

Lord Zimmern Continues Lectures Stresses Social Outlook Of World

Oxonian States the Impossibility of Man Being World Citizen

Continuing the series of lectures on the World Crisis, Sir Alfred Zimmern spoke to a large audience on Thursday in the Chemistry Auditorium on the Social and Economic Outlook. The lecture was about 45 minutes long and was followed by a 15-minute question period.

Economics, Sir Alfred asserted, is not a system but a process in which all people are engaged at one time or another. A system is a framework for activities.

When a public authority makes any change in the value of currency there are far reaching social effects. As an example, the economist is concerned with a fixed exchange while the socialist is concerned with the resulting local pools of unemployment. This conflict is reflected in the Bretton Woods Agreement of a floating standard, anchored but not fixed.

The greatest labor abuses are not in England or the United States, but in those countries which are run by and for large concerns. The speaker indicated the "banana countries" in Central America as representatives of exploitation which sets apart two types of labor, the white boss labor and the native labor. Race is used to gain a labor monopoly.

The British Empire took the place of that system and while it is not a satisfactory solution, "alien rule never is," it is better than the corrupt, business governments.

"Man is never going to be a citizen of the world. He will always be a small, stale creature finding it more congenial to live in a limited society. The real task is to discover how to harmonize man's small scale into the large scale world into which the natural scientist has thrown him."

The next of this series of lectures will be given next week at the same time in the Chemistry Auditorium.

Sir Alfred Zimmern, Kt.

Engineering Club Meeting Features Elections and Film

The Engineering Club of Trinity College held its second meeting of the Spring term in Cook Lounge March 6, 1947. A motion picture from the General Electric Company was presented, featuring the subject, "69 K.V. Oil Filled Cable." The film dealt with the problem of high voltage transmission in a closed conduit underground. The dissipation of the large amounts of heat involved was solved by circulating oil in tubes enclosed in the conduit.

Following the film, a brief business meeting was held during which the election of officers for the Spring term took place. The new officers are Warren Hunt, President; John Kennedy, Vice-President; and George Mansfield, Secretary-Treasurer.

Plans for the next meeting on March 19 were drawn up after the meeting. The club will present "The Story of F. M.," a film explaining the intricacy of frequency modulation in terms easily understood by the average engineering student. An added feature will be a technicolor history of railroading direct from Hollywood. The second film deals with the growth and history of railroading.

Water Carnival to Benefit Red Cross

A swimming meet between Trinity and Hartford High, state schoolboy champions, plus a full evening of top-notch aquatic entertainment will feature the Second Annual Water Carnival to be held tonight at 8 in the Trowbridge Pool. The show, sponsored by the Water Safety Committee of the American Red Cross and arranged by Trinity's swimming mentor Joe Clarke, will be a benefit with all proceeds going to the Red Cross.

The event, which is expected to be a complete sellout, will feature many of the exhibitions of last year's program as well as being a dual meet in swimming competition with Bulkeley High taking to the water against a team from the local Y.M.C.A. The price of admission is 60 cents.

Cameron Lectures Summarized; Bible Subject of Talks

Discussions Create Interest As Series Continues Tuesday

"Living knowledge is mythological in character," said Dr. Kenneth W. Cameron last Tuesday night in the fourth of his series of lectures on "Higher Criticism Looks at the Bible." "Myth," he said, "is always concrete, and can express the meaning of life better than abstract thought can do. It is high time we ceased identifying myth with the illusions and inventions of primitive peoples."

In his first lecture, the speaker analyzed the tools of modern Biblical scholarship, defined "higher criticism" and "lower criticism," and pointed out the variety of traditional attitudes toward the Bible within Christianity, many of which effectively prevent an objective approach. He then showed the importance of the modern science of bibliography in the study of the transmission of ancient texts, and introduced analogies in the development of the Shakespearean canon.

In his second lecture, Dr. Cameron tried to establish historical perspective by showing how recent are even the earliest of the Hebrew writings compared with the "dark backward and abysm" of geologic time and how valuable the science of archaeology has proved to be in deepening our knowledge of the ancient Sumerian, Assyro-Babylonian and Egyptian cultures—all of them earlier than the Hebrew and all contributing to it their institutional achievements.

