What They Said About Dr. Jacobs

TRINITY’S NEW PRESIDENT

by the Hartford Times

Hartford will be glad to welcome Albert Charles Jacobs when he comes to assume the presidency of Trinity College. It has been apparent that the trustees were making an unhurried study of the possibilities of several American educators. Dr. Jacobs, now chancellor of the University of Denver, is an excellent choice.

Prior to going to Denver three years ago, Dr. Jacobs was at Columbia University for 23 years, as lecturer, then professor in the law school. For a few years of the war he was on duty with the Navy in Washington, ending that service as a captain. Then came a return to Columbia where he was for a few years closely associated with General Eisenhower. Administrative posts at Columbia included those of provost, assistant to the president for veteran’s affairs and assistant to the president.

Prior to going to Columbia, Dr. Jacobs taught at Oxford University where he had been a Rhodes Scholar for three years immediately following his graduation from the University of Michigan in 1921.

This record of preparation and university experience assures Trinity of splendid leadership. While Trinity is national in its constituency, the college naturally has an especially close relationship to Connecticut and to Hartford, so there is in State and city a keen interest in the choice of man to direct affairs. On the Hill. The three most recent presidents, Flavel C. Luther, Remsen B. Ogilby and G. Keith Funston have all taken part in civic affairs. Dr. Jacobs, undoubtedly, will do so.

Trinity now has the largest enrollment in its history. During the last several years the college has enjoyed a material upbuilding and it has retained its place among liberal arts colleges with highest academic standards. There are problems, plenty of them, but none that cannot be met through continuing efforts of those who make up the Trinity family and the friends who believe in this splendid type of institution.

Dr. Jacobs’ task will not be an easy one, but no president could ask for more interest of his administration than is assured by undergraduates, alumni, faculty, trustees and other thousands who have close ties 'Neath the Elms.

TRINITY NAMES A NEW PRESIDENT

by the Hartford Courant

The long search for a new president of Trinity College, begun in the summer of 1951, has ended with the appointment of Albert C. Jacobs, Chancellor of the University of Denver. Dr. Jacobs, Michigan-born Rhodes Scholar, has devoted his career to education, with the accent on law. At Oxford he was not only a student, but also a lecturer. Beginning in the twenties he taught at Columbia University, and gradually took increasing responsibility in administration. Thus he became Provost of the University, and was assistant to the president when General Eisenhower was there. It was three years ago that he left Columbia to assume the leadership of the University of Denver. And when during the war Dr. Jacobs had taken time out for service in the Navy, he rose to the rank of Captain, which is unusual for a civilian in the Navy.

Thus Trinity, for the third time in its history, chooses as president a man who is not a clergyman. Its second non-clerical president was the most recent one, G. Keith Funston, now head of the New York Stock Exchange, had a career in business rather than an education before coming to Trinity. And he was able to score an outstanding success in refinancing and rebuilding the college during his relatively brief tenure. This was a highly necessary service in the endless struggle of the small liberal arts college to make ends meet.

It is still uncertain when President Jacobs will be free to take over. This will incline Trinity to look with renewed gratitude upon its acting president, Dean Arthur H. Hughes. Dean Hughes has ably filled a gap left by President Funston’s withdrawal as he has before between the death of President Remsen B. Ogilby and the arrival of Mr. Funston after the war.

Trinity took a long time in finding its new president. And well it might. For as A. Northey Jones of New York, chairman of the selection committee, remarked during the search, the college will have to live for some time with its new president. Dr. Jacobs was known at Columbia for his outgiving friendliness, as well as for the professional competence to which his record bears witness. Trinity’s future is now in the hands of an educator. The new president, the college, and the larger community alike can look forward to a happy association.
Albert C. Jacobs Elected Fourteenth President

The election of Albert Charles Jacobs, Chancellor of the University of Denver, as Fourteenth President of the College brings to Trinity a distinguished scholar and an able administrator. His academic background as Rhodes Scholar, professor of law at Columbia University, and Provost of that University makes him admirably qualified to take over the President's office in Williams Memorial.

The selection committee of the Trustees under the leadership of A. Northej Jones, '17, recommended Dr. Jacobs to the Board not only because of his splendid academic and administrative record but also because his personality has made him popular with his faculty and his students. The committee also found a man with a deep religious conviction, having served while at Columbia as a member of the Board of Religious Education of the Diocese of New York and chairman of the Commission on College Work, and at the present time being a vestryman of St. John's Cathedral in Denver.

All the undergraduates, faculty, and staff eagerly await Dr. Jacobs' arrival at 115 Vernon Street and believe that his administration will lead the College to new heights.

Born in Birmingham, Michigan, on May 21, 1900, a son of the late Albert Poole Jacobs and Grace W. Grinnell, Dr. Jacobs graduated from the University of Michigan in 1921. His study there was interrupted by service as a Private in World War I. He was selected a Rhodes Scholar and named a "don" at Oxford, the only American ever to receive a lecturing fellowship. He remained in England for six years as a lecturer in jurisprudence at Oriel and Brasenose Colleges while earning the degrees of Bachelor of Arts in 1923, Bachelor of Civil Law in 1924 and Master of Arts in 1927.

Returning to this country Dr. Jacobs married Miss Lorerra Field Beal on August 27, 1927. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan, Class of 1924. They have two daughters: Loretta Grinnell, now Mrs. John W. Edwards, Jr., of Ann Arbor; Sarah Huntington; and a son, Travis Beal.

At Columbia Dr. Jacobs was appointed as a lecturer in law. In 1928 he was promoted to assistant professor and the following year to associate professor. He became a full professor in 1936.

During World War II, he was commissioned a Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve in 1942, and served as Captain when he was director of the Casualties and Dependents Welfare Division of the Bureau of Naval Personnel in Washington, D.C.

Upon his return to Columbia early in 1946, he was named assistant to the president for veterans affairs and later assistant to the president for general academic administration. When General Eisenhower was elected President of Columbia in 1947, Dr. Jacobs was appointed Provost of the University, serving as the General's assistant and heading the University during his absences.

Three years ago Dr. Jacobs accepted the Chancellorship of the University of Denver and is credited with restoring the University to a position of leadership among independent universities in the West after a difficult period of post-war adjustment. He made an extensive reorganization of both the curriculum and faculty as well as reshaping the curriculum to meet the needs of the citizens of Denver.

