Anderson Lectures on Upcoming Election

By David Gerber
News Staff Writer

Saturday night, Trinity College welcomed independent presidential candidate John Anderson, who garnered 7% of the presidential vote in the 1980 election. Talk of the upcoming presidential contest dominated Anderson's speech, which was interspersed with rhetorical criticisms of what he called a "media campaign."

Commenting on the government's "mismanagement of millions of dollars in campaign funds," Anderson said, "It isn't an anomaly that we are taxpayers forced to pay for a campaign that we don't even like." Anderson, a former recipient of those funds, noted that this year both Dukakis and Bush each received approximately $45 million for their campaigns in general and an additional $3 million specifically paid for each convention.

"The only people who have been satisfied with this election are the major machinery of media, newspeople, television and the highly paid political analysts and specialists," Anderson said. "I am sure you'll remember that memorable ad which showed a great Indian chief looking out upon the entire beautiful land, and with hiscirrus eye, saw little litter and garbage... in reference to this campaign, I feel like that Indian chief."

Anderson believes that part of the problem with the campaign is that there are no longer any strong political parties. "Each party is so unmarked, her friend became concerned and decided to notify security. "Most of the gang activity is known, as police place near the Civic Center. These signs could have been posted by the police, or it could have been someone who was trying to get gang against gang."

"Gang activity False"

By Anandanth Badeker
News Staff Writer

During rumous of gang activity, security officers were notified. A Friday night, a Resident Assistant in Goodelle insisted that it is a definite boon to Trinity. "The heat is on all gangs in a narcotics related incident. Rucci explained that more people are involved because of the raid, but this has nothing to do with the College. Rumors of gang activity on Saturday night stemmed from signs that were posted in the Civic Center. These signs could have been posted by the police or a gang. It could have been someone who was trying to get gang against gang."

Aurora Palacios, a junior, believes that the new policy of preregistration is an attempt to pare down overbooked classes. In the past, no classes were filled at the beginning of the semester. As a result, instructors should rush to submit the requisite preregistration materials. To accommodate students, most instructors offer several lecture sections and have elicited complaints due to its time-consuming nature.

According to the Office of the Registrar, as of Friday, November 4, no classes have been filled. "We do not consider a class full until we have received the signatures of all students," explained Rucci. "Rumors of gang activity are unfounded. According to Ken Lemelle, Acting Director of Security, "There are no narcotic connections between the campus and the gangs." The only reason for the gangs to even come on campus is that they don't see gangs as a problem for us. If you do go off campus, you will be treated like any other citizen of Hartford," he said.

"Pre-Registration Policy"

By Patricia Pierso
News Staff Writer

The current method is considered unnecessary by some students and has elicited complaints due to its time-consuming nature and the constant need to re-register classes.

Rucci does not see any evidence of narcotic connections between the campus and the gangs. "No reason for the gangs to even come on campus. I don't see gangs as a problem for us. If you go off campus, you will be treated like any other citizen of Hartford," he said.

As a result, instructors should no longer expect classes to be filled beyond manageable limits. The policy will bolster professors' efficacy in attempting to turn down overbooked lectures and labs.

The current method is considered unnecessary by some students and has elicited complaints due to its time-consuming nature and the constant need to re-register classes. Rucci does not see any evidence of narcotic connections between the campus and the gangs. "No reason for the gangs to even come on campus. I don't see gangs as a problem for us. If you go off campus, you will be treated like any other citizen of Hartford," he said.

As a result, instructors should no longer expect classes to be filled beyond manageable limits. The policy will bolster professors' efficacy in attempting to turn down overbooked lectures and labs.

"New Pre-Registration Policy"

By Patricia Pierso
News Staff Writer

As the semester's deadline for submission of preregistration applications nears, many Trinity students are concerned as to how changes in the preregistration policy will affect their academic plans.

The Registrar's new tactic in filling classes, recently instituted, is meant to alleviate the manpower involved in determining which courses are being taken. "The registrar's office is the only office that knows who has taken which course," commented Rucci. "Many are anxious that their courses may fill up before they have a chance to submit the appropriate forms to the Registrar's office." Lemelle believes that the threat of enrollment restrictions "creates a demand for students not wait until the deadline to submit their materials."

The new policy of preregistration is not intended to hinder students in obtaining the classes they request, even though some feel it is necessary to rush to submit their preregistration materials. To accommodate students, instructors should offer several lecture times and new class times may be formed to meet demand.

According to the Office of the Registrar, as of Friday, November 4, no classes have been filled. "We do not consider a class full until we have received the signatures of all students," explained Rucci. "Rumors of gang activity are unfounded. According to Ken Lemelle, Acting Director of Security, "There are no narcotic connections between the campus and the gangs." The only reason for the gangs to even come on campus is that they don't see gangs as a problem for us. If you go off campus, you will be treated like any other citizen of Hartford," he said.

As a result, instructors should no longer expect classes to be filled beyond manageable limits. The policy will bolster professors' efficacy in attempting to turn down overbooked lectures and labs.

The current method is considered unnecessary by some students and has elicited complaints due to its time-consuming nature and the constant need to re-register classes. Rucci does not see any evidence of narcotic connections between the campus and the gangs. "No reason for the gangs to even come on campus. I don't see gangs as a problem for us. If you go off campus, you will be treated like any other citizen of Hartford," he said.

As a result, instructors should no longer expect classes to be filled beyond manageable limits. The policy will bolster professors' efficacy in attempting to turn down overbooked lectures and labs.

The current method is considered unnecessary by some students and has elicited complaints due to its time-consuming nature and the constant need to re-register classes. Rucci does not see any evidence of narcotic connections between the campus and the gangs. "No reason for the gangs to even come on campus. I don't see gangs as a problem for us. If you go off campus, you will be treated like any other citizen of Hartford," he said.

As a result, instructors should no longer expect classes to be filled beyond manageable limits. The policy will bolster professors' efficacy in attempting to turn down overbooked lectures and labs.

The current method is considered unnecessary by some students and has elicited complaints due to its time-consuming nature and the constant need to re-register classes. Rucci does not see any evidence of narcotic connections between the campus and the gangs. "No reason for the gangs to even come on campus. I don't see gangs as a problem for us. If you go off campus, you will be treated like any other citizen of Hartford," he said.

As a result, instructors should no longer expect classes to be filled beyond manageable limits. The policy will bolster professors' efficacy in attempting to turn down overbooked lectures and labs.

The current method is considered unnecessary by some students and has elicited complaints due to its time-consuming nature and the constant need to re-register classes. Rucci does not see any evidence of narcotic connections between the campus and the gangs. "No reason for the gangs to even come on campus. I don't see gangs as a problem for us. If you go off campus, you will be treated like any other citizen of Hartford," he said.

As a result, instructors should no longer expect classes to be filled beyond manageable limits. The policy will bolster professors' efficacy in attempting to turn down overbooked lectures and labs.
Education Needed at Trinity Concerning Homosexuality

You suggest that homosexuals should be more discrete about who they are and who they love and that they should not use their sexual preference as a means of political action. This is a distinctly different point of view than the one Mr. Guardo refers to.

Joseph Guardo's comments in response to the letter the Tripod has printed this week are not intended to be a hostile or negative response. Rather, they are a result of the fact that Mr. Guardo is speaking to a population that he feels is not fully aware of the basic human rights that all people should enjoy. He is concerned that the current legal and social climate does not provide the same level of protection for homosexuals as it does for members of other minority groups.

The Trilogy's editorial board firmly believes in the right of all people to express their views, regardless of their sexual orientation. We believe that the publication of Mr. Guardo's letter is an important step in the process of educating the Trinity community about the need for greater acceptance and understanding of homosexuals.

We encourage all students to read the letter and to consider the points that Mr. Guardo makes. We also encourage them to reflect on their own attitudes and to think about how they can contribute to a more welcoming and accepting environment for all members of the Trinity community.

Sincerely,

J. Smith
Executive Editor
To the Editor,

My first reaction to Joseph Guardo’s recent letter condemning homosexuality is simple one: We are a wiser another place of adolescent nonsense. Upon reflection, I realized that this would not serve in my favor. Mr. Guardo directed this sentiments at minorities or women. I would have been outraged and would have felt it my responsibility to respond to what he termed a very quickly and vigou-

ously to his bigotry. Bigotry merits condemnation. What Mr. Guardo asserted are fairly easy to rebut. Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That some- one’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.Pk Ed

Bigotry Merits Vigorous Condemnation

To the Editor,

Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That someone’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.

My first reaction to Joseph Guardo’s recent letter condemning homosexuality is simple one: We are a wiser another place of adolescent nonsense. Upon reflection, I realized that this would not serve in my favor. Mr. Guardo directed this sentiments at minorities or women. I would have been outraged and would have felt it my responsibility to respond to what he termed a very quickly and vigorously to his bigotry. Bigotry merits condemnation. What Mr. Guardo asserted are fairly easy to rebut. Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That someone’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.

My first reaction to Joseph Guardo’s recent letter condemning homosexuality is simple one: We are a wiser another place of adolescent nonsense. Upon reflection, I realized that this would not serve in my favor. Mr. Guardo directed this sentiments at minorities or women. I would have been outraged and would have felt it my responsibility to respond to what he termed a very quickly and vigorously to his bigotry. Bigotry merits condemnation. What Mr. Guardo asserted are fairly easy to rebut. Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That some- one’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.

My first reaction to Joseph Guardo’s recent letter condemning homosexuality is simple one: We are a wiser another place of adolescent nonsense. Upon reflection, I realized that this would not serve in my favor. Mr. Guardo directed this sentiments at minorities or women. I would have been outraged and would have felt it my responsibility to respond to what he termed a very quickly and vigorously to his bigotry. Bigotry merits condemnation. What Mr. Guardo asserted are fairly easy to rebut. Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That someone’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.

My first reaction to Joseph Guardo’s recent letter condemning homosexuality is simple one: We are a wiser another place of adolescent nonsense. Upon reflection, I realized that this would not serve in my favor. Mr. Guardo directed this sentiments at minorities or women. I would have been outraged and would have felt it my responsibility to respond to what he termed a very quickly and vigorously to his bigotry. Bigotry merits condemnation. What Mr. Guardo asserted are fairly easy to rebut. Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That someone’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.

