Security Closes TCB Dance

by Sean Dougherty
Asst. News Editor

Last Saturday night Trinity was once again the subject of a media scare due to a non-Trinity Hartford resident on Osborne Street, who threatened to smash car windows. When the police sergeant present on the scene, the Hartford Police Department, Trinity Security and the Hartford Police Department closed the party due to all allegations of illegality violations.

At 12:45 a.m., the police sergeant present on the scene, the Hartford Police Department, Trinity Security and the Hartford Police Department linked the fight to his group's dance in the Washington Room. At around 9:30, the Hartford Police and Trinity security closed the TCB dance.

"As they (the patrons) left the Washington Room, they began to get rowdy and were messing around the front desk," according to Matthew Rodger, assistant director of the front desk.

Police sergeant had also heard about a separate "reported" fight some time around 11:00 till 12:00 a.m.

Sergeant Pettit, one of the members of the Hartford Police called to the scene, claimed that the fight was over a group of college students, but no violations of alcohol or liquor violations, a statement which was vigorously protested by both the party patrons and the bartenders on duty.

Joe Kim '89 and Lisa Hennerty '87, students who acted as the bouncers for the TCB party, asserted that they had never been involved before the dance to be extra-careful to check the age identification of the patrons. "We lost a lot of people away," said Kim. Lisa Hennerty, a student attending the party, claimed that the police were ready to close the party down. "It was a complete mess," said Hennerty. "It was an absolutely calm and we were closing the party.

The second floor of Mather was closed at around 11:00 p.m. Security also sealed off the front desk leading to the Cave, where the Interfraternity Council was holding an Oktoberfest Dance open to the Trinity community.

Many students were kept from entering Mather prior to midnight. The Cave was opened just after midnight.

At around midnight John Phean '86, a student attending the party, was arrested in front of the Hillside Engineering Building, and his wallet was stolen. Although shaken up, Phean was unhurt.

In a separate violent event, Bob Cockeatt '90, was attacked by one of a gang of about twelve Hispanic militants. He was too seriously unhurt.

Gill and several other students claimed later that the party was closed down because Trinity was nervous about having so many blacks on campus. "It was grossly unjust, and grossly unfair," said Gill.

While Margot was being brought under control, there were several reports of students being attacked throughout the night.

This Parents' weekend will be held, October 10-12. Various events have been planned to accommodate the interests of the various parts of the Trinity community.

According to Ann Crumb, Assistant Relations/Religious Events Coordinator, "Parents, grandparents, and friends of the one identified student in the incident are alleging that external pressure is setting up the individual to be a scapegoat. There is little doubt that the individual was involved in the Cave overnight and the school's sending a security guard to the party the morning after the incident, with the support of almost 3000 members of the student body, faculty, and administration by Saturday at 5:00 p.m. included among the signs are President English, Dean Winer, Dean of Faculty Board, Painter, Asst. Dean Chon-Richardson, Dean of Student Activities, Joanne Petter, Reverend Tull, and numerous members of the faculty. The list of signatures of all those with any sort of civil and human rights on it, 27 October 2567, and states that the "beating of Eric Malloy must not be tolerated within a community which promises liberal arts education."

It further urges the enforcement of all applicable legal and academic penalties and encourages all students with information to come forward, knowing they have our full support."
Editorial

Getting the Story

Two weekends in a row and Trinity has been rocked by a Saturday night events that have caused a major stir among the student body. With these events taking place on a Saturday night, the tripod is in the vulnerable position that clearly news organizations face. We have 24 hours to gather as much information as possible to report the event (on a Sunday, no less). We transmit all our materials that go into Tuesday's issue by Monday morning.

Despite the opinion of some, it is our responsibility to report such an incident even when the details are not complete. When major events occur, a newspaper cannot expect to sit and wait.

With this position in mind, the tripod expects the criticism. We also appreciate all the support. What we report is important to the community, sometimes there are risks involved, but any newspaper must take the risk.

This weekend, the staff was once again faced with a crisis of minimal information in regard to the events at the TCB dance. We will only print corroborated eyewitness accounts, not rumour. The newspaper will also print any “letter to the editor.” Any letter is the responsibility of the author, not the tripod.

With a breaking news story, the tripod is at the mercy of the sources of information. We readily accept both sides to a story, but if one side doesn't surface in that 24 hour period, then judgement has to be used. We are ready to defend any judgements made in last week's story.

Since we are a limited staff, we may not be able to always get all the important information through our own sources. We rely on the whole Trinity community to get information for a story. Instead of complaining of fairness in journalism, communicate with the tripod, and make sure your side of a story can be heard.

The Other Side of the Story

To the Editor:

After reading the article and editorials written in the September 30 issue of the Tripod concerning the incident in the Cave on Saturday, Sept. 27, I had to wonder if any of these people witnessed the same thing I did. Each article left the impression that 22 year-old Eric Malloy was completely innocent, and was beaten up because he looked different and was black. Nothing could be further from the truth.

The whole altercation started out as a fight between 22 year-old John Larson (Malloy's friend) and a person, who I believe Larson, is not a student. Here, I, along with many others, ran towards the fight to try and break it up. As is the case when breaking up any fight, there was a lot of pushing, shoving and arguing. I then noticed two males standing to one of whom was a Trinity student, the other was Eric Malloy. I was standing directly next to Mr. Malloy when he said to the student, “I will remember your face and I will kill you.” The Trinity student then pushed Malloy, who landed on top of a table up against the back windows of the Cave. Two individuals then closed the Tripod student and pulled him away. The table that Malloy was on top of tipped over in the mob scene, and Malloy ended up on the floor. Once on the floor, Malloy was kicked a few times, but it was impossible for me (and many other witnesses) to distinguish between the people kicking, those trying to break up the fight, and others just standing around watching. What I do know is that the Trinity student who pushed Malloy onto the table was nowhere near the scene when Malloy hit the ground. Within a matter of 10-15 seconds Malloy was on his feet and some order was restored.

Ms. Zalkan, Lay, Carey, and Smith: I'm very sorry that this altercation has caused you to lose all hope in the Trinity Community and mankind. However unfortunate and sad this incident was, and I want to make it perfectly clear that I in no way condone the actions of the individuals involved on either side. I don't think one can draw conclusions about the Trinity Community as a whole from it. Altercations such as this one are not uncommon in the "real" world.

Before we can generalize this incident into a racist one or otherwise, we need to first look at the facts objectively.

Eric Malloy was not beaten up because he dressed differently, nor because he was black. He was beaten up because in the process of protecting his friend, he threatened a Trinity student in front of me. I would never go into Eric Malloy's neighborhood in Hartford, point my finger in his face and threaten him, especially since, as Ms. Zalkan says, he is "better than most people at Trinity could ever be." I do not think you give yourself enough credit Marilyn.

Matthew R. Bergeron, '88

Criticized

Tripod Cave Coverage

To the Editor:

First off, I am in no way making excuses for, or categorizing me or some of my colleagues as our positions based Trinity tripod. I'm kidding, of course. Not being a witness to the incident itself, (like many other eyewitnesses) to distinguish between the people kicking, those trying to break up the fight, and others just standing around watching. What I do know is that the Trinity student who pushed Malloy onto the table was nowhere near the scene when Malloy hit the ground. Within a matter of 10-15 seconds Malloy was on his feet and some order was restored.

Ms. Zalkan, Lay, Carey, and Smith: I'm very sorry that this altercation has caused you to lose all hope in the Trinity Community and mankind. However unfortunate and sad this incident was, and I want to make it perfectly clear that I in no way condone the actions of the individuals involved on either side. I don't think one can draw conclusions about the Trinity Community as a whole from it. Altercations such as this one are not uncommon in the "real" world.

Before we can generalize this incident into a racist one or otherwise, we need to first look at the facts objectively.

Eric Malloy was not beaten up because he dressed differently, nor because he was black. He was beaten up because in the process of protecting his friend, he threatened a Trinity student in front of me. I would never go into Eric Malloy's neighborhood in Hartford, point my finger in his face and threaten him, especially since, as Ms. Zalkan says, he is "better than most people at Trinity could ever be." I do not think you give yourself enough credit Marilyn.

Matthew R. Bergeron, '88
Women's Center Displayed One "intolerance"

To the Editor:

We would like to express our dis-

Letters

Women's Center Displayed One "intolerance"

To the Editor:

We strongly urge you to get in touch with one of them

Home: 25 Objects of worship

Spanish Visitor Has Say On Long Walk

To the Editor:

A few days ago, a student from the

1. High school course

13. Actor Leslie

11. Lincoln

To the Editor:

It has been my belief that with

50. Elective.

10. Fainting

5. Prophetic

4. Competitive

3. Poetry

2. Father

1. Bitter

...
Heller, IMF's Head, Returns to Trinity

by David Radding
Editor-in-Chief

It had been fifteen years since Peter Heller sat at a Trinity classroom listening to the words of Gastman, Battile, and Schubert lecture on their prized areas of study.

Last Tuesday, the roles were reversed as Heller returned to Summit Street with those now pertinent to his audience, lecturing to a full crowd in the Seabury Chapel about his role at International Monetary Fund (IMF).

Heller is currently the chief of the Government Expenditure Analysis Division of the IMF in Washington D.C. Prior to joining the IMF, Heller accepted his Ph.D. in Economics from Harvard and served as an economics professor at the University of Michigan. His speech was cosponsored by the Department of Economics and Political Science.

The IMF loans money to underdeveloped and third world countries, to help them pull out of financial problems. The organization designs adjustment programs for countries in need of refinancing debts. There are 100 countries that work with the IMF throughout the world.

Heller works with third world countries to save debt, and to restore economic stability.

In his speech, Heller explained in broad terms how the IMF helps direct countries. After the IMF accepts the request for aid, the organization confers with the country’s economic leaders to negotiate the final terms of the program, information which is included in a confidential "letter of intent."

"The most important part of the process..." Heller emphasized, "is not to bring about radical economic change, simply to put a country on a long-range plan to pull out of debt and maintain stability."

Heller did not address any of the IMF’s specific clients because of the sensitive nature of the information. But any program’s terms of agreement are obvious to students of Economics 101: Managing a constant range plan to pull out of debt and maintain stability.