Barber Comments

Commenting on the appointment of Dr. Jacobs, Harmon T. Barber, '19, President of the National Alumni Association, said: 'For many months, the selection of the new President has been eagerly awaited by the Alumni. Our patience has been amply rewarded by the announcement that Dr. Jacobs is the man who next will guide the fortunes of our Alma Mater. We congratulate the Trustees on the excellence of their choice. To Dr. Jacobs go our best wishes for success with his new responsibilities and a sincere pledge of wholehearted cooperation and assistance in any way he may suggest to advance the interests of Trinity College.'
Introductory Address of President-elect Jacobs delivered to the Trustees, Faculty and Student Body in Convocation at the Chapel, November 8

As your President-elect, it is a rare privilege to greet you for the first time, and particularly so on this very happy occasion—the Alumni Homecoming and the dedication of our splendid new library. I greet you with deep humility, fully conscious of the great responsibilities soon to be mine, of the trust which you have placed in me. May God grant me the strength successfully to execute in the tradition of my distinguished predecessors the functions of my high office.

I look forward with great enthusiasm to joining the Trinity family not later, I hope, than March 1st. I hope even it may be earlier. But I cannot leave Denver until certain problems at the University are resolved.

It is for me a very happy circumstance that my first official contact with the College it will be my privilege to serve during my remaining years is with her two most important parts—the Students and the Faculty. You and those before you in the nearly one hundred thirty years of her history made Trinity the splendid college it is today. To you I pledge the best that in me lies to uphold in the years ahead the honored traditions of this College, to continue the sound development so effectively begun by my illustrious predecessor Dr. Funston.

You are naturally interested in knowing something about the person the Trustees have selected to be your President. Born in Michigan at the turn of the century, I was educated at the University of my native state and at Oxford. Most of my life has been devoted to legal teaching—from 1924 to 1927 at Oxford, and from 1927 to 1949 except for nearly four years in the Navy, at Columbia. Following the war, I was drafted for administrative duty as well, becoming the Provost of Columbia University. As such I was privileged to work very closely with General Eisenhower, our nation's great President-elect. I was responsible, subject to his general supervision—his alter ego I was called—for the administration of that sister institution on Morningside Heights. November 1, 1949 I left that extremely happy association to become the Chancellor of the University of Denver, the only independent non-tax supported University in the vast Rocky Mountain region.

There are many in the West who have voiced surprise that I now return to the East. Almost as much surprise as some expressed when in 1868 Mark Twain first visited the beautiful City of Hartford and soon decided to remain, to enjoy here his most productive literary years. But I do not come to you as thorough a Westerner as Mark Twain. In fact, I feel that my family and I are returning home, to the region where we have spent many of our most cherished years. But the decision to leave Denver was a most difficult and soul-searching one. We have been extremely happy there. I have learned much on that last land frontier where the love of freedom and the zeal for individual initiative are still so virile.

Several considerations prompted me to accept the gracious invitation of the Trustees. In the first place, I did so because of the high standing and the unique characteristics of Trinity: a liberal arts college of moderate size, enjoying the highest academic prestige, with a distinguished faculty of scholarly teachers, and a splendid student body national in scope. Trinity is noted, as the Bulletin so well states, "for its steady insistence on the fundamental and unchanging values and requirements of a liberal education." With this I am in complete accord. The primary function of this college has always been, and must continue to be, the effective training of young men for full responsibilities of citizenship and leadership, never so direly needed as today. It has as its core of strength a liberal education, which is in essence education for a free people.

This was well expressed on your Commencement Day, 1849, by Bishop John Williams, the fourth President of the College: "All parts of this course of human learning and liberal study are to be taught as intimately connected with the whole of future life. It will not do to give the young man the impression that his college life is, as it were, but a parenthesis in his existence, isolated and separated, disconnected with either what precedes or follows it. Not so. It gathers up the requirements, the power, the faculties of earlier days, directs and gives a tone to these same things as they stretch onward to mature life."

Here, more than a hundred years ago, by your distinguished nineteenth century President, was expressed a sound principle of modern education. What greater adventure, what more noble pursuit is there than this, the preparation for life itself. I heartily join with you in this signal endeavor.

I welcome the opportunity which Trinity affords to work closely with faculty and students. Trinity takes pride, I know, in being a personal college. I still recall at Oxford the close personal contact between student and teacher. I have sorely missed this contact of late. May I assure you that my office and our home will always be open to each and every one of you.

I firmly believe that independent education is a vital necessity for the continued strength of our country and for the preservation of our freedoms. In the words of Mr. Irving S. Olds, retired Chairman of the Board, United States Steel Corporation, "To preserve our democratic system of freedom and op-

Hallden Addition Nears Completion

Construction on the new Hallden Laboratory addition is well under way and Professor Lockwood expects that the new quarters will be occupied by the middle of December. The new addition of two classrooms and more laboratory space will relieve the present crowded conditions in the Engineering Laboratory. It will also provide a new maintenance shop in its basement for which funds were donated by the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving.

The College is most grateful to Mr. Karl W. Hallden for his generosity in making this fine gift possible.

1952 Gives Recorders

The Class of 1952 has presented the College with four tape recorders which the Language Departments have put into immediate use in their laboratory courses. This gift meets a real need which the College could not otherwise have afforded and also makes possible marked improvements in presenting languages to the undergraduates.

Presents Rare Book

Dr. Jerome P. Webster, '10, trustee of the College and chairman of the Library Associates, has presented the Library with a handsome work on oriental carpets which the Language Departments have put into immediate use in their laboratory courses. This gift meets a real need which the College could not otherwise have afforded and also makes possible marked improvements in presenting languages to the undergraduates.

Dr. Sterling B. Smith Promoted To Chemistry Professorship

Dr. Sterling B. Smith, member of the Chemistry Department for the past twenty-nine years, has been promoted to the rank of full professor. He has been Professor Krieele's invaluable right hand man ever since he joined the faculty in 1923. Promoted to assistant professor in 1927, and to associate professor in 1938, Dr. Smith is well known to hundreds of Trinity men for his able and thorough teaching. His research in several of the pure science aspects of physical chemistry is particularly well known especially for phase rule studies of three and four component system.

Born in New Haven fifty-three years ago, Dr. Smith graduated from Yale in 1920 and received his Master's degree there in 1923. He then joined the Trinity faculty and worked for his doctorate at New York University which he was awarded in 1927.

Robertson reports $5100 Balance

In his first report as Treasurer, J. Kenneth Robertson announced that with thanks to the Alumni Fund the College has closed its books for the fiscal year of 1951-52 ending June 30 with an excess of $5,163 over expenses and appropriations.

Mr. Robertson pointed out the increasingly vital role played by the Alumni Fund which exceeded its $50,000 goal and contributed $13,720 more than in 1951. Gifts from other sources increased by $35,259; investment income by $16,718; and student fees by $7,842.

These increases in income gave the college a total effective operating income of nearly $1,309,000, an increase of $73,000 over the previous year. Strict economy in operation held the increase in expenses to only $14,619 over 1950-51. With the remaining $57,543, the Trustees granted a salary raise for the faculty and staff effective September 1, 1952, and paid for the moving of the Library to the new building. Both of these expenditures actually will be paid in 1952-53 but have been funded from the 1951-52 budget.

