

Eight Faculty Members Named To Associate Professor Rank

Eight Trinity professors have been raised to the rank of associate professor, effective Sept. 1.

Announcement of the promotions came yesterday from President Albert C. Jacobs, who commended the men for "their long and devoted service in presenting the highest quality of education to their students."

Promoted were Dr. Robert C. Black, III and Dr. Norton Downs, both in history; Dr. Vernon L. Ferwerda, government; Dr. Robert F. Kingsbury, physics; Dr. Paul W. Kurtz, philosophy; Dr. Walter D. Leavitt, romance languages; Dr. Richard K. Morris, education; and Dr. Richard Scheuch, economics.

Dr. Black joined the Trinity faculty in 1950 after previously teaching history and economics at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Earlier, he had held various positions with Western railroads, and his interest in railroad-ing produced in 1948 his book, "The Railroads of Georgia in the War Between the States."

Dr. Black was graduated cum laude from Williams College in 1937, and received his M.A. from the University of Denver in 1947 and his Ph.D. from Columbia in 1951. He is a member of the American Historical Society, Southern Historical Society, The Lexington Group and the American Geographical Society.

Dr. Downs came to Trinity in 1950 after teaching experience at the University of Pennsylvania and Swarthmore. He holds the B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, and has come to be recognized as an authority on medieval history, particularly the crusades.

He has edited several books concerning the period, and has written, with J. L. LaMonte, "The Lords of Bethsan in 12th and 13th Century Kingdoms of Jerusalem and Cyprus." Dr. Downs is a member of the American Historical Association, the Medieval Academy of America, Phi Alpha Theta, American Academy of Political and Social Science, the Eastern Psychological Association, and the Church Society for College Work.

Dr. Vernon L. Ferwerda is well known locally and beyond as an expert in international relations. In particular he is noted for his work with the United Nations, and has

Frosh Octet Wows Waldorf Audience

The official representatives of the Trinity Glee Club, the "Chanticleers", appeared at the "Waldorf Astoria" in their second public appearance last Friday. Their first appearance was on February 7, in behalf of the Hartford Heart Association in the Bond Hotel.

Friday's show found the freshman octet on the same bill as the McGuire Sisters and the opera star, Mrs. Jocelyn Perry. All appeared as part of an entertainment program sponsored by the Pestalozzi Foundation of America for their annual soiree and formal ball. The Pestalozzi Foundation is an organization founded on the principle of providing educations for needy children in European countries.

The "Chanticleers", under the direction of Rolfe Lawson, '58, delighted New York and international socialites for more than half an hour and then returned for numerous encores. Featuring guest solos by Fred Mauck, '59, and James Flannery, '58, the Bantam songsters harmonized such melodies as "Daddy Get Your Baby Out of Jail" and "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody", the latter an arrangement written by Lawson.

The octet, all freshmen, includes: basses Bruce Coleman and Buzz Mayer; baritones Doug Fitzsimmons and Allen Cowley; second tenors Gene Refalvy, Mark Lyndrup, and Bill Cressey; and first tenors Phil Carter and Mack Wiener. Also representing Trinity were musical advisor Dr. Clarence H. Barber and the "Chanticleers" business manager, Charles Shaeffer.

The "Chanticleers" were founded last year as a freshman octet by the Glee Club. The tradition was continued this year, and the present group has developed to such an extent that the men hope to stay together throughout their college careers. Lawson joined the group as director this fall, and the organization was recognized as the official voice of the college in January.

Committee Presents Revised Senate Constitution Proposals

Recommends 21 Senators from Three Classes

An enlarged Student Senate with greater class representation and without automatic seats for fraternities and social organizations were among the major changes recommended to the Senate Tuesday in the report of a special committee on the structure of the Trinity student government.

The committee proposed the adoption of a new constitution, the product of over four months of weekly conferences.

Senate President and chairman of the committee Jack Thompson explained to the Senators the philosophy and nature of the proposed constitution. Durstan McDonald presided over the meeting in order to allow Thompson to answer questions, posed by the Senators. Extended discussion and debate will be held next week.

