Trin Swimming Team Meets M.I.T. Tuesday

TECH TEAM STRONG

Clarke Predicts a Thrill-Packed Evening with Results Not Certain for Water-Boys

The M. I. T. water-boys invade Trinity on Tuesday at 8 p. m. to wrangle for the victory which they lost last year in the final event, the freestyle relay. Coach Joe Clarke predicts a thrill-packed evening with the outcome likely to be uncertain until the very end.

The Tech team has put up stiff opposition all season, being topped only by Wesleyan; the relay was in this meet the deciding event.

Many big names are ranged against the Trinity defenders; Runt, in the dives, has performed well. An M. I. T. record-breaker in the 100, Thomas, is a spectacular opponent. Tiedeman and Denhard are the freestyle strongmen, while Loveland is expected to show up well in the breaststroke.

The Trinity swimming team has had a successful season, losing only to Williams and that by a one-point margin. Boston University and Coast Guard both fell before the Blue and Gold by very lop-sided scores. The coming meet is acknowledged to be the most significant to date.

As for the Trinity lineup, it should follow past roll-calls quite closely. Walmsley, Morhardt (captain), and

Psychology Clinic to Test Physical Cases

STATE SPONSORED

Dr. Hutt to Lead Those Testing Bodily Handicapped at Lab Beginning Thursday

This Thursday Dr. Hutt and the Laboratory of Psychology will begin work in their clinic, set up to test physically handicapped individuals. Dr. Hutt, who has been trying to establish such a plan at Trinity College for some time, has finally been able to put the clinic into effect as a part of a state-wide rehabilitation program.

At the request of the Connecticut State Department of Education's Bureau of Vocational Guidance, this clinic has been set for determining the abilities and aptitudes of physically handicapped individuals seeking vocational rehabilitation. Dr. Hutt and Dr. Altmaier will be in charge of the tests, while the students in the Experimental Psychology Course will act as clinic assistants. These students will be given instruction as well as actual experience in techniques of testing and in the interpretation of the data derived from such testing.

The entire setup is under the supervision of the State, the tests being supplied to Trinity by them. However, Trinity College will be able to act freely and derive much valuable information and experience from the clinic. It is probable that this clinic will be called upon to test other than the physically handicapped, if the need of such a service is found.

Thirty-Five Men Apply for Reserve Officer Training As Lieutenants in Marines

SIMILAR TO V-7

Requirements High; Candidate Must Be Unmarried, College Graduate, Reputable

Lieutenant Finneran, recruiting officer for the United States Marines, estimated last Wednesday that at least thirty-five students made application for the reserve officer training course offered by the Marines to college graduates.

Speaking before a mass meeting of the students of the college, Lieutenant Finneran laid down the requirements for a commission. The course is very similar to the V-7 class of the Navy. Acceptance in it exempts one from the draft, and permits the completion of one's college course.

The requirements are stringent. The candidate must be a graduate of an accredited college or university. He must be over twenty and under twenty-five years of age at the time of his acceptance of the commission. He must be unmarried and remain so until he has received his commission. He must be recommended by the president or the dean of the college and also by at least three citizens of good standing in his community. He must pass the required physical examination for second lieutenant of the regular service, and he may not be a member of the Army Reserve, R. O. T. C., National Guard, or Naval Reserve.

The candidate who is accepted must undergo a three months' period of training at Quantico, Va. During this time, he will be taught the history of the Marines and the theories upon which they fight. He will also receive practical training in drill, in the fire control system of a battery, and in marksmanship as well as many other fields. At the conclusion of this first three months' training, the Marine corps feels that it knows who will make good officer material, and those who pass will be sent to another school to be trained even more intensively.

Approximately 75% of those taking the course continue. The other 25% are either sent home again, or are enlisted in the corps as privates, at the discretion of the commanding officer. To date none of those flunking have

Chief Schendell to Train Dogs for War

Manchester Policeman Plans To Confer with Dog Owners Each Week at Trinity

Trinity will become the center for the training of dogs when the Obedience Training Club will take over Alumni Hall every Tuesday night. Chief Schendell of the Manchester police and founder of the club reports that a trainer has been recruited from Boston to instruct all dog owners in the proper supervision of their pets.

The training of dogs for military purposes will be stressed. The owners will be instructed on how to train their dogs by lay wires, carry messages, and perform other services which will be of help in case of an air raid.

All owner of dogs are cordially invited to attend this first meeting of the club in its new quarters here on the campus. The only admission fee required is that you bring your dog along with you.

