The old man, white hair tousled defiantly above an age-splotched but kindly face, approached the platform with short, sure steps. Twelve hundred chattering voices became suddenly still. Twelve hundred people rose as one to send a wave of applause rebounding about the cavernous field house. This was Robert Frost at Trinity, October 11, 1962.

For three weeks the campus had been awaiting this first visit from the venerable Vermonter who has a way of making words poetry. Now 700 undergraduates - traditionally blase about appearances by so-called famous persons - combined with faculty and area residents to pack the field house and hear words of wisdom from a man whose name for many is synonymous with poetry.

The crashing ovation died away; President Jacobs made his introduction. Frost came to the lectern, his bushy white brows arched over twinkling eyes. For the next hour and a quarter, he combined poetry with his special brand of New England wit to captivate a willing audience.

He "said" various of his poems - famous ones, such as "Mending Wall" and "Stopping By a Woods on a Snowy Evening," little-known ones such as "The Peril of Hope." But more than that, he talked. His voice deep, bordering at times on gruffness, Frost rambled leisurely over a wide range of topics - literary critics, education, poetry, Russia, the audience itself. He spoke with the simplicity and directness which characterize his poems.

The poet complained critics frequently misunderstand his works. He warned against reading too much meaning into them, saying they have to be taken as "straight goods."

Glancing across an audience which included a majority of the Trinity faculty, Frost turned to liberal education; "All liberals have a liberal education. That's what's wrong with them." In a few minutes he was saying he had a friend whose doctoral thesis was bought, published and read. "Most theses aren't meant to be bought and read," he chuckled. Not a professor was reported to have grimaced at either remark.

Following the appearance, a member of the audience remarked that Frost has reached the status of an old sage who can be irreverent about anything and get away with it. By way of illustration, Frost even turned his humor toward God: "if you'll forgive me all these little jokes I've played on you, I'll forgive You the great big one You played on me."

As he spoke, Frost frequently toyed with his spectacles. Once he started to put them on, but stopped and asserted, "I don't need that." Later, he donned them, only to remove them with a sharp "darn things."
Poet and President

"Say it simple."

"At night I didn't get a notion of the beauty of the place."

... and autographs, too

He was equally emphatic about poetry: "It's written to be memorable... so that you can't get it out of your head... no poem is anything to me unless it's catchy. Shakespeare is full of things like that. You can't get them out of your head, sometimes to your regret."

"You're lost if you have to study your way into poetry," Frost continued, aiming another barb at education: "That's meant to discourage liberal education."

"But," Frost apologized, "tonight I talk more about literature than usual. I normally talk politics."

With this, the poet was off on a rapid review of his recent trip to the Soviet Union: "I've just been where my life depended on my interpreters." He said they kept undercutting him "by taking the edge off my words... they didn't want the devilment, I guess."

Later, Frost turned his attention to the Soviet premier, whom he had been quoted as calling a "ruffian" while in Russia. Khruschev is "a very wonderful old fellow," the poet said, but also "a very formidable man. Don't you forget that."

From here Frost turned to his poem "Mending Wall" which had caused a sensation when read in the Soviet Union. It caused a sensation in the Trinity audience too, for this was what one acidic commentator had called "the week of the wall."

Three days prior to Frost's visit, a large fence of heavy creosoted timbers was constructed between Jones and Elton dorms. Several hundred students massed there to demand the fence come down. Their rallying cry had been "something there is that doesn't love a wall, that wants it down." At the time he read the poem, Frost wasn't aware of its appropriateness, but the next day, after being filled in on details, he made it a point to visit Trinity's version of the Berlin barricade.

Not even the audience escaped the poet's verbal barbs. He accused many of coming to see him that never read his poetry. But at the end of the evening, Frost thanked the audience for giving him "a fine time." It responded with two standing ovations before the Pulitzer-Prize-winning poet could leave the platform.

Thursday night, the poet stayed with H. Bacon Collamore, recently elected chairman of the Library Associates, which sponsored the program. Mr. Collamore is an old friend of the poet, and has collected Frost memorabilia for many years. He reported that Frost stayed up until past midnight entertaining a small group of well-wishers after the field-house appearance.

By 11:30 Friday morning the poet was back on campus, now engaged in what he has often called a favorite pastime - talking to students. He sat in an arm chair in Alumni Lounge of Mather Hall, with about 35 selected students arrayed about him, many on the floor. They plied him with questions on a broad range of subjects. For each he had a deft and ready answer.
Frost said the dictum "know thyself" is not very good wisdom. "You get cross-eyed looking inside yourself."

One student wanted to know about Frost's days in Paris during his early career. The poet replied with a reminiscence about Ezra Pound. Several years ago Frost was instrumental in gaining Pound's release from an insane asylum. "He's too crazy to be tried; not crazy enough to hurt anyone; so let's let him go," Frost said he told authorities in petitioning for his fellow poet's release. Pound, who now lives in Italy, currently has only one "dirty word" in his vocabulary, Frost related. "That's another mark of insanity — to have only one dirty word."

The question session went on for an hour, with Frost amiably bantering with his questioners. That some were 70 years his junior seemed forgotten. He closed by saying "Birches." Many of the students then clustered about him to shake hands and have him autograph copies of the special Tripod issue marking his visit.

A luncheon given by President Jacobs was next on the schedule. About 50 student leaders, Trustees, and faculty attended, and were treated to an impromptu talk by the poet at the end. During the luncheon, Frost was heard to ask Senate President John Waggett: "You always have strong teams, don't you?" The husky former football player nodded his assent.

From the luncheon, Frost moved to the library, there to view a collection of his mementoes loaned by Mr. Collamore. As word spread through the building the poet had arrived, all academic work ground to a halt. Students and staff members crowded around the lobby to watch the old man, to try and catch his comments.

The poet next moved out into the Quad, followed closely by admirers. He shook hands with several, including one young woman who had driven up from New Haven. The lawn was covered with a light blanket of autumn-tinged leaves. As Frost shuffled through them, he said, his hand sweeping in an arc across the campus, "coming in the way I did last night, I didn't get a notion of the beauty of the place."

Students on the Long Walk paused to watch the white-haired old patriarch make his way toward the Chapel. Two photographers scurried about him, shutters clicking constantly, but he was oblivious to them.

Inside the Chapel, he commented "that's beautiful," peering toward the main altar from the rear. Seeing the fraternity flags in the friendship chapel, the poet remarked one thing he doesn't like is fraternity initiation dinners; "too much of a cut up."

It was 2:45 when Robert Frost walked under the Williams Memorial clock and out to Mr. Collamore's waiting auto. He took one last look over the campus, before a guard opened the door and aided him into the car. The entourage of curious students had thinned to a handful as he pulled from the curb. The next day he was to appear at Mount Holyoke, where Trinity men are said to have had occasional love affairs. One could not help but feel as the poet was sped away down Summit Street that sometimes-stuffy old Trinity has just finished something of a love affair herself.
The return of William Bird '12 from Tangier, Morocco, for the 50th-year Reunion of his Class last June was an exciting event for Mr. Bird, the College, and particularly the Trinity College Library.

At the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in the Field House, Mr. Bird received the prize for the alumnus who had come the greatest distance. In the Library Conference Room immediately following the award, Mr. Bird spoke to an audience of faculty, alumni, and Library Associates about his experiences as a journalist and printer in Paris in the early 1920's.

The great excitement for the College came with the announcement that the treasures of Mr. Bird's personal book collection had just come to Trinity. This unique collection covers the years when the young expatriate writers, seeking outlets for expression and publication, had gathered on the banks of the Seine. Mr. Bird's warm and witty description of his associations with these young writers formed the basis for a most unusual talk.

As the result of much long-distance negotiating with Bird in Tangier, and in competition with several other major academic libraries, the Library Associates purchased the Bird Collection of private press books for presentation to the Library. This was the first major purchase by the Associates in their short existence.

The following is a brief commentary with photographs of some of the "high spots" of the acquisition. A few insights into the career of one of Trinity's most distinguished living alumni, and the part that a devotion to fine printing played in it, will help to underscore the importance of this collection and also to understand the man who made it possible.

Mr. Bird was valedictorian of his 1912 class, editor-in-chief of both the Tripod and the Ivy, and class poet at his commencement exercises. Following his graduation with the Henry E. Russell Fellowship, he studied at the Sorbonne and served as the Paris correspondent for the New York Tribune.
famous authors of the '20's

After service in the American Ambulance Corps in World War I, Mr. Bird returned to Paris as a newspaperman. It was at this time that he became the owner of a hand printing press and, under the name of the Three Mountains Press, began to publish the work of such young expatriates as Ernest Hemingway, Ezra Pound, and William Carlos Williams. Bird has described his venture into printing as follows:

I started the Three Mountains Press simply to have a hobby. Most of my friends were golfers, but sports never interested me greatly, whereas ever since my childhood I have had an interest in printing. I discovered on the Ile of St. Louis a French journalist, Roger Dèvigne, who was printing books on a hand press of about the Benjamin Franklin vintage. I arranged with Dèvigne to print English books on his press after acquiring a full series of Caslon type for that purpose. After a short time, however, the adjoining shop fell vacant and I bought a hand press of my own, also of a model about two centuries old.1

Mr. Bird's printing venture soon had an editor in the person of Ezra Pound. In 1922 at the Genoa Economic Conference Bird had become acquainted with another young journalist named Ernest Hemingway. Back in Paris, Hemingway persuaded Bird to see Pound about printing some of Pound's own work. This inquiry resulted in a suggested series of six books and an offer by Pound, quickly accepted, to serve as the editor of the fledgling Three Mountains Press with its motto, Levavi oculos meos in montes.

The six books were Indiscretions or Une revue de deux mondes by Ezra Pound; Men and Women by Ford Madox Ford; Elimus: a story by B. C. Windeler; The Great American Novel by William Carlos Williams; England by B. M. Gould Adams; and in our time by Ernest Hemingway.

Because Bird could work at his printing hobby only in his spare time, and because he believed in fine craftsmanship and took the time to perform it, the printing of the series dragged along. Hemingway's first book, in our time, the last of the six in the series, was so slow in seeing the light of day that the impatient Hemingway took another literary manuscript to one Robert McAlmon, the publisher of Contact Editions. McAlmon had it printed in Dijon by Darantière who had printed James Joyce's Ulysses. It appeared in 1924 under the title, Three Stories and Ten Poems, a few months before in our time, which had been originally projected as Hemingway's first book.

At this juncture Bird and McAlmon joined forces, Bird with an office and a secretary, McAlmon with a financial "nest-egg" from a wealthy father-in-law—and both with rooms full of unsold books needing promotion. Bird tried to maintain the distinction between his "printing office" and McAlmon's "publishing house" with a press in Dijon, but the latter could not be bothered with such fine points and placed both imprints on his subsequent books.

Many of the books printed by Bird or published by McAlmon have come to Trinity in this newly acquired collection. Because these books were produced in very limited editions and the sales amounted to only a few copies, and because Mr. Bird's personal copies carry association notes of real interest and value, this purchase by the Library Associates is most significant. The accompanying pictures show some of the most noteworthy books and their unique associations.

Through the original craftsmanship of a creative alumnus, his collector's instinct, and the wisdom and generosity of the Library Associates, the rare book collections of the Trinity and Watkinson Libraries have been greatly enriched. The purchase is both a tribute to a distinguished son of Trinity and a bonanza for our Library and the scholars who come to it.

Chaplain and Mrs. J. Moulton Thomas spent the last week in June on a trip to Africa where they visited Cuttington College in Liberia. The Chaplain took greetings from President Jacobs and from Trinity's "Committee for Cuttington College."

They were welcomed at a student assembly by Cuttington's Dean Mason as President Christian Baker was here in the United States where, in August, he visited the Trinity campus for the second time.

At the assembly, Chaplain Thomas presented a check for $100 from our Chapel Vestry to the chairman of Cuttington's student body, a soccer ball sent by Professor Karl Kurth to their "football captain," a color filmstrip and an LP record of campus life from Admissions Director F. Gardiner F. Bridge. As a token of other books which will be sent to the Cuttington Library, he also presented a copy of the late Professor Costello's Books for a College Student's Reading.

The Chaplain discussed with Cuttington's faculty and students many ways in which Trinity might aid their college. In a later issue of the Alumni Magazine we hope to publish a more complete report.

Dr. Edmond LaB. Cherbonnier, who is on sabbatical leave this year, may be reached at the following address: Flat 3, 2 South Eaton Place, Belgravia, London, S.W. 1, England.

Dr. William A. Johnson, assistant professor of religion, has completed the translation from Swedish to English of Christopher Polhem's Swed­ish Technology. He is serving as editor of the book for Trustee Karl W. Hallden '06 who has long held a high regard for his family from the period of the daguerrotype to a well-developed photographic art at the time of its debut in 1827. These should contribute to changing the traditional or static view of the "sage of Concord" who is known to many people through only two or three pictures.

Director of Admissions F. Gardiner F. Bridge was moderator for a special workshop on the College Admissions Center in Evanston, Illinois, in October. The workshop was part of the Association of College Admissions Counselors' 18th Na­tional Conference on Admission to College.

The College Admissions Center, which started in 1958, is the first and largest of the non-profit admissions clearing houses. Mr. Bridge, who is chairman of the Center's Advisory Board, recently stated: "The College Admissions Center has been one of education's major rescue operations for over five years - it is one very successful point of attack on the drop-out of discouraged students in transition from school to college."

Mr. Bridge has also taken part this fall in several local high school programs dealing with college admissions.

Five Trinity professors are scheduled to participate in the annual Conard High School Lecture Series this year.

Dr. Richard K. Morris '40 will give two lectures: "Anthropological Analysis of the Joyce-Christie "Dame Edith" and "Basic Concepts of the Modern World."

Dr. Clarence H. Barber also will give two lectures: "Music in the Renaissance" and "Trends in Modern Music."

"The Judeo-Christian Concept" is the subject of Dr. Theodor M. Mauch's lecture. Dr. Philip L. Kintner will speak on "Historical and Cultural Aspects of the Renaissance" and Professor John C. E. Taylor will treat "Classical Ideas and Themes in Renaissance Art."

Tomorrow's Math by former Trinity faculty member, C. Stanley Ogilvy, associate professor of mathematics, Hamilton College, was published by Oxford University Press last September. It gives amateur mathematicians a wonderful opportunity to beat the professionals to the solution of some unsolved problems from the world of mathematics.

Dr. Clarence H. Barber, associate professor of music, conducted the first American performance of Marc Antoine Charpentier's Te Deum in D Major at the College in early November. The participating choirs were the Trinity and Pine Manor College choirs.

Dr. Robert D. Meade, associate professor of psychology, delivered two lectures at a Psychology Colloquium at Gustavus Adolphus College in Minnesota. Dr. Meade is chairman of the College Lecture Committee which has already brought to the campus the two Connecticut senatorial candidates, Abraham Ribicoff and Horace Seely Brown, and William Lederer, co-author of The Ugly American.

The Rev. Robert Goodwin is assisting Chaplain J. Moulton Thomas with his duties this year. He received his B.A. from Columbia University and his Bachelor of Divinity from Hartford Theological Seminary. A recipient of the William Thompson Fellowship Award, the Rev. Mr. Goodwin also did graduate work at the Princeton Theological Seminary.