In his third lecture, Dr. Cameron applied higher and lower criticism to specimen portions of Genesis and Exodus, revealing a wealth of new meanings, customs and ancient behavior patterns that reminded the audience of Herodotus' History. The speaker dwelt especially upon the content and values of Hebraic mythology when considered against the rich cultures which formed its background. The geology and geography of the area about the Persian Gulf and in what is now Armenia have provided much helpful commentary for the Genesis myths.

Progress Reported In Forming Chapter

According to the Chaplain's Office, preliminary conversations are underway in regard to the formation of a local chapter of the Student Christian Movement. To facilitate the establishment of such an organization it has been decided to form a council representing all the religious organizations now in existence, and to make the proposed chapter pan-denominational once it has been established at Trinity.

It has also been announced that in the near future two groups will be convened consisting of the existing organizations and those students interested in the pan-denominational group.

125th Drive is Opened on Campus 100 Per Cent Goal from Students

Pat Murphy

Plans Outlined at Dinner by Holland, Faber, and Toland

The 125th Anniversary Drive for the new field house, library, and other buildings swung this week into one of its most critical phases. At a dinner Monday night, speakers Dan Jessee, Albert Holland, Bob Toland, and Red Faber outlined the plans for the campus drive to the twelve team captains and fifty solicitors. The goal (termed "difficult" by leaders) is 100 percent financial participation by Trinity students.

The toughest problem faced by the committee was this: how can $65 a month veterans be expected to give their much-needed dollars? The determined student workers started their campaign Tuesday with good answers.

1. Cash on the line is not required. Students hard-pressed, yet wanting to help Trinity to her new structural feet, will be asked to sign thirty-month pledges. Payments spread over two and a half years will be easier to meet.

2. Material benefits are offered to younger undergraduates. If results are good, ground will be broken for the new field house this summer.

3. The drive will not be conducted on a high-pressure or competitive basis: each student will be approached individually, and the contributor's own realization of Trinity's need for buildings will be relied upon.

The Newman Club has started the campus drive with a $150 bang.

President Funston, expressing confidence in the student committee, said that the example set by student participation will be "vitaly important" in the alumni and Hartford community phases of the campaign.

Co-chairman Bob Toland is counting on "the students' understanding of the meaning of these buildings to the future of Trinity, the students' desire to keep us abreast of other expanding colleges, and the students' will to cooperate for a common goal of improvement."

A disgruntled freshman, pointing at Alumni Hall, said, "I wouldn't give you fifteen cents for that old barn." Officials of the expansion drive waited anxiously to see how much he would give for a new field house.

Lack of Help May Cause '48 Ivy to Have a Late Issue

The 1948 Ivy, the class book of the Juniors, is facing a critical situation due to lack of help. Unless quite a few Juniors and Sophomores give their support to Editor Thomas, there is a serious possibility that the copy for the book may not meet the deadline of April 15.

As yet there are no representatives of the Sophomore class on the staff, and unless some Sophomore gains the experience of year book work there is grave doubt as to whether a book can be produced next year.

"The photography of the Ivy is progressing satisfactorily," said Thomas. "Already some of the students have had their individual pictures taken. We've covered some of the clubs, and most of the sports," he continued, "but unless we receive a lot of help within the next month, we'll be up against it as far as producing any Ivy by graduation time."

College Boy's Bark Is Worse Than Bite Says Powers Model

We have finally learned from a reputable judge that most college wolves bark but seldom bite. This profound statement was passed on by Miss Pat Murphy, cover girl, television starlet, and extrovert, who spends the rest of her time punching a rhinestone timeclock for John Robert Powers, the model king.

Pat was tipping a magnum of champagne after stunning the audience attending the G. Fox fashion show last week. "I love Hartford," she mused, "but what kind of a place is Trinity? When I asked a Trinity boy if he liked dancing with me he muttered that it was just like P. E."

Such a reaction is hard to understand. Pat, who will soon appear on the cover of Red Book, is a living example that Aphrodite could have been improved upon. She is a brunette, has sea-green eyes, a Pepsodent smile, and is fitted with the right components in the right places. "I like to cook, ski, design my own clothes, and discourage people who ask me for my telephone number," she added. "And she has a terrific personality," put in the gallant who compared her dancing to Mr. Oosting's torture program.