PURDY SPEAKS

Psi U Celebrates 100th Year; Ex-Gov. Cross, Buffington, and McCook Among Guests

February 12—The Beta Beta Chapter of the Psi Upsilon fraternity today entered its second century of existence at Trinity College. To mark the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Beta Beta a special dinner and commemoration program was held last night at the society's house, 81 Vernon Street.

More than a score of prominent alumni from Hartford and other sections of the state, as well as outside Connecticut, were here for the ceremony.

Lawson Purdy, '84, New York City, noted tax authority and president of the Russell Sage Foundation, was the principal speaker. Justice Philip J. McCook of the New York State Supreme Court, a member of the order, Class of 1895, delivered an historical address.

Anson T. McCook, '02, Hartford, brother of the justice, is also a member of Psi Upsilon and president of the local chapter's alumni body, The Colt Trust Association.

Ex-Governor Cross Speaker

Other speakers included former Governor Cross, a member of the Beta (Yale) Chapter; Judge Joseph Buffington, '75, of Philadelphia, and A.

Draft Board to Defer Third Year Pre-Meds

NAVY TO ENLIST MEN

Dean Hughes Discloses Effects And Possible Outcome of New Registration

Pre-medical students in their third year, who have received notice of admission to a Grade A medical school need have no further worries from their draft board, it was disclosed by Dean Hughes today. Under the new system, the prospective medical student, about to be inducted by his local draft board, can enlist in the Navy. He will be deferred until he has completed his studies at medical school and his internship. He will then receive the commission of a Lieutenant Junior Grade in the Navy.

"Eventually," the Dean said, "men from the ages of 18 to 65 will be registered, and, once registered, there is always the chance they will be called into active service. As 65 is the retirement age for faculty members at Trinity, there is a possibility the entire faculty may be called for some war work. This, however, is far in the future, and there is no imminent danger of our losing the whole faculty. It is inevitable we lose a few."

A questionnaire received from the American Council on Education for the National Roster of Scientific and Specialized Personnel has been filled out and returned, the Dean disclosed. The results of the questionnaire will be used for the purpose of classifying faculty and students as to the value of allowing them to stay in college. The result may reduce the number of professors and undergraduates called to the colors.

Dean Sceptical as to Future of Dances

NO NAME BAND

Faculty Not Wielding 'Big Stick'; Social Activities Must Be Greatly Curtailed

"If there is to be a college dance at all, it must be held on the campus," said Dean Hughes in a Tripod interview today. "We don't care whether the dance is held in Alumni Hall or Cook Commons, and we do not wish to regulate undergraduate social functions too much. However, there is a war going on, and we think Trinity men ought to realize that and be willing to give up a little."

It is necessary that expenses for the coming dance be kept at a minimum, Dean Hughes said, and for that reason no large-name orchestra will be considered by the Faculty Committee on Student Organization.

"Colleges which have allowed dances and house parties to proceed as scheduled are few and far between," the Dean continued. "The student bodies of some colleges have themselves suggested the cessation of dances and house parties. We would only have to go fourteen miles to find one that had."

Dean Hughes made it clear the faculty is not trying to limit fun, nor is it trying to wield a "big stick" in this affair. The curtailment of activities is made necessary, he said, by circumstances not under the control of anyone. We must wait until these circumstances change.

Dean Hughes added that the Commons can be used as often as wanted by undergraduate organizations for dances. However, he added, the Faculty Committee on Student Organization will give permission for only one Friday night dance during the present semester. The fraternities will be allowed to give record dances lasting till twelve o'clock any Saturday night they so desire.

Tripod Notice

Due to the fact that next Monday is a holiday, the next issue of the Tripod will come out on Thursday, February 26, instead of Tuesday, February 24. Assignments for the staff must be in by 7 p. m. Tuesday evening.

110 REGISTER

Dean Works for Eight Hours Steadily Filling in Green Cards

STUDENTS WORRIED

Third Draft Selectees May Be In Training By April First; Old Men Safe

The second line of the nation's manpower, faculty between the ages of 36 and 44, and students 20 or 21 years of age, marched from their homes and the sections yesterday to sign up for America's third registration in 16 months under the direction of Dean Hughes and Miss Merwin, who held forth in Cook Lounge from 9 until 5 o'clock.

As this draft dug deeper into the nation's supply of men, faculty members who were subject to military service in the last war, again became prospective soldiers. Trim students and paunchy faculty registered together. Fatter, grayer, balder men than the draft has ever been added their names to the lists.