The Buildings Under Construction account totaled $1,196,000 at the close of the fiscal year which was an increase of $904,000 during the year. Of this amount, $789,000 was expended on the new Library, and $115,000 on the addition to the Central Heating Plant. It is hoped that funds will soon become available to convert the old stacks in the North wing of Williams Memorial into faculty and administrative offices. The new Heating Plant will provide sufficient boiler capacity to handle the additional load required by the new Library. Endowment funds increased by $166,000 during the year, represented by $138,000 in gifts and bequests, $25,800 in profits on the sale of securities, and $2,000 in income added to principal.
Dedication ceremonies at which President Charles W. Cole of Amherst College conceded that the new Trinity Library has "resources richer than any small college in New England," highlighted one of the biggest weekends in college history November 7-9 as alumni homecoming, the Sophomore Hop, our 75th anniversary of intercollegiate football, the Amherst soccer and football games, the introduction of President-elect Jacobs, and the new library brought some 6,000 people to the campus.

The sparkling new library's decorator colors, light birch modern furniture, well lighted reading spaces and book collections, and its well planned layout brought compliments from the hundreds who toured the building, inspected book treasures, and even saw an exhibit of the Emily Lowe Award modern Man­I.arran art.

Keith Funston returned from Wall Street to accept the building which climax­ed accomplishments of his Trinity Administration. Accepting the building from Architect Robert O'Connor, '16, he presented a gold key to Paul Mellon, principal donor of the $1,210,000 structure, and another to Acting President Arthur Hughes. Dr. Hughes in turn passed authority for the book collection to Librarian Donald Engley, who had supervised the planning of the new building and the merger of the Trinity and Watkinson collections.

President Cole, as principal speaker, congratulated Trinity on the "happy marriage" of the two libraries, picturing the Watkinson Library as a "somewhat neglected spinster, the Trinity Library as the eager swain, President Funston as the skillful marriage broker, the trustees of both libraries as far­sighted well wishers, and the Old Dominion Foundation as the fairy God­mother which by the wave of its financial wand made the marriage possible."

After inspecting the building, he pronounced it "ample . . . at the center of the campus . . . and with every facility that modern ingenuity can de­vise."

James Brewster, '08, placed on per­manent loan to the College a portrait of James Hammond Trumbull, first Watkinson librarian, owned by the Connecticut State Library.

Noting the Trinity tradition of re­ligious devotion, ecclesiastical respect for other Communions, and sound learning, Bishop Walter H. Gray, H. '41, expressed the gratitude of the Diocese of Connecticut for the College's recognizing its historic debt to the Episcopal Church by housing in the new building the Archives of the Diocese.

the scholarly world and advised that the College concentrate only in the fields where it is already strong to build its future reputation, not attempting to build a "great university research library." Great books in original editions and autographed manuscripts "can have educational value for the student and create a lasting interest in great literature," he said.

Over 800 attended the homecoming luncheon in Memorial Field House where Dr. Jacobs was introduced to alumni and friends.

Probably unique in American college history is the merger of the 129-year-old collections of the College with the fabulously valuable but little known Watkinson Library. The new library includes such collections as the 10,000 early American textbooks assembled by the first U. S. Commissioner of Education, many of the most valuable early American books rescued by George Brinley from the salvage piles of the Civil War, one of the two biggest collections on Protestant Episcopal Church history, the Moore collection on the Far East, more than 200 books printed before 1500, and 1000 printed in the sixteenth century.

One of three existing copies of Noah Webster's first American speller, and the engraver's personal copy of Audubon's "Birds of America" are among the noted single treasures.

Eleven Upsets Amherst: Post 6-2 Record

Captain Hum DelMastro's inspired leadership and sterling all-around play will be remembered for many years as his team concluded a successful season of six victories against two defeats. Given scant chance of winning half of its games, the Blue and Gold defeated Dickinson (21-0), Hobart (34-0), and Tufts (20-12) before being set back by a rugged Colby eleven (13-6). Returning to the victory trail the team swept over Middlebury (41-14) and surprised scrappy Coast Guard (20-0). Don Johnston's thrilling 86 yard punt return gave the Hilltoppers a 7-0 edge over Amherst while Wesleyan eked out a 7-6 win in the season's finale.

Dan Jessee, Art Christ and Karl Kurth produced another superbly coached team. The graduation of 26 lettermen forced them to give up Pierre Bogoslofski, great pass catching backs by a rugged Colby eleven and back up, Bill Wills, and burly tackles, Frank Lentz and Paul Arcari. Al Smith, Lou Magelaner and Dave Crosier developed into capable ends.

Jim Logan took over the quarterbacking in creditable fashion and his passing was a constant threat particularly against Wesleyan when he completed eleven for 154 yards. Halfback Mike Thomas, despite a broken finger and toe, became a powerful rusher and 133 pound scat back Gene Binda made several good gains. Hal Wynkoop and George Hill ran well while Don Johnston played strong defensive ball.

The team journeyed to Carlisle, Pennsylvania, for the season's opener with Dickinson. Captain DelMastro caught a sixteen yard pass from Logan for the first score and Bogoslofski blocked a punt to set up the second tally. The final tally came at the end of a 54 yard drive with Mike Thomas going over. The Blue and Gold line completely bottled up Dickinson's running attack.

Against Hobart, Captain DelMastro piled up 176 yards in 25 carries and scored two touchdowns. He also added 80 yards on three punt returns. Defensively the Blue and Gold held the visitors to 101 yards and picked up four enemy passes.

The Hilltoppers overcame a two touchdown deficit in the second half to score a thrilling 20-12 victory over Tufts. The Jumbos recovered a fumble on the opening kickoff and scored in the first half minute. The visitors kept pressing their attack and turned a pass interception into another score just before the second quarter ended. But the game changed entirely in the second half with Logan throwing a perfect 49 yard pass to Bogoslofski for the first touchdown. DelMastro sparked the next offensive thrust, and Binda swept the end to put the Blue and Gold ahead.

Again DelMastro and Wynkoop caught fire, but a determined Tufts line stiffened forcing Logan to take to the air on a well executed pass to Al Smith for the final score as the two teams battled each other to a standstill in the final period.

Once again Colby upset an undefeated Trinity team coming from behind in the fourth period to pound out two touchdowns. Bogoslofski recovered a Colby fumble early in the game and Captain DelMastro drove over for a touchdown. The two rivals played through the third period on even terms until the Mules' Charlie Windhorst broke loose for two touchdowns in less than six minutes.

