To Trinity Alumni:

By this time we are well into the one hundred twenty-ninth academic year of the College. In a few more days, half of the 1951 football season will have gone by, the Sophomore Hop will have been held or thrown (annually, the proper verb becomes apparent only in retrospect), and even the hardiest of our undergraduates will have formed the conclusion that the climate of Hartford in late October calls for clothing a little more substantial than summer sports jackets. Text books have all been purchased, R.O.T.C. uniforms have come or are arriving, no more changing of courses is permitted and classes have thus settled down to something like a normal routine, and Dean Clarke’s very commendable social program for the Freshmen has shown the Class of 1955 the road to Northampton. The fraternities have chosen their pledges, and both groups are justifiably happy about the results. For reasons that evade my comprehension, students still ride in automobiles from the houses on Vernon Street to the Chapel and to classes. In short, the old order has not changed so very much since the days of many of you.

There is, however, one distinctive aspect of the fall of 1951 which all of you, if you come here, would perceive and, I am sure, regret. We do not have enough dormitory space. There are 922 undergraduates registered at the College this year, 614 of whom are in residence on the campus. Perhaps it is true that we have not yet reached but are only approaching the point where the overcrowding becomes a serious, not to say, critical problem. Certainly we are getting closer to that point from year to year at far too rapid a rate. Consider, for instance, that to maintain the optimum size of our student body we shall have to enroll 250 freshmen next year in the Class of 1956 and that only 121 beds will be released when the present Seniors are graduated. You will agree with me, I think, that the acquiring of more dormitory space is a paramount need at Trinity.

Then, too, the perennial needs of a college, dollars and boys, exist in the middle of the century just as they did at its beginning and as they will exist at its end. Faculty salaries, despite increases during the summer which in themselves oblige us to call on you for your help in the Alumni Fund, are by no means what one might call handsome. Rising costs and a fixed income tell an old story and one that does not have a humorous side for those of us who wish to preserve the values of privately controlled education.

At the same time, I see much from day to day at Trinity that pleases me and of which we can all be proud. We have a fine, alert Faculty and a well-planned curriculum. The student body will compare favorably with any that you remember from your time on the Hilltop. Ted Thomas and the College Senate under his presidency, to single out one group, are providing student leadership of a high caliber. We all like what we have seen of the new Freshman class which is rapidly being assimilated and which, I have no doubt, will give a good account of itself as the years go by.

Finally, I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the good wishes that so many of you have sent to me for my stint as Acting President. You know, history shows that an interrex has at least a fifty-fifty chance of doing a good job. I promise you that I shall do everything in my power to advance the welfare of Trinity College. In return, I bespeak your continued support and cooperation for whatever interregnum ensues until President Funston’s successor has been chosen.

VOLUME XLVIII NEW SERIES NUMBER 8 (November, 1951)
Hughes Is Named Acting President; Brainard, Chairman of Board; Moses, Treasurer

For the second time Dean Arthur H. Hughes has accepted the office of Acting President and will serve until President Funston’s successor has been chosen. The trustee committee to select a new president consisting of A. Northey Jones, ’17, chairman; Newton C. Brainard, H. ’46; Lyman B. Brainerd, ’30; Martin W. Clement, ’01; Harold L. Smith, ’23; James B. Webber, Jr., ’34 and Dr. Jerome P. Webster, ’10, have held three meetings and although progress has been made it appears that it will be some time before the committee will be in a position to recommend a successor.

At the Trustees’ October meeting, the Board elected Newton C. Brainard chairman and G. Keith Funston, ’32, a life trustee. A. Henry Moses, ’28, was named Treasurer and J. Kenneth Robertson was appointed Comptroller.

Dean Hughes joined the faculty in 1935 as an instructor in German. He was promoted to Assistant Professor in 1938 and became Dean in 1941. When the late President Remsen B. Ogilby died in August 1945, Dean Hughes held the office of Acting President until President Funston was released from the Navy in the fall of 1945. Dean Hughes was also promoted to the rank of Associate Professor of German in 1944 and the following year to Professor of Modern Languages. He has done extensive research and writing on nineteenth century German literature. A member of the committee on institutions of higher education of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, he is also chairman of the committee on accreditation of the Connecticut Council on Higher Education.

Mr. Brainard is the senior member of the Board of Trustees having been elected thirty years ago. A trusted friend and counselor to both President Ogilby and President Funston, he has always been a tower of strength and has never failed to give unstintingly of his advice and time. He is a member of the Executive Committee, the Grounds and Buildings Committee, the Memorials Committee and the Joint Committee on Educational Policy.

President Funston served as an ex-officio member of the Board of Trustees while at College the past six years. He left the Hilltop on September 7 to assume the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange and is living at Vineyard Lane, Greenwich, Conn. His election to the Board fills the vacancy created by the death of the late William G. Mather, ’77.

Mr. Moses, vice president and cashier of the Ætna Life Affiliated Companies, undertook the treasurership on a voluntary basis in his capacity as a trustee following the resignation of Joseph W. Getzendarmer, Jr., to become assistant comptroller of the National City Bank of Cleveland.

The actual operation of the college’s business affairs will be under the direction of Comptroller J. Kenneth Robertson. A graduate of Yale, he received his Master of Business Administration degree from Harvard Business School in 1932. Since 1943 he has been business manager of Taft School.

Chapel Is Play Scene

Next spring the Jesters plan to produce “Murder in the Cathedral” by T. S. Eliot in the College Chapel, and “The Importance of Being Earnest” by Oscar Wilde for the weekend of the Senior Prom.

An amplifying system for music and sound effects is being built and it is hoped that a portable switchboard can be constructed to facilitate the lighting of the shows in Alumni Hall.

The Jesters will also welcome any contributions of modern or old costumes, materials, draperies, properties or furniture to augment their small collection. There is almost nothing which cannot, at one time or another, be used in a play! Please contact James S. Stanley, ’52, President, or Mr. George Nichols, Faculty Advisor.

Debaters Active

The Athenaeum Society, under the direction of John Wynne, ’52, President, and Mr. John Dando, Faculty Advisor, plans another active season with many intra-club debates for Freshmen and new members and outside competition against Georgetown, Bucknell, and Rutgers.
Alumni are assuming such an ever greater importance in American colleges that you will want to know how the alumni office at Trinity is operated.