The plan calls for a Senate membership of twenty-one: twelve rising seniors; six rising juniors and three rising sophomores. The new Senate Term should run from February to February in order to facilitate orientation of the new members, the committee believes.

The most drastic change—the election of Senators—calls for all Senators to be elected by members of their classes. In the crucial senior election, each house or social organization can nominate two men. Seniors will vote for twelve candidates.

Candidates for Senator in the sophomore and junior years will be eligible after presenting a petition with a designated number of signatures to the Senate. If there are too many candidates, a preliminary election would be held to qualify men for the final election.

The Pembroke College "Chattertalks", shown in a recent television performance, will be featured Saturday night in the combined Glee Club concert.

Trinity Glee Club Will Sing Concert With Pembroke

The Trinity Glee Club will join with the Pembroke College Glee Club in the first major campus appearance this year.

The combined "pops" concert will be held in the Chemistry Auditorium Saturday night at 8:15. Admission is $1.00 with a student price of $75.

All proceeds from the concert will be given to the College to provide a special scholarship for the forthcoming academic year.

The concert of "light" music will be directed by Ron Nelson and Clarence H. Barber, conductors of the Pembroke and Trinity groups, respectively.

Opening the program, the combined clubs will sing "Then Round About the Starry Throne" from G. F. Handel's Sampson; Richard Edwards' "In Going to My Naked Bed"; and "shoot False Love" by Thomas Morely.

The Trinity Glee Club will then perform Six Pennsylvania Dutch Songs by Martha Alter. This marks the second performance of the collection especially composed for the Trinity Club by Miss Alter. Soloists will be Fred A. Mauck, '59, baritone, and James W. Flannery, '58, tenor. Also included in the Trinity selections will be Brahms' "Now Ye Muses Be Hushed" and choruses from Gilbert and Sullivan's Yeomen of the Guard, Douglas Fitzsimmons, '61, baritone, soloist.

The Pembroke "Chattertalks," an octet well known throughout the Ivy League, will conclude the first half of the program with several popular selections.

After the intermission, the Pembroke Glee Club will render "Glorius Forever", "Banana Boat Song", and three Leroy Anderson favorites, "Belle of the Ball", "Serenata", and "The Syncopated Clock". This will be followed by the Trinity Chanticleers, a freshman octet, which recently appeared at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The combined clubs will conclude the program with choral selections from two of Rogers and Hammerstein's most popular musicals, The King and I and Oklahoma.

Accompanists for the program will be Miss Rosanne Greenberg, Pembroke, and Dean Uphoff, '58 and David Belmont, '59 of Trinity.

Freshmen To Be Matriculated; Academic Tradition Renewed

After having completed satisfactorily the Christmas Term, some two-hundred Freshmen will be matriculated to official membership in the College Body early tomorrow afternoon.

The Matriculation Ceremony, which will take place in the Chapel, is a continuation of an academic tradition dating from the thirteenth century. In 1289, the first recorded date we have of matriculation, the name and inventory of property of each student at the University of Paris was required on the matricula, or list, of a Master if the student wished to enjoy the privileges of the University. The idea was carried to Oxford, where the clerks became members of the University when they signed the list of one of the Masters of Art.

As the town and gown rivalries in Paris and Oxford as well as in other university towns became severe during the fourteenth century, inclusion on a matricula brought the student under university jurisdiction and excluded him from civil authority.

Although the town and gown conflicts no longer exist in most university towns, it is an honor for a student to be admitted to a college or university body by taking an oath of allegiance and by signing a Book of Matriculation.

Tomorrow will mark the 136th Matriculation Ceremony at Trinity. Until 1949 the Freshman Class matriculated during or shortly after Orientation Week in September, before it had a real opportunity to prove itself. However, it was decided in 1949 that the ceremony would be held after the Freshmen had shown themselves worthy of becoming members of the College. Freshmen on academic probation, therefore, are not matriculated until they have passed a semester satisfactorily.

