Faculty Revises Mid-term System Of Grade Reporting

Recommendation Passed At Meeting Last Spring

As a result of action taken by the faculty last May, mid-term grades this fall will be reported only for freshmen and for upperclassmen doing unsatisfactory work; this spring, marks will be reported only for students doing unsatisfactory work.

Faculty Resolution

The recommendation presented in the faculty by the committee on administration and passed by the faculty resolved: "That at the end of the first seven weeks of each semester, professors will hand in reports on upperclassmen who are doing work that is unsatisfactory for any reason. All freshman grades will be reported at the end of the first seven weeks in the fall, with only unsatisfactory grades being reported in the spring. On the basis of these reports students will be interviewed and warned. Unsatisfactory grades should include those in the low sixties as well as failures."

Hughes' Statement

Dr. Arthur H. Hughes, Acting President, has stated that the new policy is expected to do away with the pretense of determining accurately what has been done in class work during short periods of seven weeks. He added that mid-term grades have never been official and have been reported merely for purposes of warning and informing students.

Frosh and Sophs to Clash at Colby Game

The freshman and sophomore classes will tangle in their traditional fall clash during the half of the Trinity-Colby football game, Saturday, October 20.

Five medicine balls will be placed on the 50 yard line of the football field. Each class will line up at opposite ends of the field, the sophomores defending the scoreboard end. The object of the clash will be to put one of the balls over the goal line. Members of the Medusa will act as referees, enforcing the boundaries which are the limits of the football field. The zone of play does not include any part of the cinder track.

It is advised that all the contestants participating in the battle wear old clothes.

Last year the freshmen wrested the privilege of keeping the winner's plaque for 1950-51 from the sophomores. This year with the advantage of numbers favoring the freshmen, the sophomores are expecting a real battle.

Vengeance Rally Friday Will Prepare for Colby

"Remember 1950" is the slogan for the "vengeance rally" at 7:30 on Friday evening, October 19, for the Colby game this Saturday.

The rally will begin with freshmen and the band's assembling at Bishop Brownell's statue; marching down Vernon Street and back up to Summit Street, the group will be enlarged by the fraternities. The climax of the rally will be cheers and songs at the Bishop's statue.

The cheerleaders have urged the entire student body to join the rally for the game with Colby, who last year ended Trinity's eleven game winning streak with a 6-0 victory.

Jesters Construct Amplifying System For Opening Show

For their production of "Command Decision" to be given on November 8, 9, 10, 12, and 13, the Jesters are building a permanent amplifying system designed by Byard Bridge, '51 and now under the direction of Mike Redfield.

Stage Set

The stage set for "Command Decision" represents the headquarters of Air Force command in England during World War II. The building and stage crew for the production is under the direction of John Larson and Douglas MacArthur, who are assisted by Raymond Fitz-Randolph, Glenn Gordon, Robert Crozier, Louis Isselhardt, Edmund Boots, James Stebbins, Paul Neal, and Peter Haeberle. The last three men mentioned worked on the Jesters' summer school production of "Ten Nights in a Barroom".

Raymond Leonard, with a committee of David Fisher and William Murray, is in charge of properties. James Mitchell, assisted by Kurt Niemann and Charles Hensel, is directing sound effects. Lighting is being managed by Collie Killip, James Foley, Bruce Kemper, and Jerome Raube.

Other Committees

Raymond Parrott is in charge of arranging programs with advertisements. Publicity is being managed by Richard Hooper, Marland Berdick, and John Samoylenko. Joel Stivers is serving as stage manager and prompter, and Wilbur Jones is in charge of costumes.

Price, Wage Control Topic of Next Debate

An intercollegiate preliminary debate between the Trinity Atheneum Society and the University of Connecticut Debating Society, on "Resolved that the United States Government Should Control Prices and Wages," will be held tomorrow evening, October 18, at 8:00, in Goodwin Lounge. Professor John Candelet will judge.