This new group of registrants are all men who were born on or after February 17, 1897; and on or before December 31, 1921. Both citizens and aliens have registered, and the only exceptions are men already in the armed forces or in a few governmental agencies.

At Trinity, Dean Hughes set up a special registering system which permitted all those wishing to sign up to do so with a minimum of effort. "We have registered 110 of the students and faculty," he announced today. "Approximately 30 more of the day students must have signed up in Hartford with their local boards. The system was set up entirely for the convenience of the students as was done at the first registration in October 1940." The question of the registration of V-7 candidates arose yesterday, and the Dean settled it by having all those accepted into the Naval Reserve fill in their green cards anyway. "They'll be put into class

Ward, Smith to Match Wits in Quiz Contest

On Thursday evening at 7.30, two members of the Trinity debating team, Chet Ward and Charlie Smith, and two members of Dr. Buell's extension class will match wits with Springfield students picked from Springfield College and also the American International College in a quiz program sponsored by Noxema over Station WTIC.

The three senior members of the debating team drew lots to decide which should drop out of the contest. Ward and Smith won and are eligible to receive a prize of $150 should they hit the jack-pot question. Each contestant receives $5 for his services, with the opportunity to add to it if he answers a certain percentage of the questions correctly.

The prizes given will be in the form of defense bonds and stamps. "I want all Trinity students to come in and see me carry off the first prize," said Chet today. "Remember it is on Thursday. If you want tickets, come and see me."

AMERICAN COMPLACENCY

The fall of Singapore, the "impregnable bastion of Allied sea power in the Far East" to the Japanese proves two things: first, that bravery alone cannot stand up against modern methods of warfare, and second, that nothing is impregnable any more.

The battles of Norway, Flanders, Greece, Crete, Hong Kong, Malaya, and now Singapore have all been fought with great bravery on the part of their defenders, but all have been lost. Both the Maginot Line in France and the naval base of Singapore were described by the highest of officials as "impregnable" but both were taken. The battle of Singapore showed the same pathetic inadequacy on the part of the Allied defense as the battles of Norway and France. The Hartford Courant says, "The men who fought at Singapore, like the soldiers in the same uniforms who had fought in earlier defeats, cried for planes and tanks and leadership to match those of the enemy. They cried in vain. Two obsolete biplanes were all that Singapore could put into the air in a suicidal effort to beat off the swarms of enemy fighters and dive-bombers. Over the causeway that connected the island with the mainland rumbled Japanese light and medium tanks. Someone had failed to plan an adequate demolition of the rock road across the strait and only fifty yards of it were blown up." Thus after over two years of total warfare, we see Britain still powerless to correct these fatal mistakes.

The collapse of Singapore and its great naval base, which cost the British twenty years of labor and millions of pounds, should shake the American people loose of some of their smug, complacent ideas of easy victory. The attitude of "We've won all the wars we've ever been in, so why shouldn't we win this one?" is a perverted one, based on a misstatement of fact and very dangerous to the welfare of the country. The Allies, and this includes the United States, are now, and have been ever since its beginning in September, 1939, losing the war. And there is no indication from the facts as they stand at present that the Allies can stop this course of defeat after defeat, to say nothing of winning the war. This war can never be won until the American people lose their complacency and mass conceit and really get down to work. We have seen nothing of real war effort yet; and we shall see nothing of victory until we do. The war has not yet affected the majority of the public in any but a minor way. Conversely, the majority of people have done very little toward winning the war. Perhaps government inefficiency or lack of leadership has played a part in this attitude of complacency, perhaps our rapid growth as a nation has made us too cocky, perhaps we have become too selfish individually to sacrifice for the common welfare, perhaps we're too ignorant collectively to analyze the mistakes of others and practice a little foresight, perhaps we have, as Hitler says, grown too soft and decadent to wage a successful war.

We began our part in the war with a failure—Pearl Harbor. Inefficiency, unpreparedness and complacency lost that battle for us. Yes, we discovered, those inferior little Japs did dare to attack us, and gave us quite a beating to boot. But even this did not remove all of the attitude that is losing the war for us. Let us hope that the defeat of Singapore will result in a change from the present general complacency to a complete and earnest effort by every American toward victory. It is our only salvation.

SHORT-RUN ACTIVITY

Trinity College is taking a realistic approach to the problems of the war. Like many other colleges and universities throughout the nation, Trinity is taking the short-run view of the situation that is necessary in times of stress.