The assistant to the Chaplain is serving as adviser to the Christian Association and conducts Chapel services two mornings a month.

Dr. Glenn Weaver, associate professor of history, appears as author of the sections on Bristol, Norwalk, and Torrington in the 1962 Encyclopaedia Britannica. He summarizes the history of these cities and provides up-to-date information about their commerce, industry and population. The bulletin of the Connecticut Historical Society contains a book review on "A Half-Century of Yale History Through Presidential Biography" by Dr. Weaver. His review is based upon two books, "Puritan Protagonist: President Thomas Clap of Yale College" by Lewis Tucker and "The Gentle Puritan: A Life of Ezra Stiles" by Edmund S. Morgan.

Dr. M. Curtis Langhorne, professor of psychology and chairman of the department, attended the American Psychological Association's annual meeting in St. Louis last August.

Dr. Langhorne is Secretary-Treasurer of the New England Psychological Association and served as chairman of a symposium on "State Psychological Association Goals and Criteria of Effectiveness."

Associate professor of English John A. Dando is continuing his programs on the Voice of America. He can also be seen on Channel 3, WTIC-TV in Hartford, as moderator of the popular quiz program "What In The World?"

ASSOCIATION NOTES

Alumni Secretary John A. Mason '34 has had a busy summer. Through his efforts forty-eight pictures of the past presidents of the College's Alumni Association have been gathered, framed and hung in the Committee Room of the Student Center. The Alumni Association, one of the oldest in the country, was formed in 1831, and the late Isaac E. Crary, Class of 1827, was elected its first president.

In 1845 when the College changed its name from Washington to Trinity, the name of the Alumni Association became the House of Convocation. The presiding officer was entitled Dean, and nearly all the holders of this office were Episcopal clergymen. In 1883 the name reverted to Alumni Association, which year, incidentally, was the first in which the alumni had the right to vote for Alumni Trustees.

There are two pictures of past presidents which the Alumni Office so far has been unable to find. They are William S. Cogswell, Class of 1861, and Percy S. Bryant, Class of 1870. If any alumnus or friend of the College has suggestions as to how the Alumni Office may obtain pictures of these men, please write John A. Mason '34, Alumni Secretary.

William R. Peelle '44 of Arrow Hartford Electric Co. was awarded the coveted Trinity Club of Hartford award as "Outstanding Alumnus of the Year." The award, which annually goes to an alumnus out of Trinity 20 years or less, was presented by J. Ronald Regnier '30 at the annual fall dinner of the Hartford Alumni on the eve of the Wesleyan game.

Mr. Peelle served the College for nine years as alumni secretary and later as secretary of admissions before joining Arrow Hartford Electric Co. A resident of West Hartford, Mr. Peelle has continued to be active in college affairs as well as civic affairs where he has served the Community Chest, Symphony Society and other organizations.

Officers elected were Dave Tyler '43 of West Hartford, president; Andrew Milligan '45 of West Hartford, vice president; Bernard F. Wilbur Jr. '50 of Hartford, secretary; and Ben Silverberg '19 of Hartford, reelected treasurer.

Nelson A. Shepard '21 of West Hartford was reelected chairman of the scholarship committee. Those reelected to the executive committee for a term of two years were E. Laird Mortimer III '57 and James R. Glassco Jr. '50, West Hartford.

The main speaker for the evening was Robert Lucas, editor of the Hartford Times.

Along The Walk

The new college flag in the Chapel is the gift of Mrs. Harold J. Lockwood in memory of her late husband, Harold J. Lockwood, who was Halden Professor of Engineering and Chairman of the Department. The presentation of the flag was made on the occasion of the Chapel's 30th anniversary in May by the donor's son, Dr. John Lockwood, professor of physics at the University of New Hampshire.

President Jacobs and Dr. Edwin P. Nyberg, who succeeded Professor Lockwood as Halden Professor of Engineering, accepted the flag which was dedicated by Chaplain J. Moulton Thomas. It replaces the original flag which has been in the Chapel since 1932.

The Connecticut Council of Teachers of English held its fifth annual fall English Conference at Trinity College October 26. More than 500 secondary school English teachers attended the day-long session.

Dr. Harold C. Martin, Harvard University, who is chairman of the Commission on English, gave the keynote at the opening meeting on "Training and retraining of secondary school English teachers." Several discussion groups, led by high school and college faculty members, followed the meeting.

In addition to attending meetings, the teachers visited Trinity English classes, exhibits at the Library and Mather Hall, and toured the studios of Channel 24 (Connecticut Educational Television Corporation).

Miss Dorothy Potter of Bulkeley High School in Hartford was general chairman of the conference, and Assistant Professor Paul Smith of the Trinity English Department was local chairman.

The Suisman Foundation has granted $10,000 to the College to establish a scholarship in honor of Melvin W. Title '18. Samuel Suisman presented the award to Dr. Jacobs at a dinner for the Capital Area Scholars. The Suisman Foundation was created in 1943 by Edward A. and Samuel Suisman and is the sponsor of the Governor Ribicoff and Suisman Foundation Scholarships established at Trinity in 1955.

Trinity received a third-place citation in "Promotion of Capital Gifts" for its Math-Physics brochure at the American Alumni Council national conference in Banff this past summer. Vice President Albert E. Holland, who presented a paper at the conference, accepted the award for the College. Trinity also received honorable mention and a check for $150.00 in the alumni giving incentive program. This award was for Trinity's sustained efforts in its alumni program.

At the American College Public Relations Association conference held in the Greenbrier, West Virginia, Trinity received first-place citation for the Math-Physics brochure in the category of "Capitol and Total Gift Support." Kenneth C. Parker, who participated in the conference as chairman of a panel discussion on church-related colleges, accepted the award. Four other publications were selected for display (honorable mention): Cesare Barberi Courrier (Special Publications); Admissions Recruiting Filmstrip (Audio-Visual Materials); Estate Planning brochures (Estate Planning); and the Excellence brochures (Annual Gift Support).

Trinity also received awards for its fund-raising brochures from the Baltimore Arts Directors Club, the Philadelphia Advertising Club and the Advertising Club of Hartford.

At the tenth annual Business and Industry Dinner it was announced that businesses and industries of greater Hartford area have contributed $891,000 to the Math-Physics Building now under construction. John A. Hill, co-chairman of the building campaign and president of Aetna Life Affiliated Companies, reported to 150 guests at the dinner that $1,319,500 or 77 per cent of the Hartford goal is now on hand.

William P. Gwinn, Hon. '61, president of United Aircraft Corporation and fund chairman for the industrial companies, said that sixty companies have pledged $420,000 - 99 per cent of their goal. Henry B. Parker, chairman of Aetna Life Affiliated Companies and fund chairman for the insurance companies, said that the names of all eleven insurance companies will be on the plaque in the reception hall of the mathematics floor.

Dr. Jacobs welcomed the guests and Ostrom Enders, chairman of the Hartford National Bank and Trust Company and a Life Trustee of the College, delivered a ten-year report on the Trinity College Associates.

The Connecticut Educational Television Corporation is now operating WEDH Channel 24, from studios on the lower level of the Trinity College Library. Channel 24 covers the highly-populated central Connecticut area, and plans call for two other stations, one in Norwich and one in Bridgeport, so that educational television will reach all parts of the state.

The unique plan of cooperative activity by the College and the Connecticut Educational Television Corporation began about a year ago with a joint committee working out operational agreement. The list of members included Trinity Trustees John R. Reitemeyer '22, publisher of the Hartford Courant, and Robert S. Morris '16, president of Robert S. Morris and Company. Robert M. Vogel, dean of graduate studies, and Kenneth C. Parker, director of public relations, served as representatives of the College's administrative staff. CETF Trustees on the committee were Carter W. Atkins of Simsbury, Conn.; John D. Briscoe of Lakeville, Conn., and Ernest A. Johnson of New Haven. Ben A. Hudelson is general manager of the corporation.

The WEDH programming covers a variety of subjects. During the morning and early afternoon it is devoted mainly to in-school programs, designed to assist the classroom teacher of elementary and secondary school students.

Dr. Richard K. Morris '40, associate professor of education, recently took part in the televised school program, "Contemporary Issues." The current world crisis received immediate attention by a panel of Trinity professors when they discussed "Contemporary Cuban Crisis," with John J. Gale of William Hall High School in West Hartford as host. Panel participants included Lt. Col. Richard B. Olney, professor of air science; Dr. Rex C. Neaverson, associate professor of government; Albert L. Gastmann, instructor in government; and Thomas E. Willey, instructor in history. The program was heard in the schools in the morning and was repeated in the evening.

On the college level, Channel 24 is offering "The American Economy" with Dr. John R. Coleman and "Modern Algebra," which is being taught by Dr. John L. Kelley. During late afternoon and evening hours programming is aimed at the adult audience, with the exception of the hours from 4:30 to 6:00 P.M., which are reserved for children's programs.

In addition to the support of Trinity College, which is providing space for the studios, the television corporation has received gifts and subscriptions from the State of Connecticut, several educational foundations, business and industrial concerns, and thousands of individuals.

The College is represented on CETF's board of trustees by President Jacobs and Trinity Trustee Robert S. Morris '16. Kenneth C. Parker of Trinity serves on the station's program committee. Samuel Edsall '49 is the chief engineer for the new station.

Bir Zeit University in Jordan was the recipient of 800 books from the students of Trinity. A Senate-sponsored drive for books last spring resulted in the shipment to the University whose students have "a genuine thirst for learning." Dr. Robert D. Meade, associate professor of psychology, visited Bir Zeit and suggested the book drive to the Senate.
The Freshman Convocation Programs, sponsored by the Freshman-Sophomore Advisory Council, have proved even more successful this year than in preceding years. Under the leadership of Dr. M. Curtis Langhorne, chairman of the psychology department, the talks served to answer two basic questions for freshmen: (1) What is the purpose of a Trinity education? (2) What is my purpose?

President Jacobs opened the series September 17 when he spoke to the incoming class on "The Prime Purposes of a Trinity Education." Succeeding lectures presented the purposes from the viewpoint of faculty members. Concluding the program Dr. Langhorne conducted three lectures to help the student better understand himself.

Members of the Department of Religion are conducting a monthly "Colloquium" which will give students an opportunity to exchange ideas with the faculty. Dr. Theodor Mauch, associate professor of religion and acting chairman of the department, said the aim of the monthly colloquium was to provide Trinity College as a community of persons on the growing edge of mind, to share in the results of study and research and to enjoy more frequent dialogue.

A gift of $500 to be used as incentive awards to members of the Glee Club and College Choir has been made by Charles Byron Spofford Jr. '16. Mr. Spofford was bass soloist in both the organizations as an undergraduate and president of the groups in his senior year.

President Jacobs has appointed a committee of three to select the recipients of the awards. They are Mrs. Ronald E. Kinney, wife of Ronald E. Kinney '15, chairman, Edward A. Niles '16 and Clifford H. Perkins '16.

Trinity students and faculty were assured, subsequent to the announcement of the Cuban crisis, that adequate fallout shelters and detection equipment are available on the campus in case of a nuclear attack.

In a memo to the students and faculty, the chairman of the College Civil Defense Advisory Board, Edwin P. Nye, professor of engineering, reported that the CD Board appointed over a year ago has found shelter areas on campus which with minor modifications can provide more than adequate shielding from fallout radiation for the entire campus population under emergency conditions.

Professor Nye pointed out that during the summer a supply of concrete blocks had been secured and stored in the window areas of Mather Hall for use to provide blocking of radiation penetration in window areas. Some radiation monitoring equipment is on hand and additional material have been on order for several months.

Professor Nye said the CD Board has sought "to make reasonable preparations, free from any atmosphere of panic or doom." Student leaders have been called on to plan consideration of their role in the campus civil defense program.

Besides the chairman, members of the College Civil Defense Advisory Board are: Lt. Col. Richard B. Olney, professor of air science; Dr. Robert H. Smellie, professor of chemistry; Dr. Robert Lindsay, associate professor of physics; Norman Walker, director of buildings and grounds; Dr. Francis L. Lundborg, college physician; Wendell E. Kraft, assistant to the president; and Dean H. Kelsey, assistant comptroller.

The Phi Kappa chapter of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity laid the cornerstone of its new chapter house on Saturday afternoon, September 29, following the Trinity-Wiliams football game. Many alumni of the 127-year old chapter were present for the ceremony at which former President G. Keith Finston '32 and President Jacobs delivered messages. Both of the messages were put in a metal box which was sealed behind the cornerstone. The box also contains relics of the chapter, signatures of active members, pictures of the ceremony, and letters of greeting from past and present officers of the local and national fraternity.

Theta Xi Fraternity has purchased property at 76 Vernon Street. Several members spent much time and effort during the summer in getting the house ready for occupancy.

ROTC has moved its headquarters to the College-owned property at 79 Vernon Street formerly occupied by Theta Xi. The house has been remodeled and redecorated to furnish attractive offices for the ROTC staff and three classrooms for the courses in Air Science.

The area vacated by ROTC on the lower level of the Library will serve two purposes. Librarian Donald B. Engley plans to develop part of it as a study area for majors and graduate students doing research work. The remainder of the area is the temporary quarters of the Connecticut Educational Television Corporation offices and studios. Channel 24, WEDH, went on the air October 1. President Jacobs took part in the inaugural broadcast program of the station.

The Campus Cottage, which formerly housed the Brownell Club, has been torn down to make way for the new Math-Physics building which is progressing on schedule and should be ready for occupancy in September 1961.

The Brownell Club has moved into 84 Vernon Street.

Phi Kappa Psi has just purchased property at 74 Vernon Street.

Much interior remodeling and renovating has been done in Jarvis and Seabury Halls. The lounge and faculty offices in Seabury Hall have been converted into a language laboratory (the January issue of the Alumni Magazine will feature a model language Department). Seabury 10, previously a classroom, now has become office area. Including the six offices renovated last summer, there is a total of eleven attractive offices in the basement of Seabury.

In keeping with the recommendations of the Safety Survey reported by a special presidential committee, all the electrical circuits in Jarvis Dormitory have been renewed. New overhead lights and additional wall outlets have also been provided in all the rooms. Similar work will be done in Nisbit and Seabury dormitories next summer.

About fifteen hundred parents of students spent the weekend of October 27 and 28 on campus at the ninth annual Parents Weekend.

The program was varied and busy. The annual meeting of the Parents Association was held in the Washington Room at 10:30 A.M. Saturday. The following officers were elected at the meeting: Dr. J. McDonald Woodruff of Philadelphia, president; Alan H. Anderson of Boston, vice president; Dean H. Kelsey of Trinity, treasurer; Albert E. Holland '34 of Trinity, secretary; and Robert G. Dunlop of Philadelphia, chairman of the Parents Fund.

Following this meeting Dr. Jacobs spoke to the parents of freshmen about their sons' careers at the same time parents of upperclassmen met in the Auditorium to hear a panel discussion on "The Pursuit of Excellence in the Classroom."" by Professors Edward Bobko, Richard Scheuch, Paul Smith and Robert Stewart.