"Resolved that Iran's Nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company Be Upheld by the United Nations," was the topic for the interclub debate last Thursday night. The affirmative, upheld by Keith Black and Mario Cardwell, maintained that ninety per cent of the citizens are ignorant and are starving under the status quo, that no vote was cast against the nationalization when it was brought up before the U.N., and that Britain can afford to lose her original investment there as she has gained over four times that sum in profits already.

Negative Points

David Seufert and J. Theodore Berseth debated the negative; they stated that International Law prohibits such action, that Iran's government is in a much more stable condition with England in control than it would be otherwise, that nationalization might cause the government to unite with communist Russia, and there is no national spirit in Iran to uphold such action.

Stan Kenton Interviewed by TRIPOD After Appearance on WRTC Program

Bob Osborne and Stan Kenton

Picture by Dando

By Dick Hirsch and Bud Plumb
Monday night your Tripod interviewers had the pleasure of talking with the inimitable Stan Kenton, whose famous orchestra has been making jazz history since its beginning as a dance crew in 1941.

The Kenton band has been the leading organization to promote the idiom known as progressive jazz, which is reaching a current climax as the Kenton "Innovations In Modern Music." This series of one-night performances has toured the country from the West Coast to Hartford, where it played to a packed Bushnell Auditorium last night. The tour has seven weeks yet to go with 40 stops en route. They may be heard next in Boston.

Contemplates No Change

Mr. Kenton, cornered in WRTC's

studio after his appearance on Bob Osborne's show, revealed that he contemplated no major changes in band personnel after the tour except the usual abandonment of 20 strings and June Christy who will not remain to aid Jay Johnston with Kenton's band vocals. Stan said he planned to continue the "Innovation" tours indefinitely but remarked that progressive jazz as a commercial field is suffering from lack of competition. When asked what he thought his most successful record of recent years was, he replied that "September Song" was definitely in that category. It was obvious to these reviewers that Mr. Kenton realizes the importance of young people as his major audience and showed this by very patient offering of his time.

Princeton Chemist To Talk On Atomic Energy Tomorrow

Numerous Experiments To Illustrate Lecture

Chemical experiments will illustrate the various atomic reactions discussed by Dr. Hubert N. Alyea in his lecture "Atomic Energy: Weapon for Peace" to be given tomorrow night at 8:15 P.M. in the Chemistry Auditorium. This is the first of a series of lectures arranged by the Committee on Lectures and Entertainment that will run throughout the academic year.

In his talk, Dr. Alyea will trace the important scientific discoveries which led to the production of the atomic bomb, from the quest of the alchemist of the Middle Ages for the Philosopher's Stone which would transmute lead into gold, to man's triumphant tapping of the energy locked up within the atom.

How Bombs Works

He will describe the work of the government in manufacturing the material which goes into the bomb, and how the bomb itself works. Following this scientific review of the bomb will come a discussion of the likelihood of other nations' making it, the necessity for worldwide control of this devastating weapon, and the peacetime uses to which atomic power may be applied. He will also spend some time on the Hydrogen bomb and its implications.

Dr. Alyea, graduated from Princeton University in 1925, spent a year at the Nobel Institute in Stockholm, Sweden, and returned to get his Doctor's degree from Princeton in 1929. The following year was spent at the University of Minnesota studying the chemical effects of radium; he spent the next year at Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Berlin, Germany, investigating the explosion of gases. Since then he has been in the Chemistry Department of Princeton University.

Scientist's Background

During the war he carried out research for the Office of Scientific Research and Development in Washington and in the Pacific. His field of research is in plastics, retarding chemical reactions, and the action of light and radium on these reactions.

Soph Hop Planned For October 27

The Hartford Club will be the scene of the Sophomore Hop, which will be held on Saturday evening, October 27.

Morris Watstein and his orchestra, who entertained at last year's Hop will again be present. The Pipes, under the direction of Reid Shaw, will be on hand to unveil their new repertoire in their own inimitable fashion.

