquatic campaign by winning the 300-yard event in 3.21. Noteworthy in this race was Rog Morhardt's first official attempt at breaststroking. Due to the fact that Frank Smith, veteran breaststroker, has been forced to give up swimming this year, Morhardt is being converted from his backstroke and freestyle efforts of the past two years; and he is meeting with in-

COLUMBIA PROFESSOR CLAIMS AMERICA HAS ITS STRATEGIC METALS

Dr. Fink in Address at Trinity Shows U. S. World Position Is Much Improved

NEED MORE MANGANESE

American Chemical Society Section Hears That Canada and Spain Act as Supply Houses

Hartford, January 11—"America's position in the present world crisis is much improved today over a year ago," said Dr. Colin Fink, professor of electro-chemistry at Columbia University in a talk Saturday at Trinity College before the Connecticut Valley section of the American Chemical Society. Speaking on the condition of the United States in regard to what he called "strategic" metals, Dr. Fink showed that our government is fully prepared for any emergency.

"Our most serious lack," Professor Fink said, "is that of manganese. To carry on a war a country must have manganese, a high-grade of manganese. As fourteen pounds of manganese goes into each ton of steel and there were 120,000,000 tons of steel produced last year it can be seen that there is a great need for the metal. Manganese mined in this country is of a low grade. Before the war started in Europe we were receiving manganese from Russia, Turkey and Africa, and we have enough on hand to last two years. Recently a large deposit was discovered in Cuba, and that is now our chief source of supply. During the World War, experiments were started at Knoxville, Tennessee, for the production of manganese from the low grade ore found in this country. These experiments have but recently borne fruit, and so this, too, is a source of supply.

"The tin, also, in this country is rather scanty," Dr. Fink continued. Bolivia is the greatest producer of the world's tin supply, and the United States government is bargaining for a great deal of it. The canning industry has been taking most of the available tin, and, as tin cans are a great necessity to everyday life and to an army in the field, it is not felt that this use can be cut down. Consequently, Columbia University has been carrying on experiments for

TRIN PARTICIPATES IN MOCK ARMY AIR RAID

College Volunteers Its Service As an Observation Post to Spot 'Enemy' Planes

The United States Army has recently begun a series of mock air raids in different parts of the country. The idea of this is to see just how quickly and efficiently the various parts of the country can, through the work of observation posts, prepare to ward off any air raid. One of these raids will take place in New Haven county and Trinity College has been named as one of these observation posts.

The duties of the post will be to keep constant vigilance from the 20th to the 23rd of January from six in the morning until six at night of the last day. The observations will be made from the bell tower of the Chapel. It will be the task of the observers to spot all approaching planes; discern their position, make, and type; and then to telephone into the designated headquarters of the Bell Telephone Company the information they have received. Weeks and F. White Elected As New Managing and Assignment Editors

NEW BUSINESS HEAD

R. Morris Replaces Flanders as Business Manager; Thirteen Advance on the Staff

Tuesday, January 14—At a meeting of the Executive Board of the Tripod this afternoon, Jac A. Cushman, '42, of New York City was elected to succeed John F. Crockett, '41, Jackson Heights, L. I., as Editor-in-chief. Robert T. Morris, '42, of Patterson, New Jersey, replaces Walter L. Flanders, '41, of Mayville, N. Y., in the position of Business Manager. Andrew G. Weeks, '42, of Brookline, Mass., was elected to succeed Albert Gorman, Jr., '41, of Baltimore, Maryland, as Managing Editor, while Fowler F. White, '42, of West Hartford, was elected to fill, pro tempore, the Assignment Editorship vacated by Cushman.

The positions of Assistant Business Manager and Circulation Manager will remain unoccupied temporarily. These posts will have been filled when the next issue of the Tripod appears after the examinations.

Cushman, who has been Assignment Editor since the beginning of the school year, is a member of Psi Upsilon. He has been on the Squash Squad for the past two years, played freshman tennis, and is connected with the Political Science Club. His major subject is English.