Concerning tomorrow's ceremony, Mr. Thomas A. Smith, Freshman Advisor, said, "The Freshmen will enter the Chapel and take seats there. They will be represented in the academic procession by the Freshman Executive Council and by the officers of the Freshman Class. The members of the Class of 1961 will renew a Trinity tradition when they present their class motto on a small brass plaque to President Jacobs. After the ceremony they may sign the Book of Matriculation in Williams Memorial."

John Dando and James Conant To Address A.A.S.A. Convention

John A. Dando, assistant professor of English, will speak on "Literature, the Voice of the Times" at a St. Louis convention of the American Association of School Administrators, Feb. 22-25.

Mr. Dando will appear on the same program with James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard.

This is but one more item on Mr. Dando's busy schedule. Recently he started a new radio show over WCBS, New York, called "Backgrounds of Literature." It is heard on Sunday mornings at 8:30. He also is continuing the popular "Behind the Pages" series over WTIC, and has his own TV show over WTIC-TV, "What in the World?" seen on Friday evenings.

Mr. Dando, a graduate of McGill University where he also received the M.A. degree, has been at Trinity since 1950.

He is the author of "Builders of a Nation," biographies of seven Canadian statesmen; and "Great American Playwrights," five articles for "Cue," the Canadian magazine of the theater.

Mr. Dando also won the Canadian Drama Festival Award for the best English play of 1947.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

(Editor's Note: The following letter to Dean Joseph Clarke was signed by one hundred fifty members of the Freshmen Class and was written in a manner designed to incorporate as many different Freshmen objections to the plan to "integrated" dormitories. Those who signed the letter, stated a Freshman spokesman, were in full agreement on three major points. They object to the manner in which the plan was presented. They believe the plan is not the best solution to the problem, and they feel, furthermore, that if the plan is carried through the administration owes the student body a more detailed explanation.)

Dear Sir:

Upon hearing of the plan calling for Freshmen to live in all dorms beginning next fall, we as members of the Class of 1961 feel we must protest both against the plan itself and the manner in which it was announced. Since the plan quite obviously affects the Freshman and Sophomore Classes to the greatest degree, we feel that the Class of 1961 or at least its representative body, the Freshman Executive Council, should have been consulted before action was taken. We cannot see how actions taken in this manner can lead to the type of student self-government that we have been led to believe that you favor. The proudest claim of the small college is that the individual and his feelings are considered important, and one is never reduced to the status of an I.B.M. card. But when a decision affecting an entire class closely is made without any visible attempt to assay the Class's opinion on the matter, it would seem that we are not far from that I.B.M. existence that small colleges so deplore.

You state that the problem that you are attempting to solve is the existence of the Freshman Class as a separate unit within the college. We neither agree completely with the statement of the problem nor with the solution. Freshmen, we admit, are a separate group on campus, but to even a greater degree, as far as we have been able to discern, so are the individual fraternities. There is a valid reason for the Freshmen to be a separate unit. We are beginners in college. We need a period to adjust to college life and think that this can best be accomplished by living and learning together.

You say that it is important to get to know upper-classmen. We agree with this but we believe it is far more important to get to know other Freshmen. Regardless of how hard an upperclassman may try, no one can understand a Freshman's problems quite as well as another Freshman. The Freshman, during the period in which he is adjusting to college, finds it necessary to blow off steam quite often, and by integrating the dorms we either deny the right of the Freshmen to blow off steam or the right of the upperclassmen to peace and quiet. The fact that the frequency of disturbances in the Freshmen dorms become less frequent as the year goes on is not a mere coincidence. It is because, by living with such disturbances, the Freshmen soon learn that rowdiness has no part in a successful college career.

We feel that the problem of keeping the Freshman class from becoming an isolated unit in the college is quite a different problem and quite a real one. As long as the social life of

Princetonians Bicker Over 'Bicker' System

For the first time in nine years the 100% Princeton University "Bicker" has failed.

Theoretically an opportunity for all sophomores to enter an eating club exists, but experience has shown that those men who have been refused bids by the more "prominent" clubs and who have been faced with the prospect of being "100 percenters" are dissatisfied with being forced to join the cooperative Prospect Club. A "100 percenter" is a man who has been refused bids by all seventeen of the College's eating clubs. It is evident that those who are forced to join the Prospect Club feel discriminated against and join the club only to prevent further discrimination.