The planning committee for the dance is made up of Sophomores representing each fraternity and club, and also the officers of the Class of 1954. Heading the group is John Davenport, president of the Sophomore Class. Other committee members are: Alpha Chi Rho, Jim Logan; Alpha Delta Phi, Charles Van Lanen; Delta Kappa Epsilon, Gordon Robinson; Delta Phi, George Bowen, Delta Psi, Stan Muirhead; Sigma Nu, Pete Carrough; Psi Upsilon, Harry Morrison; Tau Alpha, Peter Windesheim; Theta Xi, Dick Hirsch; Brownell Club, Lou Taft; Commons Club, Mike Schneeborg. Also on the committee are David Mackenzie, and Fred Searles, officers of the class. Tickets may be obtained from these men, and also two freshman representatives, Graham Ramsey, and Dave Dimling.

Senate Plans Smoker, OK's ROTC Ball Fund

After the Colby football rally on Friday, the first all-college smoker of 1951 will be held. The Smoker is being sponsored by the Senate and the Administration.

At Monday's Senate meeting, the ROTC Military Ball budget as presented by John Wynne, ROTC representative, was approved. The approval contained the provision that the ROTC Committee must reimburse the Senate for the loss incurred on last year's dance. All excess profits will revert to a fund which will be used for the financing of future ROTC Dances.

The Senate also announced that the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be accepting donations of Blood in Alumni Hall on October 22, from 12 to 5.

The Senate decided to notify the Treasurer and the Property Manager's office of the hazardous condition of the flight of stairs to the Post Office. All of the members of the group agreed that during rainy weather the steps are exceedingly slippery, and something should be done about this condition before a serious mishap occurs.

Book Running . . .

A note from College Librarian Donald Engley, requesting the Tripod's help in locating the whereabouts of four missing reference books, has called to our attention an ever-present but unheralded violation of the canons of decency. The problem of book-lifting is very much with us.

The four reference books listed as missing by the library, Webster's Biographical Dictionary, Webster's Dictionary of Synonyms, Volume 5 of Moulton's Library of Literary Criticisms, and a volume of the Encyclopedia Britannica are, in themselves, of material necessity to the efficacy of any library.

Mention of the disappearance of the above books is to say nothing of unrecorded losses, either permanent or temporary, of other volumes. We refer, in particular, to the mysterious "appropriation" of books which are set aside on the reserve shelves for required class reading. This questionable borrowing of reserve shelf books inevitably results in a deplorable condition whereby our less aggressive undergraduates are unable to do their assigned reading.

It has been argued that this second type of book-running, or extended periods of borrowing, is more acceptable than the first because the goods eventually make a return appearance. We believe, however, that honesty is not a quality which lends itself to description in terms of degrees. Apart from the material losses incurred, which, incidentally, are considerable, we are sure that the moral implications are apparent to even the most naive in our midst. The case of the missing books brings to mind a debasement of ethical standards which parallels the stealing of pennies from the blind.

Assuming that we are all here for an education, which, after all, is Trinity's raison d'etre, our book-runners appear to be guilty of a double disservice. This institution fosters no courses, either prescribed or extra-curricular, in the art of thievery. We should not like to convey the idea that we do. And neither can the college profitably tolerate insidious attempts to prevent the diffusion of learning. There is no room for the contemptible practice of book-running at Trinity.

How's Your Blood? . . .

How's your blood? You may, of course, think that too personal to answer, but it's an awfully important question! The truth of the matter is simply this: Hundreds of lives can be saved through your donation of blood. With our forces now in action in Korea, our supply of whole blood has been almost depleted; in case of an emergency in this country, such as an attack from either an army of soldiers or one of germs, there would not be enough blood to give the necessary transfusions for meeting the danger. In this age of donations, the giving of blood should not be forgotten; it is a simple request for a simple cause—saving lives! Remember the day. The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be here on Monday, October 22, from noon until 5 p. m. at Alumni Hall.

