Rescue Fisherman

Three Trinity students rescued a man stranded on a jetty 200 hundred yards from shore during spring break in North Carolina. Coast Guard official said waves were cresting at 3 to 4 feet when James Loutit, William Spaulding '91 and Levi Richardson '91 maneuvered their motor boat near the northern jetty of Masonboro Inlet to bring Clarence Marshburn, 34, to safety.

"He was really cold and had fallen off about four times," said Spaulding. Marshburn was soaked by the 61 degree seas and had been stranded for about 25 minutes.

Marshburn was fishing in his 14-foot motor boat when he fell overboard and his boat sped away, said U.S. Coast Guard Officer Daniel Tamalis. "He didn't have a paddle and we went away from him," Tamalis said.

The three students were passing through the inlet at about 6:30 p.m. on April 4 when they saw the fisherman clinging to the jetty. "We had just passed him the first time on the way out of the inlet," he said, "we came in to where we saw him waving." Loutit said, "We told him the life preserver was a buoy and threw that to him. He had the life preserver around him and he jumped into the water and we pulled him into the boat," Richardson said.

Tamalis, who was wearing a T-shirt, flannel shirt and shorts was taken to the Wrightsville Beach Coast Guard Station where officials warmed him and called an ambulance. He appeared to be suffering from mild hypothermia and had cuts on his legs, officials said.

Marshburn was treated at New Hanover Memorial Hospital and re-

1989-90 Tuition Increases By $1500

-By Heather Smith-

In what will come as a shock to many students and parents, the Business Office has announced that tuition and fees for 1989-90 are being raised $1,540, a 9.1% increase.

Trinity College is once again raising the price of tuition by more than $1500. To students new to the school this may come as a shock, but the senior class will probably remember this is the third time in as many years that large tuition increases have been announced.

It is ironic that when freshmen who are less than two years of age reach college, they can be expected to pay seventy or even eighty thousand dollars per year at the colleges of the Ivy League and "little" Ivy's such as Trinity.

As has been seen since 1986, tuition is not only increasing but it is increasing at a progressively larger rate. This means that in this era of a president who claims to be enjoying their new phones. To the Men of Trinity:

I have worked and lived in a campus community for the last 14 years. In fact, since my days of living at home, where I lived, I lost only of campus residential life. I'm getting older and less angry at the men of my community. The argument being made that the campus is not isolated, but rather commonplace, especially on weekends.

Some of our behavior can be attributed to our frustrations. It is difficult at times to be a man. There are many expectations of us, to perform, to succeed. We put most of the pressure on ourselves. Just listen to the cries of disaffection and anger of our men a few weeks back ("Two Students Trashed Cars", 3/31 issue), to the song at the conference! It has beenensored because of the errors just in the first paragraph of the article before it is published. I do feel that it is possible to place on these editors to perform some standard "a country" given the plural singular "a country" given the plural.

As I am as dealing with problems of the Trinity Tripod, I wish to discuss the development of the quality of the paper. I understand that not all students can be year-round ("One Student Trashed Cars", 3/31 issue).

Community Outreach Conference Comes to Trinity

The Trinity Triodol • April 18, 1989 • Page 3

The conference has been organized primarily by six Community Outreach volunteers. These volunteers are Marissa Boyers '89, Kerry Mackey '91, Eleanor Trumbull '87, David Friedman '91, Liz Goldthwait '91, and Claytons Hard '92. Ten Connecticut schools have been involved in the planning of the conference since November. Central Connecticut State University, Connecticut College, Sacred Heart University, Trinity College, University of Bridgeport, University of Connecticut, Wesleyan University, Western Connecticut State University, and Yale University.

Members of the service organization at each of these colleges sat on a state-wide planning committee, chaired by UConn student Stephen Salzman '89. Boyers, President of Community Outreach at Trinity, sat on that committee and said that a conscious effort was made to "involve lots of different types of schools, not just small liberal arts residential colleges. She feels that everybody's input is needed and that these colleges will be sure to offer some new and exciting perspectives on community service.

One of the main goals of the conference will be to make students aware of a nationwide college movement towards community service and involvement. Some of the issues that the conference focus will be on will be Hunger and Homelessness, Adult Illiteracy, Mental Illness, Cultural Awareness, and Drug Education. The networking of the students will allow for everyone involved to examine the realities, discuss the problems, and brainstorm solutions. This will enable the students to begin to construct a plan of action for their community service projects.

Students Smith of the Pro-Life Council of Connecticut spoke on "Current Strategies on Abortion Legislation." Also prepared with an argument against abortion, she actually defended her pro-life position. Smith, who is a single mother, has become pregnant while in college. She wants to stop abortion and has put much effort into the creation of a national organization called the "National Organization for Life." Across the country, she has been an adversary of all efforts to make abortion illegal. Smith stated that she is "pro-life" and that she believes in the "right to life." She went on to say that she has been involved in the pro-life movement for a long time and that she will continue to support her views until the day she dies.

Women’s Weekend

Four different speakers were the focus of a well-attended Black Women’s Weekend last weekend at Trinity. On Friday, poet and professor Audre Lorde spoke on “Black Feminism in the Eighties.” On Saturday, Educationalist Femi Bogle—Assegai, Professor Scudder—explained. “Her message encouraged the audience to work for women’s rights. On Sunday morning, Femi Bogle—Assegai led on a discussion on “Black Women’s Place in Multinational Traditional African Societies” which was closed to the public. She followed in the afternoon by Sylvia Adams, Associate Professor of History and Associate Professor of African & Afro-American Studies at Yale University. Boone’s lecture on “Black Feminism” covered themes of beauty surrounding women of color.