Undoubtedly the most important single phase of the work is the keeping of accurate records. Certainly the most troublesome aspect of this work is keeping addresses up to date. Without accurate addresses of all its alumni, an alumni office might as well not exist. Knowing who the alumni are does little good if one cannot communicate with them. The alumni body at Trinity runs just under five thousand now, and our records over the past few years indicate that somewhere between twelve and fifteen hundred change address each year. It seems impossible, and yet it is true. We have set up special methods of tracing alumni when we learn that they have left one address, but we have not been informed of the new one. This tracing system has proven so effective that on any general mailing to alumni we show only a one to three percent error. This requires constant attention, however, and takes considerable time.

Each alumnus has a folder filed by class, and into this folder goes information which the college receives about the individual. Autobiographical data is requested of each alumnus at regular intervals, so that we may keep our records up to date.

A second phase of the alumni office work has been the organization of various alumni groups and liaison with other groups. The alumni in 1948 adopted a constitution for the Alumni Association of the college, which provided for a strong Executive Committee of alumni to oversee the program of the Alumni Association from year to year. This office has worked closely with that group in organizing the Alumni Fund. Mr. John Butler who also helped in this program is now the Executive Secretary of the Fund.

The alumni office has been responsible for carrying out the plans for June reunions under the guidance of an alumni committee. This has been in line with the policy of the Executive Committee. They have brought alumni into the planning stage of many of their programs, and the alumni secretary has acted as a secretary to the various committees rather than a director. The advice and counsel of alumni is always sought for it is only by having the alumni active and interested in the operation of the college that this work can be effective. Other results of this have been the strengthening of local associations, new local associations, establishment of alumni interviewing programs in various areas, and the holding of Sub-Freshman dinners in larger cities.

Probably the individual alumnus is most interested in knowing what goes on at the college. This phase of the work is done by all of the members of the faculty and administration at the college and certainly cannot be claimed solely by the alumni office. However, the alumni office does try to coordinate these efforts so that the flow of mail particularly will be distributed evenly during the year. In addition to the Alumni News, President's report, and other regular publications which are sent to all alumni, we try to write alumni on matters of personal note to them, so that they will realize that the college takes a very real interest in them. It has often been said that a college is interested in its alumni only when it wants them to give money. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Certainly, that is a consideration, because a college is not a business and cannot make profits and build up surpluses—but a college is judged by the men the faculty moulds—its alumni, their contributions to all of humanity, to business and professional life and to their community. No college could long survive if the alumni were not successful after they left the college, and if they did not retain their interest in the college.

It would be ideal if the college could keep up with the progress of each and every alumnus, but with the number nearly five thousand today, it is virtually an impossible task. One factor which should aid materially in this endeavor is the recent formation of the Class Secretaries Association. This group can perform a real service in keeping the college informed about the career of each alumnus, and of organizing each class so that the members are in closer touch with one another.

There is one field which we at Trinity have not adequately covered as yet, though some progress has been made along these lines since the war. That is the preparation of the undergraduate for his role as an alumnus. If all but the most recent graduates will think back to their years as undergraduates, I am sure they will recall that little or nothing was done to tell them of how they could retain their active interest in the college after graduation. Many alumni of course retained a natural interest and were most willing to help, but were not aware of local associations and of the various ways in which they could express this interest. We are trying now starting with freshmen week to tell the students something about this work. In the spring of

Admissions – Alumni Trips Planned

Bert Holland and Bill Peelle are again making visits this fall and winter to midwestern, Eastern seaboard and New England Schools in order to interview prospective applicants for the Class of 1956. Bert left Hartford on November 4 for seven weeks and will stop in twenty-two cities to call at seventy-eight schools and to speak at ten Alumni meetings. The week of January 14 Bert will be calling at schools in the New York City area and starting February 4 he will be in central New Jersey for ten days. His assistant, Bill Peelle, will visit thirty-five New England schools this fall, and after the first of the year visit Washington and Philadelphia.

Bert plans to spend a week in Chicago commencing November 16 and will have many interviews with Illinois Scholarship applicants as well as meeting with the Chicago Alumni Association on Monday, November 19. Prior to this visit he will have been in Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit calling at schools and speaking at Alumni Meetings.

After leaving Chicago on November 23, Bert will address Alumni Meetings in Milwaukee on the 26th; Minneapolis on the 28th and in St. Louis on the 30th. In December he will stop in Springfield, Mattoon, Decatur, Champaign, Bloomington, Peoria, Galesburg, Rock Island, Rockford, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh with an Alumni Meeting in the latter city on December 18.

In January, Bert will be making calls in the New York City area from the 14th to the 22nd, and from February 4th to the 13th he will be traveling in Northern New Jersey.

College Receives Two Scholarships; Bequest

Two scholarships given by Mrs. Karl W. Hallden of Thomaston, Conn., and Mr. Ralph Kolodney of Hartford and a bequest by the late William Tyler Olcott, '96, have recently been received by the College.

Mrs. Hallden's scholarship is for graduates of Thomaston High School while Mr. Kolodney's will be awarded to an outstanding man from the Hartford area. The first recipient is Ronald E. McGowan of West Hartford, a graduate of William Hall High School.

By the terms of Mr. Olcott’s will his bequest will be used to establish the William Tyler Olcott Endowment Fund, the income from which is to be used to promote interest in the observational branch of astronomical work in the College.

Eleven Appointed Faculty Members

Hughes Commends Students in Annual Report

"I commend most sincerely our student body of 1950-51 for a courageous performance under fire," states Dean Arthur H. Hughes in his annual report for the past academic year. "Who could have blamed the average college student if he had succumbed to the temptation to end his studies in a splurge of gaiety and girls? Why not eat, drink, and be merry? No matter what college deans and faculty advisers might say, his fate in the immediate future was apparently to be determined by the fortunes of our arms up and down the Korean peninsula. Very little in the way of encouragement was to be found in the daily front-page reports by and about Selective Service, Quo Vadis was the question in a young man's mind, and the answer was likely to be an outlandish and oriental place-name."

"In the face of such incertitude, our students acquitted themselves very well indeed. There was no hysteria here, no extreme pessimism. The academic record was much better than usual and there was considerable evidence of seriousness of purpose to be noted in the campus life of our undergraduates. The uncertainties of last year continue to exist and to beset the young man who seeks to begin and complete a college education, but I shall feel reassured and optimistic about the future careers of our incoming students if they react as bravely and sanely as did the undergraduates for the year just ended.