"The IMF may suggest solutions to a country’s economic problems, only to have the country veto the program for other political reasons. Countries usually come to the IMF in extreme situations where they don’t have a choice but to restructure. When a country is so severely in debt, there isn’t much we can do to make radical changes."

"The purpose of the IMF..." Heller emphasized, "is to get help to deal with a cocaine problem..."...an aid for countries facing financial problems. The IMF is not without its critics, however. Dr. Miguel Ramirez, an assistant professor of Economics at Trinity, used the question and answer period to question Heller about the IMF’s unsuccessful attempts to revitalize Mexico’s weakened economy.

Kehoe Speaks on the Abuse of Cocaine and Crack

by Susan Hyman
Tripod Staff Writer

Despite all the advertising and promotion, the use of cocaine is a health concern. Per instance, you knew that the original formula for the soft drink Coca-Cola included small amount of the coca leaf used to make it. You possibly knew that the coca leaf was used as a headache remedy until 1914, when it was banned. Annoying alike, it’s as well hard fact that cocaine first became popular when the backed were the topics of a FAS discussion on cocaine and crack last Thursday with Dr. Priscilla Kehoe, a psycho-biologist in the psychology department. To demonstrate the popularity of cocaine during the 1980’s, Kehoe cited evidence that 5,000 people try cocaine weekly in the United States. Instead of the coca leaf, Kehoe explained that the current popular cocaine is made from the leaves increased the worker productivity, so they included in the wages they paid. Sigfried Freud was a big advocate of a cocaine derivative popular at the time, he considered it a "wonder drug" until he found that his patients were suffering form paranoid psychosis, convulsions, and often becoming addicted to the drug.

Cocaine is in its pure form is rarely seen in the United States. Instead, most distributors cut or dilute the substance with other chemicals which can be as harmful as the drug itself.

Dr. Kehoe stressed that the effects of cocaine are dependent on several factors. The two most important determinants of the reaction to the drug are the individual and the confounding condition of the user, and the method of administration. The substance can be absorbed by any mucous membrane of the body.

The faster the drug reaches the brain, the greater the possibility of becoming addicted. Cocaine inhaled through the nose takes approximately 5 minutes to reach the brain; that time is reduced to 10 seconds if it is injected and 2 seconds if it is smoked.

Cocaine can only be smoked in its form popularly known as crack—a type of cocaine cut with sodium bicarbonate and water which of the brain that control and increase the higher mental processes while at the same time decreasing motivation for eating, drinking, and sexual activity. Usually it is the compulsive/intoxicated user who can not quell his desire for the drug that runs the greatest risks of having seizures, convulsions, or suffocating due to a drug reaction. There were 604 deaths directly attributable to cocaine in 1984. Although all the publicity about cocaine may be increasing its ap...
Washington Room Decorations Are Recovered

By Sean Dougherty
Ass, News Editor

$3,000 worth of palms, mirror sheets, tree pots, lights, takeoverable numbers, and ferns were stolen from the Washington Room in Mather Campus Center after the kick-off of the Campaign for Trinity on Friday September 19th. Although many of the stolen items have been returned by the students who took them, $271 in worth of decorations still remains missing. The missing decorations belong to Our Growing Concerns of Farmington.

Assistant Dean of Students Paula Chu-Richardson revealed that most of the stolen items were returned through the RA's who had the thieves leave the objects in dorm lounges, and then returned them to Mather. One unsuccessful room search was conducted by Tina Dow and a security guard on Tuesday night in Front Dormitory. Vice-President Tom Smith failed the use of general room searches in recovering the stolen goods. He was aware that a search had been conducted, he thought in High Rise, because a tree had been seen through a window by a security guard. "It looks like we made a mistake," said Smith.

According to Assistant Dean of Students Paula Chu-Richardson, not many of the items were returned before Vice-President Tom Smith sent out a letter to all students demanding the objects' return. Smith said he did this because there were too many campus safety concerns.

"We were all excited and wanting to know who the thief was," said Smith, "but we felt that no one was aware of the thief or the stolen goods until they found out that they didn't belong to the college. She remarked, "It doesn't matter if it's a college or private, we're dealing with it. It's not impossible to steal small things from Sigma or the students from the Washington Room."

A certain amount of mystery surrounds the thefts, and the actual theft took place on the night of September 19th. Marta Shroeder, '89, who was on duty at the front desk that Friday night said that the 19th was not a particularly loud or eventful night. She did, however, remark that anyone could get up the stairs and out of the building without going anywhere near the front desk.

SAGA workers, who were involved with the catering for the event, left at 2:15 a.m. Saturday morning, according to SAGA employee Laurie Hennessy. Hennessy and co-worker Carol Reiman claim to have seen locking things up at 2:15 when they cleared out. However 15 minutes later (2:30 a.m.) Michael Smith, a Trinity security guard, went upstairs to check the Washington Room and reported that 10:15 candles burning on different tables. Smith put out the candles and locked the door.

Before 3:00 a.m. Mary Thomas, another SAGA employee, came in early to prepare the flowers for the next morning's breakfast. Thomas spotted 2-4 students walking off with plants. She did not realize that the students didn't work for the college's Catering Department, but went about her business.

At approximately 3 a.m. of that time that these events took place in one of the strangest things about the theft. The stolen items were "about 8 feet tall and bulky," according to Ann Gusshee the director of Mather.

Dean of Students Paula Chu-Richardson expressed concern over the double standard that students seem to have about the issue. "She felt that no one was aware of the theft or the stolen goods until they found out that they didn't belong to the college."

On Wednesday October 1, the Governor's Task Force on Student Financial Aid finalized recommendations that would improve the financial aid process and ensure that aid to Connecticut residents will be expanded. Ann Grunbeck '88, a student member of the Task Force, said that the recommendations that the Task Force feels the state should make up the difference.

In their assessment of the impact of federal student aid cuts, the Task Force recommended the creation of regional financial aid information centers for students, and the initiation of training programs for financial aid counselors.

All of the Task Force members, including Trinity President F. English, feel that financial aid should be improved by promoting diversity, increasing choices, and expanding options for students. Yet much of the impact of student aid cuts has fallen upon the colleges themselves. State appropriations for need-based financial aid have not kept pace with rising college costs. As a result, colleges have recently been forced to increase student aid, and many students are unable to do so.

The Task Force recommended that states should be appropriated on the basis of need. To increase awareness of available financial aid from the state, the Task Force recommended that a Connecticut College Financial Aid Guide with Connecticut colleges.

"At Trinity," English said, "the College is putting in $3 million each year of its own money towards grant aid. Some of these come from states that are not Connecticut. There are restrictions on how we can use this money. The College's budget for financial aid has increased by about $6.5 million in the past two years in order to increase the number of students who receive financial aid."

SARAH WEDDINGTON
prominent attorney, lobbyist and feminist leader
will speak on “Leadership: You can make a difference” 7:30 Thurs. Oct. 9

McCook Auditorium

reception following, in the Alumni Lounge of Mather

SARAH WEDDINGTON
prominent attorney, lobbyist and feminist leader
will speak on “Leadership: You can make a difference” 7:30 Thurs. Oct. 9

McCook Auditorium

reception following, in the Alumni Lounge of Mather

Sponsored by: TCAC, CBWO, TWC, TCB, and The Women’s Center.
ConnPIRG Registers Voters

Looking for some excitement in Connecticut? ConnPIRG can frustrated because you think your vote doesn't mean anything? Well, believe it or not, this October, more votes could decide who is the next governor of Connecticut.

"Who cares who the governor of Connecticut is? I only go to school here in New Haven. What does the governor of Connecticut have to do with me?" This is the typical response by students who are not registered to vote. But, the governor is the one who makes laws that affect you every day. Whether you are aware of it or not, your vote will make a difference in the Connecticut government.

"One vote doesn't matter..." Wrong. Your single vote is the key to registering. By registering, you are registering to vote in the general election and any special elections that may occur during the next four years (i.e. state or local budget referenda). The process is simple and easy; just stop by ConnPIRG's registration booth at the Trinity Student Center.

ConnPIRG will have registration booths at the Trinity Student Center (Trinity Hall) and the Trinity Student Union (TUSC) during the first two weeks of October. If you're in the library, Mather Hall, or any other location on campus, you will see ConnPIRG volunteers handing out registration cards. If you have any questions or concerns about the registration process, feel free to ask a ConnPIRG volunteer. They will be happy to help you register to vote.

ConnPIRG urges all Trinity students to register to vote. By registering, you are making a difference in the Connecticut government and ensuring that your voice is heard. So, don't wait until the last minute to register. Register today and make a difference in Connecticut.
No Brawl Solution Near

Robbins Winslow Explains Foreign Studies Program

by Eddie Paquette

Robbins Winslow, head of Trinity's foreign study programs, spoke last Tuesday to over 75 students who had gathered in the Rittenhouse Lounge about opportunities for overseas study. The large turnout was no surprise, since up to 1/3 of the students in the past few graduating classes have studied abroad.

Winslow stressed that students are not restricted to studying in Western Europe. He cited Trinity-sponsored programs in such diverse places as Kenya, the Dominican Republic, and Nepal as proof of this fact.

"We apologize for any inconvenience this misprint may have caused you during the past month.

ATTENTION STUDENTS

THE 86-87 COLLEGE CALENDAR DESK BLOTTER THAT WAS DISTRIBUTED TO YOUR DORMS ON 9/2/86 HAD THE FOLLOWING MISPRINT ON THE DOMINO'S PIZZA AD

FREE COLA ON CAMPUS &
THE CORRECT TELEPHONE # TO CALL IS

WE APOLOGIZE FOR ANY INCONVENIENCE THIS MISPRINT MAY HAVE CAUSED YOU DURING THE PAST MONTH.

The first step in the foreign study process begins in Williams 158. Trinity's foreign study office. The office contains a library of catalogs that inform students of the various programs available to them. In addition to personal reason for choosing a particular program, Winslow added the student's choice should also be academically sound program that is recognized by the College since letter grades from abroad can be transferred to Trinity.

Most of those involved with foreign study agree that a full year spent abroad is preferable to a semester spent abroad. Senior Steve Poulin, who studied in Vienna for one semester, states, "If I knew as a sophomore what I know now, I would have studied abroad for a full year."