Despite the incredible number of marchers, President Bush’s official statement was “Nothing.” According to Branagh, the press treatment was actually far superior to other marches. “It was pleasant,” said Branagh, about the coverage and the attitude of the news reports in general. In fact, the march was the proudest and the coverage was, for the most part, positive. A significant improvement over similar demonstrations of years past.

Pike Initiates Escort Program

Hartford, CT—Trinity's Epsilon Alpha chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha has begun a walking escort service for students during its parties. The program employs two non-drinking fraternity brothers in addition to the student monitors required by the state's alcohol control policy. According to President John K. Woodlock, the service is designed to walk anyone home who appears to be in need of assistance. The brothers volunteer to serve as "walkers" and agree not to drink any alcohol for the entire evening. Each student who takes a walking escort is logged into a register with his or her name, ID number, campus address and time of departure. Upon returning to the house, the escort logs in the time again.

"Our hope not only is to ensure the safety of anyone attending our parties, but also to reduce the liability of the fraternity when alcohol is served," said Woodlock. "We used the new service during our last party, and its success has determined that it will be incorporated into all of our open parties."

The "Walking Escort Service" has been established to enhance the security escort service already in place.

"Often, a student who may have had too much to drink is unwilling to walk for a fraternity escort," said Woodlock. "Waiting for security could be too tedious and, instead, the student walks home on his or her own. It is this student that is at greatest risk of injuring himself. By offering an immediate escort to walk the student home, we are sure that he or she will get home safely."

Faculty Promoted

The board of trustees recently announced the following promotions for faculty:

- Trinity College professor of psychology Karl Haberlandt has been appointed the Dana Research Professor for 1989-90 and 1990-91 at Trinity.

- The appointment will allow Haberlandt to devote more time to his research on reading. During his two years as Dana Professor, he will present at least one public lecture on his work.

- Haberlandt has been a member of the Trinity College faculty since 1968. He specializes in cognitive psychology, cognitive science and theories of reading comprehension.

- During his career, Haberlandt has been endorsed completely by Biagio Rucci, director of Campus Security.

- This program is a responsible move on the part of the brothers," said Rucci. "By taking the school policy one step further, Pike is not only demonstrating some responsibility, but they are definitely decreasing their liabilities and the potential for a serious problem. I hope the trend catches on."

"HOW I MADE $18,000 FOR COLLEGE BY WORKING WEEKENDS."

When my friends and I graduated from high school, we all took part-time jobs to pay for college.

They ended up in car washes and hamburger joints, putting in long hours for little pay.

Not me. My job takes just one weekend a month and two weeks a year. Yet, I'm earning $18,000 for college. Because I joined my local Army National Guard.

They're the people who help our state during emergencies like hurricanes and floods. They're also an important part of our country's military defense.

So, since I'm helping them do such an important job, they're helping me make it through school.

As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,000. I'm also getting another $5,000 for tuition and books, thanks to the New GI Bill.

Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paychecks. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard.

And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back — up to $1,500 a year, plus interest.

It all adds up to $18,000 — or more — for college for just a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

THE GUARD CAN HELP PUT YOU THROUGH COLLEGE, TOO.

Men's Crew Splits With Coast Guard and UMass

By Eric Hammerstrom

Sports Editor

In the past two weeks Trinity's varsity crews have faced tough opponents with mixed results. On Saturday April 8th in New London, the Bantam lightweight coxswained Coast Guard by a boat length, while the heavyweight entries lost to the powerhouse by a ten-second margin. The Tables turned on April 15th at the Rainbow Reservoir, when the heavyweight defeated UMass by half a length and the lightweights lost to the Minutemen by 7.5 seconds.

Trinity's lightweight crew (row 1-2) jumped to a lead at the start of their race with Coast Guard. With a half-length lead following the starting sequence, the crew of cox Susan Sieranski '91, Mike Irwin '91, Brian Schutz '91, Capt. Mark Ellor '90, Ginger Fagnan '90, Scott Matton '91, Jeff Bivins '90, and Eric Ferris '91 opened the lead up to a full length 500 meters into the race. Trinity increased that lead, but Coast Guard was able to pull within a length at the finish line.

The heavyweight race found Trinity behind by two seats with 500 meters down. Heavyweights coxswain Rita Nagle '89 said, "We competed with them until 800 or 900 meters into the race, but at that point they opened it up." Coast Guard steered a course that kept that lead, but Coast Guard was able to pull within a length at the finish line.

The men's sprinters, sure to be one of the most talented groups in New England, turned in some very fast early season times. In the 400m, Isaac won by more than three seconds over his nearest competitor by clocking a 48.7. For the one-lapper, Senior Pat Ostredder '89 also had a fast time as he took a second in the 110m high hurdles and a first in the 400m intermediates, where he was followed by top hurdle specialist Rich Difrens '91 (third place).

In the middle and long distances, Trinity scored all over the place. It started in the 3000m steeplechase as senior Chris Dickerson '89 won with Mike Fagan '90 following in third. The men rounded out their victory with excellent efforts by the relays as the 4x400m relay won and the 4x400m relay took second.

On April 8th, the men's and women's teams were back in action at Westfield State in a meet that included Westfield, Coast Guard, Williams, Middleton, and RPI. The teams were also on in typically unpredictable New England weather, but despite the chilling temperatures put forth excellent results.