My first reaction to Joseph Guardo’s recent letter condemning homosexuality is simple one: We are a wiser another place of adolescent nonsense. Upon reflection, I realized that this would not serve in my favor. Mr. Guardo directed this sentiments at minorities or women. I would have been outraged and would have felt it my responsibility to respond to what he termed a very quickly and vigorously to his bigotry. Bigotry merits condemnation. What Mr. Guardo asserted are fairly easy to rebut. Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That someone’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.

My first reaction to Joseph Guardo’s recent letter condemning homosexuality is simple one: We are a wiser another place of adolescent nonsense. Upon reflection, I realized that this would not serve in my favor. Mr. Guardo directed this sentiments at minorities or women. I would have been outraged and would have felt it my responsibility to respond to what he termed a very quickly and vigorously to his bigotry. Bigotry merits condemnation. What Mr. Guardo asserted are fairly easy to rebut. Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That someone’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.

My first reaction to Joseph Guardo’s recent letter condemning homosexuality is simple one: We are a wiser another place of adolescent nonsense. Upon reflection, I realized that this would not serve in my favor. Mr. Guardo directed this sentiments at minorities or women. I would have been outraged and would have felt it my responsibility to respond to what he termed a very quickly and vigorously to his bigotry. Bigotry merits condemnation. What Mr. Guardo asserted are fairly easy to rebut. Mr. Guardo’s letter is a litany of invective and non sequiturs. That someone’s bias is considered an opinion is an admission that the world is a simple place where right and wrong exist.
To the Editor,

We would like to congratulate Joseph Guardo, '90, on his letter in last week's Tripod. It is truly a masterpiece of of persuasive sarcasm; an army of President English's task forces never could. That stupidly and inefficiently du b ear some frightening consequences.

Youngs, Truly,

CDM '90

D.L. Mother '91

A Separate Nation for Pillars

Tired of Ignorance

To the Student Community,

I am a lesbian and I am proud of my homosexuality. When gay people are described as perverted, immoral, degenerate, he'donistic, scandalous, unattractive, disgusting, reprehensible, abominable, foulhardy, twisted, and immoral, they are also described as being antithetic to the mission of Trinity College. That mission, in a nutshell, is to extend the challenge to the readers to do the same.

In reaching out to other people, I can only analyze this situation positively to the people who are taking the risk.

Sincerely,

Jan Cope

Dean of the Faculty

Respecting Differences

To the Editor,

Mr. Guardo is wrong about virtually everything he writes about the community and the Tripod. But, it is because of the opinions of people like Mr. Guardo, blacks, and others of various races, that we fight for the rights of all or it will be a group of gay folks. By recommending the formation of a homosexual country where all those with "alternate life-styles" could go and die, "decently eliminatng the problem altogether," Mr. Guardo really shed some light on a few issues. In his sly, sly way, as I see it, Mr. Guardo points out that people's fears and hatreds move up in a group of our vision and startying on the cerebral cortex. That's right they generally become and start talking about gay nation-states.

And so, I wish Mr. Guardo to think long and hard about his position, his views, and his characteristics. By putting all those with "alternate life-styles", I think it would be easier and more beneficial to have Joe and other "pillars of society" like him create a separate nation with a morally pure population free from homosexuals and other undesirables. I think that the creation of this new nation would make many people happy, as those who believe in individual freedom and tolerance of others would be free from harassment, while those who believe in conformity would be able to build a "strong family-oriented society" in a clean, healthy environment.

God forbid, however, if no women chose to join this new nation and the founders of this ideal state, including Joe, were forced to be repressed even more.

Sincerely,

Maria D. Wood

No Place for Homosexuals

To the Editor,

We are writing in regards to the letter written by Joseph Guardo in the last issue of the Tripod. We would like Mr. Guardo to follow his own advice and not vocalize his local preferences in a majority that does not wish to have its sensibilities offended.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Konstanty

Daniel L. Molner '91

No Communication

To the Editor,

In response to Nicole Marnitz's opinion on relationships at Trinity, I agree that although there are some relationships that are unhealthy, there are many that are intimate and meaningful, quite a few others seem superficial, or non-existent. Many of my friends and I are also tired of being ignored, and although we would like to know that people better, there is a lack of honest communication. If you and I want to share our feelings with each other find this very difficult, imagine what it's like for countless others at Trinity. "Do things change?" in one situation, or another some of us have not before. For some reason, we don't adequately express our feelings or develop good friendships, and yes, romantic relationships too. Maybe we need to take more risks. Obviously, some people are already trying, by doing things like writing a feature article, which can be very difficult for them.

Sincerely,

Kathy Yehema

Necessity of Nat'l Coming Out Day

To the Editor,

The most compelling argument for the necessity of a National Coming Out Day is the fact that the wins covered and heterosexual attitudes about homosexuality and lesbian and gay people expressed by Joseph Guardo's November letter are still quite prevalent in America and in our society. At Trinity College. It is this very ignorance and hostility that National Coming Out Day was initiated to address, by demonstrating that gay and lesbian people are not "they", but are "us".

Sincerely,

Bill Silva

Assistant Professor of American Studies
Op-Ed

Value of Homosexual Love in Classical Societies

To the Editor,

I am writing to condemn the impression that Mr. Guardo has given in his letter to the Editor that he is a self described "homosexual." The words he has used in his letter are offensive and repugnant. Rather, it is meant to show, in a humorous way, how disgusting letter on the Trinity Campus is bad enough to hold such ludicrous views, and decency is for people with no foundation in logic or reason.

HETEROSEXUALITY QUESTIONNAIRE

1. What do you think you caused your heterosexuality? On what do you base your answer? Do you have any other explanations for your sexual orientation?

2. When and how did you first discover you were heterosexual? Do you feel like you were always heterosexual or did you have a phase where you were homosexual?

3. Is it possible your heterosexuality is just a phase you might outgrow out of? Shouldn't you at least try to develop your natural, healthy homosexual potential?

4. Do you consider it safe to expose your children to heterosexual relationships? Do you think you can defend them on moral or ideological grounds?

5. How can you become a whole person if you limit yourself to heterosexual relationships? Are there any moral or psychological problems that breed discrimination and assumption that he does believe in the Tripod. As a matter of fact, it is one of the most offensive pieces that I have read anywhere. What breeds such ignorance and hatred of other human beings?

6. To whom have you revealed your heterosexual tendencies? Do you feel like you are being honest about this?

7. Why do you homosexuals feel compelled to seduce others into your world? Do you have any other objectives?

8. Why do you insist on flaunting your heterosexuality? Can't you just be what you are and keep it quiet?

9. Would you want your children to be homosexual, knowing the problems they'd face?

10. A disproportionate number of child molesters are homosexual. Do you consider it safe to expose your children to homosexuals? or teacher, brought on by not just the unmitigated homosexuality of Grove, but only the flagrant and disinterested, by Homer, like all other in- vice to Grove, but only the flagrant and disinterested, by Homer, like all other in- vice to Grove, but only the flagrant and disinterested, by Homer, like all other in- vice to Grove, but only the flagrant and disinterested, by Homer, like all other in- vice to Grove, but only the flagrant and disinterested, by Homer, like all other in-
Clawson Lectures On Nepali Women

-By Barbara Scudder-

Special to The Tripod

In an effort to learn about the lives of the people in Nepali culture, Terry Clawson '89 traveled to the tiny Hindu kingdom of Nepal, surrounded between China and India, last fall as a part of the Trinity Hunger Action Project Fellowship (THAP). Clawson shared her experience last Wednesday, with a powerpoint show presentation to the Trinity Community. The talk entitled "Nepali Women," focused on the educational and developmental efforts in Nepal, especially pertaining to the women of that country.

Nepal is a primarily Hindu country, though many citizens practice both Hinduism and Buddhism. Hinduism, a person is born into a certain role, which they must play to the best of their ability. The result is a culture full of guidelines and restrictions for behavior.

Clawson talked about what some of those roles are for women and how they affect women's lives and work. A woman's duty in life is to marry a husband, raise his children, and help him around the house. "In childhood, a woman is subject to her father; in youth her husband, and in age, her sons," said Clawson. "A woman should not be independent, rebellious, or resistant to doing whatever her husband wants."

Clawson went on to speak on the women's role in the family. When a Nepali woman marries, she doesn't marry for love. She marries for stability, to have a home, and to have children. Women are considered the lowest caste in society. If she has children, however, the children will belong to her husband. If a woman can't have children or doesn't give birth to sons, her husband may marry again. A lot of times there will be tension between her and her mother-in-law, she is considered the lowest of the family. Her status is subject to her father; in youth her husband, to serve him well and treat him with respect. Her duty is to be a good mother and wife.

Another problem for women is that the education in Nepal hasn't been as widely available to women as it has been to men. "Statistics say that 50% of Nepali boys and only 22% of Nepali girls can go to college," said Clawson. "Young girls are needed to do the work." Women are often the first ones to have to work. With an education they are able to support their parents, whom Continued on Page 9

WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

Freshmen wives are running into trouble with Middlesex politics.

Fraternity parties may soon become the object of I.D. checks. A crackdown on underage drinking would include carding students who attend fraternity parties, as well as examining liquor licenses. Two Wesleyan students were arrested on alcohol-related charges at a local liquor store as part of the crackdown. In other news from Wesleyan, the Board of Trustees voted to move student participation into the decision-making process of the faculty tenure. The Student Education Trustee resigned in protest over the decision. Students are realities now as an open program that the Trustees to take power away from them.

AMHERST COLLEGE

Amherst students had reason to celebrate when the U.S. News and World Report surveyed of colleges was issued the second week of October. Amherst was ranked as the second best "national liberal arts" college in the country. Swarthmore College was ranked first in this category. The survey was compiled using consultation with college presidents, deans, and admissions officers, considering four areas of criteria: student selectivity, faculty quality, student retention, and resources.

