Article: Chinese Ambassador

by Patrick Trestrle

Assistant News Editor

Liang Yufan, Ambassador to the United Nations from the People's Republic of China, will speak at Trinity College on Friday, Nov. 7, at 5:30 p.m. in the Goodwin Theater of the Arts Building. As the first member of the Chinese delegation to visit Trinity, Ms. Liang’s visit is another indication of the importance of Chinese and Chinese studies at Trinity. With the current growth in the amount of students interested in Chinese, the closing of the stacks policy and installation of an increased communication with the United States, she said.

During a recent visit to China, Professor Liang noted the increased interest in U.S. trade and education.

"A feeling of friendship exists between the two countries. The Chinese want to learn the best of U.S. culture. American industrial standards are more accepted now. Liang also feels that the wording of the resolution was poor. As a result, the resolution obtained a majority, but it did not get the two-thirds vote required for passage. The debates themselves were interesting, and the organization of the event was well done. The real problem was to get students to discuss world situations, and in that regard the conference succeeded.

Annual Model UN Convenes at Trinity

by Doug Doering

Staff Writer

The annual Model United Nations was held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Trinity College. Smith College, Vassar University, Connecticut College, and the University of Hartford, as well as Trinity, were total of 55 delegates. The purpose of the Model U.N. was to get the delegates to realistically discuss international issues. The delegates succeeded in making this effort as true to life. However, they Model U.N. resolved nothing. The issues faced by the Model U.N. were far too broad and complex, as well as a special "crisis situation" involving fictional events in the Iran-Iraq war. These resolutions were sponsored by the United Nations, Russia, the U.S., and the Soviet Union. The first call for economic sanctions, and failed on the argument that disengagement with the South African government would only make the problem worse.

The second call for the U.N. to protect South Africa’s restrictions of the rights of the Transkei and the Transvaal within the country. It failed also, because it was "too specific," according to the chairman of the M.U.N. session.

The third resolution said only that "apartheid is unfortunate" and failed because many delegates did not feel that the wording was strong enough.

The crisis dealt with the death of the king of Iraq and the repercussions that would arise from the cause in the unstable Middle East region. At the time this resolution was called for discussion, it seems that the U.N. would intervene on the role of Syria, all delegate nations were involved. The U.N. voted to send peacekeeping troops from "non-aligned nations." The resolution was made for two speakers from South Africa who will be visiting that University to come to Trinity. The second speaker will be Mr. David Wolff, Professor of Political Studies at the University of Cape Town. He is one of South Africa’s best-known and widely published scholars on political affairs. He is the author of The Roots of Segregation, 1840-1910 and coauthor with Frederick and Mylo Shutter, of South Africa’s Opinion, Strategies for Sharing Power. He is an informed opponent of dismantlement, and after he speaks several members of our faculty will continue to discuss his comments with him. The University of Cape Town is one of the few such institutions in South Africa to defend the admission of students regardless of race.
ANNOUNCEMENTS

Calendar

Today:

There will be a bus going to New York City on Saturday, November 16th. The bus will leave Trinity at 4:30 am and arrive at 1:00 at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Pick up will be at 3:30 pm behind St. Patrick’s Cathedral on Madison Avenue and at 5:30 pm at the Whitney Museum. The bus will return to Trinity by 8:00 pm. Tickets will be sold from 1:30 pm at Arts Center Box Office starting on Wednesday, November 6th. Tickets cost will be $10.00.

Trinity College Library Booksale, Wednesday through Friday, in the Library Lobby

Looking for an internship? Legislative and research credit internships are available through CONNPIRG. For more information, come to an informal discussion with CONNPIRG’s Program Director, Jeff Nesteruk at 4:00 pm in the Club or call 347-2735.

Thursday:

The Women’s Center Lunch Series will feature Lucy Deppenhouse leading an open discussion on “What Should a Math Center Do For Students, Faculty, and Staff.” The lunch series meets at 12:30 in the Women’s Center.

The Women’s Center is seeking proposals for a group of alumni and parents, students, faculty, and staff to feature on the Women’s Center website. The group must feature the theme: How has my education prepared me for the future?

Friday:

As part of “Trinity in Action Vis-its China,” a program organized by a group of alumni and parents, Liang Yufan, Ambassador to the United Nations from the Peoples Republic of China, will be our honored guest on Friday, November 8.

RCIA’s present Elisabeth Francois, Director of the Writing Center on “Making Books for Kids: Children’s Literature of the Past, Present, and Future” in the Jackson Wetherill Bridge at 7:30 pm.

Saturday:

The class of 1986 and the Alumni Office present the 1985 Homecoming Banquet Rooster Rally and Bonfire on Friday night from 6:30-7:30 on the Quad.

For those students who will be on campus during Thanksgiving break and who would like to join a faculty family for Thanksgiving dinner, please contact the Dean of Students Office. A number of faculty families are eager to have students join them for the holiday meal. Call extension 433 or 434 by November 15th.

Joyce Baker, a handicapped IDP student who is the author of the play “Homo Genus” which was performed at Trinity last year, wishes to pay another student to give her a ride to and from Trinity College and her Wethersfield home on Tuesday afternoon. Please call the IDP Office, ext. 614 for further information.

Help Wanted:

Substitute Teacher for alternative Jewish Sunday School, Permanent position possible. Grades K-K, Creative, flexible approach to Judaism, some knowledge of Hebrew desirable. 396-4772 or 721-8634.

Typists: $600 weekly at home! Write, P.O. box 975, Elisabeth N.J. 07207.

$60.00 per hundred paid for re-mailing letters from home. Send self addressed, stamped envelope for information/pickup. Associated, Boc 66-B, Roselle, NJ 07203.
May be there is a substitute for experience

After you're done with school, you face one of the hardest lessons in life: Without experience, it's tough to get a job. And without a job, it's tough to pay the bills.