Opportunity . . .

Students will have a chance to see future Broadway plays when the New Parsons Theater opens next month. Except for the occasional plays at the Bushnell, this will be the first time in some fifteen years that Hartford has had a legitimate theater.

The Fetid Air

By Henry Eckford, II

It was brought to my attention recently by a more observant person than I that Trinity has become a hotbed of what is commonly referred to as "school spirit," when I say "commonly" I mean "commonly." Not only is school spirit a Midwestern trait, but the term itself is of the same genre. As far as the more cultivated East Coast is concerned, school spirit more or less disappeared after Stover was finally graduated from Yale. Recently, with the wholesale prostitution of football in some of our larger colleges, even our Middlewestern friends have found it a rather silly thing to run out with banners and song sheets every time some cro-magnon freshman decides to beat on a bass drum. (Make no mistake, the uncouth of the Mississippi Basin are rapidly reaching a state of coyness.) The only places where school spirit may be seen in any real evidence in this country at present are the South, the Southwest, and the Far West.

All three locations here mentioned are also known to be the homes of the intellectually stagnant.

I am told that prior to the late war there was just oodles of school spirit around this place, but that it somehow died out after the V-12 left, and the new Lost Generation took its place. There were some who decried its passing, but I do not number myself among them. As far as I am concerned, there has been all too much worshipping of phony idols in our day, and not enough good old fashioned cynicism, hatred and general misanthropy.

We are told by our elders that we must go forth with cheerful visage and courageous hearts but I'll be darned if I can understand why this is so.

School spirit, is one of the manifestations of this puerile attitude, and I'm against it. There is nothing "healthy" about school spirit any more than there is anything healthy in a mob. It shows a basic lacking in the individual that makes him substitute sixty acres of grass and brick for some part of his thinking mind (if he has one to begin with—if he doesn't, then it's darned well time he went out and got one).

The greasy sophomoric tentacles of this invidious theory have again grasped several hundred of our classmates—let us hope that it isn't a death grip.

Parents and Friends of Middlebury Seniors Already Without Rooms

The housing situation at Trinity may be bad enough, but here's what the Middlebury Campus has to say about lodging up in Vermont:

"Although it is still very early in the year, many seniors are already beginning to wonder about lodgings for their parents and friends for Commencement weekend. In a representative survey of room reservation possibilities for the Commencement weekend, the CAMPUS found the situation tightening.

"The Middlebury Inn has nothing available for 1952, and a waiting list for 1953. The Dog Team Tavern is reserved solidly for both years, while the Waybury Inn, with a waiting list only for rooms in the neighborhood for 1952, has a few rooms open for the following June. Holiday Hill and the Bristol Inn have no possibilities."

New Library Created By Three Colleges

Smith, Amherst and Mount Holyoke Colleges have jointly made application to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to incorporate the Hampshire Inter-Library Center, a measure to combat the effects of high costs and overcrowded facilities. The center, for the present, will be housed in the Williston Memorial Library at Mount Holyoke.

The Inter-Library Center is designed to release shelf space for current books. It is also expected to offset the crippling effects of rapidly rising costs of books and magazines. This cooperative venture, which has been in the making for the last two years, will consist of a collection of infrequently used volumes put together by the three member colleges.

The combined collections of the three libraries now total over 875,000 books, with approximately 20,000 volumes added yearly.

When What's Where

Edited by Dick Yeomans

"PAINTING THE CLOUDS WITH SUNSHINE" (A Review)

This is the type of picture that is hard to write about, because there is very little story. If you like gaudy Technicolor musical extravaganzas, you'll probably enjoy "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine." Otherwise, better stay away.

Songs and dances and combinations of the two dominate the picture. Dennis Morgan, Virginia Mayo and Gene Nelson are the stars of what Warner Bros. is advertising as "the musical that out-shines 'em all."