"After having soared in 1949-50 to the highest point (77.4) ever recorded at the College, the average grade of the student body was inevitably and understandably destined to decline toward its normal level even if international affairs had not had an adverse effect on the morale of our undergraduates. I am pleased and in retrospect somewhat surprised to be able to report that the decline was but a small one (76.6) and that the academic performance of Trinity students was one of the best on record for the post-war years.

"It is particularly gratifying to note that the average grade of fraternity men was higher than the figure for the College as a whole. That had never happened before the academic year 1949-50 and now it has happened for two years running. It can hardly be an unrelated and fortuitous coincidence that our plan for deferred rushing was instituted by the Interfraternity Council just two years ago. Tau Alpha, for the second successive year, was the winner of the Fraternity Scholarship Cup with an 80.8 average while the other houses were ranked as follows: Commons Club; Alpha Chi Rho; Sigma Nu; Delta Phi; Theta Xi; Psi Upsilon; Alpha Delta Phi; Delta Psi; and Delta Kappa Epsilon.

"There were 107 men who obtained Dean's List average of 85% or better in February and 111 in June. The corresponding figures in 1949-50 were 126 and 153. During the academic year we lost 74 students, whereas the number had been only 39 in 1949-50. Twenty-three men were required to withdraw as compared to 17 a year ago while 72 were placed on probation as compared to 55 in 1949-50.

"Economics retained for the fifth successive year its position as our most popular major subject and fluctuations were otherwise minor for the most part and without significance. Three years ago, however, there were twice as many Engineering majors as we had last year, and the sizeable drop has been due largely to the deliberate policy adopted by Engineering educational associations for the purpose of discouraging large enrollments in that area. It is to be hoped that the serious problems growing out of the nation's rearmament program will serve to focus attention once more on the importance of pre-professional training in Engineering.

"We can take pride that the average number of students in the 246 sections of the 143 courses offered in the Christmas Term was 17.3. This is the lowest point yet achieved by us in post-war years. Undoubtedly, we were in a position to give a considerable amount of individualized instruction and personal attention to our students.

"During the year the Curriculum Committee and the Faculty approved the adding of three new half-courses (Problems of American Security; Gems and Gem Minerals; and Psychology of Personality) to the course of study. Two half-courses (Statistical Methods and Procedures in Research; and Numerical Mathematical Analysis) were similarly added to the Evening School program. The History major requirements were revised and a few small changes were made in the degree requirements. Considerable thought was devoted to the College curriculum by our entire faculty, however, since each department was requested to audit its course offerings on a form prepared and circulated by the Curriculum Committee. The result has been a most useful and enlightening compendium of well-weighed and integrated information regarding the function within a department of each of our College courses and also the particular value of each course in a liberal arts curriculum.

We have also received and recorded the departmental recommendations that constitute a unified plan for the curtailment of course offerings
Endowed Income and Gift Increases

Balance Budget Despite Fee Drop

In his final report as Treasurer, Joseph W. Getzendanner, Jr., states that the College has closed its books with an excess of income over expense of $4,259 for the fiscal year of 1950-51 ending June 30. Mr. Getzendanner is resigning as treasurer and comptroller to become assistant comptroller of the National City Bank of Cleveland. He came to Trinity in January, 1946, as comptroller succeeding Roger R. Eastman, '24, and in April 1947 he was elected treasurer when the late Owen Morgan, '06, resigned the position.

Mr. Getzendanner reports that tuition and fee income declined by $48,000 due to smaller enrollments, but this was offset by a $43,000 increase in investment income and an $11,000 increase in gift income, including the Alumni Fund.

Total income was $1,235,735 which is an increase of $8,500 over last year. Rising costs brought the total expenses and appropriations to $1,231,476 or an increase of $8,700 over the preceding year. Instruction and scholarships were the two items of expense showing a marked increase over 1949-50. Increased salaries, annuity and social security taxes, and a provision for sabbatical leave resulted in an increase of $59,000. InInstruction to make it 48.6% of total Educational and General Expense. Scholarships increased from $38,500 to $61,000.

On January 1, 1951, the College began participation in the Federal Social Security Program. This was added to the existing faculty and non-academic retirement plans and will be of considerable help in providing more adequate retirement allowances. The total cost of the combined pension and group insurance plans now amounts to $40,000 per year.

Construction for the new library began last November and it is scheduled for completion next February at a total cost estimated at $1,210,000. The funds for the building have been provided from the Old Dominion Foundation Gift of $817,000; the George N. Hamlin bequest of $345,000; and other gifts and interest of $48,000.

The addition of the new library raised the question of the safe operation of the central heating plant. A survey showed it was essential to add a third boiler and auxiliary equipment to the heating plant building. This project was completed in October at the approximate cost of $160,000 and is being financed by a $58,000 charge to the reserves for rehabilitation, annuity payments, veterans' tuition pending audit, and group life insurance which are no longer needed for their original purpose, a $27,000 allocation to the new library building, a $40,000 capital improvement charge to this year's operations, and the balance to be paid by an additional bank loan.

Endowment funds increased by $344,000 during the year, including $189,000 in gifts and bequests, $149,000 in profits on the sale of securities, and $4,000 transferred from the 125th Anniversary Development Program. The rate of return on consolidated investments was 5.28% on book and 4.42% on market value.

Bank loans stood at $114,000 at the end of the year as against $137,000 last year, and government bond collateral of $135,000 is posted against these loans.
Dan Jessee Produces Another Speedy Eleven

Paced by fleet-footed Al Magnoli and powerful Hum DelMastro, Captain Bill Goralski's forty-five man squad rolled towards another successful season with victories over Dickinson, Hobart, Colby and Middlebury. The speedy Hilltoppers were outplayed in the second game, however, when the undefeated Cadets of New London's Coast Guard Academy turned back the Blue and Gold with a well-earned 27-19 victory. The Cadets' hard charging team scored two touchdowns in the second quarter and held off the aroused Bantams in the final period.

This year's team is one of the speediest ever to wear the Blue and Gold. Despite a wave of injuries to Captain Goralski, Tom DePatie, Art French, John Wentworth, Bill Laufer and Harold Wynkoop the attack has never failed to lose any of its dazzle and explosiveness, particularly in the early moments of the Colby and Middlebury games. Determined to rack up the first win over the Colby Mules, Magnoli and DelMastro each scored a touchdown in the first two minutes, and against Middlebury's Panthers the same players and Castellani each made a touchdown before the first seven minutes.