At The Wall Street Journal, we recognize that experience is something you don't have to wait until after graduation. "While giving you a head start by providing some of the same competitive advantages that experience brings. In fact, you may be able to give back in return," says John A. Fothergill. The Wall Street Journal's editor, Dr. William E. Hambrecht, says, "In addition to paying you more than $44 off the regular subscription price, The Wall Street Journal offers a few other benefits: It's a pretty generous offer. Especially when you consider what it actually represents, how you're the only one who can decide whether you're the real world...

Call 800-257-2000 ext. 806—or mail the coupon—and start your subscription to The Wall Street Journal at student specials of up to $44 off the regular subscription price.

To subscribe, call 800-257-2000, ext. 806 toll-free.

The Wall Street Journal, 200 Vincent Road, Dayton, Oennsylvania 45439

Name
Student ID
dates, activity, etc.
Address
City
State
Zip
Phone

November 5, 1985, The Trinity Tripod, Page 3

CROW-PSI U SEMIFINAL

SATURDAY NOVEMBER 16th

10 p.m.-2 a.m.
IN THE CAVEL

$15 per couple—tickets obtained from any brother

New York University

Music by the
RIVERSIDE DRIVERS

New York University

Visits Your Campus to Answer Questions on the M.B.A. Program

Located in the heart of the Wall Street area, New York University's Graduate School of Business Administration has trained students for executive positions for over 40 years. A recent survey by Standard & Poor's ranked New York University number 2 nationwide as the source of graduate education for chief executives in major companies. On Friday, November 8, an admissions officer will be on campus to discuss the quality and feasibility of the graduate business program. The evening with the Office of Career Development will be a sign-up session and further information.

New York University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity institution.
Technology And Medicine Series: Economic And Medicine Addressed

by Richard L. Tackets

In a time when our economy is on a downsizing, medical costs continue to rise and the medical program seems destined for failure in the near future. An obvious, yet impractical, solution to the financial woes in this area would be the cutting of medical technology. This and other economic ideas were presented at the latest in Trinity's technology and medicine series.

John Springer, the president and executive director of the Hartford Hospital spoke on the staggering increase in medical costs. The problem is scheduled for November 13th at 8:00 in the LSC auditorium.

The basis of these proposals centered around a more rational delving of the resources involving less government funding. In 1984 the government spent over $100 billion on health care, much of this subsidizing medical bills. Mr. Springer suggested that even though much of these funds go to a small percentage of the population, they represent a sizable portion of the economy. He felt that the cuts in the government funding for medical programs would bring about the problem into focus.

The crises, according to the lecture, is one of Health care, and the Quintessence of Distrustful Juxtaposition, by Norman Daniels of Tufts University, will deal more in depth with this problem. The lecture is the final one of the College's Town/Gown Forum lecture series titled "Twentieth Century Giants." It will be given by Frank Kirkpatrick, associate professor of religion at Trinity.

Niebuhr Lecture Nov. 12

Reinhold Niebuhr: Realist and Prophet to a Political Nation: is the topic of a lecture scheduled for Tuesday, November 12th at noon in the Rittenburg Lounge of Mother Campus Center at Trinity College.

The lecture is the final one of the College's Town/Gown Forum lecture series titled "Twentieth Century Giants." It will be given by Frank Kirkpatrick, associate professor of religion at Trinity.

Niebuhr (1892-1971) was an American theologian, social critic, and professor of social ethics at Union Theological Seminary and leader of the Liberal Party in New York. Kirkpatrick will explore the basis of Niebuhr's thought and its emerging value for contemporary American religion, politics and society.

NIEBUHR LECTURE NOV. 12

The lecture is the final one of the College's Town/Gown Forum lecture series titled "Twentieth Century Giants." It will be given by Frank Kirkpatrick, associate professor of religion at Trinity.

Niebuhr (1892-1971) was an American theologian, social critic, and professor of social ethics at Union Theological Seminary and leader of the Liberal Party in New York. Kirkpatrick will explore the basis of Niebuhr's thought and its emerging value for contemporary American religion, politics and society.

Kirkpatrick is the author of several articles on modern religion, thought and co-author of the book, "Living Issues in Ethics." A Trinity graduate, he earned his master's degree from Union Theological Seminary and his doctorate from Brown University. He is a specialist in the history of Western thought and the philosophy of religion. He is an Episcopal priest and assistant at Trinity Episcopal Church of Hartford.

Tickets for the lecture and luncheon which follow cost $8.50 and can be purchased at the door. Tickets for the lecture alone cost $4.00. Box lunches will be available also.

New Course on Climates Offered

In the Spring Semester of 1986, Dr. Joseph P. Pandolfo will offer College Course 388 "The Climates of the Earth." The course is intended to be an introduction to, and broad survey of, climatology. No previous background in college level science or mathematics is required. The course will meet Tumdays and Thursdays at 1:15 p.m.

Dr. Pandolfo notes the following features which give special meaning to the study of climatology:

"Climates are an important part of the contact within which living organisms, natural ecosystems, and human societies and economic systems function and evolve. It is rum that has been influenced by some of these systems over the geological past. Now, it appears that human technology has grown into a stage in which measurable modifications of climate are inevitable and unintended byproduct of its functioning. These are, and will continue to be, superimposed on the natural fluctuations of the climate system. In addition, the natural dynamics of this physical system have shown an increasingly unstable character over the past few million years; a period that roughly corresponds to the appearance and spread of the human species over the face of the planet."

"Weather is more valuable than its wealth."

Recent changes in Medicare policies were termed helpful, but more changes are essential to bring this problem into focus.

The course "Health Care and the burger of Distributive justice," by Norman Daniels of Tufts University, will deal more in depth with this problem. The lecture is the final one of the College's Town/Gown Forum lecture series titled "Twentieth Century Giants." It will be given by Frank Kirkpatrick, associate professor of religion at Trinity.