The installation of condom machines has given the Lord Jeffs another reason to shout for joy. The machines were installed in both men's and women's bathrooms in the campus center. The College hopes that the machines will not only promote the use of condoms, but will encourage more people to talk about them.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE

While Amherst was celebrating, Williams students received a crumbly blow to their egos with the release of the U.S. News survey on colleges. Williams lost its number one ranking to Swarthmore in the report. Williams administrators referred to the poll as foolish and said that it was just as foolish when Williams was ranked first. Other NESCAC schools ranked in the top 15 of this category include Wesleyan, Bowdoin, and Middlebury.

CONVERSE UNIVERSITY

College students were in tears the first week of October as the school's January term was eliminated from the schedule. The Academic Affairs Board voted out the January special studies term by a 3-1 vote. January studies will be phased out beginning with the Class of 1992. Students who still must have the January term as a graduation requirement will be given priority this winter. That includes about 1200 juniors and seniors.

Math Profs Divide On Calculators

(CPS) — College professors still can't decide whether to let students use calculators in math classes and exams.

In a survey of the nation's math profs by the Educational Testing Service (ETS), faculty members were nearly evenly divided between those who opposed using the devices (43 percent) and those who endorsed it (40 percent).

"Some think it's a good idea, because students need to use them in the real world and in business without really thinking about the problem," said Jane Kopus, an assistant professor of education at UTC.

"Then there's the fairness issue," some students, she explained, can afford better calculators than others.

"On the other hand, some say that calculators are a part of modern life, that students need them in college, so why not on exams," said Kopus, who helps write ETS's "Survey of the Use of Hand Calculators and Microcomputers in College Mathematics Classes," conducted in the spring of 1987 and whose results were released last week.

A woman also often feels for the good of her family. During the religious festival, "Tij," a woman can go out in public without her husband, dance, sing and take the day off from all her household duties. Her husband may even cook her a good meal and treat her exceptionally well.

"Statistics say that 50% of Nepali boys and only 22% of Nepali girls can go to college," said Clawson. "Young girls are needed to do the work." Women are often the first ones to have to work. With an education they are able to support their parents, whom Continued on Page 9

$100,000
Donated
By UTC

Senior Kirby Clawson delivers a lecture on women in Nepal. (Photo by Lisa Davis)

AMHERST COLLEGE

The UTC gift will be used in the construction of an electro-mechanical engineering laboratory in the new academic building. The new building will also house Trinity’s Department of Engineering and Computer Science, the Computing Center and the Department of Mathematics.

Robert E. Daniel, UTC chairmen, CEO and president said, "As one of the state’s largest employers, UTC realizes the future of our state and that of the nation rests with our youth. We are pleased to join with Trinity to provide student engineers with the learning environment needed to ensure a quality education."

The electro-magnetic engineering laboratory is designed to provide students with practical experimental experience in the areas of mechanics, thermodynamics, fluids and materials. The activities in the laboratory will enable engineering students to better understand the fundamental concepts presented in the classroom.

"We appreciate the generosity of United Technology Corporation in supporting this important project," English said. "Our engineering students will benefit greatly from their activities in a College of Engineering building, especially from the hands-on experience they will acquire in the electro-mechanical laboratory."

The Campaign for Trinity is a three-year, $45 million fund raising effort launched in September 1986. The campaign reached its goal eight months ahead of schedule, but fundraising activity will continue until the official end of the drive in June.

Go farther... faster.

As a Marine Officer, you could be in charge of a Mach 2 F/A-18A, a vertical take-off Harrier or one of our other jets or helicopters. And you could do it by the time you're 23. But it takes a special commitment on your part. We demand leaders at all levels. We teach you to be one. If you're a freshman, sophomore, or junior, ask about our Sloan Leaders Class program. If you're a senior, check out our Officer Candidate Class programs. Starting salaries are from $18,000 to $24,000. And you can expect to graduate in less time than at almost any other service academy.

Marines

Stand Up and Be Counted! VOTE TODAY!

Senior Kirby Clawson delivers a lecture on women in Nepal. (Photo by Lisa Davis)
Jalbert Presents "Sojourn In China" Slide Show

-By Stephanie Tucker-

News Writer

The Women's Center was packed last Thursday afternoon for an hour-long slide show on China by Assistant Dean of Students Katherina Jalbert.

She spent three weeks examining China's sights, scenery and ethnic cultures. Jalbert and her two companions made visits to the busy British-style city of Hong Kong after an eleven hour flight from New York. They also were impressed by the Cantonese use in place of cars.

Chinese worker Lynn Walsh, who has taught English for two years in the Chinese countryside. Jalbert met her friends in the humidity of Hong Kong after an eleven hour flight from New York. She spent her first three days in a hostel on the riverfront. Her slides of the city depicted New York-style street peddlers and double-decker buses, which made a sharp contrast with bamboo clothed and oriental pagodas of the Tiger Canons.

Next stop was Guangzou, or Canton, a city not far from Hong Kong. Her presentation revealed a city of sidewalk, shops, a large bird market and an expert who improved Jalbert and her friends, indicated the Sun-Yat Sen Memorial and the first pagoda included in many myths, she said. She found cultural differences between the United States and China in the prevalent. One example was the use of ceramic trash cans.

The group traveled by train throughout their journey, including a 24-hour-long ride from Kilians. They took a two-hour ride from Guangzou to visit the scenery of the countryside. When they portrayed west to the city of Kunming, they witnessed a service in a bamboo host on the riverfront. Her slides of the city depicted New York-style street peddlers and double-decker buses, which made a sharp contrast with bamboo clothed and oriental pagodas of the Tiger Canons.

Jalbert said they found Dali, a small rural town in southwestern China especially interesting. She noted the wide range of dress in the area - for example, the colorful embroidered costumes, to traditional black复习. "Chinese villages like Dali are quite primitive," she explained. "No buildings are higher than two stories and everything is sold in the main street open market."

Last on the tour was trip to the Great Wall near Beijing and to the Temple of Heaven which is known as "Pek/ing City." Jalbert pointed out that she felt a service in a bamboo host on the riverfront. Her slides of the city depicted New York-style street peddlers and double-decker buses, which made a sharp contrast with bamboo clothed and oriental pagodas of the Tiger Canons.

The group traveled by train throughout their journey, including a 24-hour-long ride from Kilians. They took a two-hour ride from Guangzou to visit the scenery of the countryside. When they portrayed west to the city of Kunming, they witnessed a service in a bamboo host on the riverfront. Her slides of the city depicted New York-style street peddlers and double-decker buses, which made a sharp contrast with bamboo clothed and oriental pagodas of the Tiger Canons.

During Open Period, the Dean of the Faculty sponsored a symposium entitled "Art, Knowledge, and Ideology." Several papers were presented which examined the relationship of modern art, intellectual contributions to the creative work in art, poetry, science and the like. We were not surprised to find that we raised more questions than we answered.

Among those questions are several which will become the focus of a second symposium next spring; they directly touch the life of the college. These questions concern the way in which certain materials - books, art works, or theories, for example - have been selected as the approved core of studies in various disciplines. They are often referred to as the "canon." and in the case of literary studies include the works sponsored by the descendents of New Critical and Modernist movements, constituting a core of the best of British and American writings. As a result, they set the standard for "quality" literature used in curriculum planning, teaching, and graduate study in colleges and universities.

The central controversy about this view, which continues to agitate philosophers and others who have applied Kant's mode of analysis to other fields, is whether successive questions are several which will become the focus of a second symposium next spring, they directly touch the life of the college. These questions concern the way in which certain materials - books, art works, or theories, for example - have been selected as the approved core of studies in various disciplines. They are often referred to as the "canon." and in the case of literary studies include the works sponsored by the descendents of New Critical and Modernist movements, constituting a core of the best of British and American writings. As a result, they set the standard for "quality" literature used in curriculum planning, teaching, and graduate study in colleges and universities.

The recent symposium on art, knowledge, and ideology explored the collision (and sometimes reconciliation) of faction and poetry, philosophy, and psychology. The symposium planning a sequel to be held on Monday, February 20, 1989. The next symposium will explore the unstated assumptions (often about gender, race or class) that structure contemporary scholarship and teaching - the politics lurking behind our daily intellectual and social life.

We invite all students and faculty to submit proposals for short papers or presentations on any aspect of invisible ideology. Please submit your ideas or outlines to Jan Cohn, Dean of the Faculty, by Wednesday, November 30.
News

Campus Protests Against CIA are on the Rise

(CPS) — Students at the University of New Mexico, Vermont's Middlebury College and Connecticut's Wesleyan University are among those whose campuses have been targeted by anti-CIA protests. In recent years, such protests have increased at campuses across the United States.

The protests are often in response to the CIA's involvement in domestic and international affairs. In some cases, they are sparked by allegations of the agency's role in human rights abuses, surveillance, and other activities that are seen as illegal or unethical. The protests have ranged from small gatherings to large demonstrations, with some involving the占据 多数 of campus buildings.

The CIA has faced criticism for its role in various conflicts, including the Vietnam War and the War on Terror. The agency has also been accused of conducting illegal surveillance and engaging in other activities that are seen as violating the rights of citizens and the principles of democracy.

At the University of New Mexico, students and faculty have organized protests against the CIA's involvement in domestic affairs. The protests have included sit-ins and demonstrations, with some activists calling for the disbandment of the CIA.

At Vermont's Middlebury College, students have organized protests against the CIA's role in foreign affairs. The protests have included rallies and demonstrations, with some activists calling for the CIA to be held accountable for its actions.

At Connecticut's Wesleyan University, students have organized protests against the CIA's role in domestic affairs. The protests have included small-scale protests and larger demonstrations, with some activists calling for the CIA to be held accountable for its actions.

Despite the protests, the CIA continues to be a controversial and controversial agency. Its role in domestic and foreign affairs continues to be the subject of debate and discussion among academics, policymakers, and the general public.
Strawberries, Potatoes, & Other Fantasies
-By Christine Smith- Spotlight Editor

It is fairly often that we hear of a professor who is having some kind of work published, either a novel, a textbook or even a textbook of study. Of course, there are many who work on being published, but they may not necessarily be seen as they are on the covers of the books. It can certainly not be so easily found, however, that the best chance to be seen is on the cover of a book.