When the squad reported to Dan Jessee and his assistant, Art Christ, early in September, the quarterback position was the big question mark. Brilliant field general and ace passer, Eddie Ludorf, had graduated and the draft had taken Bernie Lawlor and Sam Nakaso to other fields. Dan turned to Bill Vibert, dexterous punter and drop kicker, and George Smith, a rugged end. Bill has shown steady improvement and at mid-season had passed for 428 yards more than any Connecticut player. Incidentally, he has made 96 conversions after touchdowns in his four years of play.

The line has been bolstered by the return of rangy Dick Aiken, who caught the winning pass against Wesleyan two years ago. And Dick still knows how to punt. Red Ratcliffe is capably filling last year's Captain Whitey Oberg's center position while veterans Bernie Bogoslofski, Eddie Kulas, Dave Smith, John Wentworth, Dave Simmons and Chuck McElwee have been towers of strength in the line. Sophomore tackles Ed Palmer and Paul Arcari, and guard Bill Crenson have come along fast.

In the season's opener against Dickinson College, a new opponent and star captain, Bill Goralski, with a shoulder injury, and his substitute, Tom DePatie, who received a deep spike wound in his leg. Both teams scored twice in the third period, with Aiken and Magnoli leading the Blue and Gold offense. Vibert climaxed an 86 yard drive in the last quarter for the Bantam's final score. The Cadets turned back a final Hilltopper drive deep in their own territory as the game ended—Coast Guard 27 Trinity 19.

With Bill Goralski on the bench, Al Magnoli scored twice as Hobart fell 26-0. Bill Vibert mixed his plays well as Trin ground out nearly 300 yards in rushing. Chuck McElwee and George Smith each made a timely pass interception while Hum DelMastro's powerful rushes continually split the Hobart line.

Trin's offense rolled swiftly against Colby as the team pushed over four touchdowns in the first quarter and two more in the second period for a 41-0 victory. DelMastro, who scored twice, displayed one of the most brilliant rushing streaks ever seen on Trinity Field averaging 19.5 yards on the six occasions he carried the ball. Bill Goralski showed his old speed also, but was hurt late in the first period after making a touchdown. Al Magnoli made a fine forty yard run for a score while Dick Aiken caught two passes for touchdowns. The Blue and Gold line completely bottled the Colby attack which only once threatened to tally.

The Tripod says

"As we look at all these miserable incidents which are occurring in colleges all over the country today, we realize how lucky we are to be at Trinity. Watching a football game at Trinity Field, or a basketball game at Memorial Field House, we get a strong feeling of pride at the fact that, as a friend from Long Island University told us, 'There's no money in betting on Trinity games.' Not enough interest, he called it. Well, the kind of interest the games at Bradley and LIU and CCNY received at Trinity would rather not have. Sports on the hilltop are clean, and that's the way we hope they stay."
Soccer Team Takes Mid-Season Lead in New England Booters League

Led by Co-Captains Fin Schaef of Philadelphia and Putty Scott of West Hartford, the team opened its eight game schedule with convincing wins over Worcester Tech (4-1), Massachusetts Institute of Technology (3-1), Tufts (4-1), and the University of Massachusetts (1-0). Despite the graduation of "All New England" Co-Captain Cort Nelson, Ted Lauterwasser, Co-Captain Ralph Marshall, Lou Raden and Cliff Stark, the addition of ten sophomores up from 1950's undefeated freshman team has given the squad a tremendous lift. One of these second year men, Neil Mutschler of Rochester, N. Y., has an excellent knowledge of the game which he put into effect by racking up five goals in the first three games. Cautious Lloyd McDonald, now in his second year of coaching on the Hilltop, admits that he has a better balanced team than last year's. "We have more depth on the bench even though we lack experience in some positions," says the former All-American player. "If the team will continue to work together, it will develop rapidly and Yale, Amherst and Wesleyan will all be in for a tussle."

Veteran halfbacks Bob Almquist and Dick Hunter have been consistently playing well. Hunter was our last season with a broken arm, and fractured a toe early this fall. Dick Marshall, brother of Ralph, last year's Co-Captain, has shown much improvement in his play at center halfback while another sophomore, Dave McKenzie at left fullback has been very aggressive and alert.

Coach McDonald shifted Maury Prentice at guard; Frank Lentz, center; John Prentice and Bob Thomas at guard; Frank Lentz, Cliff Thatcher and Bill Rhodes at tackle have all come along well. Fred Booth has been forced to shift Lou Magelaner from end to quarter-back on the offense. Ed Coburn, Dave Dimling and Ed Lindemeyer are the leading end prospects with the latter showing much promise on the offense.

On Campus

The greatest number of young men in college history traveled the Long Walk toward first classes as 922 students enrolled for the 129th year of the College.

That the college was larger, not smaller, than a year ago resulted from admission of a Freshman class of 290, accepted last spring when it seemed that at least 200 upperclassmen would be drafted.

As the Tripod philosophized, "the unfortunate situation is indeed nobody's fault. None of our administrators have been lucky enough to be crystal ball gazers by profession or avocation."

Simultaneously, Trinity's successful effort to enlarge the percentage of resident students reached a full cycle of four classes, resulting in overcrowding of campus living quarters. The big Jarvis suites were doubled up to four and five men each. There were extra bunks even in some of the minimum spaced rooms of new Elton Hall. And seven unlucky sophomores who failed to make room requests last spring slept in the kitchen of the new college-owned Commons Club House, 118 Vernon Street, for the first two weeks.

But it was a different story in the classroom. The student-faculty ratio has slipped by less than a point. It stands at one teacher to twelve students. The average size of a section is still at a highly commendable "less than twenty" figure although the Dean's office has been too busy to figure the exact average.

Thanks to a general faculty raise given in anticipation of an increased 1952 Alumni Fund, the classes are still taught by some of the nation's finest teachers. But the administration is still worried about where to get the money for further increases which will probably have to be given to keep the Faculty quality up.

As the skeleton of the new Library was closed in with brick and brownstone, and the steel girders for the roof were lifted into place by a huge crane, students and faculty alike looked forward eagerly to the tremendous increase in scholarly opportunity which it will offer. Their enthusiasm seemed to affect research in old Williams Memorial where a senior professor remarked that he had "never before seen so much activity in the Library."

There were other indications that '51-52 would be a memorable year. The Freshman Class of 1955 organized a "Beanie Binge" class dance on the first Saturday night of the year. By the third week, they had traveled seventy strong on their first intercollegiate party at Smith. Date books were filling for the five major social weekends of the year. The student radio station, WRTC, opened the year in newly redecorated studios in the basement of Cook dormitory. Their library, with well over half of the student body enrolled for Air Science there is a decidedly military atmosphere in the quadrangle on Monday afternoon drill periods.