The new Business Manager, Robert Morris, is a member of Alpha Chi Rho and was on the freshman swimming team. He was formerly Assistant Business Manager.

Andrew Weeks, who succeeds Albert Gorman as Managing Editor, was a member of the Editorial Staff of this paper. He is a Delta Psi, and, after playing freshman soccer, was a mem-

MONEY FOR AMBULANCE COMPLETED BY JESTERS

After the Jesters' first presentation of their production, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," on December 16, Professor Wendell presented Dr. Ogilby with a check for $1,350 to be used for the British Ambulance Fund. This check was a composite of funds procured by donations from faculty and students, the income from the Jesters' production, and the money that Mark Rainsford received for doing portraits of faculty members.

From all sections there seemed to be much satisfaction as a result of the Jesters' play. It received favorable comment in the local papers, and the actors received much praise for their characterizations. It is hard to say which actor was the most outstanding, for they all seemed to capture the true spirit of their parts and they presented them in vivid fashion. The feminine roles were well-acted as the audience was prompt to realize. Those who received the most applause were Lewis Sheen, Theodore Swiderski, Henry Getz, and John Sweetser.

Professor Rand of Harvard Traces History of Medieval Libraries in Annual Moore Lecture in Chem Auditorium

Hartford, January 10—Trinity College had as its guest this evening Dr. E. K. Rand, professor of Latin at Harvard University, who spoke in the Chemistry Auditorium on "Medieval Libraries." Dr. Rand was invited by the college to give the Moore Lecture for this year. In introducing the speaker, Dr. Remsen B. Ogilby, President of the college, gave a short history of the Moore Lectures.

After graduating from Trinity, Dr. Charles Moore, of the Class of 1876, taught school for several years in order to earn enough money to continue his studies at Columbia University Medical School. Upon completion of his course at medical school, Dr. Moore carried on an extensive practice and became rather prominent in the field of medicine. Tiring of this work, he returned to teaching and held a position at the Columbia Grammar School until his death. In his will he bequeathed a certain amount of money to Trinity College to be used for lectures.

In opening his talk Professor Rand said that the Medieval library was connected directly with the Church, and hence was the laboratory of Christian humanism.

"Cassiodorus," Dr. Rand said, "helped to make Christian humanism secure. It was he who really founded the first library of the Middle Ages. This library was contained in his monastery, located on the southernmost tip of Italy and particularly noted for its fishponds.

"By the beginning of the 10th century Europe was covered with a network of libraries which had been started principally by Irish monks who had maintained some semblance of culture and learning. Some of the libraries of this period exist today, while other extremely important ones have disappeared, their contents strewn throughout Europe.

"The interiors of the monastic libraries correspond greatly to those of libraries of today. They were in general divided into two rooms; the outer for ordinary everyday books, and the inner for works of an obtruse nature. The number of volumes in existence at this time was not great, so that even the largest libraries had no more than two thousand books.

"Librarians of the day had an extremely difficult time, and I'm sure no modern keeper of books would change places with them. The librarians were especially cautioned to remove books from the shelves at least twice a year to see that they are not damaged by stain or book-

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH

This issue is the last for which the present editors of the Tripod will be responsible. Our regime has been an interesting one to say the least. We have had our share of trouble, but all in all it has been a pleasant and enlightening experience. We have found that it is impossible to please everyone, but we also feel that our editorial policy in the main has been the opinion of the majority.

At all times we have tried to maintain high standards of college journalism. Making the paper of interest to students and alumni has been our aim. The physical appearance has also received our cautious attention. We have striven for balance in headlines and neatness in make-up. If in any way we have been successful in our aims, then our work has not been in vain.

Our main endeavor has been to unify the students of Trinity College into an organized group. We have often complained about the lack of spirit shown at college functions. This lack of spirit, we are happy to say, is rapidly disappearing. Such events as the rally before the Amherst football game, and the number of students attending and cheering at the football and basketball games is an excellent start toward unification. We are sorry to report, however, that at times there appears to be a lack of good sportsmanship among the student spectators. The conduct of the crowd at the Wesleyan basketball game was despicable. Such conduct reflects upon our college, not upon individuals. We can display spirit without unsportsmanlike actions.