The following is an excerpt from a letter to the editor of the Daily Princetonian: "There is on campus no such things as an equivalent alternate to joining a club. If a person decides to bicker, and wants to join a club, then the offer of somewhat equivalent facilities cannot change the fact that he was not accepted by the club, nor does it change the feeling that he was not good enough for the clubs." Another states: "If you're not in a club, you've been rejected. You've got a stigma attached to you. So when it seems that you're not going to get a bid you run around and try to find people to be your friend and help you get into a club . . . In the eyes of the club, you shouldn't be short and non-athletic. You shouldn't have gone to a public high school—you ought to be a prep school graduate. You shouldn't be on a scholarship. But the worst two things you can be are an intellectual and Jewish." Twenty-three men refused bids to the Prospect Club on the basis that it was a "Catch-all" and chose to remain unaffiliated. A large number of them signed a statement stating, "I feel I have been discriminated against because of race or religion."

The situation exists to some degree in all colleges having selective social organizations, but seldom is there found the hypocrisy which is so evident at Princeton. The University's administration has abdicated all responsibility in the matter; the Interclub Committee publicly admits the system to be "unrealistic, impractical, and leading to untold hardship";

Trin Graduate Takes New Post

John A. Mason, a member of the Administration since 1946 and a Trinity graduate, class of 1934, has been named associate director of development.

Announcement of the promotion came from President Jacobs, who commented on Mr. Mason's "excellent work" in various capacities, and noted that "work in the developmental areas becomes increasingly important to Trinity as we seek to maintain the highest quality in our faculty, student body and facilities."

In his new position Mr. Mason will be working closely with Albert E. Holland, vice-president, and also a Trinity graduate. In their undergraduate days the two were classmates.

Mr. Mason returned to his alma mater as head of the News Bureau, and subsequently did work in development, alumni relations, and served most recently as assistant to the president.

After his graduation he entered into business, first with the Raymond-Whitecomb Tourist Agency of Boston, and, during World War II, as personnel manager of the Hadley Special Tools, Inc., of Brighton, Mass.

Poe is Subject of Barbieri Club Talk Tomorrow Evening

"Edgar Allen Poe in Italian Literature" will be the subject of Professor Filippo Donini, cultural attache of Italy in the United States, when he speaks in the Library Conference Room tomorrow night at 8:15.

This is the first in a series of lectures presented by the Cesare Barbieri Club at Trinity, organized under the auspices of the Barbieri Foundation to further the study of Italian.

Dr. Donini, born in Rome in 1911, received his degree in literature from the University of Rome in 1932. He has since taught Italian at such institutions as Trinity College, Dublin; the University of Algiers, and the University of Amsterdam. A specialist in English and American Literature, he also has taught English in Rome and Trento.

At other times in his many-sided career he was librarian and curator of Keats' house in Rome; Director of the Italian Institute in Bruxelles; and assistant Director of the Italian Institute in London.

Dr. Donini has published extensively in academic and literary journals, contributing articles in Italian, French and English to such periodicals as "Il Mondo", Rome; "Rivages," Algiers; "The Spectator", London; and "Dietsche Warande," Antwerp.

Princeton, Bicks . . .

and the school paper points out that the College has the choice of adhering to the ideals of a great university or those of a country club. The administration must either provide adequate social facilities for the "undesirables" and others who wish no part of the club system, or at least have the common decency to inform prospective applicants from lower-class minority groups that it has no place for them. If the first alternative is chosen, it is conceivable that the Princeton social system will gradually lose its strangle-hold on the University.

Princeton's difficulty is that the University condones this discriminatory system, while it sanctions the admission of students from minority groups who are frowned upon by the powerful "elite." One might be good enough to get into the school, but not good enough to be admitted to the clubs. Without the clubs one can't lead a normal existence at Princeton.