The faculty has placed the college on a twelve-month basis. They have speeded up the course of study, so that the average student may finish his studies before he reaches draft age. They have established a Reserve Officer Training course to provide the nation with much needed leaders. They have instituted training in many subjects of practical value such as First-Aid, Emergency Relief Squadrons, and Air Raid Wardens training. They are integrating their college program to meet the needs of a "hopped-up" war economy.

In these ways, the faculty is demonstrating that the college is on the alert to the demands total war makes on a nation. Trinity deals with young men. "As a training organization it is indispensable; it has valuable plants, well staffed research laboratories that can and will be war aids. On the other hand, war itself threatens to curtail the college's resources, to complicate its finances. That the faculty has realized these things and taken steps to insure

There was recently a rumor floating about, that Trinity, because of the emergency, might be opened to women next September. Well, it seems that neither Prexy nor the Board of Trustees would support the plan. A cross-section of the student body agreed almost unanimously with the upper powers; the faculty alone contends that a system of co-education would not particularly harm Trinity's reputation or standing. Also, if women entered college it would mean that most of the faculty would retain their posts.

Females are nice things and sex is reported to be one of the most pleasant of life's pleasures, but Trinity is not Smith, Farmington, the Travelers Insurance Company or Connecticut University, and we hope, never will or can be.

We regret to say that Long Bobby Tolland was so ill the week before last that he went home to recover his health. He spent Saturday, the seventh, recuperating in Larue's, is now back and doing nicely.

His roommate, one John Peabody, also went home that week. The same Saturday night he was seen in the Stork, sporting a lovely pair of horned rims and a table leg. He still has the glasses, but lost the table leg.

Mumford Heard plans to enter the Army Air Corps some time next month. Until he leaves for good he may be located at Vassar, Smith, or on the Merritt Parkway.

Tommy Buchanan left college after mid-years, ostensibly to enter the Air Corps also, but he was unable to pass the physical exams because of a bad sinus condition. Looks like he may come back to college.

Does anyone know what happened to the dance which usually falls due about now? This is our theory: rubber heels are at a premium and must be conserved, therefore, the dance is omitted and no rubber is lost. The theory might hold, but who wears rubber heels to a dance?

Here's what a nurse had to say about the article on the orderly work which appeared several years ago in this paper: "Some of us who read the disorderly article concerning H. H. S. N.'s paid college orderlies thought it cute; some, however, took it at its worth, those who detected the unquestionable satire of the whole piece. Apparently the writer is not much up on the veracity of his material, either."

Daddy, what does "veracity" mean?

The following remark was made by a student in Linguistics class, which shows the advanced state of culture (or is it wit?) on the Trinity campus:

"A Protestant is a woman who makes her living by practicing immortality."

Two members of the Trinity English Department, it is reported, attended the Hartford premiere of "The Bedroom Diplomat" and "The Art of Love" at the Proven Pictures, with the intention of enriching their academic knowledge.

and augment the college's usefulness is therefore of great importance.

We feel, as does Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, of the University of Chicago, that "When war has been declared long-run activities must be sacrificed to the short-run activity of winning the war. Colleges have stood for liberal education and pure research. What the country must now have is vocational training and applied research. What the country must have, the colleges must try to supply." We feel that Trinity in its own way is doing its part.

Satire on Louisiana Politics Loses Its Lustre on Screen

"Louisiana Purchase" Becomes Beautiful-to-Look-at But Slow-Paced Movie

By Morgan Gleszer

Usually when a widely acclaimed and much looked-forward-to picture arrives and fails to live up to everyone's expectations, the result is well nigh disastrous. Such is the case with "Louisiana Purchase", Paramount's version of the immensely successful Broadway musical of last season. Although the film faithfully follows the stage version with few exceptions, it lacks that spirit of gay carefreeness and frivolity which so definitely characterized the musical comedy.

With the exception of William Gaxton, all the principals of the Broadway show have been transported to Hollywood for the screen version—Victor Moore, Vera Zorina, and Irene Bordoni. William Gaxton's role has been taken over by Hollywood's wonder boy, Bob Hope.

The plot, as we suspect you already know, centers around the machinations of one Jimmy Taylor (Hope), representative of the Louisiana legislature, to frustrate an investigation by the crusading senator Oliver P. Loganberry (Moore) of the graft and corruption which has been going on in the state. With the aid of his friend, Mme. Bordelaise (Bordoni), and a lovely Viennese refugee (Zorina), Taylor attempts to blackmail the unsuspecting senator by every method known to "political science." But the naive yet determined Loganberry proves to be more than a match for the smooth talking representative, who finds to his amazement that his shady intrigues are missing their mark. The film then resolves itself into a series of episodes, some mildly amusing, in which the senator escapes from one compromising situation to another.