Niebuhr (1892-1971) was an American theologian, social critic, and professor of social ethics at Union Theological Seminary and leader of the Liberal Party in New York. Kirkpatrick will explore the basis of Niebuhr's thought and its emerging value for contemporary American religion, politics and society.

Kirkpatrick is the author of several articles on modern religion, thought and co-author of the book, "Living Issues in Ethics." A Trinity graduate, he earned his master's degree from Union Theological Seminary and his doctorate from Brown University. He is a specialist in the history of Western thought and the philosophy of religion. He is an Episcopal priest and assistant at Trinity Episcopal Church of Hartford.

Tickets for the lecture and luncheon which follow cost $8.50 and can be purchased at the door. Tickets for the lecture alone cost $4.00. Box lunches will be available also.

New Course on Climates Offered

In the Spring Semester of 1986, Dr. Joseph P. Pandolfo will offer College Course 388 "The Climates of the Earth." The course is intended to be an introduction to, and broad survey of, climatology. No previous background in college level science or mathematics is required. The course will meet Tumdays and Thursdays at 1:15 p.m.

Dr. Pandolfo notes the following features which give special meaning to the study of climatology:

"Climates are an important part of the contact within which living organisms, natural ecosystems, and human societies and economic systems function and evolve. It is rum that has been influenced by some of these systems over the geological past. Now, it appears that human technology has grown into a stage in which measurable modifications of climate are inevitable and unintended byproduct of its functioning. These are, and will continue to be, superimposed on the natural fluctuations of the climate system. In addition, the natural dynamics of this physical system have shown an increasingly unstable character over the past few million years; a period that roughly corresponds to the appearance and spread of the human species over the face of the planet."

"Weather is more valuable than its wealth."

Recent changes in Medicare policies were termed helpful, but more changes are essential to bring this problem into focus.

The course "Health Care and the burger of Distributive justice," by Norman Daniels of Tufts University, will deal more in depth with this problem. The lecture is the final one of the College's Town/Gown Forum lecture series titled "Twentieth Century Giants." It will be given by Frank Kirkpatrick, associate professor of religion at Trinity.

Niebuhr (1892-1971) was an American theologian, social critic, and professor of social ethics at Union Theological Seminary and leader of the Liberal Party in New York. Kirkpatrick will explore the basis of Niebuhr's thought and its emerging value for contemporary American religion, politics and society.

Kirkpatrick is the author of several articles on modern religion, thought and co-author of the book, "Living Issues in Ethics." A Trinity graduate, he earned his master's degree from Union Theological Seminary and his doctorate from Brown University. He is a specialist in the history of Western thought and the philosophy of religion. He is an Episcopal priest and assistant at Trinity Episcopal Church of Hartford.

Tickets for the lecture and luncheon which follow cost $8.50 and can be purchased at the door. Tickets for the lecture alone cost $4.00. Box lunches will be available also.
International Education
As of the new academic year, the Institute of International Education (IIE) has opened its new INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION INFORMATION CENTER to U.S. college and university students planning to study abroad. The INFORMATION CENTER is a volunteer-based facility supported by the professional resources of the Institute, the largest and most active U.S. higher educational exchange agency. It is located on the first floor of IIE's headquarters office at 809 United Nations Plaza (First Avenue between 45th and 46th Streets).

IIE's new INFORMATION CENTER contains extensive information on study overseas, including brochures on hundreds of study abroad programs sponsored by U.S. higher educational institutions and private agencies, all standard reference books, and one of the largest collections of foreign university catalogs in the U.S. Those wishing to use the center's resources to assist them in planning study abroad. Because of the volume of inquiries, the INFORMATION CENTER cannot offer assistance over the telephone or by letter, but it is open to students visiting New York City from university catalogues in the U.S.

BLOOM COUNTY

The Truman Scholarship Foundation has announced that it is now seeking nominations of outstanding students in any academic discipline who are preparing for careers in public service. Institutions can nominate up to two sophomores for the 1986 competition. If selected, each student will receive a scholarship award covering eligible expenses up to $5,000 per year for their junior and senior years and two years of graduate study.

Glamour Seeks Contestants
Women students at Trinity are invited to participate in "Glamour" magazine's 1986 Top Ten College Women Competition. Young women from colleges and universities throughout the country will compete in "Glamour's" search for 10 outstanding students. A panel of "Glamour" editors will select the winners on the basis of their solid records of achievement in academic studies and/or in extracurricular activities on campus or in the community.

The deadline for submission of an application to "Glamour" is Friday, Dec. 13.

Foundation Seeks Students
Would you like to work in Scandinavia summerfall 1986? The American-Scandinavian Foundation is seeking qualified students for its training program in Denmark, Finland, Norway, and Sweden. There are positions available for students majoring in Agriculture, Chemistry, Engineering, Food Technology, Forestry, Geology, or Horticulture. Student trainees are placed with Scandinavian firms for two months or longer, May through December 1986, to gain practical work experience while living in a Scandinavian community. Training costs are covered by the student and/or the employer, and there is no language requirement.

The applicant should be a full time student meeting the following qualifications. He should be majoring in a field in which training is sought with minimum G.P.A. of 2.5 or C+. He should be at least a junior with some previous related work experience; he is able to travel overseas and to work for pay; and he is a U.S. citizen or permanent resident.

The deadline for application is December 15, 1985. For more information on the program, contact Professor William F. Upham, Program Director, American-Scandinavian Foundation, Box 1982, New York, N.Y. 10016.
No More Mature

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. - True, the United Nations is not what it should be. It is critically in need of restructuring, but it is unlikely that its critics, a group of naysayers who have for too long seen the United Nations as a crumbling superpower during its first forty years, will ever be willing to accept the reality of the world at peace and the war of peace. They were aware of the failure of the League of Nations established after World War I - an organization with the same intentions as the U.N. and they were aware of the inability of such an organization to overcome the disputes and tensions between major powers. But they were confident in its ability to settle minor problems.