According to Winslow, "One thing to remember about foreign study is that normally it is a fairly smooth road to travel if you follow the rules we have laid out." One of the unwritten rules is to get applications in as early as possible and to consult with your academic advisor before making any firm commitments. Winslow added "I can't emphasize too strongly that an early application is important."

There are countless things to consider when choosing a program. For instance, if a student wants maximum interaction with the native population of a country, then it is less advisable to study in a large, heterogeneous city such as London or Paris.

Overall expenses while studying abroad generally do not exceed the costs of a stay at Trinity for an equal amount of time. Trinity-sponsored scholarships are transferable to Trinity-sponsored programs.

A few students are even able to get jobs or internships while abroad.

Those interested in foreign study may contact Winslow or Poulin or attend the Quarterly Program Review held in the Crossroads Lounge of Mather Campus Center. The Quarterly Program Review is held on the third Tuesday of every month.

Lecture Series Begins

"Global Hot Spots: Four Countries at the Crossroads" is the theme for the American Heart Association's Gown Forum this fall.

Announced earlier, the lecture series featuring members of the Trinity faculty will take place 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on four Tuesdays, from October 21 through November 11.

Presented annually, the lecture series features members of the Trinity faculty. The lecture will take place 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on four Tuesdays, from October 21 through November 11.

The lectures will be held in the Rittenhouse Lounge on the second floor of Mather Campus Center at Trinity.

On October 21, Charles W. Lindley III will speak on "The Philippines: Crisis, Turmoil, and Transformation." Lindley will examine the impact of Ferdinand Marcos's rule on the Philippines, the country's economic crisis, and current political divisions and trends.

On October 28, Ashrita Vohra, chancellor of the New Delhi South Asian Studies Institute at Trinity, will give a lecture titled, "India: Can the Democratic Experiment Survive?" Vohra will examine such issues as the changing political and social structure of the country, the impact of economic crisis, the role of the media and the press, and the role of the media and the press in the country.

On November 4, Charles A. Davis of the International Religious Freedom Commission will speak on the topic of "Religious Freedom in China." Davis will discuss the current political situation in China and the prospects for democracy in the country.

On November 11, making his first appearance in Trinity, will speak on "The Philippines: Crisis, Turmoil, and Transformation." Lindley will examine the impact of Ferdinand Marcos's rule on the Philippines, the country's economic crisis, and current political divisions and trends.

Weddington's closing argument, which is scheduled for September 20, will be presented at the Crossroads Lounge of Mather Campus Center.

On October 21, Charles W. Lindley III will speak on "The Philippines: Crisis, Turmoil, and Transformation." Lindley will examine the impact of Ferdinand Marcos's rule on the Philippines, the country's economic crisis, and current political divisions and trends.

On October 28, Ashrita Vohra, chancellor of the New Delhi South Asian Studies Institute at Trinity, will give a lecture titled, "India: Can the Democratic Experiment Survive?" Vohra will examine such issues as the changing political and social structure of the country, the impact of economic crisis, the role of the media and the press, and the role of the media and the press in the country.

On November 4, Charles A. Davis of the International Religious Freedom Commission will speak on the topic of "Religious Freedom in China." Davis will discuss the current political situation in China and the prospects for democracy in the country.

On November 11, making his first appearance in Trinity, will speak on "The Philippines: Crisis, Turmoil, and Transformation." Lindley will examine the impact of Ferdinand Marcos's rule on the Philippines, the country's economic crisis, and current political divisions and trends.
News

SAGA Announces Tough New Tray Policy

by Joanna Jacobson
Tripod Staff Writer

The SAGA corporation at Trinity has finally taken a stand on a growing problem in Mather Dining Hall: students not bussing their trays. Robert A. Schondelmeier (also known as “SAGA Bob”), Director of Food Services at Trinity, has announced that from now on when students are leaving their trays behind, they will be automatically required to do any work in the dining hall.

This policy may seem new to some, but it is a reality that it has been in effect since the bussing of trays began in 1983. There has been a tray bussing policy in place for three years ago.

In the beginning of the year states that you will be required to donate 10 hours of your time towards solving your problem. The meal 1

The new policy will finally solve the increasing bussing problem. The idea that the root of your problem is not helpful. Every time I ever

Apple Sponsors MacFest in Cave

Given the recent installation of Macintosh computers at Hallden, the MacFest could not have been more timely and relevant to the students still trying to adjust from the replaced Rainbows. From 11:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Wed. Sept. 29, several Apple representatives were standing behind a booth at the south end of the Cave, fielded questions, gave demonstrations, and handed out information on Apple products.

FAULTS FOUND IN DINOSO’S S.A. ARTICLE

To the Editor:

Having just read Vincent Dinoso’s article, “Destroying Southern Africa,” I feel a duty to the students of Trinity. Mr. Dinoso’s article is misleading and even completely false at times. Mr. Dinoso would do some research on the issue before he tries to make it seem clear as he tries to make it seem.

The main attraction was the newest Macintosh Plus, a user friendly piece of machinery. “Friendlies” is the Mac’s greatest advantage. The commands are easy to understand and are accessed through “a mouse” which is a device that enables the user to point to commands on the screen rather than type in characters. The Mac is easy, fun, useful, and fun to use, it is the favorite of college students by a roughly nine to one edge over its nearest competitor in the past two years.

The Writing Center

is for EVERYBODY.

Monday through Friday
9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Monday through Wednesday
6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

115 Vernon Street
527-5131, ext. 392

Use side door at night. Ring bell.

SAGA Crack Down on Bussing

To the students on the meal plan,

Recently, students have been leaving their trays behind on the tables more frequently and in greater numbers than ever.

Consequently, the trays which are not bussing are being picked up by the student workers. The extra time it takes to clean these trays takes away from other, more important, cleanup duties. Not only do we not care about cleaning, if time is neglected, the time it takes to clean the dining hall ranges from 30-45 minutes. We, the student workers at SAGA, have reached the point where enough is enough. We are tired of cleaning up every one else’s messes and have decided to take some action. Effective immediately, anyone who is caught by one of the student managers or student workers leaving their trays on the tables will have their names submitted to the Food Service Director and Dean’s office. They will be required to donate 10 hours of their time to SAGA, bussing trays and cleaning up. The contract that you signed in the beginning of the year states that you must bus your tray. This penalty is much only as a deterrent, but it will be strictly enforced. It doesn’t take too much effort to stand in line for an extra couple of minutes to put your trays on the conveyor belt or one of the 12 tray racks.

Sincerely,
The Student Employees of SAGA

SAGA Announces Tough New Tray Policy

by Joanna Jacobson
Tripod Staff Writer

The SAGA corporation at Trinity has finally taken a stand on a growing problem in Mather Dining Hall: students not bussing their trays. Robert A. Schondelmeier (also known as “SAGA Bob”), Director of Food Services at Trinity, has announced that from now on when students are leaving their trays behind, they will be automatically required to do any work in the dining hall.

This policy may seem new to some, but it is a reality that it has been in effect since the bussing of trays began in 1983. There has been a tray bussing policy in place for three years ago.

In the beginning of the year states that you will be required to donate 10 hours of your time towards solving your problem. The meal 1

The new policy will finally solve the increasing bussing problem. The idea that the root of your problem is not helpful. Every time I ever

Apple Sponsors MacFest in Cave

Given the recent installation of Macintosh computers at Hallden, the MacFest could not have been more timely and relevant to the students still trying to adjust from the replaced Rainbows. From 11:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Wed. Sept. 29, several Apple representatives were standing behind a booth at the south end of the Cave, fielded questions, gave demonstrations, and handed out information on Apple products.

The main attraction was the newest Macintosh Plus, a user friendly piece of machinery. “Friendlies” is the Mac’s greatest advantage. The commands are easy to understand and are accessed through “a mouse” which is a device that enables the user to point to commands on the screen rather than type in characters. The Mac is easy, fun, useful, and fun to use, it is the favorite of college students by a roughly nine to one edge over its nearest competitor in the past two years.

The Writing Center

is for EVERYBODY.

Monday through Friday
9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Monday through Wednesday
6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

115 Vernon Street
527-5131, ext. 392

Use side door at night. Ring bell.

SAGA Announces Tough New Tray Policy

by Joanna Jacobson
Tripod Staff Writer

The SAGA corporation at Trinity has finally taken a stand on a growing problem in Mather Dining Hall: students not bussing their trays. Robert A. Schondelmeier (also known as “SAGA Bob”), Director of Food Services at Trinity, has announced that from now on when students are leaving their trays behind, they will be automatically required to do any work in the dining hall.

This policy may seem new to some, but it is a reality that it has been in effect since the bussing of trays began in 1983. There has been a tray bussing policy in place for three years ago.

In the beginning of the year states that you will be required to donate 10 hours of your time towards solving your problem. The meal 1

The new policy will finally solve the increasing bussing problem. The idea that the root of your problem is not helpful. Every time I ever

Apple Sponsors MacFest in Cave

Given the recent installation of Macintosh computers at Hallden, the MacFest could not have been more timely and relevant to the students still trying to adjust from the replaced Rainbows. From 11:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Wed. Sept. 29, several Apple representatives were standing behind a booth at the south end of the Cave, fielded questions, gave demonstrations, and handed out information on Apple products.

The main attraction was the newest Macintosh Plus, a user friendly piece of machinery. “Friendlies” is the Mac’s greatest advantage. The commands are easy to understand and are accessed through “a mouse” which is a device that enables the user to point to commands on the screen rather than type in characters. The Mac is easy, fun, useful, and fun to use, it is the favorite of college students by a roughly nine to one edge over its nearest competitor in the past two years.

The Writing Center

is for EVERYBODY.

Monday through Friday
9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Monday through Wednesday
6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

115 Vernon Street
527-5131, ext. 392

Use side door at night. Ring bell.
UConn Holds Violence Seminar, Kirkpatrick is Key Speaker

By Gina Letellier
Tripod Staff Writer

The University of Connecticut's Program for War and Ethics sponsored a conference on "INTERDIMENSIONS" this past week. The event focused on international terrorism and its impact on different societies. The conference featured a panel discussion with experts from various backgrounds, including military, civilian, and academic perspectives.