The story in brief: Three girls as different from each other as cat, dog and mouse, form a "sister" dance and singing team. One of them falls for a male singer at one of their stops. They break up; the girls head for Las Vegas where there are plenty of men—and where a relative owns a gambling casino-hotel. The girls are followed; they all find men—but not the ones they originally started out with.

Interspersed in the plot are many musical scenes. There are, in fact, so many as to almost be tiring. However, there is some excellent color photography in these scenes, especially the dances.

There's comedy, too. An uncle from strict Boston society arrives to prevent a marriage and is mistaken for an interior decorator. What he finds out about himself! He gets "put out of the way" through a most unusual method but later emerges victorious.

Then there's a "pardner" from the old West who uses a straw bedroll and logs for a pillow in the midst of a modern hotel setting.

Monasticism Subject Of Discussion Here

In a talk to a Canterbury Club group on Tuesday night, October 9, Father Terry, an Anglican Monk of the Order of the Holy Cross, outlined the history of Monasticism, gave the schedule of a monk for a normal day, and discussed the monk's work and position in the Christian Church.

While the Order of the Holy Cross is solely an Anglican order, many of the brotherhoods, such as the order of St. Francis, were revived in England in the last century and have counterparts in the Church of Rome.

Three Vows

Dressed in traditional black traveling habit and wearing the triple-knotted rope symbolizing the vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience, Father Terry explained that the absence of worldly ties leaves each monk free to go where he is ordered and where there is work to be done. Projects of the Order of the Holy Cross include missions in South Africa and Liberia. Although it is no longer under their direction, the Kent School in Kent, Connecticut was founded by Holy Cross Brothers.

Explains Calling

Emphasizing the importance of applying Christianity to every occupation, Father Terry stated, "My calling was to Monasticism, a life that demands a more rigorous rule than most Christians adopt, but every Christian is committed to a definite rule of life on his Baptism and must apply that rule in his own vocation to make it a truly Christian one."

Students To Lead Sunday's Chapel

In commemoration of National Youth Sunday, morning prayer at 11 o'clock on Sunday, October 21 will be conducted entirely by representatives of the student body.

Kenneth Thomas, '52, will conduct the service, F. Murray Hastings, '52, will read the two Scripture Lessons, and Daniel Sullivan, '53, acting as lay reader, will deliver the sermon. Among the several other students participating in Youth Sunday Services is Robert Golledge, '52, who will preach in his own parish in Springfield, Mass.

Chaplain O'Grady will deliver the sermon at the Chapel of Phillips Academy in Exeter, N. H. The Rev. David Bronson, assistant at Trinity Church, Hartford, will be celebrant at the 8:15 Holy Communion Service; The Rev. Arthur Vogel of the Department of Philosophy will officiate at 5 o'clock Evensong.

Foot of 'Courant' To Address 'Tripod'

William J. Foote, Managing Editor of the Hartford Courant, will address the Tripod freshman training session tonight on "The Techniques of News-writing".

His talk, at 8:15, will be held in Goodwin Lounge. Members of the news staff as well as freshman trainees have been asked to attend. In addition, an invitation is extended to any other students interested in journalism.

USCGROTC Taking Liberal Arts Grads

The United States Coast Guard has just announced that it will accept for Reserve Officers Training any graduate of a Liberal Arts College.

If he is acceptable, the candidate will be sent to officers training for four months. After completing his training successfully, the candidate will be commissioned, Ensign, United States Coast Guard Reserve. He then must serve two years on active duty, and in compliance with the universal military training law, he will be a member of the reserve subject to call for an additional six years.

While the new orders state that men must have a liberal arts degree, it is understood that a man may apply for this training after the start of his last semester in college.

Further information on this program or on enlistment in the U.S. Coast Guard may be obtained from Commander Edward Jenssen, State Armory Building, Hartford.