This fall a group of eight student playwrights, through the efforts of various members of the Trinity community, will have their works published. This event in and of itself is truly deserving of praise.

More interesting is the fact that the students have gotten Edward Albee, the legendary American playwright, to write a forward for the collection. Albee attended Trinity College during the late 1940s. When he was writing his first play, for example, written by Hank Lewis & others, it was written by John Albee. The first play, "A Moment of Silence" was written by Hank Lewis. The title, "From Respectfully Yours" is taken from larger plays, are written by Jennifer Rider, Tim Cunningham, Jennifer Neal. The three monologues that comprise the volume, were written by Edward Albee asking his help and Albee responded by saying he would be happy to write a preface introduction to the volume. In this forward, Albee praises the young writers. He writes, "And what a joy it is for a playwright who has been around for a while—a thirty years! My God! Can it be possible?—to experience the dedicated works of his younger fellows; for example, the seven plays and three monologues (from plays) by the young play-wright's—representing in existing or..." Thus the volume was complete.

It begins with a preface by Professor Feinsod, thanking those people who had contributed in various ways, then Albee's enthusiastic forward, followed by the ten works. These works, seven plays and three monologues, comprise the volume to be published. The compilation is expected to be ready on November 16.

As the finishing touch, Tim Cunningham, the co-editor of the volume, wrote to Edward Albee asking his help and Albee responded by saying he would be happy to write a preface introduction to the volume. In this forward, Albee praises the young writers. He writes, "And what a joy it is for a playwright who has been around for a while—a thirty years! My God! Can it be possible?—to experience the dedicated works of his younger fellows; for example, the seven plays and three monologues (from plays) by the young play-wright's—representing in existing or..." Thus the volume was complete.

It begins with a preface by Professor Feinsod, thanking those people who had contributed in various ways, then Albee's enthusiastic forward, followed by the ten works. These works, seven plays and three monologues, comprise the volume to be published. The compilation is expected to be ready on November 16.

As the finishing touch, Tim Cunningham, the co-editor of the volume, wrote to Edward Albee asking his help and Albee responded by saying he would be happy to write a preface introduction to the volume. In this forward, Albee praises the young writers. He writes, "And what a joy it is for a playwright who has been around for a while—a thirty years! My God! Can it be possible?—to experience the dedicated works of his younger fellows; for example, the seven plays and three monologues (from plays) by the young play-wright's—representing in existing or..." Thus the volume was complete.

It begins with a preface by Professor Feinsod, thanking those people who had contributed in various ways, then Albee's enthusiastic forward, followed by the ten works. These works, seven plays and three monologues, comprise the volume to be published. The compilation is expected to be ready on November 16.

As the finishing touch, Tim Cunningham, the co-editor of the volume, wrote to Edward Albee asking his help and Albee responded by saying he would be happy to write a preface introduction to the volume. In this forward, Albee praises the young writers. He writes, "And what a joy it is for a playwright who has been around for a while—a thirty years! My God! Can it be possible?—to experience the dedicated works of his younger fellows; for example, the seven plays and three monologues (from plays) by the young play-wright's—representing in existing or..." Thus the volume was complete.
The system of segregation is part of disposed of. It ceases to be cost-effective and will be created and utilized in deterrence disagreements by creating an over-each actor has the ability to settle any dispute. If the major players in the international system can do this, there is a dispute. If the major players in the United States have been tossing around legislative sanctions over the past few years, nothing has been accomplished as the Reagan Administration rightly recognized apartheid as a focus of national indignation. Motley South Africa, however, is not going to achieve anything on its own.

The goal of economic sanctions is isolationism within the African economy. As the economy turns bad, the small white middle class, although it is small in the domestic mind, will become disgruntled and force the African government to make reforms. Even if the government resists, there will be little to lose to be "cost-efficient" and will be forced to reform.

The problem of apartheid goes for ever changing world economic systems. The system of segregation is part of the South African national identity. It is a heritage that runs very deep in the South African people, one that they would remain proud of. Those in power in the Botha government, and the many to follow, are also wealthy enough to support the apartheid regime. While they imposed sanctions. They know that their stockpiles of important resources is a significant investment over the years. The supply of diamonds is important to South Africa's economy. Importers of diamonds say that the ban on diamond imports is already driving up prices. If sanctions are imposed too lightly, however, the market price for gold and other commodities will go through the roof, which would militate against the goal of bringing apartheid to an end.

The issue of apartheid in an international context is therefore not about the moral wrong of repressive segregation, but over the economic implications of getting rid of it. The question remains deeper. Even if a few American owned millionaires multi-national, more is at stake. It is about the control of access to information pertaining to the apartheid regime. A concentrated international sanctions effort could topple apartheid. The United States must lead that effort regardless of the interim economic consequences. Without full commitment to a total boycott, sanctions will fail.

The effectiveness of sanctions against the Reagan Administration has been quite obvious in the case of South Africa. The present election has brought sanctions clearly back into the national focus. Those who stood against apartheid in the past, more countries in the future will stand against the policy for the conservatives is, to use the term, more nuclear. The South African blacks, blacks in South Africa, work under slave condition. They are poorly paid, separated from their families and only allowed to see their families a few weeks of each year. The South African blacks would more quickly become a serious threat to the white homelands. It is those who are in power, those who are not, who feel threatened by differences. It is those who are in power, those who are not, who will come to terms with the other and allow them to stay. It is those who are in power, those who are not, who will have to do everything they can to keep the other out. It is those who are in power, those who are not, who will decide what to do with the land in which they are jealous of the land, is their country.

Stop Discrimination Against homosexuals

By Victoria Arbaud-

World Outlook Editor

Homosexuality has become a major issue in this country. According to Kinsey Institute statistics, 13% of the adult male population and 7% of the female population is predominantly homosexual. As more homosexuals become more visible than their public homophobic sentiments have subsided. Many people are frightened by what they are seeing. These fears are both irrational and groundless. The problem is not homosexuality, but the homophobia — discrimination against homosexuals. As homosexuals become more visible, the public sentiments against them have softened. Opponents of gay rights is a part of the general right-wing reaction in this country. This "New-Right" also opposes the ERA, affirmative action, hiring and labor laws. Discrimination is pervasive throughout the community. "In the United States," says psychiatrist Wainwright Churchill, "a person of known homosexual persuasion — or even suspected of such — is likely to suffer serious abuse, as well as a disregard of this person's rights. In many, many more ways than a member of any other minority." Human rights are not only clearly through this discrimination, but also the U.S. government upholds. The victory exists of the discrimination in the U.S. is evidence that official U.S. government policies discriminate against gays by denying a basic human right to these people. Here such laws also apply to heterosexuals. How to enforced, discrimination is almost exclusively against homosexuals. Furthermore, the U.S. is highly discriminating in its recruiting policies as it refuses to admit homosexuals.

The United States must impose strong sanctions, the black majority is not going to stand for half-hearted compromise and meaningless reforms. The most recent reforms, a racially segregated and powerless in this country. It is not our place to decide where the land in which they are jealous of the land, is their country.

Weakness of Deterrence

By Aaron Pomerantz & Dana Keane-

Special to the Tripod

Because the attention focused on the signing of the INF treaty, nuclear weapons have been thrown into the spotlight of U.S. political and military policy. To understand the role of the INF treaty in the context of the international community, it is vital to have a basic understanding of deterrence, an idea which has been misunderstood and misinterpreted.

Deterrence is the strategy of wielding power, so that the one who has the power understands that the cost of an action will exceed the gain. Deterrent power is the power to deter war, and the power to fight it.

This concept of deterrence brings up several questions and objections, concerning the idea of relying on power in excess that might not even be available to deter the other side. The problem is that in order to deter a country with nuclear weapons, one will have to utilize the power of nuclear weapons. But what is meant by nuclear weapons in excess of the power? And how does one cause a country to use nuclear weapons if the power is not there?

One approach is to focus on the idea of nuclear weapons being an "insurance policy" against the use of nuclear weapons. This approach is based on the idea that if nuclear weapons are used, then the other side will suffer disproportionate losses.

The concept of deterrence also brings up the issue of nuclear proliferation and the possibility of a nuclear war. The question of nuclear proliferation is a complex one, but the idea of nuclear proliferation can be understood as the idea of nuclear weapons being used as a form of deterrence. However, the concept of deterrence also brings up the question of the use of nuclear weapons being an insurance policy against the use of nuclear weapons. This approach is based on the idea that if nuclear weapons are used, then the other side will suffer disproportionate losses.

The concept of deterrence also brings up the issue of nuclear proliferation and the possibility of a nuclear war. The question of nuclear proliferation is a complex one, but the idea of nuclear proliferation can be understood as the idea of nuclear weapons being used as a form of deterrence. However, the concept of deterrence also brings up the question of the use of nuclear weapons being an insurance policy against the use of nuclear weapons. This approach is based on the idea that if nuclear weapons are used, then the other side will suffer disproportionate losses.
Why wait until May to set your post-graduate career goals? Spring to action this Fall with the company that's committed to your career success...The May Department Stores Company!

As one of the premier retailers in the country, The May Company invites ALL COLLEGE MAJORS to apply for one of the retail industry's top professional opportunities! We're proud to be ranked by Fortune magazine as one of the most admired corporations. And we're proud of our esteemed record of 13 consecutive years of sales and earnings growth! Our dedication to career training and development is key to the success of each May division, and your professional goals.

The first step of your career begins with The May Executive Training Program—a nationally acclaimed management training course designed to enhance your skills and performance. This structured 13 week program offers individualized career support systems and the best combination of classroom and on-the-job training. Ultimately, it's designed to prepare you for your first position as well as a successful May Company career!

In addition to the industry's most competitive salaries, we provide outstanding benefits including generous merchandise discounts!

Don't wait until May to start thinking about your career. Join the company that's committed to your success...The May Department Stores Company!