At this time we would like to take the opportunity to thank our fellow editors and staff members for their support during our term of office. We are especially grateful to those on the staff who may never become editors, but who, nevertheless, worked conscientiously with us during the past year.

And now, as we take our best bow and hand over the Tripod to our able successors, we extend to them our sincere wishes for a successful year, and we entrust to them the many and important responsibilities of maintaining worthy standards of college journalism, and at all times of striving to better the attempts of their predecessors, and above all of continuing to keep the Tripod an organ of student opinion pledged to the best interests of faculty, alumni, and students, at all times unbiased and free from censorship.

Dear Comrade Looie Governor,

What's mine is yours; what's yours is mine. Why, therefore, the "No Parking" signs in the street outside your house? I think it represents the capitalistic instinct of property acquisition.

Revoltingly yours,

Comrade Parkyakars.

PROFESSOR'S BRIGHT SAYINGS

Professor Dadourian says that there are two types of books written: (1) Those which agree with him, and (2) those which do not agree with him. Books in the first category he obviously does not need to read. Authors of those in the second are just damn fools, so he doesn't bother to read them.

quite some time to reduce the amount of tin used on each can. Canning companies have heretofore used what is known as the 'hot dip' process, but recently a means of applying tin to the iron of the cans electrolytically was discovered, and this will greatly cut down the waste of the metal.

"By the end of this year there will be five plants throughout the United States producing tin cans through the electrolytic process.

"For the batteries of the submarines we need antimony, and our chief source of supply today is Mexico. We used to get all the antimony we needed from China and Japan, but, of course, that avenue is closed to us. One-third of all the antimony used in the world is consumed in this country, and to offset this great dependency the Bell Telephone Company of New York has been experimenting with calcium chloride to be used in batteries."

Dr. Fink continued his lecture by describing our lack of tungsten, and chromium. Tungsten is a vital composite of high speed steels, and no armor plate can be made that does not contain chromium. "Cobalt, nickel and mercury are also needed," Professor Fink said, Canada, acting as a generous supply house for the first two and Spain providing us with the third.

OFFICE NEWS

The winter meeting of the Trustees of Trinity College was held in the Chemistry library on Saturday, January 11, 1941. Those present were President Ogilby; Charles G. Woodward, Hartford, Secretary; John P. Elton, Waterbury; Newton C. Brainard, Hartford; Judge P. J. McCook, New York; James L. Goodwin, Hartford; John H. K. Davis, Hartford; Lawson Purdy, New York; Robert B. O'Connor, New York; Richardson Wright, New York; Lyman B. Brainerd, West Hartford; Sidney D. Pinney, Wethersfield; Bern Budd, New York; Owen Morgan, Treasurer, Hartford; Jerome P. Webster, New York; and Col. Bulkeley, Hartford. Dr. Ogilby introduced George Newell Hamlin, '91, who was elected a member of the Trustees last year and appeared at this recent meeting for the first time in his capacity as a Trustee.

The annual reports of the President, Dean, Librarian, and Treasurer for the academic year 1939-1940 were presented in printed form and accepted. The President made a verbal report on the state of the College, calling attention to the income from the investments, noting that for the current year the College was being operated well within the budget. A report was made on the newly completed dormitory showing that contributions of Alumni and others were substantially in excess of the cost of the building, and this small fund will be placed in the Field House Fund. Preliminary plans for the new dormitory to be built this spring on the corner of Vernon and Summit Streets were presented.

The Executive Committee also placed before the board, with favorable recommendation, the request from the Faculty to the effect that the statutes be changed to extend voting privileges in Faculty meetings to instructors after two years of full time teaching. The Trustees voted to grant the request. The report of the Alumni secretary outlining his plans for news service and of the Committee on Resources were accepted. The meeting adjourned at noon.