A buffet luncheon was held at the Field House where parents had the opportunity to talk with their sons' professors. Following the Trinity-Susquehanna football game, President and Mrs. Jacobs held a reception for the parents at their home.

Musical entertainment was provided in the evening by the College Glee Club, the Trinity Pipes, the Trinidadas, and the Travellers. The Glee Club is under the direction of Dr. Clarence H. Barber.

The Sunday programs of the Chapel attracted many parents. The Reverend Benjamin Minifie, D.D., delivered the sermon at the eleven o'clock service.

The fifth annual dinner for principals, headmasters and guidance directors of all the high and junior high schools in the Capital Area was attended by about one hundred and fifty persons November 12.

Edwin P. Nye, Halden Professor of Engineering, was the main speaker and told the visitors about engineering as a career for their students. He presented to them a plan whereby local students could avail themselves of Trinity's Transition to College Plan and Advanced Placement Program to complete the five-year engineering degree program in four years. A student would come to Trinity for two or three summer seasons beginning at the end of his junior year in high school. He would earn, in the course of the four years, the regular B.S. degree and either a B.S. degree in Electrical Engineering, in Engineering Science, or in Mechanical Engineering.

Correction: In the May Alumni Magazine reference was made to the Goodwin Chair of English. The correct title of the professorship is the Janice Junius Goodwin Chair of English Ed.

Mr. Symonds designed the ecclesiastical shield for the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut some 40 years ago, and wrote a book entitled "Ecclesiastical Shields for the Interior of Churches."

Trinity awarded him an honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1928.

For many years Mr. Symonds was the senior warden of St. John's Church, Warehouse Point.

BERNARD ROSECRAWNS HUBBARD, HON. 1941

The Rev. Bernard Hubbard, known as the "Glacier Priest," died May 28 at Santa Clara University, Santa Clara, Calif., where he had been chairman of the geology department since 1926. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary Stanley of Oakland, Calif.

Father Hubbard was born in San Francisco, November 23, 1888, son of the late George Milton Hubbard, Trinity 1875, and Katherine Cornelia Wilder.

When the College conferred upon Father Hubbard the honorary degree of Doctor of Science, June 16, 1941, he delivered the Commencement address and said in part: "Trinity College has had more to do with the unfolding of my earlier life than any other influence or institution. It was from Trinity College that my own revered father was graduated in 1875. As a son of the soil, I was never expected to reach maturity, I spent my early years in the constant companionship of my devoted educated father. It was he who first implanted in my young mind the ideas of the love of God and of truth and honesty. It was he who guided my footsteps, following his own non pari passu through the difficult paths of knowledge in the Latin and Greek classics and the true formative humanitarian studies he had learned so well at traditionally classical Trinity. With patience and kindness he led for the realization in his own son, of the Trinity ideal, mens sana in corporo sano. "I am grateful to God for giving me my devoted father, who trained me at Trinity for training me. I am grateful to his memory for all he has given me, – faith, love, life itself. Nor does Trinity College merit my love and devotion merely for the splendid education it gave my father. At the height of my career as an explorer, a Trinity College man was my inspiration and greatest help in the most hazardous attempt I ever made in trying to establish a scientific theory. Convinced from my few years of association that the Eskimo was Tartar-Mongol in origin and probably the refugee of the Kubla Khan debacle of the thirteenth century, I wished to establish the race as one tribe, not several, as until then, not multilingual. This necessitated a trip around the top of the world to obtain cumulative evidence."

Father Hubbard was also widely known for his work in ethnology, paleontology, ichthyology, oceanography and volcanology. He spent over thirty summers visiting isolated Eskimo settlements, and came several times to Hartford to lecture and present his movies.

In this section each Class Secretary with his address is listed with his class numerals. The Secretaries will greatly appreciate receiving news of your activities or news about other Trinity Alumni.

'94 Howard Greenley 11 South Pleasant St. Middlebury, Vt.

'97 Victor F. Morgan 80 Hancock Street Auburndale 66, Mass.

'98 - SIXTY-FIFTH REUNION

How does one write newsy notes about a class with only one active member? No news being good news, or so 'tis said, this secretary reports NO NEWS.

Editor's note - We are happy to report that Vic Morgan is making a good recovery from a serious operation.

'01 James A. Wales 315 Ave. C, Apt 9-D New York 9, N.Y.

We are sorry to learn that Jim Wales has been laid up with an eye infection and wish him a speedy recovery.

Editor's note - We talked with Jim on his birthday October 6th and he seemed in fine spirits.

'02 Anson T. McCook 396 Main Street Hartford 3, Conn.

1902's 60th Reunion on June 9th broke records. Out of twelve living members eleven took part - two from California, two from the Carolinas, one each from Maine and New Jersey and five from Connecticut. A splendid gathering of wives, daughters, sons, sisters and grandchildren joined us on the Campus, applauded the Alumni Association's awards for highest attendance percentage and for oldest Alumnus present, and sat down with us at the Reunion Dinner that evening at the McCook home, where we were honored by a visit from President Jacobs. We can scarcely hope to equal this record in 1972, but the spirit which made our 60th notable continues unabated.

Your Secretary was elected to the executive council of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut last May.

'03 Frederick C. Hinkel Jr. 63 Church Avenue Islip, L.I., N.Y.

'04 - SIXTIETH REUNION

Bayard Q. Morgan has been elected to the Modern Foreign Language Teachers' National Hall of Fame. He was formerly professor of German at Stanford University and is now living at 730 Santa Maria Ave., Stanford, Calif.

'05 Allen R. Goodale 335 Wolcott Hill Rd. Wethersfield, Conn.

'06 Frederick C. Hinkel Jr. 63 Church Avenue Islip, L.I., N.Y.

It was good to receive a note from Elmer Hunt who with his good wife celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last April. They were married by the Rev. John Furrer, '07, in Calvary Church, N.Y.

'08 Edwin J. Donnelly 144 Harral Avenue Bridgeport, Conn.

FIFTY-FIFTH REUNION

'09 The Rev. Paul H. Barbour 30 Outlook Avenue West Hartford 7, Conn.

We note that Gilbert Livingston and Paul Butterworth are still very active in sundry good works, and doing a great deal of travelling. Lewis Harriman has been honored again, having had the student library of the University of Buffalo named for him.

Hollis Candeus has suffered severe injury from a fall, and has been laid up all summer.

Bayard Snow, far from being retired, is now engaged in constructing 25 miles of 30 inch pipe to bring more fresh water to the city of Cartagena, Colombia. He is also helping in the selection of Fulbright Scholars.

'10 William S. Eaton 58 Terry Road Hartford 5, Conn.

'11 Clarence Sherman 61 Humboldt Street Providence, R.I.

'12 Harry Wessels 55 Winthrop St. New Britain, Conn.

We opened headquarters last June 8th in 39 Jarvis and found that Clarence Penn had provided caps modeled on the Foreign Legion type and marked 1912. After lunch we attended the alumni seminars. Steamed clams and beer was followed by a buffet dinner in the field house.

Late class arrivals were dismayed to find that someone had made off with those class caps not claimed Friday. The 3rd alumni seminar led by Keith Funston aroused much interest. Our class picture was taken with Clarence Penn in his costume as Marshal of the Alumni Parade. Present were Breed, Evison, Herrick, Rankin, Segur, Penn, Wessels, McClure, Bird, Pettigrew.

At Spring Frolic: Host Dan Webster '10 chats with Fred Hinkel '06.

After the alumni luncheon in the field house Bill Bird was awarded the prize for coming the longest distance to the reunion. It should be noted that Bill presented our library with some valuable literary memorabilia and sold to the college library much of his own library. Later in the afternoon Bill gave a talk before approximately 200 persons on the topic "Authors and Printers in Paris in the Nineteen Twenties."

At our reunion dinner at the University Club, a toast was drunk to our missing classmate. I was ordered to express our wishes for early recovery to Carpenter, Blake, Barnes, Humphrey, and Barnett. Greetings were read from Bates, Pulford, Barnett and Steven. Humphrey sent some prints of our class as Freshmen which were distributed.

You may be interested to note that: left in class, 25; ill, 6; no word, 8; attended, 10. And so now we join the ranks of the immortalists!

J. Howard Humphrey whom we all knew as "Humpy" died last August in Binghamton, N.Y. He wanted to attend our 50th reunion but felt unable to make it.

'13 Thomas G. Brown 170 East 17th Street Brooklyn 26, N.Y.

FIFTIETH REUNION

'14 Robert E. Cross 208 Newberry Street Hartford 6, Conn.

One of Ray Woodward's hobbies is photography. He recently submitted a picture to the photo contest of The Hartford Times which was so good that it not only placed first locally but has been entered in the national contest.
Your Secretary is looking forward to June 1965, when the class of '15 will celebrate its 50th. How fine it will be to meet then. Please begin to think of it now, and to set aside time for us to enjoy each other's company.

After 29 happy years as Rector of St. Paul's Church, Englewood, N.J., Arch Mitchell will retire October 1st. He will reside at 30 Engle St. there, but will be the temporary rector of Grace Church, Mathewson Pl., Providence, R.I. Arch has three sons, James A. III, a marine artist; Hugh Powers, a graduate student at N.Y.U.; and John, now studying in Europe, at the Sorbonne and the University of Madrid.

Vert Young has been made vice-chairman of a powerful team of Louisiana leaders organized to tackle a formidable foe—the problems of the state of Louisiana. (New Orleans Times—Picayune) While recognizing that the state has lost ground in social, educational and economic growth while the rest of the nation has advanced, this committee will work to strengthen the areas that need strengthening and seek means for such improvement. Incidentally Vert has just been elected president of the Bogalusa Christian Academy Board of Com­mission. Vert and his gracious Sylvia told us of their plans to go to Africa on tour after Christmas. Your Secretary has commissioned them to look up Lou Ripley and among other things to get him back for our 50th.

Tom Brown calls to our attention that last June 16 De Veaux School, Niagara Falls, N.Y., dedicated a new dining hall building in memory of the late Dr. and Mrs. William S. Barrows '84, headmaster of the school from 1897 to 1934. The Rt. Rev. Livingston L. Scaife '31 president of the School's Board of Trustees conducted the service.

Editor's note—Incidentally, Tom Brown has been for many years one of De Veaux's most dedicated and loyal alumni.

Robert S. Morris 100 Pearl Street Hartford 3, Conn.

The Connecticut Historical Society has cited Shorty Caulfield for his extensive writings over the years on early epidemics, infant welfare and gravestone carvers.

Since Jim English's retirement last Spring as Superintendent of the Connecticut Conference of Congregational Christian Churches, after 25 years of service, that worthy gent has been showered with honors and testimonials. At a rally of some 300 churches in the state he was presented with a handsome wrist watch. The University of Hartford conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in June. And the directors of his Conference staged a whopping reception in his honor. Beginning October first Jim assumed the responsibilities as interim Minister of Hartford's Horace Bushnell Congregational Church until a new pastor is found.

Dick Maxon (bless his heart) was awarded Trinity's Alumni Medal for Excellence at last June's Commencement in recognition of the monumental service he has rendered to his community these many years. It couldn't have happened to a finer or worthier candidate.

Bob O'Connor spent the month of September in Europe, sharpening up, we suspect, his dream of the exterior design of the new Arts Center.

Bob Morris fractured a disc in March while rescuing his seven-year-old grandson from a predicament. Shortly thereafter he was appointed to the State Council on Mental Deficiency, hopeful that there was no chain-reaction significance in the appointment.

Einer Sather 684 Farmington Ave., Apt. 17 West Hartford 7, Conn.

The class of 1917 celebrated its 45th reunion in a setting of perfect weather, climaxd by a delicious dinner at the University Club Saturday, June 9. Class headquarters in 34 Jarvis were very active from Friday noon on to late Saturday, with many well wishers from other reuning classes joining in our festivities.

Although the attendance was not as large as had been hoped for, twelve Seventeeners were on Campus: Johnny Bierck, Paul Fenton, Ned Griffith, Jack Gummere, Bill Hasburg, Sid Hungerford, Herb Jeppson, Roger Ladd, Jack Parker, Art Rabinowitz, Don Tree and Your Secretary.

Joining with us for our reunion dinner were Art Burnap, Sid Pinney, Lippie Pister, Ed Carlson and Charlie Beach from the class of 1918, Sumner Shepard, Ham Barber, Ben Silverberg from the class of 1919, and Hoppy Spooford from 1916.

By virtue of having the largest per capita participation in the Alumni Fund Drive, the College presented our class with a half keg of beer.

We understand that Dud Stark, Episcopal Bishop of Rochester, N.Y., will retire the end of this year, and we suspect will move to Maine as a permanent resident.

George C. Griffith 47 West Hill Dr. West Hartford, Conn.

FORTY-FIFTH REUNION

Mel Title was recently honored by the establishment of a new $10,000 scholarship at Trinity by the Suisman Foundation, to be known as the Melvin W. Title Scholarship. Mel is serving on the new West Hartford Public Building Commission.

Dr. Jack McK. Mitchell has retired as dean of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. He had been a member of the faculty at the medical school since 1927 and was named dean in 1948.

Henry Beers delivered the keynote address of the 1962 Individual Insurance Forum October 29. He is president of the Health Insurance Association and chairman of the Life Insurance Companies.

C. Edwin Carlson has been reominated for Republican registrar of voters in West Hartford.

Jack Reitemeyer, president and publisher of the Hartford Courant, has been reelected to a one-year term on the board of directors of Brand Name Foundation Inc. Jack really gets around and is my best bet, when news of classmates is needed for Class Notes, which are read with interest by all who are and ever will be associated with Trinity College.

It was good to see Frank Hutchison back on campus for the Williams game. He has been summering in Clinton, Conn.

22 Bert C. Gable Jr.
61 Clearfield Road
Wethersfield, Conn.

Our 40th reunion was a dandy with the biggest delegation certainly for a good number of years—20 all told—splendid in gold beer jackets and blue caps.

As usual Fred Tansill and Glover Johnson threw a delightful cocktail party in their suite at the Statler for the boys and their wives. We must be getting a little older though. The dinner at the Statler was a little on the quiet side and not from lack of fortification!

Joe Hurwitz has joined a new Hartford law office of Kittler and Berman as firm counsel. Good luck Joe. We all shared in Joe’s pride at commencement when his brother received an honorary degree.

Fred Tansill represented the College at the inauguration of Dr. James M. Hester as president of New York University October 25.

23 James A. Calano
35 White Street
Hartford 6, Conn.

FORTIETH REUNION

Earle Anderson’s passing on April 23rd saddened us all. Earle was always a steady, conscientious fellow in whatever endeavor he undertook.  I’ll miss his frequent phone calls. Although he kept himself in the background, he followed class alumni activities with great interest. We extend our sincere sympathy to his family and friends.

Walt Canner and Doug Perry are all hopped up about our next REUNION. Already they have contributed their efforts by writing to classmates to stir up interest. Their dates are set for June 7, 8 and 9. Please note them on your calendar.

The Centennial Class of Trinity College congratulates Freddy Tansill 22 on his award of the Eigenbrodt trophy. We always felt we were fortunate to have a gentleman of Freddy’s caliber as the leader of our rival class.