It would be easy to magnify the situation out of proportion: even the affected students emphasize "being wanted" too much, but the evident hypocrisy in all parts needs to be remedied.

Committee Shows Areas For 'Discipline' Studies

The Senate committee for the study of student discipline on the Trinity campus met on Wednesday and outlined its activities.

It was decided that the following criteria would be used as a guide in its discussions:

Economics Club Organizes

By PAUL GOODMAN

The Economics Club met for its first meeting this past Tuesday evening.

The meeting was opened by a few brief remarks from the advisor of the club, Dr. Oahn, who felt that this organization is going to play a very significant role in the extra-curricular activities of the College. He thought the Economics Club would be a valuable co-ordinator, branching the economic theory learned in the classroom with the practical problems found in the business world.

The focal point of the meeting was a lecture, "Opportunities in the Field of Economics", given by the chairman of the economics department, Dr. Towle. As an introduction to his talk, Dr. Towle—in pointing out the role of economics—cited this subject as one of the keenest tools that is developed from a liberal arts education.

1. Is there a problem of student discipline at Trinity?
  - a. If so, of what does it consist?
  - b. How serious of a problem is it?
2. Should any part of the judicial function arising from this problem be handled by the students?
  - a. If so, what specific problems should or should not be handled by the student judicial body?
3. Would the introduction of any type of honor system improve existing circumstances?
4. What constitutes the best student judicial board?
  - a. How should its members be chosen?
  - b. What trial procedure should it adopt?
5. On the basis of our discussion of the above questions, what recommendations if any, should we make toward modification of our present system? (Is the present system of the Medusa the best system to deal with our problems?)

The committee concluded from its discussion that the major problem at Trinity was "attitude." The discipline problems of the campus arise out of student's lack of respect for college property, authority, and adult ideals.

The group felt that the disciplinary action, other than academic, should be handled by a student judiciary body. In following discussions it is hoped that a workable solution will be found for the campus discipline problems.

Cagers Favored Over Stevens Friday Bowdoin Midgets Down Fired Quintet

By MATT LEVINE

This Friday night, in the next to last home game of the season, the Bantam quintet plays host to Stevens Tech of Hoboken, New Jersey. Probably for the first time this season, the local five will go into a game as slight favorites.

Not much is known about this Stevens squad, except for the fact that they downed Pace last Saturday night by a healthy 108-72 score. The Jersey club had three men who registered high in the scoring column. Bob Walker tallied 20 points, John Wiscoski the high scoring center hit for 28 points, and Nick Raddoupolas clicked for 24 counters.

Visit Middlebury Saturday

Then on Saturday afternoon, the team starts a long trek up to snow-bound Vermont to play Middlebury.

Last year the Vermonters downed the distraught Trinity team in the field house by one point in an overtime battle.

Tonight the cagers are travelling to Amherst to take on the omnipotent Lord Jeffs.

Bowdoin's two midget guards, Al Simons and Dick Willey, proved to be too much for the locals in the Junior Prom weekend presentation, as the visitors were victorious by a 69-65 count. A crowd of 700 watched the two 5'8" "hicks" run rampant over the Trinity defense by hitting on distant jump shots, and consistently driving in for timely tallies.

Soft Hooks

As usual, the Bantams gave the opposition a head start, and at one time trailed the Polar Bears by a 30-14 score. With "Gashouse" Foster leading the way, the deficit was soon narrowed. The soft-hooking hoopster from Darien bucketed ten points in the half's remaining four minutes. Thus, the clubs walked off the floor at halftime with Bowdoin leading 38-30.

In the second half it was Barry G. Royden supplying the spark, as the Trinity cagers closed the gap even more to 43-40. The remainder of the second half consisted of a series of splurges which brought the Bantams to within two points of the opposition on different occasions, but the play of Simons and Willey kept the visitors in the lead to stay.

Foster and Royden led the hometown scorers, tallying 16 and 12 points respectively. Simons of Bowdoin canned 22, while his teammate, Willey, scored 17.

Edged by Union

The "close but no cigar" feeling was pretty much the same after last Wednesday night when Union came from behind in the second half to edge out the McWilliams contingent, 72-68.