Dr. Frank Kirkpatrick, a professor of Seabury Western Theological Seminary in Chicago, and a member of the Advisory Board, Ecumenical Refugee Center, participated in the conference. He discussed the concept of "Mutually Assured Destruction" and its implications on the development of defense systems.

One solution everyone did seem to agree with was the need for better understanding of the factors and grievances that give rise to terrorism. Kirkpatrick questioned whether the nuclear freeze campaign was making any significant impact on the international community.

According to Hetherington, the arms race and the knowledge of producing nuclear arms, "could not be wished away." According to Kirkpatrick, SDI is a "technology that now makes nuclear weapons useless as instruments of foreign policy." The conclusion reached was "terrorism and insurgency must be defeated with "Terrorism and Insurgency: An Examination of the Concept." The three panelists discussed the morality of the resort to violence by terrorist groups or countries within or outside of San Jose, Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

Kirkpatrick added that if SDI could protect America's stability and the knowledge of producing nuclear arms, "could not be wished away." According to Kirkpatrick, SDI is a "technology that now makes nuclear weapons useless as instruments of foreign policy," and he questioned whether the nuclear freeze campaign was making any significant impact on the international community.

Without a doubt, the threat of a nuclear first strike does not compare to the threat from the Soviet Union’s "Protected Destruction." This defense is based on the threat of total retaliation with a nuclear strike by the other side. Hetherington asserts that the belief is an unacceptable defense because the Soviet Union has never declared the use of such a weapon.

Kirkpatrick questioned whether or not the Soviet Union would just wait for the United States to make a first strike and then destroy the United States. He said SDI was a political fix to a political problem... nuclear missiles... too dangerous... too complex... not possible.

President's house. A Roman Catholic student at Berkeley, no one had ever heard of Iran or knew where it was, but now all Americans know where Iran is.

The Iranian students who took the American embassy officials captive believed their cause was right and their intentions were good. Kennedy said that when groups with a cause cannot find anyone to listen, they believe that only with terror can they force the world to listen.

Kirkpatrick quoted his captors as saying that the embassy officials were being punished for crimes of the American government and America's sponsorship of the Shah and his policies. He then quoted his captors as saying that, "international law is [where] to justify what you [the west] do." Unless governments call attention to the grievances of certain groups, Kennedy believes that attacks similar to the one he was subjected to will continue.

As a whole, groups did not offer suggestions to end all terrorism. Rather, they discussed the need for better understanding of the factors and grievances that give rise to terrorism. One solution everyone did seem to agree with was the need for better education and increased efforts in intervention teams from the United States and Delta Force. For the most part, the panelists let the audience use their suggestions in combination of those of the audience to come up with viable conclusions as to how to deal with terrorism and nuclear war. For those interested, an informational newsletter about this conference and a calendar of similar conferences are available by contacting the "UConn Program for War and Ethics" care of Dr. Robert L. Phillips.

Preparing for Parents’ Weekend ’86

Members of the administration and faculty held a panel discussion about the Trinity Experience and Parent’s Weekend ’86 in the Goodwin Theatre. Panel members will be determined next week.

At 2 p.m., there will be a guided tour of the chapel conducted by Floyd Higgins ’85, author of "The Chapel of Goodwin College." There will be an open house in the Computer Center from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. A concert will be presented at 4 p.m. at the Trinity Pipes and the Trinity Jazz Band will perform in the Goodwin Theatre. Panel members will be determined next week.

A Roman Catholic student at Berkeley, no one had ever heard of Iran or knew where it was, but now all Americans believe that attacks similar to the one he was subjected to will continue.

As a whole, groups did not offer suggestions to end all terrorism. Rather, they discussed the need for better understanding of the factors and grievances that give rise to terrorism. One solution everyone did seem to agree with was the need for better education and increased efforts in intervention teams from the United States and Delta Force. For the most part, the panelists let the audience use their suggestions in combination of those of the audience to come up with viable conclusions as to how to deal with terrorism and nuclear war. For those interested, an informational newsletter about this conference and a calendar of similar conferences are available by contacting the "UConn Program for War and Ethics" care of Dr. Robert L. Phillips.

BLOOM COUNTY

October 7, 1986, THE TRINITY TRIPOD, Page 9

The Office of Residential Services announces the following job opportunities:

STUDENT TRAINEE FRESHMAN
5 hours/week @ $3.50/hour
telephone coverage, mailings, errands, typing
training for upperclass student assistant positions

STUDENT ASSISTANT I SOPHOMORE
10 hours/week @ $3.75/hour
office coverage, word processing, file maintenance, typing
training for upperclass student assistant positions

The University of Connecticut's Program for War and Ethics sponsored a conference on "INTERDIMENSIONS" this past week. The event focused on international terrorism and its impact on different societies. The conference featured a panel discussion with experts from various backgrounds, including military, civilian, and academic perspectives.

Dr. Frank Kirkpatrick, a professor of Seabury Western Theological Seminary in Chicago, and a member of the Advisory Board, Ecumenical Refugee Center, participated in the conference. He discussed the concept of "Mutually Assured Destruction" and its implications on the development of defense systems.

One solution everyone did seem to agree with was the need for better understanding of the factors and grievances that give rise to terrorism. Kirkpatrick questioned whether the nuclear freeze campaign was making any significant impact on the international community.

According to Hetherington, the arms race and the knowledge of producing nuclear arms, "could not be wished away." According to Kirkpatrick, SDI is a "technology that now makes nuclear weapons useless as instruments of foreign policy," and he questioned whether the nuclear freeze campaign was making any significant impact on the international community.

Kirkpatrick added that if SDI could protect America's stability and the knowledge of producing nuclear arms, "could not be wished away." According to Kirkpatrick, SDI is a "technology that now makes nuclear weapons useless as instruments of foreign policy," and he questioned whether the nuclear freeze campaign was making any significant impact on the international community.

Kirkpatrick quoted his captors as saying that the embassy officials were being punished for crimes of the American government and America's sponsorship of the Shah and his policies. He then quoted his captors as saying that, "international law is [where] to justify what you [the west] do." Unless governments call attention to the grievances of certain groups, Kennedy believes that attacks similar to the one he was subjected to will continue.

As a whole, groups did not offer suggestions to end all terrorism. Rather, they discussed the need for better understanding of the factors and grievances that give rise to terrorism. One solution everyone did seem to agree with was the need for better education and increased efforts in intervention teams from the United States and Delta Force. For the most part, the panelists let the audience use their suggestions in combination of those of the audience to come up with viable conclusions as to how to deal with terrorism and nuclear war. For those interested, an informational newsletter about this conference and a calendar of similar conferences are available by contacting the "UConn Program for War and Ethics" care of Dr. Robert L. Phillips.
Tuesday:

October 7 will mark the second segment of the Women's Center Lecture Series. "The Way to Liberty," a lecture which will be held from 12:30 P.M. to 1:30 P.M. in the Women's Center, is entitled Gender and Creativity and will be given by Maria Pilar Garcia. Garcia is an Associate Professor of Classics at Trinity.

The third installment in the public lecture series, Religion and Public Life: International Perspectives, will take place on October 7 at 7:00 P.M. and will center its influence on the Philippines. Guest lecturers include Laos Gnar Noto, a professor of political science and Associate Academic Vice President for Faculty Affairs at San Jose State University, and 2. Abdullah Thompson, professor of Religious Studies at State Joseph College. All installations of the series will be held at the Hartford Seminary, which is located on 37 Sherman St. in Hartford. The sponsoring of the lecture series is the unified effort of Hartford Seminary, Trinity College, the University of Hartford, and Saint Joseph College and its funding comes from the Connecticut Humanities Council and the Hartford Consortium for Higher Education. For further information, please see the Seminary at 282-4641.

Wednesday:

Romane Bert, Director of Career Counseling, will discuss the future options for a Trinity undergrad in a discussion titled Are you thinking of law school? In Wino Lounge at 6:00 P.M. The discussion is a FAS program.

At 8:00 P.M. in Goodwin Lounge Dean How, who is acting Assistant Dean of Students, will meet to entertain questions. This Meet the Dean program is an FAS event.

The Annual Mead Lecture in Economics will be given this year by Roger Dornbush, a professor of economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The lecture, scheduled for October 8 at 8:00 P.M. in Boyer Auditorium, is entitled The World Debt Problem. Admission is free.

The Trinity Newman Club will hold its monthly meeting at 7:00 P.M. on October 7. Plans for future club sponsored events will be discussed and a talk based on the theme of suicide as it is portrayed in Poe's book, Why Am I Afraid to Love?. Interested students are encouraged to attend.

Thursday:

Thomas Ragan, a professor in the philosophy and religion departments at North Carolina State University, will speak on October 8 in Alumni Lounge. Ragan will discuss the theme of capital punishment. A reception in Alumni Lounge will follow.

Friday:

A day-long conference on Women as Effective Administrators will be held from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Alumni Lounge. Lectures and panel discussions will be held from 9:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. The conference is sponsored by the Committee for the Concerns of Women in Trinity College and is open free of charge to the public. A reception will be held after the lecture in Alumni Lounge.

The Care will be the site of Nearlydead Game on October 10 at 9:00 P.M. Contents are taken for a $1.00 donation. All proceeds go to the Trinity Child Community Center.

Monday:

Physical Education Second Quarter Registration will be held on October 11, 14, and 15. You may register at Ferris Athletic Center in Robin Sheepard's Office, Room 202, between the hours of 12:00 A.M. and 3:00 P.M. and 4:30 P.M. to 7:00 P.M.

For Your Information:

Two members of the University of Corduba faculty and the FHRKO program will be visiting the campus from October 7 to October 10. There will be a reception in honor of them on October 7 at 4:00 P.M. in the Rittenberg Lounge, a lecture entitled Ordeal Sources of Flavonos and Spanish music given by music professor. The lectures will be held on October 9 at 4:00 P.M. on 60. The lecture will be held in English and the October 9 address will be given in Spanish. All and invited and encouraged to attend these events.

Two members of the University of Corduba faculty and the FHRKO program will be visiting the campus from October 7 to October 10. There will be a reception in honor of them on October 7 at 4:00 P.M. in the Rittenberg Lounge, a lecture entitled Ordeal Sources of Flavonos and Spanish music given by music professor. The lectures will be held on October 9 at 4:00 P.M. on 60. The lecture will be held in English and the October 9 address will be given in Spanish. All and invited and encouraged to attend these events.