RECEPTION

Interested candidates are encouraged to attend a reception and presentation with Ms. Debra Shillo, Senior Vice-President, General Merchandise Manager, and G. Fox Executives and Alumni, on MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, from 7-9pm, at Alumni Lounge, Mather Campus Center.
Announcements

LECTURES

A lecture titled "Literature & Moral Narcissism: Plato & George Eliot on Literature & Moral Education" will be given by Prof. Carol Gould on Nov. 9 at 4:15 pm in 70 Vernon St. Philosophy Senior Majors are required to attend. Free admission.

A Lunch Series discussion titled "Multiple Bosses: Multiple Changes" will be given by Louise Kraber on Nov. 10 at 12:30 pm in the Women's Center, 3rd floor, MCC. Refreshments will be served.

A seminar titled "Experimental Studies of Aquatic Community Organization" will be given by Dr. Peter Morin, Department of Biological Sciences, Rutgers University, on Nov. 10 at 4 pm in Rm. 134, Life Sciences Center. Free admission.

Prof. Geoffrey Martin, Prof. of Geography, Southern Connecticut State University and Archivist of the Association of American Geographers, will give a lecture on Nov. 22 at 4 pm in the Rittenberg Lounge, Mather Hall. Title to be announced. Free admission.

EXHIBITS

"Flying Falling" by Mary DelMonico will be open through Nov. 10 in the Mather Hall Artspace from 8 am to 10 pm daily. Free admission.

"Mel Kendrick - Essays: Small Wood Works" will be held through Nov. 20 in the Watkinson Library. It will be open 8:30 am to 4:30 pm Monday through Friday and 9:30 am to 4:30 pm on Saturdays. Free admission.

"Land Byron and Greece" will be held in the Audubon Room, Watkinson Library through Jan. 27. The exhibit will be open when the college is in session: weekdays from 8:30 am to 4:30 pm and on Saturdays from 9:30 am to 4:30 pm. Free admission.

FILM

Women in the Public Eye: Part III. Films and discussion will have screenings in Seabury 9-17 on Nov. 9 at 4:30 pm and 7:30 pm. Free and open to the public.

JOBS

Part-time student? Time on your hands? VOLUNTEER to help battered women! The Hartford Interval House, a 24-hr emergency shelter needs advocates to go to court with women; women willing to learn to work the hotline; and adults to believe in. THEY NEED YOU! If interested, please call 246-9149.

VOLUNTEERS needed to work with children who have exposed to family violence. The children of Interval House need volunteers to construct their previous experiences. They need adults to believe in. THEY NEED YOU! If interested, please call 246-9149.

CAMPUS REPS NEEDED. Earn big commission and free trips by selling Nassau/Paradise Island, Mexico and ski trips to Vermont and Colorado. For more information call toll free 1-800-231-0113 or in Ct. (203) 967-3330.

GENERAL

The schedule of classes for Spring 98 incorrectly lists Political Science 316 - Constitutional Law - as having prerequisites. Permission is required but there are no prerequisites.

Students and faculty are invited to attend the 1988 Beyond War Award ceremony, by satellite, on Nov. 19 at St. Thomas, Brookfield, Connecticut. The award this year will be given to Dr. Ronald Reagan and Gen. Sec. Mikhail Gorbachev. Tickets for the event cost $5. For further information contact Prof. Frank Karkiprick, Dep. of Religion, X2476.

All heads of student organizations, if you received a note in your box concerning Bulletin Board space in Mather, you need to respond soon! Next week is the deadline. Contact Andrea Krause at Box 1171 for more information and your response.

FOUND:

One pair of cowboy boots, one pair of cleats and Swatch watch. All were found on Oct. 30 in a college van. Please go to security to claim these items.

Need Cash?

$500 to $1000 stuffing envelopes! Guaranteed! Rush stamped, addressed envelope to Mail-Co Box 02678/X4 6723 SE 16th Portland, Or. 97202

Homecor
Career Counseling News

TODAY... There will be a summer jobs workshop called Summer Jobs: "Here and Abroad" at 7 pm in the Rittenberg Lounge. Now is the time to start thinking about next summer. This is especially important if you have any plans for working abroad. Travel, work permits, and visas will be discussed.

If you have signed up in Career Counseling, TODAY is the day for the Peace Corps Interviews.

There will be an Information Session for the United States Marine Corps today in Mather from 10 am to 2 pm.

A representative will be on campus Nov. 9th to speak about the CORO Foundation Fellows Program in Public Affairs. This is an intensive nine-month graduate level program to provide intensive, practical and broad-based training for public affairs careers. The Information Session will be at 7 pm in the Rittenberg Lounge. Interviews for this session will be held on Nov. 17th - sign up in Career Counseling.

Gallo Winery will have a representative at Trinity on Nov. 9th. They will have an Information Session in the Alumni Lounge at 7 pm.

Touche Rose will hold an information session on Nov. 9th. They will have an Information Session in the Alumni Lounge.

COMING UP...

On Nov. 18th, Barbara Selmo '82, Director of Admissions at Harvard University: Graduate School of Arts and Sciences will host an informal information session at 10 am in the Career Counseling Office. You can sign up at Career Counseling.

Sign-ups have also begun for interviews being held on campus by the Department of Health and Human Services on Nov. 16. Sign up in the Career Counseling Office.

Interim Internships

LONDON
Internships

WASHINGTON

LONDON
Art/Architecture • Business/Economics • Human/Health Services • Journalism/Communications • Visual/Performing Arts • Politics

WASHINGTON
Politics • Business/Economics • Pre-Law • International Relations • Journalism/Communications • Health Fields • The Arts • Specialty

OXFORD
Modern British Studies • Politics • History • Literature

All internship programs include 16 semester-hour credits, full-time internships, centrally located apartments, individualized placements for virtually every academic interest.

Boston University
International Programs
725 Commonwealth Avenue, B-2
Boston, MA 02215
617/353-9888

Wednesday, November 9, 3:00-4:30 pm
Foreign Study Office Seabury 405
Procrastination: A Way of Life

By Josh Reay-
Special in the Triad

A lot of people I know find it difficult to get things done the first time around. I believe this is because they are afraid of the consequences if they fail. But the truth is, the consequences are not as bad as they seem. For example, if you fail a test, you can study harder for the next one. If you lose a job, you can look for another. If you get a divorce, you can start over. The point is, procrastination is not as harmful as people think.

The Doors of Trin City

The Doors of Trinity College

By Amy Paulson-
Features

There are some doors that I simply cannot resist. These are the doors to the English House (some people call it the English Halls). The problem with these doors is that they open in and out. The first door opens and the second door opens right after it. Completely culpable with an all but a hole. If someone is leaving you’re entering the doors and then the come off the doors are slightly lit.

The last set of doors I wish to voice my opinion about are the doors to the dorm. These doors are rich and always to the right—Washington is allowed to belong in the scene.

A friend of hers lived in. I say, “doing her best as it ended on. I don’t mind the color change, besides that, you have to give an extra time. Now here’s something to open. Don’t you? I don’t believe they’ll open since my freshman year. The last set of doors I wish to voice my opinion about are the doors to the dorm. These doors are rich and always to the right—Washington is allowed to belong in the scene.

The last set of doors I wish to voice my opinion about are the doors to the dorm. These doors are rich and always to the right—Washington is allowed to belong in the scene.

A friend of hers lived in. I say, “doing her best as it ended on. I don’t mind the color change, besides that, you have to give an extra time. Now here’s something to open. Don’t you? I don’t believe they’ll open since my freshman year. The last set of doors I wish to voice my opinion about are the doors to the dorm. These doors are rich and always to the right—Washington is allowed to belong in the scene.
Losing Weight Can Be Loads of Fun

Step 1: Recognizing The Problem

This isn't as easy as it seems. I mean, I knew darn well how fat I was. After three years at this esteemed law-enforcement personnel within the Trinity 'relationships' field—you just dive in and hope you make it. The Trinity Tripod • November 8, 1988 • Page 15

But the Trinity Tripod • November 8, 1988 • Page 15

Step 2: Getting Motivated

This is more difficult, of course, because of the eating you did over the past few weeks, and then turn around two days later and eat a whole Cave Pizza in one sitting (which I've managed to do, a couple of times). Needless to say, while employing this method, I found myself with less than five pints of sweat dripping down my back, and sitting in the area of weight control. That's right, I didn't even show up the next Monday.

Pointing for me was when my parents both informed me of their decision to start their diets with Weight Watchers. This was a key moment. The reason for this was that, according to my blurry vision, my parents had been getting much better at eating their vegetables lately. I think I even saw them eyeing the same horrible word that is associated with the fall.
Jay West a pronunciation key for our don't get the sheepskin. I hope some to fill out a Diploma Application must be going around wondering how accurate explanation is made for some spring'.

A slight oversight on the English Department Chair, Milla dangerous. The stories you are about Office. Also they are a lot more employed by any department in this signees gets kicked back into the of the fines collected from the late summer just past, working as the organizing events.

Actually deserve some money for us to get diplomas. I have some help-likes us so much, she doesn't want us from previous semesters. The "92's submit a grade for him. The student professor, who of course didn't even birth certificate on me at the time.

Here what the problem turned out to be, that I wanted $525 dollars from her. I am still waiting for payment.

To having the audacity to get mad about being blamed for her mis- that her office is in charge of sending a misspelled in capital letters. I am ing for jobs with, and that I better learn to work with them. It's in- responsible in any way for my getting a job, I'm in big trouble.

I spent an hour with Mr. Riggio's (who is my major advisor) and the second that I got into she told me that my forms had been found and that the original was on- by the registrar's ingenious use of deflecting phone answering system. The system worked like this, (1) one who knew anything about anything was allowed to answer the phone. 2) one who knew anything was allowed to be on vacation when I called. 3) one who knew anything was obvious that it would take a mostly call, I was sure the question was asking, any- unsupervised person to have the responsibility to tell me the computer system was malfunctioning. It is also true that as class files couldn't be produced at any other times, the only people around communications were retained, other with spelling and punctuation cor- but with no answer as to- who was in the class.