Led by a hot handed Ken Lyons in the first half, the Bantams came from behind to lead by a 38-35 halftime score. Lyons and the ubiquitous Jack Foster scored twenty-two points between them to lead the surge.

The second half found each team scraping for all their worth. With two and a half minutes remaining, Jim Canivan and Dick Crum of Union came to blows. It was then that an uninvited Bill Duncker (twice Canivan's size) stuck in his two cents, and pumelled Canivan while the latter

from the SPORTS DESK

Kenny Lyons has been a big surprise to most of the crowd. The big soph, while perhaps not the most graceful workman in the business, has become a real tiger on the boards and has made up his mind that when he has a shot, he's going to get it off, regardless. Next to Foster though, Art Polstein seems to have the most natural talent. Sound judgment, receiving speed, and adequate variety of shots and rubber for legs, has kept Art number one among McWilliams' front-liners all year long.

Bren Shea and Jim Canivan, the two "all out" boys, have continually drawn the toughest defensive assignments besides being charged with quarterbacking the attack on offense. Bren has developed into a fine outside threat with his one hand push, and Rambunctious Ralph is the epitome of a steady, scrapping backcourt guardian.

Barry Royden's stepping-off-a-dock jump shot is again clicking and his five field goals Saturday more than compensation for his defensive weakness. Charlie Bergmann is another steady ballplayer who is seeing more action lately. Unfortunately the team has not adjusted to his sharp passes yet and more than once an intended receiver has been caught unaware. Ed Anderson, the club's most effective rebounder, took a mean spill during Coast Guard contest, but he hopes to be ready for duty against Stevens this Friday. Jim Gaven, another defensive standout, and Jay Dwyer, a smart passing guard, lacks the shooting ability to see full time duty.

On the attack, this team can be tough, and they usually are after the first quarter. Defensively, their five-man zone appears almost useless and their man weakens occasionally. The second half of the Coast Guard game stands out as the finest exhibition of basketball the team has shown this year. Cooling off the Coastie's threats, and hitting from all over the court on their own right, the squad showed the stuff that sent Coast Guard home and brought the two hundred loyal bleacher-stomper back for the Union game.

was on the floor. With this unexpected intrusion, the Trinity bench and usher staff proceeded onto the court en masse. A Pabst Blue Ribbon free-for-all was in the making, but the referees and campus guards settled the situation.

During the last minutes, the Trinity hoopmen were not able to make any advance at all. Lyons with 19 points, Foster with 16, and Bren Shea with 14, were high point men.

Yalies Nip Shultsmen Face Cheshire Friday

By RICK BOARDMAN

After a disappointing loss to the Yale frosh, the baby Bantams play host to Cheshire Academy this Friday. Tip off time will be 4:00 p.m. Tonight the frosh invade the Amherst cage in an effort to gain their eighth victory against the perennially tough Lord Jeffs.

The prospects for a victory at Cheshire's expense are very good. The frosh will be at full strength with no injuries apparent. Doug Tansill has fully recovered from his sprained ankle and Ken Cromwell is back in his old form.

Nip and Tuck

Last Saturday the frosh went down to their third defeat of the season at the hands of the Yale freshmen. The first half was nip-and-tuck all the way. The Yalies were able to pull ahead in waning moments of the first half and led at that point 32-25.

The second half saw Bill Scully foul out with twelve minutes remaining with him went the Trinity hopes for a win. But Ken Cromwell took over and literally held the team together. The score continued to see-saw back and forth but the frosh never mustered enough to pull ahead. With two seconds remaining and one point down, George Tattersfield rimmed the hoop with a desperation jump shot. The result was a heart breaking 59-58 defeat for the Trin freshmen.

Cromwell High

The game was a bitter dose for the frosh. It was evident that the full time services of Bill Scully were badly needed. Even so, Scully was able to bucket 13 points. Cromwell played magnificently and was high man with 22. George Tattersfield and Bob Brandenburger each had 8 points, with the latter doing a fine job on the boards. Doug Tansill also did a yeoman's job bringing down loose balls.