These problems face the U.N. today and might forty years from now. Imelda Marcos of the Philippines told the General Assembly that the problems facing the world and the U.N. today are other roots in injustice, intolerance, greed and domination by the strong.
A Birthday Bash

George F. Will

Washington — The celebration gets, that would be one of the United Nations' 40th birthday has caused much traveling to and fro. So has the 100-mile-per-hour minute. Our world leaders, especially our leader, could be more like Macon Leary.

Leary, a character in Anne Tyler's wonderful new novel, is an Accidental Tourist, hates traveling and writing guides to people who feel as heroin. The books tell people who would rather be at home where to find a Taco Bell in Mexico City, a Rome restaurant that serves Chad-Boy-ar-dee rav-ali, a Madrid hotel with Beautyest mattresses. "Generally food in Britain is not as jarring as in other countries."

Considering the confusion soon by recent and anticipated travel.

Because the President is due to travel to Geneva, he traveled to the United Nations to say, sensibly, there are as many voices other than arms control. But this attempt to lower expectations was virulently castigated by the proclamation of a unilateral expectation: U.S.-Soviet differences can be resolved through dialogue. Because the Geneva trip now driven all policy, the administration succumbs to the sentimentality of democracy.

A few days before announcing yet another Soviet violation of the SALT limits on offensive weapons, the administration made an announcement.

Under the pressure of pre-General-mandated decisions, the United Nations bound itself with unnecessary restraints. Reaching the treaty contain opportunities by committing vast sums to weapon systems. Congress confronts, simultaneously, a future barrier of discretionary spending and full of SDI, the most expensive public project in history.

Reagan says SDI is morally urgent — but less urgent than proofing critics who make a fetish of a misleading of the ABM treaty. Congress will not fund an SDI system that is subordinate to the ABM treaty in any way prevents any experimentation. If the Reagan, police to fault, did not ask the dictator's wife to autograph a picture — the one showing Sandinista soldiers load- lug a plane with drugs bound for America.

Ninjarzuka's couple first taped "The Donahue Show", where the host asked, plaintively, "Many of us abhor the Reagan administration's humanitarian principles today, your regime. Why do you embrace us by sup- pressing civil liberty?" Ninjarzuka has finally gone too far. It has an- noyed Donahue by making Reagan show his correct.

In a ten minute session with a Sandinista delegation, Solidarity Poodle's outlawed trade union, Re- gan's ally who has turned apostate to a philosophy and has soved philo- sophy from evidence, said he has "no doubt and hope it will happen, happiness from 'dialogue'... An administration xiatholists's great peacekeeper and a place where nations would play by the rules of diplo- macy to make a non-violent world for the world to meet, a place where peace could influence near- ly all sanctions.

But the original intention of the United Nations as the great peaceker- and a place where nations would play by the rules of diplo- macy to make a non-violent world for the world to meet, a place where peace could influence near-ly all sanctions.

The United Nations building had to be neutral, but did have to be so ugly and boring? That, it seems, was actually the intention of the architects of this monument to di- ployment: to make a non-palacial depo- nent to air them, we are not cel-

U.N. Legitimizes Oppression

By Al Kadin and John Shiffman

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Walk into the fiftyish building here in New York and you walk into a different world from the bustling and busting of the City streets. Inside this skyscraper there are few paint- ings, no cheery decorations (after all, it is the 40th anniversary, no intellectual materials for material, only gloom and statement.

The United Nations building had to be neutral, but did have to be so ugly and boring? That, it seems, was actually the intention of the architects of this monument to di- ployment: to make a non-palacial depo- nent to air them, we are not cel-

The U.N. has not kept the peace. What has kept the peace is the understanding between the superpowers that a nuclear war would produce mutual assured destruction. While it is important for countries to maintain their dif- ferences and to have a place in which to air them, we are not cel-

The management of this feature, in collaboration with "For laughs," presents the following humorous instruction for the public's insight.

The Donahue Show

1. First, eat the cake. Then drink the chocolate. Repeat as necessary.

U.S. 80s WORKOUT FOR 25PAY.

- The management of this feature, in collaboration with "For laughs," presents the following humorous instruction for the public's insight.

U.S. 80s WORKOUT FOR 25PAY.

1. First, eat the cake. Then drink the chocolate. Repeat as necessary.

U.S. 80s WORKOUT FOR 25PAY.

1. First, eat the cake. Then drink the chocolate. Repeat as necessary.
You may ask yourself...

You may find yourself living in a shotgun shack. You may find yourself living in a shotgun shack. You may find yourself thinking of the Cowboys. And I think of Listerine; and I imagine a man of many emotions, has been touted as a coaching genius. Next time you hear the phrase, "all the Cowboys fighting event in the history of mankind."

"Try to tell the truth in Dallas and you'll find some frozen hunk of beef in your nachos." - CBS announcer Tom Brooksheir

I once asked my dad who he hated more: Iranians, Frenchmen, or the Dallas Cowboys; he had trouble coming up with an answer. For Washingtonians this week is what is known as "Dallas Week." For a whole week Democrats and Republicans unite for a week of Cowboy hating that builds up in anticipation of Sunday's Red-skins-Cowboy game. It is the greatest single sport event in the history of mankind.

Nothing is the same as it ever was.

Death to Dallas

"Okay, let's freeze!"