The Trinity Christian Fellowship will hold a weekly meeting on October 10. Interested students are invited to come and see what we are all about. All meetings are held on Friday evenings from 7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M. in the Crypt Chapel and on Sunday at 12:00 P.M.

For Your Information:

On Wednesday, October 8, at 12:15, the Wednesday Noon Religious Series of Center Church will present the film, A Gunman, an exploration of the metamorphosis of the instrument, and The Hand, an allegorical film. The film will be shown at 60 Gold Street and are open to the general public. Please call the Church at 242-5616 before Tuesday, October 7 for lunch and program reservations, at a suggested donation of $3.00, or simply program reservations at a donation rate of $1.60.

Roman Catholic Mass is celebrated every Wednesday at 8:00 P.M. in the Crypt Chapel and on Sunday at 12:00 P.M.

Announcement:

Chesed Weekly Schedule

Wednesday through Saturday

Annie Hall

...About Last Night

9:20

Sunday through Tuesday

The 19th International Tournee of Animation 7:30

Interested in earning a free Spring Break vacation in Fort Lauderdale or the Bahamas? All students seriously interested in becoming a campus representative may get in contact with Colleagues Marketing and Communications, Inc. by calling 1-800-87-BEACH.

The Great Teddy Bear Jamboree Show and Sale will take place this year on October 18 and 19 at Eastern High School in Bristol, CT. The event is sponsored by the Friends of the Bristol Senior Center and runs from 10:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. on both days. For more information, please call 594-1795.

Trinity Women's Organization Meeting 10 p.m. Thursday in the Women's Center. Discussion about T.W.O. future? Elections! Show up! Vote! All students encouraged to attend. Bring ideas.

For Your Information:

On Wednesday, October 8, at 12:15, the Wednesday Noon Religious Series of Center Church will present the film, A Gunman, an exploration of the metamorphosis of the instrument, and The Hand, an allegorical film. The film will be shown at 60 Gold Street and are open to the general public. Please call the Church at 242-5616 before Tuesday, October 7 for lunch and program reservations, at a suggested donation of $3.00, or simply program reservations at a donation rate of $1.60.

Roman Catholic Mass is celebrated every Wednesday at 8:00 P.M. in the Crypt Chapel and on Sunday at 12:00 P.M.

For Your Information:

On Wednesday, October 8, at 12:15, the Wednesday Noon Religious Series of Center Church will present the film, A Gunman, an exploration of the metamorphosis of the instrument, and The Hand, an allegorical film. The film will be shown at 60 Gold Street and are open to the general public. Please call the Church at 242-5616 before Tuesday, October 7 for lunch and program reservations, at a suggested donation of $3.00, or simply program reservations at a donation rate of $1.60.

Roman Catholic Mass is celebrated every Wednesday at 8:00 P.M. in the Crypt Chapel and on Sunday at 12:00 P.M.

For Your Information:

On Wednesday, October 8, at 12:15, the Wednesday Noon Religious Series of Center Church will present the film, A Gunman, an exploration of the metamorphosis of the instrument, and The Hand, an allegorical film. The film will be shown at 60 Gold Street and are open to the general public. Please call the Church at 242-5616 before Tuesday, October 7 for lunch and program reservations, at a suggested donation of $3.00, or simply program reservations at a donation rate of $1.60.

Roman Catholic Mass is celebrated every Wednesday at 8:00 P.M. in the Crypt Chapel and on Sunday at 12:00 P.M.

For Your Information:

On Wednesday, October 8, at 12:15, the Wednesday Noon Religious Series of Center Church will present the film, A Gunman, an exploration of the metamorphosis of the instrument, and The Hand, an allegorical film. The film will be shown at 60 Gold Street and are open to the general public. Please call the Church at 242-5616 before Tuesday, October 7 for lunch and program reservations, at a suggested donation of $3.00, or simply program reservations at a donation rate of $1.60.

Roman Catholic Mass is celebrated every Wednesday at 8:00 P.M. in the Crypt Chapel and on Sunday at 12:00 P.M.

For Your Information:

On Wednesday, October 8, at 12:15, the Wednesday Noon Religious Series of Center Church will present the film, A Gunman, an exploration of the metamorphosis of the instrument, and The Hand, an allegorical film. The film will be shown at 60 Gold Street and are open to the general public. Please call the Church at 242-5616 before Tuesday, October 7 for lunch and program reservations, at a suggested donation of $3.00, or simply program reservations at a donation rate of $1.60.

Roman Catholic Mass is celebrated every Wednesday at 8:00 P.M. in the Crypt Chapel and on Sunday at 12:00 P.M.

For Your Information:

On Wednesday, October 8, at 12:15, the Wednesday Noon Religious Series of Center Church will present the film, A Gunman, an exploration of the metamorphosis of the instrument, and The Hand, an allegorical film. The film will be shown at 60 Gold Street and are open to the general public. Please call the Church at 242-5616 before Tuesday, October 7 for lunch and program reservations, at a suggested donation of $3.00, or simply program reservations at a donation rate of $1.60.

Roman Catholic Mass is celebrated every Wednesday at 8:00 P.M. in the Crypt Chapel and on Sunday at 12:00 P.M.
The Tuesday Forum Series of Center Church in downtown Hartford will begin its luncheon series on October 7 with The Great River: Art & Society of the Connecticut River 1635-1820, a survey presentation of the art, antiquities, and history of colonial Hartford and Central Connecticut. The featured speaker will be Mr. William Horsley, curator of American Decorative Arts at the Wadsworth Atheneum. The program is scheduled to begin at 11:00 A.M. at 60 Gold Street and is open to the general public for a suggested donation of $1.50 or $3.00, depending on whether you wish to attend the program alone or the luncheon and the lecture. For reservations, please call the Church House at 249-5631 before Monday, October 6.

Oct. 9-11: "Spring Awakening", Dir. by Lenora Champagne, Goodwin Theatre, Austin Arts Center
Thurs. Oct. 9: Christopher Howell Poetry Reading, Faculty Club, Hamlin Hall, 8:15 PM. FREE.

UPCOMING CULTURAL EVENTS

EXHIBITS
*Sept. 19-Oct. 17: Howard Finster Paintings — Real Art Ways, 94 Allyn St., Hin: 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Mon.-Fri. FREE (203) 525-6501
*Sept. 19-Oct. 17: Bel Scobler Collages, Real Art Ways, see details above; FREE
*Sept. 19-Dec. 18: Patty McCabe Window Installations: "An Exercise to See More Clearly" — Real Art Ways see details above; FREE
*Sun. Sept. 29-Oct. 26: Chris Page Paintings — Zone Art Center, 201 Main St., Hartford. 12:30 PM FREE
*Sun. Sept. 29-Oct. 26: "Flat Work" — Zone Art Center see details above; FREE
*Sun. Sept. 29-Oct. 26: Billi Meyers, "Neon Installations" — Zone Art Center see details above; FREE
*Sun. Sept. 29-Oct. 26: Chris Page Paintings — Zone Art Center, 395 Dwight St., Springfield, MA. 12:30 PM FREE
*Sept. 6-Jan. 11, 1987: Da Vinci Inventions — Lions Gallery, Wadsworth Atheneum 1:00-5:00 P.M. Tues.-Sun. FREE (203) 723-9950
Mon. Sept. 29-Oct. 17: Elizabeth Tracy Paintings, "Looking Back to Look Ahead" — Widener Gallery, Austin Arts Center 1-5 P.M., FREE

PERFORMANCE:
Oct. 9-12: "Spring Awakening", Dir. by Lenora Champagne, Goodwin Theatre, Austin Arts Center Performance Times: Oct. 9-11, 7:30 p.m. PERF. PASS. Oct. 12, 2:00 P.M.
Oct. 10: Live Nights Cabaret Series: Susan Foster, "Part Raw, Part Cooked", Real Art Ways, 95 Allyn St. 9:00 PM Members $5.00; Non-members $4.00
Fri. Sept. 29-Oct. 12 Theatre Works: "An Evening of One-Act Plays," Avery Theatre, Wadsworth Atheneum Performance Times: Thurs.-Sat. 8:00 p.m.; Sun. 7:30 p.m.; Sun. Sept. 28, 2:30 matinee, admission $15.00 (203) 527-7838

DANCE:
Thurs, Oct. 16: Nueske Martynuk/Center McAdams: Partners Dance, Seabury 47, 7:30 PM. FREE

POETRY
Thurs. Oct. 9: Christopher Howell Poetry Reading, Faculty Club, Hamlin Hall, 8:15 PM. FREE

LECTURE:

MUSIC:
October 8: World Music Series: Jim and Lauren Cowdery — Traditional Irish Music/Dance, Showcase Cinemas, E. Hartford (Exit 58, Silver Lane) 568-8810

Showcase Cinemas, E. Hartford (Exit 58, Silver Lane)

568-8810

Tough Guys: 12:45, 2:50, 4:55, 7:25, 9:25
Children of A Lester God: 7:00, 4:00, 7:00, 9:35
Top Gun: 12:30, 2:40, 4:50, 7:10, 9:20
The Fly: 12:30, 2:30, 4:30, 7:20, 9:30
Stand By Me: 1:15, 3:10, 5:00, 7:40, 10:00
Avenging Force: 12:40, 2:45, 4:45, 7:15, 9:30
Crocodile Dundee: 1:30, 3:20, 5:10, 7:30, 9:45

549-0930

Ruthless People (R) 2:00, 4:15, 7:00, 9:30

Back to School (PG-13) 7:30

528-6015

Back to School (PG-13) 7:30

Cinestudio, Trinity College *Admission $2.50 for double-feature $2.00 with college ID.
Wed., Oct. 8-Saturday: Annie Hall (PG) 7:30

About Last Night (R): 9:20
Sat. Oct. 11-Tuesday: The 19th International Tournee of Animation: 7:30

Barbara Kennelly
Trustee and M.A. Trinity College
Discussion & Reception
Friday October 10, 7:00 p.m. Rittenberg Lounge Parents Weekend

Sponsored by the Young Democrats of Trinity College
La Mama Program Benefits Tri Students

by Bob Markoe

This fall eight students from the Theatre and Dance department are in the midst of producing a play in the midst of the Cutting Edge Theatre Company at Trinity College. This program provides a great opportunity for students to get involved in both the artistic and professional aspects of theatre. These students have been chosen for their potential contributions to the theatre as a whole.