Study Period Set by Interdormitory Council

The Freshman Interdormitory Council has voted to set 7 to 10 o'clock during weekday evenings as a study period.

During this period men in the freshman dorms are asked to minimize noise from radios and talking so that people wishing to study will not be interrupted. The council has decided to place a suggestion box under the new freshman bulletin board, and it is also studying other problems such as the complaints about janitor service.

The F.I.C. will meet on Mondays at 6:30. The officers are President, Tom Alloco; Vice-President, Jack Isselhardt; Secretary, Jerry Hatfield.

Hartford Executives Donate Scholarship

One of the many civic projects financed by the Hartford Sales Executive Club this year is a $100 scholarship to the college. It will be awarded in the second semester to an outstanding upperclass student selected by the scholarship committee.

Although the scholarship at present is scheduled for this year only, Edwin H. May, president of the club, has expressed his desire for it to be an annual award.

October 8 through 12 in the Chemistry Auditorium the Hartford Sales Executive Club sponsored a Sales Clinic conducted by Mr. Jack Lacy, one of the nation's foremost sales training experts.

Along with the 400 business men who attended the meetings, a limited number of Trinity men were entitled to free admission.

Whitelaw Resigns Feature Editorship of TRIPOD

William R. Whitelaw, '53, recently resigned his position as Feature Editor of the Tripod. He has written and drawn cartoons for the paper for over a year and has served in the capacity of Feature Editor since his appointment by the Executive Board immediately after its election last spring. Whitelaw resigned because he felt he could not devote sufficient time to his duties. Business manager of the Review, he will continue to write for the Tripod as well. No new Feature Editor has been announced. Recently appointed to the position as Assistant News Editor is Richard L. Hirsch, '54. Hirsch has written both news and feature articles for the Tripod during his freshman year.

Richard C. Sanger, '52, has resigned his position as Co-Sports Editor after writing for the Tripod since his freshman year. He has served as Make-up Editor during that time and has resigned his current position because of insufficient time. David E. Fisher, '54, has been appointed Assistant Sports Editor.

Freshman Football Team Trampled, 37-6; Solomita Sparkles in Losing Cause

Cheshire Academy rolled over the Trinity freshmen Saturday to the tune of 37 to 6. The Cheshire team, taking advantage of a soggy Hilltop defense and combining with this a strong pass defense of their own, were too much for the frosh.

Cheshire outplayed Trinity, scoring in every quarter but the second. The initial score came midway in the first period, as Warner intercepted Lou Magelaner's pass on the Trinity 29 and scored. The attempted conversion failed. Balough tossed to Warner, just before the end of this period, and the latter tallied, making the score: Cheshire 12, Trinity 0.

The freshmen scored in the second quarter, after Tom Sugihara ran back Balough's kick to the Cheshire 49, and Magelaner pitched out to Solomita, who swept to the right and scored. The conversion attempt failed, and the quarter ended soon after.

Frosh Booters Score 6-1 Win Over M.I.T.

Last Friday, Tom Simos' freshman soccer team defeated M.I.T. by a 6-1 score, completely outplaying the mathematicians. George Lunt, Bill Booth, and Dick Royston scored two goals apiece. Tom Lapham was the outstanding star on defense.

Booth Scores First

Trinity had many opportunities to score in the first ten minutes of play, but they couldn't capitalize on the Hobart, following the Coast Guard upset on the Trinity football schedule, could not have expected any mercy from Dan Jessee's angry squad. They got none, going down to a one-sided 26-0 defeat last Saturday as Al Magnoli and Bill Vibert took up the slack left by Bill Goralski's continued absence.

Magnoli Scores

Receiving the opening kick-off, Trinity utilized its ground attack for the first touchdown. Hum DelMastro and Tom Head garnered 15 yards on the first two plays. Magnoli carried for 20, and these three alternated on five plays, carrying the ball to the Hobart four. Three power plays at the line were stopped before Bill Vibert sneaked over from the two. Bat Castellani converted and the score read 7-0.