Coach Questions Priorities

To the Editor:

It is a state of affairs when a party in Boston is the lead article for a college newspaper. I am sorry to see that poll-taking is the catalyst to the myth that surrounds the Head of the Charles. Respectfully,

Brian Apelbaum

Frat to Frat Nets Two Grand

Dear Trinity Community,

We would like to express our gratitude to the student body for their responsible participation in and support of Saturday night's successful Frat to Frat event.

Over 900 members of the Trinity Community attended, and we were able to realize a $2,500 profit. The proceeds from this event will go to worthy causes: The Trinity Day Care Center, Trinity Community Outreach Program, the United Way, the March of Dimes, and Project Ethiopia.

We would like to give special thanks to the fraternity and sorority, to the administration for their support, and to Dean Tolliver for all his time and effort.

Sincerely,

Ben Rhodes
President of IFC

Anne T. Gushee
Director, MCC

Dear Trinity Community,

We would like to give special thanks to the student body for their responsible participation in and support of Saturday night's successful Frat to Frat event.

The proceeds from this event will go to worthy causes: The Trinity Day Care Center, Trinity Community Outreach Program, the United Way, the March of Dimes, and Project Ethiopia.

We would like to give special thanks to the administration for their support, and to Dean Tolliver for all his time and effort.

Sincerely,

Ben Rhodes
President of IFC

Anne T. Gushee
Director, MCC

The Trinity Tripod is written and edited entirely by students of Trinity College. The deadline for advertisements, announcements, commentaries, and letters to the editor is 5 p.m. Friday. The Trinity Tripod is located in the basement of Jackson Hall. Office hours are held Sundays 1-3 p.m. and Mondays 2-5 p.m. Telephone: 527-3151. Extension 320. Mail address: Box 1310, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.
Divestment: Can it help S. African Blacks?

By Gates Garriott
Special to the Tripod

Three cheers for Lauren Whitley, the author of the article, she said it exactly right. If the only way to get the trustees to consider divestment is to get “kicked in the teeth”, so be it. Some students did not come to the recent Trinity Tripod forum with Whitley’s request that we disband like “nice Trinity students” for some very good reasons. Perhaps the trusteess should consider them.

They haven’t, yet. The Trustees never voted on “divestment”; rather, they were presented by a special ad hoc subcommittee with the statement printed two weeks after the trip, and accepted that conclusion. Divestment itself was only a brainstorm. The Trustees did not confront the investment issue and took the most convenient way out.

The debate on divestment appears to be bogging down on the actual nature of apartheid system. Apartheid is primarily an economic and not a political system. The productivity of both the mineral extractive and the manufacturing industries in South Africa is and always has been one of the lowest in the world. Virtual slaves in miserable working conditions have always prospered in the mines.

Particularly with a depressed gold market and foreign exchange (foreign exchange earners), capitalists in South Africa have only been able to boost profits by increasing productivity or by lowering wages. The first is now impossible. Apartheid has made the second feasible; families must remain in Basutoland (the homelands) or slap illegally, removing the need to pay a worker a wage sufficient to maintain a family near the workplace. Of course Basutoland also reduces the need for welfare and social security systems further reducing the tax burden on industry.

Apartheid is thus necessary to support the economic position of whites in South Africa. It keeps the labor cheap, allowing South Africa to compete in world markets. If this system were without the profits to protect their political position.

The Sandinistas, through which American firms have attempted to combat apartheid, do nothing to change the economic realities on the ground but they do improve the position of a tiny minority of blacks (less than 3%) of the total population while the South African government puts its black citizens on par.

The South African government’s policy cannot manifest significant reforms. Over the last ten years since April attain to that, President and the SASA between the warring white liberals and small Black unions. The tension by western countries (such as the Trustee’s decision to demand that the South African government does not) does not affect apartheid. Continued investment through the current market place could only play in South Africa as well as at Trinity.

It is a Fundamental mistake to apply to apartheid, either solve or acting through Sullivan signatures. The exact opposite is the case, the shift in the ground of the central issue: fundamental change. And such a change is not going to happen any time soon. By refusing to act through divestment, the Trustees have recognized that the South African government’s right to rule, economically speaking, will not be altered by the elimination of the so-called humanitarians.

By refusing to act through divestment, the Trustees have recognized that the South African government’s right to rule, economically speaking, will not be altered by the elimination of the so-called humanitarians.

Using Apartheid For Political Hardball

Bob And Steve: Discuss Nicaragua Awareness

This is the last round of articles on Nicaragua awareness. This column was first written by Bob Bentivegna and Stephen Balon and has been running for the past 3 years. We are going to discuss Nicaragua awareness in this last round of articles. The next round of articles on Nicaragua awareness will be written by Steve Oakley.

This is the last round of articles on Nicaragua awareness. This column was first written by Bob Bentivegna and Stephen Balon and has been running for the past 3 years. We are going to discuss Nicaragua awareness in this last round of articles. The next round of articles on Nicaragua awareness will be written by Steve Oakley.

S: So when I heard Geraldine Ferraro’s speech against Carter’s administration, I think it was wonderful. It was wonderful that the General Administration was made aware of the Carter government’s support for a “covert war in Nicaragua.” What do you think of that?

B: I’m sure that they don’t know what they are doing. I mean, they have had to keep their government in place. They have had to keep their government in place.

S: I can’t believe you said that. I mean, they have had to keep their government in place.

B: No, I mean, they have had to keep their government in place.

S: Well, that’s nice to know. Ex-sentially what you are saying is more correctly what I am implying, that the American involvement in the Contras is not a positive action. If this relationship is so beneficial to the Contras and the United States in the sense that we are undermining Soviet client states, then why don’t we declare a state of war and get this whole thing over with quickly and efficiently?

B: If, for example, the reason that declaring war would not be the most effective (or the quickest) means of gaining our ends.

S: As shown in Vietnam, the presence of foreign troops is not always welcome.

B: So, the reason that declaring war would not be the most effective (or the quickest) means of gaining our ends.