SPORTS SIDELIGHTS

Tuesday, December 17—Wesleyan 51, Trinity 49. Another game like the Mass. State and Wesleyan affairs and there won't be any roof left at the Hopkins Street gym...The freshmen continued to show improvement in taking over the Cardinal Jayvees...One of the Trinity alumni was fairly embarrassed at the lack of etiquette exhibited by some of the Blue and Gold rooters...He was concerned chiefly because the officials were getting more attention than the players.

An Associated Press item tells us of two companions who gave their tickets to an attendant at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans on January 1. The attendant was a bit incredulous in discovering that the pasteboards were for the Rose Bowl game 'way out in sunny California. Informed of this one of the companions turned waveringly to his fellow inebriate and muttered, "I told you we took the wrong train."

Jim Carrier, the 210-lb. Wesleyan fullback who is to captain his team next year, almost decided to join the army after mid-years, but instead will finish out his four years. He is thinking of joining the air force. Personally, we think he'd do better in the tank division...The Waters brothers, mainstays of the Wes soccer team last year, have already joined up.

Intramural basketball: The defending champs, the Alpha Chi Rhos, are not planning to rest on past laurels...They had scrimmages on successive days with the freshmen and the Delta Phis and then walked away with their first game...Don Vierung, stellar guard of the Delta Phi quintet, connected perfectly on a hook pass—with a light...With such accurate passing, the D. Phis won, beating the Alpha Deltas.

Swarthmore Shorts—The freshmen met the toughest opposition they've had to date in the Willimantic State Teachers...It was the fastest preliminary so far, but the Teachers were a bit too good...The freshmen need work in getting away from a man-to-man defense...Swarthmore looked like a good team having an off-night...It was a small crowd for such a swell game...Both sides were fast, rough and tough...Joey Beidler emulated his 86-year touchdown jaunt against Hobart by stealing the ball from a surprised Swarthmore lad and racing the length of the court...He missed his shot, but Ray Thomson tossed in the rebound...It's nice to see Ray back in form...It couldn't have been a better finish for Don Walsh...Erickson now has six or seven good basketball players...Wish we could take on Yale again when in such form.

Looking Around—Swimming: Trin 44, M. I. T. 31; Wesleyan 61, M. I. T. 14...Basketball: Yale 74, Trin 40; Yale 35, Amherst 31; Trin 54, Mass. State 53; Mass. State 37, Amherst 36...Coast Guard dropped a basketball decision to the fast-traveling Connecticut State team by a substantial margin...Basketball: Trin 62, Swarthmore 46; Swarthmore 41, Wesleyan 32; yet the Cardinal's only victory is the 51-49 game with us!

Coming up This Week—Tuesday: Squash with Wesleyan at 4.15... Freshman swimming with H. P. H. S. ...Both here...Wednesday: Varsity basketball at Coast Guard...Saturday: Both Varsity and Freshman basketball at Worcester Tech.

(Coming up Next Week—Exams!)

Trinity's informal hockey team has played two games thus far this year against outside competition. Thursday the team journeyed to Taft School and effectively outplayed the prep school boys, beating them by 4-1. Sunday morning a close game was lost to Choate at Wallingford, the visitors coming out on the short end of a 4-3 score.

alties against both teams were plentiful. With two minutes of the second period left, and the score tied at 26 all, Tullar sank a field goal from a difficult angle, but this lead was nullified seconds later when Captain Dietz of Swarthmore split the hoop with a beautiful one-handed conversion from outside the foul line. With seconds remaining, and the stands in an uproar, Thomsen was fouled; the two subsequent foul tries were both good, giving the Hilltoppers a 30-28 lead at half-time.