The project was developed last year by Professor Sally Huang, who was interested in creating a program that would allow students to explore their potential as actors and directors. The students were selected based on their interest and experience in theatre, as well as their potential to contribute to the production.

The play that is being produced is "Spring Awakening," a play written by Frank Wedekind in 1891. It is being adapted to modern audiences by the students and directed by Lenora Champagne, who is a professor of theatre and dance at Trinity College.

Champagne's Spring Awakening at Goodwin

by Mary K. Bray Staff Writer

"Spring Awakening," a three-act play exploring adolescence and maturity, opens October 6 for a four-day run at Goodwin College. The play is set in the early 1900's on the campus of the Austin Arts Center. The play, written in 1891 by Frank Wedekind and translated by British playwright Edward Bond, was banned from public performance until 1963.

Director Rebecca Leonard described the play as "a profound exploration of adolescent development and the challenges that come with it." The play deals with issues such as sexuality, religion, and coming of age, and it challenges the society of the time to confront these issues.

The cast members are selected based on their ability to portray the characters effectively, and they are given the opportunity to develop their skills in voice, movement, and performance art.

The musical production involves classes, internships, and performances at La Mama's three stages. The program is in conjunction with the Trinity Arts Center and the Museum of Modern Art, giving the students the opportunity to perform in front of a wide audience.

The performance of "Spring Awakening" at Goodwin College is an excellent opportunity for students to explore their potential as actors and directors, and to develop their skills in voice, movement, and performance art.
It's about time public policy reflected public opinion on the South Africa question. Last Thursday the Senate joined the House of Representatives and public opinion by voting to override President Reagan's veto of the South Africa sanctions bill. The bill imposes a curb on new investments in South Africa. A majority of senators voted that Congress had a right to override the executive branch. They were right. For the first time, the Senate has overruled the President's veto. It is long overdue. The American people have disagreed over sanctions, but Congress has finally joined the public in a wide spread dissatisfaction with South Africa. The vote reflects a broad-based and comprehensive sense of the need for action, despite our overriding economic interests in South Africa.

Senator Richard Lugar. The President is dragging far behind his own policy issues. "He's right. But do they undermine his authority any more than he tries to undermine ours by refusing to follow public opinion? The answer is no," Senator Lugar says. "When three reasons can't seem to hold up, it is much easier and perhaps more reasonable for the President to attack our authority than to express any view on this issue — contrary to what the President implies. But the numbers black church and political leaders who beg for sanctions, even as they are being silenced, says enough."

"A revolution could grow out of these sanctions and South Africa could be lost to Communism," Botha and Reagan share this view — maybe they came up with it together — and they think it will sell Americans (if nothing else will get them on our side, tell them Communism is creeping in). This view takes the spotlight off the real evil and tries to displace it onto another force. Apartheid is the wrong that feeds the revolution. It's about time public policy reflected public opinion on the South Africa question. Last Thursday the Senate joined the House of Representatives and public opinion by voting to override President Reagan's veto of the South Africa sanctions bill. The bill imposes a curb on new investments in South Africa. A majority of senators voted that Congress had a right to override the executive branch. They were right. For the first time, the Senate has overruled the President's veto. It is long overdue. The American people have disagreed over sanctions, but Congress has finally joined the public in a wide spread dissatisfaction with South Africa. The vote reflects a broad-based and comprehensive sense of the need for action, despite our overriding economic interests in South Africa.

Senator Richard Lugar. The President is dragging far behind his own policy issues. "He's right. But do they undermine his authority any more than he tries to undermine ours by refusing to follow public opinion? The answer is no," Senator Lugar says. "When three reasons can't seem to hold up, it is much easier and perhaps more reasonable for the President to attack our authority than to express any view on this issue — contrary to what the President implies. But the numbers black church and political leaders who beg for sanctions, even as they are being silenced, says enough."

"A revolution could grow out of these sanctions and South Africa could be lost to Communism," Botha and Reagan share this view — maybe they came up with it together — and they think it will sell Americans (if nothing else will get them on our side, tell them Communism is creeping in). This view takes the spotlight off the real evil and tries to displace it onto another force. Apartheid is the wrong that feeds the revolution. It's about time public policy reflected public opinion on the South Africa question. Last Thursday the Senate joined the House of Representatives and public opinion by voting to override President Reagan's veto of the South Africa sanctions bill. The bill imposes a curb on new investments in South Africa. A majority of senators voted that Congress had a right to override the executive branch. They were right. For the first time, the Senate has overruled the President's veto. It is long overdue. The American people have disagreed over sanctions, but Congress has finally joined the public in a wide spread dissatisfaction with South Africa. The vote reflects a broad-based and comprehensive sense of the need for action, despite our overriding economic interests in South Africa.

Senator Richard Lugar. The President is dragging far behind his own policy issues. "He's right. But do they undermine his authority any more than he tries to undermine ours by refusing to follow public opinion? The answer is no," Senator Lugar says. "When three reasons can't seem to hold up, it is much easier and perhaps more reasonable for the President to attack our authority than to express any view on this issue — contrary to what the President implies. But the numbers black church and political leaders who beg for sanctions, even as they are being silenced, says enough."

"A revolution could grow out of these sanctions and South Africa could be lost to Communism," Botha and Reagan share this view — maybe they came up with it together — and they think it will sell Americans (if nothing else will get them on our side, tell them Communism is creeping in). This view takes the spotlight off the real evil and tries to displace it onto another force. Apartheid is the wrong that feeds the revolution. It's about time public policy reflected public opinion on the South Africa question. Last Thursday the Senate joined the House of Representatives and public opinion by voting to override President Reagan's veto of the South Africa sanctions bill. The bill imposes a curb on new investments in South Africa. A majority of senators voted that Congress had a right to override the executive branch. They were right. For the first time, the Senate has overruled the President's veto. It is long overdue. The American people have disagreed over sanctions, but Congress has finally joined the public in a wide spread dissatisfaction with South Africa. The vote reflects a broad-based and comprehensive sense of the need for action, despite our overriding economic interests in South Africa.

Senator Richard Lugar. The President is dragging far behind his own policy issues. "He's right. But do they undermine his authority any more than he tries to undermine ours by refusing to follow public opinion? The answer is no," Senator Lugar says. "When three reasons can't seem to hold up, it is much easier and perhaps more reasonable for the President to attack our authority than to express any view on this issue — contrary to what the President implies. But the numbers black church and political leaders who beg for sanctions, even as they are being silenced, says enough."

"A revolution could grow out of these sanctions and South Africa could be lost to Communism," Botha and Reagan share this view — maybe they came up with it together — and they think it will sell Americans (if nothing else will get them on our side, tell them Communism is creeping in). This view takes the spotlight off the real evil and tries to displace it onto another force. Apartheid is the wrong that feeds the revolution. It's about time public policy reflected public opinion on the South Africa question. Last Thursday the Senate joined the House of Representatives and public opinion by voting to override President Reagan's veto of the South Africa sanctions bill. The bill imposes a curb on new investments in South Africa. A majority of senators voted that Congress had a right to override the executive branch. They were right. For the first time, the Senate has overruled the President's veto. It is long overdue. The American people have disagreed over sanctions, but Congress has finally joined the public in a wide spread dissatisfaction with South Africa. The vote reflects a broad-based and comprehensive sense of the need for action, despite our overriding economic interests in South Africa.

Senator Richard Lugar. The President is dragging far behind his own policy issues. "He's right. But do they undermine his authority any more than he tries to undermine ours by refusing to follow public opinion? The answer is no," Senator Lugar says. "When three reasons can't seem to hold up, it is much easier and perhaps more reasonable for the President to attack our authority than to express any view on this issue — contrary to what the President implies. But the numbers black church and political leaders who beg for sanctions, even as they are being silenced, says enough."

"A revolution could grow out of these sanctions and South Africa could be lost to Communism," Botha and Reagan share this view — maybe they came up with it together — and they think it will sell Americans (if nothing else will get them on our side, tell them Communism is creeping in). This view takes the spotlight off the real evil and tries to displace it onto another force. Apartheid is the wrong that feeds the revolution. It's about time public policy reflected public opinion on the South Africa question. Last Thursday the Senate joined the House of Representatives and public opinion by voting to override President Reagan's veto of the South Africa sanctions bill. The bill imposes a curb on new investments in South Africa. A majority of senators voted that Congress had a right to override the executive branch. They were right. For the first time, the Senate has overruled the President's veto. It is long overdue. The American people have disagreed over sanctions, but Congress has finally joined the public in a wide spread dissatisfaction with South Africa. The vote reflects a broad-based and comprehensive sense of the need for action, despite our overriding economic interests in South Africa.

Senator Richard Lugar. The President is dragging far behind his own policy issues. "He's right. But do they undermine his authority any more than he tries to undermine ours by refusing to follow public opinion? The answer is no," Senator Lugar says. "When three reasons can't seem to hold up, it is much easier and perhaps more reasonable for the President to attack our authority than to express any view on this issue — contrary to what the President implies. But the numbers black church and political leaders who beg for sanctions, even as they are being silenced, says enough."

"A revolution could grow out of these sanctions and South Africa could be lost to Communism," Botha and Reagan share this view — maybe they came up with it together — and they think it will sell Americans (if nothing else will get them on our side, tell them Communism is creeping in). This view takes the spotlight off the real evil and tries to displace it onto another force. Apartheid is the wrong that feeds the revolution. It's about time public policy reflected public opinion on the South Africa question. Last Thursday the Senate joined the House of Representatives and public opinion by voting to override President Reagan's veto of the South Africa sanctions bill. The bill imposes a curb on new investments in South Africa. A majority of senators voted that Congress had a right to override the executive branch. They were right. For the first time, the Senate has overruled the President's veto. It is long overdue. The American people have disagreed over sanctions, but Congress has finally joined the public in a wide spread dissatisfaction with South Africa. The vote reflects a broad-based and comprehensive sense of the need for action, despite our overriding economic interests in South Africa.
If you’re a full-time student at an accredited college or university you can join our Collegiate FlightBank. You’ll receive a membership card and number that will allow you to get 10% off Continental and New York Air’s already low fares. In addition, you’ll get a one-time certificate good for $25 off any domestic roundtrip flight. Plus, you’ll be able to earn trips to places like Florida, Denver, Los Angeles, even London and the South Pacific. Because every time you fly you’ll earn mileage towards a free trip. And if you sign up now you’ll also receive 3 free issues of BusinessWeek Careers magazine.