Hodges, Postma Shine For Drowning Frosh

The freshman swimmers are prepping for Monday's meet with Hopkins Grammar School of Wallingford. Hopkins provides the final tune-up for the meet with arch-rival Wesleyan on February 28.

Last Saturday a victory starved yearling group journeyed up to Westminster only to suffer their fourth consecutive defeat in five starts, 31-55.

Leading the point-getters for the Bantams were Chris Hodges who took first and third in the 100-yard breast-stroke and diving respectively, and Pete Postma who splashed into second place in both the 100 yard butterfly and the individual medley. The free-stylers, Coleman, Layne, Williams and Nichols churned the waters to win the 160 yard relay in fine style.

Swordsmen Sting BU; Stevens Next

By ED WAGGONER

The Trin fencers, after winning two Boston-bound clashes with the snow, broke even in their matches last week. Overcome by Harvard, 16 to 11, on Wednesday, they downed Boston U. in a walk Saturday by a 17-10 count.

Recalling last year's 20-7 swamping at the hands of the Crimson, the team considers this year's showing not only an improvement but also a decided moral victory. The Bantams dropped the first five matches, creating a disadvantage they were powerless to overcome. A strong counterattack, prolonged until the third round, sputtered out, failing to erase the early margin. The Harvard men took all three divisions, epee and saber by 5-4 and foil by 6-3.

Having learned their lesson from the Cambridge crew, the locals commenced action against Boston U. by grabbing eight of the first nine points. With an easy victory in sight, Coach Jerrett was enabled to use substitutes for the first time this season. Tom Wickham, regularly a foil man, filled in at saber. Henry Bromley, winning two out of three at the epee, was permanently converted from the foil. 6-3 victories were registered in epee and foil along with a 5-4 edge in saber.

Stevens, strong this year, will be the squad's next foe in a home match this Saturday. Hoping to upset them and dump Holy Cross, the Trinity swordsmen have their sights set on expanding their present 2-2 record into a winning season.

Lowering the curtain for this fencing season will be the New England Tournament, which begins on March 1.

Houses Jock It Up Friday In Varsity-Stevens Prelim

By MAC COSTLEY

After a run of over two months, T.C. Intramural's production of "Swish-eroo" will close Friday night at Memorial theatre. The finale, and championship, will be the preliminary feature to Mr. Varsity's new play, "The Fall of the House on Stevens". Judging from Varsity's recent presentations, it could be a smash-hit.

Rackets Face Army After Yale Defeat

By JIM GIBBS

On Friday the Blue and Gold squash rackets will take on a tough and experienced Army team on the home courts. Coach Jessee is optimistic over the squad's chances, even though the West Pointers can boast a Yale-class group.

Last Saturday Bill Sykes and Bob Spahr led the powerful Trin array into action and completely humbled M.I.T. 9-0. Jerry Farnsworth, having recovered from an ankle injury, contributed a strong match to the Blue and Gold sweep at Boston, as the whole team leveled their sights and blasted away at the Engineers.

Slick Yale

It was a different story last Wednesday, however, with the Bantams facing near-professional Yale. The outcome was 0-9, but numerical result did not tell the story.

This Saturday the frosh squash team will take on Episcopal, described by Coach Jessee as "the top squash school". The Trinmen are not to be trifled with, however, as they will file into the court boasting scores of 5-2 and 5-0 over Choate and Williston, both meaningful wins. The only loss this season has been a close 4-5 match with Amherst. Mills, Illick, Hubby, Pringle, and Winner should lead the way for the freshmen this weekend.

"Varietee" hints that B. Atkinson Segur will be on hand to again present the TRIPOD's MVP award after the championship. Word has it that the most valuable player of the deciding game will be selected by the members of the sports staff.

It looks as though A.D. and Crow will receive the top billing for the finale, as they seem to be fairly secure in their present, leading roles. Alpha Delt (6-0) heads the American cast, though they have an excellent understudy in Sigma Nu (6-1). Should A.D. come out on the short end of their performance, Tuesday, with the elitely costumed Brownell troupe, a playoff would be in order.