Going into the third period, the hurly-burly pace continued, Trinity's five, composed of Thomsen, Crockett, Bornstein, Walsh and Beidler forced the play throughout. Thomsen netted two lay-ups in quick succession, followed by a lone solo dribble and goal by Walsh. Swarthmore kept up the pace by scoring a basket near mid-court. At this point in the game, the visitors' defense also became stronger. With the substitution of Knurek for Beidler, Trinity's attack began to move again. Knurek dropped a shot, one of his angle specials, and Crockett intercepted a Maroon pass and dribbled half the length of the floor for the goal. The visitors, not impressed in the least by this showing of power, tied the score at 39-39 with seconds remaining in the third quarter.

The fourth period saw Swarthmore crack wide open, as Erickson's five poured on the pressure. As the period opened, Cope of Swarthmore and O'Malley of Trinity both sank pretty set shots which evened the count again. Dietz's goal was then the last tally that Swarthmore was to make until but two minutes remained in the game. With the stands in a bedlam, the entire Trinity squad suddenly played excellent ball. Beidler, in again for Knurek, sank one basket, and seconds later Thomsen tapped one in from under the hoop. Crockett and O'Malley then scored on the end of beautiful plays which whipped through Swarthmore's zone defense as if it weren't even there. Thomsen again netted his under-the-basket specialty and followed up with a foul shot. Captain Walsh helped his cause by sinking one from near mid-court, then left the game for good, amid deafening applause. This was to be his last game before joining the army.

The scoring continued with Bornstein looping one in after receiving a near-perfect pass from O'Malley. Another foul conversion by Thomsen and one by Tullar brought the score to 58-41. At this juncture, Coach Erickson sent in his reserves, who immediately scored on an over the head by Pack. Swarthmore finally broke back into the scoring again with two field goals, but the game was almost over. With the timer's pistol in the air, O'Malley again tallied. Swarthmore had just time enough to score two more points, and then the game ended.

to Trinity next Thursday will mark his sixth visit to the college. He has circled the globe many times and has endeavored to keep in touch with world affairs by visiting each important country every few years. By this means he has become one of the most outstanding geographical authorities of his time.

'41 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Professor Ray Oosting, Director of Athletics, has announced the 1941 football schedule. It is as follows:

- Sept. 27—Union, home.
- Oct. 4—Vermont, away.
- Oct. 11—Worcester Tech, home.
- Oct. 18—Hobart, away.
- Oct. 25—Coast Guard, home.
- Nov. 1—Open.
- Nov. 8—Amherst, away.
- Nov. 15—Wesleyan, home.

Mr. Oosting at the same time announced that a two-year agreement with Swarthmore has been reached with the first game to be played in 1942.

TRINITY SQUASH TEAM DOWNED BY WILLIAMS

Williamstown, Mass., January 11—A determined and hard-fighting Trinity squash team lost their first intercollegiate match of the season by a score of 3-2, to a strong Williams College team.

Cleveland, Trinity's top man, won a spectacular match from Joe Hendrie, Williams ace squash player. Cleveland won the first two games by scores of 18-17 and 18-16. Hendrie then made a brilliant come-back and won the third game 15-6, but Cleveland's strength was too much for him and Cleveland took the fourth and last game by a score of 18 to 16. In this match all three of the games that Cleveland won were tied up and extra points had to be played. Wiesenfluh proved to be too much for H. Nichols, the Williams number two man.

The scores of the match were 15-6, 15-10, and 15-4. Cunningham, who played in the third position for Trinity, lost to J. Hemphil, of Williams. Hemphil won the first two games 15-12, and 18-15. Cunningham came back to win the third game 15-13, and then lost the final game 15-11. This match was notable for the fine playing on the part of both men. Trinity's second loss was in the match between Toland of Trinity and W. Collins. Collins won by scores of 15-12, 15-10, and 15-11. The final match was between Cook, of Trinity, and H. F. Wolff of Williams. Trinity suffered another loss when Wolff won the match 15-10, 15-5, and 15-6.

Fowler White, the new Assignment Editor, pro tempore, is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, and has served on the Tripod competently for the last few years. More recently he has contributed as the author of the "Here and There" column.