Yes, it looks like a big year on the Hilltop—one of opportunity for 922 young men.

New Officers Named

Donald B. Engley, left, associate librarian for the past two years, has succeeded Dr. Arthur Adams as Librarian. A graduate of Amherst and Columbia's Library School, he is president-elect of the Connecticut Library Association. J. Kenneth Robertson, right, succeeds Joseph W. Getzendanner, Jr., as Comptroller. Faculty Profiles

F. WOODBRIDGE CONSTANT

When Dr. Henry A. Perkins retired in June 1946 after forty-three years of faithful teaching as well as serving twice as acting President, the Faculty lost one of its most brilliant scholars and able teachers. Dr. Perkins' teaching was known throughout the country and hundreds of students could never forget the unfailing courteous gentlemanly qualities of the beloved Jarvis Professor of Physics.

The following September Dr. F. Woodbridge Constant of Duke University came to succeed him. His background of study—undergraduate, Princeton, Phi Beta Kappa; B.S. 1925; graduate, Sloan and Loomis Fellow, Yale, Ph.D. 1928; and National Research Fellow at California Institute of Technology, 1928-1930; plus eleven years of teaching at Duke University with the rank of Instructor, Assistant Professor and Associate Professor made him eminently qualified to be in charge of Jarvis Physics Laboratory.

One might think that such an extensive scholastic background would make a man one-sided in his leaning towards "heat, light and sound." But the visitor to Dr. Constant's office is immediately impressed by the kindly professor's keen wit and ready smile. A manly mountain climber, he loves the outdoors and particularly relishes the opportunity to take his wife, Betty, and nine year boy, Freddy, on camping trips.

During the recent war Dr. Constant was an Official Investigator and Research Physicist for the OSRD, for which he received a certificate of merit. A Fellow of the American Physical Society and American Association for the Advancement of Science, he was instrumental in bringing Sigma Pi Sigma, national physics fellowship society to the campus two years ago. Dr. Constant was extremely active while at Duke in Sigma Xi being Secretary, Vice President and President of the chapter there.

Dr. Constant has published several articles in the Physical Review, and is an authority on magnetics and magnetism. He is a popular lecturer—his topic 'Peacetime Applications of Atomic Energy' with demonstrations has gained wide interest.

Last spring Dr. Constant and Larry Barrett, '51, constructed a small teaching cyclotron which is a machine that produces a stream of fast moving protons, or deuterons. He points out that universities with their multimillion dollar and multimillion volt cyclotrons have done most of the dramatic research work, but there are many holes in our knowledge of nuclear physics and we may be able to fill some of them in.

With his spirit of pioneering, with his scholarly background, and with his many sterling qualities, the Physics Department is indeed in strong and able hands.

JOHN DANDO

The Faculty has had many able new Instructors join its ranks recently. One of them, John Dando of Rawdon, Canada, brings to the English Department considerable experience in the teaching of contemporary literature and speech. He also brings to the campus a vast knowledge of radio techniques, having his own program on Montreal Station CKVI, "Great Men of Letters" a weekly half-hour talk on outstanding figures in British, American and European Literature.

This program is now in its fifth year, and is produced by transcription when Mr. Dando is on the Hilltop.

Another side of this affable, pipe smoking, bachelor instructor is his acting ability, for he has taken leading roles with the Montreal Shakespeare Society and the Montreal Repertory Theatre. In 1947 he played the leading role in the latter's production of "Amphitryon '38" which won the Canadian Drama Festival award as the best play in English that year. He also directs plays, having been in charge of a series of Elizabethan productions while instructing at McGill University.

Born in Stafford, England, during World War I, Mr. Dando came to Canada at the age of six and graduated from McGill in 1938. He taught English and French at his Alma Mater; became director of Drama and Speech at West Hill High School, Montreal in 1940; and then returned to McGill as Lecturer in English while studying for his master's degree. In 1948 he received a Fellowship to continue his work for the doctorate at Columbia.

It is easy to see that radio is Mr. Dando's great delight. Besides his "Great Men of Letters" program, his CBS series of Bible Stories was a 1949 award winner in the annual Ohio State University Exhibition of Educational Programs. And last April 8 he began his series "Behind the Pages" every Sunday afternoon at 1:15 over Station WTIC. This program gives the listener an opportunity to hear not only critical reviews of great literature but also the literature itself.

Mention must be made that Mr. Dando has also a reputation as a writer. His "Builders of a Nation"—the biographies of seven Canadian statesmen—has had its second printing.

Mr. Dando also finds time to advise the Atheneum Society, the venerable debating organization. Already a marked increase in this student activity has been seen.

May this versatile young man long continue to spread his knowledge 'Neath the Elms.
George C. Capen, '10 Heads Alumni Fund.

For $50,000

Hugh S. Campbell, '32, President of the National Alumni Association, has announced that George C. Capen, '10, will head the 1952 Alumni Fund campaign. A former National Alumni President, member of the Board of Fellows, and Alumnus Trustee, Mr. Capen is well known to hundreds of Trinity men for his unflagging interest in the College's welfare ever since his undergraduate days.

George Malcolm-Smith, '25, will be the Fund Vice Chairman; Sidney H. Whipple, '20, Chairman of Special Gifts; and L. Barton Wilson, III, '37, Chairman of Promotion.

This year the Fund will open in November. The earlier opening has been requested by alumni who believe many would like to take advantage of year-end giving and who feel that more contributions can be secured over a longer period of time.

The goal is $50,000, an increase of $15,000 over last year's fund. The Campaign Committee will ask for increased gifts from past contributors and for a larger percentage of participation from the 4,800 alumni.

The annual Class Agent's Dinner was held on October 26 in Hamlin Dining Hall and was well attended. Alex W. Creedon, '09, presided and introduced Hugh Campbell, George Capen, Robert P. Waterman, '31, and President Hughes who stressed the importance of the Fund in relation to increased faculty salaries. Chuck Kingston, '34, presented the Class of 1934 Trophy for the third successive year to Bob Morris, '16, as outstanding Class Agent for the year. This class made an excellent record in the amount given as well as in the percentage of givers to the '51 fund.