When we blushing inquired about her male specifications the lovely Miss Murphy had a reply on the top of her tongue. "Honesty, integrity, kindness, ambition, and brains," she said brightly. Anyone interested?

Hillel Group Hears Lecture by Weiss

On Wednesday, March 5, in Woodward Lounge, Professor Weiss of Yale University, one of the leading philosophers in the country, addressed members of Hillel and visitors on "The Definition of a Jew." Prof. Weiss maintained that the most practicable definition of a Jew is a member of a class of people who are set apart by the rest of society.

The talk was very short and to the point, and immediately afterward, the audience was invited to address questions to the speaker. The speaker was introduced by Louis Feldman.

Class Rings Placed In Library Display For Campus Opinion

At the last meeting of the Senate a sketch of the proposed new class ring was presented to the Senators by a representative from Dieges and Clust, jewelers of New York. The old ring and the sketch of the proposed style are on display in one of the library showcases. Every student is asked to express his preference in the matter by writing his choice on an especially provided pad next to the specimens. The Senate wants all students to do this, because the one selected will be the one that you'll be showing to all your friends and loved ones in the years to come.

The Senior Prom will be held at the Hartford Club on May 23. About 300 tickets will be sold for approximately $4.00 each, Louis Dabney, Dance Committee chairman, announced at the meeting.

The cheerleaders are under the supervision of the Senate who will manage them henceforth and forever. The last bit of news is that racks for the Tripod will be installed at various points on the campus, before the end of this week, by Mr. Wallace.

Quintet Gains 12th Win, Trounces Rugged Union Foe; Pitkin Nets 22

Hilltoppers Win, 63-52 In Fast Contest; Jayvees Down Monson in Prelim

Led by Bill Pitkin and Red Faber, the Trinity quintet prevailed over a scrappy Union team, 63-52, last Saturday night. Pitkin hooped 22 points and Faber 16 in a rather unfriendly contest.

Union scored the first four points before Joe Ponsalle cut in for a lay-up. Union maintained the lead until Ponsalle scored again to tie it up at 9 all. After this Trinity was never behind. Baskets by Kirby and Pitkin were separated by a set shot by Pemerrick, Union's big threat. The score standing at 13-11, Trinity started a drive which lasted the remainder of the half. With Faber and Pitkin throwing in shots from all angles, they gradually worked the lead to 13 points at the half. The score at this point read Trinity 33, Union 20. Bill Pitkin accounted for 15 of the 33.

It was evident all through the first half that Trinity had the better team. Still, the aggressiveness and the sharpshooting of certain of its players made the Union team a definite threat until the closing minutes. After the intermission, the teams played evenly until the score was 42-28. Then Union staged its most serious threat of the evening. The Dutchmen tallied seven points in succession and went on to pull within six points of the Blue team. However, two baskets each by Faber and Kirby put an end to the rally. Pitkin and Ponsalle went on to enlarge the lead to 17 points, the widest margin of the game. Coach Oosting then emptied the bench, and the visitors racked up eight straight points before Jack Scully took a pass from Johnny Fink to sink the final tally of the game.

In the preliminary, the Trinity J.V.'s finished their season by beating Monson Academy 51-43. They took the lead early in the game and never relinquished it. At the end of the third quarter, the J.V.'s had a 17-point lead. The visitors' last period rally fell eight points short. The J.V.'s finished the season with a record of 10 wins and 5 losses.

Cardinals Swamp Swimmers, 57-18, In Season Finale

The Trinity swimming season ended on a rather sour note last Friday night when the Hilltoppers were soundly beaten by Wesleyan at Middletown by a score of 57 to 18. The defeat closed a disappointing campaign for Joe Clarke's men in which they registered but three victories against five setbacks.

In scoring their sixth triumph in nine starts, the Wesmen captured eight firsts to Trinity's lone success in the 440-yard free style. Chip Stone led the Cardinal attack with firsts in both the 220 and 100-yard free styles as well as being lead-off man on the victorious 400-yard relay team.