Included among the elections were the addition of seven new men to the Reportorial Board of the Tripod, and the promotion of six reporters to the Editorial Board. The following heelers were elected to the Reportorial Staff: R. Doty, R. Tweedy, C. Griffith, C. Daley, J. Reid, R. Tullar, and B. Barber.

The following experienced reporters were promoted from the Reportorial to the Editorial Staff: R. Nichols, C. Jensen, J. Morrissey, W. Johnson, C. Upham, and J. Ennis.

ERICKSON QUINTET FACES SAILORS AT NEW LONDON

Vastly Improved Trinity Team Will Oppose Coast Guard Without Don Walsh

Tomorrow night, the unpredictable Trinity basketball team will travel to New London to play Coast Guard Academy on the latter's home court.

It is rather difficult to make any predictions as to the outcome of the contest because not a great deal is known about the strength of the opposition. The sailors have only played one game thus far and they dropped that by a one-sided margin to the University of Connecticut. However, that does not mean that they are as weak as it might seem, since Connecticut has an exceptionally strong team this year, and the contest was fairly close until the superior reserve strength of Connecticut began to take its toll.

The true strength of the Blue and Gold quintet is almost as baffling a problem to one who has seen them in most of their games. On some evenings they have looked like an all-conquering outfit, while on other occasions they have shown little in the way of a consistent attack. Last Friday's game against Swarthmore, a strong team, was very encouraging, and if Trin is able to maintain the level of play attained in that game, they should close the season very successfully. However, the team has suffered one unfortunate blow since the last game in the loss of Captain Don Walsh who is leaving college for the army. Walsh has been an important cog in the team throughout the season and closed his varsity career against Swarthmore by scoring twelve points. Just how serious his absence will prove to be will depend on how well the man who supplants him is able to carry on.

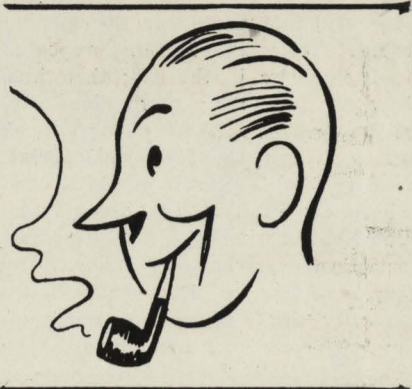

Judging from his last performance, Ray Thomsen will probably be the fifth man in the starting lineup. This quintet composed of Crockett, O'Malley, Knurek, Bornstein and Thomsen, played together for some time in the last game, and should be able to carry on satisfactorily. Since Christmas the shooting and team work of Trinity have definitely improved, and against Swarthmore their foul shots were going in with much more regularity. The most notable improvement of all has been in the performance of the reserves. All those men who were substituted last Friday performed creditably and Joe Beidler in particular, was outstanding.

AMBULANCE SENT

They justly earned this support from the audience.

Last Wednesday the Jesters held a meeting to award credits and to elevate certain members to senior Jestership. As a result of their participation in the recent production the following members were made senior Jesters: Olcott Colton, Kent Stoddard, Thomas Tamoney, John Spangler, Joseph Rossi, and Francis Rackemann. Another meeting will be held this Wednesday to elect officers for the next semester.

TRIN SWIMMERS OPEN WITH DOUBLE VICTORY

creasing success. The 220-yard dash proved to be a runaway for Dave Tyler, with Jim McClure, another sophomore, edging Howard of M. I. T. for second place. The two outstanding Tech stars, Denhardt and Bimson, then placed first and second, respectively, in the 50-yard dash. Sexton won the dives easily, and Neill and Taylor of Trinity took third and fourth. Tyler forthwith clipped off a fast :54.8 in the 100, beating Bimson and Denhardt. Conway and McClure coasted to easy first and second places in the backstroke, Conway's time being a slow, unhurried 1:55. Rog Morhardt paced the breaststrokes to the finish; he was clocked in 2:49. Howard, New England Intercollegiate diving champion, switched from his specialty to the 440 and won it, trailed by Orfitelli and Conway. At this stage of the meet Trinity was leading by the scant margin of 37-31. In order to win the meet, Coach Joe Clarke was forced to muster every bit of speed that he could put into the 400-yard relay team. Bonee, Earle, McClure, and Tyler applied pressure and won in the unexpectedly fast time of 3:49. The final score was 44-31.