Congratulations to the Stan Millers on the arrival of their first grandchild, David Scott, born April 26 at Gans, Pa., to David and Joan Miller. The Jim Calanos are receiving congratulations on the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Lorraine Ann, to attorney Toots Smalley Jr., Social and Treasurer be combined was formally the offices of Woodbridge, Conn.

Our own Kenny Smith, baseball writer with the Daily Mirror and Secretary of the Baseball Writers Association of America, was given a gala reception and testimonial party in Danbury, his hometown, in honor of his long and successful career as a sports writer. In addition to a portable typewriter, Ken was given a scroll signed by more than 200 of his townspeople. Celebrities from the sports world included Mel Allen, Yankee Baseball, Sportswriter for the Daily Mirror, Andy Robustelli, All Pro football end from the Giants, Toots Shor, Restaurant, and many more. Mayor Thayer Bowman of Danbury, an intimate friend of Ken’s, was toastmaster, and in addition to sports figures, introduced notables from city and state, all of whom had nice things to say about Trinity’s and our classmate, Ken Smith.

George Malcolm-Smith was recently advanced to manager of the public information and advertising department of the Travellers Insurance Company. And, Oh Yes! George’s new book, The Lady Finger, now on the market, is on the market and may be purchased for $3.50. It displays his delightful, sometimes sardonic sense of humor, and is based on a bank robbery which a Hartford insurance man helps the police and F.B.I. to solve. As usual, Trinity is in there, something George always manages to do.

Dick Noble after more than 35 years with the Southern New England Telephone Co. retired in September of this year. He and his charming wife Betty will continue to live in Milford as a base, but don’t expect to find them there. Your best bet would be on a plane or a ship between New York and the State of Washington, all of whom had nice things to say about Trinity’s and our classmate, Ken Smith.

P. Otis Zwissler’s hobby is now sailing; the last I heard he was spending most of his time boating. We all would like to hear from him. How about it Zwiss?

26 N. Ross Parke
18 Van Buren Ave.

Dick Ford is making a good recovery after a stay in the hospital. Ken Steer represented the College at the inauguration of Dr. Kenneth S. Pitzer as president of William Marsh Rice University, Houston, Texas, October 10.

Just to refresh the memories of those who were with us on our 35th reunion and to bring the others up-to-date, hereewith the minutes of our annual meeting: Our annual meeting of the Class of 1927 was called to order at 8:30 P.M. on June 9, 1962 at the home of Pete Eberle in Windsor by Chairman Andy Forrester, Rog Hartt, Bob Hildebrand, Ed Johnson, Reynolds Meade, Carl Mul- ler, Win Segur, Cass Sutula.

The Executive Committee’s recommendation that the offices of Secretary and Treasurer be combined was formally accepted and so ordered with the writer as the designated officer.

It was agreed to establish annual dues of $5.00 payable on or after September 1, 1962. The resultant fund to defray printing, postage and other expenses incidental to Class operation.

The motion was made and unanimously carried to hold a 40th Reunion in 1967 for those of us lucky enough to still be around.

Thanks were extended to the Chairman and Secretary-President for steering the 35th reunion weekend and making possible the $1,200 Class gift to the college library.

The meeting adjourned at 9:15 with a rising vote of thanks to Pete and Bobby Eberle extended by the Class and their wives who were their guests for a social hour and buffet dinner.

J. B. Allen missed our reunion as he had to be in London (England, that is) to get acquainted with his new daughter-in-law. Howie Smalley had the choice of reunion or getting his boat in the water. The boat won. Shortly after reunion, Frank and Julie Conran took a small tour of the continent and Ireland. Frank’s report of the trip wouldn’t be the cause of a rush for plane reservations. While Bill Keller was unable to get up in June he and Jean did get up for the Williams game this fall. Bill has done quite a job on his avadoodap as evidenced by a shrinkage from size 52 to 48!
Your Secretary, in an endeavor to secure some up-to-date news for this issue of the Alumni Magazine, sent out 25 double postals and although the return postals were addressed and stamped, only two saw fit to respond.

Rog Hartt told about the arrival of his first grandson (Congrats, Rog!) and Stan Bell sent a wonderful group of colored photos taken during reunion on the campus and at Pete Eberle’s.

THIRTY-FIFTH REUNION

The class of 1928 will have its 35th reunion next June. This is something no one will want to miss, particularly if it is a long time since you have attended a reunion or visited Trinity.

Plan to attend. The dates are June 7-9. While visiting Trinity recently I happened to see the Reunion Trophy, the Board of Fellows Bowl which is presented each year to the class whose reunion program and activities were outstanding. 1928 has won the trophy twice, the only class with this distinction. Let’s do it again.

Congratulations to John Lonsdale who was recently elected president of the Tenant Owned Apartment Association in New York City. John is in the real estate business and is president of Brown, Har­ris, Stevens, Inc. He has a married daughter, two granddaughters and a son, Harvard '57, John W. Jr., who married Miss Eileen M. Field of Sloatsburg, N.Y., October 6.

Both Moe Green and Your Secretary have sons at Wesleyan of all places. My son returned in September as a junior, after three years in the Army Security Service. Pete Eberle’s boy, Edward J., won an Isidore Z. Gage Agency appointment by the Trustees of Trinity College of Jack Cotter to the Senior Board of Fellows. Jack, as many of you know, has been Judge of the Superior Court in Connecticut since 1955. From distant San Joaquin, Calif., we hear that Bob Holmes has been named Executive Secretary of the San Joaquin County Association of Insurance Agents. Bob previously was in Longview, Wash., where he was president of the General Mortgage Agency.

At present, our Reunion Chairman, Jack Tracy, is busy with the upcoming election, having been named Republican Campaign Manager for the town of Bloomfield. I am sure Si Bernstein is on the other side of the fence. I was very disappointed when this summer I missed a visit to the campus by Al Robbins and his son.

'31 Lewis A. Griffin, M.D.
85 Jefferson St.
Hartford 14, Conn.

Jerome Wyckoff is editor and author for the Western Publishing Co. in New York City, but finds time to do fine work in his community. Recently he accepted the chairmanship for New York of the United Negro College Fund, a position which he has held on the local level in Ridgewood, N.J., for ten years. Hats off to you, Jerry – good work!

Herb Wilkinson, vice president of store expansion for W. T. Grant Co. was a recent campus visitor.

'32 Julius Smith, D.D.S.
242 Trumbull St.
Hartford, Conn.

Our thirtieth reunion in June was top-notch – the weather excellent, the campus beautiful. A committee headed by your captain solicited votes for your re-election to Judge of Probate Court, and Funston gladly paid the dinner tab after getting a $25,000 increase in salary – total $125,000 yearly.

Prior, our new trustee, came in from Rochester, New York, Slater arrived from New York City, Philp from Boston, Glassman and wife made it from Virginia, Baldwin was up from Washington, D.C., and Christy from Rhode Island. Other Connecticut men who attended included Andrus, Bialick, Bronstein, Carlton, Grainger, Norman, and Sayers.

Boeger sent a check with a note, and nice letters were received from Abbott, Greene, Martin, Melay, and Spray, all of whom wished they could have made it. Now we’re looking forward to the next reunion and hope to receive any news of interest from all our classmates.

John Burke’s daughter, Beverly Elizabeth, married Stephen F. Gunther, April 7, 1962. Bill Grainger marked his 30th anniversary with the Connecticut Bank & Trust Co., October 1st.

'33 John F. Butler
Trinity College
Hartford 6, Conn.

THIRTIETH REUNION

It may be a surprise but I hope not a shock to many of ’33 that our 30th Reunion will be this June. Please save the dates of June 7, 8, and 9. Jack Tracy has accepted the appointment of Chairman for the ’33 Reunion; you will be hearing from the Committee later in the Fall.

Many of us were happy about the appointment of “Zeke” Melrose as Principal of Weaver High School and also the appointment by the Trustees of Trinity College of Jack Cotter to the Senior Board of Fellows. Jack, as many of you know, has been Judge of the Superior Court in Connecticut since 1955. From distant San Joaquin, Calif., we hear that Bob Holmes has been named Executive Secretary of the San Joaquin County Association of Insurance Agents. Bob previously was in Longview, Wash., where he was president of the General Mortgage Agency.

At present, our Reunion Chairman, Jack Tracy, is busy with the upcoming election, having been named Republican Campaign Manager for the town of Bloomfield. Ed and Betty Craig’s second son, Roger, recently married Miss Ann B. Rea of Marion, Ohio. After the wedding, the senior Craigs had a nice visit with Jim and Frances Baldwin in Medina. Chuck and Helen Kingston announce the engagement of their daughter, Pamela, to James F. Anderson of Kearney, N.J. Chuck has been elected a director of the Cushman Chuck Co., Hartford, and an alumnus trustee of Trinity College.

Bill Henebry, principal of James Memorial High School, Simsbury, Conn., was invited to inspect the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs last August. Charlie Sutherland has been elected vice president and comptroller of the Waterbury Savings Bank.

It was good to get a glimpse of Don Dumont on campus last June. He is with the State Department and living at 2300 Montgomery, Silver Springs, Md.

Stirling Sill is working at the Hartford Hospital, and Chet Newman has joined Bidwell Hardware Co. in Hartford. Gene Gane has moved back to 185 Water St., Unionville, Conn., from San Diego and has resumed his dental practice. Ed Milarkey’s boy, Edward J., won an Isidore Wise Travel Foundation prize for a trip to Europe last summer. Bert Holland has been reelected a director of the Hartford Symphony Society.

Bill Moore is general traffic supervisor of Southern New England Telephone Co. and lives in Sachems Head, near New Haven. He reports three grandchildren.

Nat Clark has undergone a serious operation siege, but is on the mend now and visiting the coast last summer.

At the cornerstone laying ceremony of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity September 29, Andy Onderdonk was introduced as "Mr. Phi Kapp" and as "Mr. Trinity." We concur.

At Campus Conference: Sam Coale '34, New Britain Association past president, holds prized Captain Chih Meng-bing, naval attache at the Chinese Embassy in Washington, D.C. Eric was cited for meritorious service, the highest decoration given to a US officer, the highest decoration given to a US officer.

Ralphon V. Hyde has been appointed assistant vice president and auditor of the United States Trust Company of New York. He had been auditor since 1952.

Don Burke has left Time & Life and remains overseas. He is now managing director of TAC – the architects collaborative – which gives the impression of being a more sedate sort of work than previous assignments. Can it be that Don is slowing down? New address: TAC S.P.A. Via Parigi 11, Rome.

Jack Hanna is at the University of Helsinki in Finland, having been awarded a Fulbright Lectureship in American Literature there.

Frank V. Manion, attorney of West Hartford, was chosen the first chairman of the newly formed West Hartford Public Building Commission in August. The first job of the commission under Frank's chairmanship will be construction of a million dollar school.

A recent issue of the Delaware Valley Announcer carried a two page article on Dr. J. Kapp Clark and tells of his fine research work in the pharmaceutical industry. Kapp is Vice President of Research and Development at Smith Kline & French, Philadelphia, and a member of the firm's Board of Directors.

Robert M. Kelly 95 Elizabeth St. Hartford, Conn.

The Twenty-fifth Reunion for '37 was an outstanding success. Here are a few items to bring up-to-date those who were unable to attend. A fine turnout of members and wives had a bang-up time from early Friday afternoon 'til the early hours of Sunday. The costume for Saturday's parade – a Greek toga, sandals, and laurel wreath to reinforce our theme, "The Last of the Intellectuals" – brought down the house and was acclaimed by many of those present as the most original costume in thirty years. The Board of Fellows Bowl was awarded to us for our costume and we gave a $2,000 gift to the college to purchase microfilming equipment for the library.

A great vote of thanks is due Harry Sanders for his outstanding leadership of the entire committee.

Bill Hull, our Class Agent, is delighted with '37's fine response to the Alumni Fund. The largest percentage, 72 per cent, gave the largest amount ever.

Joe Greco, now retired from the Air Force, has joined the faculty of the Washington School, Hartford. Siebrand H. Niwenhous is now living in Cleveland, Ohio, operating an advertising agency. The Niwenhous Associates, Terminal Tower, Cleveland 13. Bart Wilson is now Sales Promotion and Advertising Manager for the Ingraham Company in Bristol. Bob Kelly was recently appointed Assistant Superintendent of the Hartford Public Schools.

James M. F. Weir 151 High Street Portland, Conn.

TWENTY-FIFTH REUNION

We just received the news of the appointment of Neil Pfansiel as assistant secretary, Bond Underwriting Department, Aetna Casualty & Surety Company, Putnam, Conn. He is residing in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., and presently raising funds to construct a $3,000,000 country day school for girls in Princeton.

After almost eleven years of service at the Episcopal Church of the Mediator in Allen town, Art Sherman is off to a new post in Warren, Ohio. He will become rector of Christ Episcopal Church in Warren.

John Locke with McCann-Erickson Corp. is now living in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Gary Merrill is in a new play "Step On A Crack" which is presently in rehearsal at the Barrymore Theatre.

Rufe Wroth called on me recently to say he is now living in Thompson, Conn. and is with Young & Selden Company, representing them in New England.

Eric Pardon '35 receives Special Rosette of the Order of Cloud and Banner from Capt. Chih Meng-bing, naval attache at Chinese Embassy in Washington.

Keith Schoonrock formerly State Capitol and legislative correspondent for the Hartford Courant was recently named public relations director of the Democratic State Central Committee. Keith has been correspondent for the Courant since 1942 and has covered every session of the State legislature since 1943. Keith is married and lives in Plainville. He and his wife have 3 sons. Bob Schrock this past April represented the College at the inauguration of Edward John Sabol as president of Cobleskill College.

The following address changes have been reported to the Alumni Office within the past 6 months: Leon Gilman, 21 Gray St., Hartford 5; Fred Haight, 33 Riverside Dr., New York, N.Y.; Philips Hawkings, 7 Forest Glen Dr., Pittsburgh, Pa.; Francis Hope, 37 Huntington St., Apt. 3-F, Hartford 5; Richard Leggett, 81 Spring Lane, West Hartford 7; Eugene Lieder, 859 Rumsey Ave., Lawrence Park, Erie, Pa.; Robert Madder, Woodside Enterprises, 24 School St., Boston, Mass.; The Rev. John Reinheimer, 4540 41st St. N., Arlington, Va.; Francis Stowell, 437 Parkside Dr., Bay Village, Ohio; George Weaver, W. Palm Beach, Fla.

Your Secretary participated in a panel "Vocations in Financial Institutions" at the University of Connecticut August 17 under the sponsorship of the Connecticut Council for the Advancement of Economic Education. The Rev. George Smith, rector of St. Matthew's Church, Wor-

Robert J. Lau 96 Penwood Dr., South Trenton, N.J.

Lt. Col. Pearce Alexander is stateside once more. He can be reached at Hq., USA, CBT DEV COMD, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Robert M. Christensen 66 Centerwood Rd. Newtonington, Conn.