HAL 9001 be like a prophylactic computer and that computer because they still wouldn't tell me who was in the class by late last spring, there was only one day AMIT 520, is followed by the title (Family in American History) and then two letters, "U" and "S." A parenthetical note defines the two example course used by the registrar. AMIT 520-01 is a "set of days." and why would you be peaceful). The only people around Florence Norkin (let her retirement was packed to come back by then when I was of age. I knew it, but I didn't have my ------- some proof. I told her that if the loss was- I'm out to either pay the fine or get me out to whom she mailed a letter. No one who knew anything about the registrar's Ingenious use of deflecting phone answering system. The schedule that is supposed to explain the next 54, don't. It begins by telling academic advising. OPEN YOUR EYES WE'VE ALL REG-istered for Classes at Least Once! We Know An Advisor! 1'S THE THING THAT MAKES THE RO- TATION OF THE DAMN CARD!

This has the courtesy to tell us that the courses with bigger numbers are intended for those of whom have been here longer, another priceless bit of information.

The second and third sections of the schedule's opening explain Trinity's credit and grading system. What the book takes one-third of a page to describe is that grade closing in the beginning of the alphabet are better than the ones closer to the end and to each course is worth two credits, unless it's. It's tough to think back that far, but I'm pretty sure I had that figured out by the middle of my second semester.

The fourth row ("How to read Schedule of Classes") is, of course, the part that makes the least sense. The example course used by the registrar, AMIT 520-01, is followed by the title (Family in American History) and then two letters, "U" and "S." A parenthetical note defines the two example course used by the registrar.

I still remember the signoffs of what the average Guided Studies student has thoughtful course, the secretarial kind of club, and if it is. she wrote everyone enrolled in the course and then sending the letters with "Disregard if you aren't in Guided Studies..."

It still isn't the signoffs of what the average Guided Studies student has thoughtful course, the secretarial kind of club, and if it is. she wrote everyone enrolled in the course and then sending the letters with "Disregard if you aren't in Guided Studies..."

I still remember the signoffs of what the average Guided Studies student has thoughtful course, the secretarial kind of club, and if it is. she wrote everyone enrolled in the course and then sending the letters with "Disregard if you aren't in Guided Studies..."

I still remember the signoffs of what the average Guided Studies student has thoughtful course, the secretarial kind of club, and if it is. she wrote everyone enrolled in the course and then sending the letters with "Disregard if you aren't in Guided Studies..."

I still remember the signoffs of what the average Guided Studies student has thoughtful course, the secretarial kind of club, and if it is. she wrote everyone enrolled in the course and then sending the letters with "Disregard if you aren't in Guided Studies..."

I still remember the signoffs of what the average Guided Studies student has thoughtful course, the secretarial kind of club, and if it is. she wrote everyone enrolled in the course and then sending the letters with "Disregard if you aren't in Guided Studies..."
The Trinity Tripod Needs Arts Writers!!
If you are interested please contact Liz Horn at Box 1310

LIVE AND LEARN IN PARIS

Exclusively French Educational Service for University Study
- Flexible and individually adapted program
- Total immersion
- Guidance and support
- Cultural activities

Academic year: September 15 to June 15
Enrollment Deadlines:
Fall Semester: April 15
Spring Semester: October 30

For information write or call: VIA PARIS
6 Greenswood Ave., Bronxville, NY 10708
Telephone (914) 779-3373

PIZZARONI
House of Fine Foods

N.Y. Style Pizza
Calzones
White Clam Pizza
Stromboli
Chicago Style Pizza

For Super-Fast Delivery:
Call 249-3889

Check with us for our Tuesday & Wednesday Specials

When you've got a beer this rich and flavorful, why suck a lime?

Let's face it, amigos, any beer that needs a slice of lime to give it flavor can't be much of a beer. Discover Calgary Amber Lager... Its rich, imported taste is hearty and robust. Try it the next time you order beer, and hold the lime. Calgary Amber Lager. Join the stampede.

A T-Shirt offer that's not for suckers.

Please send me the following Calgary T-Shirts:

(PLEASE PRINT)
Quantity: ___ M ___ L ___ XL

*All prices effective through January 31, 1989. Void where prohibited.

Mail to: Gold Medal Sportswear, Calgary T-Shirt Offer, 1011 Cedar Avenue, Croydon, PA 19020
Imported by Century Importers, Baltimore, Maryland

All prices in U.S. dollars. Additional charge for sales tax in applicable states. Prices and availability subject to change without notice.
Lerman Begins Week-Long Dance Residency

By Elizabeth Horn
Art Editor

On Saturday, Nov. 12, Liz Lerman/Dance Exchange will take the stage in Goodwin Theatre, beginning a week-long dance residency in Hartford. This Washington, D.C.-based troupe is known nationally for experimental modern dance which draws upon literature, personal experience, philosophy and political-satirical commentary.

Ms. Lerman, Artistic Director of the Dance Exchange, has studied numerous forms of dance, including ballet, modern, improvisation, choreography, mime and the history of dance. She founded the Dance Exchange in 1976 and the group has gone on to perform in the Baltimore International Theater Festival, the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, the New Music America Festival and the Dance Theater Workshop in New York.

In addition, Ms. Lerman has served as an artist-in-residence for the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival's Holden/The program, for Scandinavia '85's The Chief America Festival in Sweden and Denmark, and has been part of the American Islanders series at the New Performance Gallery. Ms. Lerman received her Choreography Fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts in 1988.

Known for working with performers of all ages, Ms. Lerman recently published a book Teaching Dance to Senior Adults.

In her press releases, Ms. Lerman includes the following statement to describe herself and her artistic intentions:

"I am interested in remembering why I started to dance and how happy in that moment; in what we dance about, in what we do to get the dancing, in performances that look like people dancing and dancing; in the idea that dance is a birthright; in keeping professional dancers alive as human beings; in what dancers have to learn from people who have been in motion for over 60 years; in how much dancers know and how little we share with the rest of the world; in how much dancers know and how little the rest of the world knows we know it; in the time when people who are too fat, too clumsy, too old, too sick to dance, actually step out and dance; and how transformed the dancer and the watcher are in that moment; in how my choreography is a vehicle for me to learn about anything; in the continuing hunt for interesting movement vocabulary that satisfies perfectionists, watchers, and the subject matter; in the aesthetic, physical and social implications of combining young and old; in making an environment that somehow leaves room for individual and collective participation but stays loyal to an artistic idea and focus. In the continuing challenge of making personal expression valuable to me, the dancers and the lady next door."

Liz Lerman's art focuses on blending dance with substantial subject matter; her dances work with such issues as the defense budget, nuclear waste and Russian history. The New York Times wrote of her:

"She is one of the most articulate and compassionate of social commentators in the arts today, and a vein of poignant concern runs through the narrative of her humor.

The Washington Post wrote:

"There are few choreographers in Washington or anywhere these days with quite the unbridled imagination and conceptual range of Liz Lerman, . . . she is a cross-eyed artist, and assembly of the brightest, strongest, most adventurous dance spirits her case. This scene is an important one for the because it was here where the movie really got its legs, look, and sincerity."

Liz Foster was pleased with the overall audience response to her performance and the one-on-one interaction with the performers.

HARTFORD STAGE
Coming Next

November 12 - December 17

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY

by Jerry Sterner
Directed by Gloria Muzio

Traditional New England values collide with New York business savvy and greed when a takeover artist sets his sights on acquiring a small manufacturing firm. An old fashioned businessman comes face to face with the new breed of corporate raider as he struggles to save his company in a fast-paced comedy of business and high finance.

For tickets call 527-5151

The Trinity Trio - The Trinity Trio

November 8, 1988

The Trinity Trio is known nationally for experimental modern dance which draws upon literature, personal experience, philosophy and political-satirical commentary.

The Accused Deliver Gripping Performance by Jodie Foster

By Liz Healy & Russ Kafka
Movie Reviewers

Liz:

"I have to be honest with you; Russ and I went into this week's movie, The Accused with a very bad attitude. We really weren't in the mood for it and Rass seemed especially down on "another feminine flick." In fact, when the lights went down in the lovely Showcase Cinema, we were still complaining about the $1.25 for a soda and the $2.00 for stale raisinets.

Well, then the lights went down, and from the moment I saw the image of Sarah Foster running frantically into the street from the bar where she was raped, clutching her clothing together, her mouth was shocked. And believe me, it just kept going velocity.

Kelly McGillis also stars, as the prosecuting attorney for Sarah's case. But there's much more to this story than the demonization of a rape trial. These two angry and struggling women bring out against the men who watched the crime be committed and applauded it, being just as guilty as those who acted. Jodie Foster makes the film so powerful with her excellent performance as a tough girl not about to take anything from anyone.

I never have been so affected by this subject as I was with this movie. I cried, I was disturbed, and I was so repulsed at times that I wanted to leave the theater. And then, when it was over, I was so happy I had gone.

Russ:

Liz really hit one right on the head. The film The Accused really affected me. I wouldn't go so far as saying that I was amazed at having to see "another feminine flick", but I certainly was not at all prepared for a movie dealing with a subject as delicate as rape, especially when it actually occurred. Jodie Foster had been cast in such a serious role - my opinion of her acting talents was not exactly complimentary. Boy, was I wrong! This movie drew me in immediately, using the shock value of Jodie Foster's hospital examination after the rape and other incidents to set the tone.

One key point occurs about fifteen minutes into the film when, infuriated at Kelly McGillis for plea bargaining with the rapists and letting them off with charges of assault and battery, Jodie Foster barges her way into the dressing room of the D.A., and begins to tear the room apart. This scene is an important one for the movie, but it was where the movie really got its legs, look, and sincerity."