A Message to All Trinity Men

by George C. Capen
Chairman, 1952 Alumni Fund

Because our goal of $50,000 is needed to pay for salary increases voted to the faculty and staff on September 1, 1951, it is most important that the 1952 Alumni Fund go over the top. No one can question the fact that faculty salaries are out of line—not just out of line with analogous professions—but out of line with just plain ordinary expenses of living. If Trinity is to continue to compete, academically and on other collegiate levels, with her sister New England institutions, then more money must be raised for faculty salaries.

The goal is $50,000, an increase of $15,000 over last year's. This is an appreciable increase, but I know that Trinity men consider the faculty to be the heart of the college and the goal should, therefore, be over-subscribed. I feel sure that Trinity alumni will give generously to support the men who taught them, and to insure the continued high quality of a Trinity education for the students of today and tomorrow.

The Class of 1950
And the Burgess Plan

Two years ago, Thomas Burgess, Jr., '32, concerned about the small number of contributors to the Alumni Fund and the lack of continuity in giving, suggested a plan to the Alumni Fund Committee to be used with graduating classes. Under this plan, seniors are asked by their Class Agent Committee to sign a 10-year voluntary pledge to give a dollar for each year out of college to each annual Alumni Fund.

The class of 1950 Committee during their senior year obtained pledges from 190 of their 200 members in college. Last year, 179 of these men contributed. The 58.3% shown on the final report, therefore, needs explanation. Following graduation, the official number of the class was increased to over 300 to include students who had attended Trinity for a short period and left for various reasons. Therefore, the figure of 58.3% is not indicative of the fine job of the Class of '50 under the leadership of Jay Geiger and the following committee: Richard K. Avitabile, Raymond M. Beirne, Robert M. Blum, Robert L. Compton, Douglas Donald, Jr., Wardwell G. Hadley, John F. Hardwick, Justin S. Macaronc, Francis J. Mullane, Donald E. Sheahan, Andrew N. Shepard, Frank W. Sherman, and James C. Vanloon.

The Class of '51 adopted the same plan this spring and signed up nearly 100% of their class who were in college prior to graduation. The '51 Committee is headed up by William H. Van Lanen, and the following members: David M. Blair, Byard P. Bridge, Harry H. Browne, Timothy R. Cutting, Norman J. Elmes, Jr., Thomas F. Ferguson, John J. Kane, Jr., John F. Klingler, Maurice H. Martel, D. Michael Mitchell, W. Howie Muir, II, Armando T. Ricci, Jr., and Arthur F. Roche.

Air Force Enrolls 514

Lt. Col. Phillip Hallam reports that 514 undergraduates have enrolled in the Air ROTC Unit this fall. The Monday afternoon drills by the Bishop give the campus a decided military flavour.
The following is the speech given by Hugh S. Campbell '32, the President of the Alumni Association, at the Annual Class Agents' Dinner on October 26, in Hamlin Dining Hall.

* * * * *

Mr. Toastmaster, Dean Hughes, Gentlemen of Trinity College:

As your President, I convey to you the warm greeting of the officers and Executive Committee of the Alumni Association. I want to tell you how personally heartening it is to see the kind response we have here tonight on the part of so many loyal and devoted Trinity men. It is the best evidence of that old precept that when you have a big job to do, get a bunch of busy men to do it! I am going to speak to you tonight on the subject: The Importance of the '52 Fund to Trinity and its Alumni. The most important undertaking of the Alumni Association is the conduct of the Annual Alumni Fund Campaign. This year we have a new goal, an objective which I am certain will commend itself to you and through you to our Alumni. It represents both a challenge and an opportunity—a challenge which I am sure you will accept and an opportunity which I am sure our Alumni will welcome.

Briefly, we have set our sights on raising a fund of X dollars—I repeat X dollars—earmarked for college salaries. Now why is this fund of importance to Trinity and particularly to its Alumni? Its importance lies in the fact that in the academic world—just as in the business world—the law of competition operates—and money attracts talent.

Certainly American business is talent conscious and talent hungry! All of you who are familiar with large business organizations know how much importance is attached to the subject of managerial talent and manpower. Does it ever occur to you that the greatest single asset of all the corporations of the land doesn’t even appear in their balance sheets—their manpower! Many of you are familiar with the story told by Andrew Carnegie. He said, “Take away my mines, my ships, my mills, take away all that I have, and leave me my men—and I’ll have it all back in a year!” Certainly big government is talent conscious and talent hungry! I am not speaking of elective political office here, but of staff positions in the multitudinous governmental agencies which, whether we like them or not, are nevertheless part of today’s American scene and are all competitors for talent. Both big business and big government are today competing with the colleges for academic talent.

How about the economic status of college personnel? College Faculty members comprise one of the great professional classes of our society. You are familiar with their salary ranges as shown in Keith’s latest report. How do they compare with the other professions? I hold in my hand a card showing the results of a survey conducted by the United States Department of Commerce with the assistance of the American Medical Association: in 1949, the average gross earnings of physicians was $19,710, and the net was $11,744; in 1948, the average net earnings for salaried and independent practicing attorneys was $8,315.

I would be the first to admit that teaching is often a labor of love and that monetary considerations alone do not always attract and hold men in the profession, but the inescapable fact remains that in today's economic climate the lot of the academician is not as comfortable as we all would wish.

I will not belabor the point further. Enough has been said, I think, to indicate the disparity between the incomes enjoyed by these groups and the personnel of our colleges. The problem of adequate rewards for the Faculty and Staff of our American colleges is an acute problem in our society. Indeed, Irving Olds of United States Steel has pointed out to business its social obligation to support our educational institutions, and I will venture the prediction that the day will come, if indeed it is not already at hand, when American business in growing numbers will acknowledge and accept a greater share of that responsibility.

The Alumni of Trinity College have a deep and abiding interest in the reputation of their Alma Mater, and a chief contributor to that reputation is the quality and calibre of its Faculty and Staff. WE WANT TO INSURE THAT TRINITY CONTINUES TO BE ABLE TO ATTRACT AND TO KEEP ITS FAIR SHARE OF AVAILABLE TALENT, TEACHING AND ADMINISTRATIVE, AND WE MUST BE PREPARED TO DO WHATEVER NEEDS BE DONE TO THAT END.

Now the drive we are launching tonight is no panacea. It is merely a step in the right direction—an earnest of the Alumni's interest and desire to keep our college strong.
I am going to ask each of you to turn back in your mind for a moment to the first day you set foot on Trinity's campus—a verdant, green, young freshman. Ask yourselves, "What did it look like and why did I come here?"