Jay Hurewitz, professor at Columbia and author of numerous books and articles on the politics of the Middle East, has been granted a year's leave of absence to accept a high scholarly honor. He has been appointed to the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences in Palo Alto, Calif. There he will devote himself to writing the first of two volumes on the history of political relationships between Europe and the Middle East.

Jay's most recent work is a study called "Russia and the Turkish Straits." It will be published in World Politics and, since it concerns Jay's discovery of some treaties forged by the Russians, it promises to make a bit of a sensation.

Herb More of Douglastown, N.Y., has been appointed vice president of Kliegl Bros., in charge of professional and educational television lighting sales and engineering. Herb was previously manager of the television department and went into television lighting with Kliegl in 1948 after working in theatrical and television lighting. Incidentally, Herb visited the campus recently to supervise the installation of the lighting of Station WEDH, Channel 24, Connecticut's new Educational TV station which went on the air October 1.

John R. Williams has returned to the U.S.A. from Tangiers and will probably be selling electric language teaching equipment. He resides at 426 W. Preston Street, Hartford.

'Ed Foley has been named head of a new finance and administration department by General Electric Corporation. Ed's department will consolidate G. E.'s aerospace and defense operations in Washington. John Flanders is now with Arrow Jet General Co., Sacramento, Calif.

'Ted Knurek has succeeded Joe Beidler, '42, as football coach at Weaver High School, Hartford. While he guided the football destinies of Plainville High School, Ted's teams had two years of unbeaten records. Ted is unimpressed by the winning record of the State Class B Title. So it looks as if happy days are ahead for Weaver fans. In a pre-season interview, Ted was pessimistic, and among other misfortunes, he had lost his entire backfield. Apparently one of the necessary coaching arts which Ted picked up from Dan Jesse was the spreading of gloom at a pre-game news conference. Ivan Bennett has been appointed associate professor of psychiatry at Indiana University.

The Hartford Courant recently had an article on the Lavier family of Litchfield County. It cited Joe Lavier as personifying the inherent versatility and industry of the family. Besides being president of the Storage Co., Joe has built his own nine room home, is an accomplished photographer and has won fame as a breeder of Shropshire Sheep. I remember that the class reunions Joe gave a colorful account of the disadvantages of using a brand new station wagon as a transport for a newly purchased sheep.

'The Hartford Times' carried a photo of Phil Smith beaming proudly beside Phil Jr., who had just won a Frank Gannett Newspaperboy Scholarship. The news story stated that the boy had made the eccentric choice of Worcester Tech over Trinity for his higher education; but in spite of that I know I will have the best wishes of Phil's classmates.

At the Fall Campus Conference I saw Ray Thomsen, Hal Heap and Dick Moody. Dick is now associate vice president of J. Maxwell Pringle & Co., Inc. of New York, handling mortgage loans from coast to coast. He revealed an unexpected facet of his personality when he confided that he is the leader of a troop of Explorer Scouts. For those of us who have known Dick as the soul of conviviality at our class gatherings the thought of his wrestling with a rainy night in a trustworthy, loyal, friendly, clean and reverent manner must produce a feeling of deep emotion.

Before we talk about our 20th Reunion, let's look at our class notes. Frank Fasi has a new son, David Francis. This is Frank's fifth born, and he has four girls. This puts Frank in tie for first place with Max Hagedorn. At least it is first place to the best of my knowledge. Do we have any challenges?

Phil Schwartz has been elected vice president, managing, at the Colt's Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing Company, Inc. Formerly, Phil was associated with the Hi-Standard Manufacturing Co. Inc. of Hamden. Dr. Bob Whisstt has been elected supervising principal of the Dover School, Dover Plains, N.Y. This change kept Bob from attending our Reunion; we were sorry he couldn't make it. Congratulations to Clayton Jensen who has been appointed an associate professor of Mathematics at Virginia Military Institute with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Dr. Paul Pizzo has been elected to the board of directors of the General Practitioners' Association of Hartford. George Stoughton is the publicity chairman for Hartford's Christ Church Cathedral 200th anniversary.

Our 20th was without question the best Reunion we have had. We had a fair turnout, but anything short of 100% would be disappointing. Below I have listed those who attended. I hope I have not missed anyone; if I have, please let me know.

Friday night, we met in the rooms which we had reserved for our class, and, if noise is any indication of a good time, I can report, after walking the length of the campus, that the class of '42 was obviously having the best time. The refreshments, both hard and soft, were as good as you will find any place. Some of us danced later in the evening.

Saturday night, we had a fine roast beef dinner at the City Club. The food was good, the conversation and visiting better. Charlie Johnson acted as Master of Ceremonies, and each of us had a few words to say.

We elected Don Viering to represent the class on the Alumni Council. Bob Nichols will continue to be class agent, and I will continue to fill the secretary's spot.

A considerable amount of discussion centered around plans for our 25th Reunion. We plan to establish a small committee to look forward to this event and start plans for it now. You will be hearing from that group for your ideas relatively soon.

All in all, it was a fine reunion, and we were sorry that all of you were not there. We hope each will plan well in advance for the 25th.

The following men attended the reunion alone: Matt Birmingham, Charlie Johnson, Bill Middlebrook, Ray Rodgers, Bill Scully, and T. B. Wood.

If noise is any indication of a good time, we were sorry that all of you were not there. We hope each will plan well in advance for the 25th.

At Spring Frolic: Stew Ogilvy '36, Gil Oelbaum '49, Hank Uhlig '29 and Doug Perry '23 watch softball game.

TWENTIETH REUNION

Jim Murray is the sports editor for the Los Angeles Times-Mirror, doing a sports column for our own Hartford Times as well as many other newspapers throughout the nation. They call him the "Toast of the Coast" in Los Angeles and were so pleased to have him when he came to the Times-Mirror that they flashed across Page One in tall, black letters the word he was coming to that newspaper. There was also a parade and a banquet! There follows a quotation from a recent column Jim did on the Patterson-Liston fight which illustrates Jim's unique and refreshing style:

"Someone has dug up an old part of the archives to find out that if a man is knocked out of the ring, he gets 20 seconds to get back. But from the look of Liston's hands, Floyd may need a cab to get back. Instead of knocking him for a loop, he may knock him in The Loop. If Liston knocked me out of the ring, I would be inclined to let it go at that."

Dan Miller has joined Hornblower & Weeks, the brokerage firm, having been previously with Cooley & Company of Hartford. Dave Tyler's three charming youngsters are much like "fins off the old whale." A recent West Hartford news feature told of Duffy's four national records and numerous state records, Mary's dozen state records and Landgon's representation on record holding relay teams.

Reub Pomerantz has been appointed special assistant to the assistant secretary for commerce for science and technology, J. Herbert Holloman.

Your Secretary has been elected a trustee of the Children's Museum, Hartford.

While on leave from his ministerial duties in New Delhi, India, this summer, The Rev. Bill Studwell took a human's holiday and preached at the First Methodist Church in Hartford where his father-in-law is minister.

John Ferrante reports more singing activity with the New York Pro Musica. The group presented concerts at Tanglewood, at opening ceremonies at New York's new Lincoln Center, and at Brooklyn College's annual Baroque Festival where John was soloist. Anyone interested may hear John as guest artist on a Decca recording of Spanish music of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries released last August or another recording of Medieval English carols coming out in December.

John Reed is studying for the ministry at Anglican Theological College in Vancouver, B.C.

Your Secretary was elected editor of the Home Office Life Underwriters Association at their annual meeting last May in Toronto.

Various address changes recently noted include: Dr. Fred Beckwith, U.S.N. Air Station, School of Aviation Medicine, Pensacola, Fla.; Ed Cosgrove back to Guilford, Conn. c/o P.O. The fifteenth Reunion of our class was held this past June. We were not in any way offering competition with the other classes as to the number who returned for the reunion, but the few who did attend had an enjoyable and worthwhile time.

Dr. Irving Poliner deserves special mention for his effort. He and his wife came from Maine to attend. In view of the small number that attended the reunion and the fact that this has been repetitive for all the reunions planned, I am strongly in favor of combining the classes of 1945, 1946 and 1947 and utilizing 1946 as a reference point for reunion years. In this way we should be able to increase the number present by a factor of three.

Jim Strongin has been appointed director of public relations for the Tufts-Parnes Insurance Corporation where he is now located in Hudson, N.H. (Watson Road, R.D. 2). Brooks Maue has given up Colorado Springs for Long Beach, California (6510 DeLeon St.); Richard Quinn and Frederick Mertz have departed from Connecticut for Yardley, Pa. (20 Spring Lane) and Freeport, Ill. (1323 So. Chicago Ave.) respectively; Bruce Nicholson returned to New York City (321 East 48th St.) from San Francisco; John Thomas has returned to Westover, Conn. (Lyons Plain Road) from St. Croix; and Richard Medland is living in San Antonio (219 North Crest). A recent clipping indicates that Theodore Lockwood has been appointed Dean of Faculty at Concord College, Athens, West Va. He was also elected a Junior Fellow on the College Board of Fellows.

Joseph Molinari was named manager of the new process development department of H. D. Dexter & Sons, Inc., Windsor Locks, Conn. this past July. He joined Dexter in 1949 as a chemist.

Doug Carter has left Loomis School to become associate professor of chemistry at State University College, Fredonia, N.Y. Howard Werner ran in the primary for the Connecticut State senatorial primary in the Second District. Unfortunately he lost in a close race. He has been named chairman for the Hartford Zionist Bond Drive. Dr. Peter Stokes will represent the College at the inauguration of Dr. John H. Fischer as president of Teachers College, Columbia University.

Bill Lichtenberger has been elected an assistant secretary of the Aetna Insurance Co. and will assume underwriting and production responsibilities at the home office in Hartford. He has been manager of the Aetna's Philadelphia office.

It's the silly season again. The politicians are stirring up a storm. Bob Cudworth writes all about Ray Morley but little about himself. It seems Ray is with General Dynamics and is running in the primary for the Republican nomination for Congressman from the 13th Congressional District of Illinois. Now all you '49ers out there, vote and vote often. Ray may be our first Congressman if we give it the ole Trinity try.

Chester Later is another one of our active politicians. He has been chosen to run as a GOP candidate for State Representative in Connecticut.

Sam Edsall has joined the staff of the Connecticut Educational Television Corporation as Chief Engineer. After 11 years of faithful service to Channel 30, Sam will now be in charge of the Channel 24 engineering staff and will supervise installation and maintenance of station equipment. He will also continue as chief engineer of WRTC-FM, Trinity's radio station. Sam's wife, June, reports that on the family side, they went through four cases of chicken pox, immediately followed by five cases of old-fashioned measles, the extra case being poor, be-dragged mother. Let that end all the complaints of wise '49ers. You never had it so good!

Clifton Cherpack has been promoted from associate professor to full professor of romance languages at Duke University. His book "An Essay on Crebillion Fils" was recently published.

Si Simonian is head of the science department at Chelmsford High School and also athletic director. I can still see St running around that track, 10, 15 or even 20 miles. He has been chairman of the Windsor High School Social Studies Department, has written a drama, "A Bird At The Window," which is being given by the Windsor Theater-
The Green. His one act drama Many Mansions was among nine contenders for honors in the Massachusetts annual Playwriting Competition. Warren has also had published a love story, Hell Hath No Fury in paperback by New York's Avon Books. I understand there are more books to come, all with teaching and four lively youngsters.

Speaking of offspring, Frank Lambert has six daughters, six sons, six marriages, and a son named Billy. I'll bet even Ollie Church can't top that! These statistics came from the Wheeling News Register when Frank and part of this town moved up to race tracks in the Wheeling Downs Harness race. Frank still owns 500 acres in New York state but doesn't do much farming. Now that Jesse Littelan has had notable successes in race meets throughout the East.

Cornelio DeKanter can now be located at Box 8871, 3973D Combat Support Group, Panama Canal. Cornelio has left Massachusetts for 524 Capitol Drive, St. Peter, Minnesota. Marvin Fishman traveled even farther, moving to 1831 Diego St., Golf, Calif. Tom Connor left there for West Hartford. Ralph Priggs left Bristol, Conn., for Philadelphia but didn't stay long. Word has it he is living at 423 Fern St., South Amboy, N.J. John Taylor writes he is still building his house, still raising Angus cattle and still banding birds with emphasis on that wary duck - the scamp. The latter makes him get out home for two minutes and six seconds at 4 a.m. I'll stick to selling insurance!

The Rev. Daniel Cheshney has been elected to the diocesan standing committee of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut. He is editor of the daily English text for public and Catholic schools.

Bob Bowden has moved from Glastonbury to 151 Dayton Road, South Glastonbury, Conn.

Edward F. Albic, who in four years as a playwright has had notable successes in Zoo Story and On Broadway in October, a full length play Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? has been referred to in the September 14th edition of Life magazine as one of the hundred most significant young men of his generation. Incidentally the JESTERS are going to play Ed's American Dream and The Zoo Story in Alumni Hall this November.

Edward M. Carter had a fifth class of 1960. Marvin Phillips has been referred to as the Democratic candidate (West Hartford) in the New Orleans Bankers Convention. Marvin will reside at 11 Joseph Way, Reading, Mass.

Benjamin H. Paddock III, represented Trinity in Community College in the New England Banker's Convention. Then, in September he stopped by Trinity for a short visit; this fulfills his 1960 promise to write home for the tenth reunion.

Robert W. Parker has been elected principal of the Mark Twain School in Hartford.

James M. Cady, who writes for the National Observer in Washington advises his new address is 5002 Jamestown Rd. Westgate 16, D.C. Jim's article in the September 10th issue was described as 'a gem' by the National Observer.

Robert W. Barrows has been nominated as the Democratic candidate (West Hartford) to the Connecticut State House of Representatives. Bob, who was graduated Phi Beta Kappa, has an M.A. in Education from Washington University, St. Louis, has taught for eight years, and now owns and operates a large and highly successful real estate company. By ability and experience he seems eminently qualified.

David O. Bellis has been appointed District Traffic Supt. (Northeast) for the Bell Telephone System. He resides at 115 South Rolling Road, Springfield, Pa.

Atty. Robert M. Blum will be head of staff for the newly formed "Assembly Judiciary Committee" which will inquire into complaints of abuses in criminal courts in N.Y. Bob leaves the post of legislative asst. to Democratic Representative Lindsay of Manhattan. James R. Brainerd, Putnam, Conn. is the new arrival, Jason Chase, is developing interests in his footsteps. Dave Davis leaves the post of Corporate Assistant to the Board of Directors at Ford.

"TRINITY'S PITHIEST"

That's the way the Hartford Courant described the Class of '52 reunion. Some 50 members of the class returned to Hartford last June for a couple of days of reminiscing, comparing and parading. Once again it was conspicuous by their white hats, bermuda shorts and knee socks. If you want to see some pictures of yourself (if you were there) or your former classmates (if you weren't there) see the July issue of the Alumni Magazine.

Yours truly was given the so-called honor of being carried in a sedan chair again from the Bishop's statue to and into the field house. Some of the chairbearers, not sure whether they were getting older (yes) or the rider heavier (no), are giving serious consideration to hiring an elephant for the twenty-fifth reunion.