S: Obviously, I’m not advocating that we declare war on the Contras, or that we request that the United States government request that the United States government. I mean, we have had to keep their government in place.

B: By definition, you replace the United States government the best kind of racist policy. The United States government.

S: By definition, you replace the United States government the best kind of racist policy. The United States government.

B: I mean, they have had to keep their government in place.

S: I mean, they have had to keep their government in place.

B: So, the reason that declaring war would not be the most effective (or the quickest) means of gaining our ends.

S: As shown in Vietnam, the presence of foreign troops is not always welcome.

B: So, the reason that declaring war would not be the most effective (or the quickest) means of gaining our ends.

S: Obviously, I’m not advocating that we declare war on the Contras, or that we request that the United States government request that the United States government.
ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

“Ruddygore”: Light Opera At Its Best

By Jennifer Edmondson

Asst. Arts Editor

When I went to view Gilbert and Sullivan’s Ruddygore, I was not entirely sure what to expect. This parody of melodrama, one of Gilbert and Sullivan’s less famous musical productions, is a classic. I had been encouraged to attend by the Women’s Center, TCB, so I attended the evening performance of this musical in the Garis Auditorium at University of Connecticut on November 8 at 8:00 p.m.

The story’s ending is characteristically Gilbertesque, with various couples joined in a joyful finale. The ending is, indeed, a happy one, but not without its strife, presented particularly in the second act. However, even the strife was received with laughter, with such effects as a human bust, and Frank Connedy’s “one liner”, giggling fugues from the audience during the show more “interesting parts.”

What makes Ruddygore differentiate itself from other productions is its portrayal of black women. Interestingly, this stereotyping parallels the stereotyping that white writers do to blacks in general. She noted that the portrayal of black women is special because they suffer for being women as well as being black. In the history of black women writers and their works, the stereotype that is relatively more common is the “mammy.”

On the other hand, in Ruddygore, the roles of black women are positive. For instance, Rose, played by Robin, who is simply in love with Ruddygore, is a typical “mammy.” However, in Ruddygore, she is a gentle, kind-hearted lady who helps her son to fulfill his rightful destiny. She is forced to claim his rightful inheritance and crazy Margaret. At this time, Robin’s character is found out and he is forced to claim his rightful position as Baronet of Ruddygore. And as two assistants to the Baronet (Despard married to Margaret, and Ruddygore) are forced to confess themselves almost instantly to fulfill his curse. In this act, the characters are portrayed as they are shown in the picture gallery in the scene of the Murgatroyd’s set design is one of the show’s most definite pluses, as are the lighting effects of Thomas B. Denn (Lighting Design).

The story’s ending is characteristically Gilbertesque, with various couples joined in a joyful finale. The ending is, indeed, a happy one, but not without its strife, presented particularly in the second act. However, even the strife was received with laughter, with such effects as a human bust, and Frank Connedy’s “one liner”, giggling fugues from the audience during the show more “interesting parts.”

What makes Ruddygore different from any other production is its portrayal of black women. Interestingly, this stereotyping parallels the stereotyping that white writers do to blacks in general. She noted that the portrayal of black women is special because they suffer for being women as well as being black. In the history of black women writers and their works, the stereotype that is relatively more common is the “mammy.”

On the other hand, in Ruddygore, the roles of black women are positive. For instance, Rose, played by Robin, who is simply in love with Ruddygore, is a typical “mammy.” However, in Ruddygore, she is a gentle, kind-hearted lady who helps her son to fulfill his rightful destiny. She is forced to claim his rightful inheritance and crazy Margaret. At this time, Robin’s character is found out and he is forced to claim his rightful position as Baronet of Ruddygore. And as two assistants to the Baronet (Despard married to Margaret, and Ruddygore) are forced to confess themselves almost instantly to fulfill his curse. In this act, the characters are portrayed as they are shown in the picture gallery in the scene of the Murgatroyd’s set design is one of the show’s most definite pluses, as are the lighting effects of Thomas B. Denn (Lighting Design).
Disillusionment Of A Grade School Tutor

By M. Whitman

Invasion of the Hell Ants

by M. Whitman

Welcome to the Lizard's Den

by The Lizard

Our Leader

We Need Your Support

WRTC Marathon 522-9229

November 5, 1985, THE TRINITY TRIPOD, Page 11
“...a religious experience.”

Al Kadin
The Trinity Tripod

“...a mind-expanding excursion.”

Rufus Putnam
Rolling Stone Magazine

APPEARING EXCLUSIVELY AT CINESTUDIO
WEDNESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY
A Hartford's General Election Candidates Previewed

by Barry A. Freedman
News Editor

It is time to cast your votes for mayor, school board, and city council in Hartford. Today is general election day.

Among the important seats up for grabs is the office of Mayor. The incumbent, two-term Democratic Mayor Thirman L. Milner, is challenging this election year by Republican Ennis S. Groark. Milner, 52, came into office in 1978 after defeating George Athenian. He has called for this election year increased federal and state assistance in revenue sharing, health and human services, social services, community development, education, housing, urban development, and infrastructure repair. Milner also calls for statewide tax reform to help ease the increasing property tax burden.

The challenger, Attorney Ennis Groark, 47, has called for increased city services. "Adequate services must be provided to all Hartford citizens." Groark stated. Technology will pave the way for more efficient city services. She states that computerization will save Hartford money; the money saved would then be used for the city's needs. Groark stated that she would not raise taxes for corporations in the city. She calls for a regionally shared tax base approach that might assist the region's poor population, including Hartford's. Mayor Milner is also against revenues tax increases, but does request reform on the commercial/residential tax system.