Fisher, G. Forbes, and Wells began it all by combining to give the home squad an easy win in the 300-yard medley relay. This started the Wesmen off on a string of seven straight triumphs, unchecked until Bob Tyler took the 440-yard free style in the fast time of 5:32.6.

Going down the line of events, Stone, Ash, Stone, Fisher, and G. Forbes were the winners for Wesleyan in the 220, 50, and 100-yard free styles, 150-yard backstroke, and 200-yard breaststroke, respectively. Bob Tyler and Bob Richardson scored the only seconds for Trinity in the 220-yard free style and 200-yard breaststroke.

Taylor of the Cardinals piled up an impressive score of 84.2 points as he won the diving event with several well executed dives. Trinity's Dewey Yeager took second.

The Wesleyan Junior Varsity also spent a pleasant evening as they rolled over the Trinity J.V.'s, 49 to 17. Except for victories in the 50-yard sprint and 300-yard medley relay, the Hilltoppers were on the short end of the score all throughout the meet.

Next Friday, the swimming season will really come to an end in the New England Intercollegiate. Trinity will be well represented in these big events, especially by the Tyler brothers and Dewey Yeager who have been the mainstays of the team all season.

Although this has not been one of Trinity's better swimming seasons, it should be remembered that quite a few freshmen who had never participated in college athletics before have improved tremendously and should play a major part in Trinity swimming for the next two or three years. Especially outstanding among these newcomers have been Jim Glassco and Johnny Grill.

Faber Picked on All-Opponent Hoop Five

"Red" Faber, stellar Trinity hoop star, was picked on the all-opponent team selected by Saul Mariaschin, Harvard captain, last week. Considering the calibre of opposition which the Crimson meet including Holy Cross, Boston College, and Ivy League teams, this comes as a glowing testimonial to the Newtown star.

Three members of last fall's grid team had previously been honored in a poll taken among players of Wesleyan's undefeated eleven. Mitch Holmgren received unanimous honors and "Whitey" Kunkiewicz gained all but one vote. Joe Ponsalle also made this mythical all-opponent eleven.

Wesleyan Topples Oostingmen Again In Closer Contest

Last Tuesday night, Wesleyan posted its second win of the season over Trinity by a score of 59-50. By skillful play, the Wesmen posted their fifth straight win and their ninth in thirteen starts.

The hard play of the Trinity team was not sufficient to close the gap at the close of the evening. Wesleyan again used careful tactics against the Trinity offense, once they had established their lead.

The first half was fairly even and the Trin effort was sparked by fourteen points by Hayes. Sad to relate, these 14 constituted his evening's total. The Cards led at the half, 29-26.

The second half was a vain attempt by Trinity to even the score. A brief moment of tied score in the opening minutes of the half was the only result.

Phil Dundas and Ed May turned in fine performances. Their drive in the second half spelled defeat for the Hilltoppers. Hayes, Kirby, and Pitkin turned in creditable evenings for Trinity. "Red" Faber's off night finally caught up with the usually

Phelps Urges Students To Enter Intramurals

At a recent meeting of intramural representatives to decide what the procedure shall be in regard to intramural squash and swimming, only three members were present. An attempt will be made soon to hold this meeting again, and it is urged that all members be in attendance. Don Phelps, director of intramural athletics announced that there is not sufficient interest shown in this phase of the Trinity athletic program. He urges all to enter this activity, as it is the purpose of the Department of Physical Education to encourage and enlist the entire student body in some form of organized athletic activity and to encourage the promotion of wholesome recreation.

The intramural basketball schedule has been completed with the Neutral Club being crowned the winner. The strong Neutral five edged out the equally powerful Alpha Chi Rho squad in the final playoff by an overtime score of 38-36. A blazing last-half rally downed the Crows who were ahead at the half, 21-16.

All undergraduates of the College are eligible to enter any activity promoted by the intramural department with the following exceptions: (1) A student at Trinity, or a transfer from any other college or university shall be ineligible to compete in any sport in which he won his letter. (2) Varsity and Freshman basketball men who are designated by the coach shall be ineligible. (3) The same rule applies to squash racquets, swimming, and spring sports. (4) Students classified as "special," or "non-matriculate" are not eligible.