Victor Moore is, of course, excellent as the bewildered senator who finds himself surrounded with seductive Louisiana belles—some on his timorous lap, others around his neck, and still more under his once chaste bed. Bob Hope serves as an adequate foil for Moore, as the slick, fast-talking representative, while Vera Zorina, though still having her difficulties with the English language, plays Moore's seductress with elf-like charm. Many of her dance sequences in the stage show have been eliminated in the movie, but maybe it is just as well, since the picture moves slowly enough as it is.

There is one aspect of the picture that cannot be too highly praised: that is its physical attributes. It is indeed a "beautiful" picture. The settings and costumes are extravagant and lovely, and with the aid of technicolor they become indeed outstanding. Nevertheless, for all their beauty, they tend to overshadow whatever animation and humor there can be found in the characters and situations, making the picture slow-moving, almost tedious entertainment.

"Louisiana Purchase" is a colorful production, but—we regret to report—only technically so.

Sports Sidelights

Harvard University undergraduates will be required to go through a four-year period of physical exercises, according to an announcement made on February 11 by William J. Bingham, director of physical education and athletics.

The program, effective April 6, will require athletic training for all undergraduates except the present senior class and those who may be excused for physical reasons.

Of the seven football teams which Trinity will play in 1942 (they are the same as in 1941, except that Swarthmore is substituted for Hobart), the athletic departments of four and probably a fifth have announced that freshmen will be used on varsity teams. Amherst and Wesleyan are the two which have not taken action on the matter as yet.

Last Saturday night 28-year-old Cornelius Warmerdam, the unconquerable pole-vaulter, vaulting indoors, cleared 15 feet 7 inches for another world's record. He did not start vaulting until the bar reached the maximum height that the second place vaulter, Earle Meadows, could go: 14 feet, 4 inches. The Trinity College record is slightly over 12 feet.

Rhode Island State's "two-points-a-minute" basketball team, which scored 127 points against New Hampshire last Tuesday, is surrounded with an aura of unusual records. Coach Keaney's 21 2-3-year record at State is 290 wins and 96 losses. Star forward "Stutz" Modzelewski will undoubtedly break an intercollegiate scoring record this week, a record which was made by Hank Luisetti of Stanford. Stutz needs 16 more points to tie it; Rhode Island has six more games this season. This is the third year that Mort Goldman has managed the varsity team. This season Rhode Island has scored more than 100 points per game three times.

the range has been put in excellent order. It must be recognized that this is a time when many men may be called upon to use firearms who, otherwise, might not have been interested in the sport of target shooting. The principles involved in shooting a .22 rifle are precisely the same as in arms of larger calibre, and instructions and practice now is likely to stand a man in good stead later. Besides the satisfaction of achieving coordination, it is profitable, in more ways than one in the Services, to be a crack shot. In fact, it seems highly probable that many men in the times ahead will be placed in positions where straight shooting may save their lives.

The Range is open at the following hours:

Wesleyan Downs Trin By Second Half Rally

TULLAR, FINK STAR
Erickson's Quintet Lacks Punch
During Second Half to Lose
50-42; Frosh Beaten

Hartford, February 10 (E. K. S. Report)—Paced by the high-scoring Bill Sadowski, Wesleyan University tonight put on a blistering second-half offensive to take Trinity College into camp by a 50-42 count. Sadowski garnered 18 points on eight field goals and two foul tosses for the heaviest firing of the evening.

Trinity, on to the attack at the outset, rolled up an 8-2 margin in the first two minutes of play. O'Malley dropped in three long ones and Tullar the short set-shot for the early margin. The game slowed down a bit at this point as Wesleyan proceeded to creep up on Trinity. With Captain Johnson and Slitt working the ball in and Sadowski and Roberts popping away at the hoop, Wesleyan finally tied the game at 22-all at the 17-minute mark. But this Trinity quintet was a hungry team yet. Black dropped a short one and a pair of fouls and Tullar a center floor toss to give Trin a 29-23 lead at half-time.

Wes Fesler must have said or done something to his boys between halves; for when they came out for the second half, they were a seemingly different team. Slitt grabbed the tap-off and went in for a basket. Slitt dropped a foul. Johnson stole a Trinity pass to go down the middle for an easy lay-up, making the score 29-28. Ned Maxwell battled through for a sucker shot, giving the Trinity moters temporary encouragement.