Mayor Milner has called for a more active role of Mayor in Hartford's city manager/council type of government. He has called for a charter revision to better define governmental positions; a study of the combination of at-large and district elections for City Council; and the review of length of terms and salaries of all local officials. Groark has countered Milner's position by stating that "the city does not need a strong mayor." The manager/council form of government protects the operations of government and protects it from corruption. Board of Education

In other seats, the Hartford Board of Education has 10 candidates running for five positions. Their election is non-partisan and voters are able to cast ballots for three candidates. The candidates and their platforms are:

- Patrick Caron, 31, calls for a public preschool program in the early childhood education program to help prevent students from falling behind early.
- Marie Hamilton, 43, requests more attention on early education and the special education programs.
- David Hartz, 36, calls for cutting outdated programs and calls for greater interaction of urban and suburban offices in educational programs.
- Reinhold Mathis, 42, calls for reorganizing the board of education offices and increasing programs in special education and bilingual education.
- Richard Lawler, 38, wants streamlined administrative services and requests attending the tax base formula to prevent Hartford from losing state school funds. William Maughan, 58, requests an intensified early childhood learning program.
- Maria Sanchez, 59, also requests an intensified early childhood learning program.
- Antonio Santiago, 41, proposes a vocational school in the South End section of the city to counter the high dropout rate in that area.
- Louise Hinton Tate, 46, calls for an increase in maintenance of school property and obtaining equipment for vocational training.
- Robert C. Vater, 58, calls for an expansion of pre-kindergarten programs and interaction of urban and suburban students.
- Antonio Santiago, 41, proposes a vocational school in the North End section of the city to counter the high dropout rate in that area.

 election day at 8 p.m. in the Boyer Center. His topic will be "Risk and Return in the Stock Market." Ad

The candidates are: Norvel Goff (D), 58, a member of the Democratic Town Committee and Director of the Civil Rights Action Committee.
- Alfred S. Marcotte (D), 50, a member of City Council and an engineer for the State Department of Transportation.
- Thomas B. McBride (D), 28, a member of the Hartford Board of Education and a salesman for McDermott Co.
- Devonshire A. "Tony" Meir (D), 53, a member of the Democratic Town Committee and manager for Imaginators Inc.
- Michael C. Murphy (R), 36, a member of the City Council and a consultant for Ms Home Improvement.
- Allan R. Taylor (D), 37, a member of the City Council and an attorney for Day, Berry & Howard.
- Ben F. Andrews Jr. (R), 44, a member of the City Council and development coordinator for the Center for Resource Development.
- Carlo M. Patena (D), 47, a member of the Republican Town Committee and town design engineer of Hamden Standard Corp.
- M. Peter Doh (R), 39, a member of the Commission on the City Plan and a data processing consultant for Vantage Computer Systems.
- Roger B. Ladd (R), 58, a member of the City Council and a real estate broker.
- Carol Ann Martin (R), 41, a member of the Human Relations Commission and a municipal credit analyst for Connecticut National Bank.
- The Democrats are expected to win the majority of Council seats due to Hartford's overwhelming Democratic voting population.
- Trinity College students are eligible to vote in the general election at the Hartford Fire Department station on New Britain Avenue.

Ross To Speak At Ferris Lecture

Professor Stephen A. Ross of Yale University will give the annual George M. Ferris Lecture in Corporate Finance and Investments at Trinity College on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Boyer Center for the Life Science Center. His topic will be "Black and Return in the Stock Market." Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Ross, who is the Adrian C. Israel Professor of International Trade and Finance at Yale, has published widely on topics in international finance. In 1964, he was the Graham and Dodd Award for excellence in financial writing, and in 1978-79 he was awarded a McCallum prize for the best research for a business school publication. He was an award made by the University of Chicago.

He held a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1976-1976 and has been nominated for distinguished teaching awards.

Senior Chris Downs will be missed on next year's defense.

M-Soccer Ends Poor Season

by Marc Esterman
Sports Editor

The varsity soccer team's chances of notching its first .500 record since 1980 were slim, but as the team's last game was completed, there was Howser in the dressing room telling reporters, and even President Reagan in a phone interview, how amazed he was at the utter confidence of his players. "They've just got to believe they can do it," said Howser. "They can do it. They just have to believe."

Howser's team has been the best in baseball for the past two seasons, and has not been worse than a .500 team since 1980. Following the game, Howser explained that he'd led Lietz in the game because he had confidence in him and wanted to give him a chance.

Soccer Nightmare

by Brian Rowe
Staff Writer

The Trinity women's soccer team entered the season with a 3-1-0 record and was expected to just as soon forget about it. With a 3-1-0 home record, the women's team has scored three goals in its last three games.

However, the women's team has scored two goals in its last three games. The team is 3-1-0 overall and has scored six goals in its last three games.

Water Polo Loses Two More

continued from page 16

lather gave last Thursday.

The Ducks are surprisingly a "weak" team composed of alumni from Trinity and the University of Connecticut who play on and off against various teams in the area without having much time practice. It seems that the Ducks had played well in their season opener, during the game, they consistently struggled through Trinity's unenthusiastic defense.

The Ducks had a solid two point lead by the end of the 1st quarter, but surrendered that lead to the Badgers in the second quarter. By the end of the third quarter, Trinity had led as the Ducks picked up three quick points. During the fourth quarter, both teams struggled for the lead, but the Badgers were able to close the gap after making two powerful shots, finishing the game ahead of Trinity with a final score of 11-9.

One notable oasis for the defeat of the Ducks was the lack of the execution of smooth offensive plays. The set-up of Trinity's plays was solid, but the Badgers didn't have enough time to execute their plays to the advantage of the offense.

Football — Wesleyan Sat. 1:30 89.3 FM
Men’s X-Country
continued from page 10

leyan runners next, showing off the depth of the Cardinal cross-country program. Then, sophomore Matt Donahue and freshman Sam Adams finished 12th and 13th respectively. Adams is planning to beat these cross-state rivals before he graduates and it is not an unlikely possibility. Considering the fact that only two returning letterman ran the full season, and only Oakley is graduating, there is hope that coach Alex Magoun can build a powerhouse. The track team is already outstanding, and cross-country is not far behind.