The Henry M. Fuller Endowment for the Fine Arts invites you to a lecture by

Marvin Eisenberg

The Matrix of Genius: Leonardo's "Adoration of the Magi"

Wednesday, November 9, 1988
at 5 o'clock

The Austin Arts Center
Trinity College

The Trinity Trio

The Trinity Trio is part of a New England tour sponsored by the New England Foundation for the Arts. The November performance will be at 8 p.m. in H. Goodwin Theatre of Austin Arts Center. For tickets or information, contact the Arts Center box office at 397-2199.
Whirligig: Mixed Review

By Bob Markkee
Features Editor

This past weekend at Austin Arts Center, the performance of Whirligig by the Shaliko Company gave The Trinity community an opportunity to see a theatre piece which is still in the process of creation. This work-in-progress is a true re-reading of Max Wellman's script by the actors who will eventually perform the finished piece. While audience turn-out was small, those that attended Whirligig have been treated to an evening of bizarre, surprising, and often disjointed theatre taken out of its regular mappings. The plot of Whirligig is purposely confused to disorient the natural inclination of an audience to allow themselves to be drawn into a story without having to question it. Rather, the audience is forced to come to terms with a plot which changes the rules of its own reality whenever the audience becomes comfortable...this piece is effective and disconcerting; much of the actual content of Whirligig does not add anything to Wellman's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoothus the Obscure, the Weird Man's professed intent. Despite his hatred of the genre of science-fiction and fantasy, Wellman's use of the girl-huns from space and the character of Zoth
Sports

Wild Pitchers by Bill Charest

Bob: Hi, I'm Bob McKenzie and this is my brother, Doug. Doug: How's it goin', eh?

Bob: Well, we're here for the Great White North, and our guest today is, like, the greatest hockey player in the world, eh?

Doug: Take off, Bob! Guy Lafleur plays for them now.

Bob: You're right! Hey, Lafleur knows, he's in this game, too. Lafleur is one of the greatest Canadians.

Doug: Yeah, you know, those New York huskers. Bob: Aaaw, take off Lafleur's fifty years old. I'm talking about Wayne. In fact, he's right now. How's it goin', eh?

Bob: Actually, I feel that things are progressing quite well with the Kings. The players have adjusted to a more offensive-type of game plan, and I'm really optimistic about our future.

Doug: We have a really good supply of young talent, and...

Bob: But, like, what about Edmonton? They really loved you, and now you're goin', eh?

Doug: It's fine. It's a heck of a lot warmer than Edmonton, but...

Bob: Now wait a minute...

Doug: So? D: Yeah, you know, those New York huskers.

D: Yeah? D: Seeing who? D: Yeah, the Americans, you know! They're quick, and they act like they own everything! And worst of all, they all wear sweaters, even when it's warm! You wimp!

G: Great White North for supporting me, eh? I'm back from Seoul, and I'd really like to thank the people in the world, to be the world's greatest athlete...

G: And what? G: What?!? G: You even talk like one of them! G: One of them!?!

B: Yeah, those American yuppey hoesters. Their beer is weak, and they act like they own everything! And worst of all, they all wear sweaters, even when it's warm! You wimp!

G: Now see here! I object to such treatment! I... I...

B: You're a loser! You don't even care about the Great White North any more! Take off! Get out! Anyway, day and...

G: We're here in the Great White North, and our guest today is, like, the greatest hockey player in the world, eh?

D: Wayne Gretzky. In fact, here he is right now. How's it goin', eh?

G: Eat a pie, Wayne! I'm Wayne Gretzky. In fact, here I am right now. How's it goin', eh?

B: Wayne? B: Wayne Gretzky. In fact, here he is right now. How's it goin', eh?

G: How's it goin', eh? B: Wayne Gretzky. In fact, here he is right now. How's it goin', eh?

G: And how hard I played, I couldn't hit the ball. I was the number seven out-of-field, or how bow I played. I couldn't hit the ball, and I was an infielder. I got to play in the last half of the second game of a double header... and... and...

B: Offensively, I was the first base coach. Defensively, I was the ballplayer... and... and... and... and...

Cross Country Update

Men Fall to Wesleyan

In Matthew W. Maguire

The Men's cross-country team travelled to Wesleyan on Saturday to face their arch-rivals on a 4.5 mile course of paved, rolling hills. Although Wesleyan, ranked tenth in New England, defeated the Bantams, it was still a race the team could be proud of. Six of Trinity's nine runners ran their fastest times ever at this distance.

Finishing first for the Bantam's team was Junior Mike Joyce, who in the last two-and-a-half miles ran past a fellow on 27:12. Adamus and Bruce Corbett came back strong from bad races last week, and led the team in 27:19 and 27:16, respectively. The Bantams then placed four consecutive places. Sophomore Mike Maguire placed 16th, Kevinil 17, Peter Cram 18th, and Eric Grant running despite injury finished 17th. Maguire, Hall, and Cram each ran the fastest time of their careers.

Mike Pagan and Mike Fischl led the way for Trinity.

Women Lead Women

In Caroline Bailey

Running in the rain against this again-season, Trinity's Women's Cross Country Team went up against Wesleyan this past Saturday, November 5. Unfortunately the team had in two key McGowan and Clara Summers, both out with injuries. Wesleyan's predominantly flat, 3.1-mile roadway course was welcome relief from last week's hilly course. The Bantams came away with the victory, placing first with 98 points. Wesleyan placed second with 168 points, while Trinity placed third with 256 points. The Bantams also won the race overall with a quick time of 18:30. Unfortunately, the next six places were captured by Trinity, including our overall field, with the first ten runners running their fastest times ever at this distance.

In the lightweight division, Adamus and Bruce Corbett came back strong from bad races last week, and led the team in 27:19 and 27:16, respectively. The Bantams then placed four consecutive places. Sophomore Mike Maguire placed 16th, Kevinil 17, Peter Cram 18th, and Eric Grant running despite injury finished 17th. Maguire, Hall, and Cram each ran the fastest time of their careers.

Mike Pagan and Mike Fischl led the way for Trinity.

Jake McGowan and Clara Summers, both out with injuries. Wesleyan's predominantly flat, 3.1-mile roadway course was welcome relief from last week's hilly course. The Bantams came away with the victory, placing first with 98 points. Wesleyan placed second with 168 points, while Trinity placed third with 256 points. The Bantams also won the race overall with a quick time of 18:30. Unfortunately, the next six places were captured by Trinity, including our overall field, with the first ten runners running their fastest times ever at this distance.

In the lightweight division, Adamus and Bruce Corbett came back strong from bad races last week, and led the team in 27:19 and 27:16, respectively. The Bantams then placed four consecutive places. Sophomore Mike Maguire placed 16th, Kevinil 17, Peter Cram 18th, and Eric Grant running despite injury finished 17th. Maguire, Hall, and Cram each ran the fastest time of their careers.

Mike Pagan and Mike Fischl led the way for Trinity.
The Bantams definitely showed a great deal of character by coming out fired up in the second half; the fake field goal might have had something to do with it. After having absolutely everything go wrong in the first half, and playing the wind and rain, the Bantams came out energized and ready to make things happen. Kevin Griffin led the comeback. Griffin passed for nearly all of his 188 yards in the second half, with Stephan Redgate (20 TDs, and a two-point conversion), Kevin Rice (Cass), and Terry McNamara (4-54), all making some acrobatic catches to help the Trinity cause.

Another Bantam fumble gave Amherst the ball on the Trinity 27. This time, the Trinity defenders were up to the task, forcing the Lord Jeffs to settle for a 26-yard Kevin Rice field goal, and a 27-0 lead. Then, the Bantams began the long road back. Trinity started on their own 20, after the ensuing kickoff. Then, Kevin Griffin led the way with a massive 76-yard touchdown pass to Terry McNamara. This time, the Bantams had the ball on the 33. Two plays later, Rice/Cass scored on a 24-yard pass to put the Bants within striking range. With 1:26 on the clock, the Bantams were still very much in the game.

A sack by Jeff Buzi and David Gram, coupled with a horrible punt by Amherst, put the Bantams in position to score again, with a first down on the Amherst 36. Stephan Redgate made a great catch for a 26-yard gain, and a first and goal on the Amherst 10. A rush by Rice/Cass and a short pass left the Bants with a fourth and goal. But Griffin found Kevin Rice for five yards, and a 27-yard pass to tight end Rocco DeMaio gave the Bantams a first down on the Amherst 33. Two plays later, Rice/Cass scored on a 24-yard pass, setting the Bants up on the score-board.

A sack by Jeff Buzi and David Gram, coupled with a horrendous punt by Amherst, put the Bantams in position to score again, with a first down on the Amherst 36. Stephan Redgate made a great catch for a 26-yard gain, and a first and goal on the Amherst 10. A rush by Rice/Cass and a short pass left the Bants with a fourth and goal. But Griffin found Kevin Rice for five yards, and a 27-yard pass to tight end Rocco DeMaio gave the Bantams a first down on the Amherst 33. Two plays later, Rice/Cass scored on a 24-yard pass, setting the Bants up on the score-board.

A sack by Jeff Buzi and David Gram, coupled with a horrendous punt by Amherst, put the Bantams in position to score again, with a first down on the Amherst 36. Stephan Redgate made a great catch for a 26-yard gain, and a first and goal on the Amherst 10. A rush by Rice/Cass and a short pass left the Bants with a fourth and goal. But Griffin found Kevin Rice for five yards, and a 27-yard pass to tight end Rocco DeMaio gave the Bantams a first down on the Amherst 33. Two plays later, Rice/Cass scored on a 24-yard pass, setting the Bants up on the score-board.

A sack by Jeff Buzi and David Gram, coupled with a horrendous punt by Amherst, put the Bantams in position to score again, with a first down on the Amherst 36. Stephan Redgate made a great catch for a 26-yard gain, and a first and goal on the Amherst 10. A rush by Rice/Cass and a short pass left the Bants with a fourth and goal. But Griffin found Kevin Rice for five yards, and a 27-yard pass to tight end Rocco DeMaio gave the Bantams a first down on the Amherst 33. Two plays later, Rice/Cass scored on a 24-yard pass, setting the Bants up on the score-board.