Completely dominating the first half play the Blue and Gold scored four times in the first half against Middlebury as Thomas and Hill ran wild. Jim Logan did a fine quarterbacking job that completely confused the Panthers.

The Hilltop attack continued in high gear against Coast Guard with Logan hurling two touchdown passes to 'Bogey' and 'Hum.' The rushing statistics showed an average of three yards a try with DelMastro and Thomas doing most of the carrying.

Before 4,000 Homecoming Day spectators, Amherst, 1952 Little Three Champions, and Trinity battled to a standstill for 56 minutes until Don Johnston's electrifying 86 yard punt return. The Bantams out runched the Jeffs and also made two determined goal line stands in the hard fought struggle.

The Wesleyan game was bitterly contested with DelMastro's punting featuring the first half. Two of his quick kicks went for over 60 yards. In the third quarter the Cardinals ground over for a score and added the conversion. At the start of the final period they again threatened, but Johnston intercepted a pass on our 11 yard line. Logan's aerials plus DelMastro's and Thomas' smashes finally scored. Lentz was rushed as he tried to convert and his kick went off line.

Trin drove to the Wes 32 yard line in the final minute, but the Cards braced to take the ball.

Freshmen Undefeated

Paced by stocky Charlie Sticka of Natick, Mass., who raced to four scores the yearlings opened their season with a 34-0 victory at Wesleyan. With the forward wall averaging 180 pounds and giving him good blocking, the speedy Sticka made two of his scores on pitches and two by intercepting passes. Two hundred pound Tim Clark from Winnetka, Illinois, fell on a Cardinal fumble for the other score. Bob Alexander, former Bulkeley High ace, handled the quarterback post well and Fred St. Jean, fastest man on the squad and captain of Danbury High last fall, made some good gains. Gerry Pauley of Bellerose, Long Island and Ed Campbell, an old Bulkeley star, were particularly effective as defensive ends. Co-manager Mike Abel came off the bench to kick four points after touchdown.

The yearlings continued their winning ways with victories over Monson (27-6), Amherst (14-0) and Mass. University (19-12) for an undefeated season. Coach Fred Booth built his attack around the flashy Sticka who should make an enviable record with the varsity. Fred also thinks that backs Jack Evans, Bob Alexander, Fred St. Jean and Jerry Maher, and linemen Gerry Pauley, Dave Renkert, Tim Clark and Ray Aramini will be heard from next fall.

Clarke Resigns
As Swimming Coach

Dean Joseph C. Clarke, the College's only swimming coach, has resigned his coaching duties because of the pressure of his administrative work as Dean of Students. He will be succeeded by Arthur H. Christ, assistant swimming coach and football line coach since 1949.

Joe came in 1928 when Trowbridge Memorial Pool was opened and developed some fine teams during the years. Perhaps his most successful season was two years ago when the team tied Brown for the New England Intercollegiate title. Ever interested in youthful swimmers, Joe started the Trinity College Preparatory School Championship meet sixteen years ago. This meet is keenly looked forward to by the leading teams in this area.

Boosters Tie Wesleyan and Amherst

Closing the season with tie contests against Wesleyan (1-1) and Amherst (2-2) the boosters finished with a fine record of five wins and one loss to Yale (2-1). Great credit goes to new Coach Roy Dath, former All-American player at West Chester State Teachers College, for building up this well balanced team of Juniors and Sophomores. Veteran halfback Ron Humphries will be the only man lost to the squad by graduation.

Captain Neil Mutschler, who will undoubtedly be named to the All-New England and to the All-North teams, led his youthful and aggressive team to five shut our victories in October. Against Worcester Tech, M. I. T., and Tufts the score was 4-0. Massachusetts University was beaten 2-0 in a hard fought struggle while Clark University fell 10-0.

Against powerful Yale, the Blue and Gold took the lead on George Lunt's goal only to have the Blue come back with two tallies inside of one minute. The final tie games against Amherst and Wesleyan were closely contested throughout with the Lord Jeffs rallying to score twice in the fourth period. Pete Carlough, the team's leading scorer, spearheaded the attack. In the Wesleyan game George Lunt took a pass from Wade Close to equalize the score in the third quarter. Full backs Dave MacKenzie and Dick Marshall played consistently well and Ron Humphries in his final appearance turned in an excellent performance. Ed Smith at goal was his usual cool self and made several difficult saves.

The team's record places it among the leaders in New England. Coach Dath may well be proud of Captain Mutschler's team and can look forward to next season with keen anticipation.

The freshman squad defeated M. I. T. (4-3) and Choate (3-1) while losing to Amherst (1-3), Springfield (0-3) and Wesleyan (0-1).

LAWSON PURDY, '84, received a citation of appreciation from the American Society of Planning Officials on October 8 in Boston for his outstanding service to his contemporaries and to future generations. It reads in part:

"As Vice-Chairman of the Commission on Building Districts and Restrictions, 1914-1916, and Vice-Chairman of the Zoning Committee of New York from 1917 to 1942, he pioneered in developing zoning principles and techniques that have withstand the test of years. By bringing to bear upon controversial problems of land his conviction that an owner is entitled to protection in his property as well as in his person; by his conciliatory approach to principles in dispute; by his understanding and judgment in adapting legal traditions to modern needs;—he has been of inestimable service in building a zoning structure that today is not only acceptable as legally sound, but is welcomed as a desirable adjunct to community life."

"His unique contribution to planning and zoning was recognized by his associates in his election as President of the National Conference on City Planning, 1920-1921. In tendering him his present tribute, the planning world joins in an expression of gratitude for the work he has done and for the friendliness of his personality."

Perfects

Instrument

DR. SALVATORE CARRABA,
’43, has perfected an instrument which should save hundreds of lives involving acute cerebral an section deliveries. The new device was originated by Dr. Mur­ less, an English obstetrician, and Dr. Carra ha secu red his permission to make several major modi­fications and improvements on it. The instrument is now in widespread use throughout the country, and it is of especial aid to general surgeons in smaller communities. Dr. Carraba has refused to have the new invention named after him. After serving in cancer research from 1947 to 1949 as chief of obstetrics and neurosurgery at Fort Totten Hospital on Long Island, N. Y., he has been practicing at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford.

years, to his current position as bio­ statistician with the Public Health Center. Gene is married and is expecting his first in November. He had the honor of representing the college at the in­ aguration of Dr. Russell J. Humbert as President of De Pauw University on Oct. 18. TOM HIGGINS, who was supervisory principal of the Har winton Consolidated School (Conn.) last year and who had previously served there for 3½ years as teaching principal, has been appointed principal of the East School in Torrington.