The defense stood out for both sides as the ball changed hands three times, Trinity taking over on their own 34. Vibert passed 16 yards to Bernie Bogoslafski who carried to the Hobart 37. Vibert passed again, this time incomplete, and on the next play handed the ball to Magnoli, who sped around left end all the way for a touchdown. Castellani missed the conversion and the score remained 13-0.

The third Trinity touchdown was set up by the defense as tackle Ed Kulas blocked a punt on the Hobart 31. Vibert's manipulation of five plays moved the team to the 10 yard line. DelMastro hit the center of the line and plunged through for the score. The placement was blocked and Trinity led, 19-0.

McElwee Intercepts

The scoring quieted down until shortly before the half-time gun. Vibert's pass started out for Bernie Bogoslafski but ended up in the arms of Hobart guard Jack Kreuter on his 38. Hobart got in two plays before defensive end Chuck McElwee intercepted quarterback Lee Letizia's toss and it was Trinity's ball on the Hobart 36.

Two running plays carried nine yards; with third down and one yard to go Vibert passed to the 13. Vibert carried for six yards, then handed off to Magnoli who skirted the last seven with 18 seconds remaining before the half. Vibert kicked the placement this time and the scoring was over for the day.

Vibert Hurt

Vibert was injured shortly after the second half opened, and the Trinity offensive stalled, but the defense was able to hold Little All-America candidate Lee Letizia in check. The Hobart quarterback started a pair of aerial threats in the third and fourth quarters, but Trinity's five interceptions kept him away from the goal.

The most sensational of these came late in the third period. Hobart had marched 46 yards to the Trinity 25, when second string quarterback Al Smith leaped high in the air to haul in Letizia's pass on his own 15 and haul the ball 67 yards to the Hobart 17.

Altogether, Hobart completed only five of nineteen passes for 83 yards. Although this yardage outshone Vibert's efforts, it could not make up for the 282 yards Trinity gained rushing.

Soccer Squad Triumphs Over M.I.T. 3-1; Mutschler Scores Twice for Victors

By Ted Oxholm

The Bantam Booters, opening their home season against M.I.T., walked off the field with a hard fought, 3 to 1 triumph. Again it was superb defensive play and sparkling scoring outbursts that gave them their second straight victory. Rookie Neil Mutschler and Co-captain Fin Schaeff did all the scoring with Mutschler accounting for two.

Trinity scored first at 16:30 in the first quarter. Sandy Mackimmie passed to Mutschler who smashed a twenty-yard drive into the left-hand corner of the cage, and three and a half minutes later Mutschler made it 2 to 0 by tallying on an assisted drive by Schaeff.

M.I.T. Scores

The second quarter found the Engineers doing the most offensive damage. Two minutes after the whistle Fred Belo broke their scoring ice and booted a strike past Put Scott. Through the remainder of the half Tech threatened continuously but the Trin defense, headed by Bob Hunter and backed brilliantly by goalie and Co-captain Put Scott was able to stave off all future scoring attacks.

In the second half the teams seemed to be fairly well matched and it wasn't until seventeen minutes of the half had passed that the Bantams counted again. This time it was Captain Schaeff punching the ball in, after a rugged scramble in front of the cage. This made it 3 to 1, which eventually became the final score.

Mac Sends in Reserves

Coach MacDonald put in his reserves after this and once again, as the score indicates, they made a creditable account of themselves while on the defense, and they often had the ball in Tech territory.

Improvement was noted in the starting lineup, especially the team work in the backfield. The squad is away at Tufts this week but after that they hold a three-game home stand, which will be climaxed by the Yale contest.