Or the grand prize, for the number one student referral champion in the nation: a Porsche and one year of unlimited coach air travel.

So cut the coupon, and send it in now. Be sure to include your current full time student I.D. number. That way it’ll only cost you $10 for one year ($15 after 12/31/86) and $40 for four years ($60 after 12/31/86). Your membership kit, including referral forms, will arrive in 3 to 4 weeks. If you have a credit card, you can call us at 1-800-255-4321 and enroll even faster.

Now more than ever it pays to stay in school.

SIGN UP YOUR FRIENDS AND EARN A PORSCHE.

But what’s more, for the 10 students on every campus who enroll the most active student flyers from their college there are some great rewards: 1 free trip wherever Continental or New York Air flies in the mainland U.S., Mexico or Canada.

This Porsche 924 can be yours if you are the national referral champion.

CONTINENTAL & NEW YORK AIR

Some limitations apply for round trip travel and round trip qualifications. Complete terms and conditions of program will accompany membership kit. Certain restrictions apply. Complete form and return to Continental Airlines, Inc., P.O. Box 51097, Houston, TX 77251.

Go for the gold with Collegiate FlightBank. Continental Airlines, Inc. 1-800-255-4321.
This has not been a terrific year for Trinity College.

The first semester barely a month old, but already we've had our share of scandals and embarrassments. And it's not just the usual stuff either. There's been a smattering of everything: sexist slurs, security lapses, and the new infamous lawsuit. And all the ramifications. The Public Relations Department must be pulling out their collective hair.

I offer for your consideration the Campaign for Trinity Gala Affair. What should have been a P.R. field day was ruined by an unexpected downpour in the form of forcing students to brave the rainy weather. Sensibly meant to kick off the largest fundraising effort in the College's history, the affair had all the fixings for the College's biggest fundraising event: black ties, George Will, millions of dollars. And, I almost forget, the Dormant Cheerleaders.

You know, I have to question the wisdom and tact of using the cheerleaders for the sole purpose of telling the tabloids how well we think they are. (Editor's Note: The preceding reference is not meant to disparage the cheerleaders or their fine program). Bearing in mind that the press was invited to the gala, it is a "newspaper," and we mean to disparage the cheerleaders merely another student organization. Their part in all of this is that many of the other athletic departments must be pulling out their hair. I'm not in a position to judge the validity of the criticism, but I do have some problems with respect to Security. Clearly, the incident has exacerbated the friction it seems, to me, self-defeating. It only serves to widen the procedural divide, the incident has created. The widespread condemnation of Crow is extremely unfair and ironic. By using them as scapegoats, the school is committing the very injustice that the perpetrators are alleged to have committed, namely stereotyping and blaming the many for the actions of the few.

And, as if Security didn't already have enough problems, they have emerged from the fracas smelling like something other than a rose. I'm not in a position to judge the validity of the criticism that's been handed on the form, but needing to public perception is frequently more important than fact, the incident has exacerbated an already volatile situation. It remains to be seen what kind of action will be taken by the College with respect to Security. Clearly something more needs to be done.

Given all these incidents, I wouldn't blame the administration for wanting to take a lengthy vacation. Their part in all of this is small and indirect, but like it or not, they'll have to deal with the proverbial toad and mess. I wish them luck.

The preceding reference is not necessarily reflect those of the Tripod Editors and Staff.
CONSCIENTIOUS CAPITALISM

BUILDING TOWARD A POST APARTHEID
SOUTH AFRICA

A KNOWLEDGABLE DISCUSSION WITH A
RENOwnED PANEL OF SPEAKERS

TUESDAY OCT. 7 8 P.M. AUSTIN ARTS 320
RECEPTION TO FOLLOW

YOUNG DEMOCRATS OF TRINITY COLLEGE
ISSUES POLL RESULTS

1. Which of the following issues concerns you the most?
   A. Arms Control. 40.2%
   B. Higher Education and Financial Aid. 11.7%
   C. U.S. Policy towards Central America. 14.1%
   D. Tax Reform. 9.8%
   E. Toxic Waste and Pollution. 8.2%
   F. Drug Abuse. 10.5%
   G. U.S. Policy towards South Africa. 7.3%
   H. The Right to Abortion. 14.8%

2. Do you consider yourself in political matters to be...
   A. Ultra-liberal 7.5%
   B. Liberal 51.8%
   C. Conservative 37.6%
   D. Ultra-conservative 3.1%

3. As a political individual, do you consider yourself to be...
   A. Informed and Active. 19.9%
   B. Informed. 44.7%
   C. Uninformed but interested 27.9%
   D. Uninformed. 7.5%

4. Are you a registered voter?
   A. Yes 61.6%
   B. No 38.4%

Thank you to 232 students surveyed.
SUBMIT YOUR WORK TO:
THE TRINITY
REVIEW

Poetry      Prints      Plays
Drawings      Fiction
Photographs

Anything      Creative!

Deadlines:
Written Work — Nov. 10
Artwork — Nov. 24

Box 4000

The Review accepts submissions from Undergraduate, Graduate, and IDP Students.
More Sports

Playoff Preview:
Hold Onto Your Sox

I was going to pick the Angels and the Astros, but I heard Jimmy the Greek already did that. Then I was going to go Sox-Mets, but that would mean holding horns with the Athenian One, and heaven only doesn't want to do that.

Actually I think this whole idea of picking World Series teams (that is what we're doing here, by the way) is silly, but that aren't we all this time of year? Having been fortunate enough to have seen my team get into and win the Series, I can tell you that there are few better feelings a sports fan can experience. I'm assuming here that most of you are Red Sox fans, and few of you were alive in 1918.

Anyway, I'm not going to pull any punches. Within the month, every Sox fan will realize what it means to have that elusive state of baseball shangri-la: Boston is going to win it all. The Mets fans all just sent their Sox fan in the world will finally experience that elusive state of baseball.

The Sox will win because of the intangibles, read that Don Baylor. I know all about Roger Clemens and his automatic wins, about Jim Rice and his milestone in his first-ever post season appearance, but it is Baylor who is the key to the Red Sox success story. The Octoilads wereudas to let him go a decade ago, the Angels will see him come back to haunt him in the Big A this weekend, and the Yankees we won't even talk about.

Groover's kangaroo court is infamous, his ability to keep a bullpen loose from the inside has been instrumental in winning Boston's first division flag in eleven years. That experience and leadership will play an even more crucial role now that the spotlight is on. Plus the guy has been known to just get a few balls up a few runs.

The first obstacle will be the Angels, who in Mike Witt and Kirk McCaskill have the only 1-2 punch in the AL which can match up with Clemens and The Cat. Add to that a team with more experience than the Kingdom's Home, Wally Joyner, Gary Pettis, a more than capable bullpen and Mr. Tenth Month himself, and you've got a potential powder iag. But unless Dick Schofield becomes the next Buddy Banninkis and the pitching corps of Don Sutton and John Candelaria mix out on the Milk of Magnesia, the Sox should roll.

Over on the senior circuit, the LCS is looking like it could be a game. There's no denying that the Angels have the best staff and the best team in baseball - on paper. Last time I checked, though, there was still carpet in Houston and dive stalls in Shea. While Glocen, Darling, Ojeda, and Fernandez have been outstanding all year, none has ever been in a playoff game, and its a different world.

The Astros, meanwhile, have a staff which can be so good its scary. They clinched the division with three consecutive gems. Jim Deshaies set a record with eight straight strikeouts to open the game. Then Nolan Ryan came a few innings away from a no-hitter. Then Mike Scott showed him how it was done, clinching it with a walks-only outing.

To contrast that, for what its worth, the Mets don't matter unless they get to flush them in. Just be sure to make one big enough to fit Don Baylor's finger - the one with the Midas touch.

The Sox fans, and few of you were alive in 1918.

Liz Barnes of the Trinity Equestrian Club shows her form.

Trinity College Equestrian Club is Riding High

This year's Trinity College Equestrian Club (TCEC) is off to a flying start, with its first intercollegiate competition against Mount Holyoke College on October 15th. This will be the first of four regional shows that are scheduled for this fall. Trinity's region is one of the toughest in the nation, including such competition as Amherst, Worchester/Junker Chair College, Brown, Connecticut College, Smith, Yale, UConn, UMass, and Williams.

The riding season runs through the school year ending with the winning regional teams invited to the National competition in the spring.

Collegiate competition is usually hosted by a competing school with its own stable of horses. Judging is based on equitation in flat and jumping classes. Each class is then divided into levels from beginner walk/trot to advanced three-foot six jumps. Because each team is designated horses from a random drawing, the competition is based only on each rider's skill.

Although Trinity does not have its own riding facilities, there are plans to sponsor a show in the future at Ethel Walker. The club is supported by President Lin Buxton, Vice-President John Fultin, Treasurer Viki Robinson, a growing student membership and the S.G.A. The club's first fund raiser, last semester, was a raffle of David Letterman tickets with backstage passes. Part of the proceeds were donated to the Hartford Mounted police.