A sack by Jeff Buzi and David Gram, coupled with a horrendous punt by Amherst, put the Bantams in position to score again, with a first down on the Amherst 36. Stephan Redgate made a great catch for a 26-yard gain, and a first and goal on the Amherst 10. A rush by Rice/Cass and a short pass left the Bants with a fourth and goal. But Griffin found Kevin Rice for five yards, and a 27-yard pass to tight end Rocco DeMaio gave the Bantams a first down on the Amherst 33. Two plays later, Rice/Cass scored on a 24-yard pass, setting the Bants up on the score-board.

A sack by Jeff Buzi and David Gram, coupled with a horrendous punt by Amherst, put the Bantams in position to score again, with a first down on the Amherst 36. Stephan Redgate made a great catch for a 26-yard gain, and a first and goal on the Amherst 10. A rush by Rice/Cass and a short pass left the Bants with a fourth and goal. But Griffin found Kevin Rice for five yards, and a 27-yard pass to tight end Rocco DeMaio gave the Bantams a first down on the Amherst 33. Two plays later, Rice/Cass scored on a 24-yard pass, setting the Bants up on the score-board.
Women's Soccer

- By Matthew G. Miller • Editor-in-Chief

The Trinity College Women's Soccer Team was denied a bid to the NCAA tournament this past season for the first time in five years. The 1987-88 season, marked by injuries and inexperience, was otherwise a successful one.

The team, which included some players who were lost to graduation and serious injury, was eliminated in the ECAC tournament. The team got off to a good start by winning its first two games, but injuries then took their toll.

The only answer to the season's problems was to play with a spirit of determination that was recognized as Trinty's finest, and won the respect of the fans that had four soccer traditions. The "tradition" is a central part of a traditional game, a game against a team that is not very good, and a Lady Lake that is strong enough to win.

Coaches Matthew Miller was disturbed by the fact that, "This team accomplished so much during last year's season, but the school never gave us anything." The team was denied a bid to the NCAA tournament.

With this season complete, let's look at the team's future plans. The Trinity women will be well-represented in the 1988-89 season, and the team is strong enough to compete at any level.
FOOTBALL
Amherst (6-3) 10 14 3 3 - 30
TRINITY (4-3-1) 0 0 7 14 - 21

FIELD HOCKEY
TRINITY TRIPOD'S NCAA FIELD HOCKEY
Amherst (4-3) 10 14 3 3 - 30

Tennis
European Community Championship
Men's Singles - Semifinals
Andrei Chesnokov, Soviet Union, def. Amos Menard, Israel, 7-6 (7-3), 6-3.

MEN'S SOCCER
Amherst (9-3-2) 1 0 0 0 - 1
TRINITY (8-4-1) 0 0-0

FOOTBALL TOP TEN
1. Notre Dame
2. U.S.C.
3. Miami
4. Nebraska
5. W. Virginia
6. Nebraska
7. Oklahoma
8. U.C.L.A.
9. Arkansas
10. Auburn

EASTERN COLLEGE FOOTBALL
Scores from Saturday, 11/5
Bowdoin 10, Bates 6
Bates 20, Middlebury 32

This Week's Joe Harris NFL Football Forecasts

The College View Cafe Scoreboard

Athlete Of The Week
This week's College View Athlete of the Week is Louise Van der Does. Van der Does, a sophomore from Morristown, NJ, helped the field hockey team reach the NIAC tournament for the seventh straight year, while compiling a goals against average of 1.00 and a sparkling .934 save percentage, with four shutouts to her credit. She will be instrumental in the Lady Bants' quest to regain the NIAC title in '89. Congratulations, Louise, on a spectacular season!

Election Night is $3 Pitcher Night at The View

Athlete Of The Week
This week's College View Athlete of the Week is Louise Van der Does. Van der Does, a sophomore from Morristown, NJ, helped the field hockey team reach the NIAC tournament for the seventh straight year, while compiling a goals against average of 1.00 and a sparkling .934 save percentage, with four shutouts to her credit. She will be instrumental in the Lady Bants' quest to regain the NIAC title in '89. Congratulations, Louise, on a spectacular season!

Marty says:
Remember To Vote, It's Your Right!

Election Night is $3 Pitcher Night at The View

NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE
Harford Whalers-Sen Scott Kleinehohn, defenseman, to Buffalo Sabres of the American Hockey League for a two-week reconditioning period.
Pittsburgh Penguins-Signed Dan Quinn, center, to a multi-year contract.
St. Louis Blues-Recalled Tim Brunelle, defenseman, and Cliff Ronning, center. from Peoria in the Inter- regional Hockey League.

Our thanks to the New York Daily News (New York's Hometown Paper™) for this letter!

Dear Mr. Lupica,
Why is Robin Givens depicted as so smart and shrewd when Michael Spinks made more money, took fewer punches and didn’t have to sleep with Tyson?

Sincerely,

John Calcagni
Latham, NY

YONKERS O.T.B.
Results from Saturday, 11/5
First: F - $8.80, $5.00, $3.40; B - $7.60, $3.00; E - $6.00; Exacta: F-B - $154.40.
Third: F - $5.80, $4.20, $2.60; D - $3.80, $3.00; B - $3.00; Trifecta: F-D-B - $100.20.
Fourth: F - $4.80, $3.40, $2.80; F - $5.60, $2.60; A - $3.20; Trifecta: B-F-A - $92.40.

SWEDISH STAT OF THE WEEK!
Sweden has now been neutral for about 250 years. However, it has been cold there, if not snowing, since the dawn of time. Brrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrr!

MARLBORO CHALLENGE
at Miami, Florida
$225,000.
1. Michael Andretti, Nazareth, PA., (191.990 mph)
2. Emerson Fittipaldi, Brazil, $136,500.
3. Raul Boesel, Brazil, $90,000.
4. Al Unser, Jr., Albuquerque, NM, $70,000.
5. Rick Mears, Bakersfield, CA, $55,000.

RYAN'S O.T.B.
Results from Saturday, 11/5
First: F - $11.80, $7.60, $4.20; G - $6.00, $3.00; A - $2.80; Exacta: F-G - $154.40.
Third: F - $5.80, $4.20, $2.60; D - $3.80, $3.00; B - $3.00; Trifecta: F-D-B - $100.20.
Fourth: F - $4.80, $3.40, $2.80; F - $5.60, $2.60; A - $3.20; Trifecta: B-F-A - $92.40.

MARTIN'S O.T.B.
Results from Saturday, 11/5
First: F - $8.80, $5.00, $3.40; B - $7.60, $3.00; E - $6.00; Exacta: F-B - $154.40.
Third: F - $5.80, $4.20, $2.60; D - $3.80, $3.00; B - $3.00; Trifecta: F-D-B - $100.20.
Fourth: F - $4.80, $3.40, $2.80; F - $5.60, $2.60; A - $3.20; Trifecta: B-F-A - $92.40.

SUNDAY'S O.T.B.
Results from Saturday, 11/5
First: F - $11.80, $7.60, $4.20; G - $6.00, $3.00; A - $2.80; Exacta: F-G - $154.40.
Third: F - $5.80, $4.20, $2.60; D - $3.80, $3.00; B - $3.00; Trifecta: F-D-B - $100.20.
Fourth: F - $4.80, $3.40, $2.80; F - $5.60, $2.60; A - $3.20; Trifecta: B-F-A - $92.40.

MARTIN'S O.T.B.
Results from Saturday, 11/5
First: F - $8.80, $5.00, $3.40; B - $7.60, $3.00; E - $6.00; Exacta: F-B - $154.40.
Third: F - $5.80, $4.20, $2.60; D - $3.80, $3.00; B - $3.00; Trifecta: F-D-B - $100.20.
Fourth: F - $4.80, $3.40, $2.80; F - $5.60, $2.60; A - $3.20; Trifecta: B-F-A - $92.40.

MARLBORO CHALLENGE
at Miami, Florida
$225,000.
1. Michael Andretti, Nazareth, PA., (191.990 mph)
2. Emerson Fittipaldi, Brazil, $136,500.
3. Raul Boesel, Brazil, $90,000.
4. Al Unser, Jr., Albuquerque, NM, $70,000.
5. Rick Mears, Bakersfield, CA, $55,000.

Monday Night
*Miami 23 Buffalo 20

The College View Cafe Scoreboard

Athlete Of The Week
This week's College View Athlete Of the Week is Louise Van der Does. Van der Does, a sophomore from Morristown, NJ, helped the field hockey team reach the NIAC tournament for the seventh straight year, while compiling a goals against average of 1.00 and a sparkling .934 save percentage, with four shutouts to her credit. She will be instrumental in the Lady Bants' quest to regain the NIAC title in '89. Congratulations, Louise, on a spectacular season!

Election Night is $3 Pitcher Night at The View

The College View Cafe Scoreboard

Athlete Of The Week
This week's College View Athlete Of the Week is Louise Van der Does. Van der Does, a sophomore from Morristown, NJ, helped the field hockey team reach the NIAC tournament for the seventh straight year, while compiling a goals against average of 1.00 and a sparkling .934 save percentage, with four shutouts to her credit. She will be instrumental in the Lady Bants' quest to regain the NIAC title in '89. Congratulations, Louise, on a spectacular season!

Election Night is $3 Pitcher Night at The View
Field Hockey Falls in NIC's; Streak Ends at 4

By Matthew G. Miller
Sports Writer

The Trinity College Women's Field Hockey Team lost to Tufts in the first round of the NIC national tournament last night. The Lady Bants had an otherwise very successful season.

The team was definitely not ready to play in the NIC tournament, a true indication of how the team has matured this season. The only good news was that the Lady Bants were picked to host the tournament once again.

The Lady Bants opened the game quickly, and dominated play early in the game. Before Tufts got their first shot, the Trinity could not convert.

Tufts' Van der Does was forced to make an outstanding save with her feet, as she stopped a shot from Trin's last gasp came with 1:30 left, but two penalty corners were broken up, and Tufts held on for the win.

In the other semi-final, Williams won 4-3, and the Lady Bants were defeated by the Bantams in the final.

For the Bantams, the loss was expected, as they had lost seven games in a row. But Tufts, who played with great confidence and poise, put forth their best effort of the year, and will leave a link spot, and sophomore Courtney Gilchrist will be missed.