The team is especially pleased with the large crowd cheering the runners. Hearing the cheers from the crowd almost makes the runners forget the pain and Magoun and the team deeply appreciate all of the fan support.

The Bantams’ last meet is the Division III Championship at Southeastern Mass. University in two weeks. The team looks forward to some hard training in the two weeks and some preparation for indoor and outdoor track.

Volleyball Spikes Opposition

by Chris Dickinson
Assistant Copy Editor

The women’s volleyball team finished its first varsity season with an impressive 7-5 record. Under the tutelage of coach Mary Ecker- son, the women made the transition from a club sport to varsity seem easy. Leading the team this season to wins over Wesleyan, Albertus Magnus, Brainerd, Hartford College for Women, Quinnipiac, Albertus Magnus again, and Becker Junior College was Most Valuable Player Sis Van Cleve.

Many of the team’s losses were tightly contested, which shows promise for an even more productive season next year. The Lady Bants varsity squad consisted of Sis Van Cleve, Linda Jeffries, Chever Voltmer, Susan Babcock, Maria Gulino, Debbie Smith, Chris Cadelina, Chris Gilson, Julienne Ramie- ren, Kathleen Dowling, Kathleen Strauss, Mary Ann Stidwell, and Mary Ann Aldridge. The captains for next year are Chris Cadelina and Kathleen Strauss.

College View Athlete Of The Week

The College View Athlete of the Week is Chris Hyland. Hyland, a junior forward on the men’s soccer team, scored two more goals this past week as the soccer team concluded its season at 2-9-1. Hyland scored ten goals on the year and led the team in scoring.

Women’s X-Country

Bested

continued from 14

finished in that order for Trin.

The following Saturday, the Bants drove off to Babson College. The course went through streets, forests, and fields. The two main hills were steep, but luckily, not too long.

Of the five teams (Trinity, Coast Guard, Clark, Babson, and Massachusetts Maritime Academy), the toughest competition came from the Coast Guard. Trinity placed second overall, behind the Coast Guard, losing by only 11 points.

Despite a slight stomach ache, Co-captain Steinert ran hard and placed fourth overall. Also placing were Wehrli, Co-captain Malabre, Kinz, and Elwell, fifth, sixth, and eighth respectively.

Coach Alex Magoun was pleased with the Trin women, who crushed the other three teams by at least 70 points.

“The College View Cafe Sports Scoreboard”

THIS WEEK:
SATURDAY
Football — Wesleyan Home 1:30 p.m.
Water Polo — Easterns Away

This Thursday Is $3 Pitcher Night At The View!

RESULTS:
Football — 12, Amherst — 35
Men’s Soccer — 1, Amherst — 3
Men’s Soccer — 2, Wesleyan — 4
Water Polo — 5, Williams — 15
Water Polo — 4, Amherst — 13
Men’s Cross Country — 41, Wesleyan — 20
Men’s Cross Country — 31, Wesleyan — 20

The College View Athlete of the Week is Chris Hyland. Hyland, a junior forward on the men’s soccer team, scored two more goals this past week as the soccer team concluded its season at 2-9-1. Hyland scored ten goals on the year and led the team in scoring.
The Bantams did themselves into big trouble in the first half and were never able to recover. In the first 30 minutes, they were able to generate only two first downs and 29 yards in total offense. That, coupled with several crucial turnovers deep in Bantam territory, enabled Amherst to take a 22-0 lead into the locker room. Trinity staged a recovery in the second half, but the bigger Amherst offense solved the Trinity defense, with big plays in big chunks to stop the wing-T offense. The final score of the second half was 45-7.

Trinity then made one of two critical turnovers in the half. On 2nd and 10 from their own 20, the Bants fumbled the ball on the quarterback's fumble. The recovery was made by Amherst's Cabot, who out-raced three players after the fumble.

"It was a real bacon ball in the half," said Williams, who completed only nine of 19 passes in the game. "We really frustrated us in the half. We just couldn't respond. We put the defense in a hole early and we had to fight too much of the game to hold on.

The nine healthy members of the women's cross-country teams split up, enabling Amherst to take a 22-0 lead into the locker room. The Bants have beaten the Trinity defense, with big plays in big chunks to stop the wing-T offense. The final score of the second half was 45-7.

Trinity then made one of two critical turnovers in the half. On 2nd and 10 from their own 20, the Bants fumbled the ball on the quarterback's fumble. The recovery was made by Amherst's Cabot, who out-raced three players after the fumble.

"It was a real bacon ball in the half," said Williams, who completed only nine of 19 passes in the game. "We really frustrated us in the half. We just couldn't respond. We put the defense in a hole early and we had to fight too much of the game to hold on.

The nine healthy members of the women's cross-country teams split up, enabling Amherst to take a 22-0 lead into the locker room. The Bants have beaten the Trinity defense, with big plays in big chunks to stop the wing-T offense. The final score of the second half was 45-7.

Trinity then made one of two critical turnovers in the half. On 2nd and 10 from their own 20, the Bants fumbled the ball on the quarterback's fumble. The recovery was made by Amherst's Cabot, who out-raced three players after the fumble.

"It was a real bacon ball in the half," said Williams, who completed only nine of 19 passes in the game. "We really frustrated us in the half. We just couldn't respond. We put the defense in a hole early and we had to fight too much of the game to hold on.

The nine healthy members of the women's cross-country teams split up, enabling Amherst to take a 22-0 lead into the locker room. The Bants have beaten the Trinity defense, with big plays in big chunks to stop the wing-T offense. The final score of the second half was 45-7.