In my own case, coming here in 1928, you entered by a roadway off Vernon Street that led by the President's house and old Alumni Hall. There was no Chapel, no Ogilby Hall, no Trowbridge Memorial, no Cook, Hamlin, Woodward, Hallden, Goodwin, Elton, no chemistry building, no field house, and no new library. There was a distinguished Faculty whose members were acknowledged as scholars by their peers at home and abroad. They shed their lustre upon the college, and Trinity was a beacon-light of learning throughout the land. It was a college in the sense of the old definition that a college consists of a student on a log with Mark Hopkins on the other end. Today we have through the efforts and devotion of many men, a magnificent physical plant and still, thank God, an able, illustrious, and loyal Faculty. The buildings, in which we all may take great and justifiable pride, will stand for generations, but if the spirit of learning ever leaves them, for whatever cause, they will be but so much echoing stone and space, empty of life and meaning. That spirit of learning—which is Trinity's reason for being is entrusted to all of us, but most especially to the Faculty who are its traditional guardians and servants. One of our most important roles as Alumni should be to help make their place economically secure.

Gentlemen, the Executive Committee of your Alumni Association has given the trustees a commitment to raise $50,000 for this purpose. That is our challenge, our opportunity, and our collective responsibility!
Final Report of the 1951 Alumni Fund

by Harmon T. Barber ’19, Chairman

The 1951 Alumni Fund was a success. There were more contributors, representing a greater proportion of total alumni, who gave substantially more in total than in previous years. The figures below will illustrate the progress made by the Alumni Fund since the Alumni Association assumed administration of this important function three years ago:

<tr>
<th>No. of Alumni Contributors</th>

<td>1178</td>
<td>26.6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1951</td>
<td>1594</td>
<td>33.4</td>
</tr>

A few comments on these results: There were 620 new alumni contributors this year, but 204 of those who contributed last year did not respond in 1951, thus leaving a net increase of 416. Had we retained the 204 lost, we could have shown a 50% increase in the number of alumni contributors. Here lies a challenge for future years.

An outstanding feature of the year was the contribution made on behalf of future alumni, i.e., gifts from parents of present students. This support is a demonstration of the confidence and faith which parents have in Trinity. Let’s hope that this enthusiasm will be transmitted to the sons.

The work of the Class Agents deserves commendation. Because of their efforts, the statement may be made that not a single Trinity alumnus failed to contribute to the 1951 Alumni Fund because he was not aware of our ambitions or has not been asked to participate.

It is to be expected that greater accomplishments by the Alumni Fund will be realized in the years to come. George Capen, ’10, will serve as Chairman of the Alumni Fund Committee for the next year. The worthiness of the purpose of the 1952 Fund—to maintain a superior faculty at Trinity—deserves your cooperation and support.

Third Year Contributors

Last year, in the third year of the reorganized Alumni Fund under the National Alumni Association, it was decided to try to stimulate in the alumni an awareness of the importance of continuous giving. This was done by noting on the contributions a card acknowledging, "Third Year Contributor," where such individuals had contributed in '49, '50 and '51. Although there are many alumni who contributed to Trinity for many previous years the Committee decided to set the starting point for reorganizing regular giving at the 1949 date. The names of the men who have shown consistent loyalty by regular giving are set in italics.

IN EARLIER HARTFORD

50 YEARS AGO
From The Hartford Times, October 1, 1901

Group of city officials visits municipal quarry on New Britain Ave. and express opinion that it will meet the city's needs for stone for an indefinite period. An immediate problem is the fact that Trinity College objects to blasting, especially when classes are in session. City has been unable to live up to old agreement that blasting near the college property would be discontinued.

Mr. Arundel was born in 1879, the son of the late Rev. Alfred W. and Margaret Arundel of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He attended schools in Germany and France before entering Trinity in 1897 with the Class of 1900. As an undergraduate he was a member of the football team, and the Epsilon Chapter of Delta Psi fraternity.

One year after as an undergraduate Mr. Arundel left College and attended a military school in Pennsylvania under the West Point Commandant from 1898 to 1901. He was associated with the Reliance Life Insurance Company in Pittsburgh and the Producers Fuel Company in New York City before he joined Burns Brothers.

Thomas Joseph Ahern, 1922
Thomas Joseph Ahern, former selectman of South Windsor, Connecticut, died on August 14 at St. Francis Hospital, Hartford. Born in South Windsor on May 14, 1900, he was the son of the late Patrick and Mary Geary Ahern. He entered College in 1918 with the Class of 1922, and as an undergraduate he was Secretary-Treasurer of his Class in his sophomore year; a member of the Junior Prom Committee; the Junior Smoker Committee; the 1922 Ivy Board and the Sophomore Dining Club. His fraternity was Phi Gamma Delta.

Mr. Ahern was a part time tobacco grower for many years. In 1933 he joined the Charter Oak Office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Hartford. Since 1941 he was that company's representative in Wethersfield.

Besides serving as selectman for eight years, Mr. Ahern was active in the South Windsor Kiwanis Club, the Afftonian Club, and as chairman of the Junior Prom Committee serving as its chairman since 1947. He was a veteran of World War I, and a member of the Abe E. Miller Post, American Legion. He was also a member of the Rockville Lodge of Elks.

Mr. Ahern leaves his wife, the former Miss Helen Takash, and two daughters, Mary Jean and Betty Ann.

Edward Clarence Andersen, 1922
Edward Clarence Andersen died July 23 at Hartford Hospital. He was well known to many insurance men in the United States due to his years of service as educational director of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Andersen was born on November 20, 1901, at Hartford, Connecticut, the son of Andrew M. Andersen and Hansine S. Johnsen. After graduating from Hartford Public High School, he entered College in 1918 with the Class of 1922. As an undergraduate he played Class Baseball his Sophomore year and was a member of the Sophomore Hop Committee and the Freshman Rules Committee. His fraternity was Phi Gamma Delta.

After his graduation in 1922, Mr. Andersen joined Connecticut Mutual. In 1929 he was made agency assistant with special duties in the field of sales training and soon was advanced to educational director. He became assistant superintendent of agencies in 1945, and superintendent of agencies in 1946. A past president of the National Society of Sales Training Executives, Mr. Andersen was a member of the Life Underwriters Training Committee. Last year he was appointed agency secretary.

Mr. Andersen always retained his interest in Trinity affairs and at his death was chairman of the Bequest Committee's insurance division.
He leaves his wife, the former Miss Dagny J. Milgard of Hartford, and his parents.