DR. NELSON HOLMQUIST, after receiving his M.D. from Columbia last year, completed a surgical internship at New York Hospital last June. At present he has National Cancer Institute traineeship and is studying cy­ tology at Cornell University Medical College. He plans to continue in the field of pathology. September (Cor­ et, p. 390 ff.) features an article about PHIL JONES, his dance studio, and his wonderful work in Stamford, Conn., with young boys and girls. It is a story of real determination and courage, one which every Trinity man should read.
Kudos to DAVE KICKSTEN for a tremendous job as Class Agent.
Final results of the 1952 Alumni Fund campaign show that our increased in contribution from $232,300 in 1951 to $287,500 in 1952 and the number of contrib­utors from 13 to 43!
Our Class had the largest percentage of contributors of every class since 1943.

From June, 1951, he has been in the Service and is currently serving as pathologist and O.I.C. of the Laboratories at Sangamon.
N. Y. Harold expects to be discharged in April and is going to Cleveland for thoracic surgery. He is married and has a son, H. Christopher, two years old.

HARVEY KATZ has just finished his training in the Judge Advocate General’s School in Charlottesville, Virginia. He has been assigned to the Judge Advocate General’s Office in the Peneslon in Washington. On Sept. 6, JIM MARLOR was married in Houlton, Maine, to the former Virginia Ruth Wilson of Houlton. Jim is employed in the office of the U. S. Rubber Co. in Naugatuck, Conn. DR. ED MARRA is currently pursuing specialization studies in internal medicine at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital in Boston, where he has a residency. He is engaged in a socio-medical research study concerning the possibility of home care for patients with far advanced heart disease. DR. HANK MIL­ FORD is now at the Pennsylvania State T. B. sanatorium for three months of work with chest diseases. He will then return to Polyclinic Hospital in Harrisburg for the remainder of his year in surgery. DICK PAGE writes that he is an account executive in the advertising-sales promotion field, with the Sales, Merchandising Aids Dept. of General Foods Co. LT. ED PRENTICE, who is working as Legislative Assistant to Senator H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, has spent most of the fall in the Senator's campaign headquarters. He is married to the former Pamela Davis, Bryn Mawr '50, and has a daughter Christine 16 months old. CARL RITTNER is teaching general science and biology at the Berlin (Conn.) High School. ELIE SCHWARTZ is in training in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for a junior executive position with the Consolidated Cigar Corporation. GARET SHEPHERD is sales engineer for Detroit Steel products. He is living in Westwood, Mass., with his wife and his four-year-old son Brian. BILL STUDEWELL is pastor of two United Methodist Congregations, High Ridge Methodist and Pound Ridge (New York) Community. He is audio-visual-radio committee chairman for the Stamford (Conn.) Congregations. Bill is married and has two children, Cherie, 5, and Tommie, 3; his family has been featured in two national magazine articles — "In Today’s Woman" (Dec. 49) and "Women in Home Companion" (Dec. 50). The Pound Ridge Church was the subject of a picture story in the New York Times on Sept. 29, 1951. Bill and his family spent the summer traveling in the fabulous Northwest. FABER became engaged in early July 56, to Miss Jane Susan Crosby, daughter of Mrs. Henry L. Crosby and the late Mr. Crosby, were married in West Hartford, August 16th. He is now in the law offices of Higgins and Silverstein and will take the Rhode Island bar examination this September. We wish him good luck. GEORGE LADELMAN has accepted an appointment as vicar of the Chapel of St. Christopher, Lithicum Heights, Maryland. KARL REICHE is the proud father of a bouncing baby girl, born July 14th. DON SPONCEY is teaching at Watkinson School in Hartford. GIL MARTINO became the father of a baby girl in June. At the close of the Class Reunion in June, your Class Secretary was re-elected. The Executive Committee consists of MARK LEVY, GEORGE WICKS and GIL MARTINO. It is hoped that the class will have some money in the near future so that a treasurer will be necessary. Our congratulations to the new grooms and fathers. The Class is taking on a settled look. We should soon become pompous. A Class letter will follow shortly.

1947 Secretary — THOMAS EGAN, 206 Farmington Ave., Hartford. DR. FRANK TIEZET, after a year of post-doctorate work at Duke and two more years of the same at the University of Washington in Seattle, has been named an instructor in the biochemistry department of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School. But no one can envy him his task of instilling the love of science into dental students! ED VIGNONE has been employed by the Marchant Calculating Machine Co. of Oakland, California, since Sept., 1946. He is presently working for them in Bridgeport, Conn., as agency manager. He is living in Milford with his wife and two daughters, Jeanne, aged 5, and Nancy, aged 1½.

is a real thrill. The news this time comes in indirectly through the newspapers. As a reasonably busy person I can sympathize with 1950 classmates who do not quite get around to reporting on themselves. At Class Secretary trying to get news, I must disapprove strongly. A postcard with your latest would be most appreciated. A picture of you in your civilian life sometime this winter and from last report seems to feel that he can take civvies in stride. RUSSELL II sends the good tidings that he and his charming wife have produced a fine son, Lea Arnold.

PHILIP R. MACMURDO, Marine, was ordained a pastor of St. John’s Episcopal Church, Dunham Pond. Ph.D’s may have some notion of that. Tell me, John, was the water cold? BOB OBREY got his commission in the naval O.C.S. in August and is now an Ensign (line officer). Good work, Bob. Maybe the Navy will keep you too occupied to be a very active Young Republican. Remember, in St. John’s Episcopal Church, Dunham Pond, “a rosette correspondent” (that is a subtle hint, Pete) is still chuckling over that. RORY O’CONNOR married Miss Clair Alice Weller on October 25. You have an ex-roommate’s heartiest congratulations, Rory. Rest assured that the true story of your freshman year is safe with me. PAUL RUTHMAN is the subject of a letter which would interest you all. Seven years ago Paul became acquainted with a French family, the Fryms, in Oran in North Africa. Friendship ripened with the Fryms and, in particular, the daughter of M. and Mme. Frym, Sabine. Time, however, passed and Paul returned to civvies, street and Trinity College. Then Paul was moved by the urge to travel once again and Paul is living in Paris but the lovely Sabine. Ah, Cupid! Last January the engagement was announced and in July Paul and Sabine were married.

Russ Everett, III. That makes the boy Class of 1974, doesn’t it, Russ? DON FARROW was married to Caroline Taylor in September at E.T.S., with JIM GLASCO’S superlative ushering a reminder of Trinity. Congratulations, Don. BILL FOSTER’S engagement to Joyce Sanborn has been announced. Bill has done pretty well since returning from his tour with the 43rd in Germany. He has had time to go on at R.P.I. in engineering and has engineered an engagement. Soldier’s ability to get along, as he found when he met and married Barbara Woodruff brought the Trinity marriage rate even higher in August.