But here Wesleyan really got hot. Sadowski, Slitt, and Roberts went on a rampage to put the score at 37-31 before Trinity could score again. Thereafter the visitors retained command of the game, building up a 48-38 lead before Trinity could get points in the last minute to close out in the short end of a 50-42 count.

Dick Tullar, with 13 points, and Johnny Fink, with his aggressive

Dick Weisenfluh Wins Twice as
Jessee's Quintet Fails to Produce First Win

The Trinity College squash team, wielding their racquets on Wesleyan and their Trinity courts this week, won four out of ten individual matches in losing to M. I. T. and Wesleyan by the same scores, 2-3, 2-3. On Tuesday, Dick Weisenfluh and Jac Cushman, playing against Wesleyan in the one and three shots, respectively, whipped their opponents decisively. Nick conquered in three straight games. Siems, Puffer, and Kelly lost their matches and thus the meet, 2-3.

On Saturday, on their home courts, Coach Jessee's same five-man team missed by a hair garnering the first official squash victory of the college. It all hinged on one game, in this match against M. I. T.

Jac Cushman and Don Puffer by previous arrangement each played his man prior to the announced time of the match. The M. I. T. men were victorious in both. Then Weisenfluh,

Swimming Team Sinks Coast Guard in Third Contest of Year; Earle Stars in Relay

FIFTY CLOSE
Tyler Tops List of Firsts with
Wins in 100 and 220; Frosh
Bow to Mount Hermon

Joe Clarke's varsity swimmers racked up their second victory in three starts last Tuesday afternoon, sinking Coast Guard, 44-31. The meet wasn't as close as the score indicates, as the Blue and Gold were content to use a liberal sprinkling of second-stringers.

Most exciting event of the afternoon was the 400-yard relay in which Bud Earle made up almost half a pool length only to lose by a hand. The relay started off with two football stars, Paul White of Trinity, and Bob Leach of the Kaydets, pitted against each other. Leach gave the New London crew a flying start and his lead was increased as Norris and Adams outswam Torrey and Jones. Earle, anchor man, then put on his driving finish which brought the crowd to its feet, but Riley had enough to shade the Hilltop veteran.

The best race was the 50-yard freestyle, another thriller, in which John Bonee had to go all out to shade Donovan in the good time of 0.25 flat. It was a close enough race to bring doubt in the minds of the spectators as to who had gained second until the official announcement was made. Joe Peabody lost out, bringing in a third.

Captain Roger Morhardt clinched the meet in the breaststroke event, routing Hanninen and Evans of the visitors. Jack Tyler experienced no difficulty in annexing firsts in the 220 and 100.

Stark Taylor continued his improved diving and gained his second victory of the season. However, Jack Walmsley was upset by Riley in the backstroke. For the New Londoners Crawford starred, placing second to Tyler in the 220 and outdistancing Orfitelli in the gruelling 440. Times of the meet were predominately poor.

Tonight Trinity meets stiff competition in the Engineers of M. I. T. The Boston visitors are expected to be tougher than either Boston University or Coast Guard and Clarke's men will have to turn in their best performances in order to come through.

Saturday afternoon the freshman

Improved Quintet Against
Tough Opponent

Trinity's winless squash team takes another crack at finding the victory trail here Wednesday night, but it's a strong Williams outfit that must be stopped. Dan Jessee's quintet has shown noted improvement in dropping its last two matches by only one point each. However, the Purple has already taken the measure of Wesleyan, who in turn has been responsible for two of the Hilltop losses.

Dick Weisenfluh, who has been really hot recently, will be the big hope of the Blue and Gold forces. Larry Siems, who seems to run into the toughest of competition as witness his five-game loss to his foe at M. I. T., will play number two. Jac Cushman, off his game last time out, is capable of better squash and is set to show it to his opponent from Williamstown. Dick Puffer and Ed Kelly, the latter a pleasant surprise in his win at Boston, round out the starting five.

natators suffered their second setback at the hands of a well-balanced Mount Hermon team. The score was 42 to 22.

Wally Simpson and Dew Yeager, along with the medley relay trio, were the only ones able to score first against the home aggregation. Bill Carothers placed third in the breaststroke event as Hoelza set a blistering pace to win in the excellent time of 1:05.8, a new pool mark for the 100-yard route. Rheinberger, Taylor, and Morrell were the other single-point winners.

Art Foster placed second in the 40-yard freestyle and anchored the victorious medley relay team. Next freshman meet will be against Canterbury.