In the National cast, J.O. Crow, sporting the league's crown, is on top of the roost, sharpening his claws for the big game.

Hall, Delta Phi Lead

Uptown, to the Squash Red-White district, we find St. A's (4-0) a cinch for the American league championship, followed by A.D. and Brownell. In the National league, Delta Phi (5-0) is secure on top, followed by AXP (3-1) and Phi Psi.

Across town to Alumni Hall, we find the IM wrestling schedule posted. The weigh-ins will be held on March 3, from 9:00 to 6:00; trials on March 4 and 6, at 4:00; semi-finals on March 11, at 4:00; and finals on March 13, also at 4:00.

Freshman Letter . . .

Trinity is based on a fraternity system which Freshmen are denied the right to be a part of, this problem is going to exist — regardless of where Freshmen may be housed. The Freshmen's contacts with upperclassmen should come, we believe, on a social and organizational level. Without a fraternity system that allows Freshmen to participate in fraternity activities or the shifting of Trinity's social life to an all college basis, which seems highly improbable, the Freshmen will remain isolated.

There are other side effects of integrated dorms that we feel would prove harmful. We are sure that those who are aware of the effort required to produce spirit such as that evident on Wesleyan Weekend will agree that the already low class spirit would suffer considerably under the proposed plan. We also believe that since many Trinity traditions rest on the Freshman Class, a splitting up of the Class would weaken these traditions materially. Finally we feel that the effectiveness of the Junior Advisers, whose importance cannot be over-emphasized, would be destroyed. The very reason J.A.'s are so effective is that since they are the only upperclassmen living with the Freshmen they soon become their close friends. To replace a carefully chosen J.A. with a perhaps disinterested upperclassman who just happened to live next door would be a dangerous mistake.

We hope that you will give careful consideration to this letter and reconsider your decision. It is, of course, impossible to state our entire argument in a letter, so we trust that you will at least investigate our position more thoroughly before reaching a final decision.

Senate . . .

The proposed constitutional structure would have five permanent committees: the Executive Committee, Educational Affairs Committee, Extra-curricular Activities Committee, Athletic Affairs Committee and Social Affairs Committee.

The Executive Committee would consist of the Senate officers and would meet regularly to insure efficiency and coordination of Senate activities.

The expanded committee system would have members of the student body as well as Senators. Committees would consider proposals, study problems within their delegated areas, and report their findings to the Senate at large.

Thompson explained that the committee believes that student government should be the governing and administrating organization of student activities. While the Senate's powers are delegated by the administration and faculty, the development of added responsibility by students in all aspects of life within the College is essential to the development of responsible citizenship, he stressed.

"Student government can only be meaningful if it attempts to create student incentive to participate in extra-curricular and intellectual activities as part of the total Trinity education," concluded Thompson.

The special committee members were: Thompson, McDonald, Ken Lambert, Bob Back, Fred Werner, Walt Graham and Marv Peterson.

Campo Is Chairman Of Italian Group

Michael R. Campo, assistant professor of romance languages, was recently named Chairman of the Italian section for the New England Modern Language Association's regional meetings scheduled for May 10 at Mount Holyoke College.

Filippo Donini, cultural attaché from Italy, will address the professors of Italian.

Dr. Campo received his A.B. from Trinity in 1948 and his doctorate from Johns Hopkins in 1954. In 1950-51 he attended the University of Perugia and the University of Rome under a Fulbright Fellowship. He has also studied at the Middlebury College Summer School and the Université Laval Cours d'Été in Quebec.

Trin Debators Take Second in Tourney

While the majority of the student body was preparing for the Junior Prom, four debaters were participating in the New Haven State Teachers College Debate Tournament Friday.

The affirmative team of Paul Rohlfing, '61, and Gerry Dreller, '61, beat Albertus Magnus and lost to Wesleyan. Tom Musante, '61, and Gil Mackin, '61, as a negative team, beat both New Haven and New Britain Teacher Colleges. Trinity placed second in the tournament, which was won by a Middletown boy's prep school.