When elections were held at dinner Saturday, Doug Lee, because of the understandable pressure of other interests, declined another term as class secretary. He had done a truly commendable job for ten years, and it will be hard to follow in his footsteps. Dave Davis was re-elected Class Agent in absentia (succeeding Chip Vaile) and Bob Hunter as Treasurer. Bob, incidentally, together with Doug and many others, did a terrific job in making the reunion such a success.

To Eleanor and Ed Morrissey went the class trophy for having come the longest distance (Denver), and another to Shirley and John Wentworth for the most children (five). A telegram was received from Dick Ahern in Sydney, Australia.

Also returning for the reunion were: Nick Cheneville, John Hubbard, Carl Stever, Dave Simmons, John Cohen, Sam Clipp, Tom Depechi, John Rosser, Reid Shaw, Tom Head, Chuck McElwee, Dick Hase, John Ulrich, John Wiberg, John Parsons, Bob Farrell, Carlton Woodhouse, Greg Knapp, Spud Pratt, John Wynne, Bill Gorski, John Taylor, Gordon Whitlock, Paul Lonan, Pete O'Neil, Bob O'Brien, Bill Vebert.

Also Hoot Nicholson, Phil Trowbridge, Bob Downs, Vince Dania, Felix Callan, Frank Callan, Chris Rigopulos, Jerry McLaughlin, Ned Bleeker, Bill Thoma,
Pete Blank, Dud Bickford, Martin Francis, Fin Schaef, Uylsses Paul, Pete MacLean and Red Ratcliff. If this list is incomplete, let me know and you will be mentioned in the next issue.

To those of you who weren't back this time, now is the time to start making plans to come to Hartford in 67. Incidentally, our officially-elected "chaperones" at that time will be Mitch Pappas and his wife.

The final reunion impression left with this returnee: practically everyone looks like ten years has treated him well. Many looked more like they did as undergraduates than they did years ago, with a lot, it looks like, of excess poundage gone.

Tosh Aldrich has been appointed district traffic manager in the Bridgeport Office of the Southern New England Telephone Co. He had held the same position at Meriden. Fin Schaef has been appointed to his local public school board in All Saints.

Doug Harvey, well known project engineer for the Martin Marietta Corp., was listed in the September 14th issue of Life as one of the hundred most significant young men of his generation. He is in charge of the development of compact nuclear auxiliary power systems, using radio-isotope fuel, for space vehicles in prolonged flight.

Bob Buffum, owner-manager of the Manasota Beach Club, Englewood, Fla., says "come down on the water's fine."

We hear that Capt. Louis Bernabo of the U.S. Air Force has arrived in Saudi Arabia for duty with a unit of the Military Air Transport Service.

Ed Shaughnessy announced the removal of his law office to 926 Main Street.

Ken Erikson recently was appointed instructor at Webb. He, his wife, and two sons live in suburban Crestwood. Ray Parrott, in Ghana with the Peace Corps, wrote in June of his pending transfer to Lansdowne. Capt. Ralph Osborn, in Canada, has been appointed professor of Education at the University of Waterloo.

Tom Barber was promoted to planning director at Webb. Bill Murray has just been promoted transfer to Lansdowne. Capt. Ralph Osborn, in Canada, has been appointed professor of Education at the University of Waterloo.

Stan Lee represented the College at the inauguration of Dr. Robert A. Cook as president of the King's College, October 10. Dr. Quentin Starr has been appointed supervisor, Deposit Administration service, group pension department, Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

Ralph L. Tompkins Jr. 50 Merriam Avenue
Bronsivx, N.Y.

Bill Murray has just been promoted to assistant vice president of the First National Bank of Baltimore. Bill specializes in bank operation and formerly was an assistant cashier.

Bob Van Brott, an account manager for the advertising firm Arndt, Preston, Chapin, Lamb and Keen, Inc., in Philadelphia has a new home at 1109 Maplecrest Circle, Gladwyne, Penn. The Van Brotts have two children, a son and a daughter. Advertising claims two other '54ers. Pete Carough is with McManus, John and Adams, Inc., in New York. He writes in their TV group. John Burrill was recently elected a vice president of the Wm. Schaller Company Inc. in Hartford. He will function as creative director and business supervisor. Jack joined the company in '51 and has created and written advertising campaigns which have appeared in some of our outstanding publications.

Captain Paul Arcari has recently completed the USAF course for academic instructors at Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma. He is being reassigned to the AFROTC unit at Dartmouth College as an assistant professor of ari science. Fred Potter has departed the Air Force for civilian life and is studying law at the University of Wyoming. Fred and his wife are living at 601 South 10th St., Laramie, Wyo.

Stan Muirhead has been appointed manager of the Dayton district office of the Connecticut Electric Company.

Last June Neil Mutschler received his Masters of Education from the University of Rochester.

Dr. Art Wilson won his Ph.D. from Northwestern University and has been appointed assistant professor of Chemistry at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Carmelo Russo and Dr. Andrew Zemko have both recently opened practices in Hartford. Carmelo received his medical degree from Hahnemann Medical College and underwent internship and residency at the Hartford Hospital. He is practicing general medicine. Andy was graduated from Tufts Medical School and served his internship and residency in internal medicine at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford. Good luck to you both.

Tom Hill writes that he and his wife Sandy have given up San Francisco living due to the birth of a child and have moved to 716 Newhall Ave., Burlingame, Calif. Tom is still with Avery Industries in San Mateo.

Capt. Dick Pearson and his wife Marion are now attached to the 831st Air Division at George Air Force Base in California. An attractive picture of Dave MacKay and his vocalist bride, Mikki Price, appeared in a recent Hartford Times. Dave's Jazz Trio was sparking the Heublein Lounge for a limited engagement.

TENTH REUNION

"Nobby" Richards received his masters degree in mathematics from Wesleyan this spring. Ken Murrin recently joined the Dewey and Almy Chemical Division, W. R. Grace & Co., Cambridge, Mass., as manufacturing engineer in the Company's Chemical Specialties Division. Ken lives at 308 Commonwealth Ave., Boston. Phil Lecrenier in March won the first place award in the Men's Singles. Bob Brotts has departed the Air Force for civilian life and is studying law at the University of Wyoming.

Bob Osborne is hosting a daily show on WIL, St. Louis, where he has been a disc jockey for the past five years. In addition to his duties as station manager, he is in charge of the development of compact nuclear auxiliary power systems, using radio-isotope fuel, for space vehicles in prolonged flight.

Bob is so eager he says "come down on the water's fine."

We hear that Capt. Louis Bernabo of the U.S. Air Force has arrived in Saudi Arabia for duty with a unit of the Military Air Transport Service.

As we enjoy the wonderful fall season in Toledo, we can't help reminiscing a bit of the four colorful autumns spent at Trinity. I'm sure all of you will remember the first football game our freshman year when Bill Goralski '52 took the opening kick-off for a spectacular touchdown run. Later our gridiron heros were led by our own Lou Magelander and Frank Lentz. At the same time the fine talents of All-Americans George Lunt and Art O'Connell brought wide recognition to Trinity soccer which led to the national title in 1956. All but Frank live close enough to Hartford to return often to relive these fine memories. Frank would find making these contests a bit difficult since he resides in Manhattan Beach, Calif. Another sportman from our class, with much more recent notoriety, is sailor-crewman Bob Allen, Sports Illustrated in a review of the Weatherly - Gretel, America's Cup Race, stated "Husky Bob is so eager he does your work before you can get to it." Bob spent many week's preparing for the meeting between the two great boats and was on leave from the N.Y. sales office of Owens-Corning Fiberglas.

Hayward Barrill now lives at 2102 Bancroft, Houston 27, Texas. Dick Roat has moved from W. Hartford to 195 W. 10th St., N.Y., City. Maurice Kahan now resides at 495 Darien Rd., Darien, Conn. We recently heard that Dick Tompkins has settled in Hollistown, Mass. Bob Laird now lives at 201 Greenwood St., Lake Charles, La. after having spent a few years in Baltimore. John Foley has moved from Acton, Mass., to 6 Margin Ave. in Glenshaw, Pa. He had been at the Darlington School in Rome, Ga. We hear that Herb Bryer has moved to 209 Rosebriar Lane in Paoli, Pa. Mr. Whitman recently moved from Long Island to 8822 Lanier Drive, Silver Spring, Md.

Gordon Reese now resides at 490 Forest Ave., Rye, New York, where he is active in community affairs.

Bob Baker has recently joined the Upjohn Company, Kalamazoo, Mich., and has been assigned to the Physical and Analytical Chemistry area. Bob received a Ph.D. from Indiana University in 1960, and completed two years of post-doctoral work at the University of Wisconsin. He attended both institutions on National Science Fellowships.

John Rockey has been appointed a career Foreign Service Officer by President Kennedy. The appointment makes John a vice consul and a secretary in the Department of State. He received an LL.B. degree from Columbia Law School in 1961. He is married and has two children, and is presently attending the Foreign Service Institute for an overseas assignment.

Beau Coursen has been with the Air Force since his graduation from Trinity College. He was stationed at Wright Patterson in Ohio for two years and then at Hanscom AFB in Bedford, Mass., for two years in the Electronic Systems Division. He is now at Maxwell AFB, Ala., for 3 months schooling. Beau and his wife, Sidney, have one girl and one boy. When they were in Florida last year, they saw Scott and his wife, Sue, and their two daughters. Don is working for his father.

Wylie Dodds is now serving in the USAF as a captain in the medical service. Wylie is being assigned to the USAF Hospital, Hahn AB, Germany as a physician. He has recently completed his familiarization instruction at Gunter AFB, Ala., covering administrative procedures, military medicine, and medical service support of USAF objectives.

Charles Even is an actuarial assistant, C&F&M Actuarial with the Travelers Insurance Company. Arthur Jarvis has been appointed an administrator of the Litchfield County Hospital in Winsted, Conn. Rial Ogden, who is an agent for the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, has been appointed to the board of directors of Sanitary Products Corp., New Haven, Conn. He is engaged in manufacture, sale, and distribution of cleaning supplies for industrial and business firms.

Bill Reed is with the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company of Albany, New York. John Ritter is now working as a materials clerk in production control with Delco Radio, Kokomo, Indiana. He was previously employed by the Travelers Insurance Company and the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company. He lives at 1123 North McCann Ave., Kokomo.

Paul Terry wrote me a letter recently describing his activities since graduation. Paul is now manager of special promotions for the Consular Products Inc., Phoenix, Ariz. He has just recently started with Motorola after terminating a five-year stint of employment with General Electric. Paul and his wife now have two boys with another addition which arrived last April.

Mike Webber is being sent to Africa this fall and is stationed in Damaraland under the auspices of the Overseas Mission Society of the Episcopal Church. Mike became interested in the church missions field while serving with the Army in Korea. He completed theological training at the General Theological Seminary, New York, and Philadelphia Divinity School. He was ordained as a deacon in April of this year in Long Island. Mike is married and has one child.

Lt. William N. Pierce Jr. 62894A 7406th Supron Box 172 APO 57, N.Y.

Our Fifth Reunion was a great success both in the number of classmates reuniting and the activities of the weekend. Over sixty from the class returned to Hartford. Many wives joined their husbands and their presence added greatly to the eventful weekend. Walt Shannon and his reunion committee are to be congratulated for the fine job they did in coordinating the many arrangements. I am sure the Class joins me in saying thank you for a job so well done! At Campus Conference: Ron Foster '57 (left) receives 1916 Cup from Harry Knapp '50.

Christopher Percy and his wife, Nancy, returned to Philadelphia in June from a voyage to Scotland. Chris is starting his final year at the University of Pennsylvania toward an M.A. in landscape architecture. George Kelleher has recently been released from the Army after being recalled last November. He resumed his teaching and coaching position this Fall with Westfield (Mass.) High School.

Dr. Nick Vincent completed his intern­ship in San Francisco. This summer Nick travelled in Europe for several months. He expects to begin a tour with the U.S. Army this Fall. The Trinity Alumni Association of Western Connecticut elected Walt Shannon president at their annual meeting last Spring. In Alexandria, Va., Jim Wilson is in his second year at Virginia Seminary.

Hans Becherer and Joe Terrien received their M.B.A. degrees from Harvard this past June. Dave Giannattello is teaching U.S. and European History at The Hill School in Pottstown, Pa. And, in Alma, Mich., Bill McGill is assistant professor of history at Alma College. Brooks Harlow has been appointed assistant to the Headmaster at Rye Country Day School. Brooks began his new duties in September.

John Shields is selling in the New Jersey area for the Scott Paper Company. And in Memphis, Tenn., Don Finkbeiner is a sales representative for the Owens-Illinois Glass Company. Franz Solmsen and Ada Webber married this past summer in Kamuela, Hawaii. Franz is head of foreign languages at the Hawaiian Preparatory Academy in Kamuela. Nancy is security analyst for the D. H. Blair & Co.

Ken Ake is an assistant treasurer of Marine Midland in New York. Ken has worked in the loan, auditing, and credit departments before being assigned to one of Marine's branch offices. Ken is married and has one daughter. They are living at... in New York City. Ted and his family reside at 88 Bleeker St. Russ Clark has returned to New York City and joined the Commercial Bank of North America. The Clark's are living at 14 Sylvan Road, Verona, N.J.

Bob McBurney is branch manager for the Connecticut Division of the Southern California Telephone Company. He resides at 88 Bleeker St., New York City.

The Brews family have moved from California to Washington, D.C. where David joined the law firm of Ely, Duncan and Benett. Dave is a member of the California, Connecticut, and District of Columbia Bars, and lives at 7714 Old Chelsea Road, Bethesda, Md. The United States Air Force recently promoted six in the class. Jerry Channell, stationed in Columbus, Ohio, Walt Crustberg, Lake Charles, La., Hugh McCracken, Lincoln, Neb., Terry Frazier, Orlando, Fla., and Don Duff, Ft. Worth, Tex., were promoted to the grade of captain. Your Secretary was recently promoted to captain and assigned to the U.S. Navy

Norm Kayser has joined the insurance firm of R.C. Knox & Co., 111 Pearl St., Hartford. He has been with Aetna Casualty & Surety.

The Rev. Earle Fox has been named Acting Chaplain of Oriel College, Oxford, England.

Harold Johnson has been named supervisor, administration group pension department of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., Hartford.

FIFTH REUNION

Here we go again with plenty of news about the activities about the Class of '58!

Rem Rose has enjoyed his studies in England so much that he will be continuing his work at Cambridge this year. Rem managed to get a word in about the now celebrated Snow-Leavis debate which excited English literary circles last year. Rem's letter on the subject was published in the March 23rd issue of The Spectator.

Classmates pursuing the medical arts are now beginning to blossom. Al Krupp and John Caitlin were graduated from the New York Medical College in June. Al is now intern at the Albany (N.Y.) Medical Center and John is serving his internship at the Naval Hospital at Camp Pendleton California. Having graduated from the Washington University School of medicine in St. Louis, Larry Muench is now an intern at the Cleveland Metropolitan General Hospital. Ken Lambert completed his studies at the dental school of Howard University last spring; Ken is now an intern at the Freedman's Hospital in Washington, D.C.