Time Out With Tweedy

At the risk of inviting another blizzard, I shall boldly answer the question of a certain poet who asked, "If winter be here, can spring be far behind?" My answer is, "No." And whether it snows or not, our baseball team has a date with various teams in the South, which few of the winter visitors from this region would call "sunny."

It might be apropos (whatever that means) at this junction to mention a few facts about the manpower situation. During the war years most college sport teams were below par. Last year our basketball team won only two and the baseball team won six out of seven. But we didn't have the material for either sport that we do this year. The result is that lettermen on last year's teams are finding themselves left out.

The only solution would be to change the rules which pretty definitely state that no more than five players on one team can play basketball at one time, and no more than nine can represent a team on the baseball field at one time. This solution doesn't seem to have anywhere near unanimous approval so it looks like some of the boys are going to be disappointed. But, as they say, "That's life," which, in French, means "c'est la vie."

The gentleman who writes a sports column for the Williams Record, has referred to the Trinity basketball team as "a fly in the ointment." Not only that, but he gets a bigger picture than I do at the head of his column.

I'll speak to Karl about the last, but will speak to you about the first. It seems he was trying to prove that Williams was going to win the Little Three basketball championship. As it was it ended up in a three-way tie.

Now, if this was the Little Four, and Trinity was the fourth member, there wouldn't have been any tie. Wesleyan would have won (a disgusting habit it has been falling into lately, especially as regards Trinity). But the Hilltoppers would have beaten out Williams for second. Here's the way it ended up:

Squash Team Drops Final Match to Wesleyan Ends Season With Two Wins; Weisenfluh Stars

Dan Jessee's hard-fighting squash racquetters dropped their fifth and final match of the year as against two victories recently, when the Red and Black of Wesleyan triumphed over Trinity by a final count of 7-2.

The Wesleyan squad in beating the Hilltoppers avenged an earlier loss at the hands of the Jesseemen. The win was the first in seven matches for the Wesmen.

In the Intercollegiate, held on March 6, 7 and 8, Bob Toland and Jay Geiger, Trinity's representatives, were eliminated in the first round of play. Dick Weisenfluh, who hurt his back in the Army match, was forced to play under a handicap in the Wesleyan match, and it is reported that the back is responding slowly.

The summary of the Wesleyan matches:

Musical Notes

By George Stowe

Kirsten Flagstad, one of the really great singers of this generation, is returning this month to the country that first gave her the accolade which made her world famous.

It is to be recalled that Fritz Kreisler, after the First World War, met with much hostility when he attempted to concertize afterwards, although all the receipts from these concerts went to charity.

In Paris, where she made her return to the concert stage, she was at first coolly received by the audience, but later won her auditors over with a consummate display of artistry.

It seems that politics and the arts make an odious mixture; it is to be regretted that artists do not voluntarily exempt themselves from the liability of such accusations.

On the Campus: This week your obedient servant turned inquiring reporter. The question to Trinity's perspicacious undergraduates was: "What do you think should be the veterans' role in modern affairs?"

Don Craig: Veterans should work toward becoming well-adjusted citizens and not be content to remain just ex-G.I.'s.

Bruce Nicholson: We should forget about being veterans only. (From here on in the road got bumpy.)

Joe Schacter: The veteran's role? What is it, a new kind of pastry?

Red Faber: You'll have to give me more than three seconds.

Joe Ponsalle: Leggo my coat.

Bob Jenkins: Don't quote me.

Valuable information: We hear from the office of the Veterans Counselor that some men are not submitting Form 7-1963 (from Report of Earnings) to the VA before the expiration date indicated on forms.

Which reminds us to pass on this item. When asked to give the question most typical of Trinity's counsel-hunting students, everybody in Mr. Candelet's office shouted at 97 decibels: "Where's my check?"

consistent Trinity star but his efforts were none the less inspiring to his mates. He was unable to penetrate the Wesleyan defense and his long shots were just not hitting.

Looking at the foul shooting, we see the margin of defeat. The two teams were equal in their efforts from the field but Wesleyan scored 11 of 17 foul shots, while Trinity could obtain but 2 for 9 attempts.