On the following afternoon the Blue and Gold mermen moved over to the University Club pool to tackle their rivals, Boston University. The same medley relay team of Conway, Morhardt and Earle won the opening event. Tyler and McClure repeated their victories in the 220; this time, however, Dave set a new college varsity record of 2:20.4. Bonee clipped off a :25.4 in the forty-yard sprint, leading Dud Emerson of B. U. and Sharp of Trinity. The dives found Bob Neill in winning form. He edged out Dawson, who was followed by Taylor of Trinity. Dud Emerson, apparently the Terriers' one outstanding performer, took the 100-yard dash from Trinity's Sharp and Moor for Boston's only first of the day. In another easily won event, Conway and McClure again drifted in for the first two positions in the dorsal event. Morhardt, continuing his new specialty, kept his slate clean by nosing out Wheeler of Boston in 2:48.6. Perhaps the most spectacular race of the day was the 440, in which Boston's Heymoun and Trinity's Frank Jones matched stroke for stroke after the first fifty yards and ended in a deadlock, neither able to edge the other. Cuppia, a promising sophomore distance man, took third. A makeshift relay team composed of Earle, Orfitelli, Knowles and Sharp easily won the 400-yard relay in 4:08.8.

Summary:

Medley relay—Won by Trinity (Conway, Morhardt, Earle). Time, 3:24.8.

220-yard freestyle—Won by Tyler (T); second, McClure (T); third, Heymoun (BU). Time, 2:20.4.

lege students will be the observers and will work in two-hour shifts, night and day. Mr. W. G. Wendell, Instructor in French, will be Deputy Chief Observer.

Last Friday a preliminary test was held in the morning. The observers in all of the sixteen observation posts in New Haven County missed only three of the many squadrons of planes. The American Legion, in general charge of the operations, stated that the results were far better than they had hoped and that they appreciated greatly the cooperation of all of the volunteers who had helped in the observation posts.

50-yard freestyle—Won by Bonee (T); second, Emerson (BU); third, Sharp (T). Time, 25.4.

Dives—Won by Neill (T); second, Dawson (BU); third, Taylor (T).

100-yard freestyle—Won by Emerson (BU); second, Sharp (T); third, Moor (T). Time, 59.6.

150-yard backstroke—Won by Conway (T); second, McClure (T); third, Burns (BU). Time, 1:51.

200-yard breaststroke—Won by Morhardt (T); second, Wheeler (BU); third, Gager (T). Time, 2:48.6.

440-yard freestyle—Won by Jones (T) and Heymoun (BU); third, Cuppia (T). Time, 6:13.6.

400-yard relay — Won by Trinity (Earle, Orfitelli, Knowles, Sharp). Time, 4:08.8.

PROFESSOR RAND TALKS TO CLASSICS STUDENTS

worms.' In addition to his duties in the library, the monastery librarian held the book for the abbot during the chapel services, intoned the services, read the lessons, and often was responsible for the finances of the monastery.

"The rules for the use of books at this time were rather interesting and could be used by modern libraries quite effectively. Readers were asked to handle books 'reverently', and written directions were often displayed prominently throughout the reading rooms."

The speaker then quoted a short poem in Latin which had been written by a monk of the Middle Ages. A ripple of laughter ran through his audience, and, bowing to Dr. Ogilby, Professor Rand said, "I am quite sure that I would not have received such a spontaneous response as that on the banks of the River Charles."

Continuing his talk, Dr. Rand described the system of communicative signs used by the monks who, under the Rule of St. Benedict, were allowed only a small amount of conversation per day.

Following the lecture, slides were shown of medieval monasteries, ancient book illuminations and furnishings of monastical libraries.