Dave, it is a person like you who makes a bachelor feel very single. BRENT (“the perfect gift”) HARRIES was enticed away from the joys (?) of bachelorhood by Vivian Mae Johnson who brought him to the marriage feast on July 14th. BUZ FAGAN, 49 and BOB MULLINS, ’50 saw to it that Brent got to the church on time. Good work, men! CLIFF HOLLINGS has become engaged to Ruth Elizabeth Johnson of Northampton. JOE HYDE was promoted to sergeant while serving with the 40th Infantry Division on the active central front in Korea. Congratulations, Joe. Hope to see you stateside before too long. BILL KEELEY married Carol McCormick in Stevenson, Washington. Bill, did you just happen to be married in that spot or is that your political prediction? CHUCK LOPES got his silver stars in July and expects to be in the Eastern Air Defense Command when he has finished his advancement training. JOHN MC NUTT sends us a beauty from South Carolina where he is working as a marine biologist. John got his M.A. from U-Conn. last June after submitting a thesis on “Limnetic Enstromostracans of Dunham Pond.” Ph.D’s may have some notion of that. Tell me, John, was the water cold? porosity is, I believe, the compelling responsibility of our private (colleges and universities). The strength of independent education, may I remind you, is essential for the continuance of the freedom so generally enjoyed by our fine tax supported institutions. I am not calling, in spite of the programs to accept the view that independent education is a relic of a by-gone day and that we should turn over to governing and whole education of our youth. The tragic truth is that in the past two decades we have sought from Washington many things we should have the will to provide for ourselves. Let us need to so with education.

In the second place, I accepted your gracious invitation because of the character of the community in which Trinity is located and, after living for three years in Denver, I was very particular about this matter. Here in this splendifer City of Hartford are healthy resources which did well for the future. While Trinity gathers strength from, and in turn provides meritorious service for all parts of the nation, her location in Hartford is, indeed, most fortunate. Here are combined qualities and resources which have brought strength and greatness to the American people.

In the third place, I accepted your invitation because of Trinity's religious heritage. The ties between the Episcopal Church and the College are ties of tradition and not law. I am proud to be associated with an institution having such a sound religious tradition; proud that our founding fathers ordained that "the religious tenets of any person" should not be "a condition of any admission to any privilege," establishing thereby the principle of freedom in education. May this always endure! May we continue to foster in our students the fundamental appreciation of spiritual values! May each student during his years on our campus intensify his ties with the Church of his faith.

Why is all this so important? We are engaged, my friends, in a struggle of prolonged duration with the dread forces of totalitarianism. In this conflict, to emerge victorious, our nation must be strong intellectually, morally and spiritually as well as physically and economically and nothing is more important than spiritual faith. The guidance and inspiration of religion, through the ages man's most stabilizing influence, can go far in resolving current problems, in seeking truth, in re-establishing faith.

Why, as I said before, on September 26, 1852, in a sermon delivered to the Faculty and Students of Trinity, the Reverend Thomas M. Clark, Rector of Christ Church in Hartford, made a significant and discerning observation regarding what he termed "certain great political, social and ethical problems upon which the destiny of man, for weal or for woe, is intimately sus
FRANK WOOD RICHARDSON, 1884

Frank Wood Richardson, one of the College’s most loyal sons, died in New York City on September 23. He was born there on December 24, 1862, the son of George Washington Richardson and Ellen King, and prepared for college at Auburn High School, Auburn, New York. As an undergraduate, he was Captain of the Freshman Baseball Team, and the first President of the Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis Association which was formed in 1883. He delivered the Prize Oration at Commencement and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. His fraternity was the Phi Kappa Chapter of Alpha Delta Phi.

Upon graduation he entered into partnership with his father in the manufacturing and retailing of furniture in Auburn, New York, under the firm name of G. W. Richardson and Son. The firm was founded in 1812 by Mr. Richardson’s grandfather and had branches in Syracuse and New York City.

In 1931, Mr. Richardson assisted in forming the New York State Chapter of the American Institute of Decorators, and he was elected president. He was also named president of the national organization in 1935 and 1936, and chairman of the board in 1937 and 1938.

Mr. Richardson, well known for his organizing ability, all his life served others more than himself. He was President of the Auburn Board of Trade, the Auburn Board of Education, and the Auburn Young Men’s Christian Association. For eighteen years he served as Corresponding Secretary of the Cayuga County Historical Society, and he was trustee of the George Junior Republic.

For many years Mr. Richardson was chairman of the Committee on Reception of distinguished guests of the New York University Club. He was an active member of the Pilgrims and the Society of Colonial Wars.

On February 22, 1887, he married Miss Charlotte Adams of Auburn. They had three children who survive, George and John Richardson, and a daughter, Mrs. Allen S. Hubbard. L. Purdy

ROBERT WILLIAM CURTIS, 1896

Dr. Robert William Curtis, professor emeritus of Chemistry at the College of the City of New York, died at his home in Lakeville, Connecticut, on September 29, after a brief illness. He was the son of Sidney Brooks Curtis and Carrie Augusta Pratt and was born on July 4, 1869 at Bridgeport, Connecticut. Preparing for college at Hartford Public High School, Mr. Curtis entered Trinity in 1883 as a Sophomore with the Class of 1896. He had previously worked in the actuarial department of the Travelers Insurance Company for several years.

In his Junior year, Mr. Curtis was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and when he graduated he was awarded a Holland Scholarship for graduate study in Chemistry at Johns Hopkins University. He continued his graduate work at Yale, receiving his doctorate in 1904, and serving as an instructor.

Dr. Curtis taught at St. John’s Military Academy in Delafield, Wisconsin, and at Atlantic City High School before accepting an assistant professorship in chemistry at the University of Kansas in 1907. Three years later he was called to the College of the City of New York where he remained for nearly thirty years. At his retirement in 1939, he was Chairman of the Division of Quantitative Analysis. He was author of a textbook on this subject, and numerous articles appearing in scientific journals in America and Germany.

A trustee of the district school in Lakeville, Dr. Curtis was a member of Sigma Xi, the American Chemical Society, and the Chemistry Teachers Club.

Surviving are his widow, the former Miss Edith May Palmer of Hanford, and a daughter, Mrs. Frank A. Beard.

FREDERIC BULKELEY HYDE, 1898

Word has been received at the College of the death of Frederic Bulkeley Hyde on January 16, 1952. He had been on a South American trip at the time.

Mr. Hyde was born in New Haven, Connecticut, on June 17, 1875, the son of the Rev. Frederick S. Hyde and Elizabeth Whitney Bulkeley. After graduating from Philips School, he entered college in 1894, with the Class of 1898, but only remained for one-half year. His fraternity was the Beta Beta Chapter of Phi Upsilon.