The summary:
300-yard Medley Relay—Won by Trinity (Morhardt, Walmsley and Earle). Time, 3:31.1.
220-yard Freestyle—Won by Tyler (T); second, Crawford (CG); third,

A big, rangy basketball team from Williams will be a heavy favorite to turn back Ralph Erickson's crew at the Hopkins Street gym Wednesday night. With little to lose and everything to gain Trinity will give the battle everything it has and there is a good possibility of victory if only on the theory that the Blue and Gold are always at their best "in times of stress and strain."

An analysis of the Williams-Wesleyan game of last Saturday night provides a good tip-off on the strength of the mighty Purple. Behind ten points in the second half the Ephs poured in twenty straight points to leave no doubt as to superiority. It was their second victory over Wesleyan who enjoyed a comfortable eight-point margin over Trinity.

Two big guns in the Williams victory march were Don Lindsay and Bob Wallace. Lindsay dropped in ten shots from scrimmage and two more at the foul line for twenty-two points. Wallace scored all of his six points during that twenty-point spree, proving him to be a dangerous "money" player.

Probable starters for the visitors are Lindsay and Harter at forwards, the veteran Tolles at center, and Wallace and Barnes in the back court. Williams is in its second year under the tutelage of Dale Burnett, former three-sport college star and more recently a standout back on the New York pro football Giants.

Trinity must give plenty on height as the tallest starter they have is Dick Tullar. However, the Hilltoppers have the potential power to go to town if they can only get together. Should Williams employ a man-to-man defense it will have trouble holding onto little Ned Maxwell who dropped in 18 points against Swarthmore to take the individual scoring lead. Possibly Captain Ned O'Malley will find his eye. Except for the Union game and flashes in the first Wesleyan meeting the blond hoop leader has had no luck this season. However, great help should be supplied by Bill Black and Johnny Fink who seem to be showing steady improvement.

The preliminary tilt, starting at seven, finds the Jayvees tangling with the College of Commerce from New Haven.

Dean Hughes Collapses After Eight Hours of Steady Pen-Pushing; Men Answer Orally

Five Per Cent. of Older Men to See Armed Service; About Twenty of Younger

1-C automatically," he said, "so they might as well register."

When asked how the seance with the pen and the little green cards went, Dean Hughes immediately replied, "I didn't stop brandishing that pen for a full eight hours, and when 5 o'clock came I promptly collapsed."

"The nine questions asked of every man yesterday were name, residence, mailing address, telephone, age and birth date, place of birth, name and address of a person who would always know the registrant's address, employer's name and address and place of employment or business.

Men Answer Orally

"Each man gave his answers orally and the registrar wrote them down. A brief description of the man—race, height, weight, complexion and color of eyes and hair—was noted on the back of the card. The man affirmed that his answers were true, and he signed his card and received a registration certificate.

"About 5 per cent of the older men, above thirty-six years of age, and at least 13 per cent of the younger men, twenty and twenty-one, who signed up for the third selective service registration are expected to be put into uniform. The first of these might go off to camps by April 1.

"Following are the steps by which the draft classifies and selects its men:

"As quickly as possible each draft board will thoroughly shuffle its registration cards and then affix a serial number in the upper left-hand corner of each card. These serial numbers will begin at 10,000 and go upward as far as necessary in each board.

"Numbers below 10,000 have been used up in previous registrations. In this registration each serial number is preceded by the letter "T," denoting the third registration.

To Hold Draft Lottery

"In mid-March the War Department will conduct the draft lottery for the third registration. Numbered capsules will be placed in a bowl. The lowest number will be 10,000. The highest number will be several hundred higher than the largest serial number in the country.

"The capsules will be drawn from the bowl, one by one. Suppose 11,261 comes out first. Then the man who has that serial number in every draft board in the country automatically gets Order Number 1. If 12,456 is the second number out of the bowl, then all men with that serial number get Order Number 2. And so on, until every man has an order number.

"The order numbers determine the order in which men are considered for the draft. It is presumed that men in the third registration will not be considered until draft boards have completely exhausted existing lists from the two previous registrations.

To Send Out Questionnaires

"Whenever that time comes in a particular draft board, the board will get busy on the list of those men on the third registration. On a given day about fifty questionnaires will be sent out to the men having the first fifty order numbers. These questionnaires must be filled out and returned in five days. The information included is the basis for deciding whether the man shall be sent into the Army or not.

"The questionnaire asks his occupation, salary, dependents, wife's style of play, stood out for Trinity. Captain O'Malley scored 12 points and controlled a good share of the rebounds, but was slightly off in his shooting in the second half.