NESCAC FOOTBALL SCOREBOARD

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>W</th>
<th>L</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Amherst</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamilton</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TRINITY</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tufts</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Williams</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Middlebury</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colby</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wesleyan</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bates</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bowdoin</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Results —
Williams 27, TRINITY 16
Coast Guard 41, Wesleyan 19
Amherst 24, Middlebury 21
Hamilton 41, Bates 0
Tufts 16, Bowdoin 12
Colby 7, Lowell 6

Trinity's region is one of the toughest in the nation, including such competition as Amherst, Worchester/Junker Chair College, Brown, Connecticut College, Smith, Yale, UConn, UMass, and Williams. The riding season runs through the school year ending with the winning regional teams invited to the National competition in the spring. Collegiate competition is usually hosted by a competing school with its own stable of horses. Judging is based on equitation in flat and jumping classes. Each class is then divided into levels from beginner walk/trot to advanced three-foot six jumps. Because each team is designated horses from a random drawing, the competition is based only on each rider's skill.
M-Runners Win and Lose

by Steven Anderson
Tripod Staff Writer

In the torrential rain of a storm which had descended upon the Berkshire this past Friday, the men's cross-country team ran a gallant if unsuccessful attempt to beat Williams College. The final score was an uneven 18-54 as Williams took the first 2 places. It was small consolation when the Bants emerged victorious over North Adams State, a last second replacement for RPI. Even then, it was by only one point, 37-26. Cross-country may well be the only sport in which you can literally win and lose in the same day.

The 4.8 mile-long course seemed to be one of those proverbial quidswamp cross-country layouts which every runner dreads but which every runner does not really face. The myth became reality on Friday. There was mud everywhere, unmitigated by an uneven 18-54 as Williams took the first 2 places. It was small consolation when the Bants emerged victorious over North Adams State, a last second replacement for RPI. Even then, it was by only one point, 37-26. Cross-country may well be the only sport in which you can literally win and lose in the same day.

The faces of the veteran. He was impervious to the elements. His time of 27:29 was good enough for fourth place. Craig Gemmel, 36 seconds and another Williams runner back, ran his best race of the year thus far. The next Trinity runner to cross the line was Matt Douglass in eleventh place who was more than happy to find that the much talked about Williams mountain was more like a mole hill. Others thought, like Sam Adams who followed on his heels, would find it like a mountain.

The M-Soccer Splits A Pair

by Jeff Proulx
Tripod Staff Writer

Trinity Men's Soccer took to the road last week facing traditionally tough Williams College and Eastern Connecticut State University.

Coach Robin Shaits said he would be happy with a split, and got his wish when the Bants defeated Eastern 1-0 on Wednesday.

The game's lone goal came in the first five minutes, when freshman Mike Murphy threaded a long pass to Chris Hyland, who netted his eighth of the year.

The defense was tenacious, allowing Eastern just six shots on the game.

On Saturday, Trinity travelled to Williamstown to take on the Ephs. Williams scored three goals in the first half and won the game 4-1. The lone Bant goal was notched by Peter Voudouris. Trinity will host Tufts this Saturday at 11AM.

The defense was tenacious, allowing Eastern just six shots on the game.

The Lady Bants are looking ahead to starting another winning streak this week after being their last three games on the road to Curry College, Smith College, and Williams College.

The Trinity women were defeated 5-0 by Smith College last Tuesday and again by the same score at Williams College Saturday. The women's current record is 2 wins and five losses with six more games scheduled before the NIAC tournament, November 1-2.

The Bantons have the most important meet of the season and where the Bants prove their mettle in their own league.

The best story of the day was the emergence of freshmen Bruno Corbett as a top runner in his first race ever. After missing the first two meets with a twisted ankle, he ran at Williams half-injured and still had a very strong showing. Not only that, he will go down in the annals of cross-country running as making one of the most appropriate comments about the sport in a fit of intellectuals just before the first mile.

This Saturday, the top seven men go to the NESCAC league meet which has been moved from Tufts to Bates, translating into another 3 hours of driving. It is to be the most important meet of the season and where the Bants prove their mettle in their own league.

The College View Cafe Sports Scoreboard

THIS WEEK:

TODAY:
WOMEN'S SOCCER vs. Clark, 3:30
Field Hockey at FAIRFIELD, 7

THURSDAY:
FIELD HOCKEY vs. Smith, 3:30
TENNIS vs. UConn, 3:30

FRIDAY:
VOLLEYBALL vs. Albertus Magnus, 5

SATURDAY:
FIELD HOCKEY vs. Conn. College, 11
TENNIS vs. Wesleyan, 10:30
WOMEN'S SOCCER vs. Conn. College, 11
MEN'S SOCCER vs. Tufts, 11
FOOTBALL vs. Tufts, 1:30
Men's & Women's Cross Country — NESCAC
Meet at Bates, 1

SUNDAY:
Crew at the Head of the Connecticut

College View Athlete Of The Week

The College View Athlete of the Week is Robin Wentz. The senior from Morristown, NJ won both her singles and doubles matches on Saturday. Despite being the last Trinity player to finish her singles match, she still had enough left to help the Lady Bants to a 5-4 victory over Williams.

RESULTS:

Football — 16, Williams — 27
Men's Soccer — 1, Eastern Conn. — 0
Men's Soccer — 1, Williams — 4
Women's Soccer — 0, Smith — 5
Women's Soccer — 0, Williams — 5
Field Hockey — 4, Amherst — 0
Field Hockey — 2, Williams — 1 (OT)
Men's Cross Country — lost to Williams, def. N. Adams State
Women's Cross Country — 2nd in Mt. Holyoke Invitational
Tennis — 5, Williams — 4
Water Polo — 13, Wesleyan — 12
Water Polo — 17, Clark — 8
Water Polo — 11, Bridgewater St. — 15

TONIGHT IS $3 PITCHER NIGHT AT THE VIEW
Hockey Wins Two Squeakers

by Hope Williams
Staff Writer

The field hockey squad was on the road this week. On Wednesday the team travelled to Amherst, where a 0-4 did not appear to be a major threat. However, Amherst came out strong and scored two quick goals. Coach Bob Shaw stated that Trinity’s slow start was a “group slump.” The Lady Bantams finally scored with fourteen minutes left in the first half. On a direct free play, Laura Vonnegut stopped the ball and got a strong drive off which was tipped on by Eleanor Hochulower. However, at the half Amherst led 2-1.

At two and a half minutes into the second half, Ann Miller scored with an assist from Ginny Vegel to tie the game. The Lady Bantams began to pull themselves together and managed to put an end to Amherst’s field dominance. At the 55th minute, the Bantams took the lead when Gail Wehrli finished close behind to put the Bantams up 3-2. Wehrli capped off her attack with a beautiful diving catch. The Lady Bantams hope to once again have the inside position on their opponents and move closer towards the “second great play of the season.”

Williams Drops the Bomb on the Bantams

by Gabe Harris
Sporst Editor

The Trinity Bantams got a taste of their own medicine last Saturday, as the Williams Ephmen overcame two turnovers and two scoring passes worth of bitter tonic into a 27-6 victory in Williamstown.

The loss dropped the Bantams’ record to 3-1, Williams is 2-1 as well.

“We didn’t come into the game the way you have to come into a big game like this,” said coach Don Miller. “I don’t remember a team coming into a Williams game so lackadaisical.”

The Bantams jumped out to an early 7-0 lead, but Bates learned last week that doesn’t guarantee a victory. Williams sophomore quarterback Scott Kennedy led the offense, completing 17 of 33 passes for 189 yards and two touchdowns. Both of those scoring strikes went to John Shaw, whose five catches for 189 yards accounts for more than half of the Eph’s offense. Trinity had plenty of chances, but on three consecutive visits inside the Williams 20 yard line in the second half, they fumbled, only able to come up with three punts.

The Bantams took the ball over on the fourth play of the game and promptly drove 48 yards in eight plays for the score. Ted Sherman executed a third touchdown pass of the year on a 13 yard slant from Dan Tighe (17:35, 167 yards, 2TD).

The Williams defense stiffened after the initial drive, though, and Trinity was able to not just nine more yards in offense for the remainder of the half. Meanwhile the Ephmen were grounding out yardage, totaling 40 for the half. Freshman tailback Nest CHEsley was the workhorse, racking up 56 yards in 14 carries. But the only score came on a 66 yard touchdown run by Shaw and midway through the second quarter.

The two teams were scoreless in the third quarter. The closest the Bantams came to tying the game was when they recovered a Stintor fumble at the 29. The Bantams put up a solid drive behind Tim Jen Nagy, but he was dragged out of bounds just short of the marker.

Then the fireworks began, as Williams took the lead when Dan Tighe hit Rich Nagy for 86 yards. “It was lock-on coverage, where I play under-center,” said cornerback Mike Lawman, who was on the field. “I feel so deep, you’re always taking a gamble when you hit.” The gamble backfired, as Shaw caught a perfectly thrown ball, broke Dolan’s diving tackle, and raced to the end zone.

Williams effectively sealed the game when Dave Clawson (who had also blocked the punt earlier) intercepted a Tighe pass at the Bantam 27. Streiter scored again on the play. Their lead was 27-7 after the kick failed.

Williams did put more on the board, as Shannon grabbed a 10 yard lob from Tighe in the closing moments, but it was not nearly enough.

The Ephmen were working for the big plays when they had the ball, and against us when we had the ball, said split-end Dan Frenzaliga, who had six catches for 66 yards. “Both ways they big plays killed us.”

“They came out ready for us,” said Sheppard. “I think we’re a better team, but I guess that doesn’t matter much in the end.”

The Bantams will try to bounce back this Saturday, as they entertain the Purple Cows. Williams at 5-2 was not going to be a quick win. “It was a highly contested, tightly called, and low scoring game,” said Sheppard. “Each team would start to penetrate and create mini-battles on the field.”

The game remained scoreless for thirty minutes until Celinda Shannon scored the ball in front of the Williams goal. The goalkeeper made the save but Diane Christie was there for the rebound and scored to give the Lady Bants the lead at 1-0. Shephard hooded it as the “second great play of the season.”

For fifteen minutes into the second half the Lady Bants held onto the lead but a fast Williams right wing with a solo broadband hold possession of the ball for 65 yards and scored to tie the game 1-1. Elise Pierce had some excellent shots off of direct corners even with tough pressure from Williams but the forward line could not capitalize on the rebounds.

The game went into ten minute overtime with only 35 seconds left, Jordan Brewer scored with an assist from Celinda Shannon. “Celinda had an excellent season,” said Sheppard. “Celinda Jones played well. She generated some big plays at both left and cental, led Jones right wing and put the Bantams right wing, the best player on their team.”

At 7-0, the Lady Bants have had some close calls. However, the next two games, Smith on Thursday and Connecticut College on Saturday, are on home turf. Come Saturday the squad try to remain undefeated and gain a coveted spot at the NICAN tournaments.