Rolle Lawson and Fritz Creamer are seniors at Berkeley Divinity School in New Haven. During the summer Rolle played one of the summer carillon concerts at Trinity. Fred Boynton was ordained to the priesthood in June by his fathers, E.C. and Charles New York, in the Bellevue Hospital Chapel; Fred is on the staff of chaplains at Bellevue.

Ed Porteous recently became a group specialist with Mutual of New York.

George Baxter has moved into the international operation of Smith, Kline and French. George may receive an overseas assignment in the future, and he and his wife, Peace, have a daughter, Natalie, two years old. Dick Polley seems to be in all sorts of business ventures of his own. DC also held his annual "jungle cats" at Call MacHeath Advertising Agency in 1959 and more recently president of Homen, Meadows and Polley public relations firm. He is involved in the promoting of the United Artists agency. "Tame" jungle cats such as lions and cheetahs!! John Crandall has left the Navy and is now with the State Capital Savings in Harrisburg, Pa. He lives at 523 Warren St., Lebanon, Pa. Jerry Vaughan is now stationed with the Air Force in Georgia and recently visited Trinity with his wife and their son, Mike.

Bob (H) Carter completed a training program for the D.S. Warren Paper Company in Maine last year. In June he moved to New York City to take the New York office of the company, and lives at 358 Washington Ave., Pleasantville, N.Y. Art Polstein is still flying for the Navy and is presently stationed in Brunswick, Maine. Art expects to leave Uncle Sam's service next March. Tim Temple writes that "having finally completed college, served my country, and now I'm off to go to Brazil for A.I.D. as a politico-economic officer."

Joe Traut is entering Harvard Business School this fall with an M.B.A. Ph.D. Crowe was graduated from the Cornell School of Business & Public Administration in June. He and his wife are at 111-A Martin Park, Delaware, where Phil is with the Treasurer's Department of Du Pont. Dick Noble and his wife are living at 591 Main St., Stamford, Conn., where Dick is with Owens Corning in N.Y.C. Dick writes that his wife will be teaching at Darien H.S. this year and they had a good summer with lots of week-end sailing on their small boat.

Bill Saunders is with Squibb International here in New York, and lives at 253 Prospect St., E. Orange, N.J.

Several classmates are teaching. Jim Flanner completed his graduate work at Yale and is teaching drama at the University of Ottawa. Martyn Perry recently returned from studying in Austria and is teaching at the Menlo Park School in California. Dave Smith is teaching mathematics at Duke University; Dave is a candidate for a Ph.D. at Yale. Ted Cass received an appointment to the faculty of the Shattuck School in Fairbault, Minn., where he will be teaching Spanish. Charlie Wood is a candidate for an M.A. in Classics, Herb Moorin is a candidate for a Ph.D. in Economics. He recently participated in a summer seminar for historical administrators in Colonial Williamsburg.

Dave Hasson and Howie Orenstein recently passed their Bar Exams in Connecticut. Howie is with the law firm of Leonard, Schine in Bridgeport. Frank Kury was recently appointed executive assistant on the staff of Congressman George M. Rhodes of Pennsylvania. Frank attended the University of Pennsylvania before this appointment.

I recently received a most interesting letter from Pete Smith. He and his Swedish bride of one year are now in Rome. He and his wife are both teaching at the Overseas School of Rome. The school has an international student body of 525; classes are taught in English. Pete is teaching EU and U.S. Government as well as instructing in gymnastics.

Tom Barrett is out of military service and has gone with the Lewis H. Walling Co. in Hartford. Con Manown Kisor has been named an assistant secretary with the Bank of New York. We hear that Max Lockie won a fencing tournament in Brazil as well as a few other recent victories.

Charlie Wood is a candidate for a Ph.D. in Economics. He recently participated in a summer seminar for historical administrators in Colonial Williamsburg.

Paul S. Campion 295 Princeton Street Hartford 10, Conn.

I trust everyone experienced another "economic" summer as well as realizing that what you want to do is not always what you end up doing. (I'm about to go to Brazil for A.I.D. as a politico-economic officer.) Dick's in customer engineering with Boeing Aircraft working as liaison man between purchasing and Boeing's computer divisions.

Jon Widing tells how his plans are shaping up. He is thinking of General Theological Seminary as his first choice; entrance in Sept. 1963. Preston Grant Jr. was commissioned an Ensign in the Coast Guard last June and has been assigned to duty on board the Coast Guard Cutter Chautauqua (no, I typed it correctly) San Francisco, Calif.

At Princeton University's recent 215th Commencement, Dave Belmont received his B.S. in Chemistry. Bob McClenahan received his LL.B. from Harvard last June and he and Jim Canivan (LL.B.: Univ. of Chicago) both passed the Conn. State Bar Exam. Larry Weil informed me that shortly after the Ford Motor Co. assumed the ownership of the Philco Corp., he was transferred to Philco's automobile radio development division, as a transistor circuit design engineer. And then from So. Carolina, I received the word that Gil Fairbanks passed the qualifying exam for the Ph.D. candidacy in Biology. Gil expects to remain at the U. of So. Carolina through the summer of '63 as he is on a 2 yr. National Defense Education Act Fellowship.

Other notes: Iz Stein was awarded the degree of Master of Hebrew Literature from the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York City last June. Iz has been serving as Hebrew teacher at Congregation B'nai Jeshurun there. Bob Harnish is now out of the service and will be attending Boston University School of Journalism.

Hathaway has joined the faculty at Newington (Conn.) H. S. where he is teaching English. And Robert Riddell is now a member of the staff at Amadeo College Awo, Western Nigeria until the fall of '63.
Dave Haas is working for the U.S. Government as an archivist in Washington, D.C. The late Neath the Elms educators, Edwards and Frost, electrified the campus of many an opponent. The boys back at the "sanc," return to blitzy for hour tests, the bulk for the first time to Carrington Clark '60 Corning in New York. Jeffrey Coleman is with the Owens-Corning in New York, Rockwell '84 arrived around the first part previously key in Jessee's plans for the '82 Pointe Bradford Ace, and a charmer if there Amherst game. Had a brief visit last associate dean of Michigan and they are living in Grosse Pointe Shores. John Winans is also out here in Water Wrinkler, wandering in Detroit with Goodbody & Co. Known as "New Issues" Winans, he was last seen coming to work in fatigues and a beard in support of his Cuban Oil stock promises. Turning to something more solid, we pray, J & L Stell has a serious infiltration problem from the book. Dick did the College Library a good turn recently. It seems he was introduced to Moe with high school teacher from Cleveland whose brother had visited 'Neath the Elms and had re- turned. A young lady with a book "The Underground Railroad" written ten years ago in order to document properly a thesis. The young lady offered to return the book if Dick would prepare a charcoal sketch of her. The dinner was good. The book is at right home. Librarian Engley is smiling. Of course, a lot of us have not yet begun to fight. Eighteen years of school and still can't put bread on the table. The idea, of course, is to start with imported rye instead of Sunbeam — except for lawyers, who start with salarines. Some in the education game are Providers, though, including Tim Grubbs, now teaching Spanish at the Phelps School, outside of Harvard. Tim is the complete tutege: he not only grills them in the classroom but drives a school bus to boot!

John Moran and John Woolley are also at the head of the class, the former at East Hartford High and the latter at St. Marks School, Salt Lake City. Max Peterson continues to do poorly: his performance was such at the Harvard Business School that he was named associate dean of HBS upon graduation. Never did learn how to study. Clark Phlrippen also received his M.B.A. from Harvard, and Jere Bacharach his A.M. from Harvard.

Another poor student whose parents were worried at graduation, David Leof, is barely squeaking by at Yale Med. Dave has been awarded the James Hudson Brown Junior Fellowship to St. Thomas Hospital in London, England, by the Yale University Medical School. He will do cancer research with Dr. Herbert Spencer, head of the Department of Surgery.

Bob Langen has received his M.B.A. from Columbia. Also at Columbia, Business School, Matt Levine was recently named student director of Columbia Business School. A fall entrant to the B School, Matt has contributed much time to A.I.E.S.E.C.-Columbia, serving as its vice president, along with being on its board of directors. He was also its United States Delegate to the International Congress in Berlin in March of this year and the Columbia delegate to A.I.E.S.E.C.'s National Congress in Frankfurt in February. He is the New York City Reptivist for foreign students entering this country under the organization's program.

We hope that Don Seiber is still a bachelor and working for Thomas and Betts Co. His base home is Bethlehem. Pa. Mike Sienkiewicz is at last report still selling socks in New York. Bill De Coligny, who has been teaching English in the Durham High School, started August 1, as assistant director of admissions at Sycamore University.

Fred Wagner has returned from Spain, and is now living at 133 E. 84th. Reports that "Owning one's bed is given up the broom stick and fox hunting is in the picture." Tally ho, Maryland Hunt Cup next! Ed Chalker, our Peace Corps Volunteer in Bogota, Colombia, is there helping to build "feeder" roads to the country's main arteries, developing recreational areas and building community schools.

Mike Lieber has picked up his Masters at Indiana, and is transferring to Pitt for graduate work in anthropology. Bob Adams also received his Masters from Southern Illinois University. Fowler Norris has moved from the staff of the Federal budget analyst in the Federal service; he is now at the U.S. Naval Propellent Plant, Indian Head, Md. Also learn that Louis Gerundo has been appointed by the Travelers to actuarial assistant C&F&M Actuarial. Court Ferguson has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force after graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Texas.

In the gossip column, Frank Gudas made a trip up route 5, and married a Smithy this summer.

We understand that Mickey Lloyd has bought a Triton sail boat. Looks like the America Cup will be safe. John J Amoth is completing his last year at Columbia Business School while Ed Milholland has entered Yale's architectural school. K Lyons has joined Roskin Bros. Inc., Phileo distributors, Albany, N.Y.

Peter Thomas is on the staff of Gilman School, Baltimore, but expects Uncle Sam's call for a six-month Army stint soon. Jim Gavin is with the Peace Corps in Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, and is trying to expand the YMCA program there. He may be addressed, YMCA, Apartado 144, Puerto Cabello.

'61 Peter T. Kilborn 215 Arlington Ave. Providence 6, R.I.

Neal Haynie received his masters in teaching at Brown University last June and has entered the Bailey system. Neal batted out an acceptable thesis called, "Sight, Sound, and Spelling: A discussion of modes of learning as they affect graphic vocabulary.

Another master's candidate is Carl Zimmerman, who is studying math at the University of Kansas. He writes that he is "playing all the regular game, day evening recitals on the K. U. World War II Memorial Carillon" and is also in the local choir. He played one of the ten summer concerts at Trinity this summer. Carl's quote: "I still ride my bike around, but it is now blue and gold and rebuild to 15 speeds, rather than a mere 8 as before."

Peter Kemble is still making news, as he did on the Tripod. In one year at the Rhode Island School of Design, Pete became managing editor of the campus rag, Black. Now he's leaving the school, having been admitted to Harvard to study architecture. Phil Carter writes he is with the estate settlement department of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. He's living at 5 Steen St., Apts. B, West Hartford 10.

A yellowing, mislaid note from Tom Rest deadly announces his good fortune for the Navy's Goshawks. Now a 2nd lieutenant in the Marines, Tom will be playing end and corner back.

Stranski (Bob Woodward) married September 7 the former Miss Judith Bennet Malone who went to Briarcliff and lives in San Francisco. Bob is working for Blythe & Co. of the same city, and living at 1811 Leavenworth St. Buff, his former girl is Miss Carolyn Griffin, a high school English teacher from Pensacola. The one-time Trinity gridiron captain said he would be playing football again, this time for the Navy's Goshawks. Now a 2nd lieutenant in the Marines, Tom will be playing end and corner back.

Smith has been reassigned to Otis AFB for aircrew duty on C-121 aircraft. Bruce Coleman was named an honor graduate from Tinker AFB for his work in the electrical engineer course.

That political activist, Roger MacMillan, is back in the public eye, now at Columbia med school. He was one of two recently elected to the school's council, a Medusa minus the snook. It's a significant achievement at Physicians & Surgeons. Pete Wachtel writes that John Rorko is teaching history at De Veaux School in Newton Falls, John is married to the former Miss Jackie Slayer. Pete is an account executive with Addison F. Busch, Inc., the radio division of a small Buffalo advertising agency. He
Placement Report shows nearly 50% of the Class of 1962 doing graduate work

John F. Butler '34, Director of Placement, reports the following in his annual report to the Dean of the College.

During the academic year on campus, the Class of '62 consisted of 212 members. As of August 1st, the Class breaks down as follows:

Graduate School Information

As in most other colleges, the increased number of men going on for graduate work has changed the emphasis of work in the Placement Office. The first term of the academic year is reserved for the representatives of graduate schools to interview with students on campus. The number of graduate schools which visited Trinity increased again this year. Fellowship awards of seniors are indicated in the individual listing of seniors in this report. There was also an increase this year of undergraduates who resigned from Trinity in June before receiving their baccalaureate degrees to attend medical schools as shown by the following:

- George S. Hambly '63
- Albany Medical School
- Stephen T. Imrie '63
- University of Mississippi
- Walter E. Koch '63

Employment Information

Undergraduates now taking interviews with companies on campus fall into the following four categories:

1. Seniors who are going to graduate business school the following September or after military service have interviews with companies on a long range basis.

2. Seniors who are starting military programs immediately after graduation.

3. Seniors who wish to start work with a company immediately after graduation before going into military service.

4. Sophomores and juniors taking interviews with companies for formal placement programs.

The number of companies interviewing sophomores and juniors for summer programs increased again this year. In December, 123 companies were scheduled... to visit Trinity during the months of February, March and April; two companies cancelled their dates and we cancelled 39 due to lack of interest on the part of undergraduates, leaving a total of 82 companies which interviewed students on campus. The total number of interviews on campus were 675; 106 invitations were given for second interviews and 61 offers were made.

Salary offers for this year were as follows: The salary range for fifth year engineering graduates was $6000-$7900, average $7207; range for B.A. graduates was $5400-$9000 (offer from Pittsburgh Pirates), average $3535; range for B.S. graduates was $5000-$6960, average $6130; offers for teaching positions at independent boarding schools averaged $3500, living and boarding accommodations; public and independent day school $6000-$7000, average $6960; offers were made.

Conclusion

Meetings attended by the Director of Placement included the Annual Meeting of the Eastern College Personnel Officers Association in October which was held on Long Island. In May, a meeting of the Eastern Colleges Placement Directors was held at Arden House, New York. In June, the Directors of Placement at Princeton, University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Yale, Williams, Cornell, and Trinity met in Princeton for a two day session.

Alumni Placement

One hundred Alumni were in touch with the Placement Office this year regarding employment, or graduate school. At present, 50 are employed, three are going to graduate school in September and 47 are on our open Alumni listing.

Part-time Employment

Students assigned to bursary employment this year including the dining hall numbered 624 undergraduates; their earnings amounted to $49,267; The Placement Office received approximately 450 inquiries for off-campus part-time jobs; approximately 75% were filled by Trinity students. Houry wages, much the same as last year, ranged from $1.00 an hour to $5.00 an hour, the latter being earned by students with special skills. Although the major amount of inquiries are of a sales nature, there were employed, three are very unusual requests for part-time assistance. This year the following interesting jobs could be obtained: men to place vacant grave yard, models to sit for portrait class, student to write lyrics for a song, violinist to play during evening meals at suburban private home. The Placement Office continued to act as host to spring and fall job fairs. The Placement Office mailed to the usual mailing of 500 off-campus employers in September and a mailing of 500 in April for summer employment.