Mr. Hyde traveled extensively and spent considerable time in the Samoa Islands. During World War I, he served on the Intelligence Division of the General Staff, and held the rank of Captain in the Officers Reserve Corps. Captain Hyde lived in Washington, D. C. and was secretary of the Society of Colonial Wars there.

EARLE TERRY SMITH, HON., 1903

Dr. Earle Terry Smith, one of the leading ophthalmologists in Connecticut, died at his home in West Hartford on July 23. Before his retirement in 1938 he had served on the staffs of McCook Memorial Hospital, the Institute of Living, St. Francis Hospital, New Britain General Hospital, Manchester Memorial Hospital, Johnson Memorial Hospital in Stafford Springs, Bristol Hospital, and Hartford Hospital, of which he was a member of the Board of Directors.

Dr. Smith was born in Bridgeport, Connecticut, on September 2, 1876, the son of the late Orland and Caroline McAdams Smith. He received his medical degree from Yale in 1897 and also his state certificate in that year. In 1928 he passed the American Board examination in ear, eye, nose and throat.

Trinity awarded Dr. Smith an honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1903.

Dr. Smith was a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a member of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, the American Ophthalmological Society, the American Medical Association, the Connecticut State Medical Society, the Hartford County Medical Society, and the Hartford Medical Society. He was the author of several papers on his specialty, and did all his practice in Hartford. In World War I he served in France with the Yale unit of the Army Medical Corps and was discharged with the rank of major.

In recent years Dr. Smith became interested in horse racing and breeding. He bought a stable in Kentucky, where he spent much of his time. Dr. Smith also developed the Sunset Farms area of West Hartford, and was closely connected with the Ethel Walker School in Simsbury, which his wife founded.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Walker Smith.

HAROLD GROSS HART, 1907

Harold Gross Hart, the son of the late Artemas Elijah and Katherine Agnes Litchfield Hart, died in Glastonbury, Connecticut, on September 9. He was born in Hartford on November 4, 1881, and prepared for college at Phillips Academy in Andover, Massachusetts.

Mr. Hart entered College in 1903, with the Class of 1907 but only remained one year. His fraternity was IKA.

For many years Mr. Hart was active in the brokerage business in Hartford and was secretary of the Hartford Stock Exchange. He was associated with the Kennedy-Peterson Investment Company for many years and also operated his own investment business.

He leaves his wife, the former Miss Frances O’Brien; a daughter, Miss Sarah DeLeon; and a son, Captain John R. Hart. Funeral services were held in the College Chapel.

WILBERT AUSTIN SMITH, 1910

As an undergraduate he was Chairman of the Freshman-Junior Banquet Committee and member of the Mandolin Club, German Club, Jesters and 18
EDWARD LEARNED POLLOCK, JR., 1915

It is with regret that we announce the death on August 3rd, last of Edward Learned Pollock, Jr. of Suffield, Conn. Mr. Pollock was one of the active alumni of Trinity College and of the Beta Beta Chapter of Psi Upsilon. For the last 12 years he had lived in Florida, where he was one of the first vestrymen of Calvary Episcopal Church. He is survived by his wife, Margaret Islin Pollock, and a brother, Woolsey McAlpin Pollock.

JOSEPH HULME CAHILL, 1916

Joseph Hulme Cahill died suddenly on September 7 in River Forest, Illinois. He was ever interested in and an active supporter of Alumni affairs. Besides his wife, the former Miss Dorothy Vanessa Rice of Leominster, Massachusetts, whom he married on September 26, 1918, he leaves two sons; Joseph, Jr., Class of 1943, and John; two daughters, Mrs. Gladys Harmahan, and Joyce; and a brother, William, Class of 1920.

MR. EDGAR RICHARD COLES, JR., 1929

Edgar Richard Coles died in Bradenton, Florida, on August 1 after a long illness. His funeral was held in the College Chapel. Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Agnes Kirk Henderson of Scranton, Pennsylvania, and a son, Edgar Richard, III.

Mr. Coles was born in Hartford on July 26, 1906, the son of Edgar Richard and Agnes Heath Coles. After attending Hartford Public and Weaver High Schools, he entered college in 1925 with the Class of 1929. As an undergraduate he was a member of the Glee Club, the Junior Prom Committee, and the Chairman of the Senior Ball Committee. He was Manager of the 1929 Baseball Team. His fraternity was Alpha Tau Kappa.

After graduating from Trinity, Mr. Coles worked for the Travelers Insurance Company for one year, and then joined the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company in Hartford. In 1941 a severe attack of arthritis forced him to move to Florida and he was employed by the Gulf Terrace Cottages in Bradenton until 1947. Recently he had been with Modern Neon Signs Company of Bradenton.

JAMES JACKSON, Hon. 1937

James Jackson, former State Treasurer of Massachusetts, died on June 23 in Boston, Massachusetts. A native of Boston, Mr. Jackson was graduated from Groton School in 1900 and from Harvard College in 1904.

After his graduation from college he worked for nine years with Lee Higinson Corporation and then joined the Paul Revere Trust Company which was later absorbed by the State Street Trust Company.

During World War I Mr. Jackson resigned as vice president of the State Street Trust to become manager of the New England Division of the American Red Cross. In 1920 he was elected State Treasurer and published the Republican nomination in a sticker campaign. He served in the office until 1924 when he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

In 1927 he served as chairman of a special board of arbitration to determine what constituted a fair day's pay for locomotive firemen and engineers. He also served in 1931 on a special state finance committee for the city of Fall River. He was former president of the Boston Management Corporation.

Mr. Jackson was always interested in aviation and in 1920 he was a leader in the plan to develop an airport in Boston for commercial dirigibles. He was a director of Boston University and the Massachusetts Division of the New England Council. For many years he was a trustee of Brooks School, North Andover, Massachusetts.

In 1937 the College awarded Mr. Jackson the honorary degree of Master of Arts.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Rachel Brooks Jackson; two sons, James, Jr. and Frank, Class of 1938; and five daughters, Miss Helen Jackson, Mrs. W. B. Felton, Mrs. Gurdon Buck, Mrs. Manning Emery, and Mrs. Latham Murfey.

BERNARD LEO MULLINS, JR., 1944

Bernard Leo Mullins, Jr. died in Hartford on July 11, after a long illness.

Bernie was one of the leaders in the Class of '44. He was born on December 16, 1922, in Stafford Springs, Connecticut, and later moved to Hartford where he attended Bulkeley High School. From his first entrance onto the Trinity Campus, Bernie became a popular and respected man in his class. His friendliness and warmth, combined with his abilities and great interest in college affairs, soon placed him in a position of leadership on the campus. Entering Trinity in September, 1940, he became a member of the Glee Club Choir and joined Alpha Chi Rho fraternity. Bernie was most interested in radio, was one of the early promoters of the Trinity Station, and later became program announcer.