RONALD HALL FERGUSON, 1922

Ronald Hall Ferguson, recently elected president of the Herald Publishing Company and managing editor of the Manchester Press, and of the Man­chester Memorial Hospital. Since two weeks previously, his father, Thomas, publisher and president of the same paper, had passed away.

Mr. Ferguson was born in Manchester on December 23, 1898. After graduating from the Manchester High School in 1917, he entered Cornell University but had to withdraw because of army service. He continued his education after his discharge and entered Trinity in 1918 with the Class of 1922. After one year he transferred to Amherst College.

Before joining the Manchester Herald in 1924, Mr. Ferguson worked on newspapers in New York City and in Providence. He began his career on the Herald as city editor and then was promoted to managing editor. Mr. Ferguson became well known to newspapermen throughout New England serving as a director of the New England Daily Newspaper Association and the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

During World War II, Mr. Ferguson was named secretary of the Manchester Draft Board. He was a past exalted ruler of the Rockville Lodge of Elks, a member of the Connecticut Elks Association, the Manchester Lodge of Masons, and the American Legion.

Mr. Ferguson was married to Mrs. Bernice Burton Ferguson, to whom he was married in 1924. Mr. Ferguson leaves two sons, Thomas, '51, and Walter, '52.

ROBBINS BATTELL STOECKEL, HON. 1925

Robbins Battell Stoeckel, the first motor vehicles commissioner of Connecticut, and one of the nation's foremost authorities on motor traffic, died suddenly at his home in Norfolk, Connecticut, on October 15. He leaves his wife, the former Miss Mary Jane Cairns, three nephews, and a niece.

Mr. Stoeckel was born in New Haven on September 20, 1872, a son of the late Gustave Jacob and Matilda Bertha Wehner Stoeckel. His father was professor of music at Yale for many years and also organist in the college chapel.

After preparation at Hopkins Grammar School, Mr. Stoeckel entered Yale in 1889, graduating four years later. He graduated from New York Law School in 1897, and was admitted to the Connecticut Bar in 1896. He was elected judge of probate for the Norfolk district in 1898, and each succeeding two years was reelected as a nominee for both Republican and Democratic parties until his retirement in 1942.

In 1916, Mr. Stoeckel was elected to the State Senate from the Litchfield County district. The following year Governor Holcomb appointed him as the state's first commissioner of motor vehicles and he was reappointed by Governors Lake and Trumbull. Mr. Stoeckel was a member of the State Police Commission from 1923 to 1927.

Trinity awarded Mr. Stoeckel an honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1925, and Yale granted him the same degree in 1928.

Mr. Stoeckel was a director of the Hartford Corporation, the Hartford-Connecticut Trust Company, the National Fire Insurance Company and the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene. He served on the boards of the Hartley-Salmon Clinic of Hartford and the Gaylord Farms Sanitarium in Wallingford.

Inheriting his father's love for music, Mr. Stoeckel devoted much of his time to the Norfolk Schools of Music and Art as well as assisting his famous musical brother, Carl, in the building of the new world-famous music shed in Norfolk which attracted musicians all over the world to festivals and concerts. In June 1932, Mr. Stoeckel became an honorary research associate in highway transportation at Yale. He was noted as an advocate of safety education and wrote much on this subject.

RAY DEARBORN ARNOLD, M.A. 1927

Word has been received at the College of the death of Ray Dearborn Arnold, modern language teacher at Hartford High School, on August 15 at his home on New Hampshire Avenue in Hartford. A graduate of Clark University in 1911, he received his Master of Arts degree from Trinity in 1927.

Mr. Arnold was born in Nashua, New Hampshire, on May 8, 1887, the son of Chauncey Avery Arnold and Emma Adelia Holton. After his graduation from Clark University, he taught in Plymouth, New Hampshire, and at Wakefield, Massachusetts, before going to Hartford High School in 1916. Only World War I service interrupted his teaching at Hartford High and he was well known to hundreds of modern language pupils. Mr. Arnold was extremely interested in music and played the organ exceptionally well.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mildred Geree Arnold, and three daughters.

JOHN MACDONALD STONE, 1932

Word has been received at the College of the death of John Macdonald Stone of South Coventry, Connecticut, on June 25, 1951. He was born on April 8, 1908, in Hartford, a son of Samuel M. Stone and Alice Bailey Stone.

His father was then the President of Colt Arms Company. After graduating from Keystone Academy, Factoryville, Pennsylvania, he entered College in 1928 with the Class of 1932 but only remained for one term. He was pledged to Alpha Delta Phi fraternity.

For many years Mr. Stone worked at Colt's.

Mr. Stone leaves two children; John M., Jr., and Mary Louise; and his brother, H. Taylor Stone, '25. His wife, the former Miss Shirley Lougee of Wethersfield, died four years ago.

JOHN AUGUSTINE HARTFORD, HON. 1937

John Augustine Hartford, chairman of the board of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, died suddenly in New York City on September 20. The son of the late George Huntington Hartford, who founded the company in 1860 as the 'Great American Tea Company' with a single store on New York's lower east side, Mr. Hartford was born in Orange, New Jersey in 1872. He was elected to his father's seat in the State Senate from the Litchfield District at the age of sixteen and from the beginning he showed a flair for showmanship which he retained all his life.

In 1912 Mr. Hartford persuaded his father and elder brother, George, to let him open a store that did not use charge accounts, delivery service and telephone orders. The elder Mr. Hartford agreed and the new store opened near the A & P's most profitable store in Jersey City. Although the new venture had no name, in six months it drove the bigger one out of business. Within two years Mr. Hartford opened 1,600 stores modelled after the successful Jersey City experiment, and the A & P chain grew to over 15,000 stores in 1930.

At that time supermarkets of rival firms were springing up and Mr. Hartford entered this field with vigor. For every new A & P supermarket built six of the old-type stores were closed, but the sales volume grew until last year it was over three billion dollars.

Mr. Hartfords was also keenly interested in the manufacturing, processing and wholesaling of foods. He built factories to make preserves, candles and pastries for his stores. The American Coffee Company which bought directly from South American growers was Mr. Hartford's enterprise.

In 1937 Trinity awarded Mr. Hartford an honorary Master of Arts degree. He was an honorary trustee of Presbyterian Hospital, New York City, and was a director of Chrysler Corporation; the Guaranty Trust Company; the Prudential Insurance Company; the Long Island Railroad and the New Haven Railroad.

His older brother, George, is Mr. Hartford's only close survivor. His wife, the former Miss Pauline Corwin of Middletown, New York, died in 1949.