Littell, who scored 17 points, led the Wesleyan Frosh to a 48-36 victory over the Trinity yearlings. Brennan with 10 and Makel with 9 were best for Trinity.

status, previous military service, criminal record, and much other pertinent data.

"If the man is fit and otherwise free to serve, he is placed in Class 1-A, made up of able-bodied men available at any time for unlimited military service. All other classes are for men deferred for one reason or another. Principal causes of deferment are poor physical condition, dependents and occupation in a vital defense industry.

"Each draft board keeps sending out questionnaires at the rate of about fifty a day, or at any pace fast enough to keep up with the manpower demands of the Army."

HAVERFORD VICTIM

O'Malley, Tullar Star in Trin's Second Win; Maxwell Stars Against Swarthmore

Captain Ned O'Malley and Dick Tullar scored eleven points apiece in leading Trinity College to a 48-42 win over Haverford last Friday night. Trinity got off to a fast start in heading for their second victory of the season. Haverford, outplayed by a wide margin for the better part of the game, put on a belated rush against the Blue and Gold subs, but it was too late. McGill led the Haverford attack with 13 points.

Stanley Cope scored 18 points in leading a heavy second-half Swarthmore attack, which downed Trinity, the following evening, 54-40. Swarthmore jumped into an early lead on a foul and a set shot by Cope. Tullar and Maxwell kept firing away to make it close, the scoreboard reading 19-14, Swarthmore, with a minute and a half left of the half. At this point, Trinity counted on three quick baskets, to lead 20-19 at intermission.

At the start of the second half, Swarthmore, mainly by the efforts of Cope, shot into a 34-22 lead. Ned Maxwell's high score of 18 points was all that kept Trinity in the game. Maxwell, Fink, and O'Malley tried gamely to close the gap, but Swarthmore kept pouring it on, to emerge victorious, 54-40.

Racqueteers Lose Two To Wesleyan; M. I. T.

Chet Siems, and Ed Kelly, the one, two, and four men, arrived at the courts to hear that the match depended on their combined efforts. Kelly came through with a win over Barry of M. I. T., 15-9, 15-10, 5-15, 15-10. Twenty minutes later Dick Weisenfluh was victorious against J. Sheetz, 15-8, 16-14, 15-13. Three minutes later the imperturbable Chet Siems tied up his games at 2-all. He had lost the first two but had rallied strongly to take the next two; a dramatic stage was set for the final game. L. Stouse forged ahead of Chet with a flying start but slowed down slightly to be gradually overtaken. Suddenly he rallied and went on to win for himself, 15-8 and for the Tech-men, 3-2.

Office News

On Friday afternoon President McCaughy of Wesleyan with six members of his Faculty met with President Ogilby and six Trinity Professors to discuss plans for the joint summer school to be held at Middletown for six weeks, beginning May 18 and ending June 27, and at Trinity for six weeks beginning June 29 and terminating August 8. The schedule of the courses to be offered was thoroughly discussed and in due time announcement will be made in printed form, available to students of both colleges.

The Vesper service on Sunday evening was dedicated to Trinity College men in uniform. The traditional Navy hymn, "For Those in Peril on the Sea," was sung for the Trinity men now serving in the Navy, and for those in the Army "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung with trumpets and drums. As far as the information which has been received, only one Trinity man has lost his life in the Service. This is James Gordon Sterling, '41, who has been reported missing. Due honor was paid to his name at the end of the service.

No word has been received at the College since the outbreak of the war about the welfare of H. E. Hungerford, '41, now in the Philippine Islands. He left Hartford last July to take the position as teacher of science at Brent School, Baguio, which was founded by Dr. Ogilby in 1909. He arrived at his destination after a long and adventurous voyage, but except for one cable to his mother which arrived shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor, no direct word has been received from him. President Ogilby has been in touch with the authorities at Manila and feels that no harm or difficulties have come to him and that he is probably in some safe place without the ability of communication.

The pay and allowances of the second lieutenant are exactly the same as in the Navy. The commissioned officer receives $150 a month plus allowances of $38. Upon original commission a $150 uniform gratuity allowance will be allowed.

Lieutenant Finneran estimated that about thirty-four students from the college had made application to him last Wednesday. They will all be required to take the standard physical examination at about the second week in March, at which time the Lieutenant will be back with a medical officer.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors are permitted to apply. Each will probably be allowed to complete his college course. The Marine Corps, however, is making no promises.