MacDonald Follows in Shetter Tradition

Lloyd MacDonald's varsity soccer club seems to be headed for another winning season. And a successful season couldn't happen to a nicer and more deserving guy than Mac. We remember the little New Zealander, coming from Springfield College last Fall, to a new job in a strange community. We interviewed him for the Tripod, and discovered that he knew little about his players, less about his prospects, and almost nothing about the way things were run here at Trinity. But as the season went on, we found that Mac was learning fast. His team hadn't been given much of a chance to have a winning season, but here they were, rolling over supposedly stronger opponents. MacDonald had taken a loosely arranged bunch of players and developed them into a top-flight team.

This year, things look much better than they did at this time in 1950. The club won its first two games, and appears to be a very well-balanced group. It seems, therefore, that MacDonald is the type of coach who can win with a good club or a bad one. He's carrying on right where the late Hal Shetter left off. More power to you, Mac.

Gridders Look Different

There was no doubt as to who was the vastly superior team up at Geneva last Saturday. The gridsters looked like an entirely different team from the one that had floundered against Dickinson and had collapsed at Coast Guard. Bill Vibert, who hadn't been very successful in the passing department for the first couple of weeks, was adequate Saturday, before he was injured (fortunately, he was only knocked out and will be able to play Saturday). And the running of Al Magnoli and Hum DelMastro made up for the continued absence of Bill Goralski.

Defensive play was fine in the Hobart contest, about the best it's been all year. Ed Kulas's alert line play set up one touchdown, and the great pass defense prevented the Statemen from carrying out a number of their offensive threats. As a whole, the team looked very good. We hope that they keep up the good work in future games this season.

An Apology

Re our comments on the fencing situation: Although the lack of formalization concerning the fencing team continues and will continue, a good reason for the situation has been put forth by Director of Athletics Ray Oosting. Being in a small college, our financial capacity is not large enough to handle fencing as a formal sport. There are many other sports which are crying for formal recognition, including boxing, wrestling, and lacrosse. The Athletic Department's hands are tied by the Administration, which, in turn, is hampered by the spotty financial situation. So the informal sports will have to stay that way until monetary conditions at Trinity should improve. Meanwhile, the college is appropriating a small amount of money to help these informal teams.

Goralski Honored

We received a press release from Hobart College last week, which paid a fine compliment to a Trinity athlete. The paper said, "(Billy) Goralski, the backbone of the running attack, has been compared to Yale's Albie Booth." Albie Booth is a Yale immortal, and we think Billy should be quite proud to have been compared to him. Of course, we at Trinity know that Goralski will be a Trinity immortal; but to have people outside the school liken his performance to Booth's is quite an honor.

Varsity Out To Avenge Last Year's Colby Loss

By Fred MacColl

The Colby "Mules" from Waterville, Maine, will invade Trinity Saturday afternoon, encountering the surging Jesseemen who are fresh from a 26-0 romp over Hobart. This game shapes up as a grudge match for the Trin forces inasmuch as it was Colby who deprived last year's gridgers of an undefeated season by nailing a much-disputed 6-0 verdict on them at Waterville.

Have Won One Out of Three

The "Mules" have a new coach this season, Nels Corey, who has been touted highly after a few successful years at Maine Central Institute. However, his new team has been having their troubles, winning only one of three games already played. Their most recent game was rather disastrous, as they came out on the small side of 33-0 score at the hands of Northeastern U. of Boston.

Colby is captained by Center Dick Verrengia, for two years a letterman and a very capable defensive player. They have about fifteen returning veterans with experienced men in all the line positions, although the backfield looks extremely "green."

Trin Expects Revenge

Northeastern lost to Colby in a 61-0 game last year, but a week ago it was a different story. If the Bantams can take precedence as a guide, their revenge over the men from Maine may be complete after Saturday's game.

Lieutenant Doran of the R.O.T.C. unit at Trinity served as judge. Although he was personally in favor of the negative issue, he awarded the decision to the affirmative speakers on the basis of the strength of their arguments and the manner in which they presented them. The lieutenant commended both sides, however, for their thorough understanding of the issue and their fluency in debating. A discussion followed in which visitors and members participated. Refreshments were served.