During World War II, Bernie was in the Army and was for a time chief announcer for Armed Forces Radio Station in Osaka, Japan.

Returning to Trinity, he received his B.A. degree in 1947. On May 27, 1947, Bernie married Barbara Brancherry of West Hartford.

After graduation, Bernie became an announcer at Station WBRY in Waterbury, then in September, 1947, he joined Station WKNB in New Britain as announcer. A year later he was made program director, remaining there until 1950, when he joined the automotive firm of Intertown Motors in Hartford as Office Manager and Assistant to the President. He was a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Bernie always retained his interest in Trinity, serving as Class Agent for 1944 for three years after graduation, and after that as a sub-agent.

He leaves his wife, a daughter Pamela Ann, a son Bernard J., his parents, and a brother Robert. Class of 1950.

RICHARD LEWIS PARSONS, 1947

Richard L. Parsons, '47, died September 23rd in Drexel Hills, Pa.

Dick was better known as "Eerie" to us. He was a member of the Pi Deltas and President of the Seabury Society. He was also a member of Delta Phi.

Dick was always a pleasure to meet on campus. He was never at a loss for words and was always in good humor.

He was born and grew up in Maine. He was a veteran and attended the University of Michigan, in addition to Trinity. Although he died at an early age, Dick will long be remembered by those who knew him.

1951-52 Alumni Fund Report

In August 1951 the Executive Committee of the National Alumni Association approved a goal of $50,000 for the 1951-52 Alumni Fund, for the payment of increased faculty and staff salaries voted by the Trustees in July 1951. The Alumni Fund Committee, Class Agents, and particularly the Parents’ Committee deserve a great deal of credit, as on June 30th, the closing date of the Fund, $51,521.64 had been received from the 1896 contributors. In addition, alumni gave much of the $21,000 subscribed to the Student Emergency Fund to aid Football Captain Bill Goralski.

Much of the credit for the success of the ’52 Fund goes to the Parents’ Committee headed by Cyril S. Stanley, father of James Stanley ’52. Mr. Stanley and his Committee raised $15,347.13, almost 30 per cent of our goal, from 165 parents. This more than doubled the amount raised from 85 parents last year. We were extremely fortunate in having a Chairman of the Parents’ Committee such as Mr. Stanley, who made numerous trips to the College, signed personal letters to all parents of our students, and encouraged all through the drive with his enthusiasm.

As noted on page 23 of this report, in the four-year comparison, our total alumni percentage since 1949 has increased from 22.1 to 35.6, and our graduate percentage from 28.3 to 44.8. We had hoped that this year would have seen at least 50 per cent of our graduates contributing and hope that this will be so next year. The average alumni gift was $19.88, an increase of $1.30 over last year.

The splendid performance of the recent classes of ’49, ’50 and ’51 in percentage of contributors has reflected in the average gift since these many gifts of younger alumni were naturally modest. Their enthusiasm, particularly under the Burgess Plan is our greatest resource for the future. It is interesting to note that the Class of ’50 was given a quota of $500.00 and raised $990.00.

Again this year the Executive Secretary of the Alumni Fund was most fortunate in the choice of the Chairmain, George C. Capen ’10, an alumnus who has always given freely of his time to Trinity. Mr. Capen was a leader in every phase of the Fund’s activities. Credit should also be given to Sidney H. Whipple ’22, Chairman of the Special Gifts Committee; to both L. Barton Wilson ’37, Chairman of Promotion, and to George Malcolm-Smith ’25, Vice Chairman, for the many hours spent in writing copy and planning ideas for mailings; and to the 64 class agents, listed later in this report.

16 Does It Again!

At the Annual Class Agents’ Dinner on November 8th, the 1934 Alumni Fund Trophy was won for the fourth consecutive year by the Class of 1916, Robert S. Morris, Agent. The scoring for the trophy is based on a point score system covering percentages of givers, average amount of gift, total amount of contributors and improvements.

George Malcolm-Smith, '25, Heads 1953 Alumni Fund Drive For $60,000

Harmon T. Barber, '19, President of the National Alumni Association, the fund vice-chairman; John E. Griffith, Jr., '17, chairman of special gifts; Robert O. Muller, '31, vice-chairman of special gifts; and L. Barton Wilson, III, '37, chairman of promotion.

The Fund will open early in November and continue until June 30. The goal is $60,000 to continue such projects as increasing faculty salaries, additional scholarships and meeting generally increased costs.

The annual Class Agents Dinner was held on November 7 in Hamlin Dining Hall with Hugh S. Campbell, '32, as Toastmaster. Mr. Barber, Mr. Malcolm-Smith and Acting President Hughes stressed the importance of the continued success of the Alumni Fund. Chuck Kingston, '34, presented the '34 Trophy for the fourth successive year to Bob Morris, '16, which again made the best record of any class in the annual Alumni Fund. President-elect Jacobs expressed his belief in the importance of independent education and its private support.

Last spring the Alumni Association appointed Horace S. Vaile, Jr. Class Agent for '52. The following were appointed to the Class Agent Committee: Felix J. Callan, Nicholas J. Christakos, Richard P. Ellin, William M. Gannon, Fred Murray Hastings, Antony Mason, Allan Miller, John W. Nesteruk, Robert L. Russell, A. Finley Schaefer, David R. Smith, Edward B. Thomas, Robert W. Whirbird, Benneville D. Wilmot, Jr., John B. Wynne. Prior to graduation, the Committee signed up nearly 100% of their class for the Burgess Plan.

Each year since the Alumni Fund was reorganized under the Alumni Association's supervision five years ago, your Fund Committee has met with College officials to discuss the most pressing needs of the coming year. Last year the most urgent requirement was an increase in faculty salaries, and we alumni may take some pride in the achievement of this aim.

This year the problem is to obtain sufficient income to help offset the general increase in the cost of operating the college. This means that Trinity needs our assistance in continuing such projects as the salary increases granted the faculty, the awarding of additional scholarships to deserving students, the defrayment of increased costs of maintenance, and the operating expense of the new library.

To achieve these desirable ends, $60,000 is needed. The raising of that amount is the responsibility of us alumni, though, as in the past few years, we shall have the gracious and generous assistance of the parents of Trinity undergraduates.

A survey of last year's Fund results reveals that a ten percent increase in the amount of individual gifts, plus a ten percent increase in the number of givers, is needed to reach this year's goal.

I have no doubt that you understand the need, and that you will respond.

Chairman, Alumni Fund

old friend, the Very Reverend James A. Pike, Dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. 'Actually,' he said, 'there are only two ways to keep a lot of people in line: they must be held together spiritually from the inside, or beat together physically from the outside. Thus what is called for to save us from outward tyranny is the inward source of self-discipline.' My friends, self-discipline is the goal of education.