ALUMNI REUNION—June 7, 8 and 9, 1963
An Undergraduate's Viewpoint

By J. Ronald Spencer '64

Wide superhighways of concrete and amosite rush from Hartford to a point just below Greenville, S.C., where they are abruptly transformed into a single ribbon of tarred slag, winding through exhausted red-clay fields and past tumbled mansions — shabby reminders of a halcyon era. Near the end of this highway, deep in the rural counties of southwest Georgia, two Trinity students last summer earned the fame of headlines, the infamy of police blotters and a little progress toward equality for all men.

Ralph Allen went to Terrell County, Ga., in early June, and remained three months to work as a field secretary for SNCC (Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee) on voter registration. He was arrested several times for such spurious reasons as "vagrancy" or "for investigation"; he was threatened and intimidated by white Southerners. On one occasion, the husky junior, who has a summer's Marine training, placed his hands behind his back — in accordance with the non-violent technique advocated by SNCC — when a trio of whites challenged him to a fight; he was subsequently hit, knocked to the ground, kicked and menaced with a pocketknife.

Jack Chatfield went to Terrell County Sept. 4, a few days before Allen, his roommate of the previous year, returned to school. Forty-five minutes after he arrived at the Negro home where he still stays, a shotgun blast shattered the evening stillness. Ten pellets ripped through the front-door screen, eight whistled on out the back. The other two were in Jack Chatfield's left arm.

Both of these students have manned outposts in a new struggle for freedom — lonely outposts in a hostile land, where violence is the master of law, and man's only consolation in his solitude is courage, and, perhaps, a passionate belief that what he does is right, bearing some resemblance to truth.

The American South has held one dominant doctrine since the first slave traders arrived in the 17th century — that white is superior to black, and that the superiority must be strictly maintained. In the process of maintaining this superiority, the white man has created a new animal, "the nigger," as distinctly different from the white man as is the mule. This was done first by slavery, enforced with whips, and subsequently by segregation, enforced by unjust laws and ultimately by shotguns. In the process, the Negro came to regard himself as the "nigger," and his brain became shrouded by cobwebs of acquiescence and subservience.

Chatfield and Allen went into the South to tell the "nigger" he is a myth, that the reality is — he is a man. The Negro had to regard himself a man before he would ask those rights which are his. To break the myth of the "nigger" the students employed what seem absurdly menial and insignificant acts. Who would think a handshake exchanged between white and black would make a major fissure in the solid wall of Southern segregation? Yet such a handshake has profound significance in rural Georgia, where always before white and black skin touched only by accident. It is a deep threat to the doctrine of racial supremacy held by the whites, because, as with any doctrine predicated on an absolute, it must be enforced absolutely if it is to be enforced at all. Once the "nigger" begins to think of himself as a man, he inexorably presses for those rights men have normally sought. And the handshake, along with similar simple acts of social relationship, awaken in the Negro the sense he is a man.

The white segregationist must prevent this from happening; he must maintain the myth he created. In all the battles of the new freedom struggle which the casual newspaper reader knows — Montgomery, Little Rock, New Orleans, Jackson, Miss., Albany, Ga. — the white has been elated to keep the fantasy of segregation pure. The segregationist in Terrell County is making the same attempt. But there is an essential difference between these cities that have been splashed in headlines across the nation, and backward, sand-gnat-infested Terrell County, where Chatfield and Allen have worked. For in the cities, although segregation sentiments are as strong as any, there is a basic respect for order, a certain abhorrence of anarchy. Whites in a city such as Albany stop short of mass violence and terror.

"In Albany, with its population of 56,000, they arrested people in droves; here they shot into four homes," Jack Chatfield told me when I visited him in Dawson, the Terrell County seat, in early October. The remark illustrates the difference between the bustling urban South, struggling to catch up at least politically and economically with the mid-20th century, and the rural South, struggling to enforce a 300-year-old doctrine by the age-old technique of violence.

The urban South, having seen its unjust laws swept away by enlightened courts and having refused a mass reversion to barbarism, has in effect acquiesced to the inevitable; the segregationist there really can do little more than fight a rear-guard action to soften the blow of his total defeat. But the segregationist in the rural areas has one weapon left in his arsenal and he has indicated he will use it — crime. In a land where ignorant red-necks conspire with corrupt and stupid sheriffs, law and decency are shunted off to a closet. Intimidation and terror — naturally culminating in murder — are the means of supporting the doctrine of racial supremacy.

Thus, it must be said Chatfield and Allen have manned outposts in the freedom struggle; they occupy the forward lines where the danger is greatest. It is an ever-present danger, and some men may die before the struggle is won. Yet if more violence is to come — and it almost surely will — and if some men are to sacrifice their lives, perhaps there is small consolation in the knowledge they will have suffered in intimate fraternity with all those men throughout history who have acted with courage in pursuit of justice because they thought it necessary. Hopefully the College is proud of Chatfield and Allen, for they have earned a measure of gratitude from that portion of the mass of men which believes justice and decency can, and must, prevail in the human community.
To the Editor:

I read the undergraduates' report of the College with great interest. Although I am six years removed from student days at Trinity, I should like to offer some general comments and a few specific ones too, concerning this question.

I trust that changes have occurred at the College in six years and I further trust that any remarks of mine which are no longer applicable, will be viewed with charity.

The praise rendered the departments of chemistry and history was greatly deserved and pleasing to hear. However, the biology department seems to have been rather harshly judged on, what seems to me, criteria of less than primary importance.

The major defect of the biology department is said to be the lack of variety of courses offered. Now this is a factor of some import but is not what it seems. I had a Latin teacher in high school who taught us Latin and nearly everything else too. She spent sessions on mythology, etymology, ancient history, English grammar and good manners. Similarly a course in comparative anatomy with Wendell Burger is not merely a course in comparative anatomy. It is also a course in embryology, cellular physiology and a number of other things. Now I don't wish to say that a variety of courses is not important but I do wish to say that a superior teacher is "a joy forever." I merely wish to distribute the weight properly.

I find it difficult to believe that any student, who is utilizing neurons above the medullary level and has spent some time listening to Wendell Burger, will find himself less than equal to anyone in the same general field, regardless of how many names of formal courses are on the latter's record.

Moreover, the strength of the department of chemistry is due, in large measure, to Sterling Smith's brilliant facility for articulating the principles of analytic chemistry. Finally, the mural of man's history is painted with more color and insight by one course with George Cooper than ten separate courses.

There is a variety and strength which is not in the Trinity catalogue. It lies in the professor. How do you measure that?

James Streto, M.D., '36

To the Editor:

Congratulations to you all for the selection of materials and for the readability of the articles in this year's issues of the Alumni Magazine.

I have particularly enjoyed the articles on J. Wendell Burger and on James A. Notopoulos, professors of distinguished Trinity College, in the current issue of the magazine.

I feel that those of us who have known the college only on the basis of our graduate studies there would appreciate reading more personal essays of men with whom we might have been temporarily associated.

Of the four colleges and three universities I have known during my undergraduate and graduate pursuits, I have always had a particularly warm spot in my heart for Trinity College. Its halls are as hallowed as Cambridge and Oxford of old.

Arthur Krida Jr., M.A. '51
This drawing is probably the earliest extant piece of Trinity College "art work." The original is in the collection of the Connecticut Historical Society, 1 Elizabeth Street, Hartford, Connecticut, and it was given to the Society in 1948 by Mr. Edgar F. Waterman '98, former Secretary and Treasurer of the Corporation of Trinity College.

In the original, the central figure, obviously a modishly-dressed undergraduate, is drawn in ink with small shadings added in pencil. The date (1828), "Fashion, W. Collge," "Undress," and "Winter Term" are in ink. The two hats, the two words "Fashion" with the line drawn to the left shoulder of the figure, and the leg "profile" are in pencil. The paper is of good watermark quality and the tear on the left makes it almost certainly a page from a small copy-book or a fly-leaf from a printed volume.

Now, of course, the question arises: who drew it, and why? My own first impression was that it may have been done by a local tailor to show his patrons among the incoming students what was to be the informal (undress) wear on the campus for the fall term of 1828. This belief was strengthened by the repeated use of the word "fashion," and by the line drawn to emphasize the padding in the left shoulder. Also, it would not be difficult to see how a not-too literate tailor might spell the word college, "collge." Robert Tomes' description of the undergraduate dress of the period in his not-too-friendly book, My College Days, more than suggests that the garb represented here was that of the Washington College undergraduate. And at this I was prepared to let the matter drop.

For several days I took great delight in showing the picture to all who might be interested, "A Fashion Plate of '28," and the staff of the Connecticut Historical Society began offering suggestions which caused me to doubt whether the drawing really was the work of a Hartford tailor. Miss Frances Hoxie, Curator of Costume at the Historical Society, pointed out the accentuated collar, and this at once raised several other possibilities, first of which was that the drawing may have been a caricature pointing up the foppish attitude of the collegians of the time, or secondly, that it may have been drawn by a student to be sent home with the request to his parents that a similar outfit be created by the tailor at home. This then would, of course, account for certain accentuation and also for calling attention to the shoulder detail.

Finally, the drawing may have been merely a "doodle." But why would a student idling through a recitation of Livy or Horace draw a male figure? Even the most clothes-conscious Junior of 1961 would spend his time more profitably with sketching a female in some style of dress or undress. But however you may have it dear reader - whether tailor's sketch, caricature, mail order home, or "doodle" - it is a Fashion Plate of '28.

Dr. Glenn Weaver, associate professor of history, is preparing the history of Trinity College. As College Historian he has come across some interesting bits of Trinitiana. We hope to publish from time to time some of his more interesting "finds."
The Foundation for Episcopal Colleges

Trinity College has joined with seven other institutions of higher education to form The Foundation for Episcopal Colleges, Inc.

The new organization is an outgrowth of the "Three College Group" composed of Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, and Trinity. This group for the past seven years has sponsored Sunday services in three cities each year on National Christian College Day. Many Trinity alumni have represented the College in these services.

The Presidents of the institutions and the Presiding Bishop are the members of the Foundation. President Albert C. Jacobs was elected chairman of the Foundation and Dr. Edward McCrady, vice chairman. (See picture for members and their colleges.)

Two other officers were named, Kenneth C. Parker of Trinity, secretary, and Clifford E. Orr of Hobart, treasurer.

Purpose of the Foundation, according to its Articles of Incorporation, is "to promote Christian higher education in the tradition of the Episcopal Church."

In commenting on the significance of the Foundation, Dr. Jacobs, its new chairman, said: "For the first time the Episcopal Church and colleges related to the Church have a formal bond between them, and means have been established through which Church and colleges may work in their mutual interest. The Foundation, however, encourages each institution to grow in the direction of its individual goals, in both secular and religious aspects. Each college reserves unto itself its rights in the continuing and independent administration of its own affairs."

Announcement of the new Foundation was made by Bishop Lichtenberger who said: "For some time I have felt strongly that there should be greater cooperation among the several colleges which are related by history and tradition to the Episcopal Church. The formation of this Foundation by these eight colleges is a significant event. I shall follow with keen interest the growth of this new Foundation. It will interpret," he continued, "the aims, functions and needs of the colleges to the members of the Church; foster and cultivate active participation by Episcopalians in support of the colleges; and seek funds and properties for the furtherance of the work of the member colleges."

Immediate plans call for the appointment of an executive director of the Foundation, and preliminary screening of applicants has already begun. Three commissions will aid the executive director in carrying out the work of the Foundation. Public relations, development and news bureau directors of the colleges, who are also associated with the Foundation, will serve on these commissions: research, promotion and fund raising. Temporary office for the Foundation has been made available on the campus of Trinity College.

In terms of a won-lost record, Trinity may not have the best soccer and football teams in New England but there is no doubt around here that the team members are some of the finest young men in the country.

Two good examples are the team Captains, John Pitcairn, soccer, and Mike Schulenberg, football. Both were elected captains of the respective teams last spring by their teammates and, as usual with captains, both are popular and both have outstanding athletic ability.

Pitcairn, a big six-footer from Pittsburgh, started his soccer career at the Shady Side Academy. He won his freshman numerals at Trinity in that sport as well as in baseball where the big left hander impressed Dan Jessee with his speed. Last year John paced the soccer forces at center forward where he led the team to a 6–3 record with eight goals and three assists.

When the team first worked out this fall, Coach Roy Dath asked Pitcairn if he would play outside left because the squad lacked a strong scorer from the left side while many center forwards were around including the talented sophomore from Gambia (Africa) Ousman Sallah who now holds down that position. Pitcairn complied and Dath had a potential powerhouse going when disaster struck three days before the opening game. Pitcairn slipped and bruised his knee cap. The captain was forced to sit out the first two games. However, he attended all practice sessions on crutches, lending his cheering support and dressed for all games where he yelled encouragement from the bench. By mid-October his injury had healed sufficiently for him to make a token appearance against then undefeated University of Hartford which Trinity upset, 1–0, and again later in the month he played some against undefeated Williams which tripped Trinity 2–1.

By the time he graduates in June as a history major, Pitcairn should have received six varsity letters, three each for soccer and baseball. His B.A. degree won't say it in so many words but John has learned to stand on his own, both on and off the athletic field, to make valued judgments and to get along well with his fellow teammates, his fraternity brothers at Alpha Chi Rho and his fellow students.

Mike Schulenberg is another six letter man at Trinity who is a popular leader. His leadership as football captain is just one of many elected posts on campus that command this senior's attention. He is a member of Medusa, the student senate and president of his fraternity, Alpha Chi Rho.

In his junior year Mike was a member of Cerberus, a junior adviser and Crucifer in the Chapel. His quiet pleasant personality has won him many friends. This economics major should be a success in his anticipated career in the business world.

The respect and admiration Mike brings from his fellow students was demonstrated by his fraternity brothers who surprised Mike one Saturday night by arranging to have a date flown in from Red Wing, Minnesota (Mike's hometown), for the chapter's dance.

At Central High School in Red Wing, Mike had been president of his class, selected to the National Honor Society and was football co-captain on a team that won 18 and lost 5 over the three years he was there. He also ran track, as he does at Trinity where he is the leading hurdler.

On the football field Schulenberg has been an outstanding interior lineman, where his aggressive play earned him the Jessee Blocking Award in 1961. His two biggest thrills have been pass interceptions. One this fall against Colby resulted in a spectacular 45-yard return. Mike brought the ball back about ten yards, then the resourceful captain lateralled to speedy halfback Tom Calabrese who ran 35 more yards before the play ended.

Schulenberg is not an exceptionally big lineman, 190-pounds, but he hits hard and is fast. He said football has brought many friends and introductions to students from other campuses. "You learn to respect others," Mike said, "It is a great game." We think Mike knew respect long before this, and for Mike and his 41 teammates football is a game and is played for fun. The only real disappointment in losing is when you haven't played your best and under that criterion, Trinity is undefeated in soccer and football.
